TAFT CLAIMS THE NOMINATION WAS HONESTLY EARNED.

Washington, July 28.—A statement, approved by President Taft, defending his nomination by the Chicago convention, was made public at the White House today. It reviews every contest before the republican national committee and the credentials committee of the convention and asserts that each contest was settled logically, upon its merits. The statement was submitted to the cabinet at a recent meeting and received the approval of the president's official family.

The statement, which is lengthy document, of 144 printed pages, is a detailed denial of the charge that the renomination of President Taft was accomplished by the seating of fraudulently elected delegates to the convention. It takes up individually the 238 contests instituted by the Roosevelt forces against Taft delegates who were seated, and presents evidence in each of these cases to show that the Taft delegates were regularly elected.

A resume of the statement, prepared by Charles D. Hilles, formerly President's Taft's secretary and now chairman of the republican national committee, takes up each contest briefly.

This resume opens with the declaration that the Roosevelt contests, as originally filed before the national committee were not instituted in good faith.

"The total number of delegates summoned to the convention," says the resume, "was 1,078, with 540 necessary to a choice. Mr. Taft had 561 votes on the first and only ballot and was declared the nominee. There were instituted against 238 of the delegates regularly elected for Taft, contests on behalf of Roosevelt. These contests were avowedly instigated not for the purpose of really securing seats in the convention, not for the purpose of adducing evidence which would lead any respectable court to entertain the contests, but for the purpose of deceiving the public into the belief that Mr. Roosevelt had more votes than he really had, as the conventions and primaries were in progress for the selection of delegates. The 238 contests were reduced by abandonment, formal or insubstance, to seventy-four. The very fact of these 164 frivolous contests itself reflects upon the genuineness and validity of the remainder."

The resume then enumerates the contests, and reviews the arguments in each case. The review of the evidence in the contests embraced in the White House statement is certified to by Victor Rosewater, chairman of the national committee, and Thomas H. Devine, chairman of the credentials committee. As an appendix, the statement carries in detail the vote in the national committee on each of the contests, and a statement of the dates of the Taft and Roosevelt conventions in contested states. The object of the latter is to show that the Roosevelt delegates were chosen after the regular conventions had named Taft representatives.

Another appendix is the report of the credentials committee to the convention, in which the statement issued by the Roosevelt committee on attacking the majority of the committee was answered. In discussing the charge, the report said:

"The statement as a whole in its insinuations of combination of unworthy motive, in its recital of alleged facts, is grossly and maliciously untrue. It was intended to convey the impression that the time for hearing cases was so limited as to prevent their being properly presented to the committee. The untruthfulness of this statement is clearly shown by the records of the committee and the newspaper reports of its deliberations. Not only did the rules make liberal provision for time in presenting the cases, but in every instance where the parties presenting the cases, or any member of the committee, asked for an extension of time, it was granted."

The statement of the Roosevelt members of the committee asserted that the speed which the credentials committee brought in reports "made it evident that the reports had been prepared beforehand." In reply to this statement the appendix to the White House statement said:

"In regard to the assertion that reports were prepared in advance of the action of the committee on credentials, no one of the gentlemen who makes this statement will state of his own personal knowlege the any reports were thus made."

In concluding, the majority of the credentials committee, defending its decisions, said:

"As to the merits of these contested cases, upon which the committee passed, it should be remembered that the national committee sat for fifteen days hearing evidence and argument upon them. Out of a total membership of forty-three, only thirteen members of that committee objected to the findings and decisions, and they only with regard to a part of the cases, the action of the committee having been unanimous with regard to a majority of them. The convention declined, by a substantial majority, to reverse the action of the national committee, and it referred the contested cases to the committee on credentials. When our committee met, rules were adopted by unanimous vote. No one desiring to make complaint as to the seating of any delegate was prevented from presenting his case. The committee even considered cases which had been decided by a unanimous vote of the national committee, notably the Indiana case.

"The committee on credentials of the republican national convention consists of fifty-three members. The committee in every case sustained the decision of the national committee, and in no case by majorities of less than two-shirds. This statement of facts, indorsed by forty members of the committee, who listened patiently through all-day and all-night sessions to evidence and argument in order to be able to judge cases intelligently and pass upon them honestly, should be a sufficient answer to the reckless, unwarranted and untruthful assertions contained in the statement signed by eleven members of the committee, two of whom did not attend sessions of the committee, did not hear any of the evidence presented, and nearly all of whom indicated their bias by voting in every case for the delegates known to be favorable to Mr. Roosevelt, including numerous cases in which the action of the national committee had been unanimous for the Taft delegates.

As appendices, the statement carries the majority and minority reports of the credentials committee on each of the contests.

In conclusion, the state reads: "The purpose of this resume of the contests in which there was any shadow of substance has been to inform those who have not time or inclination to read the longer and more detailed account of them contained in the larger pamphlet. It is not essential to make Mr. Taft's title indisputable that all men agree on every one of the issues raised. They were decided by the tribunals, which uniform party usage had made the proper tribunals to decide such contests. If those tribunals acted in good faith, a mistaken judgment would not invalidate their decisions. As a matter of fact, an examination of the facts show that the tribunals were right in every instance. They is not the slightest evidence that they were moved by other than a mere desire to reach a right conclusion.

Rebels Disarm Americans---Knox Threatens Orosco.

Pearson, Chihuahua, July 29.—Appealing to all the prejudices of race and station, Inez Salazar, rebel general, made anti-American speeches here Sunday afternoon more incendiary than anything heard from a rebel leader since the Mexican trouble broke out. He declared he would welcome intervention if it came and that he did not care how soon it came or what the United States had to say; he would take all arms from all Americans.

Gen. Salazar had heard of the opposition at Pearson to giving up arms and horses and, with Col. Alatorre and Col. Ponce, came over from his headquarters at Casas Grandes Sunday afternoon. He made two speeches while in Pearson, one immediately upon his arrival, upon the station platform, and another just before his departure, from a widow of the parlor car on the refugee train. Both speeches were remarkable for the boldness of their utterances with regard to the attitude of the speaker toward foreigners in Mexico and toward foreign governments, the United States in particular.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Secretary of state Knox today officially informed Gen. Pascual Orozco, leader of the Mexican rebels, that raids and attacks on Americans and American property in northern Mexico must be stopped immediately or the United States would take preventive measures.

President Madero has been requested to send troops to northern Mexico. He has answered that troops are on the way and has expressed the belief that the trouble will soon be quieted.

Secretary Knox today merely renewed his notice of two months ago that the United States would hold Mexico to strict account for all damages to Americans or their property.

There still is no thought of armed intervention by the United States in Mexico; on that point officials are positive.

What has been done is to repeat in more emphatic terms the injunction served on the Mexican government and upon Orozco himself on April 14 against mistreatment of American citizens and interference with American property in Mexico.

As in the first instance, the state department is silent as to what will be done by the United States government if the warning is disregarded.

Governor Stops Prize Fight.

Some, more or less, enterprising citizens of El Paso had acquired, by lease, it seems, some land in New Mexico, some miles out of El Paso, Texas. The purpose was to pull off regular prize fights at that location. El Pasoans communicated with Governor McDonald, of this state, informing him of the proposed scheme, and asking him what he intended to do about it. The governor replied:

"I certainly will not permit any such thing. I understand that the promoters have taken a lease on some land near El Paso, in New Mexico, and expect to make a regular thing of pulling off prize fights there. It would take the whole mounted police force of New Mexico to preserve order. I can't stand for it. I believe that I am aiding El Paso when I order this thing stopped, for such undertakings as this cannot do anything but harm to a city."

The governor was assured that a great majority of the citizens of El Paso was with him and appreciated his action, to which he replied: "I am glad." The promoters are seeking a location elsewhere.

Japan's Emperor Dead.

Tokio, Japan, July 29.—Mutsuhito, emperor of Japan, died today at 12:43 a. m. Acute nephritis was given as the cause of death. He has been succeeded on the throne by the crown prince Yo Shuhito.

The crown prince and the princesses of the imperial family, members of the cabinet, and councillors remained at the palace throughout last night. The ministers gathered in a room adjoining the sick chamber. A bulletin issued at 3 o'clock in the morning noted no change in the emperor's condition, except that the temperature had fallen one degree. Prior bulletins indicated a fatal termination.

The empress retained her post at the beside. Her unremitting vigil commands admiration everywhere. Throughout the night diplomats and officials visited the palace. The American ambassador, Charles Page Bryan, called at midnight. A great multitude of people gathered in the outside park praying and crying. One of the most prominent writers, and a high authority on the history of Japan, says that in 2500 years the nation was never so close to the emperor.

Metal Production in New Mexico.

The gold and silver production in New Mexico showed an increase in 1911, that of gold $280,384, and silver $272,153. Copper decreased, as compared with 1910, to the value of $78,897; lead $56,637; and zinc $393,240. The total value of the metal production of New Mexico increased, as comoared with the 1910 figures, by $13,763.

Sidney M. Parker Dies.

Sidney M. Parker, a pioneer of White Oaks, but a resident of Alamogordo the past seven years, died at Alamogordo last Sunday. Mr. Parker's health had not been good for some time. He leave a wife and two children.

The Parkers came to White Oaks in 1880 from Boston, Massachusetts, and for years were prominent in the social and business life of that pleasant little town. Other relatives in this country are Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Parker and children, who formerly lived at White Oaks, but are now in El Paso.

Jicarilla.

Heavy rains several times the past week. Vegetation luxuriant and stock fat.

The Misses Reasoner visited in Ancho one day last week.

There was a dance in Ancho Saturday evening, at which Jicarilla was well represented.

Misses May and Effie McBrayer visited friends in Ancho for a day or two last week.

John Dale came near being the victim of a flash of lightning during a storm last week. He was badly "shot" up and rendered quite sick for a little while.

Mr. Park, a prominent stock man of Tarrant county Texas, and a relative of Sam Fambrugh, left for his home after looking over New Mexico and a part of Arizona. He may return and locate here after a while.

A load of fruit from the Coe orchard was in camp one day last week, and a wagon or two with fruit went through to Tecolote.

Lighting struck and destroyed the last one of the three pines on Tip-top peak. For years the three old sentinels have stood as guides to travelers for miles, and were all old land mark for years, but the last few years have witnessed the fall of all three.

Glencoe.

Will Coe has returned from Roswell where he purchased a load of furniture. He is going to move to his new dwelling on Eagle creek. Mr. Coe reports a terrible drouth from Picacho to Roswell. Grass drying up and cattle dying. We think the rain should be divided as the Ruidoso has had its share of rain the last month.

The races at Capitan were well attended by the Ruidoso people Saturday.

Mr. Perry and family and Mr. Poole and wife have returned from the hot springs. They report dry weather and plenty of mosquitoes.

Elza Perry has returned from his work at Corona. Things look a little suspicious on Mr. Perry as he purchased a load of household goods in Capitan.

Mr. Snyder, of Tularosa, is on the Ruidoso this week buying cattle for market.

Misses Minnie and Madge Bourne are going to the Mogollon mountains where their parents reside at present.

Mrs. R. Bracken's sister and family are visiting with her this month.

Mrs. R. Bracken's daughters of Santa Fe, Texas, are visiting their mother and Mrs. Emma Howard.

Mrs. C. B. Lane was down from Alto last week visiting G. W. Hall's family.

Stanley Peppers was a Ruidoso visitor Sunday.

The farmers are feeling fine since the 4th of July celebration and over the fine rains they have been having since that time.

Pierce Perry has returned to his home south of the Ruidoso.

Ice Cream Social.

The Home Mission Society will give an ice cream social at the Peoples building next Tuesday, from 3 to 6 o'clock p. m. The social will be in charge of the young ladies. The Women's Civic League will have a meeting in the same building at 4 o'clock. All members are urged to be present, as some very important business is to be transacted.

Nogal.

We are sorry to say an order has been received by the post master at Nogal discontinuing the office on the 15th of August, which works a great hardship on about one hundred people who get their mail at Nogal.

The reckless manner in which automobiles are run in Carrizozo is prohibiting lots of people from going there to trade. It is not pleasant to have our teams scared until they run away. The law should be enforced.

Miss Mildred Peters was a visitor at uncle Tom's Saturday.

Jack Greer has been visiting on the Bonito for several days.

We were blessed with a nice rain Sunday, which was very refreshing.

Early peaches are getting ripe in Nogal and they are of a very fine quality.

The singing Sunday was well attended notwithstanding the rain, and our new books were quite a treat to all.

Old Lincoln County Man Dies.

Charles Bell, who has made Corona his home the past four years, died there Sunday morning, July 28th. The deceased was a native of Germany, but came to the United States more than fifty years ago. He served as a soldier in the union army. Mr. Bell was about 75 years old.

The subject of this sketch lived in the town of Lincoln for many years, having settled there in the early eighties. He was a familiar figure to all old settlers of Lincoln county, and possessed a fund of information concerning the early history of the county, having had a personal acquaintance with men and events of those stirring times.

Baptist Revival.

The special services at the Baptist Church continue, with much interest and growth in power. Special singing is enjoyed at the night services. We are trying to get the word of God before the people of Carrizozo. We want to be faithful to God and to human souls in singing and preaching the glad news of God's love. Come and bring others with you to hear these subjects: "From the Cradle to the Cross." "Jesus the Sinner's Friend." "The Door of Hope." "Jesus the Qualified Savior."

It may be that either on Sunday morning or at the night service ordination of deacons will take place. We cannot tell exactly when the meeting will close. Thus far two have been converted to Christ and are happy in Him, while others are seeking the Savior.

Remember the hours: 3 o'clock in the afternoon and at 7:45 in the evening. "Come with us and we will do thee good."

The good book says that a man who does not care for or look after the welfare of his family "is worse than an infidel." This may be applied with equal force to the man who takes no interest in the town in which he lives, for in a very real sense the town is his home which he shares with the other people living in it. Therefore to speak adversely of one's town, to say no word in it's favor, to habitually go elsewhere to trade and be indifferent to home business—all this is not only unpatriotic, but it is very much the same as if a man should go around to his neighbors and find fault with his domestic home and every member in it.

IOWA WOMAN WELL AGAIN

Freed From Shooting Pains, Spinal Weakness, Dizziness, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ottumwa, Iowa.—"For years I was almost a constant sufferer from female trouble in all its dreadful forms; shooting pains all over my body, sick headache, spinal weakness, dizziness, depression, and everything that was horrid. I tried many doctors in different parts of the United States, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors. I feel it my duty to tell you these facts. My heart is full of gratitude to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my health."—Mrs. HARRIET E. WAMPLER, 624 S. Ransom Street, Ottumwa, Iowa.

Consider Well This Advice.

No woman suffering from any form of female trouble should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for nearly forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

DOCTOR'S SHIFT.

Now Gets Along Without It.

A physician says: "Until last fall I used to eat meat for my breakfast and suffered with indigestion until the meat had passed from the stomach.

"Last fall I began the use of Grape-Nuts for breakfast and very soon found I could do without meat, for my body got all the nourishment necessary from the Grape-Nuts and since then I have not had any indigestion and am feeling better and have increased in weight.

"Since finding the benefit I derived from Grape-Nuts I have prescribed the food for all my patients suffering from indigestion or over-feeding—and also for those recovering from disease where I want a food easy to take and certain to digest and which will not overtax the stomach.

"I always find the results I look for when I prescribe Grape-Nuts. For ethical reasons please omit my name." Name given by mail by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The reason for the wonderful amount of nutriment, and the easy digestion of Grape-Nuts is not hard to find.

In the first place, the starchy part of the wheat and barley goes through various processes of cooking, to perfectly change the starch into dextrose or grape-sugar, in which state it is ready to be easily absorbed by the blood.

The parts in the wheat and barley which Nature can make use of for rebuilding brain and nerve centers are retained in this remarkable food, and thus the human body is supplied with the powerful strength producers, as easily noticed after one has eaten Grape-Nuts each day for a week or ten days.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Capitol Trees Planted By Statesmen

WASHINGTON.—"Give me a real shovel," exclaimed Sunny Jim Sherman, vice-president of the United States, the other day as he stood on the lawn of the capitol and cast a critical and experienced eye at a hole in the ground six feet in diameter and three feet deep. In the hole stood a small tree, destined to be known as the "Sherman tree," and Sunny Jim was there for the purpose of performing the historical business of planting it. An attendant had just handed the vice-president a small spade, child size. Upon his indignant refusal of this implement a man-size shovel with a rounded bit and a long handle was placed in his hands, and if they had not stopped him he would have filled in the hole in a few minutes.

"I supposed I was to plant this tree," said the vice-president as they asked him to desist after he had thrown a few shovelfuls into the aperture. Until this spring only two trees on the grounds of the United States capitol bore the name of any human being. One is known as the Washington elm because when the father of his country used to do some surveying in the vicinity he ate his lunch beneath it. The other was the Cameron tree, so called because Simon Cameron of Pennsylvania paid for having it saved and moved when it was found necessary to use the spot on which it had stood for some other purpose. This spring Elliott Woods, superintendent of the capitol, noting that some of the trees on the grounds were showing age, devised the idea of planting new ones to preserve the appearance of the grounds when the old ones finally gave way. With this came the idea of having some statesman hold the shovel a moment in order to give the new trees each a name.

Nine trees have now been planted and when former Speaker Cannon finishes his, making the count ten, the work for this year will be done. The vice-president planted a purple beech. Senator Wetmore of Rhode Island, who is very rich, sent home for an English beech. Senator Cullom planted an American elm and said he hoped to live until it should attain its growth. Senator Lodge and Congressman James R. Mann of Illinois and William J. Browning of New Jersey planted red oaks, while Senator Bacon of Georgia inserted a pin oak into the ground and Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire a willow oak. Speaker Clark planted a sugar maple and his predecessor will plant a red oak.

Lost Hats at the Executive Office

NOW we intend to make it an issue. For some years we have openly lamented that at the executive office of the president of the United States there are no hat racks. The time is at hand when the great issue must be met. Congressman C. B. Slemp of Virginia, who is generally as punctilious as an ordinary mortal can be, finished a rapid-fire conference with the president and came out to find his hat, which he had left upon one of the seats in the outer room. Hastily and then carefully he looked, but his hat was not there. Someone had changed hats. Now Congressman Slemp's hat was of fairly normal size, and all he could find was a little hat that would cover only the rear end of his head. And that was discovered only after the process of elimination had been applied and the little hat was the only one left.

It is humiliating to think that the statesmen of the country should have to roam about the executive office hunting for stray hats. Of course everybody joked Congressman Slemp, but it was far from a joking matter to walk down Executive and Pennsylvania avenues to a distant hat store. It did not comport with statesmanlike dignity; to say nothing of the embarrassment of meeting on the way his colleagues and other friends who wondered what could be wrong with the intrepid congressman from Virginia. Furthermore it was at that season of the year when not only the feminine mind, but the masculine mind also, was focused on the subject of hats. Under these conditions was Mr. Slemp obliged to run the gauntlet amid the volley of none too sympathetic queries.

This may serve as notice to anyone who has by mistake walked away with a size seven and three-quarters "hard-boiled" hat, a derby of late design and good quality, that it should be returned at once to Congressman Slemp. Said hat has associated with it certain memories—besides costing five dollars.

Therefore are we justified in the suggestion that a hat-rack and cloakroom be established at the White House.—Chapple's News-Letter.

Bell "Peeved" Uncle Sam's Young Men

NO longer will the minds of the employes of the patent office be distracted by the jangling of the auctioneer's bell.

For some time past numerous complaints have been made to Clement S. Ucker, chief clerk of the department of the interior, by employes of the patent office, to the effect that their work was interfered with by the incessant ringing of a bell at an auctioneer's establishment, in Seventh street Northwest, betwen E and F streets, opposite the patent office.

They complained that the bell commenced ringing promptly at 9 o'clock in the morning and that it continued until 4:30 o'clock.

Chief Clerk Ucker finally reported the matter to the police and an attempt was made to arrest the auctioneer on a charge of disorderly conduct. While the warrant was being sworn out in police court, however, Assistant Corporation Counsel Gus A. Schuldt considered the case and rendered a decision to the effect that the auctioneer was not liable to prosecution for the ringing of the bell.

The warrant was not sworn out, but Capt. Michael Byrnes, of the Sixth precinct, visited the auctioneer and explained to him how he was unconsciously interfering with the work of Uncle Sam and slowly demoralizing the patent office. Tears came to the eyes of the auctioneer at the thought of having caused Uncle Sam a moment's trouble, and in broken words notified the captain that it would be unnecessary to arrest him, for he would discontinue the ringing of the obnoxious bell at once.

So the bell will ring no more. That is, during patent office hours. But up to one minute of nine in the morning, and after 4:31 o'clock in the afternoon, the bow-legged wielder of the massive bell will jingle it in a manner never before heard of in order to make up for lost time.

Daylight Canned and Sold By Expert

"CANNED DAYLIGHT" is an illuminating invention of Prof. Walter G. Snelling of Pittsburgh, former expert of the department of agriculture. He is startling Washington scientists and gas manufacturing experts with demonstrations of his new "sunshine" maker, carried in small suitcase.

Liquid gas is Professor Snelling's invention. It is manufactured from waste gases and vapors of oil wells, cheaply produced, easily condensed and transported. That it will revolutionize farm illumination is predicted by its inventor. His suitcase "gas plant" carries enough material to light a room for two weeks, without replenishing, at a cost of about $1.

"Canned" gas, Professor Snelling says, can be supplied farmers at a cost as low per 1,000 feet as city folk now pay. In a single container, 8,000 feet, nearly a month's supply, is held in liquid form, to be liberated when burned as needed. The liquid gas develops a heating and lighting power of 2,400 British thermal units, as against 1,000 units of ordinary illuminating gas.

Republican money and railway sleeping cars are two innovations in old-fashioned China. The new Chinese republic dollars, the minting of which has just begun, bear two flags and the Chinese character for "one dollar" on one side, and on the reverse the characters "Current Money" and "Chinese Republic," with a wreath of flowers appear. Yuan Shihkai has inspected the new coins and has given his approval of them.

The first of two sleeping cars available for service between Shanghai and Nanking was put into use on April 11. It is 63 feet long and the berths are each 7 feet long.

FREE TRADE AND PROTECTION.

Free trade has been a bug-a-boo with which republicans have scared people of the United States year after year. The democratic party does not advocate free trade. All democrats believe in and advocate free-er trade and some few, theoretically, are free-traders. But no democratic platform, no democratic candidate and no political economist of the democratic faith desires to abolish impost duties and substitute some other method of raising revenue.

What democrats do advocate is a tariff for revenue and not a tariff for protection. They want to raise sufficient revenue from impost duties, combined with an excise tax and an income tax, to meet the expenses of government economically administered. They do not believe in the protective theory, as applied by stand-pat republicans, but do believe in protection to the consumers who constitute 90 per cent of our population. They do not believe in the protection of the few at the expense of the many. Democrats do not desire to disturb business, nor do they intend to deprive capital of a just share of profit, but they do intend to see that capital, in the guise of protection to American labor—a much-abused slogan—shall no longer have the privilege to plunder the American consumer.

We are told that the republican theory of protection has made our country great; that we are the wealthiest nation on the globe. That is probably true as to our wealth, but the wealth of the nation is in the hands of a few. It is not well enough diffused throughout the country. We have more multi-millionaires than any nation on earth, notwithstanding the fact that our government has seen but little over a century of existence.

We are told, also, that a protective tariff is necessary in order that our products may not come into competition with pauper-made goods of Europe. That sounds good; but when it is remembered that we are manufacturing goods and shipping them to all parts of the world competing in the homes of pauper labor we should, it seems, have little to fear from the importation of pauper-made goods into this country. Our workmen, while the best paid in any country, also produce goods cheaper than is done by pauper abor. Our manufacturers are shipping goods to foreign countries and selling them from 15 to 45 per cent cheaper than they are sold to the consumer at home. Is that a square deal for an American who has to pay more for an article of American make than does the Australian 7,000 miles away.

However, there has been a great change in the republican party. The progressive republican today—and he constitutes a majority of the rank and file of the party—is so nearly like a democrat on the tariff question that about the only difference is in the name. Watch the progressive congressmen and senators and you will see them voting with the democrats to lower tariff duties. The old style republican who worships at the shrine of protection and who believes that to touch the tariff—except to raise it—is a profanation, made his last stand at Chicago. The so-called victory of the stand-pat forces at Chicago was really a rout; the once-proud legions of the old guard are disorganized, overwhelmed and a better day is dawning for the people. This has been made possible by the tenacity with which democrats have clung to tariff reform, and the revolt of the mass of republicans, who now realize the injustice and inequalities of the tariff, which has resulted in the spoilation of the American people to the enrichment of the special interests. To the progressive who has entered this successful fight against the tariff barons we concede as much honor as to the democrat who has never faltered in his opposition.

Injunction Bond Disapproved.

Judge E. C. Abbott, at the hearing on the 27th of July at Santa Fe, in the county seat injunction case, extended the time until September 5th in which the plaintiff, J. J. Aragon, of Lincoln, may file the additional $10,000 bond required by Judge Abbott at a former hearing.

In case a satisfactory bond is not filed by that date the injunction, which restrains the commissioners from paying out any money for the building of the court house and jail at Carrizozo, will be dissolved.

The first bond filed by the plaintiff, Aragon, after Judge Abbott made the order referred to above, was found to be defective in form, and at the last hearing the objection to the bond recently filed was the insufficiency of the sureties, several of the persons being on all the bonds filed in the case. The sureties on the other bonds have not been discharged, and if the decisions of the supreme court of New Mexico are not reversed by the supreme court of the United States the plaintiff and his bondsmen will be liable for the damages assessed against them.

Some lawyers hold that courts may assess the damages in cases of this character, without submitting the matter to a jury, and if the court should follow this practice, after the affirmance of the New Mexico supreme court decisions, it will expedite the final settlement of this vexatious county seat litigation.

Judge Abbott's suggestion that the plaintiff give a surety company bond, if followed, will be a happy solution of the difficulty—the taxpayers will be protected without jeopardizing the property of the ranchmen of the east side of the county, who, it is quite possible, do not fully realize the risk they are taking in signing a bond of this character.

The Wise Lion.

Paul Rainey, while showing privately in New York the wonderful cinematograph pictures of the African lion hunt, told an amusing lion story.

"A man," he said, "sat before his tent, when a magnificent lion stiffened for the spring, leaped and—missed the man, missed him by jumping three feet too high. It then slunk back in the forest, thoroughly ashamed.

"The next day the man came unexpectedly on the lion by a stream. It had up-ended a log of wood and was practicing low jumps."

Heirlooms.

"And is this an heirloom, too?" asked the visitor, picking up a brick that lay on the centertable.

"Yes," said the lady of the house. "That is the brick my mother threw at the prime minister."

"Ah, indeed, how very interesting," said the visitor. "And whose portrait is that on the wall?"

"That is my mother herself," said the lady.

"I see," said the visitor. "The power behind the throne, as it were."

Bathetic.

General Marion Maus has a keen and delicate taste in literature, and at a recent dinner at Vancouver Barracks, discussing a popular novel of little worth, General Maus said:

"The pathos of the book is really bathos. It reminds me of a private's widow. The good woman was about to sell her household furniture, her rugs, plate ware and what not. As she was going over these articles her eyes filled with tears, a host of memories rose to her mind, and laying aside a half dozen knives, she said:

"'Oh, dear. I can't let these go. They've been in poor George's mouth too often.'"

The Censor.

"Eugene Walker is making a great hit in London with his strong drama, 'The Easiest Way,'" said a manager "I dined with Walter at the Cafe Royal last month. He talked a lot about the English censor.

"He gave me a good illustration of the grandmotherly way the censor treats a play. He said a playwright had this passage in a love scene:

"'Then, dearest Mabel, we will meet tonight, at 10 in the old lane by the ruined mill. There should be lovely moonlight.'

"The censor ran his blue pencil through this paragraph, and requested in the margin that it be changed to:

"'Then, Miss Mabel, we will meet in the garden this afternoon at 4—provided, of course, your mother can be present. The weather promises to to be cloudless.'"

Thoughtless Man.

The servants were abed and the doctor answered the bell himself A colored man stood on the steps holding a large package.

"Is Miss Matilda, the cook, at home, sah?" asked the man.

"Yes, but she has retired," returned the doctor.

"Can I leab dis fo' her, sah?"

"Certainly," said the doctor.

He took the bundle from which flowers and buds were protruding, and after bidding the man good night carefully carried it to the kitchen, where he deposited it, paper and all, in a pan of water.

The doctor thought nothing more of the affair until he heard Matilda's angry voice raised in conversation with the maid.

"Ef I had de pusson heah," cried the cook, dat put my new spring hat in dis heah dishpan I'd scald 'em fo' sho'."

Just a Monologue.

Scene—A cozy room. Mrs. Pansypink sits engrossed in a novel. Time, 2 p. m.

The telephone rings furiously.

Mrs. Pansypink starts, tosses he novel aside and argues with herself:

"I wonder who on earth that can be My, suppose some accident has happened to Edward! Oh, I wonder if he is sick! Maybe momma has had another spell. I hope nothing has happened to poppa. I wonder if it is that Mrs. Skraggs. She was to get a new gown and I suppose she wants to make my envious. Or maybe Ella is calling me up to make arrangements for the matinee tomorrow. Perhaps Bob has proposed to Zadie and she wants to tell me the good news. I hope it isn't that gabby old Mrs. Johnson."

She rises and takes the receiver off the phone.

"Hello, this is Mrs. Pansypink."

Central—Party got tired and rung off

An Exaggeration.

Senator Gardener, discussing in Washington his bill for taking over the express companies and establishing a parcels post, said, with a smile:

"Our opponents exaggerate the difficulties. They are like the man from Canada.

"A man from Canada sat in the lobby of a New York hotel listening to cold weather yarns. These yarns gave very convincing examples of the suffering and hardship occasioned by last winter's excessive cold. Finally, the Canadian coughed and said:

"'Your cold weather yarns, gentlemen, make a Canadian smile. You think you've had a cold winter down east here, but up my way, from last November clear through to March—'

"He paused, struck his arm with his fist and said:

"'From last November clean through to March our hot-water bottles froze in our beds every blessed night.'"

"I was pardoned by the gov'nor, mum."—Judge.

Didn't Know What It Was.

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher was condemning at a dinner in Jacksonville an orange grower who had failed.

"The man failed," he said, "through ignorance. He lays the blame on other things, but his ignorance alone is at fault. He is as ignorant of orange farming as the tramp was of industry.

"You've heard of that tramp, perhaps? He wore on his face a sneer of derision and scorn.

"'Work?' he said. 'Work? What is it—an herb?'"

Easy to Cut the Price.

A man went into a butcher's shop and asked how much sausages were a pound.

"Ah," said the butcher, "der price vas gone up. I shall haf to charge you twenty-five cents."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed the customer, "that is outrageous. I can get them at Schmidt's for twenty cents."

"Vell vy didn't you?"

"Because he was out of them."

"Oh, vell," replied the butcher, "if I vas oudt of 'em, I'd sell 'em for twenty cents, too."

The First Consideration.

At St. Andrews some years ago an old farmer and his plowman were carting sand from the seashore. They were behind the target on the rifle range, but hidden by a bank of sand from a party of volunteers, who were then on foot, at practice. A stray bullet struck the plowman on the leg, and he immediately dropped, exclaiming: "I'm shot!"

Without more ado the farmer scrambled up the bank and, waving his hand to the volunteers, shouted:

"Hey, lads, stop that, will ye? You've shot a man, and it micht hae been the horse!"—London Tit-Bits.

ICES FOR THE SUMMER DAYS

Refreshing and Cooling Dishes That Can Be Made Without Much Trouble.

Five Threes.—Three oranges, three bananas, three cups granulated sugar, three pints of water, whites of three eggs. Dissolve sugar in water, then boil about three minutes. Set aside to cool. Peel and mash bananas, squeeze juice from oranges. Mix with the cooled syrup, put in freezer; when about two-thirds frozen add the beaten whites of eggs and finish freezing.

Orange Ice.—Six large oranges, one lemon, two pints of water, two cups of granulated sugar, whites of two eggs. Squeeze juice from oranges and lemon, dissolve sugar in water, then mix all together; put in mold and freeze; when nearly frozen stir in the well-beaten whites of eggs and give a few more turns to freezer in order to make it smooth and creamy.

Lemon Ice.—Juice of six lemons, one orange, one-half pound sweet almonds, three cups granulated sugar, two pints of water. Dissolve sugar in water, add lemon and orange juices, blanch and pound to a paste the almonds, stir into other ingredients and freeze.

Pineapple Ice.—One can shredded pineapple (or enough fresh pineapple to make as much as a can contains), three cups granulated sugar, two pints of water. Dissolve sugar in water, mix with pineapple and freeze.

Strawberry Ice.—One pound fresh strawberries, three cups of powdered sugar, two pints of water, one lemon. Stalk strawberries, put in colander and let water run over them to remove any sand; if perfectly clean omit washing. Sprinkle lemon juice over berries and let stand five minutes, then mash them with wire potato masher, dissolve sugar in water, mix all together and freeze.

SIMPLE NUT CANDY RECIPE

Wholesome Home Made Confection Can Easily Be Made by Following These Directions.

One and one-half cupfuls of New Orleans molasses, three-fourths cupful of granulated sugar, three-fourths cupful of butter, one-half pound of figs, one cupful of pecan nut meats, one cupful of shell-bark nut meats, one and three-fourths cupfuls of Brazil nut meats, one and one-fourth cupfuls of English walnut meats, a pinch of baking soda.

Boil the sugar and molasses as for molasses candy until nearly done, then add the butter and continue boiling until it becomes brittle when a little of it is tried in cold water. Add the—figs, which have been scraped and chopped fine, and the soda; also add the nuts, which should be carefully selected. When well mixed pour into a buttered breadpan of medium size. When cool cut around the edge and turn out. Divide into slices.

THESE WILL TICKLE PALATE

Home Made Bonbon for a Luncheon—New Way to Serve Apple Salad.

A home-made bonbon of a spring luncheon is achieved by dipping big strawberries with the hulls on them in a fondu such as is used for cream candies. This may be the boiled or unboiled variety made from confectioners' sugar and white of eggs. Let the cream harden, but do not keep too long, as the strawberry soon spoils. Keep in a cold place.

Apple salad seems a rather poor excuse to most persons, but is at least artistic if served in the highly polished apple shells. Scoop out the contents, cut into small pieces and mix with equal parts of finely shredded celery and a well seasoned mayonnaise. Fill the hollow apples and garnish the tops with shredded red and green peppers.

To Prevent Fading.

The fading of colored articles is due often, not to the washing, but to the ironing. Irons that are too hot are used directly on the material, and this will more quickly fade delicate colors than any amount of washing. Be sure that the article is evenly dampened and that the iron is only hot enough to smooth the wrinkles properly by firm, even pressure, and you will have no more trouble from fading. Skirts should never be ironed across the gores, but up and down, otherwise the fit of the garment will be ruined.

Towels.

Shake towels out well and hang them on the line, with their upper edges parallel with it. When they are taken down fold, immediately, and put away. No ironing will be necessary which saves quite a little time and energy. This same thing applies to cloths and wash cloths.

Use for Stale Bread.

Take stale, light bread and cut in one-half inch squares, then toast to a nice brown; put in a glass jar to use in any kind of soup. It is a nice substitute for crackers.

Try Paper Bags.

Use paper bags for cooking. This saves pot washing, is most clean and sanitary and not expensive. When over pots and pans are used wash them at once.

Baking Hint.

Grease your cake pans real good and then flour them. This will prevent cake from sticking. Try it.

BURNING ITCH WAS CURED

"I deem it my duty to tell about a cure that the Cuticura Soap and Ointment have made on myself. My trouble began in splotches breaking out right in the edge of my hair on the forehead, and spread over the front part of the top of my head from ear to ear, and over my ears which caused a most fearful burning itch, or eczema.

"For three years I had this terrible breaking out on my forehead and scalp. I tried our family doctor and he failed to cure it. Then I tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and used them for two months with the result of a complete cure. Cuticura Soap and Ointment should have the credit due, and I have advised a lot of people to use them." (Signed) C. D. Tharrington, Creek, N. C., Jan. 26, 1911.

Itching Scalp—Hair Fell Out.

"I will say that I have been suffering with an itching on my scalp for the past few years. My hair fell out in spots all over my head. My scalp started to trouble me with sores, then the sores healed up, and crusts formed on the top. Then the hair fell out and left me three bald spots the shape of a half dollar. I went to more than one doctor, but could not get any relief, so I started to use the Cuticura Remedies. I tried one bar of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment, and felt relieved right away. Now the bald spots have disappeared, and my hair has grown, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to all that are suffering with scalp trouble." (Signed) Samuel Stern, 336 Floyd St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 7, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Cutting Repartee.

"How," said a lawyer to a witness, "how can you possibly bear such testimony against this man who you say is your friend?"

"Sir," said the man, "he is my friend, and I love him, but I love Truth more."

"You should be ashamed," replied the lawyer, "to turn your back on a friend for one who is a perfect stranger to you."

LANDLORD KNEW THE GAME

Spared His Tenant the Enumeration of the Time-Honored and Yearly "Bluff."

"I have called to collect the rent," said the landlord.

"Yes," replied the lady of the house, "come in. Now, before I give you the money this month, I—"

"Just a minute, madam," said the landlord. "I can save time for you I know the parlor isn't fit for a pig to live in, the dining room wall paper is a shock to people of refinement, the kitchen walls are a disgrace, and the back porch is a menace to life and limb. I'm also aware that you won't stay here another month unless the barber-shop wallpaper in the back bedroom is changed to something in a delicate pink, and I'm next to the fact that you're ashamed to have people look at such gas fixtures as I have provided. I'm going to paint the front and back porches and let it go at that."

"Thank you very much," said the lady meekly. "You have saved me a lot of trouble. That is all we really expected to have done, but I was afraid that I should have to make the same old bluff to get that much out of you."—Detroit Free Press.

Above the Laws.

Some men think money can do anything. A certain rich man sent for the doctor, who looked him over and then pronounced judgment.

"You have been living too high."

"Maybe I have. There are many good things in the markets."

"No levity. You have violated nature's laws."

"And you must pay the penalty."

"Pay the penalty? Oh, come now, Doc. Can't you get me off on a technicality or something?"

Clothes and the Man.

A colporteur in South Carolina, walking many miles through mud, accosted a passerby and suggested the purchase of the Bible. He was refused. The next day, says the Record of Christian Work, after a night's rest and cleanup, he set up his stand in town and had the pleasure of selling a Bible to the very man who had refused to purchase the day before. "I met a muddy man yesterday with Bibles," said he, "who looked like a Methodist tramp. When I buys a Bible I buys it from a Baptist gentleman."

The Shorter Route.

Lady Duff Gordon, at a luncheon at Sherry's in New York, told an anecdote apropos of the divorce evil.

"Two girls," she said, "were chatting over a cocktail and a cigarette.

"'Marriages are made in heaven,' said the first girl, and she blew a cloud of smoke into the air and regarded it with dreamy eyes.

"The second girl with a light laugh replied:

"'Yes that is true, but, thank goodness, to unmake them we have to go only as far as Reno.'"

Needed No More Help.

An American gentleman got acquainted with a Frenchman who was very anxious to acquire the English language. The American in order to help him said that if he would send his exercises to him he would willingly correct them.

Nothing was heard from the Frenchman for some time, but finally a letter came couched in the following choice English:

"In small time I can learn so many English from his text book and her dictionary as I think I will come to the America and to go on the scaffold to lecture."

A girl may laugh at love, but later she may realize that there is nothing better to cry on than a man's shoulder.

Arrangements were perfected Monday evening to have another racing meet and field day at Capitan on August 10th. Committees were appointed to take charge of the work and no effort will be spared to make the meeting a success, as well as to provide for the amusement and enjoyment of all who may attend. An effort will be made to have an excursion run from Carrizozo for the benefit of people living at that and other towns on the railroad, and a good roads meeting will also be held in the forenoon at the school house or some other suitable place and matters pertaining to the betterment of our country roads will be discussed and a thorough organization perfected. It is greatly desired that everyone interested in this great subject (and who is it that is not) should meet with us on the day appointed and aid in the good work. Don't forget the date and make your arrangements accordingly.

A number of cases of small pox are reported at Arabela and one at Richardson. The affected party at Richardson is under quarantine, but only after the patient's father had been put to sleep by a blow on the head with a gun in the hands of the precinct constable. The old gentleman refused to observe the quarantine regulations and resisted the officer who was obliged to resort to strenuous measures.

A. N. Zumwalt and family, for many years residents of this county, departed last Monday for the western part of Socorro county. They are trekking across the country by wagon and will go via Carthage and Magdalena.

The road supervisor has a crew of men working the roads in this precinct. The recent heavy rains did considerable damage to the roads and the work was needed very much.

Senator Catron has introduced a bill in the U. S. senate to grant a pension of $40 per month to James Bandy, of Richardson. Mr. Bandy served in the Indian wars of 1854 in Texas.

Al Smith, Carrizozo's crack chauffeur, spent several days in Capitan overhauling his auto at the Johnson Bros.' garage and repair shop.

C. D. Wilson left home Monday to cut alfalfa on the railroad company's farm above Lincoln.

Allan Johnson spent several days last week at Corona, repairing B. F. Adams' auto.

Judge Bellomy is spending the summer in Capitan.

Capitan will hold a county fair in September.
