It is moved by S. C. Wiener that the order for the establishment of the above-described road be rescinded and that the petition praying for the establishment of said road be rejected, which motion was seconded by Sipio Salazar, Carried. And S. F. Mathews protests against said action for the reason that J. E. West and his attorney of record, have had no notice of any action to be taken in the matter by this board; that said board has acted without the introduction of any testimony further than oral statement.

Now comes Ira Wetmore and prays this board for the establishment of the following described road: Leaving the Nogal road about 200 yards above Thos. J. Kyle's house; thence in a north-east direction to north line of southeast quarter of northeast quarter and southwest quarter of northwest quarter section 6 township 9, r 14 east, this being the section line between the land of J. Shely and protests against the establishment of the above described road: unless the said road is established on dividing line of Saunders and Raymons land. Letter from W. M. Murray protesting against the establishment of said road was read. The board having heard the arguments of A. H. Hudspeth on behalf of A. L. Shely and Ira Wetmore on behalf of himself, did order and decree as follows, to-wit: It is moved by S. C. Wiener, that the above described road be established on dividing line between Raymonds and Saunders, which said motion was seconded by Sipio Salazar and carried. Raymond is to give 3 feet on said road and Saunders 30 feet as required by law, and Ira Wetmore is to put said road in good traveling condition within 30 days from date.

Now comes S. F. Mathews, on behalf of T. B. Garst et al., and prays this board for the establishment of a public road described as follows: Running from W. B. Puckett's to Bonito. Road runs through R. A. Hunnicutt's land, s 1/2 sec 26 and n 1/4 of n 1/4 of sec 35; thence through W. Hunnicutt's land, s 1/4 of n 1/4 sec 35; thence through James E. Cree's land, n 1/4 of s 1/4 sec 34, thence through J. R. Bond's place, s 1/4 of sec 34, and n 1/4 of n 1/4 of sec 3, tp 10 s, r 13 east, and thence to intersect with old Nogal road running to Bonito at Crockett's place; said new road leaving Angus and Capitan road about one half mile west of Puckett's place. Thence running westerly across a stony point of Hunnicutt's field. Thence running on southside of said Hunnicutt's field, fence and intersecting with old road at the crossing of the Arroya where the Nogal and Angus roads cross the arroya; thence westerly up a draw on the old road intersecting with Nogal road in section 34; and H. B. Ferguson appearing on behalf of James E. Cree in opposition to the establishment of the above described road, and the board, having heard the arguments of counsel for both parties, it is moved by S. C. Wiener that the former order establishing the above described road be rescinded and that the petition praying for the establishment of said road be rejected. The motion was seconded by Sipio Salazar and carried. And now S. F. Mathews and gives notice of appeal.

Burlesques on Justice.

From Current Issue, Texas.

No one familiar with the conditions can question that men are fast losing that degree of respect for the courts that is at all times desirable. One were not justified in saying that the courts are coming into contempt; but it is undoubtedly true that so frequently do murderers go scott free, or escape with a punishment so inadequate as to be a mockery of justice, that many men seriously question whether the courts are able to offer that protection against murders to which society is entitled.

This is a dangerous condition. It is time for remedial action when the law-abiding no longer have confidence in the courts and the lawless no longer have fear of them. Such a feeling marks a far step toward a return to the law of barbarism, which upholds the rights of might.

The multitude of technicalities with which the law has been encumbered have been incorporated in the law for the laudable purpose of safeguarding the citizen in all the rights of an innocent man. But the purpose of some of these technicalities has been so perverted that, instead of protecting innocence, they shield guilt. Practice seems to show that in our zeal to safeguard the rights of the innocent man, we have in reality gone to the succor of the criminal.

No one needs to be told how difficult it is to prove, according to the technical forms of the law, that which is morally certain. Many a juror has agreed to a verdict of acquittal, though morally convinced that the man whom he freed was guilty. But his discretion was restricted by technicalities of the law that he had no alternative than to agree to a verdict which he believed to be almost absurd.

Soldiers' Incidental Hurts.

Said an Eighty-Sixth Illinois man, "I did not run to bullet wounds, but I had bruises until I couldn't rest, and in the army a bruise was a bruise, as I learned by long and painful experience. I got my first bruise before I had been in the service sixty days. That was at Perryville, Oct. 8, 1862. We were lying down behind a rail fence when a bullet from the rifle of a rebel sharpshooter struck a rail right above my head, flattened out like a pancake, glanced off in my direction, struck me on the shoulder, leaving a black and blue spot as big as my hand. That bullet hurt me worse than if it had gone through me, and yet I was reported bruised, not wounded.

"Again at Jay's sawmill at Chickamauga a flattened ball or a piece of a shell grazed me so close as to bruise and blister the skin, and again I got no sympathy and was laughed at for not tallying a hit. At Buzzard's Roost in May, 1864, we fought in a corn field from early morning before daylight until 8 o'clock at night. Along in the afternoon, tuckered out with the hot fighting and the hot weather, I squared myself behind a tree for a rest.

"I told the boys I was going to take a nap. This was meant to be a joke, but, sitting against the tree, I went to sleep, my head wobbled to one side, exposing my camp-kettle hat, and a Johnnie put a bullet through the hat so close to my head as to cut the hair. I awoke with a start, to be laughed at by the boys. I got another scratch at Kenesaw and a blister or bruise at Peach Tree Creek, and another at Jonesboro, but I got no furlough on any of them. I can't truthfully say that I was wounded, and yet that bruise on my shoulder troubles me to this day."

"I had worse luck than that," said the sergeant. "On the night our division crossed the Tennessee river in the march on Chattanooga, in September, 1863, I met with the queerest mishap that ever befell a soldier. I had been on heavy duty for two days and nights and it seemed to me I couldn't keep awake another minute if all of Bragg's army came swooping down the gorge through which we were moving. I remember looking up at the ruins of the high bridge and trestlework at Falling Water, between Shellmound and Lookout mountain, and then all was blank.

"I had gone to sleep, walking. We were marching in fours, rifles at a right-shoulder shift, and the men on either side stood shoulder to shoulder, so for a time I slept and walked. When a turn came in the road the mechanism of my body, set for going ahead, stopped, and I went down like a log, my rifle striking me a cruel blow and my face striking the rough ground. I was hurt worse than if a bullet had gone through my arm, but in my pain and misery I heard the laughs and shouts of the men jeering me. I carry the marks of that fall today, but the men of the old company would call me a fraud if I should say I was wounded at Falling Water."

"My most painful wound," said the Captain, "did not come from bursting shell, or rifle bullet or saber cut. In going up Missionary Ridge I was close behind a great big fellow, who pushed his way through brush and abattis after the manner of a fly-bitten bull. At one point he bent forward the sharpened prongs of a branch of a fallen tree, and, releasing himself, let the sharp points fly back. They struck me at the knee, with the swiftness of a swinging saber, tore my trousers on that leg, and left three great gashes across the knee. It was not a wound from the soldier's point of view, and I did not fall out. I climbed on, blind with pain, and I carry the scars to this day, but I was not among those reported wounded."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Farragut's First Command.

The story of a boy of 12 years acting as commander of a ship seems rather wonderful, yet Farragut was but twelve years and four days old when he was put in command of the Barclay, a prize ship taken by Capt. Porter. In consideration of his tender years, says the author "Twenty-Six Historic Ships," the former English master of the vessel was sent in her for the possible benefit the young prize master might find in his advice. Farragut tells the story of the queer division of authority in his journal as follows:

"I considered that the day of trial had arrived, for I was a little afraid of the old fellow, as every one else was. But the time had come for me at least to play the man; so I mustered up courage and informed the captain that I desired the maintopsail filled away in order that we might close up with the Essex Junior. He replied that he would shoot any man who dared to touch a rope without his orders. He would go his own course, and had no idea of trusting himself with 'a blasted nutshell,' and then he went below for his pistols.

"I called my right-hand man of the crew and told him that I wanted the maintopsail filled. He answered with a clear 'Aye, are, sir,' in a manner that was not to be misunderstood, and my confidence was perfectly restored.

"From that moment I became master of the vessel, and immediately gave all necessary orders for making sail, notifying the captain not to come on with his pistols unless he wished to go overboard, for I really would have had very little trouble in having such an order obeyed."—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

Rare Southern Flag.

The "Richmond Grays," organized seventeen years before the civil war, had a fine silk flag, the Stars and Stripes, which was carried by Color Sergeant J. T. Rodgers until 1859, when a new one was obtained and carried until the company went into the Confederate service. During the civil war the wife of Sergeant Rodgers carefully preserved the original flag, which was presented to this post when it visited Richmond in 1866. It is still in excellent condition, and it attracts much attention from those who visit the hall of the John A. Andrew Post 15 at Boston, for the first time, as it has a prominent position in the hall.

Many women are denied the happiness of children through derangement of the generative organs. Mrs. Beyer advises women to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered with stomach complaint for years. I got so bad that I could not carry my children but five months, then would have a miscarriage. The last time I became pregnant, my husband got me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the first bottle I was relieved of the sickness of stomach, and began to feel better in every way. I continued its use and was enabled to carry my baby to maturity. I now have a nice baby girl, and can work better than I ever could before. I am like a new woman."

Tallest Building on Earth.

A New York dispatch says that the tallest building on earth is to be erected in lower Broadway if the present plans are carried out. With five stories below the street level, forty stories high from the entrance to the top floor, and surmounted by a sixty-foot tower, the gigantic new building will have a total height of 615 feet, making it over twice as high as the Flatiron building, and almost as tall again as the Park Row building, which at present holds the record.

This building would extend one full block on Broadway, and its cost, including the site, will reach $10,000,000. The land is said to have been secured, and the completion of the building within one year is promised.

Value of the Cashew Nut.

Agricultural scientists are unqualifiedly enthusiastic over the future of the Cashew nut, which grows in Porto Rico on a tree which attains a height forty feet. Roasted, no other nut can compare with it in delicious flavor in the opinion of David G. Fairchild, agricultural explorer for the United States. "Burnt almonds," said Mr. Fairchild, "are flat in comparison." The government believes that American candy manufacturers have a good thing in the Cashew nut, and that a big market for it could be created. Mr. Fairchild recommends that groves be started at once, and that the sale of the nut be pushed. "It is bound to gain popularity," said he; "in fact, the prospects for the Cashew nut are really wonderful." Oil, ink, gum, tar, mucilage, cosmetics, and dyes are made from it.

GIVES "GO"

Food That Carries One Along.

It's nice to know of food that not only tastes delicious but that puts the snap and go into one and supplies standing power for the day.

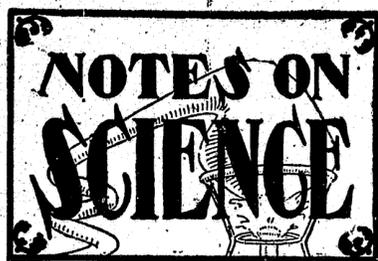

A woman says: "I have taken enough medicine in my time to furnish a drug store, but in later and wiser years I have taken none but have depended, for the health I now enjoy, on suitable and sustaining food of which I keep on hand a tested variety, plain but nourishing.

"Of these my main dependence is Grape-Nuts, especially if I have before me a day of unusual effort either mental or physical. In this case I fortify myself the first thing in the morning with about 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts moistened with cream and not much else for breakfast and the amount of work I can then carry through successfully without fatigue or exhaustion is a wonder to those about me and even to myself.

"Grape-Nuts food is certainly a wonderful strengthener and is not a stimulant, for there is no reaction afterwards, but it is sustaining and strengthening, as I have proved by long experience." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason four teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and cream will add more strength and carry one further than a plateful of coarse heavy food that is nearly all waste. Grape-Nuts food is condensed, pre-digested and delicious. It contains the parts of the Wheat and Barley grains that supply the rebuilding parts for Brain and Nerve Centers.

Milan's Traveling Postoffices.

A new form of electric postal wagon lately tried at Milan has met with considerable success. It is used to take the mail from the boxes, stamp it en route and arrange it for distribution through the city or to other towns, cities and countries, thus effecting a considerable saving of time over the method of sorting the mail in the main office after it has been brought in by the carriers. One employe remains in the wagon, and another removes the mail from the boxes and passes it to the one inside, who stamps and sorts it while the wagon is proceeding to the next box. At specified places along the streets carriers receive mail from each section of the city, which permits the letters to be at once distributed without passing through the central office.

Improved Ear Trumpet.

In many cases of deafness which only a short time ago would have been considered incurable the physician has been enabled to at least find some mechanical appliance which would make it possible for the man or woman to catch many sounds which were entirely inaudible before. Of course, these aids to the hearing have been carried about in the hand, as a rule, but the trouble is generally slight in comparison with the advantages gained. Now, however, even this is unnecessary, as the latest appliance of this class is designed to be carried in the hat, without assistance from either hand. The sound receiving bells are located in the crown on either side of the head, and the tubes which convey these sounds to the ears project downward through the rim of the hat, as illustrated. The connecting tubes are capable of adjustment as to length, and the whole arrangement is scarcely noticeable, at least in comparison to the old style ear trumpet or metallic fan formerly used.

Transporting Live Fish.

An interesting experiment is to be made in Germany for the conveyance of live fish from the coast to the inland towns. A Berlin merchant interested in the transportation of fish to the German and Russian markets has devised an arrangement by which a series of water tanks are placed on either side of a railway car, and there it is aerated by contact with the external air. One car fitted with twelve tanks on either side can convey about $40,000 worth of live fish. The arrangement will enable the inhabitants of towns removed from the seaboard to obtain fish in a better condition.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

To Prove what Swamp-Root, the Great Kidney Remedy, Will Do for YOU, Every Reader of this paper May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immediate effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.

14 EAST 120th St., NEW YORK CITY.
OCT. 15th, 1902.
DEAR SIR: "I had been suffering severely from kidney trouble. All symptoms were on hand; my former strength and power had left me; I could hardly drag myself along. Even my mental capacity was giving out, and often I wished to die. It was then I saw an advertisement of yours in a New York paper, but would not have paid any attention to it, had it not promised a sworn guarantee with every bottle of your medicine, asserting that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable, and does not contain any harmful drugs. I am seventy years and four months old, and with a good conscience I can recommend Swamp-Root to all sufferers from kidney troubles. Four members of my family have been using Swamp-Root for four different kidney diseases, with the same good results."
With many thanks to you, I remain,
Very truly yours,
ROBERT BERNER.

You may have a sample bottle of this famous kidney remedy, Swamp-Root, sent free by mail, postpaid, by which you may test its virtues for such disorders as kidney, bladder and uric acid diseases, poor digestion, being obliged to pass your water frequently night and day smarting or irritation in passing, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, headache, backache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is the great discovery of Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist. Hospitals use it with wonderful success in both slight and severe cases. Doctors recommend it to their patients and use it in their own families, because they recognize in Swamp-Root the greatest and most successful remedy.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale at drug stores the world over in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty cents and one dollar. Remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

In less than a month we may look for the ground hog and the politician to come out of their holes

The political pot in Capitan is already commencing to sizzle. Primaries will soon be in order. The people should give close attention to the necessity of sending disinterested, honest men to the conventions. In order to effect this they should attend the primaries, and see that no jobbery is practiced. If the people do their own thinking, and vote as they think, good men will be forced to the front, and the office-hunter relegated to a back-seat.

Marcus A. Hanna.

The death of Senator Hanna, which occurred at Washington at 6:40 p. m. February 15, removes one of the most striking political figures in the history of the United States. His comet-like rise, his determination to succeed and his steadfastness of purpose in pursuing a policy once begun, against the bitterest opposition that ever confronted a man in American politics, gained for him a prominence that was not equaled by any of his colleagues nor surpassed by his predecessors.

Born in Ohio in 1837, he was, therefore, in his sixty-seventh year at the time of his death. He received a common school education, attended college one year and at the age of twenty entered the employ of a grocery concern, of which his father was a member. On the death of his father in 1861, he became a member of the firm, and kept constantly reaching out in other lines, until at the time of his death, his ships, carrying coal and iron, dotted the lakes, making him many times a millionaire. He was married in 1864, and a wife and several children survive him.

But it was in politics that he became so well known to the American people. In a quiet sort of way he began to make his power felt in local matters as early as 1888, and became a national character just before 1896, in advocating the nomination of McKinley: accepted the chairmanship of the republican party, twice electing his friend, and conducted two most exciting campaigns—campaigns in which he was cartooned and caricatured in the most hideous guises—inducting new methods into the contest that swept away all opposition. These methods, it is true, were questioned, if not questionable, but they won, and made Marcus Alonzo Hanna the Warwick of the country.

He was a man celebrated for his warm friendships and his bitter enmities, and while his political opponents sincerely believed that his campaigns were conducted along lines that debauched the political morals of the country, yet they, even, cannot fail to admire his strength of character and his fidelity to his friends. Admitting all these things, we must also acknowledge that, to a certain extent, he had lived down a great many of these animosities that his career in the senate since 1897 has been open and able, and that his death will be sincerely mourned by all sections; and it is but simple justice to say that he was one of the big men of the nation, wielding an influence greater than any man not actually at the head of the government.

There are few Mark Hanna's; his place will be hard, indeed, to fill.

The Russia-Japanese War.

It is difficult to make out the real situation at the seat of war, for the dispatches come in such a hodge podge fashion that they really confuse more than they enlighten. However, war has been in progress for about ten days, a great deal of powder has been burnt, a few ships sunk, a greater number injured and a good many men killed, and the advantage is with Japan.

No really decisive battle has been fought, the object of Japan seeming to be to attract and hold the Russian fleet until she can land troops on Corean soil. In this Japan seem to have achieved in a large measure her purpose, although at Talien Wan, near Port Arthur, a force of 600 Japs

It is the unanimous verdict of the older inhabitants that the winter, so far, has been the warmest and driest within their memory.

It is reported from White Oaks that Judge M. H. Bellomy is seriously ill. His many friends throughout the county will regret his indisposition and hope for his speedy recovery.

E. T. Morton and A. H. Deslow, mining capitalists from Burlington, Kansas, who are interested in some valuable copper property in the Oscura mountains, arrived here yesterday.

As we go to press this morning the first snow of the season is falling with a prospect of it continuing. It will purify the atmosphere, lay the dust, help the farmer and do incalculable good generally.

On this (Friday) evening Myrtle lodge, Knights of Pythias, will give a grand ball and supper in the schoolhouse which promises to eclipse anything in the amusement line given in Capitan for a long time. About 250 invitations were sent out, but if you should happen to have been overlooked, consider this notice an invitation to participate in the social event of the season. Programs, printed in two colors, have been ordered, and we believe they will be appreciated by the guests.

Several assault cases were heard in the justice court this week. Deputy sheriff Gallegos was defendant in one case and complainant in another. The case against the deputy was dismissed, and the defendants in the other case took a change of venue to Richardson. Jury trials in the justice court invariably give satisfaction, and should be called for instead of taking a change of venue, which is generally expensive. There is no good reason for so doing when a jury of six men can be relied upon to do justice.

An Old Timer Returns.

About twenty to twenty-five years ago many eastern men drifted into the mining camps in Lincoln county, and among the number was one Eli Chandler, who made White Oaks his headquarters. He began operations in mines, started a bank with nails for capital and did various other things, a large portion of which was inaugurated with a small outlay of money and a vast expenditure of gall and gas.

He was accompanied by a young man by the name of E. Hough, who was induced by the oily tongued operator to cast his fortunes with him, and Hough, too, like others was left in the lurch by Chandler. Mr. Hough got out of the country the best way he could, but, unlike Chandler, had not forfeited the good opinion of those with whom he came in contact. Mr. Hough went east, became a writer for the periodicals, and a number of his old friends in White Oaks and Lincoln county, many of whom are yet residents of this section, have read his stories—stories which had the scenes laid in the mining camps of this county. Mr. Hough later became editor of Forest and Stream, and is still with the paper, but is now taking a vacation; and in company with his wife arrived in Capitan Tuesday. They visited Lincoln this week and will go on to Roswell, but expect to return and renew old acquaintances in White Oaks and surrounding country.

Mr. Hough is full of reminiscences of his stay here, and asked the writer about this and that old pioneer, some of whom have passed over the river, but many are yet living and will give the glad hand to the author of "Arroya City."

Bob Mallins and Charley Watson were showing some good-looking samples of gold-bearing quartz this week, which they claim is from their prospect on the Rio Bonito. They are of opinion that they have struck a true fissure, with a three-foot vein of pay-rock in place. CONCENTRATED WEALTH.

Twenty-four Men Represent One-Twelfth of the Country's Capital.

One-twelfth of the estimated wealth of the United States is represented at a meeting of the twenty-four directors of the United States Steel Corporation, says World's Work. They represent as influential directors more than 200 other companies. These companies operate nearly one-half of the railroad mileage of the United States. They are the great miners and carriers of coal. This group includes also directors of five insurance companies, two of which have assets of $700,000,000. In the steel board are men who speak for five banks and ten trust companies in New York City, including the First National, the National City and the Bank of Commerce, the three greatest banks in the country, and the head of important chains of financial institutions; for two banks and three trust companies in Philadelphia; for two banks and two trust companies in Chicago; for one bank and two trust companies in Boston, and for one bank and one trust company in Pittsburg, besides banking institutions in smaller cities.

A Physician's Statement.

Yorktown, Ark., Jan. 11.—Leland Williamson, M. D., one of our cleverest physicians, has made a statement, endorsing Dodd's Kidney Pills and saying that he uses them in his daily practice in preference to any other Kidney medicine. His statement has created a profound sensation, as it is somewhat unusual for a physician to publicly endorse anything in the shape of a patent medicine. Dr. Williamson says: "After twenty years' practice in a sickly and malarious country I have come to the conclusion that it is always best to use the remedy that will relieve and cure my patients, whether ethical or not.

"I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills with uniform success in the various forms of Kidney Disease, Pain in the Back, Gout, Rheumatism, Inflammation and Congestion of the Kidneys and all kindred diseases; I always prescribe Dodd's Kidney Pills in such cases and can testify that they invariably restore the Kidneys to their normal state and thereby relieve the blood of accumulated poisons, producing prompt and effective cures."

I was subject to severe attacks of back-ache, always aggravated if I sat long at a desk. Doan's Kidney Pills absolutely stopped my back-ache. I have never had a pain or twinge since."

ERRORS IN EARLY BIBLES.

Humorous Slips That Went Unnoticed by Watchful Eyes.

Although the printing of early English Bibles was conducted with great care, and two of the conclave watched it as the paper went through the press, yet the first editions contained some striking errors. The first edition, because of its translation of Ruth. iii, 15, was called the "He Bible." It read: "And when she held it, he measured six measures of barley, and laid it on her; and he went to the city." The correction to "she went to the city" caused the next edition to be called the "She Bible." Errors in several other versions both preceding and following, the King James Bible have also made them celebrated. Thus, the "Bug Bible" won its name because of its rendering of Psalms xci, 5, "afraid of bugs by night," which is now rendered "terror by night." The "Treacle Bible" rendered Jeremiah, viii, 22, "Is there no treacle in Gilead?" The "Rosin Bible" was an edition of the Douai Bible, which translated this same line, "Is there no rosin in Gilead?" The "Breeches Bible" came by its name because it translated Genesis iii, 7, "Making themselves breeches out of fig leaves." The "Place Makers' Bible" printed Matthew v, 9, "Blessed are the place makers, for they shall be called the children of God." The "Wicked Bible" won its fame from the fact that the negative was omitted from the Seventh Commandment. The printer was fined £300 for the error.—New York Trib-une.

The Unpopular Dolourous Way.
The world has little time for Dante—
Who quotes his gloomy lines? The lays
That bring us gloom are soon forgotten,
We seek to shun the dismal ways;
To him who gives us mirth we gladly
Return our patronage and praise.

The world has little time for trouble
From which it may escape. Be glad
And men will turn aside to greet you,
To hear of joys you may have had.
We coldly turn away from people
When they approach us, looking sad.

Siberian Oaks.

On the state college grounds at Ames, Ia., may be seen a dozen or more large and thrifty trees, Siberian oaks, grown from acorns imported twenty-five years ago. In type they resemble the swamp oak of the Southern states and produce an acorn over one inch in length.

THE OLDEST MAN IN AMERICA

Tells How He Escaped the Terrors of Many Winters by Using Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Brock's
Age is 115
Years.

MR. ISAAC BROCK, BORN IN BUNCOMBE CO., N. C., MARCH 1, 1788.
His age is 115 years, vouched for by authentic record. He says: "I attribute my extreme age to the use of Peruna."

Born before the United States was formed.
Saw 22 Presidents elected.
Pe-ru-na has protected him from all sudden changes.
Veteran of four wars.
Shod a horse when 99 years old.
Always conquered the grip with Pe-ru-na.
Witness in a land suit at the age of 110 years.
Believes Pe-ru-na the greatest remedy of the age for catarrhal diseases.

ISAAC BROCK, a citizen of McLennan county, Texas, has lived for 115 years. For many years he resided at Rosque Falls, eighteen miles west of Waco, but now lives with his son-in-law at Valley Mills, Texas.

A short time ago, by request, Uncle Isaac came to Waco, and sat for his picture. In his hand he held a stick cut from the grave of General Andrew Jackson, which has been carried by him ever since. Mr. Brock is a dignified old gentleman, showing few signs of decrepitude. His family Bible is still preserved, and it shows that the date of his birth was written 115 years ago.

Surely a few words from this remarkable old gentleman, who has had 115 years of experience to draw from, would be interesting as well as profitable. A lengthy biographical sketch is given of this remarkable old man in the Waco Times-Herald, December 4, 1898. A still more pretentious biography of this, the oldest living man, illustrated with a double column portrait, was given the readers of the Dallas Morning News, dated December 11, 1898, and also the Chicago Times-Herald of same date.

This centenarian is an ardent friend of Peruna, having used it many years.

In speaking of his good health and extreme old age, Mr. Brock says: "After a man has lived in the world as long as I have, he ought to have found out a great many things by experience. I think I have done so."

"One of the things I have found out to my entire satisfaction is the proper thing for ailments that are due directly to the effects of the climate. For 115 years I have withstood the changeable climate of the United States."

"I have always been a very healthy man, but of course subject to the little affections which are due to sudden changes in the climate and temperature. During my long life I have known a great many remedies for coughs, colds and diarrhoea."

"As for Dr. Hartman's remedy, Peruna, I have found it to be the best, if not the only, reliable remedy for these affections. It has been my standby for many years, and I attribute my good health and extreme old age to this remedy."

"It exactly meets all my requirements. It protects me from the evil effects of sudden changes; it keeps me in good appetite; it gives me strength; it keeps my blood in good circulation. I have come to rely upon it almost entirely for the many little things for which I need medicine."

"When epidemics of la grippe first began to make their appearance in this country I was a sufferer from this disease."

"I had several long sieges with the grip. At first I did not know that Peruna was a remedy for this disease. When I heard that la grippe was epidemic catarrh, I tried Peruna for la grippe and found it to be just the thing."

In a later letter dated January 31, 1903, Mr. Brock writes:

"I am well and feeling as well as I have for years. The only thing that bothers me is my sight. If I could see better I could walk all over the farm and it would do me good. I would not be without Peruna."

Yours truly,

Isaac Brock,
