As I See It

LLOYD P. BLOODWORTH

It is good to be back home after a few days in Santa Fe and Albuquerque. I wish that every citizen of New Mexico could see the legislature in session. It is one of the busiest places that you will find anywhere. Bill Coe was much in evidence and they tell me that he is one of the most sincere and active men in the body. It is refreshing to see a man who is trying to carry out the wishes of his constituents without waiting to see what some pressure group thinks about it. There are a lot of good men and women in the legislature and they are trying to do what is best for their own people as well as the entire State. Of course almost everyone in the legislature has his own pet bill that he is trying to get over and there is more trading going on in the Santa Fe hotels than in a wagon yard.

Eddy and Lea counties are well represented in the lower house by Frank Alford and Virgil McCollum and in the Senate by Milton Smith. Those boys are seriously at their job and will vote only for those bills that will help their section of the state—Murray Morgan is on the job, and has the interests of both Otero and Lincoln counties at heart—The old war horse Burton Roach sees everything that goes on and can be counted on to keep an even keel even under the most difficult circumstances—Little Joe A. Montoya of Albuquerque continues to be the thorn in the side of many of the old heads in the legislature. They can never tell just which way Joe is going to jump and they dare not to try and shove him around.

John Simms makes a good presiding officer in the lower house and of course Joe Montoya, as usual, presides with dignity in the Senate. All in all it is a pretty good legislature and we will soon know just who will stand their ground when the going gets tough and the blue chips are down.

Winter is just about to sing its swan song and the activities of Spring will begin. The sound of saws and hammers will be heard above the noise of the river as new building are started and cabins are being remodeled. Those of us who live here the year round will miss the fine evenings around large fire places and the wonderful fellowship that is found only where men are free from the drive of crowded communities. All of the gang will be busy taking care of their own business and looking after the pleasure of the many thousands that come this way to spend a few delightful days or weeks during the hot summer. But through all the work of the summer season we will continue to look forward to next fall when once again we will enjoy the peace that comes to those who love the great mountains and canyons that are ours.

THE WEATHER

During the month of February there was 2.18 inches of moisture. 4.75 inches of snow is included in this figure. The highest temperature for the month was 63 degrees on the 22nd and the lowest 2 degrees on the 1st. The mean temperature was 33.7 degrees and there was two nights it did not freeze. There was a 34 degrees on the night of the 12th and 35 on the night of the 13th. High winds blew one day, February 7th.

Work Starts On Extension REA Power

Work on the extension of three phase REA power from Glencoe down the Ruidoso Valley to Hondo was begun this week.

Mr. P. B. Hendericks, Manager of the Otero-Lincoln county Rural Electric Cooperative, hopes that the outages of power necessary to the new construction will not be too great an inconvenience. He says the power will be off absolutely no longer than necessary to insure against danger during the three-phasing. The electrical crew will quit work early enough so that the current may be turned on before dark.

This work will complete three-phasing of the Ruidoso Valley from the Poteet farm near the Mescalero Indian Reservation line down to Hondo. The porject has been undertaken early enough so that irrigation pumps along this additional stretch of the river may be ready to run by summer.

REA POWER AT FT. STANTON

Another step in the development of the cooperative was taken when REA power was turned on at Fort Stanton March the first. The power is transmitted to the historical landmark and outstanding hospital over a line recently completed from Glencoe to Fort Stanton and Capitan Power will be turned on at Capitan within the near future.

Contracts are to be let this month, for construction of an additional 100 miles of line from Hollywood on the Ruidoso into the Nogal, Alto, Bonito region with the line extending up the Bonito Valley to the dam. At the same time contract will be let for thirty miles of line on the Miller Flats in the Cloudcroft vicinity.

With the completion of these projects the cooperative will

Two Local Boys To Attend T. C. U. Next September

Announcement was made here this week that both, Don Perry and Johnny Phillips will enroll at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, next September. Cy Leland, Ruidoso High School coach and TCU graduate, made the annoncement after returning from a week end trip to Fort Worth with Perry, Phillips and "Corky" Halladay.

Leland has arranged for a full athletic scholarship valued at approximately $4000 for Perry, who was captain and one of the stars of the first Warrior football team in 1947. Don will specialize in football at TCU, although he may also go out for basketball his freshman year. Phillips, too, will try both sports his first year and then decide upon which one to concentrate during the remainder of his collegiate athletic career. Coach L. R. "Dutch" Meyer of T. C. U. pointed out to the boys that present-day athletics in the Southwest Conference have such over-lapping training periods that it is seldom advisable for an athlete to attempt both the gridiron and cage sports.

Halladay, although favorably impressed with his inspection of the T. C. U. athletic and academic facilities, has not had time enough to decide on whether he will attend the cowtown university next year. He played end on the first Ruidoso football team and forward and center in basketball. Phillips is a graduate of Capitan High School, which Perry also attended before Ruidoso High School organized.

While in Fort Worth the boys watched the 90-man squad of T. C. U. football players work-

Notice To All Veterans

A meeting of all Army reservists and interested veterans of World War II will be held Wednesday, March 9th, at 7 p. m. in the Pine Room of the Pioneer Club in Green Tree for the purpose of organizing an active Reserve Unit of the United States Army.

Major Cader C. Terrell, senior Army instructor, Roswell Military District, will attend the organizational meeting and will discuss the recently inacted Reserve retirement regulations, providing pay and allowances for members of active Reserve Units.

All grades, branches and services will be included in the Reserve Unit to be activated here which follows closely on the organization of other units in Roswell, Carlsbad, Clovis and Hobbs. A Photo Reconnaissance Team is being activated at Capitan under command of Capt. Thomas E. Utterback, Inf-Res.

Training with the local unit, so far as possible, will be scheduled so as not to interfere with civilian occupation. Pay provisions for such unit training will be outlined by Major Terrell.

Under the point system adopted for the Reserve component of the Army attendance at summer encampments is not mandatory. Points necessary to remain on active status may be compiled by training with the local Reserve Unit or through Army extension courses, or both.

News Of Capitan Water Situation

The center attraction in Capitan now is below town at the water wells being drilled for a village water supply. The drillers have run a 48 hour test on the well and Capitan reports a much better well and water supply that they had thought has resulted.

The Layne-Texas Co., have begun operations for drilling another well. The work of installing the water system will begin within the next few weeks.

PROCLAMATON

The School Lunch Program in New Mexico is young. . .Let's guide it and help it grow. In order to acquaint parents and other interested persons with the program, I hereby proclaim the week of March 7 as school lunch visitors week.

CHAS. L. ROSE
State Superintendent

Cooperating with the state program, Mrs. Jim Hale, director of the lunch rooms for the Ruidoso-Stetson School District, seconds this invitation issued by Mr. Rose and urges all parents and interested persons to have lunch in the local lunch rooms during this week.

Mrs. Hale says "School Lunch Participation has increased 25 per cent over last years participation in New Mexico. Let's make this per cent higher by acquainting more students and parents with the program.

Here we see one of the innumerable runs in White Mountain Park. This run would give the amateur over one-half mile of downhill skiing with no obstacles. Figures in the photo are left, Sam Service of the Alamogordo office of the U. S. Forest Service, and Chuck Milligan, president of the Apache Ski Club in Ruidoso.

Vastness Of White Mountain Park Almost Unbelievable

The pictures above were taken in White Mountain Park last week when Bill Hart, Carmon Phillips, president of the White Mountain Sports Assn., Chuck Milligan, president of the Apache Ski Club, and Sam Service, with the United State Forest Service went into White Mountain Park to check the snow.

Service remaked, "This is a natural" tells the story for the men found four feet of snow on the level on even slopes in the sun after ten days of sunny, moderate weather. There are five natural runs that won't have to be touched even to the moving of a single tree combining all kinds of slopes for everyone from beginners to professionals. There are natural toboggan runs . . .one a full mile long following an arroya down a slope which could be used for the exciting sport of bob sledding.

The party went in and split up each taking off in a different direction to go so far as a slope to ski down that not one of them could see or hear the other. In every direction they found snow . . .with three crusts down thru from four to six feet and a 3 inch layer of powder snow, just right for skiing, on top.

One of the main purposes of the trip was to lay out a tentative road. This would start near the old CCC Camp out the Alto Road and follow the ridge on the sunny side to the left up Cedar Creek to Cow Mountain. Then the present horseback trail is a natural road into White Mountain Park. This in distance is seven and one half miles direct, but it will take at least ten miles of road to take advantage of the gentlest grades in the several thousand foot rise in altitude.

Local Nursery Agent For The Stark Bro's.

Mr. Carles W. Byers, owner of the Ruidoso Nursery here, announced this week he has taken over the agency in Ruidoso for the Stark Bro's. Nurseries and Orchards Co., of Louisiana, and Missouri.

These nurserys are nationally known. Mr. Byers will be able to furnish fruit trees, shrubs, and other kinds of nursery stocks and seeds for this area. Inquiries may be addressed to box 222 in Ruidoso.

34 Meet To Talk Over 'Spring Cleanup' Campaign And Problems Of Village

Thirty-four men and women representing leadership in 29 groups in Ruidoso including churches, veterans organizations social clubs, civic clubs, schools, the city council and planning board of the village of Ruidoso attended the meeting called for 7:30 p. m. Monday night, February 28th at the American Legion Hall to discuss a "Spring Cleanup, Paintup Campaign" which will start April 1st and continue to April 15th.

Mrs. Lloyd P. Bloodworth, chairman of the Planning Board presided at the meeting. After explanation of the proposed campaign all presidents of organizations, ministers, etc., present agreed to take the project up in their next group meeting to get all to pledge 100 per cent cooperation on this project.

More detailed plans of the clean-up campaign will be announced between now and April 1st. Plans will be worked out so that everyone will have an opportunity to dispose of any trash accumulated during "cleanup." It is absolutely imperative that everyone in the canyon do their part now or during the campaign.

Following the discussion of "cleanup week" the meeting was thrown open by Mr. John Christman, Mayor of Ruidoso. One of the most wonderful discussions ever held here followed with almost every person present taking part in the conversation. They "talked about" and "talked out" problems on the water system, schools, streets, advertising, Chamber of Commerce, ski run, and all phases of development being carried on in Ruidoso.

As a result of the fine things brought out in these discussions it was decided to organize a Coordinating Council of Ruidoso with members to be made up of the heads of each organization, the city council, the planning board. To work out complete plans for this group the following committe was appointed, Mrs. Ida Bloodworth, chairman; Dan Swearingin; Rev. H. L. Graves; Rev. C. D. Peake; and Walt Crosby.

The completed plans of this group will be presented to the public at the chamber of Commerce meeting at the Navajo Lodge, March 14th.

There will be forty-five boys and girls in this group. They plan to be here for two days, May 16th and 17th.

Every year the number of senior classes who want to come to Ruidoso for their annual outing increases and everyone hopes 1949 is the record year. . .both in number and distance traveled to get to the "Year Round Playground of the Southwest."

Chuck Milligan recently finished a new sign advertising Ruidoso which has been put up at Hondo on Highway 70.

The background is white with "TURN LEFT TO RUIDOSO, 2 MILES," "The Year Round Playground" in red, green and blue Scotch light so it will attract attention at night as well as in the daytime.

One of the spring projects of the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce is to get all road signs in New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma in perfect shape.

A Happy Tradition

In the early days it was a common sight to see neighbors band together to help each other. Barns were built, crops harvested, land cleared and numerous other heavy tasks were accomplished in a few hours instead of weeks or months. It was done in an atmosphere of spontaneous fun. The neighbors simply dropped in for a raising bee, a husking bee, or whatever the occasion required, with their wagons loaded with food.

These work parties were a necessity in pioneer America. But it is cheering to note that this tradition is still with us in this machine age. A recent news item tells of a service station operator in a small Minnesota community who had an unusual run of bad luck. His competitors decided to help him out. They closed their stations one Sunday and took over the job of manning his cash register and pumps to handle the sudden rush of business. It was necessary for the local constable to direct traffic. Many people refused change, and the supplier, which was one of the leading oil companies, furnished gas at cost. When the day was over the station operator was considerably better off financially and he had gained a new appreciation of his friends and neighbors.

If instances like this could occur more often half the seemingly insoluble problems of the country would disappear.

DOWN MY LANE

(By The Vagabond)

WATER

Mr. Wilbur Coe's articles that have been appearing in the News are some of the most interesting and informative accounts of our valley that I have read. One reason for my intense interest in them is that they are related to things right in my own back yard. And that is meant literally, for the terrace back of my house slopes down the river's edge, and my property line is supposed to run through the middle of the stream.

Ninety-nine per cent of the time, this rippling little river goes along, peacefully, minding its business. It is the safest and most harmless looking little body of water anywhere. It is so shallow that the minnows down my lane splash about in it the entire summer. I was in the east last summer when the picture changed so abruptly that it looked for a while as if my little adobe were going to return to its native composition. The lane dwellers, along with my family who remained there, spent some very worried hours. It seemed that at any moment the mad swirling waters would rush upon several of the houses, orchards and corals, thus writing finis to all of them that got in the pathway of the deluge. By the time I returned it had subsided, but later, on several occasions, heavy rains washing down in the arroyas, gave us some more anxious moments.

The thing can happen so quickly. Just like one evening last summer, when I started out to visit a neighbor down toward the bridge. . .It was the time of day when the sun had gone down behind the hills, and that wonderful coolness of evening was creeping over the hushed earth. It was the time we all wait for when the days are hot and long. A few yards of the lane skirts the Ruidoso, only a short distance away. It was a mere silver thread, reflecting some of the bright clouds refulgent with the glow of sunset. I went on around the bend, losing sight of the water for a few steps, and when it came into view again a moment later, huge torrents from the upper valley had bloated and swollen it beyond all resemblance to its former contours. A number of us gathered at the dam to watch it, each harboring in his heart the secret fear that it might grow worse, until our homes and farms would once more become menaced by it. Contrary to my usual custom, I stayed up until a late hour that night, waiting for the waters to show signs of receding.

My greatest grief during the last rainy season was that our water supply was cut off several times. The fresh, cool water from a spring was a source of much pride and convenience. When I moved there and was confronted by the prospects of having to haul water, our good neighbor, Ernesto, went down to the banks of the river and located the spring for us, and each time the river rose, it covered our water supply with rocks and gravel. Time after time, we had to go about the back-breaking toil of clearing it away again.

But wherever there are hills with rivers running to the sea, this same drama is enacted sometimes on a very large scale. With tremendous loss of lives and money. Water is a hard element to control, but modern engineering skill has done much in this respect. New Mexico has various water basins, each with its own particular characteristics and problems. When the objectives sought in the article by Mr. Coe have been realized, people with homes and farms along our river will be considerably safer. Men of vision and understanding will fall in line with such work, for the future wealth and safety of the valley will be latamount to the planning and energetic efforts of groups such as these. New Mexico, with the fourth largest land area of the nation, has the smallest water area, a mere 131 square miles. Conservancy is the paramount concern of the state, mainly because vast arid stretches make up most of it.

There are enormous problems to work out, Conservancy isn't just a matter of throwing together some concrete and constructing a dam. There are canals, drainage, erosion, and silt problems. New Mexico, in particular, is concerned with the latter, for the storage capacities of her reservoirs are reduced considerably by a vast amount of fine powdery silt that accumulates in them. Over a comparatively short period of time, costly reclamation projects can be nullified by rising rivers, aided by deposits of it.

Aboriginals of prehistoric times made use of water from mountains and rivers. However there is a greater complexity to modern methods of irrigation. Water is one of the miracles of the everyday life of our valley. Coming from a section of the country where the moisture of crops depends upon the whims of the rain clouds, water that can be turned on and off at will is a constant source of fascination to me. We are still using some of the methods that have been in use since long before the Conquistadores arrived, and a sort of communal system is employed.

Our Spanish Colonials had to settle many conflicts over water rights. Sometimes the agua of the acequia madre "accidentially" became diverted to another's field of chile or beans, and the owners came to loggerheads. The mayor domo would try to get the man to conciliate, and when this failed, it ended in the courts. This was costly and there was not enough money from the crops to pay for the costs. The court grew weary and full of apathy as each side called in its innumerable witnesses. Neither side would yeild an iota, while back along the river, a compadre who didn't take sides in the conflict, pushed, with his foot, the earth that held his neighbor's water back, and diverted the stream to his own thirsty field. This he did while laughing up his sleeve at his amigos who were the big fools to take the overseer off to court with them!

Soil, Water Topics Of Denver Meet

Soil and water conservation problems of New Mexico and the other western states received special attention during the annual convention of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts held in Denver, Colorado, February 15 to 17, according to Thomas Utterback, representative of the Soil Conservation Service who is working with the Upper Hondo Soil Conservation District in this area.

One full day of the national convention, February 16, was given over to a train trip into the Rockies in order that delegates from all sections of the country might see the conservation needs of the West. This special train took the delegates from Denver to the Winter Park area beyond the west portal of the famous Moffat tunnel.

Soil and water conservation, grazing land and watershed management, forestry practices, and the Colorado Big Thompson reclamation project all were discussed informally by the delegates and representatives of federal agencies in charge of these programs.

The three-day session of the national association was preceded by the one-day meeting of the Colorado Association of Soil Conservation Districts on February 14. Kent Leavitt of Millbrook, N. Y., president of the national association, opened the session on February 15. Mayor Quigg Newton, Denver, welcomed the delegates after which reports were heard from all state district associations represented.

Women guests of the convention held a luncheon on February 15. and the main banquet to which the general public was invited was held at 7 p. m. Robert Wilson, vice president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company and an ardent soil conservationist, was the principal speaker.

Following the all-day tour into the Rockies on February 16, Palmer Hoyt, editor and publisher of the Denver Post, stressed the need for worldwide conservation on February 17. Committee reports were heard during the remainder of the day, and President Leavitt discussed national association affairs at the concluding banquet.

Walter A. Groom, president of the Colorado association made plans for between 500 and 600 delegates expected to attend from the 48 states which now include more than 2,000 locally organized and locally governed soil conservation districts.

out during spring training, and also viewed practice sessions of Coach Buster Brannon's freshman and varsity basketball teams. They inspected the modern T. C. U. stadium which has recently been enlarged to seat 35,000 spectators and has been equipped with a $50,000 lighting system for early season night play. Incidentally, Coach Leland was a member of the first T. C. U. conference championship team which played the dedicatory game in the present stadium.

The boys have not fully made up their minds as to which courses they will pursue during the next four years. However, investigation was made of the Geology, Industrial Arts, Busi-Administration and Physical Education Departments. They had conferences with Dr. Louis Hendericks of the Geology Department, S. W. Hutton, Registrar, Business Manager L. C. Wright and Athletic Director Howard Grubbs. They also met freshman Coach Walter Roach and Coach Meyer's number one assistant, Abe Martin, at whose invitation the trip was arranged.

While in the city the boys were introduced to Harold Hough, circulation manager of the Fort Worth Star Telegram and general director of the newspaper's two radio stations and television outlet, after which they inspected a part of the plant of Texas' largest newspaper. In the sports department they were interviewed by Flem Hall and Lorin McMullen ,sports editors of the morning and afternoon editions of the paper, and their pictures were taken by the Star-Telegram staff photographer. They were were also "written up" by Amos Melton, who this week was made sports editor of the Fort Worth Press.

The group attended the Fort Worth-Tulsa Ice Hockey game in the huge Will Rogers Coliseum one night and also saw the Paschal High School basketball team in action at the North Side Coliseum. Paschal is the city champion in this sport. Arrangements were made by Leland with the Public Relations Officer of Carswell Army Air Base in Fort Worth for the group to have a close inspection of the Army's giant B-36, largest land-based bomber. The boys were also entertained at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Leland, Sr., on Lake Worth.

The University they will attend is a non-sectarian, co-educational school of more than 4000 enrollment. A ten million dollar building program is now underway there. T. C. U. is a member of the Southwest Conference which includes the University of Texas, Texas A & M, Southern Methodist University, Baylor, Rice and Arkansas University.

They are consistently in the upper bracket in the final standings after the football season, and have been Conference champions in all sports except track. Their athletic teams are named after the hardy, tough little animal, the horned frog, and they have sent representatives to the Sugar Bowl twice and to the Orange, Cotton and Delta Bowls. Most famous of their athletic graduates are Sammy Baugh and Davey O'Brien. The 1938 team upon which the latter played, was named National Football Champions by the Associated Press.

have from 450 to 475 miles of line running through Otero, Lincoln and Chaves counties as well as throughout the Mescalero Indian Reservation.

IMPROVED SERVICE

Mr. Hendricks recently pointed out that a continuous study is being made to keep improving the service along hte local REA lines. New construction developments and new inventions open up opportunities to make the service the very best obtainable.

When the three-phase construction is completed into Hondo it will then be possible to divide the phases so that independent currents can run up the Bonito to Lincoln; down the Hondo to Riverside; and back up the Ruidoso. When this change is made trouble on one of these lines will not throw out the current on the other two.

Improved devices on transformers are being installed, and other new features are to be added. Mr. Hendricks expressed his desire to meet with the people of the Ruidoso-Hondo-Bonito valleys to explain and discuss new developments in Rural Electrification and to talk over the plans, the problems, and the hopes of the people of this neighborhood.

Young People To Have Services

The Young People and Intermediates of the Baptist People's Training Union will have charge of the services Sunday night, on March 6th at the Ruidoso Baptist Church.

The theme of their program will be. "What Christ Means To Me." Several of the young people will give original talks on this subject. There will be special songs, duets and chorus and the public is cordially invited to attend.

'Fiesta' Theme Of '49 School Pow-Wow

Announcement was made this week by the Ruidoso high school that the theme of "Fiesta" in the true New Mexico tradition had been chosen for the 1949 spring "Pow-Wow" scheduled for April 29th and 30th.

In keeping with this theme the girls in the high school are already picking out materials and trimmings and beginning to plan their "fiesta" dresses. It is the hope of the planning committee that all of the school children and as many towns people as possible dress the part during the big two day show.

The colorful dresses, skirts and blouses, would lend atmosphere to the whole town, the program at the gym, the dances being planned and the chuck wagon suppers.

Seferino Pena Dies After Fall From Horse

Seferino Pena, about 56 years old, born and reared in the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation and known as a cowboy there for many years, died in the hospital in Alamogordo, Saturday night at 8 p. m., February 25th.

The way he met death, fulfilling his duties to the CGA, for whom he worked, was tragic and made sad many friends in the area.

Pena had been working cattle in the Black Mountains on the other side of White Mountain between Rinconada and Three Rivers with Andrew Maskaean. Wednesday, February 23rd he was running a large steer when his horse fell with him throwing him into a canyon. He got up. . . remounted and told his working partner he wasn't hurt. . .then fell from his horse in a very short time never to regain consciousness.

Maskaean went to his house to get help. A road outfit from the Reservation went in to bring Pena out. They packed him out on a stretcher from the high rough country walking for seven hours. He was then taken to the Alamogordo hospital but he had contracted pneumonia besides the injuries received when he fell from the horse.

Pena is survived by a wife and three sons, one of whom is stationed in Georgia with the United States Army.

Funeral services were held at St. Joseph's Mission with Father Marcian officiating Tuesday, March 1st. Burial was in Mescalero cemetery.

To honor their friend the men who had worked with him in the reservation formed a mounted guard and rode behind the body to the cemetery. Those men were Wayne Enjady, Ray Reed, Art Blazer, Darrel Young, Mike Hernandez, Billy Landers, Mike Davolos, Walter Chico, Richard Jolsanny, Jr., Anthony Treas, Wallace Enjady, Andrew Maskaean and Amador Martinez.

Louise Massey and Milt Mabey and grandaughter Vickie brought Joy, their daughter, to Ruidoso Monday. Joy will be here several days with the Jack Hull's. She is doing some interior decorating for them in their lovely new home out on the hill.
