For some weeks past there has been an incomprehensible but annoying hitch between the R. R. Co. and our stage line, through which our mail is received one day late. This week Ozanne has received notice that after the 10th he shall receive the mail at San Antonio instead of Carthage.—Ozanne backs, saying it is a violation of contract. We hope the matter will be speedily adjudicated so that our people may not be held in suspense but promptly notified the hour of protest—it would do them so much good.

LAST Saturday the realty and personal property of the Sugar Nugget was sold under the hammer to satisfy a judgment against the odorous concern of $1,421.51 principal, and costs swelling the aggregate to some $1,675.00.—The house and lot was bought in by the chief victim, Nat. Moore, for $155. The press, type, material and outstanding accounts pertaining to the publication of the hebdomadary, were bid in by A. J. Gilmore, J. M. Coe, W. L. Breece and A. C. Storms—consideration, $750. The purchasers are prominent Alliance men, and it is natural to suppose that from the dung-hill builded by Sligh there will spring forth a fragrant journalistic flower. Selah.

—"Thus shall the wicked perish and the righteous be rewarded."

In 1885 Sligh got his righteous back up against the editor of the LEADER and established the Interpreter, which he said would annihilate the LEADER within ninety days. At that time Sligh had money and credit. He strove to make his words good, but his efforts were impotent and after a struggle of some two years he abandoned his unholy design, moneyless and chatacterless, while we went on as indifferent as the fabled ox on whose horn the fly lit with the view of breaking off. He changed his base and politics, borrowed money and started the Gat. Even then and there he was remorselessly vengeful against the LEADER, and kept up a fire of stink pots against it, all of which rebounded. He got his townsmen by the ears, until they finally turned upon the Ishmalite, and he is now reported to be in Socorro County in pursuit of a location. While condemning we cannot help pitying him. He was wrongly built but was not his own architect. He had the knack of making friends, but for want of fidelity he could not keep them. He is a reminiscence, putrid, yet leaving behind recollections which may not prove wholly distasteful or unprofitable.

ON last Wednesday Drs. Wm. and M. G. Paden performed a capital operation upon Ed. R. Bonnell, being the removal of the left testicle, enlarged and tumified in consequence of an injury received in 1888. Dr. N. W. Lane administered the anæsthetic; Mr. Dye, who, by the way, was a medical graduate before he became a lawyer, assisted in the operation. Other friends of the patient attended to render such service as non-professionals could. In 34 minutes from the first administration of the ether, the last stitch was taken.—Our informant is one who has had extensive opportunities for observation in surgical cases, and he tells us that the operating surgeons are entitled to the highest credit for the promptitude and skill with which the operation was performed. On going to press Mr. Bonnell is resting easily, with every chance of a safe and speedy recovery.—The universal interest taken in the case, and the general expression of relief when it was known that Mr. B. was safely through the ordeal, attest the regard which our people entertain for the sufferer.

Poor Humanity!

The common lot is one of sorrow say—at least—the pessimists, they who look at the worst side. Certainly what would otherwise be a bright existence, is often shadowed by some ailment that overhangs it like a pall, obscuring perpetually the radiance that else would light the path. Such an ailment, and a very common one, is nervousness, or in other words, weakness of the nervous system, a condition only irremediable where inefficient or improper means are taken to relieve it. The concurrent experience of nervous people who have persistently used Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is, that it conquers entirely superactiveness of the nerves, as well as diseases—so called—which are invited and sustained by their chronic weakness. As the nerves gain stamina from the great tonic the trouble disappears. Use the Bitters for malaria, rheumatism, biliousness and kidney troubles.

WHEN THE LIGHT GOES OUT

Tho' yer lamp o' life is burnin'
With a clear an' steady light,
An' it never seems ter flicker, but it's allers shinin' bright;
Tho' it sheds it's rays unbroken for a thousan' happy days—
Father Time is ever turnin' down her wick that feeds her blaze.
So it clearly is yer duty, of you've got a thing ter do,
Ter put yer shoulder to the wheel
an' try to push her through;
Ef yer upon a wayward track yer better turn about—
You've lost ther chance to do it
when the Light
Goes
Out

Speak kindly to ther woman who is workin' for yer praise, Ther same way ez you used ter in those happy courtin' days;
She likes appreciation jest the same ez me and you,
An' it's only right and proper that yer giv her what is due.
Don't wait until her lamp o' life is burnin' dim and low,
Afore you tell her what you orter
told her long ago—
Now's ther time ter cheer her up an' put her blues to rout—
You've lost ther chance to do it
when the
Light
Goes Out.

Don't keep a puttin' matters off an' settin' dates ahead—
To-morrow's sun'll find a hundred thousand of us dead;
Don't think because yer feelin'
well you wont be sick no more,
Sometimes the reddest pippin has a worm-hole to the core.
Don't let a killin' habit grow on you soft and still,
Because you think thet you can throw it from you at your will;
Now's ther time ter quit when yer feelin' brave and stout—
You've lost ther chance ter do it
when the
Light
Goes
Out

I'd rather die with nuthin' then ter hev ther people say Thet I hed got my money in a robbin' graspin' way;
No words above my restin' place
from any tongue or pen
Would hev a deeper meanin' then
"He helped his fellow-men."
So if you hev a fortune an' you want to help the poor
Don't keep a stavin' off until you get a little more;
Ef yer upon a miser's track you
better turn about—
Yer record keeps on burnin' when

Answers to Correspondents.

"A Republican" wishes to learn something about the contest between Speaker Reed and the Democratic party in the House of Representatives, the "Rules," etc.

"Republican" is informed that a custom has grown up in the American House of Representatives of breaking a quorum by a refusal to vote on the part of the minority. In such case it has been been customary upon the point of "no quorum" being raised to consult only the record of the vote, thereby holding men present in their seats, but refusing to vote, as constructively absent, or "not in the House."

The present House, not having, at present writing, adopted any "Rules" for it's government, is governed by the body of "Parliamentary law," which is universally recognized as the law governing deliberative assemblies in the absence of statutory or a special body of "Rules" adopted by the assembly itself. The common Parliamentary law regards as present all members visible, whether voting or not. When the point of no quorum is raised in the British House of Commons the Speaker at once counts the members within the walls of the House, and if 40 are visible to him the point is not well taken, and his decision is conclusive. Such is the general practice. Moreover, Speaker Reed has applied the common law of parliamentary bodies to the factious attempts of Democratic members to obstruct the public business. The new rules, when reported, will it is understood, be in harmony with the common parliamentary law in this particular, and properly so. This is a government of majorities. The majority, however large or small, has under its duty, and has the right to carry on the government and control legislation whether that majority be Democratic or Republican. Criticism is the business of the minority and legitimate opposition. When opposition becomes obstruction it becomes factious and should be repressed, and it necessarily is repressed. No people will long submit to the factional obstruction of public business by a minority in the legislature.

"A Friend" asks if New Mexico is as far behind in educational matters as represented by the Headlight and Daily Democrat?

Our "Friend" is hereby informed that New Mexico has more public schools in proportion to population than Lousianna, Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina, or Arkansas, not to speak of the fact that they are open more weeks in the year and are better. We are rapidly increasing both the number and quality of our public schools, while in the States most reliable for the "grand old Democratic party," outside of Texas, the exact contrary is the case.

An "Anti-Grant Man" wishes to know if we have read the screed of one Geo. W. Julian, from somewhere in Indiana, anent Frank Springer, et. al.?

We have read it since you called our attention to it. Before your enquiry it had no sufficient importance to occupy our time. You may remember that the mossback Julian, was sent here in 1885, as Surveyor General of New Mexico. He was sent here by W. A. J. Sparks, to do a certain dirty job, which he did to the best of his ability. It was the purpose of Mr. Sparks to establish the existence of immense frauds in connection with land grants, and to harrass settlers upon the public land, in every possible way, with a view to the sustaining reckless charges made in his official capacity. Julian on one side, and special agents on the other, received instructions to make such reports as Sparks desired to receive whether there was any evidence to sustain them or not. Some of the special agents being gentlemen, resigned rather than carry out those instructions. Some of them, and Julian at all times, faithfully obeyed their secret instructions, and Julian, especially, carried them out in a manner to demonstrate that the doing so was an especial personal gratification. Kicked out of office as soon as possible after Mr. Harrison's advent, Julian endeavors to keep himself in the public eye by a repetition of his infamous charges against decent citizens. Therein he is unwise. His abuse is an honor to any man. He is unknown except as the dirty tool of a corrupt ring, a characterless instrument for the oppression and blackmailing of citizens of New Mexico; a man who has scarce a friend in the world, one who is not ashamed of the relation.

Marion Harland, the friend and helper of woman everywhere, has taken up the work of restoring the ruined monument marking the burial-place of MARY THE MOTHER OF WASHINGTON.

One hundred years ago this venerable woman was interred in private grounds near Fredericksburg, Virginia. In 1833, the corner stone of an imposing memorial was laid by President Andrew Jackson. A patriotic citizen of New York undertook the project, single handed, but meeting with financial disaster, was compelled to abandon it.

Marion Harland says truly in her appeal to the mothers and daughters of America to erect a fitting monument to her who gave Our Country a Father—that "the sun shines upon no sadder ruin in the length and breadth of our land than this unfinished structure."

The publishers of THE HOUSE-MAKER, of which Marion Harland is the editor, offer as their contribution to the good cause, seventy-five cents out of every annual subscription of two dollars to the Magazine sent in during the next six months. Every such subscription must be accompanied by the words, "For Mary Washington Monument."

The offer is generous and should meet with an enthusiastic response.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

New York, Feb. 3, '90.

The celebration of the centennial of the United States Court, which will take place in this city on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, promises to be a big event, especially for the legal fraternity of the country. The guests who will be present include President Harrison, Vice-President Morton, and part of the Cabinet, Chief Justice Fuller, and all of the Associate Justices of the U. S. Supreme Court, Gov. Hill, and a long list of the most distinguished judges and lawyers in the country. It will be presided over by ex-President Cleveland.

The great inconvenience to people who wish to reach the Jersey City ferries, which is caused by the crowds of vehicles on West street, is soon to be remedied in part by the building of two bridges across the street. One is to be built at Cortlandt street for the Pennsylvania Railroad ferry, and the other at Liberty street for the Jersey Central ferry. The present methods of crossing at these points are extremely dangerous, besides very inconvenient. A policeman is always stationed at each of these places whose duty it is to guide people safely across. Were it not for this the long processions of trucks would often keep pedestrians waiting for hours at a time.—The two bridges, which have been authorized by the Board of Street Openings, are to be of iron, 16 ft. above the street, and to be used exclusively for foot passengers.—If these are successful, we may perhaps see something similar on Broadway.

New York is to have another magnificent public building, which will be mainly for the accommodation of the criminal courts. It will occupy the ground just north of where the Tombs now is, and will cover a whole block. It will be built entirely of brick, granite and iron, 6 stories high and be as near fire proof as possible. A bridge will connect it with the Tombs, so that prisoners may be taken back and forth without the use of the Black Maria, which, by the way, is not black at all, but white. Besides being used for the criminal courts, the new building will contain the offices of District Attorney, the Board of Health, and the Street Cleaning Department. These are now scattered in various parts of the city, and it will simplify business very much to have them altogether in a central location. The building will cost $1,400,000 and be ready in about two years.

Like His Grandfather.

Many persons who never hear the word heredity have a very just and vivid idea of the truth which that word was invented to convey. They know perfectly well that physical and intellectual traits are handed down from father to son, and from son to grandson.

Congressman Allen, of Mississippi, was lately telling stories at a Washington hotel, according to a reporter for The New York Star.

"I had just returned from making a political speech," he said "when I was met at the door by an old 'Aunty' Allison, an aged negro woman who nursed me in childhood. With her big, black, good natured face all wreathed in smiles, she said, 'Bless ma soul, Mass' John, but how yo' don' remin' me o' yo' deah ole gan'fa'r! A Strange Preacher.

There was a minister of the Gospel who never built a church.

Who never preached in one.

Who never proposed a church fair to buy the church a new carpet.

Who never found a new sect.

Who visited public houses and drank wine with sinners.

Who never received a salary.

Who never asked for one.

Who never wore a black suit or a white necktie.

Who never used a prayer book.

Or a hymn book.

Or wrote sermon.

Who never hired a cornet soloist or violinist to draw people to hear the Word.

Who never advertised his sermon

Who never took text for his sermons.

Who never went through a course of theological study.

Who was never ordained.

Who was never "converted."

Who never even went to a conference.

Who never was surprised by a donation party.

Who was he?

Christ.

Backward, turn backward, O time in your flight, give me the nose that I breathed through last night. Bring back the smeller that two days ago, knew not the torment of a continual blow. Wipe from my mustache the moisture of sneezes, put wooden splints on my poor weakened knees. Rub my red nose as you oft have before with tallow dear mother, oh, it is so sore. Back, turn backward, O tide of the nose! I am so tired from my head to my toes. Tired out with mopping and coughing and sneezing; weary from handkerchief constantly seizing; I have grown weary of sniffle and snuff, of wiping my bugle until it is rough. Stick my poor head in a big pillow-sill, and sew it up mother, I have the la grippe.—Atchison Globe.

Some Few Observations.

Necessity is the mother of industry.

The man who doth not pick his teeth hath no teeth to pick.

The stool of repentance is a hard seat, but many sit thereon.

The just man in office and the just taxpayer are model men.

Love is a blissful image; a happy marriage is a happy reality.

A loaded gun and loaded man, sometimes go the boomerang.

The devil's cloak is like a huge nightmare or a horrid phantom.

The victim of despair is not always the nice old maid with gray hair.

Love they say is blind, hence he is subject to the blind staggers.

Kindness is a more powerful weapon than vindictiveness or the sword.

They who live beyond their means may yet be thankful for pork and beans.

It is not so bad for a man to put his hands into his own pockets, as in that of his neighbors.

The men who runs away from a fight may live to walk to his enemies' funeral. How many things creep quietly away, just as night doth silently steal the day. People who come with a flourish of trumpets, do not often bring loaded guns. The great man weepeth through his sympathies, the weak man laughs through his follies.

You may try to dodge a board bill at finish, but like the sun, it will meet you in the morning.

True and unselfish charity, goodness and love for all mankind, make men and women God like.

They who have nothing to say should not talk too much. And they who say but little have naught to say

The man who leads the procession when danger is afar, is generally the first to flee when danger comes uncomfortably near.

Invitations to a great banquet are often tempting morsels thrown out to silly sprats, who are made the bait for whales.

Man is not accountable for his thoughts only for his speech and actions, but bad thoughts should not be encouraged, else they lead to bad deeds and detestable speech

The advantages of being an old man—he is not compelled to do military duty, sit upon jury, work the roads, can say what he pleases of his neighbors without fear of being whipped, as it is a disgrace to strike an old man, however much he may deserve it.

"Despotism," says Mr. Ingalls, "makes Nihilists. Injustice is the great manufactory of dynamite. A man who is a thief robs himself. An adulterer pollutes himself. A murderer inflicts a deeper wound on himself than that which slays his victim. The South, in imposing chains on the African race, lays heavier manacles on itself than those with which it burdens the helpless slave. And those who are denying to American citizens the privileges of freedom should remember that there is nothing so unprofitable as injustice, and that God is an unrelenting creditor. Silent it may be, tardy and slow it may be, but inexorable and relentless. Behind the wrong doer, stalks the menacing specter of vengeance and retribution."

TO WILL L. VISSCHER.

Old friend!
Dear reader could I lock when your quiet talk
Awakes the dead dreams of my brain,
In younger years I think and walk
The old Kentucky paths again.

Old friend!
God bless the days, dead time grass days,
The tenderest I ever knew!
God bless the hearts, dead time ways,
So sweetly dear, so simply true.

Old friend!
The world has had its bitter way,
Things that were to have been too true!
But the dead time, we are never gray,
Well love, old friend, for you.

—O. H. Broadbent in Arkansaw Traveler.

Fire Escapes in Chicago.

Chief Engineer Paul Cornell of Chicago is much better pleased with fire escapes than New York.

"The escape which they have adopted there," said he, "provides not only for the descent of the people, but it affords great assistance to the firemen. They use very much the same ladders and balconies as we do, only they run them up to the roof in every case. With the ladders they have a sort of standpipe which runs up the side of the house. As one man can lay out the ladders, and the other firemen can climb up and attach a section of hose at any floor desired. The engine for the pipe and the firemen can get directly to the fire. In extinguishing hose operations in stores, the engines can work on the boulevard, and in many cases be ready for use in a few minutes after arriving. Indeed, in a number of cases we have had the chance to operate from one side upon two floors. Indeed, I have seen them have a hundred pieces of hose in use in a large building."—New York Evening Sun.

Cares for the Ladies.

"The women usually read descriptions of the new papers closely," said an experienced bachelor editor. "A city paper had a little item in its columns a few days ago to the effect that the Princess of Wales and her daughter were in Paris for a few days with the waiting. This morning I counted half a dozen women who were plodding along, and each one was armed with a neat little silver headed cane. I venture to say that inside of a month it will be a great fad among the ladies of Chicago. However, as it will necessarily develop a craze for jaunts abroad, I don't see that there is any great need of objection to the fashion, even if it is aping the ways of royalty and is but another form of Anglomania."—Chicago Tribune.

She Loved to Scold.

An old woman in New York, whose will is now being contested by her heirs, had an odd question. Like a good many others of her sex she loved to scold, but as she possessed nearly everything she could wish for such opportunities to indulge in her favorite practice were necessarily limited. To remedy this defect, however, she hired a maid to read her extracts from the news papers that she particularly disliked and then scolded the girl for their contents. Thus the girl was considered personally responsible for everything that went wrong throughout the world. How she bore the great load of responsibility is not stated.—Philadelphia Times.

A Wonderful Water Road.

Parallel to the rains I run often the great trunk road, which, starting at Calcutta and ending at Peshawer, is, I suppose, the grandest wagon road in the world. 1,500 miles long, beautifully macadamized, overshadowed almost throughout its length by a double row of trees, and generally having a fine row of trees on either side. In the lower country these trees are beautiful orange groves, and some of the finest mangoes, with its delicate mimosa leaf. We frequently see long lines of camels slowly wending their way, and large caravans of asses and cows.—Carter Harrison in Chicago Mail.

Edwin Booth's Smoking Habits.

Edwin Booth is one of the most inveterate of smokers, and must spend a small fortune yearly in the indulgence of his taste for the fragrant weed. As a rule he smokes cigars, and they are a particular brand, furnished him by a manufacturer, and from which he never deviates. At home in his study he leaves a collection of meerschaum and briar pipes, a water pipe, and there is always a bottle of Havana, and with a great array of pipes and of all sorts, from which he can make a choice if he prefers.—New York Herald.

Revival of Roller Skating.

"There will be a revival of the roller skating craze this season," said a well known dealer in sporting goods. "But of course it will not reach the proportions of a couple of years ago, when it was impossible for the factories to keep up with the orders. People have not lost sight of the fact that roller skating is healthy exercise, and there are already signs, judging from the orders we are receiving, that it has come to stay, as it should.—Chicago Tribune.

Emperor William's Cook.

Emile Bertaut, cook to the late Emperor William since 1866, always consulted with his imperial master in regard to the dishes of the day. The old monarch often called the cook to explain the composition of certain dishes, and occasionally suggested an additional flavoring, which he attributed to the French chef that his majesty "could feel his mouthfuls as well as swallow them."—Frank Leslie's.

Hint to Housekeepers.

Housekeepers who have been accustomed to judge of the age of a turkey by the flexibility of the rear end of the breast bone will be grieved to learn that unprincipled poultry dealers pound the breast bones of aged turkeys until the tip attains the flexibility consistent with youth, and thus render them marketable.—Chicago Herald.

The Empress' "Own" Palace.

At the distance of a short drive from St. Petersburg is a charming miniature palace, owned by the empress, and known by the name of "My Own." It is in the midst of lovely grounds, and is a happy retreating place for the royal family whenever they choose to resort to it.—Louise Chandler Moulton.

Dogs Not Admitted.

New York retail merchants find the days when are led by chains by fashionable women, such as Tuesdays in their stores that many have put up a gilt sign reading: "Dogs are not admitted here unless in arms."

Soft, thin, waxed paper is found to answer the purpose of oiled silk or mackin' in the majority of dressings and is much cheaper.

A fortune in cash awaits the inventor of something to keep family skeletons from stalking at the wrong time.—Mail and Express.

The Dominion has no gold coins, and its silver and copper currency is made in England.

One of the bright spots in existence is a good cook.—New Haven News.

Subscribers.

A Postmaster is required to give official notice (returning a paper does not satisfy the law) when a subscriber does not take his paper from the office, and states the reason of its not being taken, and a neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publisher for the payment.

Any person who takes a paper from the post office, whether directed to his name or that of another, or whether he has subscribed or not, is responsible for the pay.

If a person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it be taken from the office or not.

There can be no legal discontinuance until payment is made.

If the subscriber orders his paper to be stopped at a certain time and the publisher continues to send it, the subscriber is bound to pay for it if he takes it out of the office. The law presumes upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the office is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

Mrs. Lee. "Yes, and last week you said you wished I could manage to look as stylish as Mrs. Allen—and she makes all her own clothes. But she has what I haven't."

Mr. Lee. "What is that?"

Mrs. Lee. "Well, she gets all of her information from the Magazine they take. I admit that she knows all that is going on, and is bright and entertaining in conversation; but I could do as well as she does if I had the same source of information. She lent me the last number of her Magazine lately, and I learned more in one hour's reading, about various social matters and the topics of the day, than I would pick up in a month by my occasional chats with friends. It certainly covers every topic of interest, from the news of the day down to the details of housekeeping; and everything is so beautifully illustrated, too. Every time Mamie goes over to the Allens' she comes back and teases me to get you to take Demorest's Family Magazine, as the stories are so good. Even the boys watch for it every month, as a place is found for them also in its pages; and Mr. Allen swears by it. It is really wonderful how it suits every member of the family!"

Mr. Lee. "Well, perhaps I had better send for a Specimen Copy; for, if it is anything like what you say it is, it will amuse and instruct the whole of us."

Miss Lee. "I see that W. Jennings Demorest, the publisher, 15 East 16th Street, New York, is offering to send a Specimen Copy for 10 cents, so we can't lose anything, as each number contains a 'Pattern Order' entitling the holder to any Pattern she may choose, and in any size—which alone makes each copy worth 50 cents; and I just want a jacket pattern like Mrs. Allen's. The subscription price is only $2.00 a year; and I must say I can't see how they can publish so elegant a Magazine for so little money."

WITH GERMAN DOCTORS.

AN INVALID'S EXPERIENCE WITH DISAGREEING PHYSICIANS.

Treatment Recommended to a Man in Search of Health—"When Doctors Disagree" It Is Sometimes Bad for the Patient—"to Rest."

In the month of August, 1882, I came down from Engelberg to Lucerne. The next day I met a friend who, knowing of my search for health, informed me that the great lung specialist, Professor Kussmaul, of Strasburg, was at Rigi-Kaltbad and advised that I consult him. Within a few hours I had made an appointment by telegraph, and the following day the train carried me from Vitznau to the famous Rigi mountain. The doctor—a perfect type of a German professor—received me cordially, auscultated my lungs with care, and pronounced the following opinion. Said he: "You are not very sick man, and, with prudence, ought to live to old age. I find a catarrhal condition at the base of the right lung. This you should try to remove. The lung is slightly hot that point, and needs some check to make it work. (He [illegible] great water cure establishment at Davos, near Coire.) The French underestimate the water cure treatment better than we Germans. Dr. Ydart, the physician of the Davos establishment, will arrange a cold douche to fall direct on the catarrhal point with great force, say from a height of twenty to thirty feet. A few weeks of such treatment will help to remove this catarrhal condition."

I paid a liberal fee and returned to Lucerne. The doctor's advice filled me with concern. I feared that such a violent shock might induce hemorrhage. The same night I wrote particulars of this interview with a request for advice to Dr. Messing, a clever physician of Meran, Tyrol, who knew my condition perfectly. Three days later came the telegraphic response: "Do not go to Davos. Such treatment dangerous for you. Messing." So I did not go, but went to Italy and, later, Montone instead.

The following summer I [illegible] very [illegible] should be made to fall on the diseased part of the lung, with all the medical pros and cons. The doctor devoted considerable time and care to the examination, and finally delivered the following opinion: "Cold water douches will do you good, but not violent douches, and the whole body must be douched except the very part which has the chronic catarrhal affection."

Comment unnecessary. Did I follow the treatment? Yes, for five weeks. Did it benefit me? No! It robbed me of flesh and vitality, which it took me two years to regain.—Louis R. Ehrich in New York Tribune.

An Actor's Memory Fails.

Provost used to relate laughingly how one night, years ago, he was imitating a tirade in the role of Hippolyte in "Phedre," while Regnier was imaging on his lips, his memory suddenly failed him, precisely at the last two verses. It was impossible to shorten the enunciation in order to wait for the cue from the prompter. In a moment he seized the situation, and with a magnificent transport, without stopping to take breath, he improvised two Alexandrines in some colorable gibberish, which, of course, nobody understood; but nevertheless he was applauded to overwhelmed such a regrettable his gesture, his tone of voice and, in a word, the "mien" render the improvised language clear, eloquent and impressive.—G. Coquelin in Harper's Magazine.

Carried in Canes.

The cigarette cane is handsomely mounted, has no walking stick. A twist of the silver head throws open a whole joint of the cane and exposes a dozen or two cigarettes neatly packed in the hollow. Matches, tinder, etc., are at and exposed at the owner's pleasure. Cane quite as innocent looking sometimes contains a flask of brandy in a secret metallic twist, and the ex-guide quite frequently [illegible] Ehrich of his walking stick.—New York Sun.

White Oaks & Lincoln Co.

The Arcadia and Hesperides of The World.

The Coloconda and Elysium of the Continent.

White Oaks is a town of about 1,200 people and is situated on Sec. 36, Town 6, Range 13 east, in the western part of Lincoln County, New Mexico. At the last general election there were cast in the town 292 votes, while the Registration was 314. During the year 1885 there was expended in various improvements upwards of $200,000. The distance from Carrizozo on the A. T. & S. F. R. R., 34 miles; 103 miles from Socorro; on the main line, 135 miles from El Paso, Texas, and 16 from Lincoln, the County seat. The distance from Liberal, Kansas, the term[illegible] of the Rock Island system in Kan., is 580 miles. R. R. lines are now being constructed hither from El Paso, Texas, and Liberal, Kansas. Both lines will be completed before Jan. 1st 1890.

White Oaks is the largest town in the county and the seat of an important supply trade. Our mines are looking satisfactorily, and we have one 20 stamp mill in operation, also 2 Huntington Centrifugal mills and a 10 stamp gold mill.

The great Homestake Gold Mines are one mile N. W. of the centre of the town, and around them are a dozen rich mines, less developed. Almost adjoining the town, on the S. E., are inexhaustible mines of coal, varying from bituminous to semi-anthracite. From four to seven miles N. W. of the town, in the Lone Mountain region, are extensive beds of magnetic iron ores of excellent quality and high grade. Twenty miles south and west are the silver lead mines of the Bonito mining district, the rich gold mines of the Nogal mining district, the Parsons Camp and the copper (silver bearing) [illegible] of the "West Side." The town is abundantly supplied with water, wood is abundant in the foot hills and timber in the mountain ranges.

The County of Lincoln, in the southeastern corner of New Mexico, is 250 miles in extent, length, and 150 in extreme breadth, and contains 21,450 square miles, subdivided, from north to south, by Rio Pecos, an important stream which receives within the county numerous tributaries arising in the east side of the Great Range.

The western part of the county is divided by mountains, locally known as the Gallinas, Hieronillas, Carrizos, Sierra Blanca, &c., all portions of the Great Mountain Range dividing eastern New Mexico. The peaks of these ranges vary from—Gallinas and Jack's Peak, about 6,000 feet, to Carizo, 9,200, Nogal, 10,000, and Sierra Blanco, 12,000.

The population of the county was 5,000 in 1880, now about 8,000. The towns other than White Oaks, are Lincoln, San Patricio, Picacho, Weed, Dowlin's Mill, Galena, Roswell, Seven Rivers, Three Rivers, Bonito, Nogal, Parsons and Lookout.

Two-thirds of the county consists of fine grazing land, mainly well watered, and stocked with 200,000 head of cattle, an increase of 1,000 per cent in 5 years. The Angora goat has made his appearance in the mountain of Lincoln county, and he is here to stay. He range where nothing else will, and is exceedingly profitable to his owner. There are but few sheep in the county, about 15,000 horses and mules, and burros, (Anglicè Jackasses,) like the sands of the seashore for multitude.

On the Penasco, Ruidoso, Bonito, Hondo, Seven Rivers, Black River, and Pecos, there are the finest of agricultural lands. Fine farms have been opened on all those streams, and upon them has been produced in exceptional quality and quantity every farm products which can be raised at such an elevation. The experience of the late Chas. Fritz demonstrated that Lincoln county will produce in abundance all the northern fruits. The agricultural interest is already important, and growing—Experiments show that in most portions of the county crops can be raised without irrigation.

Mines were first discovered in the county in 1869. Nothing was done in the way of mining until 1879. Because of lack of capital and distance from communication, the mining industry languished until 1884. Now the product of Nogal and White Oaks districts is an important part of the total gold production of the Territory of New Mexico, and the prospects are that that production will be trebled in 1889.

The heat is not great in Summer, nor is the cold excessive or long continued in winter.

There is a piece of ground in this county for every inhabitant of the United States, 100x125 feet, or for each family in the United States almost an acre and a half. The valuation of the county is upwards of $8,000,000, an increase of 900 per cent in 5 years. WITH GERMAN DOCTORS.

AN INVALID'S EXPERIENCE WITH DISAGREEING PHYSICIANS.

Treatment Recommended in a Map in Search of Health—"When Doctors Disagree" It Is Sometimes Bad for the Patient—The Result.

In the month of August, 1888, I came down from Engelberg to Lucerne. The next day I met a friend who, knowing of my search for health, informed me that the great lung specialist, Professor Kussmaul, of Strasburg, was at Rigi-Kaltbad and advised that I consult him. Within a few hours I had made an appointment by telegraph, and the following day the train carried me from Vitznau up the famous Rigi mountain. The doctor—a perfect type of a German professor—received me cordially, auscultated my lungs with care, and pronounced the following opinion. Said he: "You are not a very sick man, and, with prudence, ought to live to old age. I find a catarrhal condition at the base of the right lung. This you should try to remove. The lung is slightly at that point adhesive and I think it can be made to work." (b) [illegible] Dr. Vidart, the physician of the Divonne establishment, will arrange a cold douche to fall directly on the catarrhal point with great force, say from a height of twenty to thirty feet. A few weeks of such treatment will help to remove this catarrhal condition."

I paid a liberal fee and returned to Lucerne. The doctor's advice filled me with concern. I feared that such a violent shock might induce hemorrhage. The same night I wrote particulars of this interview with a request for advice to Dr. Mesing, a clever physician of Meran, Tyrol, who knew my condition perfectly. Three days later came the laconic response: "Do not go Divonne, that treatment dangerous for you. Mesing." So I did not go, but went to Italy and, later, Mentone instead.

The following summer I spent several weeks at Richenhall, Bavaria. I heard so much of the ability of a Dr. Schmid that I consulted him. His diagnosis and treatment agreed with that of Professor Kussmaul. He advised strong douches on the affected part of the lung. I still had my doubts. The next day I consulted Professor Schneider. He rather undecidedly advised against the douche by business. A day or two after I had my chest thumped by Dr. Kammerer, a physician of reputation. He opposed the douche idea most decidedly. Said he: "It can only do you harm. You eat well, sleep well, feel well and, to all practical purposes, are well. Be satisfied! Don't try dangerous experiments." The balance stood—two for cold water treatment, three against. So I will keep away from Divonne.

A few months later, en route from Frankfort to Baden-Baden, I left the train at the little station whence cab drives to Falkenstein. I was curious to inspect the great Badearium and to meet the eminent Professor Dettweiler. Soon after arriving I had the professor pronounce on my condition, telling him the treatment Kussmaul had advised. Dettweiler thought it a good idea, said, however, that it was not necessary to go to Divonne, that a fine water cure establishment was conducted at Baden-Baden; that I should call on Dr. Schlepp, a leading ability physician of the Empress of Germany, who thoroughly understood water cure treatment, and would arrange to give me the douche treatment required. I left Falkenstein delighted. At last I was to have my disease. The very day I reached Baden-Baden I went for Dr. Schlepp—a bright, white haired young man, who has a hobby that a majority of lung and throat diseases originate from breathing through the mouth. I explained to him all that Dettweiler had said. He examined me attentively, then asked what form of bath I was to take before douching. I answered that for many years I had taken a daily cold sponge bath, followed by vigorous massage. "That," said Dr. Schlepp, "is all you need. I see no necessity for any cold douches in your case." Cheated again!

The great part of the winter in Mentone. I had a case before Dr. Bliegr. He opinion was that the treatment proposed would do me much good, but that it would do me no harm. Then I consulted Dr. Cube, a Russian physician. He most emphatically believed in the treatment, and urged me to go to Divonne. Then I went to Nice and consulted Dr. Drummond, a Scotchman. He just as emphatically, with the broadest brogue, said: "Don't you go to Divonne. You'll leave the machine."

My medical balance now stood four in favor, five against and one on the fence. The physicians of greatest reputation, however, favored the treatment. I had pondered on the subject some two years, and as I finally decided that I should at least visit Divonne. In the month of April, 1891, therefore, I entered the Etablissement Hydrotherapique de Divonne, and stood in the presence of Dr. Vidart. I explained to him the original suggestion of Professor Kussmaul, that a very violent cold water shock should be made to fall on the diseased part of the lung, with all the other medical pros and cons. The doctor devoted considerable time and care to the examination, and finally delivered the following opinion: "Cold water douches will do you good, but not violent douches, and the whole body must be douched except the very part which has the chronic catarrhal affection."

Comment unnecessary. Did I follow the treatment? Yes, for five weeks. Did it benefit me? Not. It robbed me of flesh and vitality, which it took me two years to regain.—Louis H. Ehrich in New York Tribune.

An Actor's Memory Fails.

Proctor used to relate laughingly how one night, just as he was finishing a tirade in the role of Hippolyto in "Phedre," while the people were laughing on his lips, his memory suddenly failed him, precisely at the last two verses. It was impossible to slacken the movement in order to wait for the cue from the prompter. In a moment he seized the situation, and with a magnificent transport, without stopping to take breath, he ejaculated two Alexandrines in some Volapuk gibberish, which, of course, nobody understood, but nevertheless he was applauded uproariously, so much so, he recited his gesture, his tone of voice and, in a word, the "mouvement," rendered the improvised language clear, eloquent and expressive.—C. Coquelin in Harper's Magazine.

Carried in Canes.

The cigarette case in handsomely mounted horn, so walking stick. A gold or the silver lead throws open a whole joint of the reed and exposes a dozen or two cigarettes neatly packed, all the better intended to keep out and smoked at the owner's pleasure. Once quite as innocent looking sometimes was the gold of beauty in a stringer bottle or vial, and the exquisite quite frequently carried it, or rather carried in the fashion it was part of his walking stick.—New York Press.

White Oaks & Lincoln Co.

The Arcadia and Hesperides of the World.

The Colconda and Elysium of the Continent.

White Oaks is a town of about 1,200 people, and is situated on Sec. 34, Town 6, Range 11 east, in the western part of Lincoln County, New Mexico. At the last general election there were cast in the town, 222 votes, while the Registration was 318. During the year 1888 there was expended in various improvements upwards of $200,000. The distance from Carrizozo on the A. T. & S. F. R. R., 41 miles; 103 miles from Socorro; on the main line, 155 miles from El Paso, Texas, and 40 from Lincoln, the County seat. The distance from Liberal, Kansas, the terminus of the Rock Island system in Kan., is 580 miles. R. R. lines are now being constructed either from El Paso, Texas, and Liberal, Kansas. Both lines will be completed before Jan. 1st 1890.

White Oaks is the largest town in the county, and the seat of an important supply trade. It is finely situated in a valley, among the spurs of the Carrizo range, at an elevation of 6,470 feet above sea level. It has two religious organizations—Methodist and Congregationalist, a large and prosperous public school, and an Academy; two weekly newspapers supply mental pabulum. The various social and charitable organizations are Knights of Pythias, Young Men's Benevolent Association; 75 strong; Free Masons, with a Hall in course of construction; Grand Army of the Republic and its auxiliary, the W. R. C., are strong, and having purchased a lot will shortly erect a Hall of their own thereon; the Athletic Club, which meets nightly in Athletic Hall.

Ho-ho, cachee! cachu!! cachoo!!! Yes, that's the old thing as sure as you live. I had several overland refrigerator trains running up and down my spine, and every one of them ahead of time. Do they go? Well, I should remark. They are away ahead of Nellie Bly's time, and at times they forget to stop at the back of my head to change engines, and as they go over my head and—cache! cachoo! hum, h m. Well, I do declare, this thing will kill me sure. Yes, as I was saying, down over my face and body, including my arms, clear down to my toes, and they only stop long enough to compare notes and away they go again. Sometimes, however, they forget to have ice aboard, and instead, coal up and if they don't warm you it's curious. Cachee! What did you say? Who has it? Well, who has'nt it? It is the most playful critter in the country. It has just cut up more pranks within the last few weeks in this burgh than anything I ever saw. It's first real work was among the Weeds, and the way it laid them low was a caution; they just willed. From there it skipped around a Littell and came in the back way through the Lane's, and then came boldly along through the Woodland's and among the Reed's, and did them all up Brown I can tell you, and many of them looked like Whitemen and put them in a genuine Stew-art, and successfully and even went after the Brothers, and made them very Huff-ey, and such sneezing, and coughing, and cachoo! ca—ca—. Oh, yes, I have it. Well, this is fearful, sure enough; and old grippe will win for I am informed it has now got to the Homestake, and that being the end of the race, with full head it's laurels are sure. Many people feel awful Bigg(s) because old grippe called on them, and the entire country has the big head over it. Oh! oh!—my head! Well I must take another dose of pizen, so good bye. Cachoo-oo-oo!

A MARE'S NEST.

An El Paso paper comes out this week with an article under flaming head-lines announcing a new and prodigiously rich coal find within 80 miles of El Paso, or, to be still more explicit, at Guadalupe Peak, the vein being 10 feet.

We regret the necessity which impels pricking this bubble. Like the sea-serpent story, this rich deposit of coal at Guadalupe Peak bobs up periodically only to sink and rise again when credulity becomes sleepy. That this find is no "find" at all is patent to all old stagers, as it will be to those who are now biting at the deceptive bait.

For years past much money has been invested and lost in developing float coal finds at Ft. Stanton, in the Bonito, Nogal and other districts. A few years since we invested with others in a rich (?) prospect. We resolved ourselves into a syndicate and thought we had a down-hill pull to a fortune. The managers of our company offended several gentlemen because they were refused cash interests in our discovery. Sligh came out in his paper calling for a boycott against each and all of us, declaring it to be our purpose to establish a rival town to White Oaks in the vicinity of our discovery. As our investment melted so did our discovery and hopes. We've been there, and know what we're talking about when we say that the best coal and largest depo it in the Territory is in the White Oaks district, and we hazard nothing in predicting that the Guadalupe Peak find will prove to be a veritable "mare's nest."

S. A. MCCLELLAN and family left, bag and baggage, last Sunday, for Roswell, where they propose engaging in the bakery and confectionary trade. If they could read, the LEADER would doubtless follow them to their new home.—Inasmuch as they never did take it we naturally infer that they can't read. This will be unwelcome news to some of the Roswell people as it will imply that their new neighbors will not keep book accounts in their business.

News comes to us that J. H. Mills, Register of the Land Office at Roswell, and Department Commander of the G. A. R., is dead. It will be our mournful duty to publish his obituary next week.

FOOT FOUNDERED!

The common lot is one of suffering—at least—the possibilities, they why look at the worst side. Certainly what would otherwise be a bright existence, is often shadowed by some ailment that overhangs it like a pall, obscuring perpetually the radiance that else would light the path. Such an ailment, and a very common one, is nervousness, or in other words, weakness of the nervous system, a condition only irremediable where inefficient or improper means are taken to relieve it. The concurrent experience of nervous people who have persistently used Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is, that it conquers entirely supersensitiveness of the nerves, as well as diseases—so called—which are invited and sustained by their chronic weakness. As the nerves gain stamina from the great tonic the trouble disappears. Use the Bitters for malaria, rheumatism, biliousness and kidney troubles.

WE are not all indebted to our reminiscent correspondent, Fowler, for taking up so much time to complete his recollections as to break connection. He reminds us of a fashionable woman who never goes to church until after services have commenced in order that she may exhibit her person to the congregation and never fails exposing what should be hidden. It is the last time he will have opportunity to deceive our readers. If his remnant does'nt arrive in time for next week's LEADER, on it's reception it will be thrown into the waste-basket, and the important, highly interesting contribution of G. Gauss, he who saddled Billy the Kid's hero when that freebooter escaped from the Lincoln County jail, (a large part of which is already in type,) will be presented.
