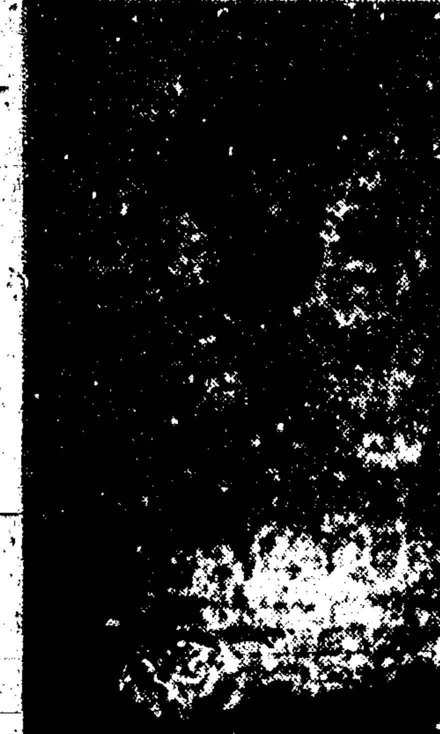
RAMBLIN' AROUND



ALONZO ('ZO) ELLIOTT
American Composer

Mr. Elliott, who is in Lincoln County, composing a grand opera, based on the life of Billy the Kid, has written an amusing ballad about a derelict cow that was permitted to range with the herd for many years by winning the sympathy of the cow pokes. The Papago Cow always showed up at round-up time with a new-born calf. The poetic story follows:

THE BALLAD OF THE PAPAGO COW

Come, hark to the lore of the Papago cow,
She ain't here no longer, she ain't here now,
Yet, her memory lingers on.

She was small, she was quick,
 and a light sickly yellow
But, O lordy me, how the critter
 could bellow,
This notable Papago cow.

And an outright disgrace to a regular herd,
But as wise as an owl, and as
 swift as a bird,
With a character quite individual.

Now, each on-coming year, when the spring round-up came She would sure have a calf, or else simply go lame
With a foresight invincibly canny.

With a tone in her voice, quite heart-breaking, but mild,
"Not a poor feeble cow with a recent-born child,"
She would seem to lament to us
 cowboys,

She'd argue her claim, it was wrong to disdain
With such words to restrain,
"Not a poor girl that's brought you a family."

And so never a year, as the quick seasons flew Could we drive the cow off to the City for glue—
As for meat she was worthless and stringy.

Plot and plan as we could, she would just sort of laugh
When each year she'd appear with a newly born calf
As the spring round-up season fell on us.

As sequestered she was, still she stayed quite ubiquitous And never would fail of some male quite solicitous,
The season or weather whatever.

So the round-ups came 'round,
 and in numbers they grew,
While the cowpokes did curse,
 with nary a stew
Nor a dime from her withering carcass.

Two years we had missed her,
 and all I do vow,
Commenced to inquire for the
 Papago cow.
How they'd long to entice her to market.

"Plumb good riddance," said
 some. "We're sorry," a few;
"And at least we should given her one barbeque,
Just to honor her, once when departing."

Yet, when two years were by,
 what attracted the eye,
Were two Papago cows which came ranging quite nigh,
With each one as like as the other.

"And it's neither my sister, and
 neither my aunt;
For this daughter of mine is a young debutante," Mooed the Papago cow quite de-murely.

So with comfortable mien, and
 the gait of a queen,
She failed to explain where on earth she had been,
As she gazed on us all quite securely.

Hard hearted the men with the poor critter when She contended it wasn't the season then,
As we all russled 'round to corral her.

Then through sagebrush and cactus, o'er gully and rise
We sweated our saddles and blistered our thighs
In a chase that was cruel and gory.

And we tattered our shirts, and our chaps and our tails,
'Til we herded her excellence
 back of the rails
Along with her debutante

HISTORY RELIVED AT DEDICATION OF COURTROOM

The courtroom at the Old Lincoln County Courthouse was open for business last Sunday after a lapse of many years.

Its restoration completed, attorneys, judges, and spectators from many parts of New Mexico assembled in the courtroom at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

But there were no briefs to present, no pleadings at the bar. Instead it was a happy day of reminiscing and meeting of old-time friends.

The completeness and accuracy of detail of the courtroom restoration was a tribute to the members of the Lincoln County Historical Society and the Museum's curator, John Boylan. It was a cooperative project that took several months to complete.

The courtroom is upstairs in the courthouse — the room in the southeast corner of the building in which Billy the Kid was shackled and from which he made his dramatic escape.

The courtroom's benches were filled Sunday. Some who were unable to find seats stood at the rear and in the hallway. They faced the judge's desk with its high-backed chair and railing in front. To the left was a chair for the witness and to the right a long narrow table for opposing counsel. Farther to the left was the jury box. A large American flag with 45 stars hung behind the judge's desk.

Governor Edwin Mechem arrived at 2 o'clock and took a seat in the jurors' box. Also seated there were his father, Judge Edwin Mechem of Las Cruces, District Judge C. Roy Anderson of Carlsbad, District Judge George Harris of Roswell, District Judge W. T. Scoggin of Las Cruces and Attorney Hiram Dow of Roswell. The latter's father was a deputy U. S. Marshall in the Seven Rivers area in frontier days.

MANY INTRODUCED

At the judge's dais sat Charles R. Brice, 84, former chief justice of the New Mexico Supreme Court. Now practicing law in Roswell, he had presented a lengthly case in court only the previous week. Mr. Brice made a number of introductions. All spoke briefly.

Gov. Mechem said the State Memorial Commission was made up of seven members—six of whom are from Southeast New Mexico. He paid tribute to the State's jurists—present and past.

Members of the Memorial Commission introduced were Mrs. U. D. Sawyer, Cross Roads, chairman; Col. E. L. Lusk of Roswell, vice-chairman; A. T. Pfingsten of Hondo, secretary-treasurer, and Frank Mayhill of Mayhill, N. M.

Mr. Mayhill said he witnessed such scenes in Lincoln in the old days "such as is taking place today and that is why it is being set aside as a State monument." He first visited Lincoln in 1883, buying up cattle from the Spanish people to drive back to Penasco. There were oxcarts and and teams on the streets then, instead of convertibles.

"COURT WITHOUT LAW"

Judge Edwin Mechem said he started coming to Lincoln County in 1911, before the courthouse was built in Carrizozo. He spent considerable time in Lincoln as attorneys had to do their own abstracting work at that time. He told how an early day judge looked upon him with suspicion one day when he appeared in court with an armful of law books. "What are you going to do with those books?" the judge asked. Mechem, the young attorney replied: "I'm going to read some law." The judge was not to be deterred. "This court has been run without any law for a long time and we don't want to start now," he said.

Judge Brice introduced Dee Harkey, 88-year-old frontier deputy U. S. Marshall, as being "more" experienced in western life than any I know of."

Hiram Dow, Roswell attorney, gave a brief, humorous talk. He facetiously remarked that Judge Brice once fined him $50, for contempt of court because he called an opposing attorney "a liar." Judge Mechem, he said, on the other hand, was always pleasant, always agreeable. "In fact," Dow said, "Judge Mechem smiled most of my clients into the penitentiary."

A highlight of the afternoon was the introduction of three women, all pioneers of Lincoln town. They were Mrs. Florencita Miranda, 93; Mrs. Sixta Lujan, 86, and Mrs. Frank Salazar, who said she was "around 80."

Mrs. Miranda said that Lincoln had no school at first and, when one was opened it was in session only three months out of the year. She said she knew Billy the Kid by sight.

Mrs. Lujan, who was born in Manzano, also said she knew Billy the Kid a little. "I saw him go by."

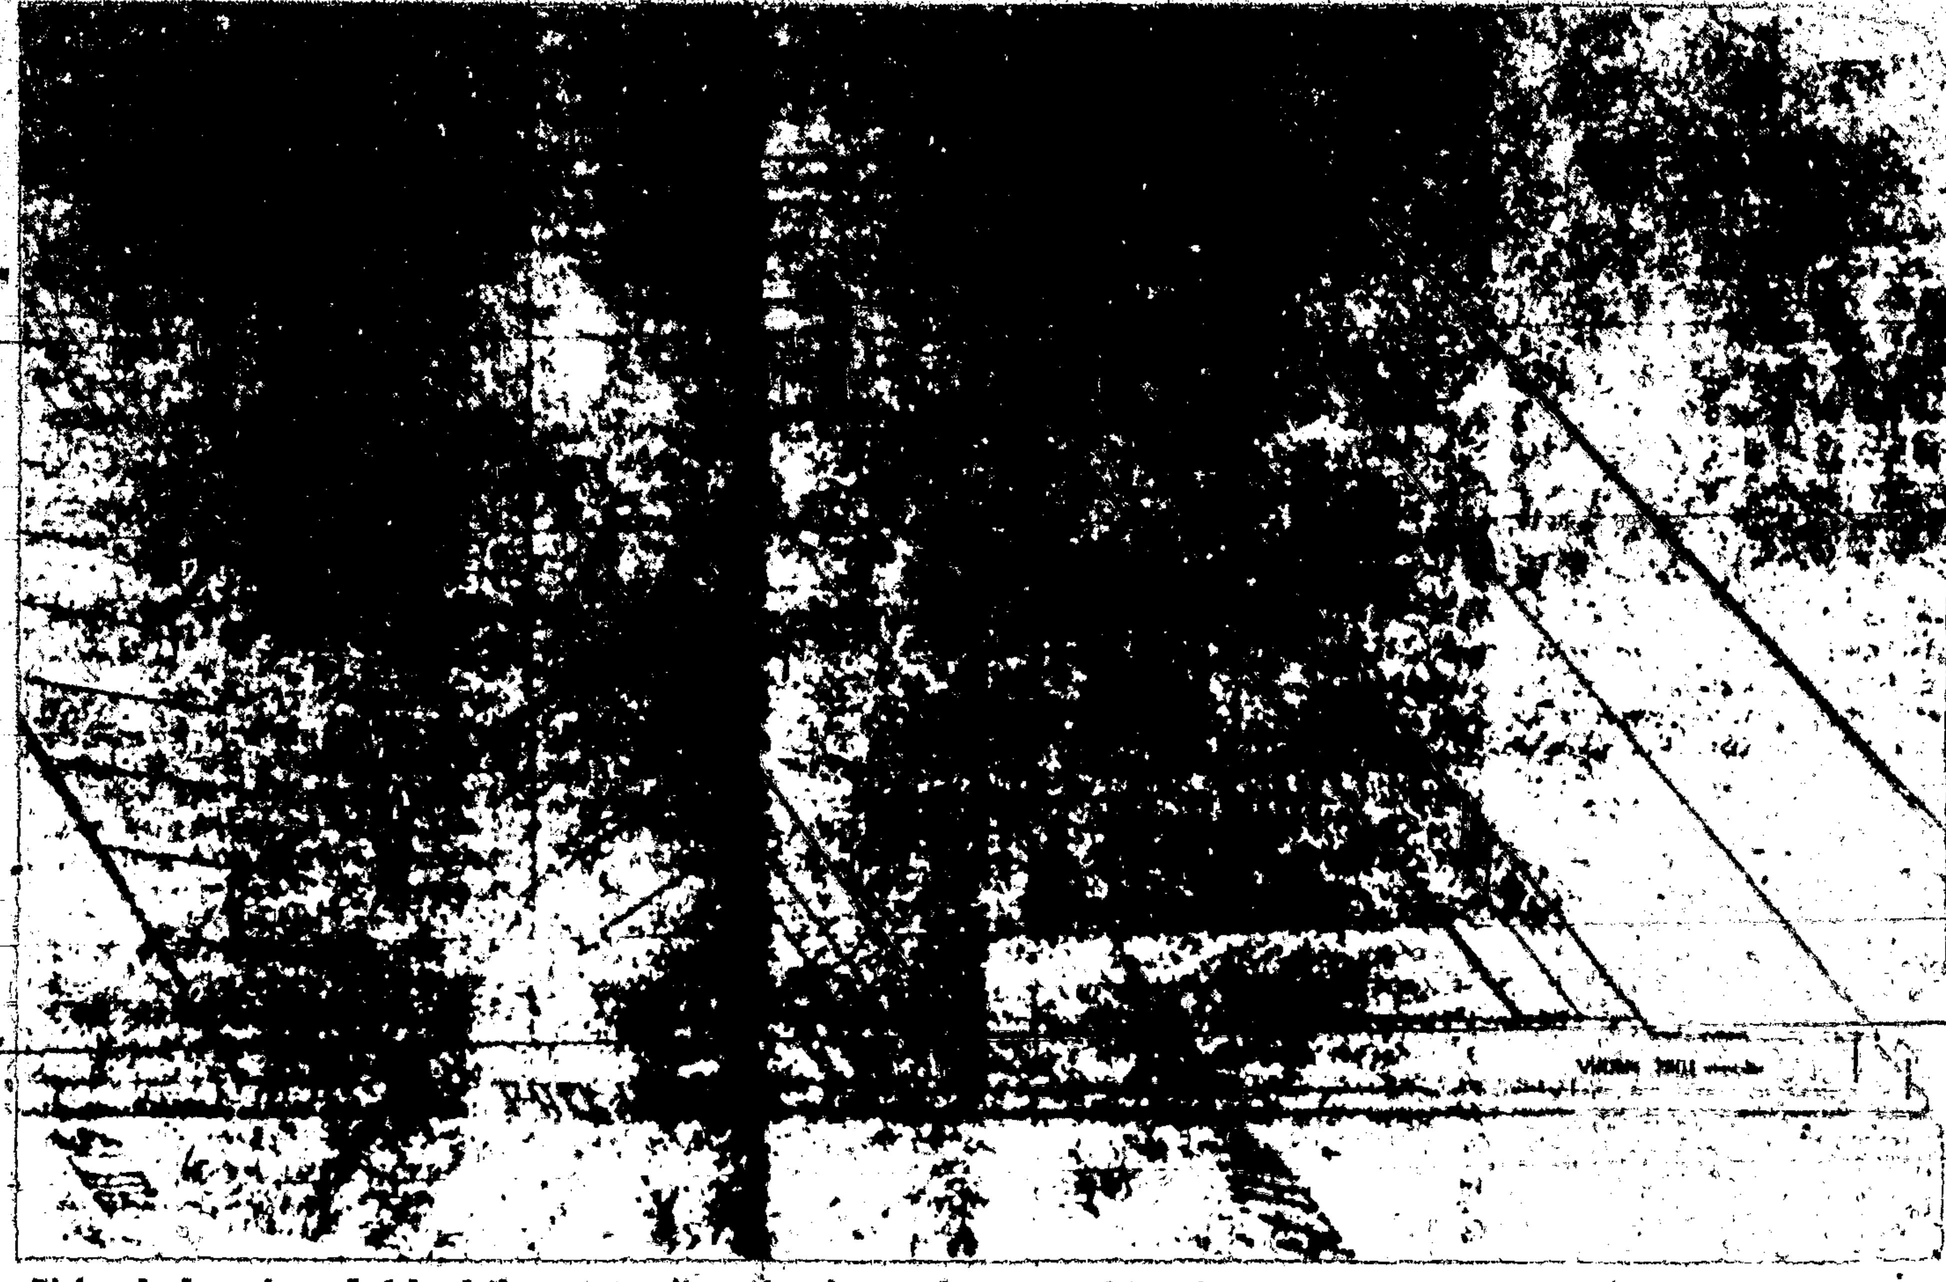
Mrs. Salazar was born and raised in Lincoln. She is the daughter of Capt. Saturnino, the "Father of Lincoln County." She said her father owned the land upon which the Torreon was built with the help of friends and neighbors.

Others introduced were Ott Askren, 75-year-old Roswell attorney, and Clark Hust, 87, of Las Cruces.

One of the interested visitors to the dedication was Alvin Stockton, Republican candidate for governor.

Members of the New Mexico Mounted Patrol, Troop 5, were on traffic detail at the courthouse during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Boylan served punch in their living quarters in the courthouse at the conclusion of the dedication.



Pictured above is a sketch of the community swimming pool to be built in Carrizozo. The plans and specifications have been submitted to the State Health Department for approval. It is expected they will be returned within a week. The 35 x 75 ft. pool will accommodate approximately 150 at one time. Five additional donations of $100 each are reported by finance committee chairman Joe Sargent, as follows: Food Mart, Harvey Cattle Co., A. E. Huntsinger, H. Elfred Jones and Pat's Package Store. The total now stands at $3600, with approximately $1400 more needed. The above sketch was prepared by U. S. Army Privates Reuben Suggs and Charles T. Witt, based at the Red Canyon Camp.

COE RANCH IS PLACE OF BEAUTY IN RUIDOSO VALLEY

Although recent hot dry winds have taken their toll, the spacious gardens surrounding the Coe home at Glencoe, are still a beautiful sight. Outstanding among the blooms are those of delphinium, roses and a large lilly plant with a profusion of white flowers of great beauty, and delicately tinted petals.

The Ruidoso River is dry at the Coe ranch for the first time since 1934. Dry weather has, however, been responsible for a fine hay yield of 2 tons per acre. Pears at the Bonnell and Coe ranches will probably yield a fair crop, but the apples from San Patricio westward are estimated to have suffered a 90% loss.

Underground Water Problems Discussed At Cloudcroft Meeting

At the request of several members of the New Mexico Farm & Livestock Bureau's State Water Board, State Engineer John Erickson attended a meeting Friday afternoon in Cloudcroft.

Purpose of the meeting was to get clarification on a number of points regarding the declaration of underground water basins in the Upper Hondo and Sacramento-Penasco districts.

An explanation was sought why these districts had been declared and advertised.

Attending the meeting from the Hondo area were A. T. (Bert) Pfingsten, Ernest McDaniel and E. E. Miller.

Representing the Sacramento-Penasco district were John Merhaun, Charlie Cleave and Mr. Burgess.

One question asked Engineer Erickson was: "If the Penasco and Hondo areas are secondary recharge areas for the Roswell Artesian Basin; (1) Can a water right be transferred from the Roswell area to the Penasco area? (2) Can a water right be transferred from the Penasco area to the Roswell area?

Mr. Erickson said he did not have an immediate answer to this question.

"How," he was asked, "Was the Penasco area found to constitute a secondary recharge area for the Roswell Artesian Basin?" He was asked to send the organization a copy of all data, maps and reports which were used to determine the Penasco area (as well as the Hondo area) secondary recharge areas to the Roswell Artesian Basin.

Another question asked was: "Your office has assumed the Hondo and Penasco areas to be secondary recharge areas for the Roswell Artesian Basin. Where is the primary recharge area?

Numerous other questions were asked during the course of the afternoon, all bearing upon the Farm Bureau's deep concern about declaration of underground water basins.

SKIN DEEP COURTESY AND IRKED CANDIDATES

SANTA FE, June 23. — New Mexico's two candidates for governor who have been running around the State bowing to each other and agreeing on most everything are each brooding a desire to get at the other's throat. Their advisors think it's too early . . . More than $8000 of State money will be laid out to send school people to the NEA convention in New York at the end of this month. Average cost: About $350 . . . Followers of governor-running John Simms are irked because they think Sen. Clint Anderson and other older ones in the Democratic party are treating Johnny like a youngster. He's 37 . . . The conviviality isn't ideal among the Republican candidates either. Alvin Stockton, the nominee for governor, is not completely cordial to some of the other candidates who backed his opponent in the primary . . . Attorney General Dick Robinson's new State Ford was delivered with $500 worth of gadgets — siren, two-way radio, spotlight . . . Statehouse Republicans suspect a couple of their own top appointees of consorting with the opposition to hold their jobs.

MORE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE KIN FOLKS?

Welfare Director Dick Strahlem has been looking into the possibility of getting laws passed here to make kin folks responsible for the care of indigent old, and to give the State authority to recover from the estates of deceased welfare clients the amount of money advanced during their lifetime . . . D. D. Monroe of Clayton has decided to stay on as chief State tax commissioner after a period of indecision . . . His decision was perhaps a disappointment to Comptroller Ed Hartman who reportedly wanted the lower paying but more important tax post.

WALKER'S COLLECTIONS AND TEARS FOR REX

Land Commissioner Johnny Walker stands to show a gain of more than $4 million at the close of the business year July 1. Total take looks like something around $23 million . . . People are watching to see if he goes through with his frequently expressed intention of disbanding his land inventory crew at the end of this month. The crew consists of about twenty widely known politicians who work from their homes and drive State cars . . . Most everybody likes the new Democratic chairman, Tom Brown, but there's a lot of regret that Rex Meador had to be ousted to make room for him . . . Students at Eastern New Mexico University will be forced to pay an extra $30 a year tuition next year because the management of the school got caught in a boner. It had pledged $30 of the tuition money for a debt which Attorney Dick Robinson said couldn't be.

John F. Simms Meets With Local Democrats

John Simms, Democratic nominee for governor, met with a number of members of his party for breakfast Monday morning at the Yucca Grill. Mr. Simms spent the forenoon in Carrizozo. He continued on to Alamogordo and other points on his way to Hobbs where he was to address a State American Legion convention Thursday.

At the breakfast in Carrizozo organization for the current campaign was discussed, as well as political issues, including several planks in the recently adopted Democratic State platform.

Replying to a question on the plank affecting Fort Stanton, Mr. Simms said: "The intent of the wording of the platform plank with reference to the welfare funds was to allocate sufficient funds for Fort Stanton from the State's general fund, similar to other State institutions, rather than from welfare funds. We have no intention of crippling Fort Stanton in any way."

Regarding further government acquisition of land in New Mexico for Army purposes, the gubernatorial candidate said his party's platform opposed further Federal land grabs in New Mexico. "If such acquisition becomes absolutely necessary for National security," he said, "the land should be leased by the Army."

Mr. Simms was accompanied on the trip by Richard Everett, his campaign aide.

Boys' State Delegate Thanks Lions Club

In a letter to the Carrizozo Lions Club, Warren (Sport) Harkey, has expressed his gratitude for the club's sponsoring him as a delegate to the New Mexico Boys' State. His letter says:

"I shall feel indebted to the Lions Club, not only for generously sponsoring me, but also for the numerous other fine community projects. The Lions Club has been the most active of all local organizations in promoting the interests of the young people. I am sure that we, as well as the adults, greatly appreciate your efforts.

"At New Mexico Boys' State I was given a valuable and practical condensed course in democracy. It gave an unparalleled study of city, county and state government. I was also given instruction in law enforcement and court procedures. I was elected to the House of Representatives, where we learned the procedures of writing bills, introducing them and passing them.

"It is impossible to enumerate all the benefits I derived from the course, but the above are some of the more important."

Premium Books Being Printed for State Fair

ALBUQUERQUE (Special) — The fair season is fast approaching . . . and that's more than a weather prediction.

Arrangements are now under way for a succession of county fairs and community celebrations that will enliven the New Mexico scene from now until the New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque Sept. 25-Oct. 3.

Last year's State Fair enjoyed an attendance of 362,000, second only to the banner year of 1952. Premium books are coming off the printing presses and it won't be long until the newspapers start carrying the names of the queens and cowpokes, chosen at county fairs to compete here at the State Fair.

Phone Co. Preparing To Make Refunds

Refunds to subscribers of the Carrizozo telephone exchange will begin with the first billing period after the machinery is set up for making the refunds, Don L. Nett, local manager, reported this week. Mr. Nett recently attended a conference of district and State officials of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co., in Roswell. Details for making refunds were discussed.

The refunds will be approximately 20% of the difference between the rates set several months ago by the company and those now proposed by the company as the basis for more profitable operation.

Refunds will be applied toward the subscribers' bills. If a credit balance remains in favor of the subscriber, it will be applied on the statements of the following billing period, Mr. Nett said.

The company, in asking for increased rates, contends that low earnings in recent years, have not given the company sufficient funds to take care of the demands for increased phone service in New Mexico.

Three Delegates Return From Girls' State

Wanda Guthrie, Dolores Zamora, representing Capitan, and Anne Gallacher from Carrizozo are back from Girls State at the University in Albuquerque, much thrilled by their accomplishments and many friends made. They learned a great deal about municipal, county and state government.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gallacher took the girls to Albuquerque and brought them back.

Five Millionth Pontiac Crosses Production Line

Pontiac has produced its five millionth car, it was announced this week by Robt. M. Critchfield, vice president of General Motors and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division.

Since the first Pontiac in 1926, the total volume of cars produced would completely fill a six-lane highway stretching from Washington, D. C., to San Francisco.

Seventy per cent of the 5,000,000 cars produced by Pontiac since 1926 are still operating on the highways.

Farm and Ranch

NEWS FROM THE COUNTY AGENT

• By RALPH DUNLAP

ORCHARD PESTS

The problems of pests in orchards can become very destructive in a hurry. The Circle Diamond Ranch has a very severe infestation of spider mites which cause the leaves to loose color and will cause the fruit to fall if they are not controlled. The leaf takes on a bronze appearance due to the mites taking the sap out of portions of the leaf.

The mites have been noticed on several other orchards in that area. The best control of mites is obtained by applying a dormant oil before the trees leaf out in the spring.

If you are having mite trouble you can control the mite with Aramite with two sprays 7 to 10 days apart. DN-111 may be used but tends to burn the leaves in the hot summer days. If the mite is not controlled the tree is likely to lose its fruit this year and lack the vigor to set a crop the next year.

Many growers are applying wettable sulfur at 8 lbs. per 100 gallons in their summer sprays. Sulfur helps to keep down mites as well as powder mildew in apples. Sulfur will not control severe infestations.

SCOTT ABLE 4-H CAMP

The 4-Her's in the county are preparing with enthusiasm for the county camp starting June 28 at Scott Able 4-H Camp south of Cloudcroft. This camp is being held with 4-H members from Chaves, Otero and DeBaca counties. In the three days' camp the boys and girls get acquainted with 4-H club members from other counties. Camp activities include softball, volley ball, hiking, riflery and evening games.

HOPPERS ON THE MOVE

Grasshoppers are on the move again and can cause considerable damage to crops and pastures in the State unless control work is well timed, says R. C. Dobson, extension entomologist at New Mexico A&M College.

Trouble with hoppers is already reported in Lea and Union counties. Control operations got under way in the Folsom area in Union county June 16, where about 60,000 acres are being sprayed.

BIOLOGISTS STUDYING MAL PAIS VEGETATION

Joe E. Crispin, teacher at Penasco in Taos county, is in Carrizozo for a three weeks' stay. He is gathering data on the vegetation of the Mal Pais. It will be used in his thesis for a Master's Degree in biology at Highlands University.

Research in the Mal Pais area will also be done by Dr. Lora Shields, head of the biology department at Highlands. She is to be in Carrizozo this week end to compile data on the nitrogen content of Mal Pais vegetation.

KILL FLEA BEETLES ON GARDEN PLANTS

Numerous small, round holes eaten into leaves of vegetable plants are typical of the injury caused by flea beetles. A leaf may be eaten so badly that it resembles a sieve in appearance. Such injury retards the growth of the plant and if severe enough, may even kill young, tender plants.

Vegetable plants that usually need protection from flea beetles include radishes, spinach, beets, cabbage, potatoes, tomatoes and eggplant.

A 1% rotenone dust or a 4% malathion dust is effective in controlling flea beetles if applied about every five days. These materials are safe to use on most plants and have a relatively low toxicity to humans. Malathion should not be used on the edible portions of the plants within 10 days of harvest.

A spray consisting of two tablespoons of DDT, or three tablespoons of methoxychlor 50% wettable powder to one gallon of water, or a 5% dust of either material may also be used. DDT and methoxychlor should not be used on spinach or on beets, when the tops are to be used as greens. Applications of DDT or methoxychlor on any edible portions of a plant should not be made within 21 days of harvest.

STATE GAME DEPARTMENT NEWSLETTER

NIGHT FREEZE IN JUNE

A hard freeze on the night of June 6 killed oak brush and caught chokecherries and other fruit shrubs in full bloom along the Continental Divide area, District Warden Frank Ramsey of the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish reports that chances for a good mast crop in valley floors in San Juan and Rio Arriba counties are very poor.

BOYS' STATE LEGISLATION

New Mexico Boys' State, which met at Socorro last week, is reported to have defeated a bill which causes a bit of mystification in the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish. It was a move to make a misdemeanor of hunting while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. The defeat of this bill can hardly be attributed to opposition on the part of Boys' State. Perhaps the boys belatedly discovered there was no need for such a bill, since the law is already in effect. Section 43-220 of New Mexico Statutes reads, "It shall be unlawful for any person to bear, carry or discharge any firearm . . . while hunting for . . . predatory animals or game animals, or fowl of any kind . . . while under the influence of intoxicating liquors, beverages, or narcotic drugs."

MORE ON THE IGUANA

The iguana, that five-foot lizard reported in last week's Newsletter as having been found in Las Cruces, was actually picked up near Anthony and brought to Las Cruces by a deputy sheriff. Field men of the N. M. Dept. of Game & Fish describe it as not aggressive, but they add that it will bite if molested. It has been fed on raw hamburgers since its capture. This week it was televised at Albuquerque. It will ultimately be mounted for educational purposes.

MORE BASS FOR CONCHAS

Fingerling bass, numbering 6000, were planted last week in Conchas Lake. Within the next 60 days 120,000 more will be planted, according to Jim Dillard of the Game Dept. Nearly 621,000 rainbow trout were planted in New Mexico waters during May. About a third of them were of legal size. Some 1200 additional rainbows, legal size, were planted in Los Pinos River by the Colorado Fish and Game Dept.

ROUGH FISH CULLED

Over 1000 rough fish, mostly gar, have been taken from the Pecos River near Carlsbad by Earl Troglin of the N. M. Dept. of Game & Fish. With valuable help from volunteers, 6000 channel catfish, 500 bass and 250 crappie were rescued in this operation. The game fish had been stranded in the irrigation canal when water was shut off.

HOW WE ARE HELPING REDS

WASHINGTON, June 23—Two Senators, one a Republican, the other a Democrat, both members of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who made a trip to Europe to get a first-hand look at results being obtained through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, report that many of our American dollars are working for the benefit of the Communists. Said Senators Bridges (R.-N.H.) and Symington (D.-Mo.), "a thorough and careful reappraisal of foreign aid should be made before the American people are asked to contribute further."

The two senators pointed out that many of the large contracts we have made in our huge offshore procurement program have gone to plants in countries where Communist - dominated unions are in control of the workers. Many defense items we are paying foreign manufacturers to produce are being built in plants less than 20 minutes flying time from Soviet - occupied territory. Many so-called sensitive items such as jet aircraft and other military equipment classified as "secret" or "confidential" are being produced by those foreign workers giving the Reds a direct source of information about our operations.

The report of these two men who are well acquainted with our defense situation is most disturbing especially when they say the NATO machinery in Europe is "cumbersome and unwieldly to the point where it might be a forerunner to disaster."

It seems clear that American workers should be building the strategically sensitive equipment that we are spending more than $2 billion to buy abroad. We have idle plants and men in the United States and we know they will not be playing into Communist hands.

REA FUND CUT RESTORED

A cut of $35,000,000 made by the House in appropriating funds for loans to Rural Electrification cooperatives was restored by the Senate in passing the Agriculture appropriation bill. The roll call vote on the restoration amendment by Senator Douglas (D.-Ill.) shows that it followed party lines very closely and received solid support from the Democratic Senators.

The bill now goes to conference and it appears likely that the House will agree to the Senate action which gives REA the same amount it had for loans this year. Rural electrification has been one of the most beneficial programs for ranchers, farmers and small communities that we ever have set up and should be continued in full effect with adequate funds at least until the entire rural population of the nation is benefiting from it. It is not a spending or giveaway program because every dollar loaned is being repaid and the loans are secured by the physical property of the cooperatives.

Corona Acquires New City Dump

Mayor G. C. Brown reports that a new city dump ground has been acquired free from the government on State land about two miles southwest of Corona. The dump ground is reached by going south on Highway 54 about two miles then turning south on the Red Cloud Canyon road, taking the new road to the left leading to an old gravel pit.

A high wire fence, with two strands of barbed wire at the top, was strung around the new dump yard the first of this week. A new graded road leads to the dump ground.

Property south of Corona, known as the Stafford place, which was used for a dump yard for only a short time, will be sold by the city to anyone interested in buying.

Pvt. Willie Stewart is home on furlough, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Stewart Sr. He has been stationed at Newport, Va.

Radio Hams Broadcast For From Monjeau

Last Sunday was a national field day for ham radio operators in North America. The Monjeau Lookout was chosen as the site of activity for the Pecos Valley hams.

Formerly they used Pajarita for their field activities, but in the last two years decided Monjeau is more accessible and produced as satisfying results.

On a recent week end the hams relayed messages to points all over the world. Sunday they were more concerned with establishing the largest number of contacts possible.

Each man brought his own set and power generator, which he placed somewhere on the grounds below the tower. The sun beat down on some and others were caught in a mad scramble to shelter their equipment from the afternoon rainstorm.

The hams reported contacting several hundred other hams in all parts of the United States and Canada. Contacts were made with Corregidor and with Kwajalein, Marshall Islands.

THE PAPAGO COW

daughter.
Now, no lady would wail in a death cell or jail,
As the Papago bawled with a switch of her tail
At the cowboys who finally caught her.

"Just no gentlemen you, and a
dastardly crew,
For to load a poor cow and her heifer for glue,
In a van that is headed for Tucson."

Nor the toss of her horns, never blunted the thorns,
Nor the flint of our hearts, or our hard callous corns
Though in fact some were sorry to lose her.

And we waved her good-bye,
with a laugh and a sigh
And her debutante child with the same sort of eye
As they left for society's slaughter.

So, ladies, just learn from the
Papago cow,
Though we hated her then, we are loving her now
For the memory lingering on.

And though man is so cruel, he'll burn in the fuel
For crimes that he'll do all
Those he has prized, or has used;

There's a seed in his nature that will compensate later
And comes to the waiter
Who languishes long:

For man's heart sentimental, and quite instrumental
On memory's harp with a tear, all
Will sigh for both hated and loved.

Count Rossi Hurls Defy To Wrestler Coleman

Spencer Treharne, manager of Ruidoso Skateland, announces a sensational return grudge tag team match is on top for wrestling fans this Saturday night, June 26, at the Ruidoso Coliseum.

Bout time is 9 p.m. It is an aftermath of the wild and woolly affair which took place last week. Count Rossi, world famous wrestling manager, brot his protege, the Golden Terror, against the Ruidoso favorite, Vincent Lopez. During the bout, which was one of the roughest matches ever seen in these parts, Count Rossi jumped into the ring and struck Referee Bobby Coleman.

A wild fight ensued in which Coleman and Lopez teamed up against Rossi and the Golden Terror. The latter was disqualified and Rossi immediately challenged Bobby Coleman to a match.
