THE HOUSE OF QUALITY

BILLS AFFECTING NEW MEXICO INTRODUCED.

Washington, D. C.—Senator Guggenheim, of Colorado, yesterday introduced in the senate a bill providing for the sale of certain classes of grazing lands in New Mexico and also a measure to encourage the sinking of wells on quarter sections of land open to homestead entry.

A postoffice has been established at Centerville, Union county, with Webster Lamb as postmaster.

A patent has been issued to Bernardino Francisco, of Pena Blanca, for a machine for destroying grasshoppers.

The First National Bank of Kansas City, and the Mercantile National bank, of Pueblo, Colorado, have been approved as reserve agents for the First National Bank of Clayton.

The postffice at Steins and Thoreau, have been made domestic money order officers.

Miss Emile Robinson, of Arkansas City, Kansas, has been appointed a nurse in the Santa Fe Indian School.

Washington, —This was pension day in the House of Representatives and Delegate Andrews succeeded in passing twenty special pension bills, granting pensions to New Mexico veterans.

ONLY WOMAN LAWYER IN TERRITORY

Miss Nellie C. Brewer of Albuquerque who was admitted to the bar after having passed a very creditable examination, has the distinction of being the only woman lawyer in New Mexico and the second of her sex to receive a license to practice the legal profession in the territory. A Mrs. Pettijohn who was for some time located at Las Vegas, but has since removed from the territory was the first woman lawyer in New Mexico. Miss Brewer promises to make her mark as a disciple of Blackstone, and being a pretty woman will not lack clients. She has been a stenographer for several years tn the office of Colonel E. W. Dobson at Albuquerque, where she pursued her studies and acquired her legal training.

KROUSE OBJECTS

Some weeks ago we gave a brief mention of the fact that the law abiding people of Carrizozo were making the protest against the granting of a license to the illegal saloon and house of prostitution recently erected near the end of El Paso aveune and ajoining the townsite.

A petition was presented to the County Commissioners at their last meeting requesting that no license should be granted to such an establishment; this however, was not sufficient to convince two of the Commissioners and the license was granted.

At the request of Hon. P. L. Krouse we publish the following extract from the Board Proceedings and statement of Probate Clerk William Kimbrell and Commissioners Krouse in regard to the matter:

In the matter of issuing Liquor Licenses to L. M. Casaus at the town of Carrizozo, it is the opinion of Taylor and Duran that such licese be allowed.—P. L. Krouse, objects (Note) P. L. Krouse Commissioner offered to place in the minutes signed objections to the action above taken; which offer was refused him by order of Messrs, Taylor and Duncan.

W. E Kimbrell
Probate Clerk

The proof in this case shows without contradiction that a saloon and house of prostitution belonging to Casaus is run in connection. It is my belief that such an establishment is not necessary for the public accomodations, hence, "I am against the issuing of a liquor license that will aid the conduct of the despicable business carried on in the house.

(signed) P. L. Krouse.

It is now quite evident that the people or Carrizozo will have to appeal to the courts for relief or submit to almost any indignity that may be brought upon them by this illegal joint located in one of the most public places in the community

NEWSPAPER CHANGE.

The Estancia Leader a live progressive sheet recently started by Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Maxwell has been bought by G. W. Cooms of Duncan, Oklahoma. Mr. Cooms is an experienced newspaper man and a practical priner and the manner in which he starts out with his new venture is a guarantee that he will keep the leader up to the standard on which it was started by his predecessors and that it will be moving force in the development of the great Estancia Valley.

We wish Brother Cooms a full measure of success in his undertaking

OSCURO NOTES.

Robert Young has completed his two-story house on his claim and taken up his residence therein, his wife and daughtre having arrived from Chicago.

E. F. Jones recently struck water in the well he drilled on his ranch and has 30 feet of water in the 60 foot well. He is pumping this well with a gasoline engine and has all the water required.

Delmar Law has erected a residence in town and is now a citizen.

Dr. Raniker is building on his homestead with a view to taking up his residence here.

Lee B. Chase spent the holidays with his parents in Chicago.

E. R. Edwards of Arizona is in town with a view to establishing a general merchandise store.

Charles Thornton of Rockford, Illinois, arrived recently and expects to locate and engage in business.

Fred Roberts is in from the Mockingbird Gap and intends building on his homestead.

Felton Gray is now driving the mail wagon between here and Estey City.

Messrs. Gottchalk and Boroventsky are among the recent arrivals.

E. G. Raffety spent last week in Chicago on business.

NOGALES HEARS IT.

From St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Whenever the Yaqui Indians get off the reservation the report is sure to come from Nogales, Aricona, which dots the International boundary line. Nogales consists of a small hotel and a large barn, and once in the '80s the raiding redskins left ten pairs of white ears tacked on the barn—since that time Nogal has been able to detect the sound of an Indian outbreak in the deepest recesses of Sonora.

IRRIGATION CONGRESS

The National Irrigation congress will hold its sixteenth session at Albuquerque, New Mexico, next October. This great assembly is one of the most important unofficial organizations in the United States. Its purpose is to promote the wise development of governmental policies relating to the conservation, development and best use of the forests, streams and lands of the country.

It seeks to save the forests, store the floods, reclaim the deserts, and make homes on the land.

Its annual sessions have had an important influence on national legislation and national prosperity.

The congress is composed of delegates representing the states and territories of the Union, counties, municipalities, organized bodies of many kinds.

Its pesronnel includes the highest officials of the national government, senators, reperse itatives and administrative oiucials.

Prominent men from every portion of the United Steates attend and participate in the proceedings. Among these are governors of states and men who stand at the head of the great manufacturing, commercial and financial interests of the country, leading professional men, educators, engineers and scientists.

The national reclamation act, through which there has been accumulated in the national treasury a revolving fund of approximately forty million dollars, now being expended in the construction of great irrigation systems that will reclaim millions of acres of semi-arid lands, is a direct result of a public sentiment developed by the annual sessions of this congress.

The new national policy of forest preservation, under which more than a hundred millions of forest area and grazing lands of the public domain have been reserved from sale for the purpose of preventing denudation and destruction, insuring their proper use and conservation of timber and range resources of the country and protection of the water sheds, is largely due to the discussions which have annually been had at the National Irrigation congress.

The participation of high officials of the government who are charged with the administraiton of the National Irrigation and Forestry laws gives to this congress a semiofficial character. It is one place where these officials meet the people and discuss with them the details of the great work which the government has undertaken.

In its membership, the National Irrigation congress is the most truly representative of any of our nat national gatherings. It deals with questions of national policy and representsation is according to practically every body of citizans in the United States.

Locally we are vitally interested. The national government, under the provisions of the reclamation act, is to construct, the lower Rio Grande valley, the greatest dam and reservoir in the world—the Elephant Butte project, which, when completed will reclaim 180,000 acres New Mexico soil, will furnish [illegible] to 20,000 acres in Texas and a similar area across the border to [illegible] sister republic of Mexico. This [illegible] Mexico proposition gives an [illegible] national character and color to [illegible] work to be performed on New Mexican soil under the reclamation act. Inasmuch as the furnishing of water to a foreign country has been made a matter of treaty with that country the construction of the Elephant Butte dam is as certain as the construction of the of the Panama canal.

The reclamation of 180,000 acres of southern New Mexico soil will increase the assessment valuation of property in New Mexico to figure which will decrease the tax rate [illegible] the territory one half. [illegible] land under the Elephant [illegible] dam will have a [illegible] $100, and the product of [illegible] annually will equal the agricultural and horticultural product of the entire state of Colorado today, an amount greater than the total of all the gold, silver, coal and copper mines of the Centennial State. And the Elephant Butte project is only one of the great outcomes of governmental aid in the reclamation of the semiarid region.

All of the great organizations formed for the promotion of the public welfare through a proper development of natural resources will participate in the congress [illegible] held at Albuquerque. The [illegible] ways commission, the national rivers and harbors congress, [illegible] tional drainage congress, [illegible] tional forestry association, [illegible] represented by delegates. [illegible] are interested in national [illegible] and in national prosperity [illegible] tend and the assembly will [illegible] most noteworthy gathering [illegible] will ever come to us,

It is then the duty of every [illegible] New Mexican to put his shoulder to the wheel, to do his part, no matter how small, in making the coming session of this great congress the greatest in its history.

One full day will be devoted to discussion of scientific farming, subject which appeals with great vehemence to the middle west and southern portions of the territory. Exhibits will be had exemplifying the capabilities of New Mexico without irrigation and demonstrating the possibilities of establishing farming communities which really make a conquest of the so called desert.

Reports from Santa Fe [illegible] that Governor Curry has [illegible] to take up his residence in the historic old palace at Santa Fe [illegible] for three hundred years [illegible] the residence of New Mexico governors until a few years [illegible] which Lew Wallace, [illegible] of New Mexico, wrote [illegible] The rooms are to [illegible] much as possible [illegible] looks. The building [illegible] the territory, [illegible] to the federal [illegible] national museum [illegible] postoffice [illegible] the museum [illegible] historical [illegible]

OHIO AND TAFT.

On Feb. 11 the free and unterrified Republicans of Ohio are to declare whom they prefer as a presidential candidate. No brace caucuses, no packed convention, no boss manipulaiton or dictation by professional politicans, but an open primary. Each Republican, uncoerced and unwatched, his political weight as great as any other Republican, will make a ballot, pratcially in his own dooryard, indicating his choice. In many states there have been primaries as to governors and senators, but this is the first application of the principle to a presidential candidacy. It is obvious that what is called the democratization of parties is making progress. In Ohio counties and parts of counties are the political units. The next step will naturally be the state-wide presidential primary. The time it is not impossible that presidential nominations will be made at nation-wide primaries.

That the Taft managers have adopted such a method of settling the Ohio result proves at once their candor and their confidence. They are not relying on the back room conferences or combinations, nor do they fear the people. Being human politicans it may be assumed that they would have avoided such a test if they had any fear as to what judgment the appeal to popular Ceasar would give. They could have easily avoided such a plebiscite if they had so elected, and at the same time have secured a solid Taft delegation from Ohio. It is an open secret that Senator Foraker has been gunning for the presidency in the hope of bringing down his re-election in the Senate. He thought the situation was one that demanded a trade, and as the Taft managers held aloof from dickering he has done what lay in his power to exert pressure — to make it appear that Ohio was seriously divided as to the Presidency. The senator, assuming that a politician's first duty is to himself, is not to be blamed. His peace overtures have been rejected; a concourse of circumstances forced him back to the wall, and he has had no option except to raise all the row he could.

Many signs indicate that on Feb. 11 Secretary Taft will win a sweeping victory. This will be mainly because of his own merits, but partly because of the supposed demerits of Senator Foraker. Ohio is justly proud of the fact that she has furnished so many presidents to the nation. The state would like to add aonther name to the list. A year ago the opportunity to do so began to open. Secretary Taft was everywhere hailed as a man most fit to succeed President Roosevelt. Under these conditions Senator Foraker saw fit to launch a rival presidential candidacy. His closest friends admitted that he had not the remotest chance of succeeding. It is not strange that Ohio opinion quickly reached the conclusion that either he was merely endeavoring to play the role of a dog in the manger or was seeking to force a trade concerning a matter which it is the business of the legislaure of Ohio and not Secretary Taft to decide. Thus it was that the Ohio Republican committee, although chosen at a time when Senators Foraker and Dick were in undisputed control of the Republican orginazation, lined up last fall in behalf of Secretary Taft and yesterday clinched their attitude by putting through the Taft programme by an increased majority.

And Senator Foraker is distrusted on other grounds than that of being a dog in the manger. Altough a man of engaging personality and of admitted ability he many times shocked the sensibilities of the Republicans of Ohio. He is believed by many to have betrayed John Sherman when Sherman was Ohio's candidate for presidency. He was a constant and often an underhand critic of William McKinley, revered by all Ohio. He did all in this power to prevent the re-election of Marcus A. Hanna to the Senate, so far as practically to countenance a bolt from the senatorial caucus. In addition it has been noticed by Ohioans that Senator Foraker in some mysterious manner became suddenly rich, whereas, when a candidate for governor, he won the sobriquet of "Little Breeches" because it was brought out during the canvass that the Foraker household was so poor that father's trousers were made over for the junior member of the family. It is the belief of many in Ohio that at no time in many years has Senator Foraker been realy the choice of the state as senator. His political life, just as it was about to flicker out, was saved by the death of Senator Hanna. He was able to establish over his colleague, Senator Dick, the influence that a strong man is able to exercise over a weak one.

On the other hand, Secretary Taft appeals to the best and highest traditions of Ohio. He was the friend of both Sherman and McKinley. He has never been a trickster or a schemer, or in any way a demagogue. He has consistently opposed everything that was corrupting in Ohio life—no later than a year ago openly asking for the defeat of Boss Cox in Cincinnati. He has not become suddenly rich. Having measured up to every responsibility laid on him, having proved true in every public as in every private relation. It is not remarkable that he secured the respect and affection of the state—not prehaps of his professional politicans, but of the people who are now to pass on his candidacy.

Individual deposits in the national and private banks of New Mexico were scarcely diminished during the recent financial flurry. Rather good evidence that the depositors in the Sunshine Territory have faith and confidence in their financial institutions.

The Taft supporters assert that their candidate is gaining steadily and daily in strength and that he will be nominated upon the first or second ballot at the Chicago convention. At the same time Secretary Taft's opponents are becoming more aggressive and yet it looks as if the big brainy man from the Buckeye state would win.

The people of New Mexico are certainly getting together on the movement to secure statehood for the Sunshine Territory. A great many more letters from patriotic and influental citizens than were expected have been received by the officials of the statehood league offering to go to the national capital as delegates to work for the passage of the Andrews enabling act of the 60th Congress. The people are getting together in great shape and the knockers and back-biters are being compelled to take a back seat. This is as it should be.

The county of Torrence has sold bonds in the sum of $10,000, the proceeds of which will be used for the erection of a decent court house, at Estancia the county seat. The bonds were sold at par which shows well for New Mexico's credit in general and for that of Torrence county in particular. The site was donated by the New Mexico Fuel and Iron company and seems to suit the majority of the people. The building of this courthouse will prove of benefit to the county, as it will settle the location of the county seat. There has been considerable contention over the matter and this has been detrimentall to the progress of the county.

The Albuquerque Citizen in its issue of Wednesday last reproduces a descriptive article on New Mexico four columns in length which appeared in the New Years edition of the Denver Republican. In commenting on the article the Citizen very truthfully and very pertinently says

"Paul A. F. Walter, of Santa Fe, one of the well known newspaper men of [illegible] and well written article [illegible]

ADVERTISING NEW MEXICO

New Mexico is in the public eye and is receiving more publicity, especially through the press of the country, than ever before and in the opinion of the Santa Fe New Mexico this will undoubtedly be of great benefit in the fight being waged for statehood by the sunshine territory. Sunday's Denver Post contained a well written description article from the pen of Covernor Curry describing the resources of the territory, the progress it has made and the prospects of the future. It is featured in one of the colored sections of the paper and a picture of New Mexico's executive is also printed along with those of other governors of commonwealths in the Southwest. New Mexico will profit by advertising such as this, in which facts and figures are given to substantiate the story of its growth. The Denver Post's Sunday edition in which this writeup appeared was over 100,000 copies which means that number of people at least are bound to see the article.

DELEGATES TO DRY FARMING CONGRESS

Governor Curry appointed sixteen delegates to represent New Mexico at the annual session of trans-Missouri Dry Farming Congress which will be held Jaunary 22-26 at Salt Lake City, Utah. Included in the list is Ralph E. Twitchell, secretary of the National Irrigation Congress, who is named as chairman of the delegation from this territory.

The forthcoming meeting of the Tran-Missouri Dry Farming Congress will be second convention of the kind. Professor H W. Campbell, of Lincoln, Nebraska, the founder of the so called system of dry farming, and Luther Burbank, the California wizard of plant life, will be among the speakers at the gathering. The objects of the congress as outlined in the official call are as follows:

"The consideration of the best methods of rendering lands of the semiarid West productive where ditch irrigation is impracticable.

"The determination of the best agricultural methods where crop and live stock farming is practicable.

"To encourage the establishment of experimental farms to deteremine the limits of scientific soil culture and seed selections; these farms to be operated under the direction of State and Federal experiment stations or private enterprise.

"To assist the prospective settler in every way to determine what land under scientific soil culture methods is susceptible of crop production.

"To encourage the use of every conservative practical method for developing the sem-arid regions of America."

The New Mexico delegates named by the Governor are: Ralph E. Twitchell, of Las Vegas; George B. Berringer, of Raton; J. C. Dunn, of Alamorgordo; R. P. Donahoo of Tucumcari; Ralph C. Ely, of Deming; J. D. Tinsley, of Las Cruces; W. W. Humble, of Portales; N. S. Belden, of Los Vegas; D. T. Hoskins, of Las Vegas; R. C. Reid of Clovis; John W. Corbett, of Estancia; O. W. Foster, of Raton; M. M. Salazar, of Springer; A. C. Vorhees, of Raton. J. E. McCarty, of Farmington J. L. Zimmerman of Las Vegas.

COAL AT ESTANCIA

"Estancia is excited over a reported discovery of a five foot vein of coal seven miles from this city. J. J. Brown, a well driller, while drilling a well northwest of this city reported that his drill passed through a five foot vein of coal. further explorations are being made.

GOVERNOR CURRY'S CONFIRMATION

The Senate committee on territories yesterday reported, to the Senate favorably the nomination of Governor Curry. This means that the same will be confirmed and that as soon as the senate can get to it which is likely to be any time. Nothing else but a favarable report was expected, nothing else could have been the result. The intimations two or three weeks ago and before the holidays that charges or damaging reports had been filed with the committee protesting against Governor Curry's confirmation were known to be moonshine. There never has been a great unanimity among the people of new Mexico on any public question or any Federal appointment as there is today in the matter of the Governorship of this territory. During five months Governor Curry has filled the executive chair of New Mexico he has demonstrated fully and unequivocally that his selection by the President for this of New Mexico, in est important official position was the most fortunate and best that could possibly have made by Mr. Roosevelt. Facts speak for themselves and the facts in Governor Curry's [illegible] ly and cheerfully [illegible] people of New Mexico [illegible]. If there are any xecep[illegible] will be found so few and [illegible] insignificent as to be ab[illegible] worthy of the least notice.—New Mexican.

TO ESTABLISH NEW MEXICO-TEXAS BOUNDARY

Washington, D. C. Jan. 14.—Congressman Stephens has introduced a bill appropriaing $20,000 or as much thereof as is necessary, to survey and mark the boundary line between Texas and Oklahoma and Texas and New Mexico.

The bill provides that the surveys shall begin at the point where the boundary line between the state of Arkansas and state of Oklahoma crosses red river, and running thence westerly along the red river to the point where the one hundredth degree of longitude west from Greenwich crosses Red river; then in marking the boundary between the state of Oklahoma and the territory of New Mexico and the state of Texas, beginning at the point where the one hundredth degree of longitude intersects the parallel of thirty six degrees and thirty minutes north latitude, as determined by John H. Clark, the commissioner of the part of the United States, in 1850; thence west along said parallel, as marked by said Clark, to the point where it intersects the one hundred and third degree of longitude west of Greenwich, as determined by said Clark, and thence south with the one hundred and third degree of longitude to the thirty second parellel of north latitude; and thence west with the thirty-second degree of north latitude, as detirmined by said clark, to the Rio Grande.

The bill provides, "That the the part of the line run and marked by monuments along thirty-second parallel of north latitude and that part of the line markd by monuments along the one hundred and third degree of longitude west of Greenwich, the same being the east and west and north and south lines between Texas and New Mexico, and run by authority of act of congress approved June 5th 1858, and known as the Clark lines, and that part of the line along the parallel of thirty six degrees and thirty minutes of of north latitude, forming the north boundary line of the pan handle of Texas, and of which said parts of said lines have been confirmed by acts of congress of March 3d, 1891, shall remain the true boundary lines of Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico, but the commissioners appointed under this act shall remark the old Clark monuments and lines where can be found and indentified by the original monuments now found on the ground, or where monuments are now missing but their original position can been shown by competent patrol evidence, or by the topographical maps, or field notes left by Clark; the monuments are so found, or their position so intentified, shall determine the true position and source of boundary lines as as marked by said Clark to the full full extent of the survey made by him; and where no survey was actually originally made on said lines it shall be the duty of the said commissioners to run straight lines between the nearest points determined by the Clark survey, and when said straight lines have been so run, marked, and agreed upon by the commissioners, they shall thereafter form the true boundary lines."—El Paso Herald.

Representative Stephens of Texas has arrived with annual boundary dispute bill, introducing a measure in the house to authotize the president of the United States to appoint a commission to settle the boundary line dispute between Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

NEW MEXICO'S GREAT SHEEP INDUSTRY

Five million eight hundred thousand sheep and lambs were dipped at the first dipping last year, according to an approximate estimate made recently at the local offices of the bureau of animal industry. This is a conservative estimate and brings to light the fact that New Mexico has over a million more sheep than it has been credited with and also forecasts the possibility that New Mexico may within the next few years, be the greatest sheep raising and wool growing state or territory in the union. The last few years have been banner ones for the sheep men of New Mexico, and if present indications are not deceptive yet greater things may be expected of this industry. A prominent sheep man, well posted on the local conditions, when asked to give an estimate of the probable wool crop for the year, replied: It is hardly possible to give a very close estimate at this time as the sheep buyers from other state and territories have not as yet commenced to ship out sheep for winter feeding, but leaving a large margin for such shipments, in the spring New Mexico should have over a million sheep with an average of five pounds of wool, or over, to each animal.

This will amount to about twenty million pounds of wool, taking into account the decrease on account of shrinkage, etc. On account of conditions in the East I am afraid that prices will be somewhat low this season but taking into consideration the fact that the sheep men have enjoyed very prosperous times the past few years we have not very much cause for complaint.—Albuquerque Journal.
