Ruidoso councillors certify "the petition"

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Village Council met Monday night and heard village clerk Tammie Maddox certify as valid a petition for a referendum election.

The referendum is over Ordinance 89-2, the action that authorized village attorney John Underwood to negotiate lease agreements with developers for a hotel and golf course on the old airport land.

Maddox, by law, must certify the petition valid or invalid and record it as part of the minutes of the meeting. Once the petition is certified as containing enough signatures to call a referendum election, the council must set an election date within 14 days.

Although no formal action was required Monday, Councillor Al Junge made a motion to set an election at the earliest possible date. The motion died for lack of a second.

Junge said he made the motion because the issues have divided the community and, if additional time goes by, it will end up in court.

In other action, the council approved filing two applications with the State Engineer's office to allow the village to recover prior and future leakage from Grindstone Reservoir.

Village manager Frank Potter told the councillors one application allows the village to recover a quantity of water which leaked from the Grindstone Reservoir between April 1, 1988 through June 8, 1988. He said the other application is for the village to divert up to three cubic feet per second of water, on an instantaneous basis at the existing diversion point on the Rio Ruidoso, a quantity of water equal to the quantity of water contributed to the Rio Ruidoso through leakage from Grindstone Reservoir.

Leakage from Grindstone Reservoir flows down Grindstone Canyon, into Carrizo Creek and then into the Rio Ruidoso.

The council voted five to one to set a public hearing for September 26 over zoning changes on Main Road from the traffic circle to Whispering Pines. Councillor Tom McNeil cast the lone "no" vote.

Planning administrator Cleatus Richards said the Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z), after its public hearing, recommended eight properties be rezoned from R-1 residential to C-1 neighborhood commercial. He said 23 properties along Main Road would be unchanged.

Train hits car near Ancho

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Two Lincoln County residents are in the Lincoln County Medical Center after their vehicle was hit by a train around noon on Tuesday.

Walton Wilson, 68, and his wife Mary Wilson, 60, are listed in stable condition at the Lincoln County Medical Center. They are scheduled to be transferred to Roswell today.

According to a State Police report, the Wilsons were traveling west on a private dirt road in their 1987 Ford pickup and were attempting to cross the railroad track, at a slow speed, at a crossing one-tenth of a mile north of the Ancho community.

State Police say they apparently did not see the Southern Pacific train approaching from the north. The train's engineer stated he blew the horn of the train, but the Wilsons apparently failed to hear it because the windows were rolled up.

The train struck the right middle portion of the vehicle, pushing it off the east side of the tracks. The vehicle rolled over once, ejecting the driver and coming to rest on its wheels again. The train managed to stop six-tenths of a mile from the crossing.

Chino calls on state to expand gambling

RUIDOSO(AP)-More gambling on Indian land would bolster, not only the tribal economy, but also that of neighboring New Mexico communities, Mescalero Apache President Wendell Chino says.

Chino was joined by leaders of Sandia Pueblo near Albuquerque and other tribal representatives testifying Monday at a hearing by the Legislature's Indian Affairs Committee.

They told legislators that several cities and towns already benefit from Indian bingo games.

A new federal law requires Indian tribes and states to negotiate agreements covering virtually all gambling on Indian land except bingo. Indian leaders who unsuccessfully fought the law said New Mexico should allow Indians to regulate their own gambling.

Chino said Indian tribes can police themselves quite well.

Representative Ben Hall, (R-Ruidoso) said the state should perhaps retain the right to supervise some aspects of Indian gambling, such as law enforcement issues.

Correction

Due to a composition error, the On The Record Column by Frankie Jarrell on today's opinion page was placed out of order on page 1B.

For anyone trying to read the opinion piece, the second column of print that ends "An average of 55 to 65 percent ..." is continued in the fourth column on the sixth line ... "may very well be close to the annual average."

That fourth column of print ends with ... "offering the following compromise." and then On The Record continues at the top of the third column with "Forget the proposed $2,000 ..." It continues, with the last paragraph reading: "That sounds like a good compromise to me."

The News regrets the error.

Snow removal equipment will improve winter safety at the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Sierra Blanca Regional Airport will soon be able to purchase some badly needed snow removal equipment with a $140,000 grant from the Department of Transportation.

"I am pleased that the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport has received these needed funds," said Senator Pete Domenici in making the announcement on Friday.

"The new equipment will help make this relatively new airport more attractive in the winter months to the businessmen, tourists and other travelers that want to fly into Lincoln County."

"I was surprised," said Tim Morris, head of the village Transportation and Aviation Division.

Morris said the pre-application for the grant was filed back in 1988 and nothing had happened until he received word recently to file a full application for the grant.

He said now that the airport has been awarded the grant, he must submit a copy of the bid specifications to the Federal Aviation Administration office in Albuquerque. The specifications are then sent to the southwest regional office in Fort Worth, Texas. That office will then issue a tentative allocation of funds, which will allow Morris to go out for bids on equipment.

Morris added he will go back before the Ruidoso Village Council and ask permission to seek bids.

He said the piece of equipment he would like is a snow blower similar to the one the State Highway Department uses on Ski Run Road. He said the two-stage blower costs around $135,000. He added 90 percent of that will be paid for by the FAA through the grant, five percent from the New Mexico Highways and Transportation Aviation Division and five percent from the village.

Morris said the equipment was needed at the airport in order to get it open sooner in the winter months. He said in order to qualify for the grant the airport had to have over 10 inches of snowfall a year. He added this area typically has between 35 to 40 inches annually.

The snow removal equipment which was used at the old airport just can't do the job at the new airport.

"We have too much concrete out here," he said.

Morris said with the big plow the airport has now, it takes between 28 to 30 hours to clear the runway, taxiways and the ramps of all the snow. With the new equipment, he said the job should only take 15 to 18 hours.

The snow removal equipment is not something you buy off the lot. Morris said the equipment will have to be manufactured after the order for it is placed. He said it should take eight to 12 weeks for the equipment to arrive. He expects it around the end of January or the beginning of February, just when the airport needs it the most.

Police search for rape suspect

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Local police are still looking for a 28-year-old man who is accused of a Sunday morning rape.

An arrest warrant has been issued for Elmo Silva, a five foot three inch, male who weighs 145 pounds.

Chief William Newman said police received a complaint from a 25-year-old woman who said she left the Winner's Circle at closing time on Saturday night with the male suspect. The complainant said they drove around Ruidoso Downs and somewhere in the Pineclift area, the suspect forcibly raped her.

Newman said the complainant struggled violently and suffered severe bruises and bite marks. Newman said police believe the suspect was injured in the struggle.

Officers from Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department are searching for Silva and ask anyone who might know the whereabouts of the suspect to call the Ruidoso Police Department or the Ruidoso Downs Police Department.

Ruidoso-Lincoln County Crimestoppers will pay a cash reward for information leading to the arrest of Silva.

Ruidoso Police also conducted their third drug raid in four days when they raided a crystal methamphetamines lab at the A-1 Mini Storage on Carrizo Road Monday.

According to detective Lanny Maddox, Ruidoso Police, along with New Mexico State Police, recovered components used in the manufacture of the methamphetamine, including two large reactor bottles and a large heater used in cooking the drug.

Subsequent to the search warrant, police arrested 34-year-old Gene Homer Viele of Ruidoso and charged him with possession of materials used in the making of crystal methamphetamine.

Maddox said after conferring with the Drug Enforcement Agency, he learned the equipment was capable of cooking up 10 pounds of the drug at a time.

Maddox said the street value of 10 pounds of crystal methamphetamines is $444,800.

Racing for the All American dream...

This is it—the world's richest quarter horse race

The best two-year-old quarter horses in the world are racing toward the American dream in the world's richest quarter horse race this Monday at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

The $2 million All American Futurity, the ticket into the history books for some fast horse and its owners, is set for 4:11 p.m. The winner of the thirty-first All American Futurity will take home a cool million.

Here's a look at the 10 horses, their owners, trainers and jockeys in this year's field:

STREAKIN SHANNON

Qualifying Time: 21.740
Owners: Murriel and Carolyn Gilbreath of Whiteboro, Texas
Trainer: C. Dwayne Gilbreath
Trial Jockey: Luke Myles
Career Statistics: 2 starts, 1 win, 1 second
Career Earnings: $1,394

Streaking Shannon has had only two races in her brief career. The gray filly is trained by C. Dwayne Gilbreath, who won this race in 1983 with On A High. Gilbreath said this filly hardly compares with On A High because On A High earned a berth in the All American Futurity by winning a shake for the final position.

Streakin Shannon was bred in Texas by the late Dr. Jerry Rheudasil, and is by the sire Streakin Six, who won the 1979 Rainbow Futurity and ran second in the '79 All American Futurity.

Streakin Shannon began her career August 9 in the All American Futurity elimination trials where she was second behind Green An Easy. In the time trials, she beat Sun Country Futurity finalist Do No Wrong and Rainbow Futurity Consolation winner Moons High.

"I didn't have her until 75 days ago," Gilbreath said. "I worked her twice out of the gates and she didn't break well either time," he said. "She broke well in the trials,, though."

In the trial, she broke her maiden beating fellow qualifiers Fly Moonlark Jr by a nose, who beat Moons High by three fourths of a length. Gilbreath said jockey Luke Myles is also high on the horse.

Ironically, Gilbreath wasn't aware the filly was the fastest qualifier when her time was announced because he had been traveling from the track to the barn area preparing horses throughout the afternoon. He also said he would not change his training procedures between the trials and the All American.

"I'll just try to make sure something freaky doesn't happen," he said.

STRAWBERRY SILK

Qualifying Time: 21.750
Owners: Jacqueline Spencer of Alto
Trainer: Jack Brooks
Trial Jockey: Jacky Martin
Career Statistics: 10-8-2-0
Career Earnings: $235,166

Strawberry Silk's only two career defeats have been second-place finishes in the Kansas and Rainbow Futurities. She won her first four career starts including the Sun Country Futurity at Sunland Park. Her head victory in that race—over eventual Kansas Futurity winner Power Train—is the only occasion in her career that she has not been the favorite.

On June 4, she was second by a head to Power Train in the Kansas Futurity as top qualifier. She then was second, by one length to Deadly Dart in the July 16 Rainbow.

Trainer Jack Brooks thinks the sloppy track in the Rainbow Futurity may have effected Strawberry Silk's performance.

"It cost her leaving there," he said. "I just got beat that day and I have no big excuse. This is probably one of the better fillies I've had. I've run her hard, but she came out of her trial well and if we can stay sound I think we'll do OK."

The Beduino filly won her August 9 elimination trial by three quarters of a length. In the time trials, she won by a head over Blinkers Comment and Judge Cash, who also qualified for the All American Futurity.

"I think she should be one of the favorites," Brooks said.

BLINKERS COMMENT

Qualifying Time: 21.775
Owner and trainer: M.H. McKenzie of Ennis, Texas
Trial Jockey: James Lackey (elimination trial); Alex Baldillez (time trial)
Career Statistics: 11-6-3-0
Career Earnings: $46,407

Blinkers Comment is the only one of six supplemental entries to advance to the finals of the All American Futurity. Supplements were made at the time of entries for the elimination trials at a cost of $50,000.

Interestingly, after the Rainbow Futurity, McKenzie had the horse on the van and was ready to ship back to Texas.

"We'd cleaned out the barn and were loaded," he said. "I decided we'd go to Goliad, but the more I got to thinking I realized you don't come up with a horse like this all the time, so I went ahead and stayed."

On August 10, he won his elimination trial by a neck, and was second to Strawberry Silk in the time trials by a head. He was bumped severly in the eliminations trials, and gave McKenzie a scare.

"When he was hit, I though it was all over with," he said.

"Strawberry Silk is going to be the pick to win, so we have to beat her," McKenzie said. "The pressure's on them."

In April, Blinkers Comment ran fourth in the Graham Farms Futurity at La Bahia Downs, and was second in a Futurity at Manor Downs in February.

Merganser races into the history books and probably to the bank as the successful quarter horse speeds down the track to win the 1988 All American Futurity. This year's race is set to run at 4:11 p.m. Monday, September 4, at Ruidoso Downs Race Track

"He may not win, but he's consistent," McKenzie said. "I've had more confidence in this horse than anything before. We've had X-rays done after every race. I didn't want anyone to put up the money for a sore horse. Everytime we X-ray him he's just like he was.

FLY MOONLARK JR.

Qualifying Time: 21.775
Owners: Dr. Haroldo Q. Barbosa of Sao Paolo, Brazil
Trainer: Jack W. Brooks
Trial Jockey: Jacky Martin
Career Statistics: 6-2-2-0
Career Earnings: $3,756

Fly Moonlark Jr.'s first career win came June 15 in a division of the Rainbow Futurity Elimination Trials. He followed that with an eighth-place finish as the 4-5 favorite in the Rainbow Futurity Time Trials.

"He reared just enough when they opened the gates that day to make me sick," Brooks said.

On July 13, he won a 400-yard allowance race by a nose and followed that with a second-place finish to Reckless Dash, who also qualified, in the All American Futurity elimination trials. He lost by a nose to Streakin Shannon in the All American time trials.

"He was real impressive and just got beat a whisker," said Brooks about the time trial.

"I'm high on this colt; he's qualified and that's the main thing."

Fly Moonlark Jr. was sired by 1978 All American Futurity winner Moon Lark.

Brooks has won this race on four previous occasions. He is the defending champion on the basis of Merganser's victory last year.

Brooks' first win came in 1978 with Moon Lark. He then won with Mr Master Bug in 1982, and Mr Trucka Jet in 1985.

Brooks compared this field with last year's: "I think last year was a tougher year. You had Super De Kas, Merganser and See Me Do It. This year, Strawberry Silk is the only one who's won a bunch of money, but this year's field is very competitive and very close."

JUDGE CASH

Qualifying Time: 21.820
Owners: Jim Carlson of Lake Quinault, Washington
Trainer: Linden Melton
Trial Jockey: James Lackey
Career Statistics: 9-5-2-1
Career Earnings: $12,983

In his local debut, Judge Cash, a Texas-breed gray colt by Dash For Cash, was an impressive winner of an All American Futurity Elimination Trial by two and a quarter lengths. In his time trial, he was third, beaten a head and a neck by Strawberry Silk, after experiencing trouble at the break.

"He came out of the race real well," said Linden Melton. "That made us feel good to get that close to Strawberry Silk.

"I think he'll run back like he did in the first trial. He got wiped out in the time trial, which wasn't his fault," he said. "He runs as good as he can. We hope that was our bad race."

Melton brought the horse to Ruidoso thinking he would like 440 yards. "I was just hoping like hell we'd get something," he said. "I knew he'd like 440 yards, but I was afraid we'd be in over our heads."

On June 30, he was second in the Boise Open Futurity, after winning a July 19 trial by a head. He also won a consolation of the Pocatello Spring Futurity. His only off the board race in his career was a seventh-place finish March 22 at Portland Meadows in his first start.

Judge Cash is Melton's first All American starter.

"I'm trying to keep as low key as I can," he said. "I haven't quite figured out that I'm in it. It's getting hard not to keep from being nervous."

CONTESSA CASH

Qualifying Time: 21.835
Owners: Mark Wayne Gregory of Arlington, Tennessee
Trainer: Howard "Zip" Peterson
Trial Jockey: Ellen Cockey
Career Statistics: 7-3-1-2
Career Earnings: $5,712

Contessa Cash's only off the board appearance in her seven-race career has been a fourth-place finish in the Rainbow Futurity elimination trials. She came back on July 5 and broke her maiden impressively against colts.

On July 21, she won her second consecutive race in an allowance race for fillies.

"She ran fast in the allowance and we throught we had a nice horse," said Peterson. "We've had offers for this filly, but the owner is new and wants to take a shot."

The Texas-bred filly was sired by Dash For Cash, and was third in the All American Futurity elimination trials behind Special Leader. In the time trials, she fought a stirring battle with Reckless Dash and won by a nose.

"She got away clean and hooked up with Reckless Dash," said Peterson. "I liked her courage and she wouldn't let him get by."

Trial jockey Ellen Cockey has been aboard for all seven starts. Peterson said he and Cockey wouldn't change places with anyone.

"Everybody who's had quarter horses wants to end up where I am," he said. "This has been a dream of Ellen's. She's ridden all my horses since she started riding."

Peterson said the filly is coming into the race well. "Right now, we couldn't be doing better," he said. "I think she's matured a great deal. I hope we all get a clean shot. It'll go the way Strawberry Silk feels. The difference between the first and tenth qualifiers is not that great. It could be anyone's race."

RECKLESS DASH

Qualifying Time: 21.845
Owners: Joe Kirk Fulton of Lubbock, Texas
Trainer: Mike Robbins
Trial Jockey: Kenneth Hart
Career Statistics: 6-2-2-0
Career Earnings: $13,352

Reckless Dash is one of two Fulton-owned horses in this year's all American Futurity. Reckless Dash was second, by a nose, to Contessa Cash in the All American Futurity time trials.

"I thought he'd run a good race," said Robbins. "He tries every time, and gives everything he's got. He's not the fastest, but he'll damn sure try."

Reckless Dash won his elimination trial by a head over Fly Moonlark Jr. in his first local start. He was bred in Texas by his owner, and was sireed by Dash For Cash.

He won his first start at Manor Downs by a length and three quarters, and was fourth in an allowance at Los Alamitos before finishing second in the Kindergarten Futurity trials. After a troubled start, Reckless Dash finished ninth in the Kindergarten Futurity.

"He's always been a good great horse, but we stood so long in the Kindergarten, he lost his concentration," said Robbins.

MOONS HIGH

Qualifying Time: 21.865
Owners: Arnold Simmons Jr. (lessee); William C. Ray (lessor)
Trainer: Arnold Simmons Jr.
Trial Jockey: Jeff Williams
Career Statistics: 7-2-1-2
Career Earnings: $21,239

Rainbow Futurity Consolation winner Moons High had a two-race winning streak broken in the All American time trials. She finished third behind Streakin Shannon and Fly Moonlark Jr. Moons High broke her maiden in the Rainbow Futurity Consolation, her fifth career start.

Jockey Jeff Williams said the filly is still a little immature.

"She perked her ears when she got the lead in the elimination trials, and I had to get her to run again," he said. "They've brought her along slowly and it's paid off. She's got poise and has learned a lot."

The black filly by On A High was bred in Texas, and made her debut at Bandera Downs. She finished sixth in that April 16 race, and was seventh in a division of the Kansas Futurity Trials.

SPECIAL PROJECT

Qualifying Time: 21.900
Owners: Lindsey Burbank and John Douglas of Leesburg, Florida
Trainer: Jack Brooks
Trial Jockey: Jacky Martin
Career Statistics: 5-2-2-0
Career Earnings: $11,407

Special Project, a three quarter length winner in the time trials, was the only horse to advance from that trial. Trainer Jack Brooks acquired the horse a week prior to the race.

The lightly-raced Texas-bred colt was bred by his owners. The time trials heat was only his fifth trip to the post.

"He could be the upset," said Brooks. "He really has been working well, and looks like a runner. If he improves in his next out like he did in the 10 days prior to the time trials, he'll be double tough."

He broke his maiden in his career debut in a division of Sunland Park's Sun Country Futurity trials. He finished sixth, as the 6-5 favorite, to Strawberry Silk in the finals.

In his next outing, he was second to deadly Dart, who went on to win the Rainbow Futurity, in the Kansas Futurity Trials. After three months off, Special Project was second to Moons High in the All American Futurity elimination trials.

Commission considers regional recycling plant

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

With all the negative talk about trash recently, it's hard to imagine garbage could provide a badly needed economic boost in Lincoln county.

But that is exactly what's being considered.

"The recycling of large quantities of waste could be an economical business," said Dr. Darryl Morgan, dean of the Engineering College at New Mexico State University (NMSU) during a regular meeting of the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners (LCBC) Monday.

Noting that nearly 100 percent of household waste has the potential to be recycled, Morgan said markets already exist for recycled material.

"There is big money in waste," he said.

Morgan, and several others from NMSU, were present Monday to answer questions on potential solutions to the solid waste disposal problems faced by the county.

Commissioner Karon Z. Petty named two problems the county faces with solid waste disposal.

One is the county may be out of a site for a landfill in three months with no other alternatives developed.

The other is the question of whether the county should have its own landfill or contract for waste disposal outside of the county.

Currently, the county has taken action to investigate hauling Lincoln County's trash to the Dog Canyon landfill site in Otero County as a temporary measure.

While this happens, the county plans to research the possibility of establishing a landfill in Lincoln County that will meet new regulations imposed by the Environmental Improvement Board (EIB).

Morgan said NMSU can help clarify some questions while the county works on the development of a landfill.

NMSU will not provide services that can be found in the private sector, such as specific engineering work, he said.

Part of Monday's discussion turned to the topic of "futuristic landfills."

Such a site would be one that would recycle virtually everything brought to the site, leaving very little behind to be buried in a landfill.

Also, such an endeavor would be a business which would provide jobs in Lincoln County and an economic shot in the arm.

"I don't think we want the image of accepting the nation's trash in Lincoln County, unless there's an economic payoff," said county manager Nick Pappas.

Pappas explained the idea presented to him and Petty by a representative of NMSU was one of a large-scale recycling business, which would accept solid waste from outside the county, would recycle the material, and process the materials into products for export and sale out of the county.

Pappas also said a site is being located for such a "futuristic landfill" somewhere in New Mexico.

"We would like it in Lincoln County provided the situation is right," he said.

Pappas said later that the intent of such a landfill would be to accept only specified materials in a contract for recycling; for example, glass or plastic only.

Morgan said such an operation can be set up in Lincoln County and operated responsibly with help from NMSU.

"We are not giving people dumping degrees," said Morgan of the programs at NMSU.

He said the state land grant institution trains individuals on the repsonsible management and operations of solid waste disposal.

NMSU is currently negotiating a contract with the Department of Energy (DOE) for a research grant for various types of waste management, said Morgan.

He said the grant will be $5 million per year, and will include landfill waste management.

A member of the audience asked if a futuristic landfill were established in Lincoln county, where would the toxic substances that could not be recycled end up?

Morgan said these wastes would be shipped to Arizona, which has facilities permitted to accept the type of waste referred to, which includes household cleaners, insect sprays, and solvents.

Control of what comes into the site can also be maintained at the gate.

Morgan said the disposal of such items is an important consideration because when large-scale recycling is initiated, the leftover toxins are more concentrated and pose a greater threat to ground water.

He also said a transfer system in which household waste is compacted may not be the best system to use if recycling is being considered.

Research has indicated that only those families with incomes above $35,000 per year will separate recyclable materials at the point of pick-up, said Morgan.

A great deal of site separation will have to be done by personnel at the operation, he said.

Eric C. Lamb, of Energy Land Services, introduced himself to the commission during the meeting, and asked permission to examine garbage to determine what its content was.

Lamb said he came to Lincoln County to start a business in recycling because there are a lot of Texas oil people looking for a new investment.

Gary McCaslin, district IV manager for the Environmental Improvement Division (EID), said he thought the county's approach may not be the best. He said the county previously was worried with what to do with its own trash, and now was considering the importation of garbage from throughout the state.

He said Lincoln County has good quality groundwater and it ought to be protected.

The county took action to extend the contract between it and the village of Ruidoso in the operation of the temporary Fort Stanton landfill site through January 6, 1990, at a cost to the county of $10,000.

It was reported the site is not filling as quickly as was anticipated, and with the decreased amount of solid waste after Labor Day, the site should be able to remain open.

The contract was approved with the amendment that if the site filled up before the contract's end, then the fee paid by the county would be pro-rated based on the actual life of the site.

Final salary negotiations for Ernie Gonzales, the physician's assistant (PA) at the Carrizozo Health Clinic (CHC) were tabled until negotions with Lincoln County Medical Center (LCMC) and Southwest Community Health Services (SCHS) could be completed within a time period not to exceed 90 days.

Steve Keller, LCMC administrator, requested the motion read that the salary finalization was tabled untill all the commissioners could be present.

Commissioner Rick Simpson was absent during Monday's meeting.

"I asked the commission to table that," said Keller.

He also said it was requested the salary negotiations be kept separate from the other negotiations with LCMC and SCHS.

The county is currently negotiating with LCMC and SCHS to transfer the operations and administration of the CHC and the Corona Health Clinic from the county's responsibility to that of LCMC.

"It may become a moot point. They may not be separate," said commission chairman Robert E. Hemphill.

Petty said she saw only one solution to the salary finalization and to the other negotiations.

It was Petty who made the motion after the closed session to table the salary finalization.

"I can table one pending the other," she said.

The county also responded to a request from the LCMC Board of Trustees who asked why interest monies from the hospital mill levy went into the county's general fund, and not back into the hospital fund.

Treasurer Shirley Goodloe said all county monies are co-mingled and interest from investments, therefore, cannot be distinguished from one fund to the other.

She said there was no specific direction given to do this, nor did it happen at a particular time.

Goodloe also said becuase LCMC's budget is under the auspices of the county, the interest monies generated are budgeted within the county budget.

Keller said there was no question on the legality of the situation. He said at one time interest monies were going back into the hospital fund.

Petty moved the policy be reviewed by the board of finance.

In other business, the commission:

—Approved a cash-in-lieu of commodities agreement with the Eastern New Mexico Area Agency on Aging.

—Approved an amendment to the county arterial program, in which an additional $9,441 was made available from the state. It was reported the increase in state monies would not increase the county's obligations.

—Moved to accept the final budget approval by the Department of Finance Administration.

—Moved to change the deadline for receiving requests for proposals for legal services to 5 p.m. December 1, and to award the contract for legal services at the regular meeting December 11.

—Agreed to have county attorney J. Robert Beauvais place emphasis on making payments current in the pending litigation for delinquent taxes in the Alto Paving District, and to request full payment of taxes if a situation goes to judgement.

Ruidoso Downs Mayor Jake Harris (right) presents a five-year award to Downs Police Chief Skip Hazel during Monday's regular meeting.

Sheriff reports on activities

The Lincoln County Sheriff's department reported on activities from January 1 to August 28, 1989.

During that time the main office in Carrizozo received 2,613 walk-in visits and 19,399 phone calls, said Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane.

The sub-office in Ruidoso received 600 walk-in visits and 5,300 phone calls.

There were three sheriff sales conducted, and the department acquired one aircraft that was confiscated during a drug-related incident.

There were 147 summons served, 432 subpoenas, 20 writs of garnishments, 80 writs of execution on private property, 23 target notices handled, and nine court orders issued.

There were 538 different persons incarcerated in the county jail during this period, said the sheriff, though some of the individuals were prisoners from out of county.

There were 305 cases handled by the department which required extensive investigation, and 1,362 reports which required police action without investigation.

Investigations are continuing into the homicides of Cotton McKnight, Pam Nolen, and Katina Chavez, said McSwane.

In sheriff activity for the week, a weapon was reported stolen on Thursday, August 24, in Carrizozo. The incident was turned over to the Carrizozo Police Department for investigation.

A breakin and burglary were reported in Carrizozo on Saturday. It was reported that beer was consumed in the residence, and that a wood stove was taken.

Mike Morris, of Carrizozo, reported at 9 a.m. Sunday an Albuquerque Journal news box was stolen from Sully's Market. The news box was recovered Monday.

An attempted burglary was reported 11:10 a.m. Sunday at the Alto Alps Condominiums. Also on Sunday at 7:14 p.m., Mary Means reported a purse stolen at the Smokey Bear Restaurant in Capitan. The Capitan Police are investigating the stolen purse.

Ron Ash, reported Monday a chain saw was stolen in the Ruidoso Downs area. The chain saw was stolen some time between January 1 and August 28.

The Sheriff's Department cautions motorists to be aware of falling rocks, mud slides and other debris in the roadways because of all the recent rain.

Downs trustees meet Monday

by FRANKIE JARRELL
Ruidoso News Editor

Mayor Jake Harris and members of the Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees spent most of Monday's regular meeting behind closed doors.

Before retiring into an executive session over litigation, Harris asked Trustee Wilma Webb to excuse herself "in view of the subject to be covered."

Webb, a former municipal clerk for the village who was dismissed by Mayor Harris, has a lawsuit pending against the village. It was learned that Webb's case was back in district court on August 18.

Harris and trustees Allice Allison, Tony Parker and LeVerne Cole were joined in the closed meeting by village attorney Richard Hawthorne. When the group reconvened no action was taken.

Also Monday, Harris announced that municipal clerk Janice Polk is recovering from surgery. He said she'll be back on the job in two or three weeks.

The board heard complaints Monday from Sandra Eastep, who reminded them that she asked for help on a drainage problem in November. She said the board agreed the problem was to be fixed.

"I've still got half the water in Ruidoso Downs running down my driveway; it hasn't got fixed yet," said Eastep. "I hope we're not going to wat until my house is down in the middle of the street."

Police Chief Skip Hazel takes a look at the award he received for five years of service to the Village of Ruidoso Downs.

"Private property is private property," said Harris, adding that after the "season," a contractor will be repairing village streets and will attempt to turn the water around.

"I want it fixed," said Eastep.

In other regular business Monday, the board:

—Presented a certificate of appreciation to R.E. Wormley.

—Presented a five-year award to Ruidoso Downs Police Chief Skip Hazel.

"These folks have worked real hard for our community," said Harris.

—Made arrangements for Harris, Webb and Cole to attend the New Mexico Municipal League meeting in Albuquerque this week.

Trustee Joe Smith was absent from Monday's meeting. The board is still two members short since the resignations of Bill Smith and Bones Wright in April.

Classic benefits a local charity

One Lincoln County non-profit charitable organization will share in the proceeds of the 1990 Connoisseur Classic. The event, set for February 23-24, is sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The 1990 format will follow that of the first Connoisseur Classic of February of this year. The two-day event features southwestern cuisine, wine and art.

Half the proceeds will go to the Children's Hospital of New Mexico, according to Tracey Moran of the Convention and Visitors Bureau of the Chamber.

The other half will go to a local charity.

Moran said the non-profit charitable organizations will be screened Friday, September 30.

Representatives of charitable organizations will be interviewed as to need by the Connoisseur Classic committee.

Last year, some $4,000 was distributed to state and local organizations.

Representatives of Lincoln County organizations applying for half of the proceeds are asked to call Moran and Sunny Hirschfeld at the chamber, 257-7395.

Inn presents art exhibit

Three renowned artists will be part of a public show this weekend at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

Pennie Anne Cross, a world-famous Southwestern artist, will have original pastels and prints at the show, White Buffalo of Farmington will be showing silver holloware and flatware and Mescalero native Fred Peso will show his sculptures.

A premiere show, by invitation only, is at 7:30 p.m. Friday, September 1, downstairs at the Inn. The public show will be from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, September 2 and 3 in the main lobby of the hotel.

All items on display at the show can be purchased, and all three artists will be at this weekend's show.

Richard A. Farris, DC takes pleasure in announcing that Donald W. Hoffey, DC will be associated with him in the practice of Chiropractic.

Coach Allen is optimistic about this year's season

The Capitan Lady Tiger volleyball teams are getting ready for their first division competition of the season by hosting Tatum at 4:30 Friday, September 1, in the old gym.

The defending Class A champion varsity Lady Tigers, who were 22-0 last year, will still be fielding a strong team this season, said head coach Pam Allen.

"We can go for state again," she said before a scrimmage on Saturday.

The Lady Tigers did very well during the six-team scrimmage on Saturday, which included Alamogordo, Artesia, Roswell Goddard, Moriarty and Socorro.

Communication among players was good and team spirit was high.

Returning varsity players will be Cindy Castillo, Karie Cox, Lora McKay, Kim Eckland, Lesley LaRue and Vicky Sedillo.

Kim Eckland crouches to the floor and waits for the serve during a scrimmage on Saturday. Six teams, including Capitan, participated in the scrimmage. Each team had the opportunity to play all the others.

Students and teacher attend conferences

Not every student completely ignores school for the summer. Some attend school during the summer and have fun as well.

Five Capitan High School students and one from Ruidoso attended a summer State Student Council Workshop in Albuquerque.

Warren Russell, Lora McKay, Lesley LaRue, Jennifer Eldridge, Kelly Cox of Capitan, and Cary Gumbert of Ruidoso, attended the week-long workshop from July 31 to August 4 at the University of New Mexico.

The workshop exposed students to various methods of improving school organization, dances, student councils and fund raisers.

The students were organized into groups of 45, which elected officers, collected money, and organized for activities that occurred later in the conference.

The Capitan Student Senate Sponsor, Bill MacVeigh, was the faculty sponsor on the trip.

MacVeigh, the government and law teacher at Capitan, also attended a training conference in Washington, D.C. in early July.

He was selected as one of three teachers in New Mexico to attend the Law Related Education Trainers Conference, sponsored by the Constitutional Rights Foundation.

The conference involved instructing teachers from across the country in the use of law related teaching materials. Participants will then help other teachers use the materials in their home states.

MacVeigh's expenses for the trip were paid by the Constitutional Rights Foundation.

The two New Mexico teachers were from Farmington and Rio Grande school in Albuquerque.

Tigers look forward

The Capitan Tiger football team lost its season opener with the Eunice Cardinals 51-0.

"We were snake-bit from the beginning of the game," said head coach Blane Miller in a prepared statement on Tuesday.

The Tigers were held to 71 yards total offense in the non-division game. There were seven turnovers made by the Tigers, all of which the Cardinals converted into touchdowns.

Miller said the Cardinals will make a strong bid for the Class 2A championship.

But don't count the Tigers out.

"The Tigers will persevere and develop into a strong team this year," said Miller.

The Tigers will host the Tatum Coyotes in Capitan's first division game of the season.

Miller said changes will be made offensively for the Tigers in preparation for the game.

Ruidoso Downs Mayor Jake Harris (right) presents a five-year award to Downs Police Chief Skip Hazel during Monday's regular meeting.

Downs trustees meet Monday

by FRANKIE JARRELL
Ruidoso News Editor

Mayor Jake Harris and members of the Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees spent most of Monday's regular meeting behind closed doors.

Before retiring into an executive session over litigation, Harris asked Trustee Wilma Webb to excuse herself "in view of the subject to be covered."

Webb, a former municipal clerk for the village who was dismissed by Mayor Harris, has a lawsuit pending against the village. It was learned that Webb's case was back in district court on August 18.

Harris and trustees Allice Allison, Tony Parker and LeVerne Cole were joined in the closed meeting by village attorney Richard Hawthorne. When the group reconvened no action was taken.

Also Monday, Harris announced that municipal clerk Janice Polk is recovering from surgery. He said she'll be back on the job in two or three weeks.

The board heard complaints Monday from Sandra Eastep, who reminded them that she asked for help on a drainage problem in November. She said the board agreed the problem was to be fixed.

"I've still got half the water in Ruidoso Downs running down my driveway, it hasn't got fixed yet," said Eastep. "I hope we're not going to wat until my house is down in the middle of the street."

"Private property is private property," said Harris, adding that after the "season," a contractor will be repairing village streets and will attempt to turn the water around.

"I want it fixed," said Eastep.

In other regular business Monday, the board:

—Presented a certificate of appreciation to R.E. Wormley.

—Presented a five-year award to Ruidoso Downs Police Chief Skip Hazel.

"These folks have worked real hard for our community," said Harris.

—Made arrangements for Harris, Webb and Cole to attend the New Mexico Municipal League meeting in Albuquerque this week.

Trustee Joe Smith was absent from Monday's meeting. The board is still two members short since the resignations of Bill Smith and Bones Wright in April.

Police Chief Skip Hazel takes a look at the award he received for five years of service to the Village of Ruidoso Downs.

Sheriff reports on activities

The Lincoln County Sheriff's department reported on activities from January 1 to August 28, 1989.

During that time the main office in Carrizozo received 2,613 walk-in visits and 19,399 phone calls, said Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane.

The sub-office in Ruidoso received 600 walk-in visits and 5,300 phone calls.

There were three sheriff sales conducted, and the department acquired one aircraft that was confiscated during a drug-related incident.

There were 147 summons served, 432 subpoenas, 20 writs of garnishments, 80 writs of execution on private property, 23 target notices handled, and nine court orders issued.

There were 538 different persons incarcerated in the county jail during this period, said the sheriff, though some of the individuals were prisoners from out of county.

There were 305 cases handled by the department which required extensive investigation, and 1,362 reports which required police action without investigation.

Investigations are continuing into the homicides of Cotton McKnight, Pam Nolen, and Katina Chavez, said McSwane.

In sheriff activity for the week, a weapon was reported stolen on Thursday, August 24, in Carrizozo. The incident was turned over to the Carrizozo Police Department for investigation.

A breakin and burglary were reported in Carrizozo on Saturday. It was reported that beer was consumed in the residence, and that a wood stove was taken.

Mike Morris, of Carrizozo, reported at 9 a.m. Sunday an Albuquerque Journal news box was stolen from Sully's Market. The news box was recovered Monday.

An attempted burglary was reported 11:10 a.m. Sunday at the Alto Alps Condominiums. Also on Sunday at 7:14 p.m., Mary Means reported a purse stolen at the Smokey Bear Restaurant in Capitan. The Capitan Police are investigating the stolen purse.

Ron Ash, reported Monday a chain saw was stolen in the Ruidoso Downs area. The chain saw was stolen some time between January 1 and August 28.

The Sheriff's Department cautions motorists to be aware of falling rocks, mud slides and other debris in the roadways because of all the recent rain.

Classic benefits a local charity

One Lincoln County non-profit charitable organization will share in the proceeds of the 1990 Connoisseur Classic. The event, set for February 23-24, is sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The 1990 format will follow that of the first Connoisseur Classic of February of this year. The two-day event features southwestern cuisine, wine and art.

Half the proceeds will go to the Children's Hospital of New Mexico, according to Tracey Moran of the Convention and Visitors Bureau of the Chamber.

The other half will go to a local charity.

Moran said the non-profit charitable organizations will be screened Friday, September 30.

Representatives of charitable organizations will be interviewed as to need by the Connoisseur Classic committee.

Last year, some $4,000 was distributed to state and local organizations.

Representatives of Lincoln County organizations applying for half of the proceeds are asked to call Moran and Sunny Hirschfeld at the chamber, 257-7395.

Inn presents art exhibit

Three renowned artists will be part of a public show this weekend at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

Pennie Anne Cross, a world-famous Southwestern artist, will have original pastels and prints at the show. White Buffalo of Farmington will be showing silver holloware and flatware and Mescalero native Fred Peso will show his sculptures.

A premiere show, by invitation only, is at 7:30 p.m. Friday, September 1, downstairs at the Inn. The public show will be from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, September 2 and 3 in the main lobby of the hotel.

All items on display at the show can be purchased, and all three artists will be at this weekend's show.

Richard A. Farris, DC takes pleasure in announcing that Donald W. Hoffey, DC will be associated with him in the practice of Chiropractic.

Coach Allen is optimistic about this year's season

The Capitan Lady Tiger volleyball teams are getting ready for their first division competition of the season by hosting Tatum at 4:30 Friday, September 1, in the old gym.

The defending Class A champion varsity Lady Tigers, who were 22-0 last year, will still be fielding a strong team this season, said head coach Pam Allen.

"We can go for state again," she said before a scrimmage on Saturday.

The Lady Tigers did very well during the six-team scrimmage on Saturday, which included Alamogordo, Artesia, Roswell Goddard, Moriarty and Socorro.

Communication among players was good and team spirit was high.

Returning varsity players will be Cindy Castillo, Karie Cox, Lora McKay, Kim Eckland, Lesley LaRue and Vicky Sedillo.

Kim Eckland crouches to the floor and waits for the serve during a scrimmage on Saturday. Six teams, including Capitan, participated in the scrimmage. Each team had the opportunity to play all the others.

The CAPITAN GIRLS VOLLEYBALL varsity and junior varsity teams host Tatum in the Lady Tigers season opener at 4:30 p.m. in the old gym.

September 2 and 3

The last PIANO RECITALS presented by the Lincoln County Historical Society at the Dr. Wood's House in Lincoln are scheduled from 1-5 p.m. Saturday, September 2, and at 2 and 4 p.m. Sunday, September 3. Sharon Goodwin, of Clint, Texas, will perform informally on Saturday. Phil King, of Artesia, will perform period music on Sunday. The Dr. Wood's House will close for the season on Tuesday, September 5.

Students and teacher attend conferences

Not every student completely ignores school for the summer. Some attend school during the summer and have fun as well.

Five Capitan High School students and one from Ruidoso attended a summer State Student Council Workshop in Albuquerque.

Warren Russell, Lora McKay, Lesley LaRue, Jennifer Eldridge, Kelly Cox of Capitan, and Cary Gumbert of Ruidoso, attended the week-long workshop from July 31 to August 4 at the University of New Mexico.

The workshop exposed students to various methods of improving school organization, dances, student councils and fund raisers.

The students were organized into groups of 45, which elected officers, collected money, and organized for activities that occurred later in the conference.

The Capitan Student Senate Sponsor, Bill MacVeigh, was the faculty sponsor on the trip.

MacVeigh, the government and law teacher at Capitan, also attended a training conference in Washington, D.C. in early July.

He was selected as one of three teachers in New Mexico to attend the Law Related Education Trainers Conference, sponsored by the Constitutional Rights Foundation.

The conference involved instructing teachers from across the country in the use of law related teaching materials. Participants will then help other teachers use the materials in their home states.

MacVeigh's expenses for the trip were paid by the Constitutional Rights Foundation.

The two New Mexico teachers were from Farmington and Rio Grande school in Albuquerque.

Tigers look forward

The Capitan Tiger football team lost its season opener with the Eunice Cardinals 51-0.

"We were snake-bit from the beginning of the game," said head coach Blane Miller in a prepared statement on Tuesday.

The Tigers were held to 71 yards total offense in the non-division game. There were seven turnovers made by the Tigers, all of which the Cardinals converted into touchdowns.

Miller said the Cardinals will make a strong bid for the Class 2A championship.

But don't count the Tigers out.

"The Tigers will persevere and develop into a strong team this year," said Miller.

The Tigers will host the Tatum Coyotes in Capitan's first division game of the season.

Miller said changes will be made offensively for the Tigers in preparation for the game.

JOCK TALK

By Charles Stallings

At the corner of Hull and Paradise a small unobtrusive grove of sunflowers along the river bank brightened my day as I drove to work.

Yesterday, somebody decided to cut weeds along that small strip. The sturdy sunflower stalks lay scattered along the side of the road, cheery yellow petals mashed in the mud, cut in the prime of life.

What the heck, they would have died in a couple of weeks anyway. Probably a pain to allergy sufferers as well. This mountain is loaded with wild flowers, but what can you do?

******

I don't know why they call Bob Smith an offensive coach, he's always been nice to me. He never talks up to me or, more importantly, down to me. In fact, he doesn't say much at all, except out on the field where he directed that long offensive drive that kept the Artesia Bulldogs off the field and the Warriors in the drivers seat.

In Indiana, and maybe elsewhere, they say you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear. Smith is a silk purse, a man with style, and fans are going to really appreciate this new Warrior coach.

******

Let's not forget we have two other sports going this season, besides football.

Warriors cross country and volleyball are led by two of the premier coaches of the state, Ronny Maskew and Jody Hopkins.

Maskew is a demanding coach students respect and other coaches admire. His philosophy uses sports as a means for the student to gain self and team accomplishments beyond sports.

Hopkins, an all-state volleyball player as a freshman in high school, seems to be driven by a hard work ethic, keen sense of organization and the promotion of her team as family.

Both of these coaches have developed and are developing these sports into greater heights for Ruidoso fans. The community can acknowledge this dedicated effort through attendence or participating in cross country and volleyball fund raisers.

The girls volleyball team is sponsoring a spaghetti dinner Friday, September 8, at the mid school before the Warrior-Goddard game.

Tickets can be purchased by calling the school at 258-4910 and either talking to Hopkins or leaving your number so Hopkins can call you back.

Frank Gallegos where are you? Frank won our first football contest picking all but two winners. Frank, if you're out there give me a call. The News wants to give you a bunch of money and take a mug shot for the paper. Call me at 257-4001.

Bowden wins Alto club golf championship

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Joe Bowden birdied the last three holes to nip Dave Krezer in the men's championship flight of the 1989 Club Championship at Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club last Saturday.

Bowden only needed to three putt the final hole to cinch a tie. Instead, he stroked a 25-footer up hill and dead center in the hole for his final bird and the win.

Krezer was philosophical about his loss. The same two knocked heads last year with the same results.

"This year I was closer," Krezer said.

Cindy Carroll emerged as No. 1 in the Ladies Championship Flight, winning the low gross. Joyce Vanlandingham was low net winner.

Dennis Winterrowd captured the Men's Captain's Flight and Calvin Wood bested everyone to win the men's President's Flight.

Wanda Hopkins parlayed a hot putter into a Ladies First Flight gross win. Eve Bayless gained the net victory.

Eloise Cannop grabbed Ladies Second Flight honors with a low gross win. Thelma Marsh won net in a tight match.

Pat Raczynski held tight to win the ladies Nine Hole Flight with a low gross. Lee Monroe rose to the top as net winner.

The golf course at Alto had a busy August according to Chuck Dunn, club professional.

The 1989 Member-Member winners in a field of 75 teams were: Men's Championship Flight, Kent Beatty and Dan Wimberly; Men's First Flight, Lee Griffin and David King; Men's Second Flight, Jerry Green and Don Dutton; Men's Third Flight, Dave West and Doug West; Ladies Championship Flight, Cindy Carroll and Kaki Schwettmann gross; Wanda Hopkins and Nancy Soule net; Ladies First Flight; Eve Bayless and Kathy Crane gross; Phyllis Bates and Marilyn Branscum net.

The Pro-Member 1989 tournament fielded 95 golfers with 19 professionals.

Team results were: Leon Van Resnburg, John Hoestenbach, Darrell Hopper, Pappy Collier and Delmer Berry, first; Chuck Dunn, Buck Buchanan, Joe Bowden, Lee Griffin and George Dunn, second; Terry Jenning, Sunny Taylor, Dean McKinley, Pat Miller and Gene Crutcher, third; Daniel Nunez, Steve Brown, Charlie Wallace, Howard Hassell and Joe Farr, fourth; Tod Perteet, Tom Garber, Marvin Cash, Roy Black and Dan Wimberly, fifth; Joe McDermott, Dick Chess, Fred Hansen, Mack Hunter and Leland Woodward, tie-sixth; Fred Bond Allen Barnard, John Papen, Jerry Hinson and Bill Yeager, tie-sixth; Steve Cranford, Lee Goddard, Ralph Hunt, Jerry Green and Windsor Lacewell, tie-eighth; Dave Halleman, Bob Berry Arnold Cantu, Joyce McBride and Vernon Seiler, tie-eighth.

Big smile

Freshman Valerie Rue is all smiles to be on the Ruidoso Volleyball squad this year. Coach Jody Hopkin's team warmed up last week in Portales and will travel to Artesia to meet the Bulldogs this Saturday in the season's opener. The Warriors first home game is not until September 22 against Portales.

Warriors face tough Lovington defense Friday

by CHARLES STALLINGS
Ruidoso News Sports Writer

Friday's football contest against the Lovington Wildcats is another big game for the Warriors. There are no breathers for the next two weeks.

Wildcat coach Jerry Brown (9th year, 55-30-1) led Lovington to an 8-2 season last year with 2-2 in district 4AAA.

The Wildcats started this season with an impressive 38-0 win over tenth-ranked Las Vegas Robertson. While the Wildcats remain No. 2 in this week's AP state class 3A polls, Ruidoso has climbed to the top spot after their win last week over top-ranked Artesia.

The Goddard Rockets, next week's Warrior opponent, is ranked No. 3 in the state and has undoubtedly made Ruidoso No. 1 on their "hit" parade after last year's blow in the snow.

The Wildcat's basic offense-defense: I pro, split 6 and 59.

Lovington's biggest losses through graduation were at the skill positions.

"Losing several skill people may or may not hurt us," Brown said. "It just depends on how fast our young people come along."

Brown's biggest concern was replacing his son, David Brown at quarterback. Brown threw for nearly 2,000 yards in leading the Wildcats to an 8-2 record. He also established five school records.

"Our defense is a little ahead of our offense right now," Brown said.

That defense will be tested to the max by the best group of 3-A backs in the state, Kenny Trapp, Jose Marquez, Alfred Rue and Kief Johnson.

No team stopped Kenny Trapp last year and Artesia's double and triple teaming only opened the gaps for other Warrior runners.

If Lovington is able to contain the running game, Warrior head football coach Doug Ragsdale may have to open up his hidden passing game. The Warriors only threw the ball four times against Artesia.

Artesia had some measure of success against the Warriors in the passing department, hitting 7-9-1. The Wildcats passed the pants off of Robertson in their lopsided victory. Quarterback Abran Barela threw eight passes out of 15 plays in the second quarter. Barela also scored two touchdowns. The Wildcats also are in favor of running wide sweeps with options.

In the backfield with Barela is returning starter Alan Dominguez, a 6-2, 157-pound senior, Eric Clayton and Joe Galindo.

The offensive line only averages 180 pounds. The big man on the line is left tackle Joe Garcia at 210-pounds. The center, Brian Cunninham, is 6-2, 185 pounds.

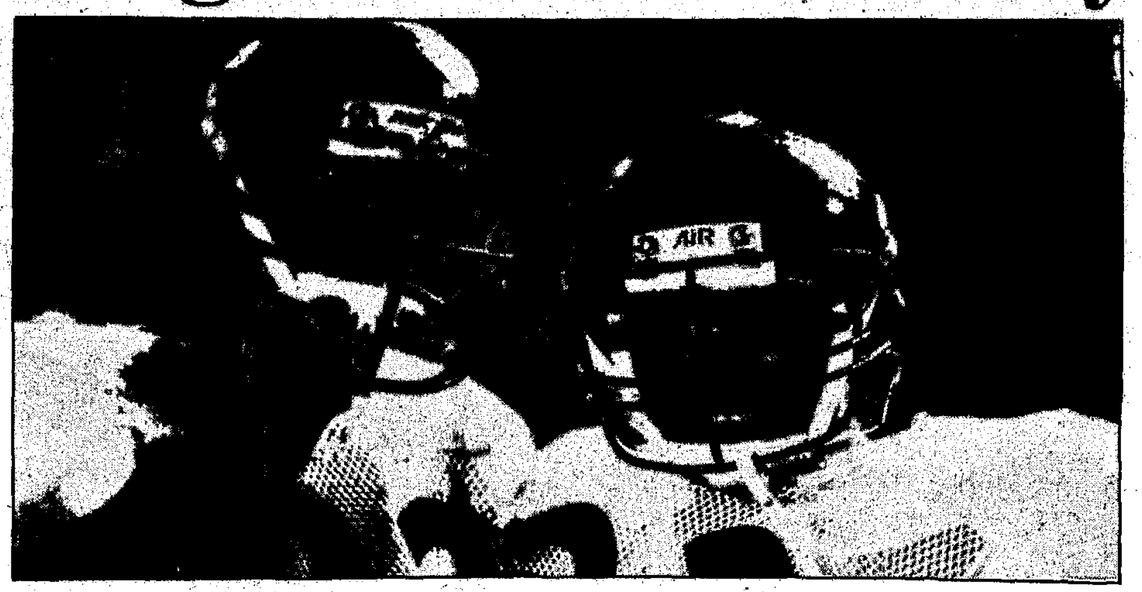
Brown says defense is his strong suit. Five players return from last year: Michael Allen, Matt Hobbs, Alan Dominiquez, Paul Brown and James Dodd.

Brown has some newcomers that look good. Tackle Homer Ochoa is a 5-10, 205-pound sophomore with a lot of promise. Other Wildcats to watch on defense are Rodney Atkins, Alan Dominquez and Carlos Guzman and Octavio Aranda.

The Wildcat defense held Robertson to minus 29 yards total offense. The Wildcat defense gave up just one first down as the Cardinals had minus 16 yards passing and minus 13 yards rushing. The Wildcats registered four sacks.

Game time for Friday night's Warrior-Wildcat contest is 7:30 p.m. at W.D. Horton Stadium.

Season tickets are still available and can be purchased at the high school. Call 258-4910 for information.



Hard running fullback Kenny Trapp (6-2, 215), left, and sophomore running back Jose Marquez (6-0, 175) form a one, two Warrior punch that Lovington will try to stop this Friday night when the two top teams in the state meet in Horton Stadium.

Marr is national cycling champ

Ruidoso's racing Roger Marr outdueled the best cycling teams in the nation to emerge the new Junior National Tour Champion at the tour finals that began Sunday, August 20, in Bisbee, Arizona.

Galen Farrington, Ruidoso High School cycling trainer, said Marr established himself early in the stage racing event by capturing the race leader's jersey after the Prolog hill climb of 3.7 kilometers. He bested power house Team USA's leading cyclist, Bret Reagan, by three seconds.

Farrington said Marr also led in general classification after Monday's flat 100 kilometer course and the Stage Two 40 kilometer team time trial.

Farrington said Marr missed a break less than ten kilometers from the finish of Tuesday's 105 kilometer road race and dropped to second place, losing the race leader's jersey for the first time in the week long event.

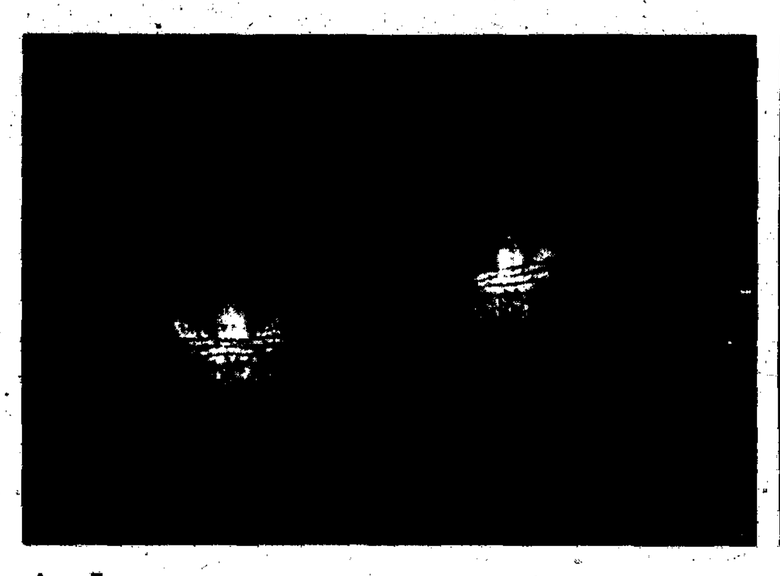
On Thursday, Marr's team weakened during the 113 kilometer road stage leaving him to work the field alone.

Friday's race was on Marr's turf, an 18 kilometer hill climb that must have been a piece of cake for a Ruidoso cyclist. He regained the leader's jersey by 23 seconds over Greg Strock of Team USA.

Farrington said Saturday's final 90 kilometer road race featured the four best teams in the country. He said for the first 60 kilometers Marr was blocked and slowed continually by the teams as the break away group cycled out of sight.

The final 10 kilometers was a six percent grade. It allowed Marr to move away from the blockers and approach the breakaway group.

Farrington said cyclist Kevin Mongrief was so sure he had won the race he threw up his hands in victory not knowing Marr was closing the gap. Seventeen seconds later Marr crossed the finish line, 14 seconds better than anyone.



A dry run

Streakin Pass, pictured with Anthony Champion at the Ruidoso Super Select Sale last Saturday, is all set to enter the auction ring. Horses drew prices up to $75,000 during the three-day sale that drew big crowds for all the sessions.

What am I bid?

Bidding is intense in the Saturday session of the Ruidoso Horse Sales Company's sale this past weekend at the Super Select Sale Barn in Glencoe. The annual sale included 300 horses over the three days.

Four stakes races run Friday at the Downs

Four stakes races, led by the 22nd running of the Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity, run Saturday as the last weekend of Ruidoso Downs' 1989 season hits full steam.

The $65,000 Third Consolation of the All American Futurity, the $10,000-added Ruidoso Paint Handicap, and the $10,000-added Brigand Handicap are also features on Saturday's card.

The Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity has attracted several good horses including trial winners Brooks Roan, Adios Mundo, Armed Response and Chokahlua.

Aces And Faces, who won the Rio Grande Futurity earlier this month, is another legitimate contender.

The third consolation of the All American Futurity is for two year olds that ran the 31st through 40th best times in the All American Futurity Time Trials. Let The Big Dog Eat, Strawfly Special and Wicked Willa are some top contenders.

Wicked Willa is trained by C. Dwayne Gilbreath, who also trains Streakin Shannon, the top qualifier to the 1989 All American Futurity on Labor Day. Wicked Willa broke her maiden in a division of the All American Futurity Time Trials August 23 after finishing second in three consecutive starts.

Let The Big Dog Eat is a cleverly-named colt trained by Larry Keiter. He is winless in five career starts, but has run well this month. Strawfly Special is one of the most accomplished members of this field. He was second in the Grade I Bay Meadows Futurity and seventh in the Grade I Kindergarten Futurity, both at Los Alamitos.

The Brigand Handicap is led by the king of this summer's 870 yard races-Make An Effort. Trained by Fred Danley, Make An Effort has won the Master Salls Handicap, an Invitational Handicap, and the Jeep Challenge at 1,000 yards this summer. Challenging Make An Effort are the top four finishers in the August 13 Gene Hensley Stakes: Six Shooter Tex, Pulladash, Glittering Coin, and Natives Pursuit.

The Silver Lining

by Daniel Agnew Storm

Happy Birthday
To Brother Mark

This is being sent to you in mid-afternoon of August twenty-eight and will reach you on the last day of August that began as one of the driest and is coming to a close as one of the rainiest and greenest.

Two days of continuous rain on top of other good rains has turned the Vale into a wonderland like something in a dream of Paradise.

The rain, which fell lightly all day, has now paused to get its breath, and all the mountain world is in a peaceful lull, with the first little patches of blue in two days appearing over the green mountain horizon to the south. Now up the valley to the west, the gray sky is all bright with silver linings as the sun beams its half light through the clouds, sending a mellow magic glow all throughout the emerald hills and vales.

Surely Mother Earth is dressing in her finest in honor of the fine rains and to celebrate the turning of the droughth into a green Heaven on Earth. The summer has traveled swiftly, and Labor Day is just around the corner. Here is a typical American Day that we all celebrate with great joy.

And this year it happens that the birthday of our brother, Mark, falls on Labor Day.

Marcus Kennedy Storm was born in Valdez, Alaska, September four, 1911, to Lynn Whippo Storm and the former Bertha Catherine Kennedy.

Before he could talk, Mark began drawing with pencil and crayon. You could recognize seagulls, snowbirds, and wagon wheels in his sketches. Mr. Perkins used to bring groceries to our house in a wagon drawn by a bay horse. Mark took a great liking to this horse and would laugh with delight when he was carried out to the wagon where he would pet the horse with delight. Here came to light something that has always remained central to Mark's life, his natural fondness for horses.

After we moved from Alaska to Oregon we had a Shetland pony, Prince; and Mark drew several pictures of this brown and white pinto with blue eyes.

Then, Mexico was a land of horses and mules, and we rode the burros that wandered loose through the village of Copala. Mark learned to rope, catching these burros.

It was our happy destiny to arrive in 1925 to this beloved valley. Here Mark spent some of the happiest days of his life—days that were to make their mark on him forever, and that were the inspiration for his career as a western painter.

He rode the hills with his friends, Porfirio and Prosperito Gonzales and Roy Coe; and entered the Fort Stanton Rodeo and other rodeos with his friends Gerald Tully, Cecil Massey, Johnny Thomas, Joe Herrera, Jack Forester, R. C. Lott and others.

At the University of Texas, Mark studied architecture; and here his star of good fortune shone brightly when he met his wife to be, the former Ferne Sweeny of Houston. They were married in 1936. They raised two fine daughters, Tommie Lou and Carrol Jane; and six fine grandchildren: Kent, Eve and Jay Maulsby; and Kathleen, Mark and Karen Elliot.

Mark has lived in Houston since his marriage, yet returns often to his mountain home here in The Vale—the scene of the happy and memorable days of his youth. All these years he has followed the work to which he was born—western painting. His paintings have traveled world-wide; he has murals in the Houston Astrodome, and in many other places. He is a familiar figure in the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, the largest in the world, often leading the parade, and painting pictures of world famous rodeo performers. A few years ago he painted a picture of Gerald and son Gerry in a roping scene.

Mark recently returned from a trip through Mexico, visiting the places where we lived sixty-seven years ago.

Mark's fondness for the Land of the Piñon and Pine grows deeper with the years, and the call to be returning echoes ever more clearly in his heart. And so on the approach of his birthday I am thinking how his heart would rejoice at the sight of all the White Mountain country in all its late summer glory.

We wish brother Mark many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

The Plant Corner

by Sally Black

DEAR SALLY:

My Piggyback plant seems to be dying right before my eyes. The more I do for it the worse it looks. There are many dead leaves. Only the last few leaves on each stem are green and they are small and don't look at all healthy. Where did I go wrong? It used to be a lovely, full, dark green plant.

Thanks,
Wilma S.

DEAR WILMA:

Normally you can expect few problems with the care of the Piggyback, aka pick-a-back and Tolmiea menziesii. The first thing to come to mind from your complaint is over-watering. This plant cannot tolerate standing in a tray of water even for a short time. It will suffocate and drown causing the leaves to turn brown and drop.

The piggyback plant is a curiosity plant with hairy or downy or fuzzy leaves that produce perfectly-shaped young plants at the base of older plant leaves. Young plants can be removed when large enough and propagated with little difficulty, either by taking a leaf with a plantlet and inserting it in most potting mix so the base of the plantlet contacts soil, or you can float the leaf with the plantlet attached in a bowl of water and roots will form.

Soil-It is absolutely essential to have a fast draining mixture. To one part potting soil, one part peat moss or finely ground bark, and one part sharp sand, add some vermiculite to hold in the moisture, yet allow oxygen to reach the roots. This plant likes cool, moist soil, but never soggy.

Water-Small, frequent waterings are best for the piggyback. I would keep pebbles in the bottom of the tray to prevent it from the slightest risk of standing in water. Do not allow the plant to completely dry out. It will wilt when it needs water and often will not recover from severe drying out.

Because of the fuzzy leaves where dust can collect quickly, it is best not to spray the plant to clean. To clean the plant, fill a pan or sink with barely-warm water with just a tad of soap added. Turn the plant upside down and dip a few times holding the plant carefully in place.

Light-Piggyback plants do best in bright, indirect, or curtain-filtered, sunlight. If proper light is furnished, tiny reddish-brown flowers appear at the top of the stems. The flowers are rather inconspicuous, but you can be pleased to see them to know you are doing what the plant likes best. The flowers are the plants way of saying "thank you."

Temperature-This plant likes a cool temperature range from 55 degrees to 75 degrees, so give it an east or north exposure.

Pests-Spider mites and those dreadful, hideous, little cotton-headed mealy bugs. Be sure to wear your glasses and check the plant often for these pests under the leaves.

RHS band parents plan sendoff

A congratulatory "sendoff" for members of the Ruidoso High School 24-Karat Band is scheduled for 6 p.m. Thursday, August 31, in the band room at the Middle School.

Claudia Gumbert, a band member parent, said the sendoff is a show of appreciation by band parents for all the work accomplished in preseason practices.

Band director Tad Haynes will explain this year's scheduling and refreshments will be served. All parents and others interested in band are welcome to attend.

Councillors

McNeil asked if these weren't the same properties the council considered in a previous public hearing, noting the council was going to public hearing the issue to death.

The council, considering two other P&Z recommendations, approved one and tabled the other.

Councillors approved the Planning Commission as the initial hearing body for amendments to the Building, Nuisance and related codes.

The council will remain the final authority on any amendments to the codes.

Councillors sent back for further negotiation a joint powers agreement between the village and the county which would have extended the extraterritorial zoning jurisdiction of the village from one mile to three miles around the village limits. The agreement would also give the village zoning jurisdiction over a one mile corridor along the Sierra Blanca Regional Airport access road.

Speaking before the council, Richards said the agreement would create the beginnings of growth management in the area. He said county manager Nick Pappas had indicated he was in favor of heading toward growth management in the area.

Attorney Bob Beauvais said county commissioners had concern over what the village had in mind with the annexation of the airport property and, if this happened, would there be a three mile extraterritorial zoning area around the airport?

Councillor Jess Stinson made a motion the agreement be brought back to the council after an amount was negotiated as the county's share for assistance in the administration, secretarial and inspection support in the extraterritorial zoning area.

In other business between the village and Lincoln County, the councillors approved an extension of a professional service agreement in which the village provides a bulldozer and an employee to help with operation of the landfill.

The agreement would extend the operation for the landfill from September 6 through January 6, 1990. The county would compensate the village $10,000 for the use of the employee and bulldozer.

Infrastructure Division director Becky Bell-Durham told the council the county commissioners had approved the agreement, with an amendment. She said if the landfill site is exhausted before the January 6, 1990 date, the $10,000 would be pro-rated.

The council met on Monday instead of its normal Tuesday night, in order for village officials and several councillors to attend the New Mexico Municipal League Conference this week in Albuquerque.

Babysitters can get state funds to offset the cost of nutritious meals

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Babysitters who provide meals to the children they are caring for can now be reimbursed for the cost of those meals.

According to Jake Meyer of the Children in Need of Services (CHINS) program in Alamogordo, the program has been going nationwide for sometime, but is now expanding. He said the funds for the program come from the United States Department of Agriculture and are not considered reportable income for tax purposes.

Meyer said the purpose of the program is to upgrade the nutrition of children who are being cared for and reimburse the babysitter for the cost of the meal.

"The critical part is, are they providing nutritious meals in the home for non-resident children," he said.

Meyer said CHINS is the monitoring agency for the program and there are certain income guidelines the babysitter must meet in order to qualify for the program.

The babysitter must take care of at least one non-resident child, but not more than four, for at least 10 days a month. The child or children must be under 12 years of age.

The CHINS program will give them certain training in menu preparation. It also must go into the home four times a year to do a safety check and to help the babysitter fill out a menu form, detailing what the children were fed.

Once the menu forms are filled out, they are sent to Santa Fe for a claim of reimbursement. There is a $15 initial fee, which the babysitter must pay, to cover the cost of handling the paperwork.

Meyer said the program will reimburse the babysitter for meals regardless if they are paid or not.

The reimbursement rates are 73 cents for breakfast, $1.31 for both lunch and supper and 39 cents for snacks. This rate is per child per meal.

Anyone in Lincoln County interested in the program should contact the CHINS program in Alamogordo at 434-3011 for more information and income requirements.

EDITORIAL

When a registered voter affixes a signature to a negative referendum petition, that voter is casting a "no" vote over the issue named in the petition.

While the end result of a negative referendum petition is to prompt an election over the issue, the petitioners form their document as a negative response to a council action. The system is designed for the petitioners to show the public that the specified number of signers OPPOSE the action, before the municipality goes to the time and expense ($4,000 to $6,000) of calling for an election.

In such cases, the elected officials, the ones who were already elected by the majority of voters, already have taken action, and the burden is on the dissenters to prove that the required number of registered voters are AGAINST that action. Signing a negative referendum petition over an issue you favor just isn't the way the system was designed to work.

Many people who signed the negative referendum petition over the multi-million dollar economic development project have said they favor the overall plan, but believe the people should vote. That sounds good, but such thinking can get a bit out of hand in our form of government.

We elect officials to oversee the operations of this village, and if we don't like what they are doing, we don't re-elect them. If we want the people to speak on every issue, then we should change our form of government. And to ensure that every person is heard on every issue, we should retire the village council, and get the entire community together every couple of weeks to vote on all the items that normally would be acted on by a council or board.

And then, we could truthfully say, the people had their say.

But, until we change our form of government (and didn't we just defeat a change in form petition?) we still elect officials to make decisions.

Meanwhile, do we really want less than five percent of the registered voters, a group we believe is in the minority over the golf course/resort hotel/civic center/performing arts center/fitness trails plan, to cost the village thousands for an election, and perhaps millions in the loss of a badly needed economic development project?-fj

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

The Ruidoso Council appointed a long range committee to study the possible uses of the old airport acreage, the Municipal Airport Board. The MAPB had a wide ranging make up of its members, and most were highly recommended to the council. This board met regularly and spent many days and hours working on plans for the future use. Over a period of almost 2 years they formulated several suggestions, and when the proposals for the Events Center, Golf Course and finally, Resort Hotel and Center for Performing Arts came together the MAPB, after many proposals, found that the present proposals actually meet the aims of the master plan and were the only plans that seemed feasible in the foreseeable future.

Village officials and administrators researched the needs and found that requirements i.e., acreage, water rights, water availability for golf course needs, water, sewer, electricity and gas for events center, golf course and performing arts center are sufficient to meet requirements for these facilities. The formulation of the final plans seemed to the MAPB and the council to fulfill the requests of the several groups who had made requests for an events center, and other activities to collectively serve the greatest number of wants.

With many groups and individuals urging the council in this direction, and at my request, the Ruidoso Village Council adopted the ordinance resolution on Monday evening June 19,1989. This was done prior to the election for change in the form of Village Government. The purpose of this was to make it obvious to the voters the feeling of the council in case that would affect their feelings on the change of form of government. I feel that the results of the election stand on their own recognizance.

I personally feel that approximately .01% to .02% of our population have misstated the facts in many different ways and have presented a petition; with our concentrated and united cooperation we can still have these marvelous improvements.

Let's hold our heads up high and realize our potential as the finest year-round resort area in New Mexico.

Lloyd L. Davis, Jr.
Mayor, Village of Ruidoso

DEAR EDITOR:

Thank God that people are really getting worked up over the proposed referendum to bring to a vote ordinance 89-2. Wouldn't you agree that people getting over their apathy and raising heck is better than people just watching TV? The bankers of this town are not only taking out full page ads but some are out talking to people to ask them to reconsider their signing of petitions so that the proposed golf course and hotel can proceed to be the salvation of this town. Are they talking to the people as individuals or as officials of the banks they represent? There is even talk attributed to a certain lawyer with the firm who represents this village, in jest I hear, of listing the signers of the petition so that people can boycott those who think for themselves.

I've heard that the lending institutions financing the proposed project are concerned that this town is not 100% behind the proposal. It's a good thing that the referendum process itself only requires a simple majority to determine the will of the people, nowhere near the 100% the bankers would like. You have editorialized that a vote would delay the project. It seems to me that an individual owner with money in hand can plan projects on a fast track. Partnerships between individuals and a whole village should expect to move more slowly. It took twenty years to build the new airport, a referendum to keep the old airport land and now we can't wait 90 days to hear from the people? Your editorial states that it appears the majority of the people favor the project and you explain how people can remove their signatures if they have changed their minds. If they do, we'll never know for sure if the only poll that counts, a vote of the people, verifies your editorial opinion or not, will we?

A single Chinese stood in front of a line of tanks in Tiananmen Square in a fight for democracy. In Poland the people took their hard won vote and ousted the Communists right under the Soviet armies' shadow and you editorialize about taking signatures off petitions while the town is full of talk about boycotting the signatories. Please editorialize on this —there are now two issues at stake— the project and the vote. Of the two the latter is the more precious. I know that talk and rumors of intimidation can be unbalancing and scary but it seems that sometimes the rights others fight for have to be fought for one person at a time right here in the Village of Ruidoso. I think we should stand firm.

DEAR EDITOR:

Our members, shelter director, officers and board of directors desire to express profound appreciation to the many local businesses, residents and visitors who made the summer fund-raisers a resounding success:

1) Those who purchased tickets or made donations to the Puppet Show, and to Sid Miller for the use of the Ruidoso Middle School Gymnasium.

2) WAL-MART and staff for providing space and assistance, as well as the individuals who contributed time, labor or saleable items for the 3-day Flea Market.

3) The Turf Club's designation of a donation from proceeds resulting from their last Ladies Day at the Race Track.

With the response and support that these events have wrought, we foresee an evolution of a dream in the near future—offering humane care for county animals need. THANK YOU one and all.

DEAR EDITOR:

RE: Ruidoso Hotel-Golf Course proposal.

It is with much interest I read GLOWING articles extolling the economic and aesthetic benefits of the proposed hotel-golf course project. If its proponents are to be believed, it is indeed the Second Coming. (Gosh! and here I thought that faint glow above Mr. Hubbard's head in a recent news photo was just a camera spot.)

I have always been a great believer in the FREE ENTERPRISE system. As such I cannot help but wonder; if this is a truly feasible project, why must it be so HEAVILY subsidized by us taxpayers in terms of FREE LAND, water, taxes and who knows what else?

If, on the other hand, it REQUIRES these subsidies to exist and cannot support itself without them, how then could it ever support Ruidoso?

As I listen to the arguments in support of this project, I recognize the SAME fuzzy thinking, advanced by the SAME self-serving interests that brought you (also at great taxpayer expense) that Pinnacle of Prosperity—Grindstone Dam.

We all know what a STELLAR success that has been, don't we?

Will Ruidosans AGAIN make the MISTAKE of following these Purveyors of Puffery?

DEAR EDITOR:

An ad in the August 10th issue of your paper stated that the Village of Ruidoso has over 1000 acre feet of effluent credit water rights that have no value unless used.

If this is true, I do not understand why, as per your August 14th editorial, we should be so pleased that Texas was awarded $14 million instead of actual water in their recent suit against our state.

Surely Ruidoso isn't the only village in New Mexico with unused water that according to our local financial institutions has no value.

During these slow economic times, maybe we could transfer this worthless water to Texas in exchange for the $14 million. Dollars do have a value.

I urge Ruidoso citizens not to be influenced or intimidated by this garbage, by phone calls, innuendoes etc.; but to stand by their convictions and keep their right to vote. And by all means go to the polls and exercise this right.

Village ordinance 89-2 must be repealed and a sensible one adopted.

Yours truly,
Warren O. Hastings

DEAR EDITOR:

As a citizen of Ruidoso, I have watched with interest and avidly read all the articles, letters and editorials that the Hubbard Golf Course Project has generated. Honestly, I have not been able to come down squarely on either side, through the Spencers' addition of a performing arts center to the package certainly put a large consideration on the golf course side for me.

As each new letter, on either side, was printed in our local paper, I was swayed. Because of my ambivalence, and because the master plan proponents continued to bring up good arguments, when the opportunity to sign a petition was offered, allowing the citizens of our beautiful village a chance to vote on the issue, that seemed to me like a democratic thing to do; allow the people to voice their opinions, officially on this issue and have it clear, once and for all, where the majority of opinion lies. That is why I signed the petition.

I wanted time to fully understand what this was all about, and then I wanted the democratic freedom for all our villagers to express their opinion on the issue.

I personally continue to be undecided. Financial security is wonderful, but it's not everything. The issue of water ... continues to plague the project.

So, yes, I signed that petition. For the right to be heard! (Which it seemed we were not at the public hearings) I am aware that many wonderful additions have been made since the ordinance was adopted, however, the ordinance still stands in its original unenhanced form, which is what the petitioners are seeking to offer us the opportunity to change.

Well, now I begin to feel the effects of being boycotted as an "anti-development," "anti-progress" supporter. Nonsense! When this comes to a vote I may well vote for the golf course, but removing my name from the petition because I'm being coerced and blacklisted goes way beyond any "financial development" issues. I feel my constitutional guarantees are being threatened. I'm afraid of what this could mean, down the road, if I give up my right to vote now.

Can this really be happening? Am I still in America? Please, Ruidoso, say it isn't so.

Ruidoso

On The Record...

By Frankie Jarrell

The issue of the proposed development project at the old airport in Ruidoso continues to be the main topic of conversation all over town.

Compromises have been made, and then more have been made, ever since the Ruidoso Village Council adopted an ordinance allowing the village attorney to negotiate lease agreements with the hotel and golf course developers.

And still, the opponents of the project have had questions over the water and the hotel lease.

The water question just won't go away; it never has. The same people who objected to the Eagle Creek wells are still raising objections, and costing the village money for more and more tests—even as we are drinking the water pumped from those wells.

And so, we'll put the water question aside, for now; and deal with what appears to be the other major objection—the ground lease on the hotel.

While the hotel lease, as negotiated to this point, is something the village could live with; we believe there is plenty of room for compromise there.

The last draft of the hotel lease calls for the hotel operator to pay to the Village of Ruidoso $2,000 a year plus two percent of the gross room revenues if the annual occupancy rate is at 65 percent in years one through five.

Charles Stallings, with 20 years experience in three seasonal resort hotels in Florida, agreed to take a look at the plan in its present form. Stallings, who moved to Ruidoso for its climate and locale, still has connections in the hotel business, still gets calls for advice from his friends in that business.

"I really believe there could be a compromise and satisfy both sides," said Stallings.

He had this to say, based on his experience and success in the hotel industry: "Hotels rarely achieve 100 percent occupancy on any given day because they are careful not to overbook and last minute cancellations are routine. A 94 percent occupancy any day in the heart of the season is great.

"Slow season occupancy could easily range from 16 to 20 percent for days. An average of 55 to 65 percent

"Forget the proposed $2,000 annual rent. If the village was to receive a flat one percent of the hotel's gross room revenues there would be no gamble. For an annual gross room revenue of $3 million the village would receive $30,000, $6 million, $60,000 guaranteed," suggested Stallings.

Looks to me like, any general manager committed to making the most profit possible for the hotel corporation, would be tempted, if the hotel is on the cusp of 65 percent, to comp some rooms or whatever to keep it at that 64 percent. After all, just one more percentage point and it cuts his profits by more than $30,000.

And, no matter how honest the manager is in his operations and room accountings, that occupancy percentage opens up his operations to speculation in the community.

"Are we really getting our share?" the public might ask.

"There is no speculation on flat rates," noted Stallings. That same method of paying an outright percentage could also be incorporated into the later years of the lease. Instead of two percent if occupancy rates are over 55 percent, how about a flat two percent, with a portion set aside for improvements on the civic center (which the hotel will also use).

There are lots of options.

So, why not remove the initial gamble, and perhaps help some concerned citizens feel more comfortable with the lease of public land, by setting a one percent across-the-board lease payment for years one through five?

That sounds like a good compromise to me.
may very well be close to the annual average."

Stallings said that occupancy rate depends heavily on the amount and kind of promotion, with most hotel operators spending from five to seven percent of their gross on marketing. In a start-up year, a hotel operator would probably spend much more.

"If Ruidoso's proposed 200-room hotel achieves an outstanding first year's occupancy of 65 percent, that would mean 4,745 room nights," said Stallings.

Room rates for the hotel are said to be in the $60 to $100 range. A high average rate may be $80. This daily average rate times the projected 4,745 room nights would yield a projected gross room revenue of $3,796.00. The suggested two percent for the village would come to $75,920, said Stallings.

"However, at 64 percent, one percent under the percentage necessary for the village to realize revenue, the village get's nothing. That seems like a gamble," he added, offering the following compromise.

EDITORIAL

When a registered voter affixes a signature to a negative referendum petition, that voter is casting a "no" vote over the issue named in the petition.

While the end result of a negative referendum petition is to prompt an election over the issue, the petitioners form their document as a negative response to a council action. The system is designed for the petitioners to show the public that the specified number of signers OPPOSE the action, before the municipality goes to the time and expense ($4,000 to $6,000) of calling for an election.

In such cases, the elected officials, the ones who were already elected by the majority of voters, already have taken action, and the burden is on the dissenters to prove that the required number of registered voters are AGAINST that action. Signing a negative referendum petition over an issue you favor just isn't the way the system was designed to work.

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

The Ruidoso Council appointed a long range committee to study the possible uses of the old airport acreage, the Municipal Airport Board. The MAPB had a wide ranging make up of its members, and most were highly recommended to the council. This board met regularly and spent many days and hours working on plans for the future use. Over a period of almost 2 years they formulated several suggestions, and when the proposals for the Events Center, Golf Course and finally, Resort Hotel and Center for Performing Arts came together the MAPB, after many proposals, found that the present proposals actually meet the aims of the master plan and were the only plans that seemed feasible in the foreseeable future.

Village officials and administrators researched the needs and found that requirements i.e., acreage, water rights, water availability for golf course needs, water, sewer, electricity and gas for events center, golf course and performing arts center are sufficient to meet requirements for these facilities. The formulation of the final plans seemed to the MAPB and the council to fulfill the requests of the several groups who had made requests for an events center, and other activities to collectively serve the greatest number of wants.

With many groups and individuals urging the council in this direction, and at my request, the Ruidoso Village Council adopted the ordinance resolution on Monday evening June 19,1989. This was done prior to the election for change in the form of Village Government. The purpose of this was to make it obvious to the voters the feeling of the council in case that would affect their feelings on the change of form of government. I feel that the results of the election stand on their own recognizance.

I personally feel that approximately .01% to .02% of our population have misstated the facts in many different ways and have presented a petition; with our concentrated and united cooperation we can still have these marvelous improvements.

Let's hold our heads up high and realize our potential as the finest year-round resort area in New Mexico.

Lloyd L. Davis, Jr.
Mayor, Village of Ruidoso

DEAR EDITOR:

Thank God that people are really getting worked up over the proposed referendum to bring to a vote ordinance 89-2. Wouldn't you agree that people getting over their apathy and raising heck is better than people just watching TV? The bankers of this town are not only taking out full page ads but some are out talking to people to ask them to reconsider their signing of petitions so that the proposed golf course and hotel can proceed to be the salvation of this town. Are they talking to the people as individuals or as officials of the banks they represent? There is even talk attributed to a certain lawyer with the firm who represents this village, in jest I hear, of listing the signers of the petition so that people can boycott those who think for themselves.

I've heard that the lending institutions financing the proposed project are concerned that this town is not 100% behind the proposal. It's a good thing that the referendum process itself only requires a simple majority to determine the will of the people, nowhere near the 100% the bankers would like. You have editorialized that a vote would delay the project. It seems to me that an individual owner with money in hand, can plan projects on a fast track. Partnerships between individuals and a whole village should expect to move more slowly. It took twenty years to build the new airport, a referendum to keep the old airport land and now we can't wait 90 days to hear from the people? Your editorial states that it appears the majority of the people favor the project and you explain how people can remove their signatures if they have changed their minds. If they do, we'll never know for sure if the only poll that counts, a vote of the people, verifies your editorial opinion or not, will we?

A single Chinese stood in front of a line of tanks in Tiananmen Square in a fight for democracy. In Poland the people took their hard won vote and ousted the Communists right under the Soviet armies' shadow and you editorialize about taking signatures off petitions while the town is full of talk about boycotting the signatories. Please editorialize on this —there are now two issues at stake— the project and the vote. Of the two the latter is the more precious. I know that talk and rumors of intimidation can be unbalancing and scary but it seems that sometimes the rights others fight for have to be fought for one person at a time right here in the Village of Ruidoso. I think we should stand firm.

DEAR EDITOR:

Our members, shelter director, officers and board of directors desire to express profound appreciation to the many local businesses, residents and visitors who made the summer fund-raisers a resounding success:

1) Those who purchased tickets or made donations to the Puppet Show, and to Sid Miller for the use of the Ruidoso Middle School Gymnasium.

2) WAL-MART and staff for providing space and assistance, as well as the individuals who contributed time, labor or saleable items for the 3-day Flea Market.

3) The Turf Club's designation of a donation from proceeds resulting from their last Ladies Day at the Race Track.

With the response and support that these events have wrought, we foresee an evolution of a dream in the near future—offering humane care for county animals need. THANK YOU one and all.

DEAR EDITOR:

RE: Ruidoso Hotel-Golf Course proposal.

It is with much interest I read GLOWING articles extolling the economic and aesthetic benefits of the proposed hotel-golf course project. If its proponents are to be believed, it is indeed the Second Coming. (Goehl and here I thought that faint glow above Mr. Hubbard's head in a recent news photo was just a camera spot.)

I have always been a great believer in the FREE ENTERPRISE system. As such I cannot help but wonder; if this is a truly feasible project, why must it be so HEAVILY subsidized by us taxpayers in terms of FREE LAND, water, taxes and who knows what else?

If, on the other hand, it REQUIRES these subsidies to exist and cannot support itself without them; how then could it ever support Ruidoso?

As I listen to the arguments in support of this project, I recognize the SAME fuzzy thinking, advanced by the SAME self-serving interests that brought you (also at great taxpayer expense) that Pinnacle of Prosperity—Grindstone Dam.

We all know what a STELLAR success that has been, don't we?

Will Ruidosans AGAIN make the MISTAKE of following these Purveyors of Puffery?

DEAR EDITOR:

An ad in the August 10th issue of your paper stated that the Village of Ruidoso has over 1000 acre feet of effluent credit water rights that have no value unless used.

If this is true, I do not understand why, as per your August 14th editorial, we should be so pleased that Texas was awarded $14 million instead of actual water in their recent suit against our state.

Surely Ruidoso isn't the only village in New Mexico with unused water that according to our local financial institutions has no value.

During these slow economic times, maybe we could transfer this worthless water to Texas in exchange for the $14 million. Dollars do have a value.

I urge Ruidoso citizens not to be influenced or intimidated by this garbage, by phone calls, innuendoes etc.; but to stand by their convictions and keep their right to vote. And by all means go to the polls and exercise this right.

Village ordinance 89-2 must be repealed and a sensible one adopted.

Yours truly,
Warren O. Hastings
Ruidoso

DEAR EDITOR:

As a citizen of Ruidoso, I have watched with interest and avidly read all the articles, letters and editorials that the Hubbard Golf Course Project has generated. Honestly, I have not been able to come down squarely on either side, through the Spencers' addition of a performing arts center to the package certainly put a large consideration on the golf course side for me.

As each new letter, on either side, was printed in our local paper, I was swayed. Because of my ambivalence, and because the master plan proponents continued to bring up good arguments, when the opportunity to sign a petition was offered, allowing the citizens of our beautiful village a chance to vote on the issue, that seemed to me like a democratic thing to do; allow the people to voice their opinions, officially on this issue and have it clear, once and for all, where the majority of opinion lies. That is why I signed the petition.

I wanted time to fully understand what this was all about, and then I wanted the democratic freedom for all our villagers to express their opinion on the issue.

I personally continue to be undecided. Financial security is wonderful, but it's not everything. The issue of water ... continues to plague the project.

So, yes, I signed that petition. For the right to be heard! (Which it seemed we were not at the public hearings) I am aware that many wonderful additions have been made since the ordinance was adopted, however, the ordinance still stands in its original unenhanced form, which is what the petitioners are seeking to offer us the opportunity to change.

Well, now I begin to feel the effects of being boycotted as an "anti-development," "anti-progress" supporter. Nonsense! When this comes to a vote I may well vote for the golf course, but removing my name from the petition because I'm being coerced and blacklisted goes way beyond any "financial development" issues. I feel my constitutional guarantees are being threatened. I'm afraid of what this could mean, down the road, if I give up my right to vote now.

Can this really be happening? Am I still in America? Please, Ruidoso, say it isn't so.

Jan Prince
Ruidoso

On The Record...

By Frankie Jarrell

The issue of the proposed development project at the old airport in Ruidoso continues to be the main topic of conversation all over town.

Compromises have been made, and then more have been made, ever since the Ruidoso Village Council adopted an ordinance allowing the village attorney to negotiate lease agreements with the hotel and golf course developers.

And still, the opponents of the project have had questions over the water and the hotel lease.

The water question just won't go away; it never has. The same people who objected to the Eagle Creek wells are still raising objections, and costing the village money for more and more tests—even as we are drinking the water pumped from those wells.

And so, we'll put the water question aside, for now, and deal with what appears to be the other major objection—the ground lease on the hotel.

While the hotel lease, as negotiated to this point, is something the village could live with; we believe there is plenty of room for compromise there.

The last draft of the hotel lease calls for the hotel operator to pay to the Village of Ruidoso $2,000 a year plus two percent of the gross room revenues if the annual occupancy rate is at 65 percent in years one through five.

Charles Stallings, with 20 years experience in three seasonal resort hotels in Florida, agreed to take a look at the plan in its present form. Stallings, who moved to Ruidoso for its climate and locale, still has connections in the hotel business, still gets calls for advice from his friends in that business.

"I really believe there could be a compromise and satisfy both sides," said Stallings.

He had this to say, based on his experience and success in the hotel industry: "Hotels rarely achieve 100 percent occupancy on any given day because they are booked not by overbook and last minute cancellations are routine. A 94 percent occupancy any day in the heart of the season is great.

"Low season occupancy could easily range from 16 to 20 percent for days. An average of 55 to 65 percent

"Forget the proposed $2,000 annual rent. If the village was to receive a flat one percent of the hotel's gross room revenues there would be no gamble. For an annual gross room revenue of $3 million the village would receive $30,000, $6 million, $60,000 guaranteed," suggested Stallings.

Looks to me like, any general manager committed to making the most profit possible for the hotel corporation, would be tempted, if the hotel is on the cusp of 65 percent, to comp some rooms or whatever to keep it at that 64 percent. After all, just one more percentage point and it cuts his profits by more than $30,000.

And, no matter how honest the manager is in his operations and room accountings, that occupancy percentage opens up his operations to speculation in the community.

"Are we really getting our share?" the public might ask.

"There is no speculation on flat rates," noted Stallings. That same method of paying an outright percentage could also be incorporated into the later years of the lease. Instead of two percent if occupancy rates are over 55 percent, how about a flat two percent, with a portion set aside for improvements on the civic center (which the hotel will also use).

There are lots of options.

So, why not remove the initial gamble, and perhaps help some concerned citizens feel more comfortable with the lease of public land, by setting a one percent across-the-board lease payment for years one through five?

That sounds like a good compromise to me. may very well be close to the annual average."

Stallings said that occupancy rate depends heavily on the amount and kind of promotion, with most hotel operators spending from five to seven percent of their gross on marketing. In a start-up year, a hotel operator would probably spend much more.

"If Ruidoso's proposed 200-room hotel achieves an outstanding first year's occupancy of 65 percent, that would mean 4,745 room nights," said Stallings.

Room rates for the hotel are said to be in the $60 to $100 range. A high average rate may be $80. This daily average rate times the projected 4,745 room nights would yield a projected gross room revenue of $3,796.00. The suggested two percent for the village would come to $75,920, said Stallings.

"However, at 64 percent, one percent under the percentage necessary for the village to realize revenue, the village get's nothing. That seems like a gamble," he added, offering the following compromise.

EDITORIAL

When a registered voter affixes a signature to a negative referendum petition, that voter is casting a "no" vote over the issue named in the petition.

While the end result of a negative referendum petition is to prompt an election over the issue, the petitioners form their document as a negative response to a council action. The system is designed for the petitioners to show the public that the specified number of signers OPPOSE the action, before the municipality goes to the time and expense ($4,000 to $6,000) of calling for an election.

In such cases, the elected officials, the ones who were already elected by the majority of voters, already have taken action, and the burden is on the dissenters to prove that the required number of registered voters are AGAINST that action. Signing a negative referendum petition over an issue you favor just isn't the way the system was designed to work.

Many people who signed the negative referendum petition over the multi-million dollar economic development project have said they favor the overall plan, but believe the people should vote. That sounds good, but such thinking can get a bit out of hand in our form of government.

We elect officials to oversee the operations of this village, and if we don't like what they are doing, we don't re-elect them. If we want the people to speak on every issue, then we should change our form of government. And to ensure that every person is heard on every issue, we should retire the village council, and get the entire community together every couple of weeks to vote on all the items that normally would be acted on by a council or board.

And then, we could truthfully say, the people had their say.

But, until we change our form of government (and didn't we just defeat a change in form petition?) we still elect officials to make decisions.

Meanwhile, do we really want less than five percent of the registered voters, a group we believe is in the minority over the golf course/resort hotel/civic center/performing arts center/fitness trails plan, to cost the village thousands for an election, and perhaps millions in the loss of a badly needed economic development project?-fj

DEAR EDITOR:

The Ruidoso Council appointed a long range committee to study the possible uses of the old airport acreage, the Municipal Airport Board. The MAPB had a wide ranging make up of its members, and most were highly recommended to the council. This board met regularly and spent many days and hours working on plans for the future use. Over a period of almost 2 years they formulated several suggestions, and when the proposals for the Events Center, Golf Course and finally, Resort Hotel and Center for Performing Arts came together the MAPB, after many proposals, found that the present proposals actually meet the aims of the master plan and were the only plans that seemed feasible in the foreseeable future.

Village officials and administrators researched the needs and found that requirements i.e., acreage, water rights, water availability for golf course needs, water, sewer, electricity and gas for events center, golf course and performing arts center are sufficient to meet requirements for these facilities. The formulation of the final plans seemed to the MAPB and the council to fulfill the requests of the several groups who had made requests for an events center, and other activities to collectively serve the greatest number of wants.

With many groups and individuals urging the council in this direction, and at my request, the Ruidoso Village Council adopted the ordinance resolution on Monday evening June 19,1989. This was done prior to the election for change in the form of Village Government. The purpose of this was to make it obvious to the voters the feeling of the council in case that would affect their feelings on the change of form of government. I feel that the results of the election stand on their own recognizance.

I personally feel that approximately .01% to .02% of our population have misstated the facts in many different ways and have presented a petition; with our concentrated and united cooperation we can still have these marvelous improvements.

Let's hold our heads up high and realize our potential as the finest year-round resort area in New Mexico.

Lloyd L. Davis, Jr.
Mayor, Village of Ruidoso

DEAR EDITOR:

Thank God that people are really getting worked up over the proposed referendum to bring to a vote ordinance 89-2. Wouldn't you agree that people getting over their apathy and raising heck is better than people just watching TV? The bankers of this town are not only taking out full page ads but some are out talking to people to ask them to reconsider their signing of petitions so that the proposed golf course and hotel can proceed to be the salvation of this town. Are they talking to the people as individuals or as officials of the banks they represent? There is even talk attributed to a certain lawyer with the firm who represents this village, in jest I hear, of listing the signers of the petition so that people can boycott those who think for themselves.

I've heard that the lending institutions financing the proposed project are concerned that this town is not 100% behind the proposal. It's a good thing that the referendum process itself only requires a simple majority to determine the will of the people, nowhere near the 100% the bankers would like. You have editorialized that a vote would delay the project. It seems to me that an individual owner with money in hand can plan projects on a fast track. Partnerships between individuals and a whole village should expect to move more slowly. It took twenty years to build the new airport, a referendum to keep the old airport land and now we can't wait 90 days to hear from the people? Your editorial states that it appears the majority of the people favor the project and you explain how people can remove their signatures if they have changed their minds. If they do, we'll never know for sure if the only poll that counts, a vote of the people, verifies your editorial opinion or not, will we?

A single Chinese stood in front of a line of tanks in Tiananmen Square in a fight for democracy. In Poland the people took their hard won vote and ousted the Communists right under the Soviet armies' shadow and you editorialize about taking signatures off petitions while the town is full of talk about boycotting the signatories. Please editorialize on this —there are now two issues at stake— the project and the vote. Of the two the latter is the more precious. I know that talk and rumors of intimidation can be unbalancing and scary but it seems that sometimes the rights others fight for have to be fought for one person at a time right here in the Village of Ruidoso. I think we should stand firm.

DEAR EDITOR:

Our members, shelter director, officers and board of directors desire to express profound appreciation to the many local businesses, residents and visitors who made the summer fund-raisers a resounding success:

1) Those who purchased tickets or made donations to the Puppet Show, and to Sid Miller for the use of the Ruidoso Middle School Gymnasium.

2) WAL-MART and staff for providing space and assistance, as well as the individuals who contributed time, labor or saleable items for the 3-day Flea Market.

3) The Turf Club's designation of a donation from proceeds resulting from their last Ladies Day at the Race Track.

With the response and support that these events have wrought, we foresee an evolution of a dream in the near future—offering humane care for county animals need. THANK YOU one and all.

DEAR EDITOR:

RE: Ruidoso Hotel-Golf Course proposal.

It is with much interest I read [illegible] the proposed hotel-golf course project. If its proponents are to be believed, it is indeed the Second Coming. (Gosh! and here I thought that faint glow above Mr. Hubbard's head in a recent news photo was just a camera spot.)

I have always been a great believer in the FREE ENTERPRISE system. As such I [illegible] but wonder: if this is a truly [illegible] project, why must it be so HEAVILY subsidized by us taxpayers in terms of FREE LAND, water, taxes and who knows what else?

If, on the other hand, it REQUIRES these subsidies to exist and cannot support itself without them, how then could it ever support business?

As I listen to the arguments in support of this project, I recognize the SAME fuzzy thinking, advanced by the SAME self-serving interests that brought you (also at great taxpayer expense) that Pinnacle of Prosperity—Grindstone Dam.

We all know what a STELLAR success that has been, don't we?

Will Ruidosans AGAIN make the MISTAKE of following these Purveyors of Puffery?

Walt Durr
Ruidoso

DEAR EDITOR:

An ad in the August 10th issue of your paper stated that the Village of Ruidoso has over 1000 acre feet of effluent tredit water rights that have no value unless used.

If this is true, I do not understand why, as per your August 14th editorial, we should be so pleased that Texas was awarded $14 million instead of actual water in their recent suit against our state.

Surely Ruidoso isn't the only village in New Mexico with unused water that according to our local financial institutions has no value.

During these slow economic times, maybe we could transfer this worthless water to Texas in exchange for the $14 million. Dollars do have a value.

I urge Ruidoso citizens not to be influenced or intimidated by this garbage, by phone calls, innuendoes etc.; but to stand by their convictions and keep their right to vote. And by all means go to the polls and exercise this right.

Village ordinance 89-2 must be repealed and a sensible one adopted.

Yours truly,
Warren O. Hastings
Ruidoso

DEAR EDITOR:

As a citizen of Ruidoso, I have watched with interest and avidly read all the articles, letters and editorials that the Hubbard Golf Course Project has generated. Honestly, I have not been able to come down squarely on either side, through the Spencers' addition of a performing arts center to the package certainly put a large consideration on the golf course side for me.

As each new letter, on either side, was printed in our local paper, I was swayed. Because of my ambivalence, and because the master plan proponents continued to bring up good arguments, when the opportunity to sign a petition was offered, allowing the citizens of our beautiful village a chance to vote on the issue, that seemed to me like a democratic thing to do; allow the people to voice their opinions, officially on this issue and have it clear, once and for all, where the majority of opinion lies. That is why I signed the petition.

I wanted time to fully understand what this was all about, and then I wanted the democratic freedom for all our villagers to express their opinion on the issue.

I personally continue to be undecided. Financial security is wonderful, but it's not everything. The issue of water ... continues to plague the project.

So, yes, I signed that petition. For the right to be heard! (Which it seemed we were not at the public hearings) I am aware that many wonderful additions have been made since the ordinance was adopted, however, the ordinance still stands in its original unenhanced form, which is what the petitioners are seeking to offer us the opportunity to change.

Well, now I begin to feel the effects of being boycotted as an "anti-development," "anti-progress" supporter. Nonsense! When this comes to a vote I may well vote for the golf course, but removing my name from the petition because I'm being coerced and blacklisted goes way beyond any "financial development" issues. I feel my constitutional guarantees are being threatened. I'm afraid of what this could mean, down the road, if I give up my right to vote now.

Can this really be happening? Am I still in America? Please, Ruidoso, say it isn't so.

Jan Prince
Ruidoso

On The Record...

By Frankie Jarrell

The issue of the proposed development project at the old airport in Ruidoso continues to be the main topic of conversation all over town.

Compromises have been made, and then more have been [illegible] since the Ruidoso Village Council [illegible] village attorney to [illegible] the hotel and golf [illegible]

[illegible] project have had [illegible]

[illegible] easily range from 16 [illegible] of 55 to 65 percent.

And so, we'll put the water question aside, for now; and deal with what appears to be the other major objection—the ground lease on the hotel.

While the hotel lease, as negotiated to this point, is something the village could live with; we believe there is plenty of room for compromise there.

The last draft of the hotel lease calls for the hotel operator to pay to the Village of Ruidoso $2,000 a year plus two percent of the gross room revenues if the annual occupancy rate is at 65 percent in years one through five.

Charles Stallings, with 20 years experience in three seasonal resort hotels in Florida, agreed to take a look at the plan in its present form. Stallings, who moved to Ruidoso for its climate and locale, still has connections in the [illegible] business, still gets calls for advice from his [illegible] business.

"I really [illegible] there could be a compromise and [illegible] Stallings.

[illegible], based on his experience and [illegible] industry: "Hotels rarely achieve [illegible] given day because they [illegible] last minute cancellations [illegible] occupancy any day in [illegible]

"Forget the proposed $2,000 annual rent. If the village was to receive a flat one percent of the hotel's gross room revenues there would be no gamble. For an annual gross room revenue of $3 million the village would receive $30,000, $6 million, $60,000 guaranteed," suggested Stallings.

Looks to me like, any general manager committed to making the most profit possible for the hotel corporation, would be tempted, if the hotel is on the cusp of 65 percent, to comp some rooms or whatever to keep it at that 64 percent. After all, just one more percentage point and it cuts his profits by more than $30,000.

And, no matter how honest the manager is in his operations and room accountings, that occupancy percentage opens up his operations to speculation in the community.

"Are we really getting our share?" the public might ask.

"There is no speculation on flat rates," noted Stallings. That same method of paying an outright percentage could also be incorporated into the later years of the lease. Instead of two percent if occupancy rates are over 55 percent, [illegible] a flat two percent, with a portion [illegible] the civic center (which [illegible]

[illegible] gamble, and perhaps help some concerned citizens feel more comfortable with the lease of public land, by setting a one percent across-the-board lease payment for years one through five?

That sounds like a good compromise to me. [illegible] may very well be close to the annual average."

Stallings said that occupancy rate depends heavily on the amount and kind of promotion, with most hotel operators spending from five to seven percent of their gross on marketing. In a start-up year, a hotel operator would probably spend much more.

"If Ruidoso's proposed 200-room hotel achieves an outstanding first year's occupancy of 65 percent, that would mean 4,745 room nights," said Stallings.

Room rates for the hotel are said to be in the $80 to $100 range. A high average rate may be $80. This daily average rate times the projected 4,745 room nights would yield a projected gross room revenue of $3,796,000. The suggested two percent for the village would come to $75,920, said Stallings.

"However, at 60 percent, one percent under the percentage necessary for the village to realize revenue, the village get's nothing. That seems like a gamble," he added, offering the following compromise.

Association announces concerts, membership drive for first season

The newly organized Ruidoso Community Concert Association proudly announces its first season of fine music brought to this area through Community Concerts of New York City, a division of Columbia Artists Management.

According to a news release, four outstanding programs will be presented at the First Christian Church.

On October 19, it will be the Empire Brass Quintet, December 14, the New Christy Minstrels will be performing. April 3, 1990, Ruidoso Community Concerts will present Markham and Broadway, who are duo-pianists. The Manhatten Rhythm Kings will preform on April 16, 1990.

Admission to these concerts is by season membership only.

Memberships are $25 for adults, $10 for students and $60 for families. All concerts start at 7:30 p.m.

In the last 60 years, Community Concerts has assisted more than 1,000 towns in the United States and Canada with the organization and presentation of a concert series. Under this concert plan, membership in the association will permit the member to attend all four concerts. No individual performance tickets are sold.

A Ruidoso membership will also entitle members to attend Community Concerts in Alamogordo, Artesia, Carlsbad and Las Cruces.

A membership campaign in Ruidoso is set for the week of September 18 through 23. But memberships may be purchased now through board members and campaign workers.

Membership cards will be mailed or given to members at the first concert.

Checks for the Ruidoso Community Concert membership can be sent to Box 1184, in Ruidoso.

Modern Eye Care

by Wayne A. Delamater, M.D.
Eye Surgeon

A CONCERN FOR DIABETICS

It is estimated that 60 percent of patients who have had diabetes for 15 or more years have experienced some blood vessel damage in their eyes. When the blood vessels at the back of the eye are affected, it compromises the nourishment they provide to the retina. Diabetic retinopathy is the name of the condition in which those deteriorating blood vessels feeding the retina leak, develop fragile branches, or become enlarged. One form of diabetic retinopathy, background retinopathy, is considered to be an early stage of the condition. In this form, sight is usually not seriously affected, and only a complete eye exam may note its presence. In its more serious form, proliferative retinopathy, severe sight loss and/or blindness may result. Diabetic patients must realize that early detection is their best protection against sight loss.

For further information, please call or schedule an appointment with your eye doctor. Dr. Delamater specializes in medical and surgical diseases of the eye. He is certified by the American Board of Ophthalmology. He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and of the American College of Surgeons. His practice is located in Roswell, New Mexico. 624-8879

"WHAT'LL THE NEIGHBORS SAY?"

"When I told mom I was going to work as a delivery person at Domino's Pizza, I thought she'd hit the roof. 'A pizza delivery girl?' she said. 'My baby? What'll the neighbors say?'

"But I needed money and I didn't have any experience. Domino's Pizza offered me the chance to earn and learn.

"I delivered awhile, then I became a manager-in-training. You wouldn't believe how much I learned about management, team spirit and pride. I got experience, a good salary and benefits, too.

"And since Domino's Pizza is the fastest-growing pizza delivery company in the world, I realized I could grow, too.

"Being a manager isn't for everyone. But if you want to do something you can be proud of, check out employment opportunities at Domino's Pizza.

"By the way, when mom found out I got my own store to manage, she said, 'My little girl, a big-time manager. Wait'll the neighbors hear about this.'"
