OSCURO NOTES

Happenings of Interest in the Thriving Town South of Us.

We are in the midst of our first real snow storm for this winter.

Clint Arnold has completed his home south of Oscuro, and is moving his furniture.

C. Thornton, from Illinois, has purchased lots here and will begin the erection of a home this week.

J. A. McCallum has completed his residence one half mile from town, and A. McCallum is building.

A number of residences are being erected on ranches near town this week.

Miss Margaret Raffety is now the proud owner of a pony that answers all purposes of a rocking chair.

E. G. Raffety is in Chicago on business connected with the townsite, and expects to secure a crusher and engine for making cement block and a steam plow outfit while there.

Mr. Davies has a gang of three men occupied in building cement blocks.

We regret to report that our popular young society leader, Lee Chase, is on the sick list this week.

A Sunday School has been organized here, with Mr. J. D. Law, superintendent; W. D. Martin, Bible class teacher; and Mrs. Scales, organist.

The well drill is kept busy and is developing water galore in this dry(?) country.

CHAREED WITH LOOTING GOVERNMENT MAILS

Charles W. Mehan Is Bound Over by Federal Grand Jury to Await Trial.

Charles W. Mehan chief clerk in the local postoffice, who was arrested Thursday afternono by United States Marshal Bogh, for intercepting the United States mail, was bound over to await the action of the grand jury, bond, $500. Friends of Mehan furnished the required bond and he was released.

The specific charge on which he was tried yesterday was that of intercepting an official letter addressed to Postmaster R. W. Hopkins. The letter was from the postmaster at Carrizozo, N. M., and was the third one sent from that place in the last few weeks which had not reached its proper destination. The chief clerk at Denver was notified by the postmaster at Carrizozo of the the failure of his official letters to reach the hands of the postmaster at Albuquerque, and an investigation was begun which ended in Mehan being placed under arrest as the person who had taken the letters. A decoy letter was sent from Carrizozo to Albuquerque, addressed to Mr. Hopkins. Postoffice Inspector E. P. Smith had followed the letter up from Carrizozo in order to trace it to its destination and discover, if possible, the person who was intercepting the mail. The letter was "spotted" at Isleta in order to be sure it was in the Albuquerque registry pouch. The pouch containing the decoy letter was taken from the mail room at at the depot to the postoffice and handed to Mehan in the regular manner. All the letters in the bag were properly stamped by him and deposited in the postmaster's mail box with the exception of the one from Carrizozo. Mehan was suspected of having taken it and was taken to task by inspector Smith. Mehan, however, denied all knowledge of having taken it, but when searched, the missing letter was found on his person. It is not known exactly what Mehan's object was in intercepting the Carrizozo letters, but it is presumed that it was done to cover up some former misdeeds. Mehan has been employed in the local postoffice for seven years and has always borne a good reputation. It is said the preliminary hearing yesterday was held merely to bind Mehan over, and that further evidence and developments in the case will be presented by the government when the case comes up for trial. —Albuquerque Journal.

RECKLESS SHOOTING

A few nights ago some unknwon person while practicing with their gun near town or perhaps within the limits, of the town was so reckless with his shooting that he sent a bullet through the ankle of a fine milk cow belonging to Superintendant S. G. Andersin, breaking the bone of the leg. There is really no excuse for such work as this and the person guilty of it, if he could be captured, would be liable to both criminal prosecution and for damages to the party owning the cow as well.

IRGATION ARTICLE

For the purpose of assisting and stimulating better methods in irrigation through the proper and economical use of water in the way of obtaining better results, as has previously been announced, Territorial Engineer Vernon L. Sullivan, is offering a silver cup or trophy to the farmer who will write the best article on the above and forward it to him. The best of these articles to be published throughout the territory in the local papers.

Trophy will have a suitablb engraving of some product grown by irrigation in New Mexico, together with the following: "presented by Vernon L. Sullivan, Territorial Engineer, to the writer of the best article on irrigation in New Mexico."

The instructions regarding the writing of the article as prepared by Mr. Sullivan, are as follows.:

"This article is to be written by farmers who have had actual experience in farming under irrigation and is to show best results you have obtained through the proper and economic use of water.

"The article is to contain not over 1,500 words and is to be sent to Vernon L. Sullivan, territorial engineer Santa Fe, New Mexico, care "Trophy," before August 1, 1908.

"The instructions are broad, and the writer can include ;kind of crops raised, how, when and amount of water used, character of soil and how prepared, including whether it was fertilized or not, also whether how soil was cared for to prevent evaporation, the cost of raising the crop, and what it sold for per acre, what kind of crops are profitable for given soils, climate and altitude or anything that has for its purpose, the gaining of knowledge on better methods of irrigation thus assisting your fellow irrigators.

"There will be three or more disinterested judges to decide who is the winner of the trophy and the articles and trophy will be turned over to the National Irrigation Congress to be held at Albuquerque, September 29th to October 3d, inclusive. The trophy will be presented to the winner on one of of the the days during the irrigation convention in case he attends the the same, otherwise it will be forwarded to him by express.

"The engineer is anxious for those competing for the frophy to send in articles as soon as possible, so that they may be published in local newspapers, in order that the general public may profit by their experience."

MONEY FOR IRRIGATION CONGRESS

According to the New Mexicans now in Washington, the prospects are very good for the passage of a bill making a $25,000 appropriation for the benefit of the Sixteenth National Irrigation Congress, to be held in Albuquerque next September. W. S. Hopewell of Albuquerque, chairman of the board ofcontrol of the Congress, arrived in Washington a few days ago and expects to be there several days. He has joined Governor Curry, National Committeeman, Solomon Luna, Chairman H. O. Bursum of the Republican central committee and other members of the New Mexico delegation.

MAY RESUME LUMBERING AT CLOUDCROFT

Dispatches from WashingtonD. C state that Governor Curry and the delegation from New Mexico, in a consultation with the secretary of the Interior have agreed upon a bill to be reported to Congress, which will permit the resumption of the lumbering operations near Cloudcroft. The bill provides for cutting timber under the supervision of the forest service, from the land on which the title has been in dispute.

TO IMPROVE RANGES.

Washington, D. C.—The government has planned a series of scientific reseeding experiments on several of the National Forest Ranges next spring and summer to determine under what conditions and in what manner those portions of the range which have been seriously damaged by overgrazing may be restored to their former productiveness.

A great deal of the range land in the west is overgrazed and does not carry as much stock as formely. The method of handling stock, particularly sheep, is perhaps more responsible for this than any other cause. But all causes of deterioration and all means for improving the forage crop need to be studied, and the range may be brought into the best condition to meet the imperitive demand of the live stock industry.

The plan is to establish experimental stations in several parts of the country. Probably not more than six of these will be tried at first, but they will be so located as to secure typical conditions. The experiments will be begun on a small scale, on five or six acre tracts. Both native and wild grasses will be tried, but it is believed that the plan of encouraging native grasses will meet with greater success than the introduction of cultivated species, at least in the Rocky Mountain region. In the coast ranges, with their greater rainfall, cultivated grasses are more likely to play an important part in range development.

The ranges of the northwest have not been so seriously damaged by overgrazing as those of the southwest, perhaps because of superior moisture conditions of the northern part of the country. It is a fact, however, that none of the ranges support the stock which they did formerly, and reseeding experiments will therefore be undertaken in this section of the country also.

The method of handling stock is also to be considered. Every stockman knows that stock do not waste as much feed when unrestricted in their movements as when close herded. An experimental pasture was last summer enclosed in the Imnaha National Forest in Oregon, which will be a model for others next season. In this pasture sheep were turned loose without a herder, to shift for themselves. It is too soon to draw positive conclusions from this experiment, but the sheep did well and there was a decided lessening in the loss of forage through its having been trampled. It looks as though a given area of ground can be made to carry a very much larger number of animals when they are allowed to graze free, than when close herded. This fact, if established, will be of decided importance to stockmen.

TERRITORIAL AND GENERAL

Melrose has a new postmaster just appointed.

The Oklahoma Legislature is considering the passage of an anti cigarette law.

It is reported that Gov. Curry and his delegation of Statehood Boomers will remain in Washington and do good work for the territory.

An unknown man was found dead in the tender of a passenger engine at Santa Rosa on the morning of the 3rd. It is supposed that he went to sleep in the tender and that coal was thrown on him from the chute.

Nine horses and a large amount of property were destroyed by fire in El Paso on the morning of the 3rd.

As a remedy for the hobo evil the police of Jaurez, Mexico, have decided to put the gentlemen of ease to work on the street.

A stock company is being formed to put in a waterworks system at Santa Rosa.

The once tough town of El Paso has so far advanced that advertisements of bull fights are no longer allowed in the street cars.

LET THE PEOPLE DECIDE.

The Democratic papers of the territory, and some that do not claim to be democratic, are constantlystantly agitating for the coming election, and holding up as awful examples everything they can find against the management of territorial affairs during the past few years, under Republican administrations.

Perhaps these writers are honest in the belief that things would be better under a change of administration, we will not question their veracity, but what the people want is facts not theories, and an examination of the history of conditions at the time the Republican Party came into power, some years ago, and at the present time will do more to convince the thinking man than volumes of newspaper talk.

A few facts regarding present conditions are briefly given in the following extracts from the report of Governor Curry to the Secretary of the Interior, which has just been issued from the government printing office:

"General Conditions."

"Perfect law and order reigned throughout New Mexico during the past year. Not a single riot marred the annals of the Territory during the past twelve months, and the administration of justice has been a rule, swift and satisfactory to the people. Lawlessnes on the range has been eradicated by the Territorial mounted police, and courts of justice enjoy the complete confidence of the people and officials for their learning and fairness. Perhaps no other Commonwealth has proportionately so little crime and so few grave offences against the law as New Mexico.

"Churches and Morality."

"The Methodist Episcopal church established its first organized church in Albuquerque less than 25 years ago. This church now has 30 preaching stations, 21 churches, 13 parsonages, more than 1,500 members, more than 1,700 pupils in Sunday Schools, and church property valued at $150,000. And, again, this is but an instance, for the Presbyterian, Congregational, Baptist, Episcopal, and other denominations have made similar progress and are equally well established.

"Aside from the prosperity of its religeous institutions, the moral tone of the Territory bears ample evidence of the general uplift, and no more orderly and law abiding people can not be found in all the length and breadth of the United States.

"Finances."

"The finances of the Territory are in splendid condition. There has been a gradual reduction of the bonded indebtedness each year, so that on July 1, 1907, it amounted to only $803,000 and there were balances in the sinking funds amounting to $78,176.90 and in other funds amounting to $310,150.60. The revenues exceed expenditures and all obligations are promptly met. Receipts during the last year by the Territory from all sources were $763,740.76. There has been a commendable improvement in methods of assessment and tax collection, last year the taxes collected being 90 per cent of the total amount due. In every respect the financial outlook is most gratifying.

"Agriculture."

"Wheat, corn, cantaloupes and melons gave splendid returns while the alfalfa crop was fully up to the average despite the loss by late frosts. It is believed that the money value of the crops raised in New Mexico this year exceed $25,000,000."

"Education."

"Considering the poverty and remoteness of many of the country school districts, New Mexico is not ashamed of its educational system. Under great difficulties, especially the difficulty of two languages, a public school system has been established of which every citizen has good reason to be proud. The estimated value of public school property of the territory is 81,000,000, while the bonded indebtedness of schools is $439,650; the total expenditures last year were $484,467, and the balance on hand at the close of the school year exceeded $200,000. There are employed 1,000 teachers, and the total enrollment this fall is almost 50,000 out of a public school population of 80,000 minors between the ages of 5 and 21 years. In addition, several thousand pupils are enrolled in paroquial, private and mission schools."

Lack of space prevents us from quoting more at length, but this is sufficient to show what is being done in the Territory, and it is easy for one who desires to find out who is doing it.

El Paso is becoming a very important horse and mule market, and New Mexico is one of the best regions on earth for growing high class draft and work stock.

Governor Curry estimates the production of farm and field crops in the territory in 1907 to have exceeded $25,000,000. This is only a starter to what the next five years will show.

In New Mexico at the presetn time there are 2,000,000 acres of land under cultivation which are dependant solely on the natural rainfall, windmills or pumps. The acreage can be multiplied by 15 without exhausting the available area.

Let the public education in rural districts be directed largely toward inducing the developing of agriculture, and let the public education in mining districts bear strongly on mining development. There is too much wild shooting in much of the public education of the time.

In the "Municipal Journal and Engineer, a recognized authority on matters of municipal administration, we find this significant statement: "Birmingham, Ala., where the prohibition law went into effect January 1, of this year, is facing a serious financial problem; receipts from the police court have decreased at the rate of $75,000 a year under the new law. The chain gang has diminished from an average of 125 to only 25" Is there not something grimly humorous in the prevailing American system of promoting crime to help meet the expenses of government.

TO IMPROVE RANGES.

Washington, D. C.,—The government has planned a series of scientific reseeding experiments on several of the National Forest Ranges next spring and summer to determine under what conditions and in what manner those portions of the range which have been seriously damaged by overgrazing may be restored to their former productiveness.

A great deal of the range land in the west is overgrazed and does not carry as much stock as formely. The method of handling stock, particularly sheep, is perhaps more responsible for this than any other cause. But all causes of deterioration and all means for improving the forage crop need to be studied, and the range may be brought into the best condition to meet the imperitive demand of the live stock industry.

The plan is to establish experimental stations in several parts of the country. Probably not more than six of these will be tried at first, but they will be so located as to secure typical conditions. The experiments will be begun on a small scale, on five or six acre tracts. Both native and wild grasses will be tried, but it is believed that the plan of encouraging native grasses will meet with greater success than the introduction of cultivated species, at least in the Rocky Mountain region. In the coast ranges, with their greater rainfall, cultivated grasses are more likely to play an important part in range development.

The ranges of the northwest have not been so seriously damaged by overgrazing as those of the southwest, perhaps because of superior moisture conditions of the northern part of the country. It is a fact, however, that none of the ranges support the stock which they did formerly, and reseeding experiments will therefore be undertaken in this section of the country also.

The method of handling stock is also to be considered. Every stockman knows that stock do not waste as much feed when unrestricted in their movements as when close herded. An experimental pasture was last summer enclosed in the Imnaha National Forest in Oregon, which will be a model for others next season. In this pasture sheep were turned loose without a herder, to shift for themselves. It is too soon to draw positive conclusions from this experiment, but the sheep did well, and there was a decided lessening in the loss of forage through its having been trampled. It looks as though a given area of ground can be made to carry a very much larger number of animals when they are allowed to graze free, than when close herded. This fact, if established, will be of decided importance to stockmen.

TERRITORIAL AND GENERAL

Melrose has a new postmaster just appointed.

The Oklahoma Legislature is considering the passage of an anti cigarette law.

It is reported that Gov. Curry and his delegation of Statehood Boomers will remain in Washington and do good work for the territory.

An unknown man was found dead in the tender of a passenger engine at Santa Rosa on the morning of the 3rd. It is supposed that he went to sleep in the tender and that coal was thrown on him from the chute.

Nine horses and a large amount of property were destroyed by fire in El Paso on the morning of the 3rd.

As a remedy for the hobo evil the police of Jaurez, Mexico, have decided to put the gentlemen of ease to work on the street.

A stock company is being formed to put in a waterworks system at Santa Rosa.

The once tough town of El Paso has so far advanced that advertisements of bull fights are no longer allowed in the street cars.

PUBLISHERS ATTENTION

The third monthly meeting of the Bible Class of the Methodist church was held in the town hall Wednesday evening, February 5. Mr. Ray gave an interesting talk to a well-filled hall, after which a pleasant evening was spent in conversation and in singing old-time hymns.

F. H. Anthony traveling representative for the Scientific American, transacted business in our town yesterday and paid this office a visit. He expressed much surprise at finding such a modern printing establishment in such a small town away out here in the southwest.

The growth of Carrizozo makes improvement and enlargement necessary in all branches of trade continually, and the postoffice is one of the places which had to enlarge recently. Last week a new set of boxes was put in to meet the increasing demand. The addition amounted to about fifty boxes and nearly all of them were taken immediately.

Ira O Wetmore transacted business in Lincoln Monday, returning home the same evening.

E. F. Jones and Albert Gschwind, of Oscuro, were in town the first of the week on business. They bring a good report of business conditions down the valley. Mr. Jones has erected a windmill and tank for supplying his home and has a complete waterworks system in his new house recently completed.

H. K. Hatton, representing the Scranton Correspondence School, is transacting business in our town this week.

Last Friday night a lodge of the Woodmen of the World was organized in our town with a good charter membership and bright prospects. A movement had been on foot for some time to get an organizer here for the purpose of starting a lodge, but the grand officers were unable to come, so they deputized W. S. Perry to act in their place and the result is a good lodge.

There were thirteen members who were placed on the roll last Friday night and the following officers were elected: W. S. Perry, Council Commander; Leo Oswald, Banker; E. S. Long, Advisor Lieutenant; Ed. R. Kelley, Escort; Earl Berry, Watchman; Clay VanSchoyck, Clerk; Paul Burton, Centery; and as Managers, J. O. Young, Chas. Calmus and Harry Lacey.

A cordial invitation is extended by this lodge to any visiting members to attend the meetings of the order, and information will be furnished by any of the members to parties wishing to become members.

BOX BALL CONTEST

Hancock & Allen offered two prizes — a fountain pen and a fine briar pipe, for the higher scores made last week at their box ball alleys. The pen was won by Milton Beard and John Hancock captured the pipe. The former ran up a score of 158 and the latter had a credit of 150. In another contest for some prizes, John Hancock took first prize with a score of 159 and J. M. Davis took second with a score of 148. These contests are creating much interest in the game and many people are visiting the alley each evening. Another contest for the same prizes will be held tomorrow night and a gold watch will be offered for the highest score during the next week.

Tht little daughter of W. S. Kirby is quite ill with pneumonia.

The Ernestine Mining company, through its president E. Craig, has made a proposition to the government to buy 50,000 cords of wood on the Gila forest reserve. A road eight miles long will be built into the heart of the best timbered portions of the Gila and the wood is to be brought out with electric motors. The same company contemplates grading a road for autos from Mogollon to Silver City, a distance of 96 miles.

Steve Birchfield, a ranchman living five miles south of Nutt Station, in Luna county, recently drilled a well 350 feet in depth, and struck a vein of hot water, supposed to be the vein from the Faywood Springs. The water is to be tested for medicinal purposes, and it may be that Mr. Birchfield will turn from cattle growing to conducting a health resort.
