WIT & WISDOM
—By Vix—

Looks like the much-needed project of giving our Warrior football field a thorough face-lifting will be getting underway soon. The idea, worked out by Jack Hull, will see considerable and costly improvements before next grid season. The local P-TA voted to assist in financing the big job in its meeting last week.

Ruidoso stands the chance of getting a paved sidewalk for the length of the main portion of the village at the same time the state highway widening and improvement project is done—almost all the red tape for which has been cleared and on which work should get underway pretty soon. At least that is the contention of Pat Chubbuck who is vociferously argufying for such a thing before the Lions club and other folks he has contacted in the last few weeks. Pat's got a great idea there—condition of our walkways, especially in winter with slush and snow, are just about the worst we ever saw. The project would beautify, would be a safety measure and would be practical if it is done. It would also increase property values considerably. He says this is one job the business section should certainly unite in and get it done—quick. We're for it, Pat, and think that, by meeting with our city council, through whose hands the project must be started, the ball might get to rolling pretty soon. There is a possibility some state aid in the sidewalk and gutters could be secured if the work is done at the same time the widening job is done.

This and that . . . Dan Storm had a folk tale in a recent issue of the magazine section of the celebrated Denver Post. . . . Efforts are being made to open a youth center in Green Tree, we hear. . . . Political candidates (about whom rumors have flown thick and fast in the upcoming city race) had this to say to us this last few days: Carmon Phillips—"Nope, I won't run." W. A. Hart—"Nope, I won't run." Warren Tucker—"Nope, I don't think I'll run—that's as of right now." Carl DeBord: "I won't seek the office of mayor—but I'd run if the people want me, and I'd do the very best to serve the people if I am elected." Others mentioned as considering running, but whom we have failed to contact recently, have been Dan Swearingin, D. E. Snyder (for re-election), S. K. Kuykendall (for re-election). Other incumbents, Buckner, Hedgecoke, Bynum all have said previously they would not run for re-election. . . .

Before the Sports Car Round-Up here Feb. 20-21, Ruidoso should make a goodwill tour of West Texas towns, advertising it with posters, etc. For two days, bus transportation would cost about $10 if 30 or more went. We oughta go Feb. 8-9 at the latest. If interested put up a deposit for bus fare at the News office. It's up to you!

Former Green Tree Resident Dies At Dexter Last Week

Funeral services were held in Dexter Monday for W. S. Jackson, 62-year-old resident of Dexter, who died of a heart attack Thursday of last week. He had lived at Green Tree, moving to Dexter from there in 1941. He was also well known in the Capitan area, where he was married.

His survivors include the wife, and children, Mrs. Velma Jamison of Fairborne, Ohio; Billie Jean Vizzier of Gilbert, Ark.; L. W., Johnnie and Dean Jackson of Dexter; and Mr. and Mrs. Vassar Thompson of Green Tree, a brother and sister-in-law of his. The Thompsons and several friends of Green Tree attended the last rites. Burial was in a Roswell cemetery following the services in Dexter.

New Recreation Spot To Open In Ruidoso

Scheduled for opening within the next ten days here is a new recreation center for Ruidoso, to be operated by Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wilkinson in the former Skyland Food Mart building in Skyland. The Wilkinsons, who first operated the Navajo Service Station when they moved here from the Texas Panhandle over a year ago, were making repairs on the large building this week, and will start installation of equipment this weekend.

Billiard tables, ping-pong, shuffleboard and other games are to be operated. "We may add some bowling alleys in time if there is a demand for them," Wilkinson said this week.

SERVICEMEN'S GROUPS PLAN JOINT MEETING

There will be a joint meeting of the Robert J. Hagee Post No. 79 of the American Legion and Coe-Curry Chapter No. 23 of the Disabled American Veterans next Wednesday, Feb. 3, at 7:30 p. m. in the American Legion hall here, commanders of the two servicemen's organizations, Romeo Klein of the Legion and Paul H. Jones of the DAV, have announced.

WELL-CHILD CLINIC POSTPONED A WEEK

The well-child clinic, first announced to be held here under sponsorship of the Ruidoso Parent-Teacher Association on Feb. 4, has been postponed until Wednesday, Feb. 9, and will open on that date at 1:30 p. m. in the local elementary school building, Mrs. George L. Zimmerman, P-TA committee worker in the project, said this week.

Baptists Vote To Build Auditorium

Last Sunday members of the First Baptist Church of Ruidoso voted unanimously to build at the present location, an auditorium adequate enough to seat 350 people.

This decision was made by the church upon recommendation of the building committee to build the auditorium on the present basement with an extension of ten feet on the front and 20 feet on the back which will give an auditorium of 70 feet by 100 feet. This plan was the suggestion of the building committee in which the church will give more definite study in the future.

The over all plan for the future of the auditorium and Sunday School and educational unit will be built in an "L" shape with the removal of the parsonage to a new location so as to provide room for parking space. The church is ready to start building as soon as possible. Every member of the Ruidoso Baptist Church expresses appreciation to those who have given nice offerings to the building fund in the past few weeks, a spokesman said.

Pot Luck Supper Part Of Program For Fruit Growers

Paul Duffield will present a demonstration plot program under which fertilizer trials will be established in the A. T. "Bert" Pfingsten orchard and the 1954 market outlook will be discussed by J. Z. Rowe, extension economist, in the opening part of the fruit growers meeting Feb. 2 for the three valley area.

L. C. Gibbs will give information on the thinning of fruit. Information on the 1954 fruit spray schedule will be discussed at this time along with other topics.

The afternoon session starting at 2:00 p. m. at the Joe G. Gutierrez orchard east of Hondo will include demonstrations on pruning young fruit trees and determining orchard pest infestation.

The fruit growers meeting will be concluded at the Bonnell Ranch with a pot luck supper starting at 6:30 p. m.

State Officials Heard By P-TA: Cage Game Planned

Mrs. Ruth Dills of the State Department of Public Health and Mr. Bourland, with the State Welfare Department, each addressed last Thursday night's Ruidoso Parent-Teacher Association meeting. They gave a resume of their work throughout the state in which they inspect nurseries, kindergartens, boarding homes, etc., and told requirements such institutions must meet.

Other matters discussed and approved included: Purchase of achievement tests for high and elementary schools; that Secretary Bob Kaufmann handle correspondence of the program committee; that a committee be appointed to study the teacher tenure law; that the P.-T. A. stand behind a current move to improve the athletic field; and to act as sponsor for the sixth and seventh grade basketball teams which may enter a tournament later this season.

It also issued a challenge to the Lions Club to enter into a basketball game, similar to one held last year, as a fund raising project. (The challenge, incidentally, was accepted by the Lions in their meeting Tuesday night this week. Date, officials, place and other details are to be announced later.)

Roswell Couple Re-Open La Fiesta

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Johnson of Roswell are re-opening the popular La Fiesta Cafe here Monday of next week. The restaurant is located in Palmer Gateway opposite the high school on Main Road. The couple is featuring sandwiches, chili dogs, confections, etc., and have issued an invitation to students, teachers, parents and everybody to drop in and get acquainted.

TRIBAL COUNCIL HEAD INSPECTS BANK; TAYLORCRAFT STUDIO

Rev. Wendell Chino, head of the Mescalero Apache Indian tribal council, and minister of the Dutch Reform Church at Mescalero, took off a few minutes the other day from his many duties on the reservation for a brief inspection tour of a couple of Ruidoso institutions. With representatives of the local Chamber of Commerce he toured the new Ruidoso State Bank and "Pee Wee" Taylor's Taylorcraft furniture studio here.

LELAND REALTY, HARVEY ACCOUNTING, CREDIT BUREAU MOVE

The three business firms operated here by Cy Leland, Sr., including his Leland Realty Co., Harvey Accounting Service and the Ruidoso Credit Bureau, were being moved this week from the building next door to Estes Cleaners to an office in El Corral Courts, a block east of Ruidoso State Bank. Leland said he would be open again in his larger quarters by Feb. 1.

CY LELAND HEADS BOARD OF REALTORS

Ruidoso's Board of Realtors Wednesday noon in luncheon session elected Cy Leland, Sr., Ruidoso, as president; Lewis Farris of Carrizoso, vice-president, and Warren Barrett, Ruidoso, secretary-treasurer.

The History of Old Fort Stanton

98-Year-Old Institution Began As Military Outpost To Quell Indian Raids; Made Hospital In '99

(Editor's Note: Probably the most comprehensive story ever written about the function, the development and the fabulous history of Fort Stanton Medical Center has just appeared in a mimeographed publication issued by the New Mexico State Health Department, written by an authority on the subject, Daniel Kusianovitch, personnel director there and associated with the hospital for many years. He saw the hospital change from a Seamen's hospital to a Public Health Service Institution, under federal operation, then to a state institution. Kusianovitch himself could be the subject of an article because of his interesting background. He is an artist and a writer and is an important personage in the civic life of Lincoln County. His lengthy, but very informativev article, appears below.)

(By DAN KUSIANOVICH)

If the buildings at the Fort Stanton Medical Center could talk, theirs would be a story well worth listening to. They could tell of cavalry officers riding out against Geronimo's Apaches; of seamen from every nation arriving with tuberculosis and leaving again, cured; of Navajo children, also with tuberculosis, playing on the old parade ground.

Until the New Mexico Department of Public Welfare took over the old Public Health Service hospital on July 1, few New Mexicans were aware of its existence. And even fewer know yet the part played by the fort in the colorful history of the old and new west.

Fort Stanton is located on the banks of the Rio Bonito, between the 12,000 foot Sierra Blanca and the 10,000 foot Capitan mountains, at an altitude of 6,200 feet. The main buildings are grouped around a square which served the cavalry as a parade grounds. There are approximately two hundred buildings on the station. The grounds are landscaped with several hundred shade trees, flower beds, and lawns.

In the approximate center of the reservation, which covers 27,727 acres, is a modern ninety-two bed hospital built in 1938, and seventy-five two bed cottages for ambulatory patients. The hospital is equipped with all modern facilities, including latest X-ray and fluoroscopic apparatus installed in 1949 at the cost of approximately $20,000, surgical and physical therapy, departments, clinical laboratory, dental clinic, and occupational therapy department.

Under the state's program of expansion, the main hospital building has been connected to an adjacent set of quarters which will provide space for about 50 non-tuberculous patients.

Another nearby building has been turned into a ward for 40 Navajo children, and a fenced enclosure provides them with a playground and an opportunity to be outside in favorable weather, which means almost every day. They are under the supervision of a trained nurse during play periods.

Children who are able attend school for three hours a day in the small school building near the children's ward. Miss Mary Davis, of the Capitan Municipal Schools, also provides bedside instruction for the small patients, unable to attend school. She first worked with Navajo children when her father was a missionary in Farmington. She teaches English to the children who do not know the language, and provides a regular grammar school course for the others.

The hospital maintains an Occupational Therapy department as an important adjunct. A trained therapist provides both recreation and training to all patients according to their work tolerance as prescribed by a doctor. Some of the most popular subjects taught are typing, bookkeeping, art, stenography, photography, wood and leather work, metal crafts, basketry and weaving. This work is beneficial to the patient in many ways, occupying his mind with pleasant tasks, providing him with diversion and an opportunity to prepare himself with a vocation or a trade for the future, and also enabling him to earn a small income through the sale of articles he may make.

Plans have also been completed for a new surgery, to provide the best possible surgical care for patients.

TO AID FT. STANTON HOSPITAL—Gov. Edwin L. Mechem is shown signing the proclamation for National Beauty Salon Day in New Mexico (Feb. 22), when receipts at beauty shops throughout the state will go to fight cancer at the state's new cancer ward at Fort Stanton Hospital. With the Governor are Kay Pardoll, state president of the Hairdressers Association, and Nan Giese, of the American Cancer Society, New Mexico Division. (Photo by H. D. Walter)

Medical care at the hospital is provided by resident physicians and ten consultants, each specializing in a different phase of medicine or surgery. Some consultants come to Fort Stanton on a regular weekly schedule, others when needed. A weekly meeting of resident physicians and consultants is held every Wednesday. The course and method of treatment of several cases is discussed and agreed on at these meetings. In case of radical chest surgery, the agreement must be unanimous.

On arriving at Fort Stanton each patient is given a thorough physical examination. After going through a period of tests and observations, the patient is assigned to a proper ward or room, or to the ambulatory section, and suitable treatment is instituted. The patients in the ambulatory section enjoy a great deal of privacy, and special privileges.

Patients showing definite improvement are placed on supervised exercises and if the improvement continues, the exercise is increased until the disease is arrested and the patient is fit to return to normal life. The average patient requires treatment and convalescence for from six months to one or more years, depending on the extent of his disease and his response to treatment.

Because the majority of patients feel much better after a brief period of hospitalizaiton, many fail to realize the seriousness of their disease and the importance of proper regimen. Constant medical supervision and advice is, therefore, necessary.

A chronically ill patient has to be tactfully supervised and advised without being bored. He has to be encouraged and reassured that the disease, though serious, is curable if properly treated and if he cooperates in treatment and with hospital rules designed for his benefit. The paramount importance of rest, both physical and mental, and of fresh air, is constantly emphasized. The patient is advised of the importance of remaining under treatment until the disease is inactivated, and he is able to return to useful life without undue danger of a relapse. Every effort is made to discourage leaving the hospital against medical advice.

Two social workers are on the hospital staff, one a Navajo. They help to maintain contact between patients and their families, write letters, and perform other services for patients, and provide diversions such as picnics and lectures.

The state provides all toilet articles for patients desiring them, and purchases the necessary clothing and shoes for the Indian children.

Recreational facilities at the hospital include a library with over six thousand volumes, Protestant and Catholic chapels, a community house with two single rooms furnished and available for relatives of patients on short visits to the station, a social club with card tables, radio, tobacco, and a soft drink stand. Motion pictures are shown to all patients twice a week. For bedfast patients, a special type of moving picture machine, the "Sonovision," is available.

All hospital and ambulatory section beds are equipped with radiophones, and broadcasts are provided from 6 a. m. until 9 p. m. except during rest hours.

Indian patients in general, and the Navajo children in particular, seem to like the treatment and care, especially the food and between-meal nourishments, provided by the staff. Nurses have reported that the children eat more than the adult patients.

The hospital employs 126 people. Quarters for about 60 employees and their families are provided on the station.

The climate of Fort Stanton is high and dry, and the sun shines 350 days a year. The winters are mild and the summers have warm days and cool nights. At this altitude the low barometric pressure is believed to be helpful in treating tuberculosis since it makes the task of expanding and contracting the lungs easier. The air is clean and has more oxygen per cubic foot than at sea level. The isolation contributes peace and quiet. Because of these facts the Fort Stanton hospital is considered an ideal place for treatment of moderately advanced pulmonary tuberculosis and for convalescence. Far advanced cases with vital capacity of 60% or less, and cases complicated by asthma or decompensated heart disease are not considered suitable for treatment here.

Tuberculosis is a preventable contagious disease still engaging serious attentions of physicians and sanitoriums throughout the world. Efforts are continually made to prevent the spread of this

Warriors Trounce St. Peter's, 55-43

The Ruidoso "A" team broke even in contests last week-end, winning over St. Peter's of Roswell here Friday night and dropping their Saturday night game in Cloudcroft.

The Warriors flashed their best offensive stride of the season in topping the St. Peter's quint by a score of 55 to 43. The game was tied up 21-21 at half-time, but lanky Earl Allison found the range in the second half to drop in five field goals and five free throws out of six tries for 15 points to break the game open. These with the six points he scored in the first half gave him high point honors for the night.

In the third quarter Ruidoso staged a scoring attack that placed them out front with a lead which they easily maintained the rest of the game. St. Peter's was trailing by eight points at the end of the third quarter, and Ruidoso upped the score to 55-43 to end the match by the completion of the fourth quarter.

Oracion was high scorer for St. Peter's with a 14 count, while Allison topped the scoring list with 21 markers.

The "A" game by quarters:

St. Peter's	10	22	32	43
Ruidoso	11	20	40	55

In Cloudcroft the Warriors missed Alan Skellett who had scored 12 points the night before, and coupled with the Bear's crackerbox gym and the red-hot shooting of Lloyd Davis were unable to keep pace with their long-shooting opponents. Davis' 22 points was tops for the night as Cloudcroft won going away, 59-36. Allison with 13 and Ben Hall with 10 took scoring honors for the Warriors.

In "B" games Ruidoso came out on the long end of the score in both contests. They defeated St. Peter's 36-26 with Charley Hall looping in 15 points for the winners. Cloudcroft "B" was taken into camp 44-40 as Billy Rusler led the Warrior scoring with 15 points.

The Ruidoso basketball teams meet the Hagerman teams here tonight in two games, with the "B" game tipoff scheduled for 7 o'clock.

$47,000 IN DEPOSITS MADE AT BANK HERE IN ONE DAY

Ruidoso State Bank enjoyed its largest day in the amount of deposits since its opening day on Dec. 1 Monday this week when several new accounts were opened, all totaling $47,000, according to Cashier T. B. Hood. Total deposits in the newly organized bank here have been at a third of a million for several days now, he added.

February 1 Final Date For Voters To Change Parties

February 1 will be the last day to change political parties for the May 4 Primary Election. On that day Governor Mechem is slated to issue his Primary Election Proclamation and by law the last day for any eligible voter to change parties.

March 5 will be the last day for city residents to register to vote in city election. Registration books must be closed 30 days before the city election which is April 6.

For the Primary Election, registration will be closed on April 5.

500 Phones Listed In New Directory

Patrons of Ruidoso Telephone Co. in Ruidoso, Capitan and Alto received their 1954 telephone directories through the mail last week-end.

The new directory lists 500 telephones in use in the Ruidoso, Hollywood and Green Tree communities. Operators at the local exchange are urging patrons to use the directory to speed up service.

LIONS SEE MOVIES

Motion pictures in color made by S. K. Kuykendall of Rose Bowl parades, football games there, vacation travels and other such views, were shown members of the Lions club in its meeting two weeks ago, and another series was shown by him Tuesday this week.

The Lions voted to accept a challenge from the Parent-Teacher Association to enter into a basketball game soon for raising funds for school needs. Date, place and other details are to be announced later.

Guests Tuesday night this week included Mr. Hicks, Don Tripp, Fred Grisswell, and Glen Sherwood, president of Silver City Lions Club, who invited the local club members and officials to a district meeting in his city in mid-February.

ONE WILDCAT BELOW LIME IN LINCOLN COUNTY

In north-central Lincoln county, M and M Oil Co. is negotiating to complete drilling operations at their No. 1 Franks, SE SW Sec. 23-28-15E. At a total depth of 2120 feet in lime, the wildcat has been idle for several weeks.

In the same area, Albuquerque Exploration, Inc., No. 1 Basinski, Sec. 13-48-16E, is drilling below 1450 feet in lime. 6 5-8-inch casing was set at 1442 feet.

Denver City Man Buys Bob Briggs' Interest In Pueblo Theatre

Purchase of the partnership of Bob Briggs in the Pueblo Theatre here by J. C. Capps of Denver City, Tex., was announced this week. Capps and Briggs bought the popular downtown showplace early last fall from the Southwest chain, Theatre Enterprises, Inc., and Briggs has been manager of the place since then. Only recently the pair sold the old Apache Theatre building in Skyland which they had secured in the trade. It is being converted into a furniture store by Mrs. Barbara Huntress.

Capps will actively manage the Pueblo here, having resigned last month of a drive-in theatre which he operated in Denver City for several months. Briggs told the News early this week he had no immediate plans for the future. "I'm just prospecting now," he said.

Dining Room, Cocktail Lounge Planned In Club

Further details of the proposed Ruidoso Jockey Club, Inc., new officers for which were announced last week in the News, were carried in an official press release mailed this week by Ruidoso Downs. First estimate of the cost of the club building project was $75,000. The latest news release reports it will be $60,000.

Officers elected for a term of one year were Jim Hensley, Ruidoso, President; W. L. McDonald, Artesia, Vice-President; Gene Hensley, Ruidoso, Secretary-Treasurer; J. L. Taylor, Lake Arthur, Director, and Sam P. Knox, Dallas, Director.

Members of the club, which has been in the process of organization since the 1953 meet, include many of the prominent racing fans and owners of Texas, Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico.

Plans have been drawn for a $60,000 construction, seating capacity 400, to be completed by May 1, with the club opening for the 1954 meet. The club, to be located above the grandstand, will afford a full view of the track and house a dining room and cocktail lounge.

HILLBILLY COMEDY TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT BY HONDO BAND BOOSTERS

Do you know how to serve lunch in proper "hill billy" style? Do you want to know the curative value of pure spring water taken from a jug? Do you want to know who finally wins the affections of the lovely Kaye? Do you want to witness Cyrus and Ma's gentle courtship? You will learn all of these things and many more if you come to the Hondo Gym Friday night at 7:30, Jan. 29, and see the comedy "The Campbells Are Coming." All the parts are played by adults from the Hondo Valley. The Hondo Band Boosters are sponsoring the presentation.

Proclamation

Whereas, Safety Education is a matter of life and death to the people of New Mexico; and Whereas, more than 400 people were killed on the highways of our state during the past year, and Whereas, this slaughter can be controlled only by the people themselves, and Whereas, The American Legion membership through its individual posts and through the State Department of the American Legion is sponsoring a Safety Education program for 1954

Therefore, the month of February 1954, is hereby proclaimed Safety Education month and the people of Lincoln County are urged to cooperate through their municipal government, police department and public schools with this Safety Education program to the end that the morning of men, women, and children may be blessed and their lives saved by a program of safety education as sponsored by the American Legion membership in Robert J. Hagee Post No. 79, Ruidoso, New Mexico.

LILI PONS WEARS FIESTA DRESSES MADE IN RUIDOSO

The famed singing star of opera, concert stage and radio, Lili Pons, is now wearing a product made in Ruidoso. She is among several customers of Bennett's Indian Shop in Palm Springs, Calif., who have bought the beautiful fiesta dresses sold there and made in Ruidoso by Mr. and Mrs. Nolen Hart of Ruidoso Dry Goods.

The Harts are now wholesaling their product through only a few outlets, usually in resort centers in the west and Southwest, and may enlarge their production of the original patterns to meet the demand.

Another customer for the Hart creations is the Frontier Hotel chain operating in Las Angeles. The Bennett store informed the Ruidoso firm.

Last week end color photographs of several of the Hart originals modeled by the Harts' daughter Marilyn, and Rosie Wilkins, were made by Carmon Phillips for the firm to use in advertising, they reported.

Capitan Defeats Artesia, Carrizozo

Capitan (Spl.)—Capitan's Tigers Saturday night trounced the Artesia Bulldogs, 70-43, in a game at Capitan which saw Capitan gain an early lead and hold it all the way through the game.

High point man for Capitan was Kenny Morris with 33 points. Eddy Womack had 15 points to take high point honors for Artesia. A Capitan squadman was injured in the fourth quarter of the game. Charlie Francis suffered a bad sprain and possibly a broken ankle.

In a "B" team game which preceded the main event Capitan tromped the Artesia "B" squad 64-45.

Friday night in Carrizozo the Tigers walked all over Carrizozo, 72-39. Kenny Morris and Eddy Womack were high in the game with 18 points each.

The box scores:

Capitan-Artesia
Capitan	16	33	54	70
Artesia	4	14	30	43
Capitan-Carrizozo
Capitan	16	34	56	72
Carrizozo	10	18	25	39

Civil Service Seeks Information Expert

Denver, Colo. (Spl.)—A new examination for the position of Information Specialist opens today, according to an announcement made by James P. Googe, Director of the Tenth U. S. Civil Service Region in Denver, Colorado. From a register of eligibles to be established as a result of this examination, vacancies will be filled as they occur in the five states of the Region—Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, and Wyoming.

In announcing this examination, Googe commented on recent reduction in force action in some Federal agencies which included the abolishing of this position. "Although publicity was given to this at the time," he said, "it was by no means widespread throughout the Federal service. We still receive requests to fill vacancies in the informational field and must be in a position to have qualified applicants available to fill these vacancies."

Googe continued, "I urge every person who believes he is qualified for this position to file an application with our office without delay."

The duties of an Information Specialist for a Federal agency include the writing or editing of news, documentary and special events material, radio or television scripts; the planning producing of radio programs; writing feature articles on a variety of subjects or in a specialized field; and the review and evaluation of the information program. Interested persons are urged to obtain a copy of Announcement No. 10-7 (1954) for complete information about the responsibilities and requirements.

Salaries range from a starting salary of $4205 to a maximum basic salary of $6940. The scope and complexity of duties to be performed and the degree of responsibility to be assumed will vary with the grade of the position, becoming progressively greater at the higher levels. Eligibility for any grade within this range will be based on the applicant's qualifications and previous experience. No written test will be required.

Registers of eligibles to be established as a result of this examination will supersede similar registers established under Announcement Nos. 13-67 of 1948 and 13-10 of 1951 for Information and Editorial Specialist and 12-12 (Arizona) of 1952 for Newswriter. Persons on these registers who have not yet received notice of appointment should be sure to file for this new examination if they are still interested in the possibility of an appointment in the informational field in the Government.

Further information and the necessary application forms may be obtained from the Commission's Examiner in Charge, or Civil Service Information Representative Manuel G. Badillo located at the Ruidoso, N. M., Post Office; from the Civil Service Information Office, Room 100, New Customhouse Building, Denver, Colorado; or from the Regional Office at the Denver Federal Center. Applications should be filed with the Office of the Regional Director, Tenth U S Civil Service Region, Building 41, Denver Federal Center, Denver, Colorado, and will be accepted until the needs of the service have been met

Extension Service Lists Cost Cutting Aids For Orchardists

Here are ten ways by which fruit growers could reduce production costs

1 Improve irrigation systems (turn-outs or boxes, land leveling, cleaning ditches and etc.).

2 Use more mechanized and mechanical equipment in operations such as pruning, spraying, and harvesting, etc.

3 Distribute time better during the winter months—repair equipment during the slack season to avoid costly delays from breakdowns during the harvesting season.

4 Plan on orchard lay-out. Use about four varieties to distribute work load or lengthen harvest season. This tends to cut down on amount of harvesting and grading equipment needed.

5. Use trained pickers so that the quantity of off-grade fruit can be reduced before it reaches packing houses. Use of well trained workers can also reduce amount of bruising, thereby increasing returns for a higher quality product. Reduce breakage of limbs and fruit spurs in case of apples.

6. Make use of off grade fruit by utilizing it in by-products such as cider, juice, jam, jelly, fruit butter and etc.

7. Purchase fertilizers, insecticides, containers, labels, etc., in quantity.

8. Market a good product and build a reputation for your product.

9. Subscribe for one or two good farm magazines related to your farm enterprise, so that you can keep up with current developments in your field.

10 Maintain a list of prospective buyers such as truckers, wholesale houses, etc.

Elementary School News

DIXIE DRYDEN, Editor

First Grade—Mrs. Kilgore

We get our report cards tomorrow and we are working hard to catch up on our work books.

We know a new Valentine song, "A Valentine for Mother."

Last week we told the reporter that we would miss Tunisse Breese who has moved to Roswell, and also her mother, who was our room mother. The paper said that we only miss her mother.

Micky Morgan and Verna Serna are absent because of illness.

Second Grade—Mrs. Sullivan

Several are out of school because of illness.

We are all hoping that we make good grades on our report cards this week.

Our room has collected $6.10 for the March of Dimes.

Third and Fourth Grades —Miss Walker

The honor roll for this six weeks includes Maxine Alexader, Sandra Jones, Wendy Lamb, Alfred Lane, Tommy Gazaway and Martha Trimble.

The class had many absences last week because of the flu, but most of those sick have recovered and we are glad to have them back.

Much time is being spent now in arithmetic on learning multiplication. In English, letter writing is being studied, and in geography the oral reports on the continents will be given this week.

Fifth Grade—Mrs. Samelson

Since the children in our class had been getting quite careless about keeping the room clean we all decided that if each child had to pay a penny fine for leaving trash on the floor under his desk, things would improve. They certainly have up to this time. The offender first receives a warning and if he doesn't clean it up he is fined. So far several have been fined. If a child can't pay he dusts the erasers.

Each member of the class wrote a letter to Joyce McCoy who moved to Roswell last fall. This gave us some practice in letter writing.

We are learning some new songs.

Second Grade—Mrs. Reese

We are glad to have David Butler and Mike Driggers back with us. They have both been sick.

The class was treated to free soda pops Friday when almost all the class made 100 in spelling.

Grade 3—Mrs. Moore

Peter Breese has withdrawn from school and will attend school in Roswell where his father, Lt. Col. Breese, is commandant of New Mexico Military Institute.

Those who have attended every day for the past six weeks are: Sue Buckner, Nita Faye Goodson, Mary Nell Hicks, Raymond Metcalf, Richard Montes, Jay T. Posey, Margie Reynolds and Jim Ward.

A new pupil in the third grade is Fay Fallis.

4th Grade—Mrs. Maurine Jones

We have begun the study of fractions in our arithmetic.

The class was made very happy Monday afternoon when Mike Buckner came back to school.

Fifth Grade—Mrs. McGuire

In shop most of us have been making belts. When we finish them we will display them in the show case. We have already made key cases and coin purses. Carl Wilson made a quiver.

Jane Parnell, Jimmy Barnes and Vernon Scott have made moccasins.

We have made shadow pictures.

We are starting on fractions.

Sixth Grade—Mr. Kaufmann

Following are the results of elections held this week as well as those who made the honor roll. Honor roll includes: Jerry Reynolds, Beverly Watkins and Gerald Tully.

Editor, Dixie Dryden; reporters, Ella Ruth Jackson, Shirley Halladay and Paxton Dent. Judge, Orville Perry; jury, Jerry Reynolds, Lee Glascock, Ben Donathan, Ella Ruth Jackson, Jerry Fuchs and Douglas Dove. Best citizens, Beverly Watkins and Dixie Dryden.

Messrs. McDaniel and Bragg of Carrizozo were business visitors Wednesday afternoon.

FORT STANTON STORY—

disease which still remains the number one killer of the young

Because of its contagious nature, the treatment of tuberculosis in general hospitals is highly undesirable. The state is exerting every effort to find and treat all of its residents who are afflicted with the disease

The great advance of medicine during the past fifteen years, especially in the field of antibiotics and biochemistry, has not solved the problem of tuberculosis. Streptomycin and other allied "mycins" such as paraminosalicylic acid, isonicotinic acid hydrazide, and various surgical procedures are definitely beneficial in many cases, but rest still remains the greatest single curativev element in the disease which still remains the greatest endemic disease in the United States

Absolute rest being impossible, a relative rest is all that can be expected And since it is much easier to rest in an agreeable climate and pleasant surroundings, the Fort Stanton hospital promises to be a great asset to the treatment of tuberculosis in New Mexico

The Welfare Department keeps abreast of the rapidly moving advances in medical science and has set as the goal for its institutions the provision of the best available medical care for residents through a program which meets the contemporary standards of professional excellence and managerial efficiency.

Fort Stanton has been practically self sustaining from its inception It maintains a power and refrigerating plant, steam laundry, electrical and water distribution system, fire department, garage, shops, long distance and local telephone service, corrals, maintenance force, privately operated store and service station, post office, and cemetery Pure water is piped from the foothill of Sierra Blanca to a one million gallon concrete reservoir

The Public Health Service maintained a hog farm and abattoir, and conducted range and dairy operations. Ranching operations have always been profitable. Fort Stanton produced meats and dairy products for all its own needs for over 30 years, and transferred cattle and pigs to government hospitals at Fort Worth, Lexington, and Carville, La.

Statistics covering the last few years show that good quality beef can be raised for about 20 cents a pound, dressed. State Welfare Director Alva A. Simpson, Jr. hopes to restock the range and produce beef for Fort Stanton and several other state institutions.

On June 30, 1953, when all stock was transferred to other government agencies, the inventory was: beef cattle, 811; dairy cattle, 81; hogs, 210; and horses, 54. During the fiscal year 1952, the following was produced: beef and veal—59,449 pounds; pork—12,441 lbs.; cured ham—11,517 lbs.; milk—29,848 gallons; cream—6,347 quarts.

Service to the people of New Mexico is the latest chapter in the fort's long history of service.

Fort Stanton was established 98 years ago, in 1855, by Brigadier General John Garland, to control Geronimo's Mescalero Apaches, and was named after Captain Henry W. Stanton, 1st U. S. Dragoons, who was killed in action with the Indians in the vicinity of the Pecasco River, 20 miles west of Fort Stanton, in January, 1855.

The first troops to occupy this location rode to Fort Stanton, some time in early 1855 under the command of Captain R. S. Ewell. His force was later joined by infantry troops from Fort Fillmore under Colonel D S Miles

In 1861 the fort was burned and Union troops withdrawn upon the approach of Texas troops under General Henry H. Sibley. In 1862, after the defeat of Confederate forces, the fort was reoccupied by Colonel Kit Carson with four companies of Volunteers. The fort was rebuilt in 1868, and discontinued in 1890 as being no longer required for military purposes.

A young army lieutenant stationed here during the days of the army fort used to ride over to Hondo, 20 miles east of Fort Stanton, to play blackjack with the cowboys. He was the same "Blackjack" Pershing who led the Americans to victory in the first World War, and became General of the Armies. General Lew Wallace wrote several chapters of "Ben Hur" here while trying to reform Billy the Kid. And the Kid spent a night in what is now a dental clinic in March, 1881, while being taken to Lincoln for his hanging. He made it to Lincoln, but not to the gallows.

But the wild west days ended, and Fort Stanton embarked on a new career, as a Marine Hospital.

The Marine Hospitals were established by Act of Congress in 1798 "for the relief of sick and disabled seamen." They were supported by a tonnage tax until 1906, then by annual Congressional appropriations.

The history of the movement to establish a tuberculosis sanatorium for the Public Health Service credits Doctor Walter Wyman as being the first Public Health Service doctor to make a study of the subject and recommend that a place in the arid Southwest be secured for that purpose. He had considerable correspondence on the subject with various doctors who agreed that the Southwest was best suited for the treatment of the disease, and he tried to interest the Minister of the Interior of the Republic of Mexico in the establishment of a tuberculosis colony in Old Mexico, but he was not encouraged in this undertaking.

Because of his extensive study of this subject, and the agreement among other doctors specializing in the treatment of tuberculosis that sanatorium care was by far the most satisfactory known method of treatment, and the dry sunny climate was most beneficial, Dr. Wyman would not let the matter lie. When he became the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, he ordered further study of this subject with a view of establishing a TB sanatorium in the Southwest as soon as possible.

Dr. J. O. Cobb made a study of tuberculosis from the Public Health Service standpoint. About the same time Dr. W. D. Bratton contracted the disease and after considerable travel and study he contacted Dr. Cobb, giving him the result of his studies. With Dr. Cobb's consent he became leader of the sanatorium movement, and presented his findings in the form of a paper in 1895. This excellent study awakened the first show of interest in the Public Health Service and in the medical press and gave a new impetus to the question. It was the intention of Doctors Cobb and Bratton to make a special effort toward procuring necessary legislative action for the establishment of a government sanatorium somewhere in the Southwest

Unfortunately, however, Dr. Bratton was accidentally killed in 1897 and Dr. Cobb continued studies of the subject which included various scientific experiments, statistics, etc He then prepared a paper covering the whole subject. Part of this paper was presented before the Detroit Medical Association in April 1898, and stressed the importance of early diagnosis and sanatorium care Dr Cobb intended to complete the studies of some phases of the disease which he had been investigating since 1888 and then publish the complete paper, but in the fall of 1898 the Surgeon General offered him a detail "for a consumptive ranch in Arizona or New Mexico." Doctor Cobb then prepared a more or less finished paper from the rough draft he had for the Surgeon General.

Dr. Cobb was then ordered to Washington for the purpose of examining the records in the War and Interior Departments concerning abandoned military reservations, because it was believed that since the army was first in these territories, the forts and posts would be selected for the best water and grazing conditions. It was essential to have a good independent water supply, and it was considered certain that all forts were desirable in this respect. Dr. Cobb made a detailed report of the information collected in the Departments. He was then directed to proceed on an inspection tour of Arizona and New Mexico forts and posts. A thorough inspection and study of all available sites resulted in the recommendation that Fort Stanton be selected for a "ranch" or sanatorium for tuberculosis because this fort met most of the requirements, especially those relating to most favorable climatic conditions. Surgeon General Wyman approved the recommendation and proceeded to obtain necessary legislation to establish a sanatorium for the treatment of tuberculosis in the most favorable area in the United States.

On April 1, 1899, the president, by the following Executive Order, set aside the Fort Stanton Military Reservation for the use of the U. S. Public Health Service:

"Executive Mansion
April 1, 1899

It is hereby ordered that the Fort Stanton abandoned military reservation, New Mexico, containing ten thousand two hundred and forty acres, more or less, with buildings thereon, be, and is hereby reserved and set apart for the use of the Marine Hospital Service.

Excepting that the force and effect of this order shall not apply to any lands which, prior to the date hereof, valid claims may have been attached under the homestead or mineral land laws.

(Signed)
William McKinley."

The station was formally accepted from the custodian of the Department of the Interior on April 27, 1899, by P. A. Surgeon J. O. Cobb who had been detailed for that purpose The station had been inspected by that doctor in 1898 and consisted of adobe barracks, quarters, offices, storehouses, etc., large enough for the accommodation of four companies. These buildings were erected between 1869 and 1871, or adapted from old buildings whose walls had been left standing after the fort was abandoned and burned in 1861. These buildings were remodeled and many improvements made by the Public Health Service. Extensive remodeling and repairing was again done in 1912.

Fort Stanton Sanatorium, the first U. S Government hospital exclusively for the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis, was formally opened on November 18, 1899, with the admission of its first patient, Mr. Joseph Ryan. Mr. Ryan was discharged on July 7, 1903. The first patient to die and be buried in Fort Stanton cemetery was John Dower, who died on December 16, 1899.

The hospital was operated by the U. S. Public Health Service for 54 years for the care and treatment of American Merchant Seamen, U. S. Coast Guard, Army Transport Service and Naval Tankers personnel and certain other government beneficiaries afflicted with tuberculosis.

Approximately 10,000 patients were treated during those years. For the last five years under Public Health Service operations the death rate was less than 7 per cent, and the "Arrested and Improved" cases were 88 per cent at discharge.

A Civilian Conservation Corps camp was maintained at the fort in the 1930's, and much erosion control was done on the rangeland in Lincoln County.

For six years, from 1939 until 1945, a German internment camp was operated on the reservation. Most of the internees were sailors from the German ship Columbus, which was scuttled during the early days of World War II. The Germans built a swimming pool and a large recreation hall which are now used by hospital personnel.

In June, 1953, the Public Health Service suddenly decided to abandon the hospital. When these plans were disclosed, the seamen fought to save the place that had become home to many of them. They fought until the day they were ordered to leave. This happened so quickly that a week after the last patient left, a delegation from a west coast seamen's union arrived in Fort Stanton to assure the men that their union was still fighting to keep the hospital in existence.

New Mexico Congressmen also endeavored to prevent the closure, but all efforts remained unsuccessful. The patients delegated Mrs. Louise Coe, former state senator, to go to Washington and make sure that all possibilities had been exhausted, and she, too, found no way to prevent the action.

When Governor Mechem was notified of the imminent closure of the hospital, he instructed the Welfare Department to check into the desirability of acquiring the installation for the state. They had one week in which to act, but through the efforts of the Governor, Alva Simpson, Jr., and several Lincoln county citizens, the state of New Mexico was able to acquire, free, the plant and most of its equipment.

The Indian Service contracted for 80 beds for Navajos at $14 per day. One of the first acts of the state administration was to clear an airstrip one and one half miles from the hospital, and most of the Indian patients had their first plane ride when they were flown to Fort Stanton. The strip is also used by consultants and other officials who have taken to visiting by air.

Fort Stanton is of course open to all residents of New Mexico who are afflicted with tuberculosis and who cannot afford private care. Unfortunately, the state ranks third in the country in mortality rate from tuberculosis.

The fort is easily accessible to many points of interest. Surrounding mountains and mesas are famous for deer, antelope, bear, rabbit, doves, and wild turkey, and nearby mountain streams and lakes are stocked with trout and other game fish.

The Mescalero Apache Reservation, comprising about 460,000 acres, and occupied by about 1,000 Indians, is only about 20 miles west of Fort Stanton. The Indian ceremonials are a popular tourist attraction.

Two miles from the hospital is a pyramid-shaped rock which has been called "a stone page of history," and possibly it is. It appears that many years ago this was a meeting place for pow-wows where men gathered to discuss politics or just to gossip. Whatever they wanted to say has been carved into the rock in fifty or more hieroglyphics. Every effort to decipher this mysterious record, one that has been looking at us for perhaps thousands of years, has failed.

Two caves are also to be found on the reservation. One on the left bank of the Bonito, about three miles northeast of the hospital, has been excavated by the University of New Mexico Anthropology Department under the direction of the late Paul Reiter. The completion of excavation of this cave revealed that apparently three Indian peoples, dating from 10,000 years B. C. to about 700 A. D. occupied the cave at various periods.

A Chiracahua point, dating between 6000 and 3000 B. C., was uncovered at the middle level in the cave between a fireplace in a yellow ochre deposit, believed to be more than 10,000 years old, and the Basket Maker specimens which date to 700 A. D. Two rare Basket Maker artifacts, a shuttle and a batten, were found in this cave, establishing the fact that these Indians used looms in weaving. Also found were more than three hundred too sandals.

The cave has been officially designated by the University as Dan's cave, named after Mr. Dan Kusianovich, Administrative Officer of the Fort Stanton Medical Center, who, according to Dr. Reiter, extended the expeditions all possible courtesies and assistance.

On the right bank of the Rio Bonito, about two miles from the hospital, there is another much larger cave. This cave shows no evidence of occupancy. The mouth is about 100 feet in diameter, and abruptly narrows into a tunnel close to the entrance. Tradition has it that a band of Indians were once being pursued by troopers from Fort Stanton and to escape they took refuge in the cave. The soldiers then made a camp at the entrance and waited about a month for their quarry to emerge. They could be waiting still, for the Indians never came out. Since there is a constant stream of fresh air in this cave, there must be another opening, but it has never been found. Many individuals and parties have explored the cave, some claiming to have penetrated as much as 10 miles. This cave is known as Fort Stanton cave.

Several pueblo ruins are also located on the reservation, giving amateur archaeologists an opportunity to dig up old bones or pottery.

Many other places in Lincoln county beckon to the visitor. One of these is Ruidoso, a summer and winter resort with attractions for dudes and night clubbers alike. Another is Hollywood with its pari-mutuel race track operating during the summer. Lincoln, nine miles distant, is well known as the scene of some of the infamous events in the life of notorious Billy the Kid during the Lincoln County War.

From Monjeau Lookout, at an elevation of 10,000 feet, one may behold a panorama which, on a clear day, extends to Roswell, 70 miles away.

One wishing to visit a larger city may take a train or bus to El Paso, 150 miles from Fort Stanton. At the same time he may visit the colorful and exotic Cuidad de Juarez, across the Rio Grande in Old Mexico. Fort Stanton is easily accessible by bus or auto to Carrizozo, the nearest railhead, 27 miles away. Roswell furnishes the nearest commercial airport.

This briefly then is the story of Fort Stanton to the present. State Welfare officials are proud of the ease with which the transition has been made from Federal to State administration, and are already planning ahead for the hospital's next 98 years.

A show will be held at the Pueblo theater this afternoon for the benefit of the March of Dimes. RHS students will be taken by bus to the theater where admission will be 50c per person with all proceeds going to the polio fund.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Henson, 623 N. Bataan, Hobbs, who were wed Jan. 22 at Hobbs, honeymooned here last week-end at Spearhead Cabins. The bride was the former Carmen Dunaway, daughter of the H. S. Dunaways of Pampa, Tex., and the groom, an employee of Phillips Petroleum Co., is the son of E. L. Groh of Hobbs. The bride works with Bob Daniels and Son, Inc., in Hobbs.

EL PASO LIVESTOCK SHOW WILL OPEN DOORS FEB. 8

The Southwestern Livestock Show, which opens its doors February 8 to young stock raisers of the Southwest, is expected to draw record entries of fat calves and lambs, M. T. (Shorty) Jenkins, livestock show manager, announced today.

WOOL GROWERS MEET SET

The 51st annual convention and the 15th annual Wool Show and School will be held in the Hilton Hotel at Albuquerque Feb. 7, 8, and 9, Ivan Watson, extension animal husbandman at New Mexico A. and M. College and manager of the Wool Show, has announced.

The Earl Shamburgers returned last week-end from a trip to Colorado, including a visit at the big stock show in Denver.

MICKEY SPILLANE ON SCREEN—The tough "private eye," Mickey Spillane, portrayed by Biff Elliott, comes to the screen in a new mystery-thriller, "I, the Jury," showing today and tomorrow at Pueblo Theatre here. He's shown above in a tense scene from the picture, in which he can dish it out as well as take it. It is in 3-D.

SIX SECOND SERMON

Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh truth in his heart.—Psalms 15:1-2.

Wade King was in Lubbock this mid-week.

Er Barbour, operator of Copper Kettle Cafe on U. S. Highway 70, was here this week on business from Oklahoma. He said the restaurant will be open again this summer here—that he is disposing of their country club property in Oklahoma which he operates.

Mrs. Frank Ivy of Truth or Consequences was here last week-end.

A Gift TO BE PRIZED

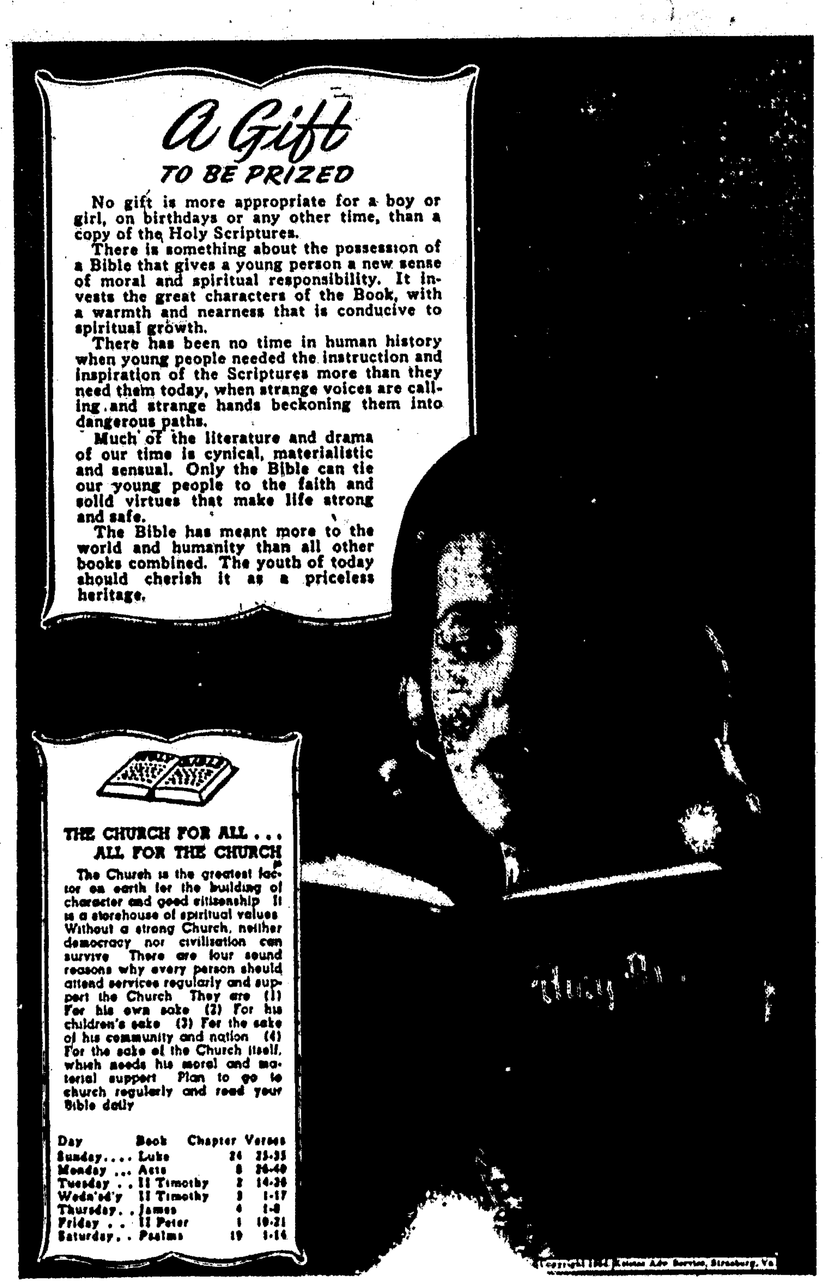
No gift is more appropriate for a boy or girl, on birthdays or any other time, than a copy of the Holy Scriptures.

There is something about the possession of a Bible that gives a young person a new sense of moral and spiritual responsibility. It invests the great characters of the Book, with a warmth and nearness that is conducive to spiritual growth.

There has been no time in human history when young people needed the instruction and inspiration of the Scriptures more than they need them today, when strange voices are calling and strange hands beckoning them into dangerous paths.

Much of the literature and drama of our time is cynical, materialistic and sensual. Only the Bible can tie our young people to the faith and solid virtues that make life strong and safe.

The Bible has meant more to the world and humanity than all other books combined. The youth of today should cherish it as a priceless heritage.



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

EVERYBODY BENEFITS FROM

Modern Home Lighting

For easier home study, give your child a home study lamp like this, equipped with a 150-watt bulb. Lamp should be tall enough to spread light over the work area, and should have a diffusing bowl to soften the light and prevent glare.

IT'S THE BIGGEST BARGAIN IN SIGHT

Whether it's for dad's reading, mother's sewing or the children's home study, good light provides needed eyesight protection at amazingly low cost. Proper light for three hours of home study, for example, costs less than 2 cents. So why risk eyestrain under poor light when good light costs so little? Check into modern, adequate home lighting for every room in your home . . . today!

Local Photographer Out To Meet Or Beat Transient 'Bargains'

Falling in line with the Ruidoso News "trade at home" campaign, which it has been conducting in a series of special advertisements this winter, the Carmon Phillips Studio, located in the Old Mill Trading Post, is now matching, and in some instances going below prices of out-of-town portrait photographers.

Carmon started this week inserting a coupon in every film-developing envelope that leaves his store. The coupon entitles the holder to a regular $5.95, 8x10 inch portrait for only $2.00. Prices for additional prints are in line or below traveling portrait photographer prices.

When questioned regarding the special offer, Carmon said, "New equipment, a streamlined method of handling orders and a desire to advertise our business prompted us to make this offer. Of course we lose money on the special offer, but we feel that our work is good enough to merit enough orders for additional prints at the regular prices to offset this. We hope this offer will make transient photographers think twice before they try to take money out of Ruidoso and we also hope it will make local folks think twice before they do business with out of town portrait photographers."

Kiddie Korral Gets Approval As Child Center

Mrs. Ruth Dilts of the New Mexico Health Department was in Ruidoso last week and issued a state license for the Kiddie Korral, operated here for several months by Mrs. Aleen Glascock. In order to be duly licensed by the State Health Department a child care center must meet certain requirements which include registration card on each child, adequate heating facilities, at least 30 sq. ft. of space for each child, regular and well balanced lunches, adequate and sanitary toilet facilities, paper cup dispenser, individual cots and beds, clean and sanitary, sufficient outdoor play space, adequate attendants, proper disposal of garbage, screens on windows and doors, no drugs administered except on doctor's orders, periodic health examinations for the manager.

Laws governing nurseries and child care centers were enacted in 1950 but due to lack of funds and personnel it has been impossible to carry out these laws as they were intended, it was noted. The situation is improving and regular inspections will be conducted by the health officials throughout the state, says Mrs. Dilts.

Letter To Ye Editor

Cubero, N. M.
Jan. 23, 1954

Dear Vic:

I have several items of interest that you might like to put in the paper:

Christmas letters brought news from several old Ruidoso friends now living elsewhere. Mrs. Hazel Christman is living in Denver, and her address is 1186 Brentwood St., Denver 18, Colo. She is with her mother who has been ill for several years. She had spent Thanksgiving with her son and family at Lubbock. I know she would enjoy hearing from many of you.

Many in Ruidoso will be interested in hearing from Mrs. Jess Hall and daughter Jo Ann. Jo Ann was married soon after graduating from college last spring. In September she was seriously injured in a car wreck, but was able to return to her home shortly before Christmas. Mrs. Hall has bought a new home, and her address is now 2821 Belknap, Dallas, Texas.

Many will enjoy hearing from the Louie Page family. They now live in a nice old fashioned home in Windsor, Ontario, just about two blocks from the college, and their church. She promised a good newsy letter soon. Their address is 423 Sunset, Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

The Chuck Milligan family is now in North Hollywood, Calif., and doing fine. Cherry is 9, and got a bike for Christmas. Ricky is 6, and the twins, Joni and Toni (the Toni Home Permanent twins, you will remember) are now 4. How time flies!

Just yesterday I heard from Mother B who is spending the winter months with her daughter Toye, Mrs. Ed Wittman, in Las Vegas, Nevada. She and little Susan Prensky flew out to Las Vegas Dec. 8th. Susan spent three weeks, then Dr. and Mrs. Mike Prensky went by for her on their way to California. It was Susan's first plane trip, and I can imagine what a thrill it was for her. Mother B's address is 315 N. 2nd, Apt. 10, Las Vegas, Nevada. She is having a birthday Jan. 29th. Happy Birthday, Mother B.

Had a good visit with the Ed Coffee family, formerly of Ruidoso and Green Tree, now living in Grants. Ed and Wanda can really make good music on the guitar and violin. I am taking my wire recorder over to their house tonight to record some of their best selections. They had some difficulty finding a house in Grants, but finally got settled last week, after waiting a month for the house to be vacated.

Vic, I read with interest your account of visit to Acoma. Had I known you and your family were making the trip, would have loved meeting you there. It is one place I must see before leaving here. I've been advised to wear my rubber boots to make the climb through the deep sand. Two of our Indian boys have volunteered to go along to help me up. Perhaps Jimmy would like to come out and have that day with us. Think he would really enjoy Sunday School and services at our Baptist Indian Mission at Old Laguna, and the preaching service at Presbyterian church at Casa Blanca. Rev. Otipovy has two morning services and I can get there for the second. I'm sure it would be an interesting experience for him.

I find the Indian people so friendly and sociable. Hope to get into many of their homes this spring when the days are longer, and not quite so cool. Last Sunday afternoon I met the wife of the governor of one of the nearby tribes. She went with me to see an Indian dance that was going on near Acomita. It was called "The Butterfly Dance" and was one I had never seen, also one of the most colorful. I went on to her home and met her family. It is surprising to find so many Indian villages among the hills, and just a few miles off the main highway. Hope to do a lot of "browsing around" this spring on Sunday afternoons. Visiting with the Indians is a pleasure since most of them speak English.

Must mention Dave and Jane. They are back in school in Silver City, and very happy and busy.

To the membership and pastor of the First Baptist Church, I'd like to say that I am very happy to know that the old debt has been paid, the notes burned, and plans are being made to continue the building. May God bless your work. I would have loved being at that service.

By the way, I meant to mention the fact that I think a great number of very fine boys and girls have been reared in Ruidoso. No need to mention any names, and like many other parents, I rather resented that statement about our Ruidoso youngsters.

Best wishes to you and family, and my many friends.

Nell Crain Parks.

Mr. and Mrs. Vic Lamb,
Ruidoso, N. Mexico.
Dear Mr. and Mrs. Lamb:

We received your gift card informing us that we are to receive the Ruidoso News for the year 1954 as a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Brown of Green Tree.

Have enjoyed your paper very much and look forward to each issue this year. We visit in Ruidoso and Green Tree often.

Thanking you for your card.

Respectfully,
Mr. and Mrs. George P. Goodson.

New Oldsmobile Styled 'Year Ahead,' Dealer Declares

Oldsmobile for 1954 went on display Wednesday, January 20, one full year ahead of schedule.

"The new 1954 Oldsmobile models originally were planned for release in 1955," according to Harry Powell of Tularosa, Chevrolet and Oldsmobile dealer for this area. "But original plans were scrapped early in 1953 when it was found possible to move the 1955 model up to 1954. The result of this skip-a-year program is the most completely new, completely changed, completely advanced Oldsmobile in many years."

The new models, "88," Super "88" and "98," are a full three inches lower than their predecessors without sacrificing ground clearance. They feature such sweeping changes as an all new body by Fisher, a new wide, wraparound, panoramic windshield, new sweep-cut fender and door design and many other styling innovations.

The new "Rocket" engine is upped in horsepower from 165 to 185 in the Super "88" and "98" models, (170 in the "88" models) and up in compression ratio. Engine displacement is increased from 303 to 324 cubic inches and the entire car is engineered so that the increased power is usable power—power that the driver can put to use in the medium and low speed ranges—in ordinary, every day driving situations, Clayton Bennett, Ruidoso sales representative for the Powell firm, said.

Many of the new styling features were inspired by the General Motors experimental dream cars, particularly the Oldsmobile Starfire. All models in the "88" and Super "88" series are not only three inches lower, but are two inches longer, and this, of course, gives the cars the new, long, low-level silhouette, and contributes much to Oldsmobile's "sport car" look. Powell's have one of the new '54s on display at Tularosa.

Inside, too, the 1954 Oldsmobiles are all new. New fabrics, new colors, new combinations of leather and cloth highlight the most luxurious interiors in Oldsmobile history. Even the instrument panel is redesigned to harmonize with the sweep of the new windshield. The front door has been recessed to accommodate the wrap-around windshield, making for easy entrance or exit. Interior head room, leg room and seat room have not been sacrificed despite the new lower overall des...

Mr. and Mrs. O. I. Norton of Alamogordo came up to their cabin in Midway Wednesday, Jan. 20. Mrs. Norton is secretary of Alamogordo Chapter and visited the Ruidoso O. E. S. Chapter that night.

Mike Buckner, reported much improved, was returned to his home here last mid-week from El Paso where he had been hospitalized following a fall from a cliff near his home.
