A WONDERFUL CURE OF DIARRHOEA.

A PROMINENT VIRGINIA EDITOR

Had Almost Given Up, but Was Brought Back to Perfect Health by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

READ HIS EDITORIAL.

From the Times, Hillsville, Va.

I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and also some testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been brought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man to day and feel as well as I ever did in my life. O. R. Moore. Sold by M. G. Paden.

A monster book weighing 350 pounds, containing clippings from various newspapers about the Admiral and Spanish war will be presented to Admiral Dewey at his reception when he reaches home.

In the trial of Admiral Montejo, who was in command of the Spanish navy in the Philippines, the prosecution has demanded imprisonment for life. The offence of which his government accuses him was his surrender to Admiral Dewey.

Admiral Schley has been assigned command of the South Atlantic Squadron. When informed of the president's action, he replied I always obey orders. The situation of affairs in South Africa and South American Countries makes this post very important and no officer in the navy is more competent to handle this position than Admiral Schley.

A movement is on foot in railroad circles to abolish passes and the free transportation system. This movement is probably the result of the general abuse hurled against rail roads for the promiscuous granting of passes to members of state legislatures and congressmen as well as all other officials or individuals who could be of service to them.

Albert Dreyfus, the martyred captain of the French army, who was convicted of complicity in a machination to convey secret documents to the German government concerning the mobilization of the French army, and sentenced to ten years imprisonment, has been pardoned and released from custody, and with his wife will go to England to live. In this case Loubet has acquitted himself honorably, but the rottenness and stigma of the French army as developed by the proceedings of the Rennes Court martial is thoroughly impressed on the outside world.

A Word to Mothers.

Mothers of children affected with croup or a severe cold need not hesitate to administer Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It contains no opiate nor narcotic in any form and may be given as confidently to the babe as to an adult. The great success that has attended its use in the treatment of colds and croup has won for it the approval and praise it has received through all the United States [illegible]

Official Paper of Lincoln County

Roswell is talking electric lights.

The regular term of the district court for Lincoln county convenes at Lincoln October, 16th.

The El Paso and Northeastern depot at Alamogordo burned last week. The estimated loss is $10,000.

Only three of the Spanish vessels taken by Admiral Dewey in the battle of Manila will be of any service to the United States navy. The Don Juan de Austria, Isla de Cuba and Isla de Luzon.

Dewey is home. He slipped into New York three days ahead of time in order to evade that Hobsonian form of reception so carefully planned for his arrival. In this he was sensible. Dewey doesn't need any platform exhibition to advertise his greatness, his reputation is already made.

The enforcement of the Sunday law at Santa Fe is falling hard on territorial officials, whose imaginative greatness needs considerable internal irrigation to keep it up to the standard so long maintained at the capital. This law will probably be declared unconstitutional by the next legislature.

The month of September has been a period of fairs and expositions all over the country. Colorado and New Mexico are among the number. Denver has been occupied with the Festival of the Mountain and Plain, while Albuquerque has been alive for two weeks with visitors to the territorial fair. Those who attended from this place pronounce this New Mexico's greatest hit in getting up an entertaining fair. The whole territory will receive great benefit from the industrial products on exhibition there, and Albuquerque will receive a great deal of valuable advertising, aside from the currency turned loose in the city during the course of the fair, which, judging from the number of visitors must have been considerable.

The Britains and Boers are still wrangling over the question of whether Great Britain has a right to swallow up the Transvaal republic through the right of, because I can take it away from you if you won't give it to me. England has no more right to demand political suffrage for British subjects in the Transvaal republic than the United States have to demand the same political advantages to be granted to Americans in England. But the Englishman has an insatiable appetite for greed, and the rich gold fields of the South African republic have so obscured his idea of justice that he has persuaded himself that he has a right to control its government. This is the last chapter of the last stand for political independence for the Boers, and should England's demands be accepted, or should they be inforced by force of arms, which seems the most probable conclusion of the difficulties, the Transvaal republic will pass into history and England will have scored another victory in her almost unobstructed march to universal supremacy. This should be a warning for brakes on the wild career of Americans who have been clamoring for that much talked of Anglo-American alliance. Not that this country need fear England or any body else, but for the reason that precedent after precedent clearly demonstrates that when England seeks an alliance with this country it is through no consideration for us but Britain's aggrandizement alone.

Gray Gleanings

Gray, Sept. 26.—W. R. Cozart is now in charge of the barber shop at this place.

M. Simon, a reporter from El Paso, has taken up his abode at Gray.

Another late arrival in our midst is Mr. Miller, an architect and builder from Alamogordo.

Dr. Gillett and family, who have been at Fort Stanton for a time, are now encamped at the mines. The doctor is finding this climate beneficial to his health.

The train is expected to arrive at the mines today, so henceforth we shall be in direct communication with the great outside world and the days of our isolation will belong to the past.

On Wednesday last a large number of friends and acquaintances, together with the immediate family, gathered to pay their last respects to William J. Gray, whose untimely death in the midst of youth, strength and activity, is sincerely mourned. The following address was delivered by Thomas Lea at the grave:

"How brief is the space of human life! It is at best an isthmus twixt two boundless seas the past, the future—two eternities. Our days, and months, and years go by so noiselessly that we scarcely note the footfalls of their coming or their going.

Childhood passes into youth in the twinkling of an eye. A little laughter, an hour's play with a few toys, and the time arrives when childish things must be put away. Youth, exuberant youth, shortly sobers into manhood. A dream or two, a few castles in the air, a fleeting vision of divine possibilities, then the shoulders broaden to bear heavier burdens and the heart recognizes the graver responsibilities of life. Manhood changes to old age like a flash of lightning in a summer cloud. Some hard work; some short years of earnest toil; some days of bitter disappointment; some nights of weary weeping, and then the nerves grow dull, the sight becomes dim, the snows of winter are scattered over the head, the hopes of other days have either ripened or withered. The sun sets, we linger in the twilight for a few moments, and then the night comes down, in which we can neither walk nor work.

You can not hold on to your years, however strong your grasp may be. They will slip away from you in spite of entreaty or menace. When you have stood on the sea shore you have tried to hold a handful of sand. What a useless task it is! It falls between your fingers in spite of your utmost endeavor, and after a while when you open your hand, only a few silvery or golden grains are left, so life escapes, and every present day becomes a yesterday. The clock ticks the time away whether you are hungry or well fed, and the pendulum swings relentlessly whether you are sick or poor.

Dear friends, we are assembled here today to lay away all that is mortal of our friend and neighbor William Gray. It is not necessary to enter into any eulogy of the departed. Many of you who are gathered here knew him intimately for years, and are as competent to judge of his good qualities as I am. I can only say that I knew him to be industrious, sober, a kind husband, a dutiful son and brother, living a life of peace, devoting his time and talents to the welfare and happiness of his family, and friends.

His smiling face will be missed by us all. His cheerful disposition and warm greeting will be seen and heard by us no more on earth. He has crossed the great devide, and we are left behind. Our time shall soon come. We know not when or where. Life at best is but a span. Mother and son husband and wife brothers and sisters must part.

But love is immortal. The mother loves her son though life has fled from the form before us, and death more strongly weaves the the web of love that bound the hearts of our departed friend, and his dear wife, that is left to mourn his loss. And I believe, the love that fills your hearts today, is reciprocated by the soul of him whose body we now commit to the grave.

Taken from our midst in the beauty of young manhood. Until a short time previous to his death, apparently full of manhood and vigor, should be a warning to us, to be ready for the journey we all must take. Let us strive to live so that when our time shall come, death shall have no terror for us.

My prayer to God is, that our parting here, may be followed by a joyful meeting in that home, where death and sorrow never come, and that the family now so sadly bereaved, may meet in Heaven, where love reigns supreme. Mother and father, brothers and sister, husband and wife to part no more forever.

HIS RELIGION.

"To love justice," to long for the right, to love mercy, to pity the suffering, to assist the weak, to forget wrongs and remember benefits—to love the truth, to be sincere, to utter honest words, to love liberty, to wage relentless war against slavery in all its forms, to love wife and child and friend, to make a happy home, to love the beautiful in art, in nature, to cultivate the mind, to be familiar with the mighty thoughts that genius has expressed, the noble deeds of the world; to cultivate courage and cheerfulness to make others happy, to fill life with the splendor of generous acts, the warmth of generous words, to discard error, to destroy superstition, to receive new truths with gladness to cultivate hope, to see the calm beyond the storm, the dawn beyond the night; to do the best that can be done and then be resigned—this is the religion of reason, the creed of science. This satisfies the brain and heart.

"He had not passed on life's highway the stone that marks the highest point, but, being weary for a moment, he lay down by the way-side and using his burden for a pillow, fell into that dreamless sleep that kisses down his eyelids still. While in love with life, and rapture with the world, he passed to silence and pathetic dust."

No Right To Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin rich complexion. It will make a good looking, charming woman of a run down invalid. Only 50 cents at M. G. Padon's Drug Store

A PLEA FOR PEACE.

Bourke Cochran, the ex-congressman who hasn't been heard of since he took the gold side of the money controversy, has written an open letter to President McKinley. He says:

"You will, I am sure, excuse this invasion of your holiday when I explain that its object is to invoke the exercise of a power which Providence seems to have placed in your hands with special reference to a danger now threatening the peace of the world. It can hardly be questioned that a proffer of friendly mediation by you would suffice to delay, if not prevent, the threatened invasion of the Transvaal. If this government be justified in exerting military force to restore order at the other side of the globe, surely it should exert every moral force to preserve order at half the distance. A recourse to arms, which might result in kindling a fearfully destructive conflagration throughout Christendom on such questions as those at issue between Great Britain and the Boer republic, would be an injury to civilized society which all the forces of civilization should combine to resist. The assertion at the point of the bayonet by one power of a right to control or prescribe the conditions governing the electoral franchise in another country, admittedly independent, would be an act of 'criminal aggression,' the enormity of which has been described in clear, vigorous and scathing terms by the present English colonial secretary. You can not be indifferent to the fact that when Mr. Chamberlain denounced as indefensible any suggestion of interference by the British government in the purely domestic affairs of the Transvaal, the return relations between this country and England were strained over the Venezuelan boundary, while now that these relations have become cordial, the same statesman feels emboldened to trample upon his professions, if not to violate his principles.

"An Anglo-American alliance can hardly be a force for the maintenance of justice and the spread of civilization as its advocates contend, if England's foreign policy be marked by respect for justice while the two countries are estranged, and by wanton acts of aggression while their relations are cordial. It is not extravagant or unreasonable to insist that any country seeking alliance with the United States must show some semblance of regard for the moral law, at least during the period of courtship.

"If there be other and sounder reasons than those assigned by the press for the attitude of the British government in South Africa, its position will be strengthened by a disclosure of them. A friendly but urgent tender of your good offices would undoubtedly evoke a full and complete statement on the ground on which the peace and integrity of the Transvaal are threatened. Such a statement would be a powerful obstacle to hostilities, for it would enable the civilized world to form a judgment on the merits of the controversy and in all probability that judgment would impose itself on both disputants. Public opinion is a force which in these days no nation can disregard. Allow me to add that these suggestions are offered solely from a regard for the welfare of humanity and the true glory of our flag, which I hope will remain forever inseparable."

NEW GAME LAW.

The last session of the legislature changed the game law of the territory as follows: For Lincoln county the act makes it unlawful to kill, wound, snare or trap any quail, wild turkey and etc., or to kill, wound or in any way destroy any antelope, deer, elk or mountain sheep except that said bi, ls or animals, the animals being with horns, may be killed with a gun during the months of October, November, and December. This date also applies to all the southern countries, but in the more northern countries the season opens one month earlier.

Warning.

All persons are hereby cautioned against the discharging of firearms within three hundred yards of any inhabited house. The penalty for violation is a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding three years, or both.

Numerous complaints having been received relative to the discharge of firearms, violators of the law will be held to a strict accountability.
