White Oaks Whiffs

—Well, White Oaks, notwithstanding the contingent of respectable citizens, building material, and brawn she has furnished for the upbuiling of Carrizozo, is still something more than a wide scooped-out place in the canyon; she still has about the only working and paying gold mines in this part of the eminent domain; the best coal west of anywhere and plenty of it, and more healthy ozone than a million people can breath.

That her gold mines are no fake is proven by the fact that about three years ago three young men took a lease and bond on one of them, after one or two companies had fizzled out, and without any capital to start on, have run it constantly ever since, have paid their running expenses and their debts and the report goes, have just about paid out on the mine.

Should any one dispute our coal properties we stand ready to deliver the goods.

Editorials.

The New Mexico Judiciary.

The Democratic newspapers of New Mexico have grabbed at the editorial printed in Colliers Weekly a short time ago refering to the New Mexico Supreme Court and the Legislature as being in the hands and the control of the railroads. The article is doubtless inauthentic and was not written upon fact. Numerus proofs that a majority of the statements made are untrue have been produced and published. We might quote the following letters from Judge Cooley and Judge Abbot which speak for themselves.

Alamogordo, N. M., Oct. 8. 1909

"The cases refered to were decided before I was on the bench and I am inclined to think before I even came to the territory. Moreover the titles of the cases are not specified so it is impossible to discuss them in detail. Such an editorial to be fair or to be persuasive to the mind of any lawyer or any right minded citizen ought to give the titles of the cases and point out the errors of law in the decision refered to.

"A Judge who fails to decide in favor of a railroad when the law refering to the case is on its side is precisely as unfit for the office he holds as a judge who is susceptible to corporate influence and not more so. There is nothing to choose between a demagogue and a corruptionist on the bench.

"A Judge takes an oath to do equal justice between the rich and the poor and he should observe that oath in spirit and in letter. Justice should not be administered on the principles of a Justice of Peace who, when a lawyer took an exception to a ruling remarked: What are you kicking about? I ruled in your favor the last time.

"ALFORD W. COOLEY."

"I think Judge Mann's statement completely covers the case," said Judge Ira A. Abbott, when asked for an opinion as to the editoral in Colliers Weekly attacking the New Mexico supreme court. "I do not recall that there has been a single injury case before the New Mexico Supreme Court since I have been a member of the court. Mistakes in the rush and hurry of preparation of a daily newspaper are sometimes excusible: but there is no excuse for a misstatement of facts in a periodical such as Colliers. The magazine should have taken the trouble to ascertain the facts before printing this editorial.

Accomodations For Court

As court time approaches, those from the surrouding communities, who will necessarily attend the session, must look to the accomodations afforded in our city. Carrizozo may not have reached the point where it has the flowing fields of alfalfa, the large orchards of fruit, and the bountious gardens of vegetables to any great extend, as it will in the future. But we are certainly 'there' when it comes to accomodations and all outsiders are assured of comfort, and plenty to eat, while attending Court, such as has never before been known in the court sessions of Lincoln County. Among the hostelries and restaurants we might name as examples:

The Railroad Hotel, W. F. Guerney Prop., 30 rooms, lunch counter and dinning room.

Temple Hotel, Mrs. Anna E. Long, Prop., 16 rooms, Meals.

Burrell House, J. W. Craig, Prop., 18 rooms, Meals.

Grand View Hotel, Mrs. Franklin, Prop., 18 rooms.

City Hotel, O. M. Moody, Prop., 18 rooms.

White House Resturant, F. L. Smith, Prop., Always Open.

American Eating House, Mrs. Dugger, Prop.

There are also accomodations to be found for 200 others in private families and private boarding houses such as Colliers and Youmans. Everyone attending Court is cordially invited to make the OUTLOOK OFFICE their headquarters and all information will be cheerfully given on any points as to accomodations etc.

Why Not A Militia For Carrizozo

Each year the Territory of New Mexico appropriates ten thousand dollars to build an Armory in some town in the Territory. Next year Alamogordo expects to receive the appropriation, we say Expects. Carrizozo is fully large enough and capable of supporting a Militia and there is no apparent reason why there should not be a company organized. A movement is already on foot to form such a National Guard and only needs the cooperation of our citizens. A meeting will soon be called for organization and it is the duty of every male person fitted for Militia service to turn out andboost the movement along.

WOULD ABOLISH EARRINGS.

Physician Tells of Fatal Case of Consumption Caused by the Ornament—Other Dangers.

"A young girl died of consumption in a strange way last week," said a physician. "It was sad. She was a healthy, beautiful girl a few months ago.

"But a few months ago a school friend of hers, being taken off by tuberculosis, left my patient a pair of earrings. My patient wore the earrings, which must have been alive with tubercule bacilli, and in a short time a tubercular sore manifested itself in the perforation of her left ear.

"In putting in the ring, she had broken the skin, inoculating herself with consumption. It was consumption of the galloping kind. It only took a few months to kill her.

"We talk about the corset danger," the physician concluded, "but it is nothing beside the earring danger. Earrings, even the clip sort that don't require pierced ears, cause a dreadful amount of eczema, and the foolish law permitting jewelers to pierce the ear is responsible for an equally dreadful amount of blood poisoning."

AN OMINOUS BEGINNING.

"Even if a man pays for a marriage license in copper cents, Clerk Scully probably has no right to refuse to issue the license, but he must feel like it when he sees a handful of chicken feed shoved toward him," said a man who has personal knowledge of the working of the matrimonial bureau. "Many a license is bought with small coins of various denominations. Of course, a dollar in nickels and dimes is as good to the city as a whole paper bill, but the outlook for the bride and bridegroom seems dubious. A man who cannot scrape up anything but fractional currency to buy a marriage license with must be pretty hard pushed, indeed, and it looks as if he is rushing into matrimony New York Times.

BRIEF WILLS.

Ten lines on a scrap of paper were sufficient to dispose of the immense fortune of the late Mr. Henry Barnato. The will was not the shortest on record, but it ran the record close. Probably the briefest testament was that of a Streatham gentleman who had often declared he would make his will on a half sheet of note paper. Probably he had Balfourian leanings in politics. He did as he had said, and wrote "All for mother" on a bit of paper. The will was signed "C. T." and witnessed by the testator's two sons. The document was admitted to probate in due course.—Pall Mall Gazette.

WE'VE ALL HEARD IT.

"Why do people insist on telling stories about the time their house was on fire? All the stories are alike."

"And always have been. When Eve told Methuselah about the fire in the garden of Eden she said, 'And we only escaped in the clothes we had on.'"

SACRED SPOT FOR AMERICANS

Battlefield of Saratoga Might with Much Propriety Be Preserved by the Nation.

Of all the famous fields of the northern gateway, the Hudson-Champlain route, that of Saratoga, must remain the first, having already earned inclusion among the few decisive battles of the world. It would be far from unfortunate if a fraction of the temporary enthusiasm and transient interest now turning toward this celebration might find permanent expression in a proper preservation, either as a state or national park, of this battlefield where the first great victory of the revolution was won, and where the American born, the continentals, unaided by the French, captured for the first and last time a British army; for though the surrender took place a few miles beyond and to the northward, it was at Saratoga, on the field above Stillwater and before Bemis heights, that the fate of Burgoyne's army was sealed.

HOW TO BE AN ORATOR.

A politician, says a writer in Tit-Bits, was congratulated upon his oratory. He had made an excellent speech, and the reporters were asking him to tell them, so that they might tell their papers, how he did it. "I am afraid that oratory comes natural if it comes at all," said the speaker, and proceeded to quote an old Yorkshireman on the subject.

"Tha wants to be a public speyker, dos tha, lad," Job would say, "an' tha thinks Aw'm tha chep to put tha up to a wrinkle aboot it? Tha's right, I awm. Now, lark tha! When tha rises to meck tha speych, hit taable and oopen thy mouth. If nowt comes, tak a sup o' water an' hit taable again. Then oopen thy mouth wider than afoor. Then, if nowt comes, tak thysen off, and leave public speykin' to such as me."—Youth's Companion.

HIS DEFINITIONS.

"Faith," said Brother Williams, "is de faculty what kin turn de song er a sawmill into de hallelujah er de angels."

"And what is hope?" he was asked.

"Hope is de faculty what keeps you lookin' fer somethin' what you never gits!"—Atlanta Constitution

PERSEVERING SUFFRAGETTES.

London was somewhat shocked and amused the other day to discover that the glass front of the portrait of Prime Minister Asquith at the Royal academy exhibition had been placarded with a bill inscribed, "Votes for Women."

A POOR TRADE.

"What good did your daughter get from that fashionable boarding school?"

"I don't know. She lost all her manners and brought back a lot of airs."—Exchange.

SAVED BY "HOBOES"

RAILROAD DISASTERS AVERTED BY TRAMPS.

Notable Instances Where Wanderers Have Warned Engineers of Danger Ahead—Philosophy Displayed by "Springfield Mike."

Promptitude and presence of mind on the part of a "Weary Willie," who was resting on a railroad embankment in May last year, enabled him to save a mail train from possible disaster. Glancing idly down the line, he suddenly noticed that the heavy rains had washed a large quantity of earth on to a portion of the lines—quite sufficient to derail the express, which he noticed was already signaled. Quickly stripping off his tattered coat, he rushed down the line towards the oncoming train, frantically waving his coat above his head. The express came dashing on, the driver not noticing the tramp, owing to a curve in the line, until the train was almost on top of him. Luckily he saw him just as the tramp sprang from the track to escape being killed, and the train was brought to a standstill within a short distance of the obstruction.

It was in the same month, as reported in an American paper, that a crowded express train on the New Haven railway was saved from disaster by a tramp, who, walking along the track, suddenly discovered that several feet of rail had either been cut or broken. Almost at the same moment he heard the whistle of an engine. It was an express excursion, and, running on towards the curve, he saw the train only a short distance off. Pulling out his red bandanna, he rushed forward, waving it above his head and shouting with all the strength of his lungs. The driver saw him and stopped the train, which in a few seconds more might have plunged down the embankment.

Needless to say, the passengers, when they realized how near they had been to death, showered thanks and rewards on the tramp, who gave his name as "Springfield Mike." The driver wished to take him to the terminus, in order that he might be further rewarded by the company, but Mike would have none of it. "Reward," he cried; "why, I owe the railway for a good many rides, and I guess this makes it square."

Five years ago, almost to the day, a dastardly attempt was made to wreck the Boston express by cutting a portion of the rail at night-time and laying it across the track. A half-starved tramp named Bibby, who was walking along the track to the next town, stumbled over the obstruction. Feeling round him, he was horrified to find a gap in the rails, and in a flash he recognized the work of wreckers.

In spite of weakness and fatigue, he rushed along the track and managed to reach the next station, half a mile away, just as the express was approaching the station. Rushing into the night operator's box, Bibby shouted, "Stop the train; there's a-going to be a wreck if you don't!" The operator immediately sprang for a red lantern, rushed out on the track, and gave the signal just in time. When the important part the tramp had played in saving the train became known to the passengers they contributed enough money to keep him from starving for months, and ultimately the company provided him with a job for life.

EXTENDING LINES IN MEXICO

American Capital a Dominant Factor in the Building of Railroads for Diaz.

When Diaz became the constitution al president of Mexico in 1877 the country had about 350 miles of railroad, says the New York Sun. National affairs were in a state of disorder and demoralization. Investment was little else than a gamble, offering no special temptation to Americans, who were at that time occupied with the projects which resulted in the construction of some 85,000 miles of American railroad in 12 years (1879-1890). There was nothing "supine" in American railroad energy and capital at that time. They were actively employed in more promising enterprises at home. Moreover, it was during the earlier years of that time that enterprising Bostonians undertook and completed the construction of the 1,200 mile line from the Texas border to the Mexican capital, an enterprise of about four times the magnitude of the Vera Cruz line built a few years earlier by Europeans.

Since that time American capital has been the strongest individual factor in Mexico's railroad system, and is now the dominant factor. Mexico now has about 12,500 miles of railroad. Out of the total about 7,000 miles are under control of the recently effected consolidation known as the National Railroads of Mexico. In this system the government holds a majority interest, but the actual management is in the hands of capable and experienced American officials, and the capital invested, excepting the holdings of the government, is largely American.

In the railroad policy pursued by President Diaz practically from the time of his inauguration, more than 30 years ago, there have been two major purposes—namely: The development of Mexico's vast resources and the creation of a system of military highways as factors in the maintenance of political peace and public order. Both undertakings have been wonderfully successful.

Take Their Time for Lunch.

Railroad travelers don't need to go hungry or thirsty in Europe. On every station platform there is a small army of men, women and children selling fruit, wine, beer, sandwiches and baskets of lunch. You lean out of a car window and get a glass of beer and a wienerwurst, for instance, and hand the vendor probably six or seven cents. But you don't have to gulp the beer down and give the glass back. Take your time for it and leave the glass in the car. The train employes gather up the empty glasses at the end of the trip and put them into circulation again by handing them over to other vendors.

Got Better All the Time.

A party of tourists were doing Boston and Cambridge. Said one, "So this is the cemetery where they say James Russell Lowell, as a small boy, went out one Halloween night to look for ghosts. I wonder which stone he was hiding behind, and if he really did see a ghost?" "I can't tell you, ma'am," answered the guide, "but over here lies a man who had three wives. On the stone of the first one he had inscribed, 'My Wife'; on the stone of the second, 'My Dear Wife,' and on that of the third, 'My Beloved Wife.' If any ghost tries walking around here it ought to be that first wife."

A Quick Lunch.

Lunch at a railroad station means, for some people, two pieces of half-raw dough, called bread; a sample of butter hidden beside a small scrap of partially cooked ham, that won't come out. And the description is not complete without the admission that it is "grabbed" and "bolted" while the clock hand jumps from minute to minute. It doesn't sound nice, and the description ought to be enough to insure a well-developed case of indigestion.

HURRICANE HITS KEY WEST, FLA.

VAST DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY AND LOOTERS PLUNDERING THE CITY.

CALL SENT FOR TROOPS

MAYOR, UNABLE TO COPE WITH SITUATION, DECLARES MARTIAL LAW.

Key West, Fla.—As a result of the hurricane which struck the southern coast of Florida today Key West Monday night is a mass of wreckage and the damage to property is estimated at $2,000,000. Martial law was proclaimed and the Key West guard took charge of the city.

The United States government has been asked to dispatch troops here without delay. Chaos reigns on every hand, and few people remained in their homes. Hundreds of houses were totally wrecked or damaged.

Not only is the hurricane the worst that Key West has ever experienced, but the local weather observer said that the indications are that the entire east coast of Florida would suffer.

Of 100 vessels in the harbor only five have remained at anchor, the others having either gone to sea or been washed up on the beaches. The streets along the water front are a mass of wreckage.

Brick as well as frame buildings throughout the city suffered from the hurricane and many miraculous escapes from death have been reported.

Several factories were partly destroyed, including the Havana-American, Martinez, Nichols, Ruy Lopez, Manuel Lopez, Fleitas Toreys, Cortez and Wolf cigar factories. The top of the First National Bank building was blown off, and the postoffice damaged.

It is known that many have suffered serious injury, and unconfirmed reports say that several lives have been lost.

The storm reached its height at 1 o'clock Monday, when the wind had an estimated velocity of 100 miles an hour. This was a hard, steady blow from 8 a. m. to 3 p. m., when the wind began to die down, and by 4 o'clock the center of the hurricane had passed this point.

As soon as the wind had subsided plundering began. The city police force was unable to cope with the situation, and the mayor decided to take stringent measures to suppress looting, his proclamation of martial law resulting. Almost every nationality is represented among the city's population of more than 20,000, about one-half of whom are employed in cigar manufacturing, sponge fisheries and salvage companies.

Morse Back in Prison.

New York.—Unless the Supreme Court of the United States reverses the decision or the President of the United States interferes, Charles W. Morse, one-time "ice king," coastwise steamship line organizer, banker and capitalist, will serve fifteen years at hard labor in the federal prison at Atlanta, Georgia.

After having been at liberty under $125,000 bail since June 17th last, he is back in the Tombs prison on account of a decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals Monday sustaining the judgment of the lower Federal Court, which found him guilty in November last of violating the National banking laws.

Richest Woman in the World.

New York.—Mrs. Mary Harriman, widow of Edward H. Harriman, is the richest woman in the world. The estate left by the railroad magnate, according to a statement made by a close friend and business associate, is valued at $300,000,000. Although out of this Mr. Harriman, the day before he died, gave each of his children $6,000,000 and other relatives $2,000,000 more, the amount, $267,000,000, which goes to the widow, places her in possession of a fortune beside which the wealth of Mrs. Hetty Green and Mrs. Russell Sage seems small indeed.

Burlington Pacific Extension.

San Francisco.—That J. J. Hill is considering the extension of the Burlington railroad from Denver to the Pacific coast is stated by T. B. Walker, a Minneapolis millionaire, who has close relations with the railway magnate. He is quoted as follows: "In a talk we had recently, Hill told me that he did not believe that a line from San Francisco north would be of great advantage, but that the extension of the Burlington to this city, probably from the end of the Cheyenne or Guernsey branch, would be."

RIVAL AMERICA IN LUXURY

Sleeping Cars in India May Be Said to Be Even Better Equipped Than Are Ours.

The latest sleeping cars in India are fitted luxuriously. Like most foreign cars they are divided into compartments, but a corridor runs from end to end of the car. Each compartment contains two berths. The upper berth is of peculiarly ingenious design, so compactly constructed that a casual observer would fail to see how it can be lowered.

The compartments are large enough to accommodate the luggage that any two persons can require, and are fitted up with all kinds of conveniences. Every compartment has an electric fan under the control of the passengers, and of the three electric lamps one is a small night lamp that can be kept burning all night without inconvenience.

If a party is too large for a single compartment, says the Railroad Man's Magazine, a sliding door connecting with the adjoining compartment can be thrown open. On the other hand, if the passenger desires he can lock his door, pull down his Venetian blinds and be secure from intrusion.

At each end of the coach is a roomy bathroom, with a large bath half sunk in the floor, the walls lined with mirrors, and equipped with ever imaginable sanitary device. There is also a servant's compartment. It is said that this coach has been approved by the railroad board as the standard type for Indian rolling stock.

Advantage in Electricity.

None of the railroad companies which have adopted electricity in the regular service of moving trains, seems disposed to give out any figures showing the cost of operation, but it is declared that in point of convenience and regularity of service the electric has shown a decided superiority over the steam service.

For Future Railroad Ties.

During the last season the Pennsylvania Railroad Company set out 203,[illegible] trees, including pines, larches, spruce and hardwoods.

Facts For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Minneapolis, Minn.:—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women, I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. Within three months I was a perfectly well woman.

"I want this letter made public to show the benefits to be derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. John G. Moldan, 2115 Second St. North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

PROGRESS IN AVIATION.

The significance of the progress in aviation is not to be found so much in the flight of Bleriot across the English channel, in the successful tests of the Wright machine, or in the forthcoming contests at Rheims, as it is in the less conspicuous events. A New York firm advertises its ability to supply aeroplanes to order in 48 days. Another New York firm establishes an aerial garage on the roof of a building. A Dayton man buys a balloon as a present for his 18-year-old daughter. These and other instances, making due allowance for the element of fiction, indicate a growing belief in the general utility of aeroplanes and dirigible balloons and a growing conviction that they are adaptable for other than military purposes. The military idea has been dominant in all thus far attempted in aviation, but now the Wright brothers, the most conservative of the successful aviators, suggest the use of aeroplanes in carrying mails, and men of wealth are contemplating the possible use of the air as an exciting recreation.

The military maneuvres in Massachusetts, though subject to the "chaffing" which always attends a mock contest, when there is immunity from danger, are really of the stuff of which war is made. When Dewey's ships were burning powder by firing at targets off the coast of Asia, the commanders of the vessels under some flags were disposed to be amused. But when Dewey's guns were called upon to go up against the real thing in war the skill obtained in the mock cannonading submerged the enemy almost before he could fire a second round. Not only the militia but the regulars are benefited by the practice game, for theories are at the best when they have been sent out on the road to try themselves.

In Poplar, a London district where 60 out of every 1,000 persons rank as paupers, when a man, his wife and three children throw themselves on the poor law the practice is to send the man to the guardians' farm at Laindon in Essex, where he is asked to do a very little work in return for comfortable maintenance, clothing and a little pocket money. His wife is allowed $3.75 a week for herself and her children, which is probably more than she received from her husband when he was in full work, and she is relieved of the expense of feeding him. She also receives grants of boots and clothing for herself and her children, and her husband is allowed to visit her at regular intervals.

The New York authorities are making matters lively for reckless automobilists. Monday a chauffeur who, while intoxicated, had driven his machine on Madison avenue in such a manner as to endanger the lives of a number of passengers in a street car with which he narrowly escaped collision, was arrested and locked up. The following morning he was taken before a police magistrate, who sentenced him to six months' imprisonment and informed him that on his return from "the island" he will be subjected to trial in the court of special sessions on the charge of operating a machine without a chauffeur's license. Wholesome severity in such cases can hardly fail to have a good effect.

Here is a man who puts a high value on American citizenship, and who, it may be assumed, will never abuse the privileges thus obtained. He is George Patton, a marine engineer of English birth, employed in the government service in Manila and elsewhere. He awaited anxiously the expiration of the time limit for taking out his first naturalization papers, and he traveled 14,000 miles and spent $1,300 in his determination to get to Philadelphia and make the proper application. Incidentally he experienced a shipwreck and other "dangers of the sea" on route. This man's naturalization certificate is likely to have a prominent place among his personal possessions.

A Pittsburg report says prisoners are going insane by wholesale in Riverside penitentiary because of enforced idleness. A great reform in this respect is needed in many states. In the south convicts are set at constructing roads, thus rendering important public service and being h[illegible] themselves by national occupation.

NEW MEXICO TERRITORIAL NEWS

Denounces Collier's Charge.

"It is false, unjust and malicious," says Former Justice Edward A. Mann of the New Mexico Supreme Court, of an editorial in Collier's Weekly of October 3d, which attacks the Supreme Court of New Mexico vigorously, declaring the tribunal to be entirely under the domination of the railroad interests.

Judge Mann, in an interview at Albuquerque, declared the allegations of Collier's were absolutely untrue and, referring to the records, positively refuted each and every count of the Collier indictment.

"It is cowardly for persons outside the jurisdiction of the court to make such statements where contempt proceedings are impossible," said Judge Mann. The editorial referred to states that out of thirty-four cases before the New Mexico Supreme Court in which the railroads were parties, twenty-eight were decided in favor of the railroads.

Judge Mann shows by the records that since the present judges have been on the bench, only twelve railroad cases have come before the court, and only part of these have been decided in favor of the railroads.

Judge Mann shows where the law has been strictly interpreted in each case. He points to the fact that of eleven cases of this nature appealed to the United States Supreme Court, only one was reversed.

In conclusion, Judge Mann asked if Collier's means to infer that the Supreme Court of the United States is also corrupt, it having affirmed the New Mexico decisions.

Sheriff Shoots Cattleman.

An Albuquerque dispatch of the 8th inst. says: John L. Cox, a prominent cattleman of Sierra county, was shot and seriously wounded by Sheriff Kendall of that county, at Hillsboro last night. The sheriff attempted to attach horses belonging to Cox, a quarrel followed and Cox struck the sheriff, whereupon Kendall drew his revolver and fired twice, one bullet piercing the groin of Cox and another making a flesh wound in his back. Cox will recover.

There has been ill feeling between the men of long standing. Cox achieved notoriety as a handy man with his gun some years ago, in trying to liberate a friend from a Mexican prison at Juarez, Mexico, when, with two six-shooters, Cox held a score of guards at bay, single handed, until he escaped across the border.

Murder of Trujillo.

A Santa Fe dispatch of the 7th inst. says: District Attorney Alexander Reed of Tierra Amarilla, who arrived today, brought details of the killing of Jose Trujillo, a well-to-do and well known stock owner of Rio Arriba county, who has many relatives in Santa Fe.

Trujillo was in attendance at a dance at Lumberton when Pablo Martinez, an ex-convict, who was under the influence of liquor, walked up and shot Trujillo through the heart. In the confusion that followed Martinez escaped. He served four years in the penitentiary for assault with intent to kill and was indicted this year for wife-beating, but his wife begged so hard for him that the indictment was quashed.

An Albuquerque dispatch of the 4th inst., says: Arthur Yanow, aged sixteen, son of Henry Yanow, a prominent merchant, is missing and foul play is suspected. The boy left this morning to attend school as usual, riding a new bicycle, and up to a late hour tonight no trace of him has been found. His parents are frantic.

C. F. Spader of Bernalillo, N. M., former commissioner of Sandoval county, and a well-known ranchman and merchant, has announced his candidacy for the position of United States marshal for New Mexico. He claims to have influential backing in the East. Other candidates, beside the present incumbent, C. M. Foraker, are Ed Burke of Santa Fe and T. S. Hubbell, former sheriff of Bernalillo county.

"The New Mexico National Guard are not mollycoddles and will participate in the war maneuvers of the regular army next year," said Adjt. Gen. R. A. Ford when shown an Associated Press dispatch saying the War Department on account of the failure of the Massachusetts militia to make good at the recent maneuvers, would not ask the militia to join the war maneuvers in the future. General Ford says it will be optional in future for the National Guard to participate in these maneuvers or to chose lighter duties, but as for the New Mexico National Guard it wants all that is coming to it in war maneuvers.

Estrella's Spectacular Death.

Estrella, or Star, for forty years the friend of the paleface and enemy of the Comanches and Cheyennes, with whom he engaged in many a bloody bout, died at Taos in a spectacular fashion.

He had gone to bring a load of wood from the mountains and was overcome by an attack of heart failure. Wrapping his blanket about him, he laid down in the wagon to die, asking his companion to leave him. A moment afterward the horses ran away and, jumping over a high cliff, dashed Estrella's body against a pinon tree. One of the horses was killed and the wagon was reduced to splinters.

Estrella's body was picked up later and buried in the old Taos cemetery. He was governor of the pueblo last year and his brother is this year's Governor. Estrella was a close friend of Kit Carson and for forty years held many important offices in his village, becoming widely known. He led his people in several battles in the early days with Comanches and Cheyennes, who in their raids would invade the Pueblo country.

Water Right Conflict.

A Santa Fe dispatch of the 6th inst. says: A conflict over water rights that will become as historic as the ten years' legal battle over the Elephant-Buttes project, was inaugurated today by the filing of an application of the trustees of the Las Vegas grant for 115 second feet, all the waters of the Sapello flowing into the Mora, and the Gallinas, Arroyo Pecos, San Guijela and tributaries flowing into the Pecos, and for the storage of 80,000 acre feet annually in four immense rearvoirs, with a capacity of 43,681 acre feet each.

Canals fifty miles in length are to take the water into and out of the reservoirs. The project is identical with the one filed upon by the United States reclamation service under the name of the Las Vegas project, three years ago.

The grant board claims its right under the treaty of Guadalupe, Hidalgo, and because of the reclamation service, in abandoning the project, relinquished all of its rights to the board.

Two months ago A. A. Jones of Las Vegas made application for the use of part of the waters claimed, for an immense private irrigation project.

A battle royal over these water rights is expected. The Las Vegas project is to cost $750,000 and the dams and headgates are to be of steel, concrete and timbers.

The coroner's jury in the Gertrude Montgomery case at Santa Fe brought in an unanimous verdict of suicide.

Bent lodge, A. F. and A. M., was instituted at Taos by Deputy Grand Master John A. Cutler of Raton, and a number of Santa Fe Masons. The lodge is named in honor of Governor Bent, who was assassinated, and will take special care to preserve the grave at Taos of Kit Carson, who was a member of Santa Fe lodge, as well as the Kit Carson house and other monuments associated with the famous scout.

A $7,000 irrigation project in Southern Eddy county, on the Texas boundary, was approved on the 7th inst. by Territorial Engineer Sullivan and the right granted to take waters out of the Pecos to fill a reservoir to hold 110,000 acre feet. He also approved the application for sixty second feet out of the Navajo on the New Mexico-Colorado line, to reclaim 8,000 acres around Lumberton, Rio Arriba county, at a cost of $40,000.

Hugh Lewis, Jr., a prominent property owner, died at Roswell on the 4th inst., as the result of taking morphine with suicidal intent, owing to family troubles. Supposing the man to be asleep, the widow and three children left early in the morning for Gonzales, Texas, to appeal to Lewis' father to settle their domestic difficulty. They returned when they received word that Lewis was dead.

Territorial Engineer Sullivan recently returned to Santa Fe from Lincoln county, where he approved the survey of the Carrizozo-Lincoln-Roswell scenic highway over the White mountains, to be nearly 100 miles long. He had the county commissioners declare the survey a public highway. The board donated $2,500 to the Territorial Good Roads Commission, so that it can begin work on the road at once, without waiting for the territorial appropriation to become available December 1st. The steepest grade on the road will be over Nogal mountain, 5 per cent, but it is 25 per cent at present.

Ready for New Mexico Fair.

One week from tomorrow, says the Albuquerque Journal of the 3rd inst., the twenty-ninth annual New Mexico fair will open for business. For six days Albuquerque will be a full grown city; the streets and hotels crowded, the whole territory represented in the crowds; for it is conceded that this year's fair is going to bring the biggest crowd we have ever had to Albuquerque. After a spring and part of a summer of more or less depressing business conditions, the late summer and early fall have brought a revival of business and industrial activity which was retarded by the tail end of the panic, which reached New Mexico in 1908. Everybody is feeling good and everybody is looking for recreation. The annual New Mexico fair this year is going to offer recreation in bunches. In all the twenty-nine years of its history the fair association has never been able to offer such an extensive schedule of amusements as will be presented next week. Former fairs have had first-class carnival companies, first-class races, first-class features, but no former fair has combined them all as this one will do.

The Journal goes on to enumerate the attractions as follows:

In the first place the fair association has secured the best carnival company on earth.

The racing program will be the best on record. It is made up this year chiefly of running events.

This year the baseball will be by teams made up strictly of local players. Teams are coming from half a dozen southwestern cities and the play promises to be fast and clean.

Two troops of United States cavalry will be attendance during the fair and will give daily exhibitions, drills and sham battles. The troopers will compete in hurdle races, Roman races, monkey drills and in the other exciting exhibitions for which the cavalry of the United States regular army is world famous.

During the fair several of the exciting cowboy relay races will be run. Each of these races will be for five miles, with a change of saddle and bridle at each half mile.

Added to these standard amusements which have been features of former fairs will be several innovations which have not been presented in New Mexico before. First of these will be two flights daily by the Strobel airship, the first airship to come to this part of the southwest. Each afternoon the airship will make a flight from the fair grounds to Albuquerque and return and each evening followed by a searchlight, the ship will sail over the city.

The first exhibition of pushball, a magnificent game for horsemen, will be presented each day during the fair. Each troop of the cavalrymen has its pushball team.

The Indians who are coming will run several Marathon races and the first full Marathon ever attempted in the Rocky mountain region will be pulled off.

One new feature will be a relay race for the baseball teams entering the fair tournament.

In spite of the fact that the season has not been a good one in many of the fruit-growing districts of the territory, the resources exhibit will be by no means unimportant. The Pecos valley, the Mesilla valley, Las Cruces and several others of the irrigated districts will be represented and the dry farming districts promise to make a showing that will prove astonishing. The dry farming districts are urged to especial activity this year because of the unfavorable reports which have gone out concerning several of them. Clovis, the Estancia valley, Las Vegas and, in fact, practically every dry farming district in the territory is going to be represented with exhibits.

This year's fair gains added importance from the visit here in Friday, October 15th, of President W. H. Taft. Albuquerque has entertained Presidents of the United States before, but the city has never had the honor of entertaining a President and a fair crowd at the same time.

Territorial Traveling Auditor Safford on the 2d inst., completed compiling the assessment rolls of the territory for 1909. The total is $63,755,082.67, a gain of 15 per cent. over last year. In the classification railroads lead with $15,000,000; city property with $11,000,000 is second, and then comes agricultural land, $9,000,000; grazing land, $8,000,000; cattle, $4,500,000; merchandise, $2,760,000; sheep, $2,500,000 and horses, $1,650,000.

Six prominent men at Roswell were fined $60 and costs each for violating the anti-gambling law as the result of a raid on a poker game Saturday night, ordered by Mayor Richardson. The alleged game was running in a room in a hotel. It is understood that the raid had been ordered some time before by the mayor, but the police refused to act and a big shakeup in the city government is expected as a result of the attempt to enforce the anti-gambling law. City Attorney Bowers, who resigned because he said the police would not enforce the law, may reconsider his resignation.

FREED AT LAST

From the Awful Tortures of Kidney Disease.

Mrs. Rachel Ivie, Henrietta, Texas, says: "I would be ungrateful if I did not tell what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for me. Fifteen years kidney trouble clung to me, my existence was one of misery and for two whole years I was unable to go out of the house. My back ached all the time and I was utterly weak, unable at times to walk without assistance. The kidney secretions were very irregular. Doan's Kidney Pills restored me to good health, and I am able to do as much work as the average woman, though nearly eighty years old."

Remember the name—Doan's. Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

And There Are Others.

The cook had been called away to a sick sister, and so the newly-wed mistress of the house undertook, with the aid of the maid, to get the Sunday luncheon. The little maid, who had been struggling in the kitchen with a coffee mill that would not work, confessed that she had forgotten to wash the lettuce.

"Well, never mind, Pearl. Go on with the coffee and I'll do it," said the considerate mistress. "Where do they keep the soap?"

Poverty and Consumption.

That poverty is a friend to consumption is demonstrated by some recent German statistics, which show that of 10,000 well-to-do persons 40 annually die of consumption; of the same number only moderately well-to-do, 66; of the same number of really poor, 77; and of paupers, 97. According to John Burns, the famous English labor leader, 90 per cent. of the consumptives in London receive charitable relief in their homes.

Proper Love for Wife.

"When a man really loves his wife he ought to combine all his nicest sentiments toward other women into one big sentiment for her.

"He should show her the respect he feels toward his mother, the politeness he shows other women and the responsibility he feels toward his sister.

"To all of that he should add the great love he should feel for a wife."

FOOD QUESTION

Settled with Perfect Satisfaction by a Dyspeptic.

It's not an easy matter to satisfy all the members of the family at meal time as every housewife knows.

And when the husband has dyspepsia and can't eat the simplest ordinary food without causing trouble, the food question becomes doubly annoying.

An Illinois woman writes:

"My husband's health was poor, he had no appetite for anything I could get for him, it seemed.

"He was hardly able to work, was taking medicine continually, and as soon as he would feel better would go to work again only to give up in a few weeks. He suffered severely with stomach trouble.

"Tired of everything I had been able to get for him to eat, one day seeing an advertisement about Grape-Nuts, I got some and tried it for breakfast the next morning.

"We all thought it was pretty good although we had no idea of using it regularly. But when my husband came home at night he asked for Grape-Nuts.

"It was the same next day and I had to get it right along, because when we would get to the table the question, 'Have you any Grape-Nuts' was a regular thing. So I began to buy it by the dozen pkgs.

"My husband's health began to improve right along. I sometimes felt offended when I'd make something I thought he would like for a change, and still hear the same old question, 'Have you any Grape-Nuts?'

"He got so well that for the last two years he has hardly lost a day from his work, and we are still using Grape-Nuts." Read the book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

GREAT ACTRESSES ARE SLIM.

But They Need Not Be Slender Enough to Invite Unkind Remark of French Critic.

Sir Charles Wyndham, at a dinner in New York, discussed the leanness of actresses.

"It is odd," said he, "but the thinner an actress is the greater she is apt to become. To be thin, somehow, is to be artistic. Look at Maude Adams, Ethel Barrymore, the divine Sarah.

"Once, at a reception that Mme. Sarah Bernhardt gave in Paris," he said, "she led us all up to admire a new portrait of herself. It was a beautiful work. Very thin—she hardly weighed 75 pounds in those days—the actress in a gold-colored gown posed sinuously, a huge white dog beside her.

"A French critic startled us all, as we were grouped about the picture, by exclaiming with a loud, rude laugh:

"'Aha! A dog and a bone.'"—Exchange.

REST FARM FOR HORSES.

Baltimore is about to open its rest farm or fresh air home for horses under the management of the Animal Refuge association. It is a charitable enterprise, as only the horses of poor cabmen and hucksters who are unable to care for their animals when they become ill, will be received at the farm. These men are forced to let their horses suffer and oftentimes to sell them when they art unfit for work. When the horse of a poor owner becomes ill now he has only to notify the Animal Refuge association, and for $2 a month his horse will be taken to the farm, where it can revel in clover and forget the hot and dusty streets and the rough cobblestones until it is well.

THE COLDPROOF MINER.

"Yes, I am a coal miner," said the excursionist in black. "You can tell it by my pallor and the bluish color of my nostrils and tongue, due to the inhalation of coal dust.

"Mining is hard work, dangerous work, but there's one good thing about it—it keeps you from catching cold. In this hot July weather, the same as in the blizzards of February, the temperature and the humidity of the mines are always the same and this makes miners, somehow, coldproof. In fact, I never had a cold in my life."

NO WONDER.

"Your delineation of the part of a man under fire is marvelous," declared the manager. "I don't see how you do the thing so naturally."

"Well," replied Hamdolo J. Banter, "you see on our recent western tour, if a tableau or a climax was good, the audience shot to show their appreciation; and if it was bad, they shot to express disapproval. It has become a habit."—Puck.

SHORTY MC CABE

Have you made the acquaintance of the latest hit in American humor Sewell Ford's "Shorty McCabes" stories? If not you are missing a heap of fun. Shorty is a "character" in every sence of the word. As an artist in humorous slang he can match George Ade's fables, and as a creator of original and witty phrases he can match Mr. Dooley. Wherever you go you will hear people talking and laughing over them. Thousands of people take THE SUNDAY RECORD-HERALD simply for its Sunday Magazine and the inimitable Shorty McCabe. It begins to be a question whether Shorty is not a more popular personage than Mr. Dooley.

Shorty McCabe, his better half, Sadie, and their laughable adventures in New York society can be found and enjoyed only in the Sunday Magazine of THE CHICAGO RECORD HERALD.

SALESMANSHIP.

A salesman in a furnishing store displayed to a friendly customer a gentleman's plain linen handkerchief at $5.00. The man had always thought he was doing well to pay 50 cents, and questioned the salesman about it.

"How can a man figure it that he gets his money's worth when he pays $5.00 for a handkerchief? It doesn't serve the purpose any better, and he couldn't afford to tell anyone that he was big enough fool to pay that price."

"He gets his money's worth," said the salesman, "from the added force of self-respect that comes with his own personal assurance that he has the best that can be produced. That conviction helps him in urging his point and in swinging the big deal his way, and the $5 is a mere item of incidental expense."

That is salesmanship.

CONSIDERATE SILENCE.

"So your boy Josh is workin' up to town."

"Yep," answered Farmer Corntossel.

"Ever go up to see him?"

"Nope. After all them funerals he's got off to attend on days the home team played it wouldn't do fur any of his relatives to show up alive."

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM.

The Stern Parent—And if you marry this young Littlecash where do you propose to live?

The Girl—Why, George says we are going to live at the same hotel where he lives now.

The Parent—Don't you know it costs a great deal to live at a hotel?

The Girl—Why no, papa, it won't cost any more. George says that if you know how to order, one portion is ample for two persons. I really won't be the least bit of a burden on George, papa.

TOTAL LOSS OF HAIR.

Seemed Imminent—Scalp Was Very Scaly and Hair Came Out by Handfuls—Scalp Now Clear and

New Hair Grown by Cuticura.

"About two years ago I was troubled with my head being scaly. Shortly after that I had an attack of typhoid fever and I was out of the hospital possibly two months when I first noticed the loss of hair, my scalp being still scaly. I started to use dandruff cures to no effect whatever. I had actually lost hope of saving any hair at all. I could brush it off my coat by the handful. I was afraid to comb it. But after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and nearly a box of Cuticura Ointment, the change was surprising. My scalp is now clear and healthy as could be and my hair thicker than ever, whereas I had my mind made up to be bald. W. F. Steese, 5812 Broad St., Pittsburg, Penn., May 7 and 21, 1908."

Will Seek the South Pole.

A. Henry Savage Landor, the English explorer, who will soon make an attempt to reach the south pole, is of the opinion that Lieut. Shackleton failed through having a cumbersome and unnecessarily large expedition. Mr. Landor's theory is that a small caravan of trusted and hardy men, lightly equipped as in his expeditions through Asia and Africa, is best. Mr. Landor's activity in aeronautic investigations gives color to the rumor that an airship will be used by him in his expedition.

IN VOGUE

SUITINGS ARE MANY

FASHION OFFERS WIDE VARIETY TO SELECT FROM.

Broadcloth Is Still In Favor, with Its Many Grades and Colorings—Venetian One of the Most Serviceable of Materials.

In suitings the incoming season offers much of interest. Broadcloths, as usual, are first in the field, and the number of their grades and colorings is legion. The better ones are lustrous and soft, and while the finish is not quite so shining, it is richer. Venetian, come into its own again, is one of the most serviceable of materials, and bound to be used more generally for home gowns than when it was "in" before. It is not quite so expensive as broadcloth, inasmuch as a medium-priced venetian is infinitely to be preferred to the moderate-priced broadcloth. In the winter we shall have a return of velvets, velveteens, and corduroys, and their use will by no means be restricted either to suits or to gowns, but each will find a place for both these purposes, as well as in the line of trimmings, millinery and dress.

After the broadcloths and venetians there are the lovely old camelshair and zibelines, but as both of them are expensive and not duplicated in cheaper grades, they are likely to remain the exclusive fabrics they have always been. They are, though, neither of them very similar to the original weaves, for the hairy appearance is on the underside, while the right side is smooth in the zibeline like a chiffon broadcloth, and the same in the camelshair except that it has an almost imperceptible crepe suggestion to it.

For the more ordinary suits the heavy cottons will be favored, but in the worsteds English serge and certain of the domestic ones deserve first consideration. Diagonal corded serge and the chevron stripe will be seen, but the plain, heavy, even-ribbed London variety is more desirable, and, whatever novelties are offered from year to year, is always smart.

Cheviots are back, and with their old-time swing. They show decided improvement over their predecessors, being more pliable and of finer texture, and there seems to be no end to the variety of design that is included in the novelty effects.

WITH THE PRINCESS TUNIC

Nattier Blue Cashmere Makes Up Most Effectively for This Outdoor Costume—Hat of Straw.

A very effective dress with Princess tunic is illustrated here; it is in Nattier-blue cashmere; the underskirt is plain and slightly trained; the tunic is open to the hips each side and is ornamented with silk braiding.

The front of the bodice is also braided in a pattern forming a point to the waist; plain rows of braid outline the neck and the short over-sleeves. The yoke and long mitten sleeves are of tucked spotted net of the same color as the material.

The hat is in mole-colored straw with blue lining to the brim, the trimming is blue and mole tulle with pink roses.

Materials required: 9 yards, 46 inches wide, 2 1-2 yards net 40 inches wide, 2 yards sateen.

BOTH SIMPLE AND EFFECTIVE

Useful Costume That May Be Made Up in Serge or Similar Material.

For a useful and smart costume of serge or similar material an attractive new design is shown. The original model was of dark blue serge with a shawl collar and cuffs of black satin. The design is unique among the season's styles for serge suits in that it has no braid trimming, the place being supplied by stitching. In light and unusual colors of serge or cheviot this costume, because of its extreme simplicity, would be even more effective. Cloth also of the light weight now so much used would develop extremely well in this style, and especially in one of the attractive new reds.

New Designs in Face Veils.

Although the Russian mesh is still worn largely, there is a late importation that threatens to rival it in the favor of those who do not mind veilings of a somewhat startling design. The novelty is a double mesh thread dotted here and there with quarter-inch [illegible] squares [illegible] the [illegible].

FURNISHINGS IN THE HOUSE

Some of the Cardinal Points That It Will Be a Mistake to Overlook.

All furniture needs to be wiped over now and then with a good polish.

The advantages of the sectional book cases are many. One can always be sure of matching them when more are needed, and then one can add parts as the collection of books increases.

A washable wall covering is delightfully clean and practical in the kitchen.

Linen velours make very attractive couch and pillow covers, and is washable. It comes in many lovely shades.

Window draperies that have faded in the summer sun may, if the material is not "sunburned," be dyed a dark green or delft blue and be very pretty hung over a sash drapery of sheer cream net.

The mission style is found even in stoves.

There is a new substance on the market which will mend leaks in hot water bags and any kind of kitchen utensil.

A spray of bayberry in an attractive vase of artistic color is a most pleasing bit of decoration in a room.

A novelty in sofa pillows is of bits of colored leather put together in mosaic form.

The colonial is a style in both furniture and architecture of which one never tires, which is restful and charming and always in good taste.

Stenciling is being used more and more as a means of simple and effective home decoration.

There is a new fixture for sliding doors which is warranted to prevent the door from jamming, and is noiseless and smooth-running.

Gown of Lingerie Guimpe.

Among the most appropriate gowns for the college girl is that of the lingerie guimpe. Since the shirtwaist has been dropped to some extent, as usual at this time of the year, or has been ranked as a useful garment only and has ceased to claim attention as a dressy affair, the guimpe has gained in favor. It is, indeed, the outcome of the all-in-one frock. The devotee of the cleanly lingerie blouse has not found it possible to go over to the entire dress of silk, of wool, or even unwashable [illegible] with any degree of [illegible] at least the collar and yoke.

CORN ON DRY FARM

Campbell Scientific Methods Prove Successful in Western Country.

Fields Side by Side with Those Tilled by Old Methods Show Its Value—Hard Work and Intelligence Are Necessary.

The Campbell dry farming methods applied to corn have proved a success in the semi-arid sections of the west. Applied to wheat, they have proved for years that they were correct in principle, but farmers were slow to apply them to corn.

There is nearly always more than sufficient rainfall in some parts, but the great problem has been to keep it in the soil until the crops are made. The Campbell method is designed to do this, and the results that have followed its application were made evident to a traveler who drove through this section this week.

Many times there were fields side by side with like soil, as favorably situated as to drainage, and without any difference so far as the opportunity for a good yield was concerned, which differed so much and presented such a contrast that one could not fail to see at a glance the different class of farming which had been done by the two types of farmers. While not the rule, there was too much bad farming. All of those observed as an illustration of all.

One farmer had "scratched over" his farm, using a disc when a plow was needed and had listed his corn into last year's weedy, sun-baked, crusted and moisture-sapped field. The weeds had soon gained the ascendency, and the corn having no reserve moisture, being surrounded by weeds, was dwindling and badly scorched.

Immediately adjacent and except for a barbed wire fence would have been a part of this field, was another where the dry farming method had been used. It was evident that the most careful thought had been given to the question of how to secure the very best results. Not only thought, but judicious and careful work had been done. This corn was of the best, of good color, sturdy, stout and with large ears which gave promise of a bountiful crop. The soil looked rich and productive. There were no weeds, but there was a good dust mulch, and it was plainly evident on the face of everything about the farm why one failed and the other succeeded.

Sun for Poultry.

Poultry seldom have too much sun, but they are often kept in such close quarters that they become unhealthy and unprofitable.

Beautify the Yard.

Flowers are not only beautiful to look upon, but their influence is wholly refining, the cost of a few seeds is trifling and the labor involved becomes not only labor, but a keen and health-giving pleasure, says an exchange. There is no good excuse why every householder with a yard should not beautify it, not necessarily with costly flowers like orchids and some others, but according to their means, if with but a few violets, pinks, geraniums and nasturtiums. A town is judged by strangers by the appearance it presents. If, in passing through the predominating streets, he notes the dirty alley, heaps of refuse and tin cans and ill-kept yards, he judges the town and its people accordingly. If, on the other hand, he finds cleanliness, nicely kept lawns gay with flowers, he is impressed with it as a prosperous, inviting town, peopled by wide-awake, progressive, cultured inhabitants. Impressions count for a great deal. The same applies to the home ranch. It reveals the character of the owners. Go out and walk past your own home and [illegible] your own character. Does it look good to you?

CONSERVING WATER IN SOIL

One Great Source of Loss Is by Evaporation—Land Should Be Cultivated at Right Time.

The great thing during seasons of scant or average rainfall is the conservation of the water after it has been stored in the soil. The one great source of loss is evaporation. Few have any conception of how much water may be lost in this way. The amount, of course, will vary with the situation, exposure, temperature, etc. It is not known what the exact loss from soils would be, but it is believed that so long as the soil is bare and looks moist on the surface, evaporation is robbing it of its moisture, but as soon as the soil looks dry or is hidden by a crop, the rate of evaporation falls off very rapidly.

These latter conditions are best brought about by cultivating and seeding as soon as the land is dry enough. If there are two plots of soil side by side, and one is cultivated and the other is not, the evaporation from the cultivated one is much greater for a day or so than from the other, but this evaporation takes place chiefly from the loosened portion, and hence in a very short time, provided no rain falls, this layer becomes dry and acts as a blanket to protect the soil below, diminishing the evaporation.

Hence, it is a matter of vital importance that the soil should be cultivated at the earliest possible moment. A delay of one week in this operation after the soil is fit will rob it of from one to two inches of water, an amount sufficient to tide the crop over a drought. Deep cultivation is not advisable, for all of the loosened layer dries out in dry weather, and since the deep blanket is little, if any, more effective than the thinner one, the extra loss from the thicker blanket is not atoned for by greater saving of water in the lower layers, and is a net loss to the plant.

With cereals the conservation of moisture by cultivation may be continued till the grain is nicely up. If a rain has come, packing down the soil and destroying the loose blanket, and thus setting up rapid evaporation again, it is good practice to run over the crop with a light harrow and restore the blanket. The saving in moisture will more than atone for any injury the harrow may do the young plants. With hoed crops, theoretically they should be cultivated after every heavy rain.

In humid sections, where the rainfall is usually sufficient to saturate the soil, after harvest conservation of moisture is not essential, but in semi-arid regions the tillage right after harvest is essential for the purpose of conserving moisture.

Our Poultry Crop.

F. D. Corbin, secretary of the Kansas state board of agriculture, in a recent address, says: "Wool is looked upon as a most important commodity, but the United States census showed its value less than one-third that of the poultry and eggs produced on our American farms. Oats is a crop appreciated by stockmen, and the potatoes are everywhere staples, but the combined value of these two crops in 1907 was not greater than the income from the fowls."

Trees in Chicken Yard.

If you are arranging for new poultry yards, locate them permanently, and in the fall set them with fruit trees, plums, pears, etc. Poultry and fruit of these kinds seem to work hand in hand. The trees will furnish shade for the chickens, while the chickens will gather the insects which ordinarily injure the fruit.

Benefit of Large Corn Crop.

All we need is a large corn crop to put the price of shoats and steers ready for the feed lot almost on the prohibitive list. A few are always ready to pay almost any price to get something to feed when grain is plenty.

GENERAL FARM NOTES.

Burr clover has many advantages as a winter cover crop.

A great many people are finding it a mighty good idea to keep their land busy.

When you are ahead of your work it isn't such a hard matter to keep there; then there is time for other things.

It has been recommended that the traffic in horned toads be stopped, the reason being their usefulness in destroying insects.

Improved seed is essential for greater crop results, but preparation of the soil and cultivation of it is the basis of all agricultural progress.

Hay which contains as much as possible of the qualities of fresh grass is ideal hay. The curing determines this, and much attention should be paid to it.

The chief functions of humus in the soil are to increase the water-holding capacity, improve the physical condition of soils and form a more [illegible] for plant food.

Origin of Word "Bible."

The word bible is derived from the Latin name biblia, which was treated as a singular although it comes from the Greek neuter plural, meaning "little books." This Greek diminutive was derived from byblus, or papyrus, the famous material on which ancient books were written. The title "Bible" was first used about the middle of the second Christian century in the so-called second epistle of Clement (xiv., 2).

Former Ambassador Choate Uses Witty Story to Drive Home a Desired Point.

At a recent dinner in New York Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador from the United States to Great Britain, was speaking of the necessity for proper ambassadorial residences in foreign countries.

"When I first went to England," said Mr. Choate, "I spent weeks and weeks looking for a house. It was most arduous service in my country's interest. I trailed all over the available sections of London, and while I was at it a London bobby arrested a man who was pursuing a most erratic and forlorn course out Hyde Park way.

"'Here, my man,' said the bobby, 'What are you doing? Why don't you go home?'

"'Home?' replied the man, bitterly. 'I have no home. I am the American ambassador.'"

MANY MEXICANS DIE.

Reports of vital statistics received at the state health department indicate a rather remarkable condition at El Paso. Out of 157 deaths reported for last month all but 28 were Mexicans.

The Mexicans constitute about one-third of the population of El Paso, yet their death rate is approximately four times greater than that of the white people.

The large percentage of mortality among the Mexicans, however, is attributed to the death of children, the state reports reciting the death of many babies. Indigestion and kindred troubles are given as the chief causes of death among the children.—San Antonio Express.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

Three hundred years before Christ a court of arbitration was held in Alexandria, in which all troubles between husbands and wives were considered and divorces averted by careful hearing of evidence. This has been made clear through a document recently discovered, which goes to show that men and their wives have had periods of disagreement for a great many years.

MOTOR CARS ACROSS DESERT.

Among the latest activities of awakening China is to be a service of motor cars across the Gobi desert to replace the tea caravans of old. The service will cross the desert between Urga and Kalgan, which will shortly be connected with Pekin by rail.
