WHEELER 'TOTALLY INEFFECTIVE' — MANSELL

Downs mayor under fire; trustee asks resignation

Charging that Ruidoso Downs mayor Norman Wheeler is "totally ineffective" as mayor, Downs trustee Harrold Mansell Monday night called for Wheeler's resignation.

"You can ask, but you won't get it," Wheeler said, after Mansell said the mayor had been "possibly harassing" some village employes, causing them to contemplate resigning.

"If there's a problem (with an employe), in most cities it goes to the department head," Mansell said, claiming Wheeler has interfered between employes and department heads. "You can't go around harassing people . . . There's two or three resignations contemplated because of your actions."

Mansell referred to a letter of resignation from patrolman Connie Harper from the police department, in which she said she might not have resigned had she not had to "pacify certain members of the governing body of this village."

Asked by Mansell if he felt he had harassed village employes, Wheeler said, "I probably did."

Wheeler said, "This is a tough job and you can't please everybody. You (Mansell) happen to be in a faction of people who are against me and have been for years."

"I fully intend to run for mayor myself," Mansell said.

"I give you my condolences if you get it," Wheeler said. "You can't do anything for this town — this town doesn't want anything done for it . . . It's a split right down the middle. It always has and it always will be — those that want it and those that don't.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I'm not going to resign. We'll have to work together."

"None of us are going to resign," Mansell said.

Wheeler put a stop to the discussion by adjourning the meeting. Neither trustee Albert Richardson nor trustee "Boots" Nelson was present.

In other business during the meeting the trustees —

— Accepted Harper's resignation.

— Approved appointment of Nettie Bradley, resident of the Downs since 1946, to the Planning and Zoning Committee.

— Approved appointment of Ramon Chaves, formerly of Las Vegas, as sanitation worker. He replaces Sam Brown, who is now working in Capitan. Chaves was present at the meeting.

— Decided to write to Las Cruces realtor Tony Parker as a preliminary step towards obtaining water rights he said he

Samson Miller receives national service awards

Samson Miller, natural resources manager for the Mescalero agency of the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), was presented two national awards Monday, during a regional BIA superintendent's conference at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

From the United States Department of the Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus, Miller received a citation for meritorious service.

In the citation, Andrus said, "Samson Miller has contributed significantly to the growth and development of natural resources programs within the Mescalero Agency and the (BIA), Albuquerque area.

"Since his assignment as natural resource manager, he has been responsible for directing and implementing several complex programs in the fields of range and wildlife management, soil and moisture conservation and engineering, irrigation and drainage, water rights and real property management."

Andrus also said Miller "played key roles in the development of bureau-tribal programs such as the Cattle Growers Corporation, the water resource inventory program, outdoor recreation and tourism, big game management program, homesite development, forest fire rehabilitation, cadastral surveys and fishery management.

"Under his leadership the Branch of Natural Resources is one of the best organized and smoothest operating functions at the Mescalero Agency and within the Albuquerque area."

And from the American Motors Corporation (AMC), Miller received a silver medal and lapel pin, as well as a plaque, "in recognition of exceptional service in the cause of conservation."

He was one of ten persons across the country to earn the recognition, and in a brochure for national distribution, AMC said, "his leadership in charting wise uses of the reservation's natural resources has created a wildlife and recreation management program to which managers of all large tracts of land could look with envy."

Miller was presented with the awards by Lloyd Nickelson, acting area director of the Albuquerque BIA office.

Miller has served as natural resources manager since 1970, and has been with the Mescalero agency of the BIA for 30 years. For 22 years, he served as a member of the Mescalero Tribal Council.

His wife, Ouida, is director of the Native American Program at Mescalero, and is a granddaughter of Geronimo.

Cruz Sedillo, deputy director for New Mexico Civil Preparedness, is in charge of the workshop, which is designed for local directors and coordinators.

Subjects to be discussed include nuclear civil protection, radiological defense, military support to civil authority and civil preparedness training.

ROSA QUESTIONS FERGUSON STATEMENT

'State of' luncheon draws large crowd

Just under 300 county residents attended Wednesday's "State of the Village — State of the County Luncheon Forum" at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Lieutenant Governor Bob Ferguson stressed that New Mexico is "one of the strongest fiscally" states in the union and attributed this to the state's "good constitution."

Ferguson predicted, after noting that New Mexico now ranks forty-fifth in per capita income in the fifty states, "there should be 137,000 new jobs in New Mexico in the 1975-85" decade based on projections by the Employment Security Commission.

He noted that the state's population increased by 100,000 between 1970-76 and predicted growth the "next three years will exceed 100,000 new people."

Ferguson stressed that state planning is being directed toward population growth and planning a new economic base to replace natural resource development when that starts to fade.

"A $120 million budget surplus is contemplated that year," he said, in noting that "priorities for services must be set in New Mexico to aid communities" in development planning.

Regarding the present State Highway Department problems Ferguson said, "If it had to come, this is a good time of the year for it to arise and I'm confident something can be done about it," when the legislature convenes in January.

Lincoln County commission chairman John Sudderth said: "The county is in good fiscal condition, in good shape and we're making good progress in county government."

He noted county support of ambulance services, including five ambulances stationed in the county and two in Ruidoso, with the county providing "$12,000 to Ruidoso for ambulance subsidy per year."

County long range planning, Sudderth said, includes developing tighter subdivision regulations and upgrading sanitary landfill services.

"Though Ruidoso pays 52 percent of the taxes for the county," he said, "we must maintain judgement on what the county needs," when budgeting county funds for improvements.

Ruidoso mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., said, since the opening of the ski area in 1961, "The winter sales tax is about equal to (that received) during the heavy tourist season."

The mayor touched briefly on village

Special laws govern ski area road travel

With last week's snowfall and the approach of ski season, traffic regulations pertaining to the road leading to Sierra Blanca Ski Area were explained by New Mexico State Police officer Kent Waller.

Motorists will be required to obey all state traffic regulations on State Road 532 to the ski area, but Waller emphasized compliance with passing, parking, designated no uphill traffic hours, chains and speed rules.

In a few stretches along the road, "where visibility is 500 feet or more," motorists are allowed to pass, he said.

But, most of the road is marked with double yellow lines meaning no passing.

"When the road is icy, the yellow lines are covered so the State Highway Department is putting up new no passing signs," Waller said.

Another area of regulation which causes problems on road 532 is parking.

"There is no parking on the roadway," Waller said. "But people park all the time.

"They go as far as their car can and then pull off. But usually they don't pull off the road far enough."

Waller said the no parking regulation was enforced because "the highway department can't clean the road if vehicles are parked. All they can do is clear around them.

"Illegally parked vehicles can be towed and the owner has to pay. The minimum charge is $30 to $40," he said.

When a vehicle is towed to a yard in town, the officer issues a citation for improper parking or leaving a motor vehicle parked on a roadway.

Another regulation Waller exphasized was no uphill traffic between 3 and 6 p.m.

"The rule was made because the ski area closes around 4:30 or 5 p.m. (and there's steady downhill traffic)," he said.

"There are no exceptions for uphill traffic between 3 and 6 p.m., except authorized emergency vehicles. People have been and will be issued a citation for going uphill between those hours.

"And at the same time, just because there is no uphill traffic, motorists can't come down both lanes. Motorists are required to obey all traffic laws accordingly coming down."

Posted speed limits of 25 to 35 miles per hour on road 532 also were discussed by Waller.

"Although the speed limit is 35 miles per hour, motorists must drive a safe speed according to the weather conditions," he said. "We can give citations at our discretion (if a motorist is exceeding a safe speed during bad weather)."

Finally, Waller discussed enforcement of the State Highway Department regulated chains sign at the base of the start of the road.

"The New Mexico State Highway Department checks the road every morning, prior to the ski run opening, to determine whether chains are required.

"According to their discretion they will put the signs requiring chains up."

When the chains sign is posted, Waller said motorists will be required to have chains on their vehicle going both up and down the hill regardless of a sudden change in the weather.

"Even if the sign is up and the road is dry vehicles must have chains (installed) or a citation will be issued," he said.

"Also, if the lower road is clear, and the sign is up, (that could indicate) the top is a sheet of ice."

Waller also explained "there's no law that says you have to use chains, but citations will be issued for not obeying official traffic control laws."

Other general warnings concerning the ski area road which Waller mentioned include:

— Always have chains in the car. The road may be clear in the morning and a blizzard hit in the afternoon which would mean chains would be needed to get down the mountain.

— Have a full tank of gas and food in the car in case traffic coming down is held up by blizzard conditions, heavy traffic or an accident which blocks the road for an extended period.

Ferguson 'clarifies' remarks on Fortuna

Lt. Governor Robert Ferguson responding to a question at yesterday's meeting said "Politicians shouldn't always be sticking their noses into someone's business," and "I have no personal feelings on the track operators . . .".

On September 2 in an Associated Press story datelined Santa Fe, in a letter written by the Lt. Governor to the Racing Commissioners, he was quoted as saying, "I have no hesitation in saying that I believe we should act to invite Fortuna Properties to leave New Mexico."

When asked to clarify these apparent contradictions by The Ruidoso News, Ferguson explained: "Today I was just talking about personalities, not management procedures or things of that type. The racing industry is above personalities. I have many friends among the racing commissioners and operators in management positions in New Mexico, but I don't agree with their operation of the business and their way of conducting operations. The thing that brought about my remarks was the markers. I'm not trying to be an authority, but those markers should not have been extended. We are all governed by rules and those rules should not be broken."

Ferguson did not elaborate on what management procedures other than the extension of markers by Fortuna he objected to, nor about what rules were broken.

Parker has 12.86 acre feet of water rights, village clerk Virginia Spall said, and he will trade two pumps and a 20,000 gallon storage tank to have the village lay water lines in his proposed subdivision.

Parker's land is outside village limits, and the subdivision must be approved first by the county, then be reviewed by the village and finally be annexed.

Mansell said, "I think it's a progressive step, as long as he meets all the criteria." When the race track reopens next spring "we're faced with a possible (water) shortage again . . . I would like to see at least a facsimile of a plan" to increase village water rights, he said.

Wheeler said the wells should be checked out before the village commits itself to the agreement.

Parker's proposed subdivision consists of approximately 60 acres, and Spall said no cost estimate on laying the lines will be available until the lots are outlined.

— Trustee Mansell and Rose Bernard questioned fire department secretary Jeanne Walker about inaugurating a program to promote fire extinguishers for homes and businesses. Walker, wife of Fire Chief Ray Walker, said only two businesses have requested inspections of their extinguishers in the past.

"We have a really small department and we run it on a shoestring," Walker said. "None of us are paid."

— Approved Wheeler's suggestion that the Downs mayor be the automatic appointee from the village to the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport Commission.

— Reviewed and approved a letter, to be mailed to all property owners in the village, stating that the ordinance requiring that sanitation bills be paid on a monthly basis will be enforced.

— Approved expenses for Spall and assistant clerk Louise Meyer to attend a Carrizozo meeting, Tuesday, of officials from south central New Mexico with personnel from the state's Department of Finance and Administration.

— Named Spall and the mayor as the village's representatives to the state legislature's upcoming 1978 session, empowered to present and argue for and against various bills.

Wheeler said he will push the House bill which proposes to apportion a share of the $300-per-day fee paid by race tracks during racing season to the nearest municipality.

Wheeler and Spall followed a similar bill through committee during the last legislative session, but it died on the table when the legislature adjourned.

— Approved an occupation license for Overholt Septic Tank Services.

developments, noting that the replacement value of graveled and paved streets, water and sewer mains exceeds $100,630,000 and that "completion of the Alto water treatment plant and transmission lines in June of 1978," will assist the village in planning future developments.

In questions asked those on the podium:

— Davis said the Master Plan adopted by Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs will provide for regulated community planning. He also said that the additional one-quarter cent gross receipts tax approved by the voters will "free more than $100,000 (during the next fiscal year) for street development and repairs." He attributed recent street improvements to the ability of street superintendent Jack LaMay and promised "greater improvements in the years ahead."

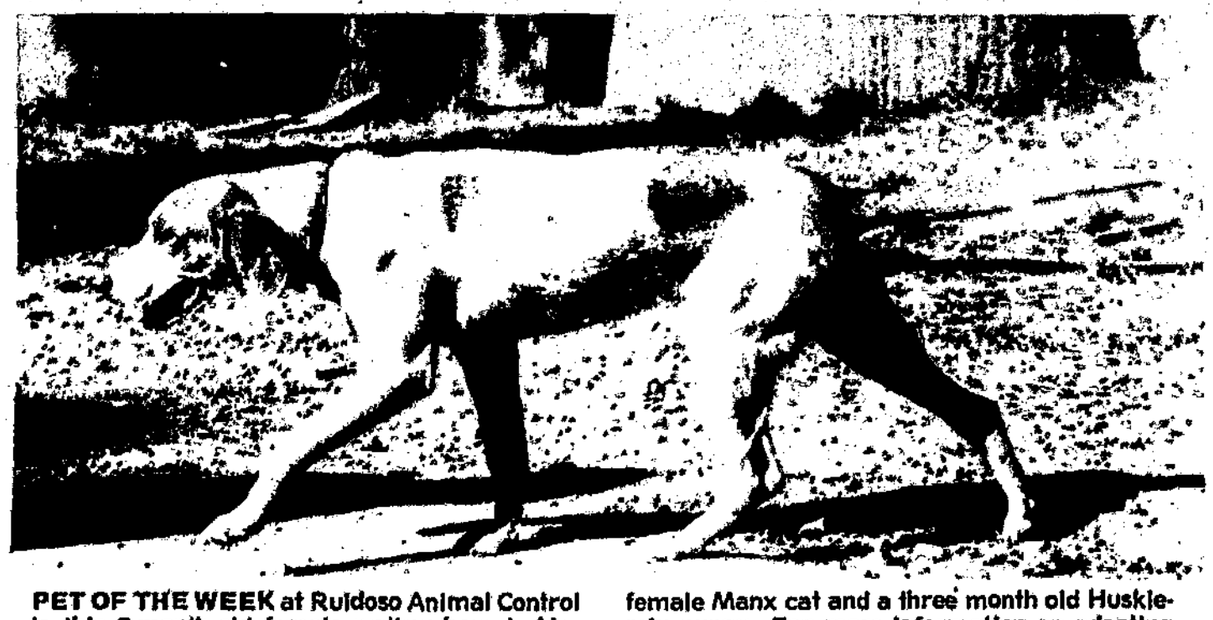
— Sudderth said that though "Ruidoso is growing, it must be compatible with our neighbors," regarding disbursement of county monies for improvements. He also said, regarding the county's financial status, "There has been a two mill levy drop to six mills, or 25 percent, by the present commission," and that the county maintains a "20 percent budget surplus," to guard against emergencies.

— Ferguson, responding to, "Why should Fortuna leave New Mexico?" (as operators of Ruidoso Downs and Sunland Park race tracks), said: "Politicians shouldn't always be sticking their noses into someone's business," and "I have no personal feelings on the track operators (Fortuna) or on members of the Racing Commission."

(Al Rosa, general manager of Ruidoso Downs and Sunland Park, said to The News after the forum, "Bob Ferguson said in Albuquerque that 'Fortuna should be kicked out of New Mexico' and what he just said at the microphone doesn't seem to hold true with statements attributed to him in the Albuquerque Journal.")

— State Senator John Conway and State Representative John Bigbee, also at the head table, fielded a question on liquor licensing reform. "The governor wants a change to instigate that action, presuming the governor knows what he wants to do," Bigbee said, "Reform measures were not introduced last year, because the governor apparently did not want them introduced." Both seemed certain liquor licensing would come before the legislature during the 1978 session.

Emcee John Hobbs, executive director of the Chamber, said, "The turnout today indicates the interest people have in their city, state and county governments and it is the intent of the Chamber to make this forum an annual event."



PET OF THE WEEK at Ruidoso Animal Control is this 7-month-old female walker hound. Also available at the facility, located off Highway 37 at the Gavilan Canyon turnoff, are a year and a half old female Shetland pony, a year old white female Manx cat and a three month old Huskie-mix puppy. Artist Is Quick On The Draw Between running the business his father started in 1930 and demonstrating his painting techniques in front of 40 to 50 civic groups a year, 76-year-old Alex Dery, of suburban Cleveland doesn't have much time for sitting around.

Although his painting is an avocation, it's also an important part of his business, the Cleveland Rubber Stamp Works.

"Many of my customers know what they want to say but leave the designing of the stamp up to me," Dery told a writer from The National Council on the Aging. "I don't know what I'd do if I couldn't draw."

Born in Hungary, Dery came to Cleveland in 1922, working with leaded glass that is used in stained glass windows.

"I liked working with glass but I got tired of cutting my hands all the time," he said. "That's why I decided to join my father in the rubber stamp business."

Making rubber stamps may pay for Dery's material needs but his art provides the food for his soul. He calls his type of painting "Instant Art" because of the speed in which he can do a painting. Audiences are fascinated by how quickly he paints, sometimes working so fast the picture seems to appear by magic.

"Occasionally, I can do a complete painting with just three brush strokes," he said, "but usually it takes about five minutes."

Dery's paintings are not merely swatches of color or squiggly lines. His paintings are of recognizable objects and the speed with which he works is a result of many years of serious study and painting.

"I enjoy teaching groups how to paint as much as I do painting for myself," he said. "In fact, I'm more creative and do some of my best work in front of an audience. Don't ask me why, because I don't have an explanation."

When demonstrating his technique to children, Dery always stresses the connection between his talents and hard work.

"I always tell the kids that I studied hard for many years to learn how to paint the way I do," he said. "I want the children to understand that even if a person has talent, it must be developed. Just like everything else, nothing is for free in painting. It's almost a cliche, but a less-talented, well-disciplined person will achieve more success than the talented, careless person every time."

There is a constant demand for Dery's demonstrations from various groups, many of which would gladly pay for an appearance. But he never takes a fee, asking instead that the group donate the money to a favorite charity instead.

"The enjoyment I get from giving my presentation is more than ample compensation," he said. "I also like to give the paintings I do to the group I'm making an appearance for. Some of them auction my paintings off and raise money that way."

Although he was sidelined briefly last summer with an illness, Dery is now back to work making rubber stamps in between demonstrations of his Instant Art. For anyone living in the Cleveland area, Alex Dery's act should not be missed. He puts all the rest of the quick draw artists—including the Wild West variety—to shame.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Frank A. Clemente, associate professor of sociology at Pennsylvania State University, fear of crime among the elderly may be even more of a problem than the crime itself.

"The elderly are victims of personal attack less often than other age groups over 12," he says, citing statistics from the U.S. Department of Justice. "In spite of that, older persons are more afraid of crime, and that fear sometimes forces them to curtail their outside activities.

Wilderness Wisdom

Dear Wayne — Are you in favor of hunting from tree stands? It seems that this is taking unfair advantage of the hunted animal. This must be true because I believe it is illegal in some states. Billy T., N. J.

Dear Billy — For the most part, I am in favor of allowing hunting from tree stands. Tree stand hunting is most often practiced by deer hunters. A few states do not allow this type of hunting, but most do.

A big plus in favor of tree stands is their increased safety over conventional ground hunting. In congested hunting areas this is a big asset. Due to the hunters increased visibility he is able to see his target more clearly, at greater distances, and is less apt to mistake a hunter for a deer. Equally important, any shot fired from a stand will be angled downward toward the ground, not on the level as is often the case with a shot fired from the ground.

The greatest danger to a tree stand hunter is the risk of injury from a fall. Many hunters are injured, often seriously, each year from falls out of tree stands. An extra amount of caution should be used when entering or leaving a stand.

Dear Wayne — I have tried plug casting for bass several times but have had very little luck with this method. What is the secret of retrieving a plug? There must be one. Jack R in South Carolina

Dear Jack — I'm afraid that the space limits of this column are far short of what is required for a complete course on plug casting. It is important to note, however, that there are several categories of plugs, each intended for a different purpose.

Basically, plugs can be identified as; poppers, surface plugs, wobblers or darters, floating and diving, sinking and deep running.

Learn to identify each type and fish it consistent with its purpose and design.

Trial and error is the name of the game. What will attract fish today may repel them tomorrow.

Dear Wayne — According to printed pieces you occasionally see, the American buffalo was extremely numerous and wide spread in the early days of our country. Do you know what their range was and how many there might have been? Alfred L. in Alabama

Dear Alfred — It is probable that the only areas without buffalo in the early days, were the extreme East and West coasts, and possibly most of New England.

The plains buffalo ranged east of the continental divide, including Canada and Mexico.

The wood buffalo ranged west of the continental divide, into Canada and Alaska.

Historians rarely agree on the number of buffalo thought to occupy this country during their prime. The estimates usually range between 40 and 80 million. True, this variation in numbers is great, but nevertheless, staggering in quantity.

Dear Wayne — In states where both are legal, would you recommend buckshot or pumpkin ball for deer hunting? Levi L. in Tennessee

Dear Levi — This largely depends upon the type of terrain you are hunting and the range at which a shot is likely. Both are effective loads if used within their designed purpose.

Buckshot is used when hunting in thick cover and close quarters where it is likely the shot will be at close range and maybe at a fleeting target.

Pumpkin balls or rifled slugs are used in more open terrain and at ranges beyond the effective limits of buckshot. The factory sights of most shotguns are not sufficient for the accurate placement of a pumpkin ball or slug and should be modified for use of them.

If the hunter uses a double barrel shotgun, he might consider buckshot in one barrel and pumpkin ball or slug in the other.

Dear Wayne — Several weeks ago my son came home with a young raccoon which he had trapped. The raccoon could not have been more than a few weeks old, but he already knew how to bite and scratch effectively. For a few days he refused all food but after a while began to eat. His disposition has improved, but Bobby still wears leather gloves when handling him. At present he is being kept in a wire cage inside the utility shed.

It now appears that it may be possible to tame him. Will he ever get to the point where he can be trusted and will not bite? What do you think of wild animals as pets? Elizabeth R. in Vermont

Dear Elizabeth — Raccoons and many other animals can be effectively trained if they are taken from the wild at a very early age. Whether the raccoon can be domesticated to the point where he will never nip a finger, or display some other form of wild instinct is difficult to say. Many times, during the domesticating process the animal's spirit is broken. When this happens he may lose interest in life and become much less than the animal he was in the wild.

For the most part I am against caging and keeping wild animals. They seldom show their true spirit and vitality in captivity. Unless an animal is injured and needs assistance, I believe it should be allowed to fulfill its life as a wild creature, as nature intended.

Another important point is that in most states it is not within the law to keep a wild animal without a permit from the state game department. It is heartbreaking indeed for a youngster to learn that his pet must be released or placed in a zoo.

Dear Wayne — Do you consider a recoil pad a necessary addition to a shotgun? James M., Iowa

Dear James — Not really. A recoil pad does make shooting more pleasant, but whether it is necessary or not is pretty much an individual matter.

There are those who object to a pad, claiming that is slows the gun down, in that it cannot be shouldered as fast because of the tendency of the rubber to drag on clothing. While this has some merit, the shooter can learn to swing the butt clear when shouldering the gun.

An added asset of the pad is that the butt is much less likely to slip when the gun is leaned in a corner.

If you should decide to install a pad, it is best handled by a gunsmith. The stock must be cut off at the proper angle and length to assure no change in the gun's recoil or fit.

THE BUILDING TRADES CLASS at White Mountain Middle School completed a sidewalk construction project Tuesday with the pouring of eight yards of concrete.

AFTER THE CONCRETE was poured into the forms, which were set out and excavated last week by the building trades class, students redistributed it with shovels and rakes.

UNDER THE DIRECTION of instructor Pat Gaffney, third from right, mid school students leveled the concrete with a long board. After the concrete was poured for the entire 90 by 7 foot sidewalk, students smoothed, troweled and brushed the surface for traction.

WHITE MOUNTAIN MIDDLE SCHOOL students redistribute concrete within one of the forms to complete a session on sidewalk construction. Future plans include building a 16x12 foot bird cage for a science teacher and individual projects.

MR. ADVERTISER

"everybody knows me and where I am and what I sell." If you've ever felt that, read this:

- The U.S. Government reports that after one year, 20% of the population of our country moves on to another location.
- In two years the 20% figure jumps to 30%; in three years it is 38%.
- After 10 years, 66% of the population of the nation WILL HAVE MOVED!

Can any retailer really afford to sit back and feel "they know me, where I am, and just what I sell"?

THINK ABOUT IT!

WE HAVE RECENTLY had a price reduction on a small two bedroom house in Town & Country North. This is a very cute house even though it is small. It has a fireplace and a large deck and the view from the deck is quite good.

IN FLUME CANYON we have listed a good two bedroom house with a very attractive den and fireplace featuring an unfinished wet bar. The lot runs through from one street to another and one of the streets is paved. Convenient to downtown Ruidoso.

BY ROBERT E. HUBER

SANTA FE — Farmers from New Mexico are mad, and they will be in El Paso, Texas, this week to vent their anger at hearings involving administration of a 75-year-old law that imposes acreage limits on irrigation projects in the state.

The trouble came up last year when a California court said the old law still was valid and limited farmers to 160 acres if they irrigated from reclamation projects.

The El Paso hearings were called by the Bureau of Reclamation to foster regulations under the law. In New Mexico the law effects three irrigation districts and seven conservation districts.

Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., has called for a one-year moratorium on the old law until something can be worked out. Farm leader A. W. Langenegger of Hagerman, meanwhile, says the law, if enforced, would create vast hardships on New Mexico farmers.

New Mexico farm projects effected by the law would be the Rio Grande, Elephant Butte and Carlsbad Irrigation Districts, as well as the Middle Rio Grande, Arch-Hurley, Vermejo, Ft. Sumner, Pine River in San Juan County and Hammond Conservation Districts.

The state's 3,670 ranchers operating under federal leases also are miffed, but their gripes are at proposed hikes in lease fees.

The new fees, based on amounts paid by private lessees, are in some cases higher than fees paid on private property, according to a study by economist Jim Gray of New Mexico State University.

The ranchers were upset earlier this year when the Federal Organic Act was explained to them. The act provides for Washington decisions on the disposition of all federal lands in the state.

Former Gov. Bruce King, a Santa Fe County rancher, says he is unhappy with the present system of selecting candidates for state offices. He referred specifically to the convention part of the process and said it has caused candidates to begin their campaigns a full six months ahead of normal.

The convention requires each candidate to rustle up delegates far in advance, King says, and with the primary election, the convention seems superfluous.

King says he hopes to hold onto the delegates he has now by the time the Democratic Convention takes place next year. He claims 93 percent of the various county delegations at this point, but he knows he will lose some.

His opponent, Lt. Gov. Bob Ferguson, has found help from supporters of Gov. Jerry Apodaca, and in spite of a late, indecisive campaign, he has picked off some delegations that once were on King's list.

Shirley Hooper of Santa Fe may be the dark horse who will steal the Democratic race away from forever available Betty Fiorina and lonesome Sam Garcia, both of Santa Fe.

Folks who have been watching Hooper the past three years say she has set up local organizations in each county and is firmly in place on the Eastside.

They also point to her long tenure as a secretary to the legislature and say she knows past and present lawmakers throughout the state on a first name basis.

If her Eastside strength comes through as predicted, that will cut deep into previously listed Fiorina country. Her experience in government work and her statewide organization will outlaw Garcia's chances.

Atty. Gen Toney Anaya won't take on the Highway Commission in impeachment proceedings unless he has a solid case, and that's doubtful.

Anaya was called on by Gov. Jerry Apodaca to impeach three commissioners who refused to submit resignations at the governor's order.

Investigators from the attorney general's office have been probing the three wayward commissioners — James Denison of Hobbs, Paul Rader of Las Cruces and James Chaney of Moriarty — and so far they haven't found anything worse than petty offenses.

OPINION PAGE

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

If by chance this letter is printed in The Ruidoso News the majority of readers will probably be unaware of the circumstances promoting such a publication.

A Little League team was getting underway in Capitan the first week of school. There was practice every day with the help of volunteer coaches. After a couple of weeks of anticipating playing the first game the Capitan coaches were informed that the Ruidoso Little League coaches had decided not to play the Capitan team. This decision was because of a feeling by Ruidoso that the Capitan parents and spectators acted in an unsportsmanlike manner last year. This reflection was made directly toward adults which should have no bearing on sports played between nine, ten, eleven and twelve year old boys.

Needless to say the Capitan supporters rallied, requesting a meeting with the Ruidoso coaches and Little League commissioners. The meeting was held in Capitan with Capitan parents and players present. The representation from Ruidoso was two commissioners. The commissioners said that the rumor of 'poor sportsmanship' was only a rumor. It was also stated that the Ruidoso teams decided not to play Capitan because 1) there were not enough boys participating in Ruidoso so only two teams were being formed; 2) the Capitan coaches were informed of a meeting to discuss scheduling games but no one from Capitan showed up and the opinion that lack of interest was the attitude in Capitan; 3) the Ruidoso teams would play as individual teams and a Little League would not be in effect this year; 4) Ruidoso did not want to play Capitan because it had boys playing in Jr. High who were also playing Little League; and 5) no Super Bowl would be played this year due to the lack of regular Little League scheduling. The general idea of the commissioners was that there was a "lack of communication" between Capitan and Ruidoso. This meeting served as a scapegoat for Ruidoso. The commissioners told Capitan that they would have to schedule their own games with other teams such as Alamogordo and Roswell and possibly Ruidoso. That was the final synopsis as far as the Capitan coaches and players were concerned.

As a result three games were scheduled with the two Ruidoso teams for a future time. It was also discussed that Capitan should play Carrizozo. It was not discussed that Carrizozo had not, and was not planning on forming a team this year. Having played the Colts twice and the Broncos once the boys from Capitan felt their year of Little League participation was very fulfilling. However, during each game tension was high and was felt by all including the boys.

In conclusion, without mentioning the fact that the three games played by Capitan were all won by them, a Super Bowl was held in Ruidoso October 29. The two teams playing were the Broncos and Colts. The Capitan team was neither informed nor invited. Now if there was not a regular Little League formed and if there were not enough teams to comprise regular play, why were Capitan coaches and players told there would not be a Super Bowl and one was held anyway?

The coaches, players and supporters of the Capitan team have had so many excuses and reasons thrown at them this year as to why this game or that game would not be played. All the boys wanted to do was play football as probably did the boys from Ruidoso. But certain fathers took it upon themselves to make a problem of sports between boys. If any unsportsmanlike attitudes were displayed this year it was on the part of the Ruidoso adults.

As far as the Capitan Little League is concerned we are the number one team, Super Bowl or not.

We would like to thank our Little League team for their fair sportmanship by mentioning their names: Gid Allen, Lee Byram, Ricky Byram, Sammy Castillo, Danny Cummins, Eddie Davis, Rodney Dean, Grady Lee Eldridge, Artie Luna, Ron McDaniels, Junior Mancha, Rodney Montoya, Robert Parker, Todd Proctor, Mark Romero, Rudy Salz, Donny Shafer, Glenn Story, Terry Tolbert and Mike Torres.

Competition is good for kids. It only becomes bad for kids when administrators, coaches, parents, and spectators, and the media allow themselves to become so involved in the competition that they see themselves as winning or losing through the success or failure of the youngsters.

We must remind administrators, coaches, parents, spectators, and the media to be wary of involving their own egos in the performances of athletes or in the outcome of games. (From the Federation Grapevine, Sept., 1977)

P.S.

I direct these questions to Dale Wynn, Charlie McClellan and Ron Harris concerning the Little League this year:

1. Why was there a Super Bowl when Capitan was told there would not be?
2. Why was Capitan excluded from the Super Bowl?
3. Why was Capitan never mentioned regarding the losses of the two Ruidoso teams?
4. Why was unsportsmanlike attitudes reflected upon Capitan when actually it should have been directed toward Ruidoso?
5. Why wouldn't the Ruidoso coaches play Capitan any more games when they have only lost three so far to them?
6. Why won't Ruidoso be playing any games next year with any of the other teams in the County?

Please be so kind to answer these questions as we would like just a little more of your bull.

Volunteer response to the Chamber of Commerce plea for additional memberships is slow. Perhaps it's because business is slow. There's a possibility business will get a lot slower if the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce goes out of business.

ANNOYING MINUTIAE

True, I read better than I hear, but it certainly sounds to me as though one radio news commentator keeps referring to someone named "Appledockuh" . . . with it being a certainty that the personage in question isn't bobbing for apples, even though his Adam's apple might be bobbing . . . especially when "Appledockuh" gets his dander up about the highway personages who seem to like to fly.

Six United States Senators spent four days touring the Canal Zone . . . and listening to pledges made by Panamanian head cheese Omar Torrijos . . . and the upshot seems to be a half dozen divergent opinions. Seems Torrijos indicated he'd step down if the Senate doesn't ratify the treaty . . . and he also promised to stop human rights violations . . . which must have been two tremendous concessions . . . let's see . . . wasn't it a presidential candidate name of Romney that got virtually laughed out of politics for claiming he was brainwashed in Viet Nam?

Then there's the comment by Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee: "Democrats are better at getting along with each other than Republicans are. The Republicans are going to have to learn a lesson if they're going to survive." Way I read it in the papers seems there's lots of Democrats as aren't too palsy-walsy . . . and Our Jimmy's doing a great job of winding up in the middle of them . . . for instance, it's reasonably certain it isn't the Republicans in D. C., that're foiling many of the President's attempts to do things his way.

Next comes Billy Carter . . . and to whom does he owe his present status as a national personage . . . and who'd of heard of Billy, the softball pitching, beer drinking, gas station operator of Plains, Georgia, if it hadn't been for you know who? 'Course, Billy's doing OK . . . cashing in on Billy Beer and personal appearances . . . and he just might make it big enough in four years to really be able to invest in Blue Ribbon stocks.

INTERESTING THINGS

Guess I missed the rave reviews of Barbra Streisand's XXX rated film thriller . . . and I'm curious about the titles of her songs and who accompanies her . . . not to mention wondering if the photographers do justice to her famous nose. And I'd like to know something of the suspenseful plot . . . and how it builds to its inevitable climax. Why, I'd wager her film has twice the action and half the suspense of a Sherlock Holmes mystery.

Then there was the announcement Monday in The News that all of the members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce were to hold a big gab fest in the high school gymnasium this evening . . . and me learning late Monday morning that it isn't to happen . . . yet. Seems some of the members figured there'd be more conviviality if'n they broke bread at the Elks first . . . and all sort of got together before getting together . . . which might be an all right idea . . . 'cause it seems as if they need to really get together . . and getting together over victuals is always a good start.

There seems to be no question but the Teen Center . . . brainchild of the Noon Lions Club . . . with money assists from the Service Club Council and individuals . . . is going to get off the ground . . . especially as soon as they get the concrete slab in place . . . 'cause it doesn't make much sense to have the sides restin' on terra firma. But, Noon Lions president Bill Morrison's really enthusiastic . . . says "it's going to be built" . . . and his determination tends to rub off on others . . . to the extent that he's getting plenty of ideas as to what should be built . . . and how it should look . . . and all kinds of advice . . . which shows that the public interest is there . . . and, by jinkies, it's nice to know that whole bunches of folks are getting interested in the Teen Center . . . 'cour$e it wouldn't hurt if lot$ more really got intere$ted . . . much intere$ted . . . and $o on.

BRIEF BIT: The Thanksgiving bird is yet to be consumed and already you have offers for lay-a-way deals on a Christmas ham . . . CD

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Could you have missed some of the more obvious points in your appraisal of Anita Bryant's stand on homosexuality in the November 7, 1977, "Stuph and Junk" column?

Mrs. Bryant's contention is that homosexuals should be denied, by God and country, holding certain positions within the structure of our society; e.g., teachers, because of their influence upon our youth. No number of contradictory statistics will change her opinion. This is to be expected. No one changes a bigot.

Recently, on the "Today" show, Mrs. Bryant was asked by reputable Tom Brokaw, in rebuttal to her stand, if she would also deny work to a person with an affirmative answer to the question, "Are you racially prejudiced?" Mr. Brokaw followed with "Isn't that also a 'moral' issue?" Mrs. Bryant would/could not answer the questions.

Since her successful crusade in Dade County, Florida, the California Legislature has before it a bill prohibiting homosexual teachers within the state educational system. A teacher from the Northwest recently took his dismissal case before the United States Supreme Court. His petition to continue teaching was denied, solely because he was a self-avowed homosexual. He was a tenure teacher and had been respected for years by the community.

How long can it be before a soft-selling, tele-visible personality with persuasive powers comes forward to say, "All right, you good Americans, get those Jews, Blacks, Indians, Mexican-Americans, Italians, Puerto Ricans and Women back to the ghetto!"

Only last week in New York city, did a judge decree that a landlord may refuse to rent to a person who knows the law so well he may bring suit against the landlord.

Come on, Cale! Sure, Anita Bryant's making a buck out of it . . . and we all wish we had it . . . but, isn't there something else in her Scriptures? Something else, like . . . Love Thy Neighbor?

Sunland Park Hoofbeats

By Rick Shapiro
Sunland Park Publicity Department

APPRENTICE JOCKEY KENNY LEWIS won his first race on a recognized track in Saturday's fourth race, the first half of the daily double. Lewis, son of the late Don Lewis, one of the finest riders in Sunland Park history, scored his victory aboard Nu And Crafty, a 61-1 longshot. Nu and Crafty jumped out of the gate and took the immediate lead in the 5½-furlong maiden race and stayed there to finish in front by a length.

Nu And Crafty returned the highest win payoff of the current meeting. The bay gelding returned $124.80 to win, $23.00 to place, and $10.80 to show.

THE HIGHEST DAILY DOUBLE payoff of the season was set in Saturday's Daily Double. With Nu And Crafty (#8) at 6-1 in the fourth race and Clarabins (#7) in the fifth, the return was $3,851.80. Clarabins a near 13-1 outsider, paid $27.40, $12.60, and $5.60.

SATURDAY'S NINTH RACE exacta also set another season record. The 3-2 exacta (Atom Charger — Hobe) paid a handsome $239.80.

APPRENTICE JOCKEY JOHN CUSHING continued his winning ways Friday and Saturday by scoring first in the feature race each night. Friday, he picked off the featured eighth race aboard Fluid Spirit, a near 2-1 shot. Cushing showed his talents by holding the gelding back until the stretch where he let him go to come off the pace and win by a half-length. Saturday, Cushing won the feature aboard Little Foggy, a much overlooked 6-1 possibility. Cushing grabbed the early lead and held on for a four-length margin. It was his fourth win of the weekend.

ATOM CHARGER, a nine-year-old gelding, turned in a classic racing performance in Saturday's ninth race. With Willie Lovell in the saddle, Atom Charger got off to a slow start, but slowly began to whittle at the leaders in the mile route. He was seventh going into the stretch but with a tremendous burst of speed, Atom Charger sailed into the lead to finish in front by ¾ of a length.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS over the weekend included Bernard von Nothaus, director of the Hawaiian Mint. The Hawaiian Mint is the newest privately owned mint in the United States and is currently minting coins and medallions dedicated to the history of Hawaii. It is the first and only mint to have ever issued coins from the Hawaiian Islands.

SUNLAND'S APPRENTICE JOCKEYS have been causing quite a stir in the winner's circle. Friday apprentices accounted for seven victories in the ten-race program. Jaimi Maxwell and John Cushing accounted for two each. Saturday, Cushing scored twice and Maxwell once. For the 12-race program apprentices hit the winner's circle six times. Sunday, the apprentice ranks hit with five winners, scored by Cushing and A. C. Valenzuela, Jr.

THE THOROUGHBRED, She's Always Right, winner of the fifth race October 22, was disqualified from all purse monies due to a positive drug test. As a result, the purse was redistributed as follows: first — Martego; second — O Be Nanito; third — Loving Man.

CRAZY FRILLS, the filly who won the Don Lewis Inaugural Handicap opening weekend, became the second horse to win three races at the meeting. Sunday, she won the fifth race, an 870 allowance spin for quarter horses and thoroughbreds. In winning her third race, Crazy Frills came within 1.03 seconds of the world's record 44 seconds flat for 870 yards which was set at Sunland Park by Rag Time Chick, a quarter horse, in 1970. Crazy Frills, a thoroughbred, ran the distance in 45.03.

JOCKEY MIKE HIDINGER was fined $50 for striking another rider (illegal use of the whip) after the running of the sixth race November 5. Jockey Tony Trujillo had to fork over a $10 fine for parking in an unauthorized area. Apprentice Jockey Maimi Maxwell was hit with a $50 tab for failing to have control of his mount, Kyle's Glory, after leaving the starting gate during the eleventh race November 12. Apprentice A. C. Valenzuela Jr., was fined $100 for careless riding which caused interference to the inside horse during the running of the seventh race November 12. Willie Lovell was fined $25 for misuse of the whip while astride his mount, Master Brian, during the fifth race November 11.

THE NO. ONE POST POSITION scored six wins over the racing weekend to lead in that category. Here's the seasonal breakdown: 1 — 24; 2 — 21; 3 — 23; 4 — 18; 5 — 23; 6 — 23; 7 — 17; 8 — 13; 9 — 11; 10 — 8; 11 — 0; 12 — 0.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — I have a longtime friend and hunting companion who scares me silly. We frequently share dogs on quail hunting outings. Many times while walking along together, I have noticed that his gun will be slung acorss his arm and pointing right down my throat. I take evasive action to get out of his line of fire, but eventually I find it pointed my way again.

I have tried to find a way to tell him, but he is a close friend and I can't find the words. What should I do? Felix K., California

Dear Felix — If you don't find the words soon your friendship may be ended abruptly, and terminally. It sounds as though your careless friend lacks even basic knowledge of gun safety and common sense.

The next time you find his gun pointing your way, ask him politely, but firmly, to point it in another direction. If it continues to happen, inform him that you cannot hunt with him unless he is more careful. If he is truly a friend he will likely take sincere steps to correct his stupidity. Even if your friendship is cooled, your life may be saved.

Maudie Burgess

Our dearly beloved friend and long-time resident of Lincoln County, Maudie Burgess, was called home by Our Lord Sunday, November thirteen.

Maudie is the twin sister of Claudie Peterson, also a dear friend of us all and a long-time citizen of Ruidoso.

Maudie was born in Texas, but came to Lincoln County many years ago. Here she has made her home and raised her family of four boys and seven girls.

One son, Douglass; and her husband, Ernest, were called home by Our Lord a few years ago.

Maudie's children are: Raymond Burgess, Ruidoso Downs; Ernest Edward Burgess, Ruidoso; James Clifford Burgess; Baird, Texas; Rachell J. McMenny, Resada, California; Ruth E. Bretz, Loco Hills, New Mexico; Dixie L. Burgess, Van Nuys, California; Charlotte Craig, Abilene, Texas; Geneva Weygandt, Tulsa, Oklahoma; Mary Ruth Terry, Tulsa, Oklahoma; and Ima Jean Miranda, Ruidoso Downs. Also surviving were forty-four grandchildren and twenty-four greatgrandchildren.

This message is being written on Monday, November 14. Services are planned for Tuesday, November fifteen at Clarke's Chapel of Roses, in Ruidoso.

Cheerful and helpful by nature, Maudie Burgess brought much happiness into the world, and made countless friends.

Our hearts go out to the loved ones and friends of Maudie, and we thank God for this dear friend. We are happy now that Maudie is safe at home with Our Lord in Heaven. She is now re-united with loved ones who have been called Home back through the years. As we remember Maudie, let us thank God for his many blessings to all of us.

Looking A Little Like Snow

As I write this on Monday, November fourteen, most of the snow has faded from the White Mountain. But Jack Frost tells me there is plenty more where that came from.

It is a quiet day with thin clouds all overhead and the sun barely shining through. The snow birds are flying everywhere, feeding at the feeding stations and out on the grass seeds. They are ready for their beloved snow but not impatient.

The Pinon Birds in their blue coats are still gathering in food. Most of the Pinons have been gathered up, but the Pinon Jays are making sure that none go to waste.

The old timers used to say that a heavy crop of pinons and Cedar berries was a sign of a snowy winter. The pinon crop was light. Yet it was better than it has been for many years. The Cedar berries are very heavy, and have a grand flavor.

These berries were the source of medicine to early pioneers; and they are food for birds and small creatures like foxes and squirrels.

Indian Summer Days

Indian Summer keeps on with its warm days and cool nights. And all the world is a picture of Thanksgiving season. Driving up from the Pecos valley, the Indian Summer colors are waiting to greet you at Riverside. All up the way through Picacho, Tinnie and San Patricio, the cottonwoods and willows are still golden along the winding river. It is a peaceful sight with the amber-colored hills in the back ground. Every turn in the valley is a new picture.

The Indian summer colors of Golden trees, dun and amber hills, the blue sky touched with pure white clouds, and the purple mountains on beyond.

It is all a sight to gladden your heart and lift your spirits.

In our mountainous country farther up the way, the oak brush has turned a soft maroon and dark pink, matching the soft green of the pine, pinon and cedar with the purple shadows near and distant giving the peaceful late Autumn touch.

There is gladness and gratefulness in the air everywhere. Let us thank God for the wonderful weather of Indian Summer, and for all His blessings always.

Study explains fluctuation in residential properties

What Makes Residential Property Values Skyrocket?

Why does the value of one house skyrocket, while the value of another goes down?

A researcher at New Mexico State University's' Agricultural Experiment Station studied that question and found that property values are influenced by a home's location and its design.

Dr. Raymond Supalla, former member of NMSU's Department of Agricultural Economics and Agricultural Business, found that the closer a house is to retail, service and apartment properties, the more its property value is reduced. Supalla also found that the property values of larger houses are more affected than the values of smaller houses.

For example, constructing a commercial building within 25 yards of a 1,666 square-foot home reduced the property value an estimated $1,290. The same change reduced the value of a 2,000 square-foot home by $2,213.

Supalla also found that locating both industrial and commercial enterprises within 25 yards of a home reduced the estimated value of the 1,666 square-foot home by $2,408. At the same time, it reduced the value of the 2,000 square-foot home by $2,663.

While the property values of houses located too close to commercial buildings decreases, Supalla found that locating a home up to 1,000 yards from commercial or industrial property can have a positive effect on property values. The researcher felt the increase resulted because the home was conveniently located to shopping and employment centers.

Supalla found there were only two design factors that effect property values — the number of bathrooms per bedroom and the presence or absence of a carport or garage.

For example, the mean difference between a house with three bedrooms and one bathroom and the same house with two bathrooms, was $1,490.

Supalla found that the more bathrooms a house had, the higher its property value. He speculated that this was because houses with several bathrooms were more likely to have other design features, such as large family rooms or attached greenhouses, which raised the property values.

In addition, Supalla said that the addition of a carport added an average of $1,738 to the home's list price, while a double garage usually added $3,574.

The study did reveal a few surprises. It failed to identify any statistically significant relationship between list price and aesthetic characteristics, such as a mountain view, city view or the condition of adjacent property. The study also showed the distance from schools, particularly elementary schools, had little effect on property values.

Supalla conducted his study in Las Cruces because it is characterized by many different kinds of neighborhood conditions. Also, earlier studies of Las Cruces provided an information base.

Although the study was confined to Las Cruces, Supalla felt that land-use planners throughout the state could use the study. The study might also help real estate appraisers estimate property values.

The entire results of Supalla's study are available in Research Report 297. Copies can be obtained from your local county Extension agent or by writing: Bulletin Office, Department of Agricultural Information, NMSU, Drawer 3AI, Las Cruces, NM 88003.

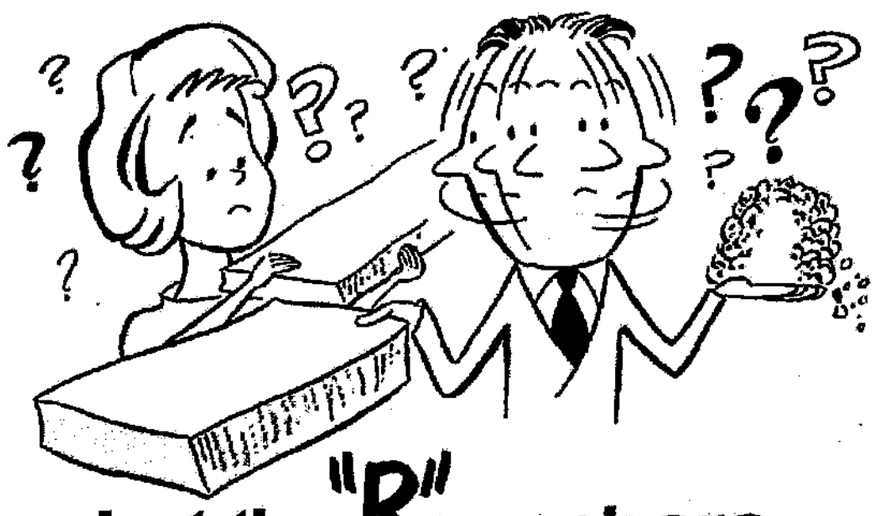
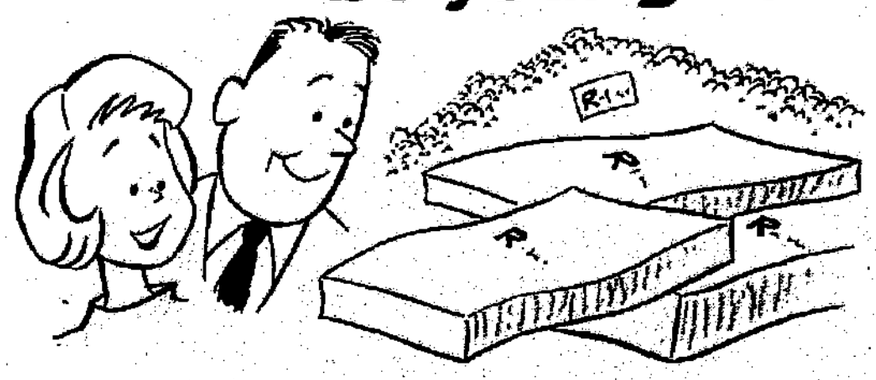
You don't have to be an expert to make the best buy on home insulation...



...Let the "R" numbers be your guide.



The "R" numbers indicated on insulation stand for resistance to winter heat loss and summer heat gain. All you need to remember is what "R" number is recommended for the climate in which you live. For example, in the southwest, recommended attic insulation can vary from R-26 to R-30. Regardless of thickness, if two brands of insulation have the same "R" number, they will both do the job equally well. By letting the "R" numbers be your guide, you can make the most economical buy on home insulation. For more information on the importance of home insulation and the "R" numbers, give us a call.

Operation Game Thief bags more poachers

Keen eyes and quick action on the part of hunters in the field have wrapped up one Operation Game Thief case and started investigations into three others, according to the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish.

Hunting before season opened cost Ross J. Johnson, 27, Las Cruces, $510. Reporting the violation to Operation Game Thief netted a $250 reward for the caller, identified only by code No. 169, the caller observed Johnson with the illegally taken buck on Nov. 1 and phoned Operation Game Thief with a report including Johnson's license plate number, said Dan Pursley, coordinator of the special law enforcement program. The big game season did not open until Nov. 5. Hatch Magistrate Mike Fajardo heard the case this week and fined Johnson $400 and $10 court costs. The department assessed $100 in civil damages. Investigating officers were Gene Bales and Harry Mikel, Las Cruces, and Billy Skaggs, Deming.

An Aztec man is scheduled to appear in court Nov. 30 on charges brought as a result of a call to Aztec Crime Stoppers, which relayed the information to Operation Game Thief. According to investigating officer Mannen Clements, Farmington, charges will probably include illegal possession of two elk and a deer. The caller, coded No. 30 by Aztec Crime Stoppers and No. 170 by Operation Game Thief, is eligible for a $250 reward, said Pursley, if he will contact the department.

A group of deer hunters noted another possible violation — or three — last weekend and passed on information to Operation Game Thief that led officers George Downer, Milan, and Jack Kelly, Albuquerque, to three untagged deer. A court hearing is being scheduled for the three men involved, said Pursley. Caller in that case has Code No. 97-A and has already received a $250 reward from Operation Game Thief.

Operation Game Thief is a new cooperative citizen-departmental law enforcement program designed to reduce poaching, Pursley explained. Callers to the toll-free number (1-800-432-4263) are eligible for a minimum $250 reward in big game cases and $50 in other wildlife cases. Pursley said that the information need not lead to conviction, only arrest or issuance of a citation, for callers to be eligible for the reward.

In cases where violations are observed in the field and a phone is not handy, Pursley said the observer should contact the nearest Game and Fish Department office or officer.

He urged sportsmen to be alert for indications of poaching and to obtain as much information as possible. "A vehicle license number, information on the type of violation and when and where it occurred, descriptions of the participants, and the probable location of illegal wildlife are all good leads," he said. "If you can't get it all, get as much as you can. The vehicle license plate number will usually lead us to the violators."

Pursley added that citizens should not attempt to confront or arrest poachers themselves, but should contact a law enforcement officer.

News from the County Agent

Are you losing the needles from your pine or spruce tree. If so, it could be needle blight or normal needle loss.

Needle blight may only affect or cause the needle tips to lose their color or entire branches may die. In any case usually all the leaves both old and new are affected.

Needle bearing evergreens normally drop some old needles in the fall. The old leaves are on the inside of the tree — the new needles are to the end of the limb or twig. Drought or adverse weather conditions can cause needle loss . . . winds, coupled with low humidity, can cause rapid transpiration. Lack of soil moisture during these periods causes the cells at the needle base to dry. Then the needle either drops or becomes blighted and susceptible to invasion by weak parasitic fungi.

Although many fungi cause needle blight, the most common types in New Mexico are weak parasites or simply saprophytes living on dying tissues. Fungicide sprays and dusts have not been effective in controlling needle blights in this area. Homeowners with valuable trees that have needle blight may wish to try a fungicide as a last ditch effort to prevent additional needle drop. Fungicides recommended in other areas for needle blight control include bordeaux mixture, maneb, thiram, Fore and Phaltan.

The only satisfactory control of needle blight is to provide the best possible growing conditions for trees. Maintain a uniform water supply to the tree throughout the entire year. Irrigate so that water is available to a depth of at least five feet. Fertilize the tree to maintain moderate levels of nutrients throughout the year.

When planting new trees, dig the hole deeper than the caliche layer, if one is present, and three to four feet in diameter.

Safety group advises registration of tires

If a tire dealer asks you to fill out a registration form the next time you buy a tire, complete it for your own benefit, advises the Tire Industry Safety Council.

The dealer may present a form to the purchaser and ask him to fill in the required information before he takes possession of the tire, according to a recent interpretation of regulations by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

"It would behoove consumers to complete the form," said Council Chairman Malcolm R. Lovell Jr. "Then, if a recall occurs, the manufacturer can quickly notify the purchaser."

The required information on the registration form includes the name and address of the purchaser, the identification number of the tire, the name and address of the seller, and the name and address of the manufacturer or his designee for record keeping.

Under the regulations, the tire seller can fill out the form himself or he can ask the buyer to do it.

"If the seller asks you to fill out the registration form, he should supply you with all the information you need in addition to your own name and address," Lovell said. "Be sure to get the tire identification number which is essential to any recall."

After the form is filled out by the purchaser or the dealer, it is the dealer's responsibility under the law to send the completed form back to the tire manufacturer or his designee.

All passenger car tires made after May 22, 1971 are required by federal law to have a special identification number.

A typical number might appear on the sidewall as follows: DOT WZL9 ABC267. "DOT" means the tire meets or exceeds U. S. Department of Transportation safety standards. "WZ" is the code number assigned by DOT to the manufacturing plant. "L9" is the tire size. In this case, L9 is the designation for a G78-14 tire. "ABC" is a group of up to four symbols, optional with the manufacturer, to identify the brand or other significant characteristics of the tire. "267" means the tire was made during the 26th week of 1977.
