New Mexico and Lincoln County

A STUDY of the census figures for New Mexico brings out some mighty interesting thoughts. As a rule census figures fail to enthuse, but to a New Mexico booster they furnish abundant food for congratulation and an evidence of advancement not dreamed of by many. Few commonwealths of our big nation made such a satisfactory showing during the decennial period.

During the ten-year period the number of our farms increased 189.8 per cent. The increased acreage of improved lands was still greater, 348.9 per cent No other state in the union can make this showing. And that is only a starter. Even now, with that wonderful increase, only 3.4 per cent of the land area of New Mexico is given to farming. Many of the counties have less than 5 per cent of land in farms, and less than one per cent of the total land area is under irrigation. What wonderful possibilities for the future! Hundreds of thousands of acres can be added to the productive farm area. Think of the opportunities offered! For the capitalist, for the homeseeker, for the manufacturer and for the miner the field is big, new, therefore undeveloped, and the returns most promising.

In all these possibilities old Lincoln county is without a peer. Within her confines nature has stored all the good things. A boundless area of fertile land—some irrigated from streams; much of it susceptible to irrigation from impounded waters; still a larger area favorably located by irrigation from wells; and much more by which the dry-farming process is applicable. And thousands of acres are still open for the settler who may with energy and slight capital establish a comfortable home here.

And that is not all. Lincoln county has hundreds of thousands of acres—mountain and plain—of the best grazing land on God's footstool. Our cattle and sheep interests are among the biggest interests of the county, and will continue to be; for Nature has ordained it and has prepared a place for their care that will never be interfered with by farming interests.

And still that is not all. Lincoln county has a vast range of mountains running through its center which contains untold wealth—only awaiting the proper application of capital and scientific development. Gold is found in many districts of this mountain section and, notwithstanding the indifferent methods, in many cases, adopted for its extraction, our mines have added materially to the circulating medium of the yellow metal. Our iron beds, all undeveloped, lie on every hand. Look where you will and your eyes will fall on a district that has large iron deposits and where, some day, teeming industries will be established, giving employment to thousands The coal area is equally large, and a number of fields have been proven at various points in the county.

What more promising future could we ask? What more desirable surroundings can be found? We have the soil, and a climate that is incomparable; we have the range for countless herds and flocks; we have the mountains filled with wealth-producing minerals—all at our door—and we invite the world to come and assist in its development.

Carroll Johnson Has Leg Broken

CARROLL, the 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Johnson, met with a serious accident Saturday morning last, in which he had a leg broken and one finger cut off. He, with a little boy by the name of Williams, left the Hightower ranch, old Manchester, in the morning for Carrizo mountain after a load of wood. Returning with the wood and while driving down the mountain side one wheel ran over a rock; a stick of wood hit Carroll and knocked him off the wagon. He fell under the wagon, a wheel running over his leg crushing it and cutting off one finger. The leg was broken between the knee and the ankle.

The injured boy was conveyed to the Hightower ranch house and, fortunately, Mr. Loveless, of Gallinas, was passing in his car and the boy was soon in Dr. Paden's hospital here. In a very short time the broken member was set, Dr. Walker assisting Dr. Paden in the operation. The injured finger which appeared a minor affair at the time, is giving about as much trouble as the broken leg.

To Box Ten Rounds

AN athletic exhibition is to be pulled off tomorrow night that promises a fund of entertainment for those who attend. Promoter "Shorty" Dawson has arranged for a ten-round bout between Kid Baxter, of Kansas, and Kid Weaver, of Oklahoma. The principals are to fight at catch weights, but neither will tip the scales at 135. Arrangements are also under way for some preliminary bouts to precede the main event. General admission $1.00; ringside $2.00.

Capitan Wins Ball Game

LITTLE has been said by our home team since their return from Capitan last Saturday, concerning the result of the game there that day. When it finally leaked out that they went down to defeat to the tune of 11 to 3 their reticence was easily understood. Whether they have any excuses to offer for the defeat we are unadvised, but we have noticed the individual members getting in a little practice the past week, which indicates they have not lost their nerve and are preparing for a different result at the next encounter.

News Notes from Outside Points

Corona

Dr. Stone visited Varney, Tucumcari and Carrizozo the past week as R. R. doctor.

The good people of Varney have announced dinner all day and preaching on the ground at the Varney school for next Sunday and we would like to attend such doings as that is enough to make a fellow homesick for those old days back home where such events came often.

We are getting more new telephones—18 new boxes in the past week; it won't be long until there will be no need to go visiting. Just stay at home and talk to any of your neighbors.

Prof. J. F. Davis of Duran made a business visit to Corona the past week. Ye scribe wishes him success.

Mrs. Sarah Bull has her sister-in-law, Mrs. Bull of Dalhart, and her niece, Mrs. Henry of El Paso visiting her at present.

Jicarilla

Andrew McBrayer came in from the Fambrough ranch Tuesday, to visit with home folks for awhile.

L. N. Stubbs went to White Oaks Saturday to lay in a supply for his ranch. Mr. Stubbs is breaking land preparatory to planting his first crop in this country.

Mr. Carabajal, on the East Side, had the misfortune to lose his wind mill by a miniature cyclone, which passed over a small area, leaving the well fixtures a total wreck.

W. W. Fitzpatrick is now settled to peace and quietude in a tent in the Tecolote hills, where he expects to enjoy life during the summer months

George Spence is having a large tank cemented to hold a reserve of water, as his new well affords a great flow of water, and is probably unsurpassed in this respect.

The family of Max Guebarra went to White Oaks to attend the burial of two members of his family, his step-mother and sister-in-law, who died of pneumonia almost simultaneously.

Señor Carabajal was in Jicarilla Tuesday on business.

E. E. Wilson took his children to White Oaks Friday to the doctor, as they are suffering from a long spell of grip which threatens to terminate in some serious form.

The frost of last week was very severe, yet did not result so seriously as was at first thought. The apricots were killed, probably some early pears. The other varieties were too backward to be caught. Peaches, plums and cherries are safe yet.

There is a rumor of a wedding soon; the lucky man being one of Ancho's favorite boys, the girl, one of Jicarilla's very best.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Norton visited on the East Side, a few days ago.

We took notice in passing, that Messrs. Dale and Haskins, each have their fields in fine shape for planting.

FORT STANTON

Dr. R. G. Pearce, dentist, returned Monday from a week's stay in El Paso.

Mr. Dunlap Mullins, of No. 4, is confined to his bed for a few days.

Dr. Laws, of Lincoln visited Dr. Marcoe, of No. 13, last Sunday evening.

Mrs. C. F. Smith, of No. 1, visited friends in Roswell a few days this week.

Dr. Smith and Dr. Laws made a business trip in the Laws auto Sunday night to Capitan.

Messrs. Gentry and Scott are taking care of the postoffice until the appointment of the new postmaster which is expected soon.

Chaplain Frund visited Father Girma in Lincoln last week.

Archbishop Pitaval, D. D., of Santa Fe, will be at Fort Stanton chapel next Sunday evening and Monday morning.

Mr. J. J. Brown will be in full charge of the Van Zant emporium during the absence of the Captain, who is visiting in the east for two months.

Dr. A. Brown, our congenial hospital physician has moved into his new quarters on Rest avenue. The Doctor feels highly complimented on the many social callers, especially the noiseless manner in which they arrive at his new abode.

Owing to the beautiful spring weather, all inside games and amusements have been abandoned, the patients taking such outdoor games as croquet, tennis, base ball and strolls along the Bonito

At Library Hall last Sunday evening the Chaplain spoke on Christian prayer.

Last Thursday was Ascension Thursday; a Holy day of obligation for all Catholics. Masses were celebrated in the Sacred Heart Chapel at 6:15 and 8:15 a. m., the chapel being filled at both services.

Charles U. Babbs leaves May 15th for his home in Little Rock, to go into business.

Mr. A. E. Lovett, the local expert farmer is busy planting Burmuda grass in the square. Mr. Lovett says there is no question but that we will have beautiful lawns this year.

The Bonito Publishing Company is daily receiving contracts from business houses for space in the new magazine soon to be published at Fort Stanton.

There was no ball game on the local diamond last Sunday, a practice game being had preparatory to the big games scheduled for the near future.

Railroad and Shop Notes

O. V. Morrison, machinist at the shops, has quit and will go to his old home, Clovis. His son will take his position.

The company is piling up coal at various central points, to be used in emergencies. About 1,200 tons are piled in the yards here.

Business on the road has been quite lively recently. Six and seven crews have been on the short division — between here and Duran.

J. H. Fish, a fireman, has moved to Tucumcari, having bid in a run there. Mrs. Fish left for that point this week.

Fireman Curtis will in future run out of El Paso, having been transferred to that division.

J. F. Kimbell, general foreman at the shops, made a couple of visits to El Paso this week on company business.

William Garvin, the head waterman at Nogal reservoir, was here Monday.

The pulling out of a draw bar and otherwise disabling a box car in a long freight train at Luna Monday caused a slight delay to passengers Nos. 33 and 34 which met at that point.

Cattle shipments from Carrizozo as well as above and below this place have called into service more equipment the past few weeks than usual. These shipments have also necessitated the employment of extra men.

Dr. W. L. Brown, division surgeon at El Paso, delivered a very interesting lecture at the club house last Friday night. His subject was "First Aid to the Injured," and a general application was made.

The County High School Question

SATISFIED; well we should say so! If any doubt ever existed, since the High School election on the 19th as to the satisfaction of the people of Capitan that doubt may be readily dispelled by a perusal of the article herewith presented. They are not only satisfied with the result of the election, but proclaim, irrevocably, that Capitan has the only genuine, blown-in-the-bottle High School, and that the law on the subject is so plain that "he who runs may read." There have been different opinions held, however, by attorneys, as to who was right and who was wrong, the Lord, himself, only knows. There is not an element of doubt in the mind of our Capitan correspondent, and he is so absolutely cocksure that we take pleasure in giving his views to the public, and also promise our aid in making the Capitan High School a success. He says:

"In order to dispel any misunderstanding that may be existing with regard to the County High School situation in Lincoln county, it is desired to give the readers of your paper the following information:

"At the first session of our state legislature, January, 1912, an act was passed which allows every county in the state having a population of 5,000 or more inhabitants to establish a County High School. This act unintentionally, no doubt, by its restriction to a population of 5,000 inhabitants excluded two counties in the state. The act provided in substance as follows: Upon a petition containing the names of one-fifth of the legal voters of the county, including women, who are qualified to vote at school elections by the constitution, the County Commissioners must call an election not less than 30 days after the receipt of such petition, for the purpose of giving the voters a chance to vote on the proposition of establishing a County High School at the place named in the petition, and if the petition receives a majority of the votes cast at said election, it shall receive the County High School.

"The act also provides that only one such High School shall be established in any one year, except in cases where a district has been maintaining an established and designated County High School

"The legislature which has just adjourned passed an act amending the above in some particulars. A serious question was maintained by some as to whether or not an existing established and designated County High School is required to call an election and be designated a County High School by popular vote. In the first place it seems that the law is so plain on the subject that there should not have arisen such a contention. It was clearly the intention of the framer of the act to have all High Schools established in the same manner, namely, by popular vote, but in making the proviso prohibiting the establishment of more than one such school in one year, he seemed to greatly confuse the minds of some, and the matter was taken up with the legislature in order to get the matter cleared up, and the legislature immediately passed an amendment which sets the matter at rest forever. The amendment repeals the restriction to 5,000 inhabitants, and allows each county regardless of its population to vote on the question by complying with the statute with regard to the petition, and allows any number of places to be voted on in any one year. And also provides: 'High Schools now located and established in any county of the state shall be designated and established as county high schools as provided in this act.' In other words all county high schools, whether existing at the time of the passage of the law or not, must, in order to be a real County High School and participate in the County High School fund present the required petition, an election must be called, and the place named in the petition must receive the majority of the votes cast at such election.

"Capitan has complied with the law and the people have rendered their verdict that Capitan shall have and maintain their High School. We assume the responsibility, and ask the cooperation of the people of the county in making the County High School an institution of which we can be proud. It is for the entire county, and we ask that the entire county make use of it. We shall put forth every effort to make it worth your while.

JUST A LITTLE TOO HASTY

Chances Are Colonel Newton Will Investigate Hereafter Before He Makes a Complaint.

"Have you noticed that dead dog in Harris' back yard?" inquired Colonel Newton at the breakfast table.

"No, I haven't; I didn't know they had a dog," his wife returned.

"No more did I, but there's a dead dog lying in their back yard, and it's been there for a day or two. If it isn't disposed of by tomorrow I shall notify the health department."

As the dog was still there, stretched stiff and stark, upon his return at night, the colonel telephoned the health department to come in the morning and remove the body of a dead dog in his neighbor's back yard, which was becoming offensive.

The men came early before the colonel had left home, to attend to the matter. He saw them pick up the animal, drop it suddenly and turn away. The colonel, mystified, hurried out to see about it.

"Why didn't you take that dog away?" he sputtered.

The officer eyed him coldly. "Aw, come off," he said, in a tone of disgust, "that's a stone dog; piece of bricky-brac; put out there for the ash man."

ECZEMA ON FACE AND SCALP

4400 Utica St., Denver, Colo.—"My eczema came first with pimples and a rash on my face, then on my scalp, ears and neck. It itched so bad that I could not sleep. I was a mass of sores and my eyes were so I could not see out of them. It broke my heart to look at my face. Every bit of skin came off where the disease was. I treated for three months and would get better for a week, and then I would be as bad as ever.

The Silo as a Forage Bank.

There is produced every year in this country sufficient forage to feed liberally all the live stock of the land, and leave a good balance besides. The shortage of supplies each year is due to the spoiling and wasting of forage already grown, and the means of preserving this forage will solve the stock problem of the country. The principal waste is now going on with the corn plant. It is most noticeable in the corn belt states where perhaps 80 per cent. of the stalk and leaves of this most valuable forage is wasted annually. An economic stock production is determined by the proper use of forage, the silo furnishes a means whereby all farm forage can be preserved and placed in the best possible condition for feeding. The silo is too well known to require a description of this method, but its use is certainly sadly wanting. It can be safely said, on any farm where 10 head or more of cattle are kept, a silo is a proper equipment, and of great economic value.

URGING GREAT SALE OF CANNED FOODS

Dealers, grocers, jobbers and manufacturers all over the country are joining hands during the week of March 31st to April 5th in an effort to acquaint housewives with the economy and quality of canned foods.

It is now a well known fact that heat is the only preservative used in preparing these economical foods. The cans are sealed and sterilized at a temperature of 250 degrees, which prevents any contamination and keeps the contents fresh and wholesome as the day the tins were filled in the canneries.

National Canned Foods Week, during which dealers and grocers will make canned foods their sales-features, is for the purpose of demonstrating to housewives that the cost of living can be cut with such foods, and that they may be served in hundreds of delightful ways, and thus served daily without monotony.

The farmer's wife especially finds it advantageous to relieve herself of all the cooking possible and Canned Foods enable her to do this and at the same time improve the quality of her meals.

Women in every community should observe National Canned Foods Week by going to the dealers and putting in a supply. The saving and general satisfaction in the use of Canned Foods is entirely worth while.—Adv.

PROVE WORLD IS ON UPWARD MOVE

Crime Records and Statistics Show an Unmistakable Lessening of Wrongdoing in All Countries of the Earth.

ENLIGHTENMENT AND EDUCATION THE CAUSE?

Penologists Differ Over This and Other Questions That Bear on the Matter—Change in Prison Methods an Argument That the World Is Advancing—Benevolent Institutions Doing Work That a Short Time Ago Was Not Considered Necessary—How Their Number Has Increased in a Few Years.

WASHINGTON.—Is the world growing better?

The world is growing better, because the world is growing more intelligent and, therefore, more humane. On the surface this may not appear to be a fact. We read every day of terrible things, of selfishness and brutality and wickedness. But it is to be remembered that as the world has progressed we have grown more thin skinned, more soft, more open to impressions of suffering and of wrong.

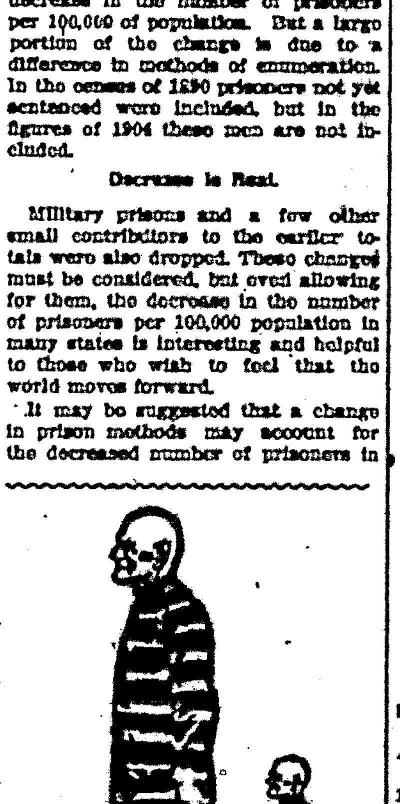
Crime records and statistics of crime, prison population and similar data touch the pulse of the world's morality. We have nothing better on which to base our allegation of world improvement. The figures do not, on their surface, always appear to bear out the contention. Sometimes they seem to show the world standing still. But it is to be remembered that while the worst of them no more than stand still, a mass of other figures are marching forward. In general, therefore, they show the world improving.

The United States census bureau, for instance, gives us some interesting prison figures that show a change for the better during a period of fourteen years. The earlier figures are for the year 1890 and the latter for 1904. At first glance the table given below would appear to show a remarkable decrease in the number of prisoners per 100,000 of population. But a large portion of the change is due to a difference in methods of enumeration. In the census of 1890 prisoners not yet sentenced were included, but in the figures of 1904 these men are not included.

Decrease Is Real.

Military prisons and a few other small contributors to the earlier totals were also dropped. These changes must be considered, but even allowing for them, the decrease in the number of prisoners per 100,000 population in many states is interesting and helpful to those who wish to feel that the world moves forward.

It may be suggested that a change in prison methods may account for the decreased number of prisoners in



In 1890 crimes to the extent of 102.9 per 100,000 population were committed in the United States. In 1904 the number was reduced to 60.8 per 100,000.

ratio to population. Parole systems and various forms of correction rather than punishment have come into general approval during the fourteen years.

Turn From Force to Ingenuity.

They are giving up the crimes of brute force that bring little profit and end in prison or on the gallows, and are taking up the crimes of ingenuity and profit. As intelligence is a sure step toward better manhood it would seem to be plain that the crime records of the British must soon show noticeable improvement.

Even as it is, the British figures are helpful to the advocate of the affirmative in "Resolved, That the world is growing better." The average annual number committed for trial in England, Ireland and Scotland for the period 1886-1890 was 15,000; for 1896-1901, 14,430; for 1902-1904, 16,400; for 1905-1907, 17,780; for 1907, 13,380.

When the growth in population is considered this showing is not an argument for the negative. Since 1889 the number per 100,000 of population of trials for assaults has decreased from 295.5 to 143.1 in 1907. This decrease has been steady and consistent. The ratio tried for drunkenness has decreased during the same period from 668.0 to 601.0.

British Criminal Figures.

The following table shows the average annual number of crimes known to the police in England and Wales for four-year periods:

	1903-7.	1907 Only.
Murder	161	156
Other crimes of violence	1,814	2,083
Crimes against morals	1,264	1,752
Burglary and housebreaking	5,996	11,670
Robbery and extortion	404	375
Larcenies	72,666	73,776
Receiving stolen goods	909	1,486
Frauds	1,863	4,995
Arson	376	362
Forgery	378	441
Counterfeiting	580	158
Attempted suicide	1,142	2,514
Others	1,051	967
Totals	88,516	96,022

Benevolent institutions care for the victims of crime and vice. In old times little provision was made for these victims. The census figures show here also the tendency toward greater enlightenment, which means more sympathy and practical help for the unfortunate.

The census report of 1904 points out that of 4,207 benevolent institutions enumerated in the United States only 2,166 were known to have existed in 1890. Of the number in existence in 1904 2,004 were founded in the period 1890-1903. The number of hospitals was increased 832; children's homes and orphanages, 377; homes for adults, 356.—New York Press.

Such a change has occurred, of course, but, granting all that any one would claim for it in trying to account for the decreased number of prisoners, it does not detract from the force of the argument that the world is growing better. If the world were not growing better such methods would not have come into vogue.

Of fifty states and territories enumerated by the census, thirty-six show a decrease in number of prisoners per 100,000 of their population. The table below includes those states in which the change for the better in general is most noticeable. The figures show the number of prisoners in the United States and each state in 1890 and in

In 1897 France had 33,790 prisoners. In 1906 there were only 23,490.

1904, with the number for each 100,000 of population, thus giving a definite basis for the consideration of the basis of crime:

1900	10,300
1901	142,220
1902	142,430
1903	119,230
1904	92,080
1905	73,130
1906	73,240

Not only in the United States, but in several of the European countries do the prison figures bear evidence that the public is reaching a higher plane.

In France, for instance, the prison population has decreased steadily. In the year 1897 it was 33,790 and each year has been smaller until 1906, the latest for which figures are available, it was 23,490. A lessening in the rigidity of the laws has had something to do with this favorable showing, but it is a point worth noticing that the decrease is shown in the number of long-term prisoners as well as in those who are sentenced for unimportant breaches of the law.

The total number received into the French prisons per year averaged 406,000 during the period 1897-1901, and only 368,000 during the period 1902-1906. The aggregate number of days of confinement averaged 11,775,000 in the former period, and only 9,106,000 in the latter.

Switzerland shows the same tendency. On December 31, 1900, the prison population per 100,00 was 131. On the same day of 1903 it had decreased to 120, and three years later, December 31, 1906, it was down to 114. In Japan there has been an even greater falling off in the number of persons accused of crime, but Japan, perhaps, is an unfair example, as it has been changing from the oriental to the occidental system, and its laws have changed more than those of other countries, thus affecting the police records.

Figures Prove Pleasing Fact.

The following table shows, however, a consistent decrease in the number of persons accused of crimes:

	No. per 100,000 population*	No. per 100,000 population‡	Decrease in 14 years per 100,000
United States	100.6	121.5	20.9
Maine	70	77.4	7.4
Massachusetts	187.3	223.5	36.2
Connecticut	115.4	137.5	22.1
New York	126.7	191.2	64.5
Pennsylvania	92.3	123.4	31.1
Virginia	97.9	120.8	22.9
North Carolina	89.1	125.7	36.6
Georgia	108.8	159.9	51.1
Indiana	80.7	90.7	10.0

*June 30, 1904. ‡June 1, 1890.

The German figures are not as favorable as those of some other countries. The German court records show that the number of convictions annually has kept at about the same level. In Italy the movement toward decrease begun but recently. In 1893 Italy convicted 1,151 persons for each 100,000 of its population. This number increased until 1893, when the highest point was 1,420. Since then the course has been downward until, in 1904, there were only 1,150 convictions for each 100,000 people. Italy has been some years behind France, Germany and England in the advance of education among its people, and, naturally, the result begins to show somewhat later than in other countries.

In 1883 London had 328.85 crimes committed per 100,000 population. In 1907 the number was reduced to 282.79.

Great Britain shows rather complex results. Murder has decreased; swindling has increased. Crimes of personal violence in general have become less numerous. Burglary has increased, but larceny has decreased. There is more fraud and less arson, forgery, and counterfeiting. In general it would appear that if the British are not growing better they are growing more intelligent.

Her Description.

Of all "aptitudes," the mechanical is least likely to manifest itself in a feminine brain. The young woman whose visit to a locomotive works is described in Young's Magazine was doubtless interested in what she saw, but her account of the processes observed leaves the reader to doubt her entire understanding of them.

"You pour," she told a friend, "a lot of sand into a lot of boxes and you throw old stove lids and things into a furnace and then you turn the red hot steam into a hole in the sand and everybody yells and shouts.

"Then you pour it out, let it cool and pound it, and then you put in it a thing that bores holes in it. Then you screw it together and paint it and put steam in it and it goes splendidly and they take it to a drafting-room and make a blue print of it.

"But one thing I forgot—they have to make a boiler. One man gets inside and one gets outside and they pound frightfully and then they tie it to the other thing and you ought to see it go!"

Materials the Mississippi Conveys.

From a large number of analyses of the waters of the Mississippi river it is estimated that the great stream carries annually into the sea during the average year 136,400,000 tons of dissolved salts and 340,000,000 tons of mud and other suspended matter, a total of 476,400,000 tons of material extracted by the rocks and soils of its drainage basin.—Scientific American.

Silage From Forage Plants.

Besides corn, excellent silage may be made from alfalfa, clover, oats and peas, rye, sorghum, kaffir-corn, millet and milo maize. While corn is the principal crop for silage, it is often found advisable to make silage from other plants, especially during drouth seasons, when excellent sorghum and kaffir-corn can be grown as a catch-up. The first cutting of alfalfa hay during a wet season is often lost. This could be put in the silo and saved, and by feeding out during the summer months, the silo can be refilled in the fall with corn and kaffir-corn.

During recent years, we have noted a steady increase in the price of hay, in fact all forage has commanded a very high price, and it is necessary for the stock keeper to produce a forage at less money than hay if he wishes to realize a good profit on his stock. In this capacity the silo comes as a great boon.

VERY TRUE.

SHEEPMEN declared, in stentorian tones that free wool would destroy the industry that the adoption of such a policy would reduce the price of sheep and wool to such a degree that ruin would be the result. To the timorous to whom 1893 was whispered this was, and is, enough. But the strange part of the business was that in the face of an absolute certainty that wool will be placed on the free list, the price of sheep has steadily advanced, and instead of selling, everybody is trying to buy. This would appear to be inconsistent; but the sheepman has retrieved his position by turning his attention to his flocks, quit preaching calamity and content with the proposition to run his affairs on a business basis, without the aid of the government. Had he done otherwise his position would be highly inconsistent; for if he believed what he formerly said he would be selling his sheep while top notch prices were prevailing. If he believed sheep would, following the passage of the impending tariff bill, fall to a $1.50 to $2.00 a head, he would be foolish not to sell now when he could get $5.00.

If the cattlemen of Texas, who so lately went on record against free cattle and free meats, honestly feel that such reductions in the tariff will irreparably cripple their industry, they can retire from that particular business at $35.00 or $40.00 a head; and if they fear a general stagnation of business they can place their money in a safety vault and wait until the storm blows over. It would certainly be more profitable to sell at $40.00 a head than to await the blighting effects of the Underwood bill, which, according to their doctrine, will destroy the industry, a destruction that will reduce the price of cattle to $10.00 a head. Though not a cattle man, we do assert we know that $40.00 is four times as much as $10.00, and our advice to the cattleman who fears we may have $10.00 cattle is to sell now when he can get $40.00. He'll have no difficulty selling at or about that figure, for there are many men who have more money than cattle sense. If the cattleman doesn't want to sell, then let him confess, by his silence, that he is only four-flushing; get busy as has the sheepman and run his herds on a business basis, satisfied with just and fair profits and not attempt to bulldoze ninety million of people, who must use beef, into the belief that a bounty must be paid, by the authority of the government, in order to make the business thrive.

Hudspeth Appointed Marshal

FRIENDS of A. H. Hudspeth who had the opportunity to see him yesterday evening when he was down from White Oaks for a few minutes heartily congratulated him upon his appointment as United States Marshal for New Mexico, news of which had just reached here. It is not too much to say that no appointment the administration had within its gift could have given Lincoln county more satisfaction. Hudspeth will make good—he always has—and everybody knows it; for his ability and sterling integrity are household words.

Work on the experiment farm goes on apace. The engine and pump are on the road, part of the fencing is here and the trees furnished by W. W. Stadtman's nursery will be planted as soon as the fencing is complete. The committee is using every effort to make the farm a success.

Odd Fellows Celebrate Anniversary

LAST Saturday night the local lodge of Odd Fellows, assisted by the Rebekahs, celebrated the 94th anniversary of the birth of the order. There were about seventy present, members and their families, and a literary program, interspersed with music was rendered. Rev. R. B. Evans delivered the address of the evening, following which the banquet was spread. It was 2 o'clock in the morning before the banquet ended, and then enough of the good eats brought for the occasion was left to feed a multitude. It was a delightful occasion and the local order feels proud of its success.

Fort Stanton Coming Sunday

A GAME of ball will be played here Sunday between Fort Stanton and the local team. The Fort, we understand, has an excellent team this year, and our boys will have to go some to entertain them. But our team, too, intends to have some fast players for the Sunday game, and declare that they will be fully able to take care of themselves. Entrance to the grand stand will be 35 cents. Ladies free.

THE progressives in congress are a little bit inconsistent. Their convention declaration at Chicago was for an immediate revision of the tariff. Now the congressmen of that faith oppose a reduction, asserting that the tariff should be revised in a leisurely most leisurely manner by a commission. That was Mr. Taft's idea, but he never got to it.

Old Citizen Answers Last Call

W. H. HARRIS, an old citizen of this county died Wednesday at his home two miles west of town and was buried yesterday in the local cemetery. He had long since passed the three score and ten mile stone and had been feeble for a number of years, particularly the last two years.

Mr. Harris came from Texas to this county twenty-two years ago and during all these years was one of our staunch citizens. He reared a large family of boys and girls all of whom survive him, with the exception of John W. Harris, who died here two weeks ago. An aged wife also survives, and to her and the sons and daughters who are thus doubly bereaved we extend our sincerest sympathy.

Covered Up by a Cave-In ALMOST miraculous was the escape of John M. Keith from death yesterday evening. He was doing some development work on the old Leadville properties, situated seven or eight miles northwest of White Oaks. Yesterday afternoon the shaft in which he was working caved on him, and Clyde Collier, who was working on top hastened to White Oaks and announced that Mr. Keith was entirely covered up. A rescue party immediately proceeded to the scene of the disaster and began to extract the debris, expecting to find the mangled body of Mr. Keith under it. However, to the astonishment of the rescuers, after much of the debris had been removed, the imprisoned man was found to be alive. They uncovered his head and not only found him alive, but conscious.

Jas. Lee and A. H. Hudspeth came about 6 o'clock yesterday evening in the former's car and rapidly whirled Dr. Paden to the relief. The work of rescue was tedious and slow, owing to the nature of the ground, its nature necessitating timbering as the work of rescue went on. Finally, at 2 o'clock this morning Mr. Keith was lifted from the hole, which under ordinary conditions would have been his sepulcher, alive, and but for a few bruises, apparently sound.

When the report of the accident reached Carrizozo few felt there was hope for the entombed man, and the only theory advanced for the wonderful preservation of his life was that the debris in falling keyed itself in such a manner that his body was partially relieved of the weighty mass. Mr. Keith's many friends are rejoicing this morning after a night of gloom and foreboding.

Healthy Baby is Precious Blessing

To Make It Healthy and Keep it Healthy Use a Reliable Baby Laxative

Dorothy Johnson.

In spite of the greatest personal care and the most intelligent attention to diet, babies and children will become constipated, and it is a fact that constipation and indigestion have wrecked many a young life. To start with a good digestive apparatus is to start life without handicap.

But as we cannot all have perfect working bowels we must do the next best thing and acquire them, or train them to become healthy. This can be done by the use of a laxative-tonic very highly recommended by a great many mothers. The remedy is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and has been on the market for two generations. It can be bought conveniently at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, and those who are already convinced of its merits buy the dollar size.

Its mildness makes it the ideal medicine for children, and it is also very pleasant to the taste. It is sure in its effect and genuinely harmless. Very little of it is required and its frequent use does not cause it to lose its effect, as is the case with so many other remedies.

Thousands can testify to its merits in constipation, indigestion, biliousness, sick headaches, etc., among them reliable people like Mrs. M. Johnson, 752 Dayton St., Kenosha, Wis. She is the mother of little Dorothy Johnson who was always in delicate health until her mother gave her Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. Johnson says: "I never saw such rapid improvement in the health of anyone. Syrup Pepsin is a wonderful remedy and I shall never be without it again." Thousands keep Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, for every member of the family can use it from infancy to old age. The users of Syrup Pepsin have learned to avoid cathartics, salts, mineral waters, pills and other harsh remedies for they do but temporary good and are a shock to any delicate system.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin, and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 203 Washington Street, Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

Practical Maid.

She—Of course, I'm much honored by your proposal, but I must have a few days to think it over.

He—Well, when may I come for my answer.

She—Let's see. Monday, there's the washing; Tuesday I must put up clean curtains and Wednesday I must make some jam. Come on Thursday.

His Contribution.

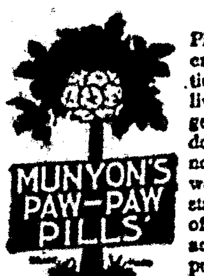
"Did old Closefist give you anything for the charity benefit fund?"

"Oh, yes; he gave me his candid opinion of it."

The Summer Silo.

The use of the silo throughout the year is finding favor with many stock keepers. It is quite difficult to obtain a profit on pasture which is on land worth $100.00 or more per acre. During drouth seasons, the pasture is often so poor that it affords little or no food, but the interest on the investment, and the taxes must be found. There is no question but what the use of the silo for summer feeding will make rapid gains during the next few years and will soon come into common use. The millions of tons of corn stalks and rough forage which are now annually going to waste will find use in the form of silage and will make possible not only a cheaper production of stock and stock products, but will also make it possible to at least double the profit of stock raising. Farmers who are complaining of low profits from cattle, should make a study of the silo, as they will here find a means to increase their profits and do this with less labor. The silo is a forage bank which if put into general use will have a vast amount of valuable feed and bring a great wealth to our people.—A. L. Haecker.

CONSTIPATION



Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods, they do not scour; they do not gripe; they do not weaken; but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and corrects constipation. Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and nerves. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverishing it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it. Price 25 cents. All Druggists.

HOW IT WAS.

"How did yo' all get yo' nose busted?"

"I done slipped down an' plumb lit on my back."

"But, name o' goodness, sah!—yo' nose isn't located on yo' back."

"No, sah; an' needer was Brudder Jones."

Stiff Joints Sprains, Bruises

are relieved at once by an application of Sloan's Liniment. Don't rub, just lay on lightly.

"Sloan's Liniment has done more good than anything I have ever tried for stiff joints. I got my hand hurt so badly that I had to stop work right in the busiest time of the year. I thought at first that I would have to have my hand taken off, but I got a bottle of Sloan's Liniment and cured my hand."
WILTON WHEELER, Morris, Ala.

Good for Broken Sinews

G. G. JONES, Baldwin, L. I., writes: "I used Sloan's Liniment for broken sinews above the knee cap caused by a fall and to my great satisfaction was able to resume work in less than three weeks after the accident."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

Fine for Sprains

MR. HENRY A. VOEHL, 84 Somerset St., Plainfield, N. J., writes: "A friend sprained his ankle so badly that it went black. He laughed when I told him that I would have him out in a week. I applied Sloan's Liniment and in four days he was working and said Sloan's was a right good liniment."

THE KNOW HOW
To Feed Children and Get Good Results.

There are more nervous persons made so by undigested food lying in the stomach, than the average individual would suppose.

If food remains undigested in the stomach, it begins to ferment, set up gas and a large portion is thus converted into poison.

That's why imperfectly digested food may, and often does, cause irritation of the nerves and stupor of the mind—brain and nerves are really poisoned.

"My daughter had complained for some time of a distressed feeling in the stomach, after eating, which set me thinking that her diet was not right," writes an anxious and intelligent mother.

"She had been fond of cereals, but had never tried Grape-Nuts. From reading the account of this predigested food, it seemed reasonable to try Grape-Nuts for her case.

"The results were really wonderful. The little brain that seemed at times unable to do its work, took on new life and vigor. Every morning, now, before going to school, she eats the crisp little morsels and is now completely and entirely well, she seems to have a new lease on life—no more distress in the stomach, nor headache, but sound and well everyway." WASHINGTON CITY SIDELIGHTS

One Bachelor in President Wilson's Cabinet

WASHINGTON.—Gatherers of statistics who have been compiling facts about the new Wilson cabinet announced with satisfaction the other day that its members are simple, home-loving and by example, active anti-race suicide propagandists.

Of all the cabinet families, only that of Secretary of War Garrison is without children.

Mrs. William Jennings Bryan is a lawyer, like her husband, but she has found time amid her professional duties to rear two children, Mrs. Richard Hargreaves, Jr., and William J. Bryan, Jr., whose wife will make her home in Washington with the family.

Three daughters call Mrs. Albert Sidney Burleson, wife of the postmaster general "mother." One of the daughters, Mrs. Richard VanWick Negley, has a son about six weeks old.

William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce, and Mrs. Redfield have a married daughter and a son, Humphrey Fuller Redfield, who is a student at Amherst college.

Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, has a 16-year-old son, Franklin, Jr., and a daughter, Nancy, several years younger. Mrs. Lane is a college woman, but thoroughly domestic.

If ever an actual anti-race suicide organization is established among the families of the cabinet officers, Mrs. William B. Wilson, wife of the new secretary of labor, will be at its head by right of achievement. She has nine children.

Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, also has several children.

There are three children in the family of David Houston, secretary of agriculture.

Miss Nona McAdoo will preside over the Washington home of her father, William G. McAdoo, the new secretary of the treasury. She made her debut a short time ago. There are two other daughters, one married and three sons.

The only bachelor in the cabinet, which is why he is mentioned last, is Attorney General McReynolds.

Brokers Do a Big Business in Stolen Stamps

INSPECTORS have learned that stamps of all classes and denominations stolen by burglars from post offices and embezzled by employes from great business houses and manufacturing establishments were purchased and resold by the brokers at prices far below their face value.

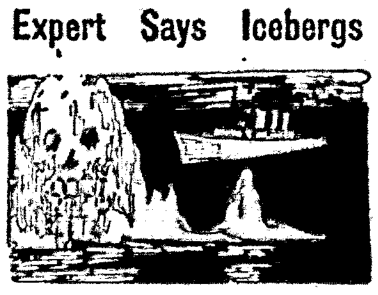
The postal laws make it a crime punishable by imprisonment to sell any stamp issued by the government for less than its face value. Investigations disclosed the fact that, in addition to selling the stamps for less than a price they could have been purchased for from the government, the brokers in many cases knew that the stamps were stolen when they purchased them.

Stamp frauds against the government and various business concerns aggregating hundreds of thousands of dollars annually have been unearthed in New York City alone, while illegal trafficking in stamps in many other cities has reached large proportions.

One stamp broker in New York City who sells, from $300 to $1,000 worth of stamps a day to merchants, it is alleged, has been purchasing some of his supply from an employe of the New York state government at Albany. The employe confessed to post office inspectors that he remitted to the stamp broker from $25 to $50 a week in stamps stolen from the state.

The department redeems postal cards from original purchasers at 75 per cent. of their face value. A few weeks ago a member of congress and a former deputy commissioner of police of New York City requested the third assistant postmaster-general to redeem more than a million cards for a constituent of the representative. Inquiry by inspectors developed the fact that the cards were the property of a stamp broker, whose business is declared by the department officials to be clearly illegitimate.

Expert Says Icebergs Are Invisible by Night



ABBOTT H. THAYER, an artist who has given much study to the question, discusses the invisibility of icebergs at night in the last issue of the bulletin of the hydrographic office. He writes, in part:

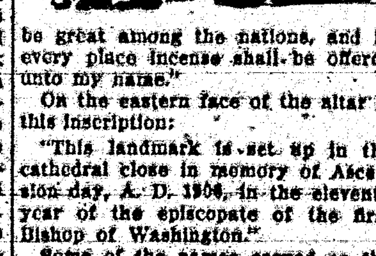
"The Titanic and the Arizona ran into icebergs because of the universal notion that white shows at night even against a clear sky. Until this impression can be corrected the world will continue at the mercy of the chance of more ice accidents.

"A steamer may be close to an iceberg on a clear, moonless night, and, as stated above, often on a moonlit night, without the slightest sight of it. Any observing person who has lived in the country knows perfectly well that snowy roofs on such a night are apt to be indistinguishable from the sky, and would always be so if they stood alone out on a plain or out at sea.

"In order to test this matter, notice first that it is the most nearly horizontal top surfaces of a berg, snowy roof or other white object that receive the most skylight, and consequently most nearly match it. It follows that with the average hilltop shape of an iceberg it will be the highest expanses of it visible from the ship's watch that are surest to be indistinguishable. These highest expanses of course constitute the contour that the watch would see if the berg were visible, and when these become thus effaced the berg itself is effaced.

"Even when a near berg is not tall enough to stand up against the sky to the eyes of the watch its top will necessarily be looked at against the most distant part of the sea; and this part averages, especially in calm weather, much brighter than the nearer water; and a sky-matching berg top could not often be distinguished from it any better than from the sky itself."

Beautiful Bronze Sundial Serves as a Landmark



NEARLY all strangers who travel to the beautiful close of the Cathedral of Saint Peter and Saint Paul, on Mount Saint Alban, gather around the sundial. Most of them mount the three granite steps to stand on the narrow granite platform about the sundial and its rectangular pedestal the better to read the inscription and to study the devices engraved on stone and bronze. The structure is called "the cathedral landmark and sundial." According to the handbook of the Washington Cathedral, "On Ascension Day, A. D. 1906, the landmark given by Mrs. Julian James to commemorate the freedom of the cathedral land from debt and the consequent hallowing of the cathedral close was presented and consecrated. This landmark is a beautiful bronze sundial, surmounting an open air altar, on which are inscribed the names of those it commemorates.

Beginning at the northwest edge of the altar is this inscription:

"Transit umbra lux permanet. From the rising of the sun even to the going down of the same, my name shall be great among the nations, and in every place incense shall be offered unto my name."

On the eastern face of the altar is this inscription:

"This landmark is set up in the cathedral close in memory of Ascension day, A. D. 1906, in the eleventh year of the episcopate of the first Bishop of Washington."

Some of the names carved on the altar sides are Theodoras Bailey Myers, 1821-1888; Catalina Juliana Mason, 1826-1905, and Cassie Mason Myers, Julia James, Frederick James, Edmonia Phelps, Sidney Mason, Alphonso Sidney Mason and Catherine Kobb.

Thousands of Women

Have Been Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

There is no doubt about this fact. Why! during the last 30 years we have published in the newspapers of this country volumes of letters from women who have been relieved of all their suffering by the timely aid of this grand old medicine. Letters like the following, true, genuine and honest expressions of gratitude coming from grateful hearts. Surely you can believe these women.

Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Mich., says:—

"Sometime ago I was taken with a terrible pain in my right side, such sharp pains just like a knife sticking me. I tried hot applications, but that did no good. I went to our family doctor (we were living in Fayette, Ohio, at that time) and he said it was organic inflammation. I doctored with him a while but kept getting worse. The pain was so terrible I could hardly stand on my feet. I would have that sharp pain in my right side, and a dull heavy pain the whole length of my limb. I realized that something had to be done quickly, so I looked up all of your advertisements I could find, and saw several that described my case. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the first dose, and when I had taken two bottles my trouble was gone. Your medicine has done so much for me that I am willing you should publish this letter for the sake of other suffering women."—Mrs. L. S. BRENNER, Hudson, Michigan.

Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, Girard, Pa., says:—

"I take pleasure in informing you of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had a sick spell last February, and for some months after that I was not regular and had many bad feelings. I was tired all the time, had dull headaches, not much appetite, and also what the doctor called organic inflammation. Your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me and I feel that too much cannot be said in its praise as I am now able to do my own work. You are perfectly welcome to use my testimonial for the benefit of others."—Mrs. L. E. BOWERS, R.F.D. No. 1, Girard, Pa.

Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, Buffalo, N.Y., says:—

"I feel that I must write to you about your wonderful remedies. About ten years ago I was troubled with female weakness and was all run down. I was tired all the time and could hardly walk without feeling dizzy. I heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, took it, and also used the Sanative Wash. I got stronger, and have not had those dizzy spells since. I feel that I owe my health to you, and hope your remedies will help others as they have me. I tried most everything I heard of, and yours are the best medicines for women's ailments."—Mrs. ELIZABETH GENTILCORE, 20 Glor Street, Buffalo, New York.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

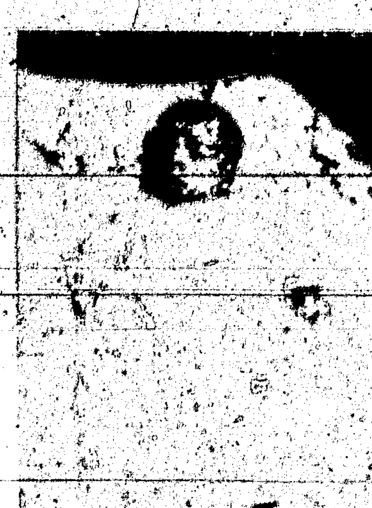
What becomes of the Child that Nobody Wants?



PATHETIC, indeed, is the case of a child in that sorrowful condition With the children of our own homes enshrined in the sweetness and protection of our inmost hearts, it is hard to realize that there are such children, but there are hundreds of them found in New Mexico every year. To help solve this question in a happy way for the child, in a safe way for the state and in a saving way for the church, the Childrens Home Society was organized seven years ago by some of the leading humanists of New Mexico and has the endorsement and support of the highest governmental and judicial officers and the sympathy and cooperation of the ministers and churches of the state

To those who are not familiar with the work and methods of the Society, the following outline of what the Society stands for, is given

Bring the Homeless Child to the Childless Home

The Childrens Home Society stands first for the homeless child, then extends its mission to the childless home.

The Society reaches out a strong and tender hand to the orphaned, dependent and neglected child It represents the instinct of love, sympathy and protection, which arises in every true heart at the spectacle of a needy child It seeks to discover how the need can be met and then to meet that need in the best way possible It is mindful of the rights, interests and obligations of the parent as well. It seeks to aid, it may be to constrain the parents, father and mother alike, to meet that obligation as far as may be possible.

The Childrens Home Society stands for the Home, to preserve and sanctify the own home, if possible, but if not, to find for it a foster home with those who will endeavor to supply the love and care and training of which it has been deprived.

When we say that the Society stands for the home, we mean that it stands for the selected home, not a perfect home, not even an ideal home, but the home of ordinary, good, loving, conscientious people, who will endeavor with fidelity and patience to make up to the child what he has lost. The Society eliminates the home of the vicious, the improvident, the intemperate, the irreligious, and the trifling rich and poor alike and secures homes of trustworthy people of the best class.

The Childrens Home Society stands for the minimization of institutions for children. It aims to do away with the necessity of orphan asylums and all institutions which keep the child from its God-given right to an individual home of its own. And the society could empty every orphanage or other institution in the land into splendid homes if it had the opportunity. We do maintain a Receiving Home where children can be cared for temporarily until they can be corrected of faults, cleaned and cared for until they are chosen by some good men and women to enter their homes as their own beloved children.

The Childrens Home Society keeps careful record of every child received, from whence it comes, and where it goes, and continues its supervision of the child until all possible fear of its being misplaced is done away with. It realizes that the dependent child in his innocence and helplessness has a claim upon the very best that can be given by those who assume the duty of caring for him and though hundreds of children are found homeless every year, yet the supply of good homes does not fail.

The Childrens Home Society aims to secure to every homeless, neglected and dependent child the same care, the same love and the same opportunities that we would have our own children receive, should they be left orphans and friendless. From the time a homeless child is received by the Society until old enough to be self-supporting, it is never friendless or homeless again The Society appeals for the symphathy and support of all those whose hearts go out to homeless and friendless children. The Society is not sectarian, is not controlled by any church, but is managed by those who are members of all the churches and by those who are members of no churches Its workers and sympathizers have been members of the various churches of the state, but humanity loving people of no church affiliations have reached out their hands and given their influence to make possible this great work for the orphaned children

The Childrens Home Society is supported wholly by charitable contributions and it solicits the aid of all friends of children who wish to assure every helpless child of an equal opportunity with those blessed with their own good homes. If you know of a homeless or neglected child, or of a good home where a child can be placed, or if you wish to send a contribution to help carry on the work, write the Superintendent, Dr. Charles E. Lukens at Albuquerque, New Mexico, or, if you should forget the name, write to the Childrens Home and it will be quickly answered.

Viewing Proposed State Road

J. A. FRENCH, State Engineer, accompanied by Powell Stackhouse and other Socorro county persons, was in Carrizozo Monday night. The engineer and party had come over from Socorro, via the Jornada and the Mocking Bird Gap, viewing the proposed state highway from this point to Socorro. They returned by way of the upper end of the mal pais in an effort to determine the most feasible route. The law authorizing the construction of this road names Hondo as the beginning point with Socorro at the other end. However, the road from Hondo to this point is in very good condition and the main difficulty lies in the section between here and Socorro.

In a Quandary

WHICH way to turn and cause the least damage sometimes confronts the automobilist and requires a quick eye, a steady hand and an electric think-tank. Such a condition confronted Dan Tiffany one day this week while he and Mrs. Tiffany were taking an auto spin. They were going at a good clip and suddenly faced Sam Miller, who was taking a solitary ride on his motorcycle. On one side was a barbed wire fence, on the other a cow and Sam in the middle. Dan decided the cow could receive the stroke with less damage and instantly turned out on the cow-side. The cow was given a slight shaking up, the car went to the shop for repairs, the barbed wire fence was not demolished and Sam was saved for future en ounters.

A Fair Lamb Crop

IT was feared last week that the cold spell, which struck sheepmen in the midst of lambing, would play havoc with this year's lamb crop. However, a discussion of conditions with various sheepmen since the cold spell elicited very favorable reports. With an exception here and there the general lambing results are good, and while the losses were slightly above the average, in some flocks, satisfaction is the reigning feeling with the flockmasters over the abundant growth of early vegetation, which insures strong and valuable lambs. Aside from the cold nights of last week, few seasons have been as promising for the sheepman, and their prosperity we hope will continue.
