Around Town

—By Nosey Waters—

Early this year the Ruidoso News put in operation a brand new folding machine to fold the paper each week, substituting for hand labor that had been used previously. The mechanical marvel was a necessity this year with our upsurge in added pages and circulation. Funny thing is—for the first several weeks, we would run a batch or so through the folder the wrong way and they would come out with the pages not in order, or with the front page folded on the inside and the inside on the outside—quite confusing. But, in all that time, even though we know lots of subscribers got one of the papers misfolded, nobody fussed at us, for which we say thank you. We think we about have the thing conquered now. . . . This week's Ruidoso News is our annual vacation issue. It was printed in advance (almost a week ago) and for that reason has no late news in it, and has only general items. While you are receiving this paper, all of our crew will be scattered to all points of the compass. We'll all be back on the job next week, and thanks for letting us catch our breath. . . .

To All Law Enforcement Officials:

One of the most shocking developments in our present American society is the volcanic upheaval of youthful lawlessness. Long indifferent to the problem of juvenile crime, the public now stands appalled at the spectacle of rampaging teen-age criminals. This tragic consequence of public apathy is now at a crisis and calls for an all-out counterattack against vicious young thugs.

Blazing headlines of torture, sadism, murder, and gang warfare toll the depredations of teen-age maniacs. The black figures of crime statistics present an even more doleful account. In 1958, arrests of juveniles under the age of 18 increased 8 per cent, while arrests of adults rose 1.8 per cent. Alarmingly, not only the frequency of youth crimes but the savagery of these offenses is mounting day by day, year by year.

The problem of youthful crime—truly a monster of frightening proportions—exists not only in the densely populated metropolitan centers, but in each and every community in the land. Violent crime sprees and the bizarre escapades of young hoodlums, wily and hardened beyond their years, fire the imagination of other young punks across the Nation. Unfortunately, any escape from justice by youthful lawbreakers—through weak court systems, public indifference, soft-headed sentimentality, senseless preference for the rights of the criminal instead of for his victim—can only give encouragement to other young thugs.

Action against this youth menace must not be delayed. Past public ignorance of the problem, misguided sentiment for the "tender age" of these lawbreakers, and the fallacy of economizing in the quantity and quality of our juvenile courts must be abolished. It is imperative that the American public stand shoulder to shoulder with the undermanned and overburdened law enforcement authorities in combating the youth crime attack.

It is my firm conviction that no all-out campaign against these flagrant young criminals who commit serious crimes must include publishing their names and crimes for public information, the ready availability of past records for the information of appropriate law enforcement officers, and fingerprinting of these young lawbreakers for future identification.

A valuable ally [illegible] fight against crime, the news [illegible] the Nation can attach further public service in focusing the spotlight of public opinion on those members of the judiciary who, in the [illegible] of the present crisis, permit [illegible] endangering the public by [illegible] young delinquents [illegible] risk by low [illegible] sentences.

Parents who, through bad example, indifference, or [illegible] weakly [illegible] upon their children [illegible] the scourge of violent [illegible] must be made to feel the sting of public indignation and to face legal and financial responsibility for the criminal acts of their children.

At this time, when the increase in youthful crimes constitutes the [illegible] of the shameful riot in our national [illegible], serious consideration should be given to lowering the age distinction between a juvenile and an adult criminal. We are dealing with vicious young criminals, and they should be treated as such.

While [illegible] of juvenile delinquency lies in the establishment of [illegible] Juvenile Authority, this [illegible] of every individual interested in the safety and welfare of our country.

Very truly yours,

John Edgar Hoover, Director.

From a bulletin issued by the Bureau of Business Research, University of New Mexico: Ruidoso residents are excited about plans recently announced by the U. S. Forest Service for a ski resort and recreational area to be built in nearby White Mountain Park and to cost between $1.5 million and $2 million. The proposed resort would be located [illegible] of the Lincoln National Forest [illegible] Ruidoso. The project would [illegible] a chairlift, a [illegible] lodge, [illegible] and a [illegible] area. The [illegible] would have to build a road—or extend and improve an old one—to the resort area at a cost of about $410,000. Plans are for the area to be in operation by the end of 1961 and completed by the end of 1962. According to the prospectus, a minimum of 66.5 inches of snow falls in the area annually, quite enough for excellent skiing.

The reason it was so quiet around the bank last week was Ed Wimberly was off elk hunting. . . . Flying to South Dakota to do some pheasant hunting last week-end were Ralph Brown, R. H. Hedgecoke, Til Thompson, Joe Hawkins, Dutch Colling, C. C. Chase of Alamogordo, former Ruidoscan H. T. McDaniel of Durango, Colo., and a Mr. Harris of Carrizozo. They went in three planes. . . . We learned late last week Clyde Hundley, Ruidoso resident for several years, who came here from the Texas Panhandle, died of a heart attack and final rites were held at Fort last mid-week. We did not secure full details of the death for our readers.

Medical Leaders To Address Ft. Stanton Meet

Dr. John Stewart Chapman, Assistant Dean of Postgraduate Education and Professor of Medicine at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, Tex., and Dr. Thomas L. Shipman, Health Division Leader at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, Los Alamos, N. M., will be the principal speakers at the second annual Joint Chest Conference for New Mexico which will be held at Fort Stanton, N. M., on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1. The conference is sponsored by the New Mexico Tuberculosis Association, the New Mexico Heart Association and the New Mexico Trudeau Society.

Dr. Chapman's talk at the conference will be on "Anonymous Mycobacterial Disease In Man," and Dr. Shipman's speech will concern "Radiation Hazards." Dr. Shipman will also be a member of a panel discussion on "Employment Compensation in Chest Diseases."

Dr. Chapman, a graduate of Southern Methodist University and the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston, has been a full-time faculty member at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School since 1952. He previously served as a resident physician at Kansas State Hospital, Texas State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, and Bellevue Hospital in New York, and was in private practice specializing in pulmonary diseases in Dallas for nine years.

Dr. Shipman, a native of Andover, Mass., is a graduate of Yale and of Harvard Medical School. He has been leader of the Health Division of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory since 1948. Prior to that, he was Works Physician in the Lynn, Mass., plant of General Electric for twelve years. He is a member of the Founders Group of Occupational Medicine, branch of American Board of Preventive Medicine.

Other speakers at the conference will be Dr. Quentin Floruner, President of the New Mexico Heart Association, Dr. Joseph Gordon, President of the New Mexico Tuberculosis Association, Dr. William Langston, President of the New Mexico Trudeau Society, as well as many other prominent physicians and surgeons throughout the state.

Lincoln County Direct Pay Asked Court Attaches

An auditor in Santa Fe who examined Lincoln County records in the Third Judicial District at Carrizozo for 1958-59 recommended direct payment of funds for the judicial retirement account and district attorney salaries from district clerks to the state treasurer.

Funds are routed through county treasurers offices now, E. F. Adams, Las Cruces, said the annual audit showed funds are transmitted a month late because of channeling into the offices.

Earlier this year a study by State Auditor Robert Castner and other state personnel showed some treasurers were using judicial retirement

White Sands, Cloudcroft, Sun Spot Among Interesting Places To Visit In Week-End Trip To Alamogordo

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of stories outlining a one-day or week-end trip in New Mexico. The material was prepared by the Tourist Division of the State Department of Development.)

—o—

Hardly anywhere are there more dramatic contrasts within a few miles than here where the Sacramento Mountains give way to the Tularosa Basin in the Alamogordo country.

The Basin is flat, desolate, usually bone-dry, and includes a missile range and the fabulous White Sands. The Sacramentos are high and cool and studded with spruce, fir and pine.

White Sands National Monument ranks second only to Carlsbad Caverns as a drawing card in southern New Mexico. Its lonely but beautiful gypsum dunes have a fascination for everyone who explores them.

The sand is cleaner than that on any beach. It drifts like snow and snowplows are used to keep open the road which leads to the heart of the sands.

The monument entrance is on U. S. Highway 70 at a point 15 miles southwest of Alamogordo. The admission fee is 50 cents, or $1 for an annual permit. There is an eight-mile winding drive into the dunes.

At first you see yucca and other plants competing with the dunes for survival, stretching their stems to unusual height to escape the rising level of sand. Finally, the sand takes over. All signs of life disappear, and you are adrift in a brilliant white sea.

The road ends in the White Sands picnic area, where tables and fireplaces are shielded from the sun by odd-shaped shelters. Some visitors pitch camp for the night in this level clearing, and have the eery pleasure of seeing the sands by moonlight.

One warning: pay heed to the signs advising cars to stay on the road and in the picnic clearing. Monument rangers are weary of rescuing motorists who can't resist the temptation to use the dunes for a roller-coaster ride.

There is a refreshment counter and souvenir shop at the Monument entrance, and the National Park Service maintains a museum there illustrating how the White Sands are formed by gypsum washing down from the mountains girdling the Tularosa Basin.

Leaving White Sands, it is easy to sample an entirely different world. You drive past the Holloman Missile Development Center into Alamogordo, one of the fastest-growing cities in the southwest.

Three miles north of Alamogordo, turn right on State Road 83. This all-paved route takes you through the only highway tunnel in New Mexico. As you climb, the White Sands behind you look more and more like a wide sea shimmering in the sun. Sixteen miles, most of it uphill, takes you into the charming resort village of Cloudcroft.

Golfers insist on heading straight for the Cloudcroft Golf Course so they can boast of playing 18 holes on the highest golf course in America (9,000 feet). There are stables for saddlehorses, lots of accommodations for overnight stays, and such diversions as rodeos and art classes. In winter, two ski areas operate at Cloudcroft.

The Lincoln National Forest surrounds Cloudcroft, and the Forest Service maintains four camping areas within a few miles of the village.

If your visit to Cloudcroft includes a Sunday, you will want to visit Sun Spot, the solar observatory on Sacramento Peak where scientists keep tabs on the behavior of the sun. The observatory houses the world's largest coronograph, an instrument for examining the surface of the sun, and it is from Sun Spot that we learn of solar storms and explosions which affect radio transmission on the

THEY CALL THEM BOTTOMLESS—A chain of six lakes east of Roswell make up Bottomless Lakes State Park. Early settlers couldn't find the bottoms, but today we know the depths range from 45 to 600 feet. The Park is one of southeastern New Mexico's most popular funspots.

Rocket Pioneer Robert H. Goddard, Lincoln Artist Peter Hurd Featured In Roswell Museum

Most museums in New Mexico contain Indian pottery, Spanish antiques or paintings. But at the museum in Roswell these days the big attraction is rockets.

The Roswell Museum has an excellent art collection, including the paintings of the famous New Mexico artist Peter Hurd. But it is in the category of rocketry that the museum lately has attracted national attention.

The Robert H. Goddard rocket exhibit is worth a trip to Roswell for anyone who is fascinated by the new age of space travel that is dawning on mankind.

Your first sight is the high launching tower which Dr. Goddard, the "father" of America rocketry, used in his experiments on a ranch near Roswell between 1930 and 1945. It stands now on the grounds of the Roswell Museum.

Inside the building are exhibited rockets, rocket engines and other devices which were the primitive forerunners of the missiles that streak up today from Cape Canaveral.

If you find museums stuffy, there is no reason to avoid the Roswell area. Thirteen miles east and south of the city is one of New Mexico's most popular state parks, Bottomless Lakes.

The Bottomless Lakes—six of them—are not really bottomless, of course. Early settlers who couldn't find the bottom gave the lakes their names, but later investigations has showed that the depths range from 45 to 600 feet.

Boating is popular at the lakes, and there are swimming areas. Picnic tables are plentiful, and it is no wonder that this spot draws as many out-of-town visitors as it does folks from Roswell.

A two-hour drive from Roswell on U. S. 70 takes you past the great peanut farms of the Portales area to Clovis, where you can see the busiest stockyards in the Southwest. At Clovis, indisputably the cattle capital of the region, livestock from New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado and the Texas panhandle are brought to market.

The annual Livestock Show and Sale held at Clovis October 26-30 will draw stock fanciers from many states and is regarded as one of the most colorful events of the year.

Clovis is proud of its zoo, the largest between Fort Worth and Albuquerque, and here you can see the famous bear cub Smokeyna. The cub, billed as a successor to the now-grown Smokey the Bear, was orphaned earlier this year when hunters illegally shot its mother in the Lincoln National Forest.

GRAN QUIVIRA TRAVEL CONTINUES TO INCREASE

Visitation to Gran Quivira National Monument during September totaled 848 persons, an increase of 13 percent over the same month of last year. Nearly all states were represented, as well as England, Germany and Mexico.

The National Monument contains the ruins of a large Indian pueblo village and two Franciscan Mission Churches. The Spanish missionaries began to Christianize the Indians at "Humanas" early in the seventeenth century. Later, in 1629, the first mission church, San Isidro, was built here by Father Letrado. Construction of the larger mission, San Buenaventura, began about 15 years later and was brought to completion by Father Santander. The village was abandoned about 1675 because of drought conditions and attacks by the Apache Indians.

Gran Quivira National Monument is located on State 10, between Carrizozo and Mountainair. There is no admission charge.

FARM FAMILIES USE U. S. D. A. CREDIT

In Chaves and Lincoln counties, 98 farm families were using U. S. Department of Agriculture credit in the form of Farmers Home Administration loans when the 1959 fiscal year ended June 30, 1959, the agency's county supervisor reported this week.

During the year the county office, located in the basement of the City Hall Building in Roswell, made 79 loans for different purposes. These included paying costs of suitable farm and home operations, improving or buying farms or additional land, building or repairing farm homes and other farm buildings, and establishing or improving farm water or irrigation systems.

Old Baldy Is New Mexico Peak With A Decided Personality

(Editor's Note: The article below was printed first in Carmon Phillips' Pictorial Ruidoso publication last fall and again in the New Mexico Magazine in July of this year. If you missed it in either of those two publications, here is a copy. You might want to send it to a friend.)

By VIC LAMB
Editor, The Ruidoso News

Within the boundaries of the United States are several mountains with the nickname of "Baldy," the same as Ruidoso's most famous landmark, Sierra Blanca Peak—but our own "Baldy" is distinguished for having a personality of its own.

And here's why—

It is the southernmost mountain in the U. S. that reaches such a height—stabbing the sky at 12,003 feet—a landmark that can be seen for many hundreds of miles in all directions—and is claimed as their own personal mountain by many thousands of residents of South Central New Mexico, as well as the many thousands of tourists who visit the Playground of the Southwest each year—and enjoy the cool climate, the mountain breezes, beautiful forested trails and drives that Baldy provides.

For countless centuries Baldy has provided the food, the water and shelter for millions of God's creatures—the wild life, the early Indian and present day man. Beneath its cathedrals of evergreens and within its canyon walls are bear, deer, elk (in years gone by), beaver, fox, bobcat, antelope, turkey, rabbit, squirrel and other creatures of fur and fang, claw and feather. Notable to mention here is the fact thousands of humming birds live among the wild flowers that grow above timberline in the summers on Baldy—and there are many other very beautiful birds that stop off for a while on their migrations—there are permanent residents, like the pinon jay and the juncos (we call them "snow birds").

We who live on the lap of Old Baldy enjoy its changing moods. Almost always Old Baldy is peaceful and serene, but on rare occasions, being a little temperamental, she shows her wrath. It's rare, but awesome, to see rolling black clouds, spitting lightning, tumbling turbulently around our famous peak. We note the velvet green of her slopes in early spring, the splotches of red and gold in fall when Jack Frost dips his brush in his vari-hued paint-pot. Then for many months in the winter, Baldy lies under a soft blanket of shining white snow. We've seen Baldy sticking up above layers of clouds basking in the sunshine, while the lower slopes and her canyons are deep in shade of a summer rain cloud; we've seen the peak of Baldy obscured by a cloud all her own—all the rest of the sky being clear as crystal; we've seen a tiny puff of cloud, like a ball of cotton, resting right on the peak of Baldy; hovering over her we've seen freakish clouds, such as long, slender layers, stacked on top of one another like table tops—or more like pancakes. Then there have been days when we don't see Baldy at all—hidden from us by snow clouds and rain clouds. She's always there, however, when the clouds lift—to lift our souls. Baldy has a different appearance for every hour of the day, as the light changes, and as clouds go scudding by, casting their sombre shadows in patches. After some snow storms, or rains, we often see clouds snagged on fir and pine trees on her slopes. Early every morning, Baldy is the first to catch the sun's rays—and she greets us with a rosy hue. Sunsets that defy description are often our fare for late evening, with Baldy, naturally, taking the center of the stage—since she's due west of us. After a heavy snow, we've seen white spouting geysers shooting high in the air as a west wind whips the sparkling mantle from her sides up over the peak hundreds of feet in the air. We've seen cloud formations around her peak that made her look like she'd "blown her top," an awe-inspiring volcano—but she's only fooling. A few of us have been looking at just the right time and have seen snow avalanches skidding down the trough on the southwest face of Baldy. At other times we have seen a plume of smoke rising from her forests as a flick of lightning starts a forest fire, or a careless man leaves a campfire or cigaret to start a blaze.

She bears no scars from those dramatic moments when man abuses her—like the time a huge B-17 four motored bomber, being guided by remote control radio, got out of hand and had to be deliberately crashed on the rugged slopes—nor does she bear her scars from forest fires for very long—for Mother Nature sets to work healing the ravages of fire in a short time.

Sierra Blanca peak no doubt has been revered for many centuries as a Holy Mountain. Lying inside the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation, Old Baldy is still frequently referred to by one of America's one-time warlike tribes as their Holy mountain. Evidence that the earliest residents in Baldy's canyons and along her streams also held the mountain in reverence is the fact that so many of the early pueblos and Indian settlements were located where Baldy was always in view. In more than two dozen sites of early Indian settlements, explored by amateur archaeologists and by professionals as well, artifacts of Indians living in this region 900 to 1,000 years ago are found. They have left paintings on rocks in the Ruidoso canyon, along the Bonito and on rimrock near Three Rivers; they have left their crude cooking utensils, such as metates, their manos, and many millions of fragments of their pottery. Wherever you find such evidence of their having lived—there you can cast your eyes upward and see the shining temple that we call White Mountain.

The word temple can describe our mountain with a personality, because we noted in a very recent Rand-McNally atlas that Sierra Blanca peak, as we call it, is called "Cerro Blanco"—and the Spanish for "Cerro" is either hill or temple. Blanco is the male descriptive of white—we prefer the feminine, Blanca, and Blanca is the name most commonly used by mapmakers.

Mentioned before was the fact our Baldy is a landmark for thousands of people who can see it in many directions from us. My most colorful glimpse of Baldy was 100 miles east of Ruidoso as I drove into New Mexico to make the land of enchantment my home. The sun was setting in one of its more breath-taking descents, with every hue of the artist's palette represented in the clouds—and accenting the graceful lines of Baldy, even from that great distance away. Tourists who make the drive atop the Sandia mountains near Albuquerque, 100 miles northwest of us, can see Old Baldy from there. Alamogordo, Tularosa, Carrizozo, Capitan, Roswell and villages and settlements in and near those places, and the ranchers too—all look upwards to see Baldy from afar. The aviator can see Baldy from even farther, with his advantage of altitude. It is a landmark for pilots, civil and military. Many hunters and hikers who have lost their way have used this famous peak as a landmark to find their way back to camp. Baldy has been seen in motion pictures taken from a high-flying missile probing outer space. She's recognizable from altitudes measured in miles as the camera scans the world below. Planes flying around Baldy give occupants even more breath-taking views of her, for she has a different face from all directions. The western slopes are jagged and cliffslike—opposite to the gentle slopes of the eastern approaches.

Some of the more dramatic moments for Sierra Blanca, in which she held the center of the stage, have been those occasions when someone was lost in the deep woods or canyons and planes and helicopters were employed in rescue.

Something I have observed on the slopes of Baldy, and which I have not yet found corroboration from anyone, are the rings, that resemble the craters on the moon, yet are not craters—but are rings of various sizes where grass grows greener around the rim to accent the circles. Some are interlocking, some are very far across, some are not very large. I first saw them in a plane ride late in the fall when the grass was highest, and the light was just right to limn the unusual sight. Perhaps they are ancient scars of meteors that pelted Baldy thousands of years ago.

When the timing is right, ever so many years, there can be seen a crescent moon set in the saddle of Baldy with the star, Venus, shining brightly nearby; a duplicate of the emblem on Turkey's flag.

Most striking about our mountain is the way the scenery changes in all directions as you leave the Playground of the Southwest—rolling, rich ranch lands to the north, south and east, desert country to the west, wherein lies the Great White Sands, rough and rugged to the northwest, where the lava beds have left scars upon the desert country.

Indian and cavalry have battled on Baldy's slopes where today fat cattle graze. The wild game still holds its own in the shelter of Baldy, and there is always a plentiful crop for hunters to harvest, even after centuries of being stalked by hunters in many ages.

The affection we all hold for Baldy is reflected in the way the first great western writer, Eugene Manlove Rhodes, who made his home in the Tularosa basin country, always mentioned our White Mountain in his moving and adventure packed stories in the Saturday Evening Post 40 and 50 years ago. He once taught school at Alto, near Ruidoso and on Eagle Creek, one of the several watersheds of Old Baldy. Many other writers have made use of Baldy in their stories.

Baldy today has another talent—that of providing pleasure to the vacationists who come from all points of the compass. Winter sports are enjoyed on her snowy slopes, in summer horseback riders can trek through arbor like trails in the Lincoln National Forest, hikers gain knowledge of her wildlife in leisurely walks near our community, the angler joins with the hunter in pursuing respective outdoor hobbies, and for those who come to rest and relax, Baldy's calming influence can repair frazzled nerves as no other tranquilizer.

Yes OUR Baldy is "the mountain with a personality." And with its dependability, its protectiveness, its serenity, its ability to provide and give without expecting returns, its individuality and zest [illegible] offers a great challenge to mankind—a challenge to learn a lesson from [illegible] mountain.

WOMAN'S CLUB ISSUES NEW YEARBOOKS WITH OUTSTANDING PROGRAMS SLATED

Attractive new yearbooks for 1959-60 were ready for distribution at a meeting of the Ruidoso Woman's Club Wednesday. The books have a green cover, decorated with a pine tree, suggesting this mountain area.

The Ruidoso Woman's Club was organized April 14, 1932, and federated that same year on April 16. The club motto is "Bonded for Fellowship" and its flower is the Indian paint brush. Pine green and Indian red are the club's colors.

The club's current slate of officers includes Mrs. John Sigler, president; Mrs. R. K. Knox, vice-president; Mrs. H. F. Kannady, secretary; Mrs. Sam Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Pearson, parliamentarian, and Mrs. Roy Nelson, historian.

Regular meetings of the club are held on the second Wednesday of each month.

Yearbook, Mrs. Ralph Oberholtzer, chairman; Mrs. R. K. Knox and Mrs. Bert Rice; finance, Mrs. Sam Brown, chairman, Mrs. Roy Nelson and Mrs. Ike Kennedy; membership, Mrs. Cy Leland, Sr., chairman, and Mrs. Paul S. Van Dyke.

Ways and means, Mrs. Joe Maloy, chairman, and Mrs. Lloyd Davis; house, Mrs. Melvin Knox, chairman, Mrs. Joe Coe and Mrs. H. A. Sharp; publicity, Mrs. Carl Longabaugh; social, Mrs. Lester Hitchens, chairman, Mrs. Ed Sanders and Mrs. T. B. Hood; and program, Mrs. R. K. Knox, chairman, Mrs. C. Edward Ditterline and Mrs. J. P. Parker, Mrs. Ernestine Shelli is in charge of the club's association with Boys Ranch and members of the community achievement project are Mrs. Robert Pearson, chairman; Mrs. Maloy, Mrs. Sanders, Mrs. Oberholtzer and Mrs. Davis.

Several luncheon meetings are scheduled for the current season. Dates for these will be Nov. 11, Feb. 10 and May 11. On other meeting dates, a tea hour will follow the program.

Outstanding programs have been planned for the season. Indian artifacts were to be discussed at Wednesday's meeting by "Mr. Henry."

At the Nov. 11 luncheon meeting, Dan Swearingin will present the program on "Touring New Mexico by Camera." The Rev. C. Edward Ditterline will present a Christmas message at the Dec. 9 meeting. Mrs. Virginia Kinekole, president of the Mescalero Apache tribe, will discuss "Indian Problems" at the meeting Jan. 13. Mrs. Paul S. Van Dyke will present a book review of "The Centuries of Santa Fe" by Paul Horgan, at the Feb. 10 luncheon meeting.

On March 9, the program will be presented by Vic Lamb, who will discuss "How the Civil War Touched New Mexico."

A talk on "Boosting Ruidoso" will be given by Samuel Hyatt at a meeting April 13 and at the May 11 luncheon session the program will be under the direction of the president, Mrs. John Sigler. That meeting will climax the season.

RECENT BRIDE—Mrs. Jimmy Lee Long, the former Miss Mary Evelyn Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson of Hollywood. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Long of Farmington. The couple's marriage took place Oct. 1 at Lubbock, where both are attending college.

OCTOBER PLENTIFULS INCLUDE ALL PORK CUTS

Pork—all cuts of pork—that's one of the feature items on the fall list of plentiful foods provided by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Of course, pork has been a good buy all summer. But now the huge spring crop of pigs is being marketed. It's the third largest pig crop in history and the largest since World War II. So you can count on plenty of pork all fall and winter.

Turkey, too, is plentiful—especially the smaller sizes. They're the kind you most likely will find selling at the lowest price since 1941. You may be ahead by freezing a few turkeys now for later use.

Add to these meats the plentiful supply of late summer vegetables now at your markets. Give special thought to onions—production is 11 per cent more than a year ago.

There is an abundance of pears and grapes this year. Lemons and limes, too. You'll find them extra good and you'll have a chance to select for quality.

Milk has returned to the plentiful foods list. Production during the first seven months of this year ran four per cent more than average, although down a shade from a year ago.

Peanut butter completes the list for September.

These foods are designated as "plentiful" in this area because they are in greater-than-usual supply this month. You can take advantage of the situation by buying more of these items.

Your savings now earn 3% interest at Ruidoso State Bank.

Quantity Sandwiches Are Simple To Make

Usually when eating a sandwich, "it's what's inside that counts." But this isn't always true.

When preparing sandwiches for a family reunion, community picnic or annual office group outing, the U. S. Department of Agriculture says the outside counts, too.

Tests on quantity food preparation show that day-old pullman or sandwich bread is firm enough, yet not too dry for easy, fast spreading of fillings, which often tear fresh bread.

Another tip from USDA home economists: have all ingredients and equipment ready before making sandwiches. Have butter or margarine softened, fillings mixed, and lettuce, if used, crisp and thoroughly drained.

Place bread in rows, preferably four rows of 10 slices each which will allow making 20 sandwiches at a time.

Then, without picking up slices of bread, spread each one with softened butter, margarine or mayonnaise; place filling on alternate slices and spread evenly to the edges before covering with the matching slice of bread.

If the filling is sliced food, such as cheese or meat, use the same system, placing these foods on alternate slices.

Stack several sandwiches together and cut in half diagonally with a sharp knife. Place cut sandwiches in storage pans and cover completely with waxed paper and damp towels. Keep refrigerated until serving time.

Cucumbers Take On New Serving Ways

Cucumbers, one of the principals of salad—are best eaten out of hand, according to a vegetable expert. Next-best, he says, is to eat them sliced or diced. But they also are good when baked, stewed or pickled.

The expert is of the opinion that scoulday cucumbers a fruit—one of the melon family. Botanically, he's right. And as a fruit, it should be treated as such to truly savor its crisp, cool texture.

Eating cucumbers out of hand, maybe with a dash of salt, provides a tasty treat. But if you wish to be more conventional, thin, delicate cucumber slices or thick, crunch chunks are delicious in a wide variety of salads.

And if you're looking for a really new and different way to serve cucumbers, try cucumber shell surprise:

First hollow out cucumber shell, saving the "meat" of the vegetable to dice into cubes. Combine diced cucumber, finely grated onion, chopped tomato, and slivers of green pepper with sour cream flavored with dill seed. Chill the mixture thoroughly before filling the cucumber shells. Filled shells may be served alone or on a bed of lettuce leaves.

THE SILVER LINING

By Dorothy Stern

Well, where have you been? You see, I beat you to the draw. I am the one who has been lost, somewhere, somehow, so that I didn't get any word to you all.

Why haven't I written in a word or two to you now and then? Well, I'll tell you. It has been hard to see an opening in the dark clouds over my head. Maybe lots of the time the lining has not been so silvery. How do you like that?

I would get to thinking, "Well, how can I make somebody happy, feeling like I do. I am supposed to keep everybody's hopes up and bring the bright side to everybody. But who cheers me up?"

I'd give anything if I had not said that, Friend. Even if it was just a joke. It sort of slipped out. I just wanted to see what you would say. You know I didn't mean it.

No, folks, the big secret of life is the more we cheer other folks along and help them in any way, the happier we are. I have told you this in many different ways. We all know that life is not in taking but in giving.

So that is why I am back here with you again with a little message in the paper. I was too lonesome, and just could not stand it any longer.

The truth is that I got so far behind on things I wanted to tell you about—and then I kept thinking well I will catch up one of these days and tell them a little something about lots of things all in one passel. But when I would try to do this, everything was all jammed together in my brain like a bale of hay down in Joe Nelson's field. (Wasn't that a pretty October looking from the highway down at Joe's with the shining bales in the golden field with Mrs. Nelson's flowers making an every-colored border all along, and the house and horse barn all amongst the autumn turning trees beyond?)

Well, anyhow, like I was saying: Whenever I try to catch up all at once in what I want to tell you, the whole thing swarms on me until where I am half a notion to throw up my hands and holler for help. So I guess I better maybe slow down to a walk and say a few things at a time.

The flowers up and down the way and all about the homes up amongst the timber—they were all so wonderful this year. You hardly realize how much happiness you bring into the lives of so many of us all—you flower growers. Many, many thanks.

I would like to go into the magic of the flowers with you, sometime later on when we have little more time.

I have been sort of trying to make a living doing several things at a time like we have to do up here in the mountains, especially with the way it is getting harder and harder to make ends meet.

My hat is off to fellows like Johnny Anderson and Joe Nelson and Kenneth Neaker and Johnny Thomas—the way they play all the cards in the deck and keep a whole bunch of projects going at the same time.

I am not that good a juggler. I spend lots of my time dropping things and picking them up.

But I am on the right track I figure, because the happiest people are the busiest. If you don't believe this, look at Coke Hedgecoke, Walt Crosby, Claudie Peterson, Bob Hallis, Dutch Collins and all these other hard-working fellows. There it is: that is why folks who live in the high ground are so happy. We have to work so hard.

Speaking of fellows who really work hard and make a hand at their job, I met my old friend Frank Harris the other day, and he told me that he has definitely made up his mind to run for Sheriff of Lincoln County on the Democratic ticket. I am glad to hear this because I know Frank will make us a great Sheriff.

Frank's many friends all over the county will be glad to hear this news. Many of us have been hoping he would take this step.

Stay in there Frank old boy, we are all for you.

Forgive me, will you friend, if I sort of jump from one thing to another, because like I say, I am way behind.

This summer has been the most beautiful I have ever seen, and this fall is going to be the same. It seems the world is putting on a celebration for those of us who have birthdays in October.

Now, I can not remember any year in the past in my long life when all my friends have been so good to me. And on the other hand I can not remember a year when I let so many of my friends down. But don't give up. I have not forgotten, and I will never forget. I am starting right now to be the friend I ought to be to all of you.

Birthdays in October

All folks who have birthdays in October, let us all kind of celebrate together, and make everybody happy.

Speaking of birthdays and of making other folks happy, how would you like to help a friend of yours celebrate his ninetieth birthday?

Did you ever stop to think what it meant to be getting within a few days of that ninety years birthday?

There is no greater thing we can do in this world than to be kind to those who have come a long ways up the trail of years. When we are [illegible] is a way up in the [illegible] honest example [illegible] of these footsteps. We feel there is nothing we wouldn't do to make this person happy. We have a feeling of reverence for those up in years.

Let's see, this is 1959. Back in the year 1881, on a hot July day in Old Lincoln town, a little barefooted boy came running across the street from the direction of the Bonito River. He was carrying something in front of him in both hands. Across in the court house went the boy, shouting at the bottom of his lungs and yelling both ways. Then, up the steps he went two and three at a time, to get in the door without being seen.

Inside, he will find it was that there was just the one around most all there with the young fellow. The youth was slight of build, looking to be hardly more than a boy himself, and seemed even smaller because of the big horse and hand cuffs that weighted him down. Up to this prisoner ran the boy holding forward whatever he was carrying. The young man in irons was to see the double hand-full of wild grapes. His large blue eyes twinkled in a smile.

"Oh, Severo," he said, "This is fine. Thanks, Boy."

The Boy was Severo Gallegos, who will be ninety, as we said, the twenty-eighth. And the youth was Billy the Kid, a great friend to Severo and his family.

Later the same day of the grapes Severo was to help the Kid in his famous escape. But this is something I am going to tell you all about, pretty soon now. Severo and I are going back over the years to piece together a sketch of his life in the early days. It is just about rounded into shape now.

But what I want to tell you right now is that my birthday is the twenty-seventh and Severo's is the 28th and we are sort of celebrating together. Leaving me out of it, though, I want all of you to remember Severo Gallegos on his ninetieth birthday. He says, "God has given me a long life and so many friends because I always took care of my Daddy and my Mother."

Severo has been a devoted son and father. And he has been a true friend to thousands of folks. Let us remember our friend, Severo, and be kind to him, not only on his birthday but always.

I see the blue birds and the snow birds together, making the front gate looking for the [illegible] do the first time I have seen them together in the fall this way. Wonder what that means. I guess it means greater happiness for us all.

Only Two Copies Of Rare Book On Slaying Of Sheriff Pat Garrett Reported In Existence Today

By WM. S. WALLACE
Librarian and Archivist,
New Mexico Highlands University

Shortly after the killing of Pat Garrett in 1908 [illegible] under the name of John Milton Scanland, wrote a short booklet on Garrett that was published in El Paso. This little booklet has become one of the rarest published items concerning New Mexico in existence. Only two copies of the original are known to exist. In 1952, J. J. Lipsey of Colorado Springs had a few facsimile copies made from an original.

Scanland was an admirer of Garrett, one-time Lincoln County Sheriff, and apparently knew him personally. In the first chapter of his booklet he reported Garrett's death in the following words:

"Pat F. Garrett, the slayer of Billy the Kid, was killed by Wayne Brazel, near Las Cruces, New Mexico, on the morning of February 29, 1908. The weapon used was a six-shooter and the first shot entered the back of the head and came out over the left eye; the second ball entered the lower breast and ranged up about nine inches into the shoulder blade. Garrett died instantly, and without [illegible].

"The tragedy occurred five miles east of the village. Garrett was in his buggy with Carl Adamson, and Brazel was on horseback, having [illegible] Garrett, who was on his way to Las Cruces, Brazel rode on to town and surrendered to Sheriff [illegible], stating that he had killed Garrett in self-defense. Brazel was placed in jail, and a coroner's jury was impaneled, and went to the scene of the tragedy. The jury [illegible] a verdict [illegible] the deceased came to his death at the hands of Wayne Brazel. On the following Monday, two days afterward, Dudley Poe Garrett, son of the deceased, officially charged Brazel with the murder.

"Pat Garrett, the famous hunter of desperadoes, was buried in the little graveyard at Las Cruces (The Crosses) on the following Thursday. The cortege was covered with floral offerings and followed to the grave by his many friends. The funeral was delayed at the request of his brothers, John and A. J. Garrett, of Haynesville, Louisiana, who desired to attend. The pall-bearers were: Hon. George Curry, Governor of New Mexico; Harry Lane, Morgan Llewellyn, Numa G. Buchoz and Thomas Powers. Not being a member of any religious denomination, it was understood as Garrett's desire that no minister should officiate at his funeral. Accordingly, he was buried without this ceremony, the only burial rites being the reading of an oration by Thomas Powers of El Paso, which was written by Robert Ingersoll, and read at the grave of his brother."

NEW FOREST RECREATION FOLDER NOW AVAILABLE

Forest Supervisor Fred H. Kennedy announced today that a new [illegible] folder [illegible] the Lincoln National Forest [illegible].

One side of the folder carries a four color map showing the National Forest boundaries and locations of Forest Service camp and picnic grounds, roads, trails, mountain peaks, drainages, lakes, points of interest and nearby cities and towns.

The other side tells about the recreation, wildlife, grass, timber and water resources of the Lincoln National Forest and how this public forest is contributing to the welfare and economy of the folks in New Mexico. The folder was designed by McGinnis Advertising Art of Albuquerque and is illustrated with photographs by Carmon Phillips and Louis Philippe, well-known Ruidoso photographers, the late Harold D. Walter of Santa Fe, New Mexico Tourist Bureau, New Mexico game and fish department and Forest Service photographers.

Copies of the folder can be obtained by contacting the Forest Supervisor, U. S. Forest Service, Post Office Building, Alamogordo.

POPULATION OF STATE INCREASES 2.5 PCT. IN YEAR'S TIME

According to estimates released by the University of New Mexico Bureau of Business Research, New Mexico's population has increased about 2.5 per cent since 1958 to total approximately 963,600. The increase over the 1950 figures of the U. S. Bureau of the Census (681,187) is close to 42 per cent.

Estimates for Lincoln County show 8,300 for 1958, 8,360 for 1959, and an increase since 1950 of 12.0 per cent.

Keep Our River Clean

LET FAMILY KNOW WHERE YOU WILL CAMP

Hunters who plan to camp out and who know the approximate location of their camping area are urged to leave word at home, as to where they may be found in an emergency.

Ladd Gordon of the Department of Game and Fish reminds sportsmen that emergency calls occur every year for hunters afield. Radio stations in the past have been most cooperative in getting emergency information to the field, and Game Department personnel assist where possible in locating the wanted person. Much time can be saved if the hunter's camping area is known.

GUN IS LETHAL WEAPON

As hunting season begins to get into stride, hunters are once again urged to consider human safety above all other considerations.

Rabb't and bird hunters thus far this year have chalked up twelve casualties, two of them fatal, according to records in the Department of Game and Fish.

Gun accidents not directly connected with hunting have reached even higher numbers this year. Seventeen such casualties are known to the Department. Since such information is gathered through unofficial channels, it may very well be incomplete. Of these 17 known gun casualties, four were fatal.

"A loaded firearm is just as dangerous in the home or in a vehicle as it is in the field," warns Director Thompson of the Department of Game and Fish. "Twenty-nine known gun casualties, including six deaths, before big-game season even gets under way, constitute a serious threat to what should be a safe, healthful recreation," Thompson added.

Inspection and field check of the firearm before going afield is one way of avoiding a mishap. Dust gathered since the last hunt, or an oil-soaked rag in the barrel, is an invitation to trouble.

RHS Homecoming Game Next Saturday; To Award QB Lot

An afternoon game tomorrow (Saturday) with the kick-off slated at 1:30 p. m. will see the wind-up for the Ruidoso Warriors' 1959 football schedule. It's the last home game and the final fracas for this year for the Ruidoso high school team.

Their opponent will be the hard-hitting Alamogordo "B" squad and the tussle may be about the hardest test the locals have had this year.

Other teams in Lincoln County have two more games on their slate before the season ends with them, with Corona hosting Hondo at Corona today (Friday) and hosting Capitan at Corona next Friday. Both are conference 2-C battles. No game is listed on the Carrizozo's announced schedule for today, but next week-end the Grizzlies go to Vaughn for a conference tilt. Vaughn plays at Capitan today in a conference go and then the Tigers go to Corona next week. Hondo goes to Corona today, as reported above, then entertains Melrose in a night conference match next Friday, to use their new lighted field, completed this month.

Homecoming Planned; Lot To Be Awarded

The game Saturday this week will be Ruidoso High School's annual Homecoming, with a football queen to be selected by secret vote of the Warrior gridders, and with a dance to follow Saturday night. Graduates of R. H. S. will be welcomed from all parts of the Southwest.

Another highlight for Saturday afternoon will be awarding a lot in Wingfield Estates to someone holding a Quarterback Club ticket. QB Club President Woodrow Howard last week asked all QB members to turn in tickets, stubs and money at this week's regular meeting of the club Thursday night in the Driver Ed building at the high school.

LEAVE WHITE HANDKERCHIEF AT HOME ON HUNTS

Careful hunters know that the flash of a white handkerchief in the field may be mistaken for game.

San Juan Experimental Farm Takes 29 State Fair Ribbons

E-Square Ranch of Farmington lead the New Mexico State Fair agricultural products competition by taking a total of 29 ribbons, 22 of them blue ribbons.

Prizes were awarded crops from the experimental ranch ranging from apples to mixed squash. In addition, the ranch's general garden products display, which contains more than 40 different vegetables, won the blue ribbon.

Tom Bolack, independent oil, gas and uranium operator from Farmington, started the E-Square ranch two years ago in an attempt to ... agriculture in New Mexico.

"The land in New Mexico is ... but at a time ... have ... to ... economically possible," Bolack declared.

The farm has grown practically all of the basic vegetables and many fruits, proving that little would be needed in the San Juan Valley from the outside if the present land is developed and farmed.

"New Mexico is geographically located so that the same thing could apply throughout the state," the ranch owner said.

NEW HIGHWAY MAP FOR NEW MEXICO NOW AVAILABLE

Santa Fe, New Mexico—A new, up-to-date version of the official New Mexico Highway Map is off the press and being distributed by the Tourist Division of the Department of Development.

The full-color folder includes a new "point of interest" map on its opposite side, pointing out 56 places of tourist interest and designating how they can be reached from the principal highways crossing the state.

Fred W. Phelps, director of the Department of Development, said the special map was created as another effort to induce travelers to leave main highways for side trips to parks, monuments and recreational areas which are not obvious on main-traveled roads.

The map also includes the population and elevation of 68 principal cities and towns. Population estimates for the list were furnished by Chambers of Commerce or other local authorities.

In the last glow of the sunset, this sailboat seems to be alone in the vastness of the sea. And yet it isn't. Were this boat suddenly to get into trouble, helping hands would swiftly come to the rescue.

So it is with life. At times you may feel very much alone—yet in reality you are not. For if you didn't have a single friend in the world, you would have the Church.

The Church welcomes everyone—and that's a pretty big thing when you stop to think about it. It means that always there is a door open to you. You have but to turn the knob.

Chart a new course for yourself. Start going to church. When you do, you'll find that your voyage through life has acquired fresh purpose.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

LET FAMILY KNOW WHERE YOU WILL CAMP

Hunters who plan to camp out and who know the approximate location of their camping area are urged to leave word at home, as to where they may be found in an emergency.

Ladd Gordon of the Department of Game and Fish reminds sportsmen that emergency calls occur every year for hunters afield. Radio stations in the past have been most cooperative in getting emergency information to the field, and Game Department personnel assist where possible in locating the wanted person. Much time can be saved if the hunter's camping area is known.

GUN IS LETHAL WEAPON

As hunting season begins to get into stride, hunters are once again urged to consider human safety above all other considerations.

Rabbit and bird hunters thus far this year have chalked up twelve casualties, two of them fatal, according to records in the Department of Game and Fish.

Gun accidents not directly connected with hunting have reached even higher numbers this year. Seventeen such casualties are known to the Department. Since such information is gathered through unofficial channels, it may very well be incomplete. Of these 17 known gun casualties, four were fatal.

"A loaded firearm is just as dangerous in the home or in a vehicle as it is in the field," warns Director Thompson of the Department of Game and Fish. "Twenty-nine known gun casualties, including six deaths, before big-game season even gets under way, constitute a serious threat to what should be a safe, healthful recreation," Thompson added.

Inspection and field check of the firearm before going afield is one way of avoiding a mishap. Dust gathered since the last hunt, or an oil-soaked rag in the barrel, is an invitation to trouble.

An afternoon game tomorrow (Saturday) with the kick-off slated at 1:30 p. m. will see the wind-up for the Ruidoso Warriors' 1959 football schedule. It's the last home game and the final fracas for this year for the Ruidoso high school team.

Their opponent will be the hard-hitting Alamogordo "B" squad and the tussle may be about the hardest tert the locals have had this year.

Other teams in Lincoln County have two more games on their slate before the season ends with them, with Corona hosting Hondo at Corona today (Friday) and hosting Capitan at Corona next Friday. Both are conference 2-C battles. No game is listed on the Carrizozo's announced schedule for today, but next week-end the Grizzlies go to Vaughn for a conference tilt. Vaughn plays at Capitan today in a conference go and then the Tigers go to Corona next week. Hondo goes to Corona today, as reported above, then entertains Melrose in a night conference match next Friday, to use their new lighted field, completed this month.

Homecoming Planned; Lot To Be Awarded

The game Saturday this week will be Ruidoso High School's annual Homecoming, with a football queen to be selected by secret vote of the Warrior gridders, and with a dance to follow Saturday night. Graduates of R. H. S. will be welcomed from all parts of the Southwest.

Another highlight for Saturday afternoon will be awarding a lot in Wingfield Estates to someone holding a Quarterback Club ticket. QB Club President Woodrow Howard last week asked all QB members to turn in tickets, stubs and money at this week's regular meeting of the club Thursday night in the Driver Ed building at the high school.

LEAVE WHITE HANDKERCHIEF AT HOME ON HUNTS

Careful hunters know that the flash of a white handkerchief in the field may be mistaken for game.

The Largest Flash Picture!

LARGEST FLASH PICTURE—Egypt's Sphinx and 5,000-year-old pyramid of Cheops, one of the seven wonders of the world, make for a great photograph any time. In combination with the momentary illumination made by 5,500 flash bulbs and the talents of an internationally famous photographer this new view of the great tourist attractions there provides a unique souvenir.

B-Square Ranch took 29 ribbons for its produce at the New Mexico State Fair. On the left is George McCelm, ranch superintendent. On the right is Tom Bolack, owner.

San Juan Experimental Farm Takes 29 State Fair Ribbons

B-Square Ranch of Farmington had the New Mexico State Fair agricultural products competition by taking a total of 29 ribbons, 22 of them blue ribbons.

Prizes were awarded crops from the experimental ranch ranging from apples to zucchini squash. In addition, the ranch's general garden products display, which contains more than 40 different vegetables, won the blue ribbon.

Tom Bolack, independent oil, gas and uranium operator from Farmington, started the B-Square ranch two years ago in an attempt to resurrect agriculture in New Mexico.

"The land in New Mexico is being taken out of cultivation just at a time when demands have reached a point sufficient to make farming more economically possible," Bolack declared.

He thought his home town would be a good place to start his revive-agriculture crusade because northwestern New Mexico has always had transportation problems which have a high premium on growers.

The farm has grown practically all of the table vegetables and many fruits, proving that little would be needed in the San Juan Valley from the outside if the present land is diversified and farmed.

"New Mexico is geographically located so that the same thing could apply throughout the state," the ranch owner said.

The Indians, too, are profiting from the picturesque 300-acre farm. Mainly Navajos are employed, now learning modern farming methods in preparation for the time when part of the vast Navajo reservation can be put under cultivation as a result of the mammoth Navajo Dam now under construction in the area.

The B-Square ranch is the only private enterprise which has undertaken to show the Navajos the latest methods of agriculture.

Bolack is currently engaged in another crusade which affects farmers and townsfolk alike.

"I'm build our subdivisions and developments on beautiful green and hillsides and save our irrigable lands," he contends.

The B-Square exhibit bears a placard urging "Please don't subdivide land that grows crops like these."

Although the latest methods are being followed, they are also the most economical.

For instance, the greenhouses are covered with plastic—every bit as durable and effective as more expensive glass.

Much of the land under cultivation has been reclaimed from drained swamps. There's lots of backyard property which could be similarly converted.

The ranch also has a botanical department. It's becoming noted for its colorful, unusual varieties, its unusually large blooms and its variety of unusual plants and other flowers, as well as evergreen trees, shrubs and vines.

The public—particularly out-of-towners — is invited to visit the ranch, located on Highway 64 between Farmington and Fort Lewis, at any time.

IS "IRON-HUNGRY BLOOD" MAKING YOU ONLY "HALF" A WOMAN?
Are You So Run-Down You Can't Give Your Husband and Family Real Companionship? Then Discover The Wonderful Blood-Strengthening Action of This Special Iron Tonic for Women!

How tragic when a woman feels so tired, so weak and run-down she can't be a real companion! Luckily, it's often due to "Iron-Hungry Blood" (simple iron deficiency anemia). Then it's needless for these women to suffer such awful weariness.

Now, a wonderful iron tonic can help relieve this condition... then renew your vitality! It's Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets, only iron tonic made especially for women! Rich in iron, Pinkham's Tablets start to strengthen "Iron-Hungry Blood" in one day! Thus quickly help build rich, red blood... to restore strength and energy so you feel fine again fast!

Pinkham's unique formula can also bring blessed relief from functionally-caused monthly cramps and "Hot Flashes" of change-of-life! No wonder so many women use Pinkham's Tablets all through their lives!

If "Iron-Hungry Blood" has left you weak and run-down—only "half" a woman—get Pinkham's Tablets from druggists. Then see if you don't soon feel "all" woman again!

FOR FEMALE AILMENTS! Doctors' tests prove famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (liquid) also brings quick relief from discomforts of monthly pain and change-of-life.

BULLETIN!

Mayor Jack Shriver resigned that position at Ruidoso Downs last week, and in the same trustees meeting of the village board there D. E. Langford also resigns. A. G. Ray was named mayor to succeed Shriver and LeRoy Sumner was named water commissioner to replace Langford.

NEW HIGHWAY MAP FOR NEW MEXICO NOW AVAILABLE

Santa Fe, New Mexico—A new, up-to-date version of the official New Mexico Highway Map is off the press and being distributed by the Tourist Division of the Department of Development.

The full-color folder includes a new "point of interest" map on its opposite side, pointing out 56 places of tourist interest and designating how they can be reached from the principal highways crossing the state.

Fred W. Phelps, director of the Department of Development, said the special map was created as another effort to induce travelers to leave main highways for side trips to parks, monuments and recreational areas which are not obvious on main-traveled roads.

The map also includes the population and elevation of 68 principal cities and towns. Population estimates for the list were furnished by Chambers of Commerce or other local authorities.

In the last glow of the sunset, this sailboat seems to be alone in the vastness of the sea. And yet it isn't. Were this boat suddenly to get into trouble, helping hands would swiftly come to the rescue.

So it is with life. At times you may feel very much alone—yet in reality you are not. For if you didn't have a single friend in the world, you would have the Church.

The Church welcomes everyone—and that's a pretty big thing when you stop to think about it. It means that always there is a door open to you. You have but to turn the knob.

Chart a new course for yourself. Start going to church. When you do, you'll find that your voyage through life has acquired fresh purpose.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

TO OUR VISITORS—
Things to See and Do In the Playground Area Of Ruidoso & Lincoln County

You have probably never visited any place in America with such a wide variety of scenic, historic and entertaining attributes. Make the most of your visit here—explore any and all of the places recommended below to give you your most delightful vacation.

All of these things listed are within 60Miles of Ruidoso—

Lincoln National Forest— With its campgrounds, scenic trails and drives. Three riding stables here provide horses for riding into our forest which surrounds us.

Cedar Creek— Winter sports area and park-like shrubs and evergreens.

Golf Course— One of the most beautiful golf courses in the world is Cree Meadows.

Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation— Can be entered in the recreation area west of here, or you may visit at Mescalero, on U. S. Highway 70.

Lake Bonito, Bear Canyon— Scenic mountain lake offering a wonderful drive through the mountains. Several abandoned gold mines with tumble down buildings and their caves can be explored.

Nogal Lake, Nogal Mesa— The mesa is scene of the annual Summer Cowboy Camp Meetings.

Lava Beds— The Mal Pais is a fascinating and different attraction. Recently designated a State Park.

Fishing— Ruidoso offers three commercial trout lakes, also there is fishing in season in the Rio Ruidoso, in nearby lakes, or fishing year 'round in Hondo river.

Old Lincoln Courthouse— In Old Lincoln town, with three museums and once where bitter Lincoln County War centered, and where Billy the Kid killed two guards in his escape from the jail there.

Big Game— Deer, antelope, bear, wild turkey and bobcat are found on hikes into the mountains here.

The Three Valleys— Scenic farmland and mountains.

Capitan, Capitan Gap And Indian Gap— Beautiful mountain roads along Ruidoso, Hondo and Bonito. Home of internationally famous artist, Peter Hurd; screen star Linda Darnell; author, writer Dan Storm and Louise Massey and Milt Mable, radio and screen entertainers.

Night Clubs— Numerous clubs with entertainment.

Churches— In the immediate area are nine churches of various denominations.

Climate— The most wonderful in the world—you will especially enjoy our autumn season when fall foliage is a riot of color.

Mon Jeau Look-Out— Drive to the top of this forest look-out tower, 10,000 feet high.

Fort Stanton— 90-year-old fort once policing Apache Indians, later used as Merchant Seaman Hospital, now a state TB sanitorium. Where Territorial Gov. Lew Wallace visited and where Gen. "Black Jack" Pershing once stationed learned to play his poker.

Cloudcroft— High mountain resort area.

Artists, Art Schools— Ruidoso is home of several resident artists, including Harris Shelton, Katherine Hall Travis, Reynolds Jones, Martha Graves, and others, and art schools are held each summer.

Smokey The Bear Museum— Capitan has erected log cabin to house mementos of Smokey the Bear, rescued in forest fire near there.

Ruidoso Sky Ride— Unusual cable car lift to top of Wildcat Mountain on U. S. Highway 70.

Dowlin Mill, Blazer Mill— Both in immediate area, pioneer adobe structures once housing flour mills, both over 100 years old. Dowlin Mill in Ruidoso now grinding flour each summer. General Pershing, Lew Wallace, Billy the Kid and Pat Garrett were among early day visitors at Dowlin's Mill in Ruidoso.

Carrizo Lodge— With unique history, museum and scene of square dance schools, bordering on Indian reservation.

Fun In Downtown Ruidoso— With skating, bowling, shooting galleries, bingo, theatres, children's rides, billiards and many curio stores.

Places To Dine— More than 50 restaurants and dining rooms to choose—some of them with specialties.

Green Tree Indian Aqueduct— Stone aqueduct built over 200 years ago to carry water from Palo Verde Springs into Ruidoso Valley.

Indian Ruins— Ruins and petroglyphs of various Mogollon settlements at Glencoe, near Capitan, in Ruidoso area.

Airport— Paved runways long enough to accommodate two-engined planes.

—and at further distances, but still within 4 to 5 hours' drive, are El Paso and Juarez; Holloman Air Force Base (Guided Missiles) and White Sands Proving Ground; Carlsbad Caverns; Original Atomic Bomb site; Bottomless Lakes; Albuquerque and Santa Fe; Elephant Butte Lake; Truth or Consequences.

Shrinks Hemorrhoids Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain
For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. At all drug counters—money back guarantee.

LINCOLN COUNTY—

Later Lowell Green, Supreme Court clerk and court administrator, said the condition had been corrected.

Adams said his audit showed that in some instances, receipts for days of a month were deposited with receipts from several days of the next month, making balancing monthly deposits difficult.

"Cash evidently has not been balanced each time a deposit was made," he said, "inasmuch as cash was over for the period in the amount of $1.25."

He suggested corrections in handling cash balances. Adams said vouchers were in much better condition than in several years.

The court operated on slightly less than its $35,000 annual budget in 1958-1959. The audit covered only Lincoln County. Others in the judicial district are Dona Ana and Otero counties. The district judge is W. T. Scoggin of La Cruces.

CONSTIPATED?
Medical reports show how folks over 35 can establish regularity
After 35, irregularity often becomes a problem. What you need is something that aids nature and helps establish regularity. Such an aid to regularity is the daily use of SERUTAN. Here's medical evidence: A group of men and women took SERUTAN daily under medical supervision. In each case SERUTAN, taken daily helped establish regularity. So, for real relief from constipation after 35, try SERUTAN, powder or granular.
