Where's the water? Council wants to know

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Village Council decided to create a water study committee on Tuesday night to go through an accounting procedure on apparent water losses.

The council at its regular meeting chartered the committee, whose members will be named later, to look at the village's water policy in general. The committee will look at the amount of water treated by the village as opposed to the amount of water actually metered. Several councilors have expressed concern over the difference in the amount of water the village treats and the amount of water metered.

In the June water department report it shows that a total of 50,920,125 gallons of water were treated, but a total of 13,011,522 gallons of water were metered. Councilors would like to know where the discrepancy comes from.

The water study committee will also look into developing a system of isolating sections of town to try and determine leaks, and it will be looking at the total water supply available to the village.

During Tuesday night's meeting, Charles Norwood was officially sworn into office as the new village manager. Norwood started work on July 2 (see related story).

Norwood immediately made his presence felt, and asked the council to turn five agenda items over to him to handle. Those items included vacancies at the street department and airport; the creation of an assistant building inspector and code enforcement officer; and requests for overtime and holiday pay at the airport, wastewater treatment plant and the solid waste department.

In a workshop meeting before the regular meeting, Norwood asked the council that all personnel matters be assigned to him. Norwood said he felt personnel matters were part of the job the council hired him for, and he assured them he would see to it the village had the proper number of employees.

Also at the workshop, Norwood said he would "ride herd" over village overtime, and he asked the council to transfer control of the council approved overtime fund to him.

During the regular meeting, Norwood said he would meet with the village's department heads to discuss the vacancies and overtime. He said the department heads would have to prove to him that these slots should be filled. He added he would bring a report back to the council at its next meeting.

The council agreed with both Norwood's requests and turned over both the personnel matters and the overtime fund to his control.

Mayor Victor Alonso said the control of the overtime fund should be with the village manager.

The Village Council also ap

Village manager reports

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

When Charles Norwood first came to Ruidoso in 1952 with his senior class from Slaton, Texas, he couldn't have imagined that 38 years later he would become the manager of the Village of Ruidoso.

The 57 year old Norwood was officially sworn into office as the new village manager on Tuesday night but he has been on the job since July 2.

He said "It's a whole new ballgame when you become the manager of a new city." Norwood has spent the last week touring various village facilities and departments. He said the tours have been helpful and have accelerated his introduction to the community.

But Norwood really doesn't need too much of an introduction to the workings of a municipality. He brings a wealth of experience as a former city manager in a number of communities in Texas and Oklahoma.

Voters voice concerns in survey

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The county commission District I and II races appear to be close; while voters believe solid waste is the number one issue facing the county.

Results of The Ruidoso News Election '90 poll indicate Democratic county commission candidate Bill Elliott is strongly favored by responding voters over Republican candidate Thomas N. Valliant.

Participation in the poll was low, with a total 40 responses received by Friday's deadline. Voter turnout during June's primary election was also considered low.

Not every issue in the poll received a response on each one received.

Democratic candidate Elliott received 24 votes in his favor, while Valliant received 13. The races in Districts I and II, however were very close.

In District I, Democratic candidate Ralph Dunlap received 19 responses and Republican candidate Monroy Montes received 18. In District II Republican candidate Stirting T. Spencer received 17 and Democratic candidate C.O. Chuck Rominger III received 18.

Poll participants did not appear to be voting along party lines. Less than half the responses showed a straight preference for either all Republican or all Democratic candidates.

The number one issue facing the county, according to respondents, is solid waste, while county roads and zoning were viewed as equally unimportant.

Solid waste was considered the number one issue by 23 respondents and as the number two issue by 10. County roads was ranked either fourth or fifth by a total 29 respondents and completion of the county zoning ordinance was ranked fourth or fifth by 23 respondents.

High quality health care and diversification of the local economy were ranked even in importance as the second most important issues facing the county.

Almost every respondent agreed with the statement that he or she would participate in a recycling program coordinated by county government. Only one respondent indicated they were undecided and zero responses were in disagreement.

Interestingly, most respondents believe it is economically possible to operate a landfill in Lincoln County in spite of previously published reports of the large costs and high liability in sanitary waste disposal.

Only seven disagreed with the statement, seven were undecided and 23 agreed a landfill was economically possible in Lincoln County.

Most respondents also agreed they would be willing to pay more for safe solid waste disposal, with a slight preference given to a user fee charged for disposal based upon the amount of garbage.

Only seven disagreed with paying more for solid waste disposal, five were undecided and 27 agreed they were willing to pay more.

A user fee based on the amount of garbage received 17 votes, a flat tax rate assessed county wide received eight and a flat monthly fee received nine.

In the other statement dealing with solid waste, poll respondents clearly agreed that it was county government's responsibility to provide information regarding solid waste and recycling to the public.

Again, those disagreeing with the statement numbered only three and only three were undecided; 33 agreed that it was county government's responsibility to provide this information.

Although diversification of the local economy was considered important by those responding to the poll, nearly all respondents agreed that tourism needs to continue to be emphasized; 33 agreed with the statement, four disagreed and one was undecided.

County roads were ranked by respondents as the least important issue. Agreement with the statement that most county roads are in at least good of better condition was at 20 with 10 respondents undecided. Nine disagreed with the statement.

Most people also agreed that the county zoning ordinance needs to be implemented as soon as possible, in spite of the issue's low ranking by the same respondents.

Mayor disbands, appoints board

The Ruidoso Village Council began the reconstruction of the Lodgers Tax Advisory Committee on Monday by dissolving the current membership during a special meeting.

Mayor Victor Alonso said New Mexico state statutes and village ordinance require that the Lodgers Tax Committee be made up of two members from lodging establishments, two members from tourist related businesses and one member at large. He said the current committee did not meet the law.

Alonso recommended the current members be removed in order to appoint new members that meet the laws requirements. Councilor Al Junge made the motion to remove the current members with the exception of recently appointed member Ed Hyman, and let the Mayor make new appointments. The motion carried unanimously.

Alonso thanked the current members of the committee for their service and civic mindedness.

According to Ruidoso meteorologist Bill Hostetter, the weather for today will be mostly cloudy and a little cooler with occasional rain and thunder showers. Tonight will also be cloudy and cool with a chance of showers. Friday, cloudy to partly cloudy with continued cool temperatures with a chance of showers.

Precipitation probabilities are 80 percent today, 50 percent tonight and 30 percent Friday. Precipitation totals: year to date 8.17 inches; minus 0.23 from normal; month to date, 2.53, plus 1.10.

The outlook for Saturday through Monday expects warmer conditions with showers decreasing on Saturday and Sunday. Temperatures will be a little below seasonal averages.

FROM THE ALMANAC: Ruidoso's wettest July occurred in 1950 when a monthly total of 10.86 inches was measured.

Vehicle is lost and then found

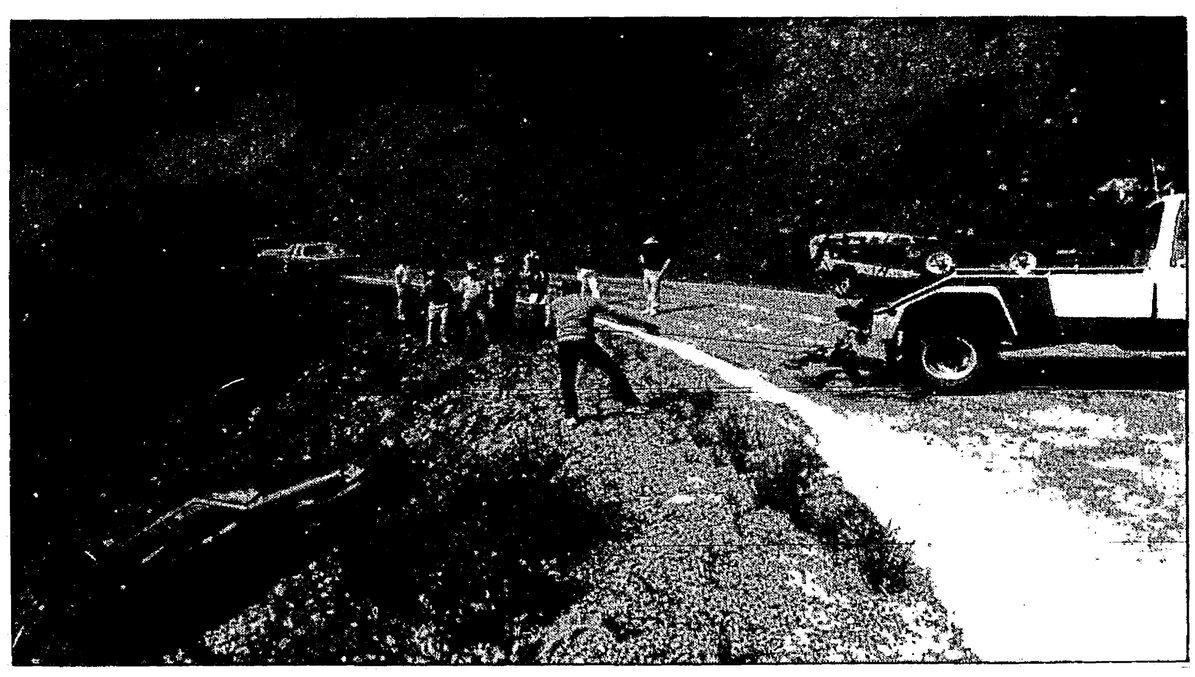
by YVONNE LANELLI
Special to The News

A late-model car, reported stolen Sunday, was found Monday morning abandoned and unoccupied 50 feet below the roadbed on Ski Run Road.

The 1987 Hyundai was discovered in an upright position in an area of loose rock below milepost 6. It was unclear why the car went down the embankment, according to New Mexico State Police, who investigated the incident. The pavement showed no skid marks, and the car displayed no evidence of having rolled over.

Cynthia Hill of Portales reported the car stolen at 9:50 p.m. Sunday. Hill told Ruidoso Police the car had been parked in front of KBUY radio station in Pinetree Square.

At 8:30 a.m. Monday, State Police were notified that a vehicle matching that description was off the road halfway to Ski Apache Resort. Lincoln County Wrecker was dispatched and recovered the vehicle about 10:30 a.m. Officers verified it was the stolen vehicle and that it had been "hotwired."



A 1987 Hyundai is recovered off Ski Run Road. Paul Saenz of Lincoln County Wrecker uses a winch to retrieve the car that was reported missing Sunday.

proved a vacation of 2,066 square feet of street right of way adjoining Lot 1 Enchanted Hills Subdivision.

Planning administrator Cleatus Richards told the council that Kirkman Road had a right of way of 70 feet, while the right of way on Heath Drive was 50 feet. He said the exaggerated right turn radius onto Kirkman Road was not necessary.

Richards said the property owner, Hurshel Harding, will pay 50 cents per square foot for the excess right of way area. All easements for existing utilities will be retained.

During departmental reports, Norwood gave a report on the village's subsidy of Mesa Airlines. Norwood reported that in June, Mesa flew 77.13 block hours. At $300 a block hours, that resulted in expenses of $23,139. During that same time revenues were $9,459, leaving the village with a subsidy of $13,679.50 for the month of June.

He reported in the first nine days in July, Mesa had flown 45.69 block hours which translated into $13,707 in expenses. Revenues during the first nine days of July were $9,558, which left a subsidy of $4,149. Total subsidy so far, according to Norwood, is $17,828.50.

Norwood said as of now the village has not paid a penny of that subsidy. He said if the outlook for July and August continues to improve the village may not have to pay any money.

Mayor Alonso said there were still rumors going around that the golf course was using municipal water. He reiterated those rumors are not true.

Alonso also said recent rains had brought about some runoff problems at the golf course site. He said because the golf course is in an immature state without a lot of grass, there is some overflow off the property. He said village consulting engineer John Shaw and planning administrator Cleatus Richards were evaluating possible drainage problems and would approach the golf course architect about correcting them on an engineering level.

In other action before the village council on Tuesday night:

—Councilors set their next regular meeting of July 31 as the date for a public hearing for Ordinance 90-7 which would repeal the ordinance establishing the Economic Development Advisory Board (EDAB). The EDAB is being dissolved because its duties were duplicated by that of the Lodgers Tax Advisory Committee.

—Mayor Alonso recommended to the village council the names of new appointees to the Lodgers Tax Advisory Committee. They are Jay Francis, Slover Cape, Pat Morrison and Mark Doth. Current member Ed Hyman will be the at-large member. The council previously dissolved the current membership because it did not conform to state statutes (see related story).

—The council heard again from Ann Mahaney who the village had agreed to help in finding out who the owner of the property next to the Sierra Mall belongs to. Mahaney's property borders the mall property and she says the property is being damaged because no retaining wall was ever built along that section.

Village attorney John Underwood told Mahaney there was a sale of the property after it emerged from bankruptcy court, but there was also a redemption period and they could find out the legal owner until after that period was over. Underwood said there is no guarantee the new ower will comply with the village's request to bring the property up to code.

Mahaney asked if a permit was ever issued on the job. Planning administrator Richards said there is no record of any permit. Mahaney asked why they weren't asked to stop if there was no permit. She also asked why the 1986 council didn't require the developer to backfill and put up a retaining wall all the way around the property.

—Councilors approved seven sets of minutes: the June 12 regular meeting, the June 15 special meeting, the June 21 special meeting, the June 22 special meeting, the June 26 regular meeting, the June 28 special meeting and the July 9 special meeting.

"Who authorized this much work," Mayor Alonso said jokingly.

New Ruidoso village manager Charles Norwood is officially sworn into office by village clerk Tammie Maddox during Tuesday night's village council meeting. Norwood comes to Ruidoso from Wylie, Texas where he was the city manager.

But enough people were undecided about the zoning ordinance to make this issue one that is still up in the air. 20 agreed with the statement, eight disagreed and 10 were undecided.

On the issue of taxes, most people agreed they do not want to pay more taxes in spite of the fact the state has refused the county funds for not using its entire taxing capacity. 21 agreed with the statement they do not want to pay more taxes for more services, nine disagreed and eight were undecided.

The issue of a by-pass around historic Lincoln has respondents split.

The News is aware of how complicated the issue is and what is entailed in the construction of such a by-pass, but the statement was not intended to address construction problems.

Nineteen respondents agreed a by-pass route was needed, but 12 disagreed and six were undecided. Some respondents wrote on their forms a reduction in speed limit was preferable to a by-pass.

Regarding watersheds, respondents agreed cooperation with federal agencies is necessary to improve local watersheds; 33 agreed, two disagreed and two were undecided.

The Election '90 poll is not a scientific poll and its results cannot be interpreted to represent the sentiments of Lincoln County voters. This is especially true considering the low participation in the poll.

However, when The News begins interviews with the candidates, the issues in the poll and how you, the local readers, responded to those issues will be used as a guide to find out where the candidates stand.

The Ruidoso News urges readers to participate in the next Election '90 poll, which will be appearing soon.

small Texas towns like Abernathy and Mexia, to larger Gulf coast cities like Harlingen.

Norwood said after spending a number of years on the Texas Gulf coast, he was tired of fighting hurricanes, mosquitoes and smelling the scent of petrochemicals. He decided to leave the coast and headed for the Metroplex area of Dallas and Fort Worth.

He settled in last year as the city manager in Wylie, Texas. Norwood described it as "a big bedroom city northeast of Dallas."

However fate was to play a hand in bringing Charles Norwood to Ruidoso. A couple of months ago, he was back in Slaton to attend the funeral of his father-in-law. While there he happened to look through a Lubbock paper and noticed the advertisement for the village manager's position in Ruidoso.

He said he had a good job in Wylie, but a person has to be happy.

"I would have left any town I was in to come to this job," he said.

Norwood got an application, sent it in and was called in for an interview by the village council. Several weeks later, he and his wife, Karen, were on their way to Ruidoso.

While he was the city manager in Wylie, Norwood was involved with expanding the city's waste waster collection system, closing the city's landfill because of state mandates, and working with the city's personnel policies. All problem areas the Village of Ruidoso has dealt with over the past year.

He said after 28 years as a city manager there are very few problems he hasn't dealt with. His experiences have helped him see problems immediately and not be blindsided by them. Norwood said having dealt with problems in other cities, he hopes to bring new ideas to solution of those problems.

"That kind of experience is what I can offer to the Village of Ruidoso," Norwood said.

The Texas Tech University graduate said Ruidoso's organization and problems are identical to those he has seen in other cities.

"It's no different from any town I've been in," he said.

One thing Norwood admitted that is different from his previous jobs, are the laws governing and impacting municipalities. Having spent most of his professional career in the State of Texas, he said he has had to check New Mexico law before make a couple of decisions.

On his first day at his new job, Norwood held a staff meeting with village employees and explained his philosophy of management.

He said he has an open door policy toward employees and citizens, and feels that village employees should be responsive to citizen's needs, since they are the ones who pay the salaries.

Norwood told village employees he expects them to be at work on time, be at work everyday, when possible, and don't procrastinate. He said he is impressed with the caliber of employees the Village of Ruidoso has, and sees no problems working with them as well as the village council.

Norwood said being the manager of a community with a fluctuating population like Ruidoso doesn't change the way you manage things, just the way you think about them. He said the manager has to think of things on the higher end of the population, and apply more planning to that thinking.

One of the things Norwood said he would like to see the Village of Ruidoso develop is a good five-year growth plan. He said he has looked at that plan in his mind, but has put nothing down on paper yet. He said following a good five year plan can provide a blue print on growth and how to handle it.

He also said he would like to update and improve the village's infrastructure and become involved in some type of economic development. Norwood is a former member of the Jefferson County, Texas, Economic Development Commission.

He said as the Ruidoso continues to grow, the village has to keep upgrading it's services.

"We've got a big job ahead of us," he said.

An avid jogger, Norwood said the hotel, civic events center and golf course, with its jogging trail, will be a complement to the tourist related atmosphere of Ruidoso.

In addition to jogging, he said he enjoys gardening and reading. He said he and his wife also enjoy playing bridge.

The couple have two sons, both of whom are on their own. Their son Randy is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin and is currently with the Texas Air Control Board in Beaumont, Texas. Their other son Steve is a graduate of Sam Houston State University in Huntsville, Texas, and is currently the assistant city manager in Euless, Texas.

Besides his involvement with economic development, Norwood is also a past president of the Jefferson County Toastmasters, past board member of both the Port Neches, Texas, Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce. He has been affiliated with the Texas City Management Association, the International City Management Association, and the Government Finance Officers Association.

When talking with Norwood, his enthusiasm for his work clearly comes through. He is particularly happy to be working in Ruidoso.

"A new manager coming in, regardless of what city, you have to fall in love with that community to be successful," he said. "The reason I'm so enthusiastic is it's one deal in a lifetime. It's nice to say you live in Ruidoso."

Norwood said he will listen to the problems and complaints of the citizens of Ruidoso. He added that he would extend an open invitation to the citizens of Ruidoso to provide input and help with planning.

"I'll do my dead level best to manage their funds as I would manage my own funds," Norwood said. "I do that, I'll accomplish my objective in Ruidoso."

Board of Educaton seeks to raise graduation rates

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso schools want to increase the graduation rate by five percent during each of the next three years.

During its regular meeting Tuesday the Ruidoso Board of Education announced a series of goals as part of its mission statement.

Board secretary Lynn Willard told the other members the goals will help provide accountability for the board because each one has a time line to follow.

For example, the board has not specifically addressed the drop-out rate from Ruidoso High School in the past, said Willard.

Now the goal is to increase the graduation rate by five percent each year for the next three years.

Other goals include increasing scores on standardized tests by one percentile over the next year.

Superintendent Mike Gladden cautioned the board that although increasing test scores is a worthy goal, placing too much emphasis on standardized tests can create problems in the future.

Gladden said if teachers receive too much pressure from administrators to improve test scores, the teacher begins to teach for the test and not for a child's benefit.

A committee will be established to evaluate whether or not a smoke-free environment is desirable in the Ruidoso Schools, and if so, how to accomplish this.

A smoke-free environment is one of the goals the board is considering to improve the quality of the learning environment and the facilities.

The committee will be made up of teachers, administrators, board members, students and parents.

The board also wants to expand the availability of counseling at all the school sites by first increasing the counseling personnel at the middle school with a half-time position.

The board approved on a three-to-one vote a contract for security services with Mountain Security.

District security was previously provided by New Mexico Security, but the company wanted to raise its fees from $300 each month to more than $600. The board tabled action on the contract at its last regular meeting until more information was provided.

Since then, the company has gone out of business, said Gladden. Mountain Security will provide the service at $300 each month with a minimum of four visits at each school each day and a maximum of seven visits.

Gladden informed the board that there were 10 break-ins during the year before the time when the district contracted for security services, and there were seven break-ins during the year with security services.

Board vice president Don Swalander voted no on the agreement and said he didn't believe it was necessary to have security services.

The board approved an activity transportation agreement with S&S Transportation for athletic events and other field trips.

S&S is guaranteed 12,000 miles at $1.65 per mile with meals for the driver purchased or provided for by the school district.

A procedure for each site to request transportation will be worked out for the entire district, said Gladden.

In other business the board:

—Approved the minutes of the last regular meeting.

—Approved the checks.

—Listened to an update on the middle school remodeling project.

—Heard a report from Gladden that the school will participate in the easement insurance with the Village of Ruidoso for a bike-and-walk path near the White Mountain area.

—Accepted the resignations of Ridge Bowden, math teacher and coach at the high school, and of Nelda Montes, 874 Indian education aide at the middle school.

—Approved the recommendations to hire Paula Papponi as principal at the middle school and Mike Kakuska as principal at the high school.

—Approved the recommendations to hire Margaret Mascarenaz as special education teacher on the middle school; Diane Curry as special education teacher at White Mountain Intermediate School; Zeph Roberson as math teacher and coach at the high school; and Barry Lucy as math teacher and coach at the high school.

—Approved a resolution for the sale of the Greyhound bus.

—Opened bids for janitorial supplies and office machines, turning the bids over to Gladden for review and recommendation.

—Called for bids on milk and meat products for the cafeterias for the the next school year, and for computer and wiring work in the district.

—Approved Mike Gladden to be authorized to sign as fiscal agent for 1990-91.

—Approved contracts with Region IX.

—Approved joint powers agreements for Indian Education Center for Excellence and with the New Mexico Research and Study Council.

—Approved a finalized budget change for an increase in the beginning cash balance.

—Approved cash transfers.

—Granted permission to continue leasing a Chevrolet Corsica for $200 each month.

—Scheduled a special board meeting for 7:30 a.m. Friday, July 27, at the Administration Office to award bids.

School board members Don Swalander (left), Stormy Edwards and Lynn Willard sit at the new board table during Tuesday's regular meeting.

Chamber sets annual awards

Five Ruidoso businesses have been nominated for the Hn'Zhu'Ne beautification award presented annually through the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

The award will be presented at the annual banquet meeting of Chamber members and guests at the Flying J. Ranch, Sunday evening.

"The program will be mostly entertainment," Jerry Watts, executive director of the Chamber, said. Plaques will be presented to individuals who have contributed a great deal to Chamber and Ruidoso development during the past year.

The beautification award is presented to a business that has done major renovation during the year. Nominees are Fenton's Gallery, Skier's Choice Ski Shop, Rainbow Lake Fun Park, Casa Blanca Restaurant and Winner's Circle Lounge.

Chamber members vote by ballot for the business members think have done the most to dress up buildings or operations.

Outgoing Chamber president, Ronnie Paulger, will be recognized. Ron Wall is the 1990-91 prexy.

Entertainment at the annual banquet will be by the Flying J Wranglers. The Flying J Ranch, north of Ruidoso, normally is closed on Sunday evenings; the Chamber will take over exclusively, Sunday, starting at 6:30.

Reservations will be taken until mid-afternoon, Friday, by calling 257-7395.

The banquet is a family affair. Children are most welcome.

Get ready for Christmas in July

Women of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount have been baking, "crafting," candy-making and otherwise working toward the annual Christmas in July Bazaar, July 21.

Members of St. Anne's Guild annually stage the event at the church in Palmer Gateway.

The day includes a gourmet luncheon from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. that Saturday. Bazaar doors open at 9 a.m.

In a letter to Lincoln County Episcopalians, Carolyn Hall, co-chairman of baked goods, says, in part:

"Sheila Crawley and her nimble-fingered group have made a mountain of beautiful arts and crafts. Diane Whiteley and her gourmet gang have the luncheon ready to pop in the oven.

"The little old toffee makers are close to their goal of 100 slabs (350 pounds). And 70 packages of pasta are bagged and tagged. Now, what is needed is a concerted effort on everyone's part to bake, mix, knead, pat, roll and otherwise fill out the baked goods pantry."

Proceeds from the Bazaar go to many causes. Last year, the Assurance Home for abused children in Roswell benefitted as did Ruidoso Meals on Wheels, the Lincoln County Food Bank and the Mescalero grade school.

The Bazaar this year will have three themes, Southwest, Country and Victorian.

The luncheon menu will include "Southwest" Chicken Spaghetti, salad, dessert and beverage for $4.50.

Patrons may obtain tickets for a bronze sculpture by Vic Winter, hand-dressed dolls by Lis Cooper and an heirloom, hand-embroidered tablecloth.

County counts down landfill closing

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The clock is running down on the Lincoln County landfill which may close the first week in August.

Although the county and other municipalities have contracted for household waste disposal, the question remains what area contractors will do with their non-compactable waste.

"They will get excited if they don't have a place to put it," said Gary McCaslin during a regular meeting Monday of the county commission. McCaslin is the southeast regional director for the Environmental Improvement Division.

One alternative is the Capitan landfill which will be changed from a Class B site, accepting household waste, to a Class C site for construction waste.

The Village of Capitan already filed a letter of intent with EID to operate the landfill there as a Class C, but a response from the state agency has not yet been received, said Capitan Mayor Frank Warth.

During Monday's county commission meeting, Commissioner Karon Z. Petty suggested different types of roll-off containers that are able to accept non-compactable waste be placed at the present landfill site, although this may increase costs to users.

County manager Nick Pappas told the commission the present county landfill at Fort Stanton mesa is receiving dumptruck loads of contractors waste.

Although the county may feel some pressure to provide disposal services to contractors, the responsibility lies with the governmental entity in charge of the area where the waste is generated.

County attorney J. Robert Beauvais read the EID regulation which states "The state, and each municipality, county, or cooperative association shall provide a means to dispose of solid waste generated within its respective jurisdiction ..."

Because most construction is probably occurring in Ruidoso, Beauvais suggested the Village of Ruidoso shares considerable responsibility in providing adequate disposal opportunities for building contractors.

Petty added that considerable construction is going on in the Alto area, which is in the county.

Laws already exist that allow subdivisions, unincorporated rural areas and other neighborhood-like areas to create tax assessment districts in which each district can contract for solid waste disposal and generate the revenues to pay for the service.

As the situation stands now, everyone in Lincoln County pays for solid waste disposal in the county. If a person lives in Ruidoso, that person pays for both collection services in the village as well as in the county, in spite of the fact the person does not benefit from the county service.

Tax assessment districts may be the way to go because consumers will have greater control over who pays for what services, said Beauvais.

Pappas told the commission he spoke with R.A. Ross of Sun Valley, an area where commissioners had removed dumpsters because of some citizen complaints.

Pappas said the Sanitation District Board for Sun Valley conducted a meeting July 4 and Ross later called Pappas to tell him it was the county's responsibility to provide solid waste collection.

Ross told The News Friday there was no meeting and he would not comment on any discussion regarding solid waste.

The commission agreed to continue the contract for solid waste collection with Southwest Disposal.

Also, a workshop is being planned to meet with Southwest representatives and it is hoped to meet with other area elected and appointed officials to continue the spirit of cooperation between the groups that began earlier in the summer.

During the reports from elected officials, county clerk Martha Proctor said she discovered a recycling operator in Albuquerque that could take paper from the county.

The recycling agent will pay five cents per pound for computer paper, two cents per pound for copy paper, one-half cent per pound for colored paper and 35 cents per pound for aluminum, said Proctor.

Language in the Solid Waste Act, passed by the last state legislature, indicates changes in the procurement code will be made to allow local governments and school districts to show favoritism for recycled products. These entities will also have to begin recycling a portion of their paper, according to the Act.

Transportation costs will eat up any funds generated at this time by any recycling effort by the county.

"We knew it wouldn't be economical at the start," said Commissioner Robert E. Hemphill. "I think we're going to have to bite the bullet and start doing it."

Pappas suggested the commission wait a month to see how much paper the county government generates.

The commission also gave final approval to the budget for fiscal year 1990-91.

Some items were adjusted because less money was coming in, or because a particular line item received a grant.

Of particular interest was the Bonito Fire Department received less money than was anticipated, but the other county volunteer fire departments received more money than was expected.

For example, the Fort Stanton Fire Department was budgeted for $19,941 but will receive $32,658; Hondo was budgeted at $13,950 but will receive $21,771; Lincoln was budgeted at $17,546 but will receive $34,578; Nogal was budgeted at $15,568 but will receive $24,333; and Glencoe/Palo Verde was budgeted at $13,950 but will receive $21,771.

The commission approved an agreement with the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County, but also instructed Beauvais to investigate the legality of putting the issue of funding the development on the November ballot.

The agreement provides for the county to fund the group with one-quarter mill guaranteed, and with an additional one-quarter mill provided the money can be matched with funds from other sources.

The Economic Development Corporation will be receiving $37,500 from the Village of Ruidoso, said president Don Shaw.

Petty said it was her impression the funding was conditional on the issue being on the ballot for Lincoln County voters.

The county received a statement from the Department of Finance and Administration advising that placing the issue on a ballot may not be legal.

The commission also allowed Pappas to retain Joe Shane of PAJO Engineering to assist with subdivision road evaluations.

Previous engineering reports on many of these roads are two years old, said Pappas.

The commission also wishes the engineer to provide information on what needs to be done to what roads in order to bring them up to county specifications.

In other business the commission:

—Accepted a request from Bill McCarty who believes a dangerous problem exists on Gavilan Canyon Road. More bicyclists are using the road, which is also traveled by large, tractor-trailer rigs. The commission instructed Pappas to coordinate efforts with the Village of Ruidoso to address the problem.

—Rejected bids for animal pens at the county fair grounds. New specifications will be drafted and new proposals requested.

—Accepted the proposal for auctioneer services from J.T. Winiford who will charge 15 percent of the gross receipts up to $50,000, plus advertising costs paid by the county estimated at $900-$1,000.

—Approved the minutes from the workshop of May 24, the workshop and special canvass of votes of June 7, the special meeting May 24, and regular meeting of June 11. The approval of the minutes of the June 25 regular meeting were tabled.

—Heard reports from department heads and elected officials. Lincoln County Sheriff James McSwane reported he collected $103,000 from other governmental agencies for the county by housing other prisoners in the county jail.

—Conducted a closed session on litigation.

HERB SECKLER

Readers get a chance on Seckler's new book

"Hoofnotes from the Downs" by Herb Seckler is a small book packed with the history and humor of horse racing.

"... this book is neither on how to pick winners nor on how to bet without losing the farm," says Seckler, who has lived in Bent for the past 16 years.

The author, who also wrote "Ruidoso Coutrysides," says the experience of researching and doing the interviews for this book was great fun. That enjoyment shows up in his renderings of those interviews with people like 84-year-old Willie Hayhurst.

"Hoofnotes from the Downs" is available in area bookstores.

Magic Show is this Saturday

Ruidoso's Evening Lions Club presents a magic show at 1 p.m., Saturday, July 14, at the First Christian Church on Hull Road at Gavilan Canyon.

Illusionist Dan Welbaum is the magician who has delighted children throughout the Southwest, according to a news release.

Match play tournament slated for Cree

Entries are coming in from all across the Southwest for the Shorty Hornbuckle Match Play Invitational to be played August 6 through 9 at Cree Meadows Country Club.

The 72-hole match play championship has been one of the most popular and fun-filled tournaments around for many years.

Cree Meadows Country Club golf professional Jack Warlick is expecting around 10 flights with 16 players in each.

The schedule for the tournament begins on Monday, August 6, with championship and first flight qualifying, and general practice rounds. There will be a pairing party at 8 p.m.

On Tuesday, August 7, the serious work starts as the first round matches start at 8 a.m. That evening there will be cocktails and a dinner/dance beginning at 7 p.m.

On Wednesday, August 8, the second round matches kick off at 8 a.m. There will be a ladies luncheon at noon.

The semifinals and finals will take place on Thursday, August 9.

To be eligible for the tournament, all contestants must have established United States Golf Association handicaps or equivalent. All flights, except the championship and first flight, are determined by handicap. Championship and First Flight contestants will be determined by an 18-hole qualifying round.

Entry fees for the match play invitational is $160 per person. That fee includes all activities, but not cart fees.

For an application, write Jack Warlick, PGA Professional, Cree Meadows Country Club, P.O. Box 2274, Ruidoso, New Mexico, 88345. The telephone number is (505) 257-5815.

Warriors football reserved seat tickets go on sale soon

Local football fans need to remember that reserved seats for the upcoming 1990 Warrior Football season go on sale August 6 at the High School office.

Between August 6 and 10, the reserved seats will be on sale to those people who had purchased seats last season. On August 13, the remaining seats go on sale to the general public. The cost of reserve seat is $35, the same as last year.

This year, there will be five home football games for the Warriors. The Warriors open the season on August 31, with the Artesia Bulldogs. The High School office is open from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

We Take the Mystery Out of Finding and Financing a Home

Looking for a home? Our "Best Buyer Guidebook" makes a good compass. Buying a home can be a frustrating, nearly overwhelming process — but Coldwell Banker, SDC Realtors provides you with this tool to make it easier. And we give you skilled, experienced help — every step of the way.

When you come to us, your personal agent will be someone like Doug Siddens. You can expect the best from your agent, starting with a careful listener. We'll find out what you want and need in a home. We'll help you find your price range. House hunting will be made easier for you with the House Hunting Worksheets in your copy of the "Best Buyer Guidebook." This will let you take notes on each home you visit and keep track of the little details that might make a big difference in your selection. You can compare the homes later, when you have the time for quiet reflection, using the worksheets. Your Guidebook also contains:

- An interest rate factor chart to help you calculate your monthly principal and interest payments.
- Explanations of financing methods like fixed-rate and adjustable-rate mortgages.
- A worksheet to help you estimate your buyer's costs.
- A chart that makes the entire financing process more understandable.
- A glossary of terms.

Once you've found your new home, your agent will assist you in choosing financing. We'll estimate your closing and monthly payments, so there are no surprises. We guide you through the home financing process, from mortgage loan application through closing.

Your Coldwell Banker, SDC Realtors agent is with you to take the mystery out of finding and financing a home, from the first friendly get-acquainted meeting to the happy day you get your front door key.

Golfing in Ruidoso

Golf in the '90s: America's #1 sport

by BRIAN BLALOCK
Ruidoso News Sports Editor

People generally have three opinions toward the game of golf: they love it, they hate it, or they don't care one way or the other.

Whether you love it, hate it or just don't care, the fact is golf is the fastest growing sport in America.

Columnist Art Buchwald said it best, golf is the obsession of our time.

While tennis and jogging seem to have had their time as the nation's number one activity, more people than ever are finding out golf is the sport of the future.

Figures from the National Golf Foundation (NGF), a non-profit organization dedicated to the advancement of golf, show that from 1970 to 1989 the number of golfers in America rose from just over 10 million to close to 25 million. Last year, 24.7 million Americans played at least one round of golf. And those numbers continue to rise.

Golfers come in all age groups, from all incomes and from all parts of this country. The common misconception is that golf is a game played by rich old men at country clubs. That is far from the truth.

Let's take the first part: rich. Last year, the average household income for golfers in America was $45,100. Hardly what most people would call rich. Americans with incomes over $70,000 do make up 20 percent of the people who play golf. But, one-third of all golfers in America have an annual household income of less than $30,000.

How about the second part: old. Only one-fourth of the golfers in this country are over 50 years of age. The national average is 38 years of age. In some states, golfers over 50 do make up one-third of the total number of golfers, in others they make up less than 20 percent.

One interesting note, the fastest growing group of golfers in America is people between 20 and 29 years old. People between those ages are almost twice as likely to take up the game of golf as any other group.

Now, about that third part: men. While men make up three-fourths of all the golfers in America, nearly half of the new golfers are women.

Estimates are that by the year 2000, there could be as many as 30 million golfers in the United States.

At the same time the number of golfers in America has risen, the number of golf courses in America has stayed close to the same, from around 10,000 in 1970 to a total of 12,658 at the end of 1989.

In a recent NGF study, it was found the United States was constructing fewer than 150 new course each year. If estimates of 30 million golfers by the year 2000 are true, the NGF estimates the United States would have to open one new golf course per day until the year 2000 just to meet that demand.

Why has golf grown so much in America and why has it become such a big business? The answer is the same color as most golf courses: money!

By the end of the last decade, golf accounted for $20 billion of this nation's annual gross national product.

Nationally, direct golfer spending on such things as equipment and playing privileges account for less than 40 percent of all money spent on golf. Three-fourths of direct golfer spending goes toward golf course operation, while the remainder goes for things like clothing, golf clubs, golf balls, accessories and other golf related paraphernalia.

The biggest portion of that $20 billion, 47 percent of it, goes toward golf related spending on such things as travel, lodging and real estate. Surveys by the NGF show that nearly one in three golfers take regular golf vacations. Those same golfers make an average of 2.2 trips annually and each trip lasts a total of 12.4 days.

Spending by non-golfers on such things as a home in a golf course development and other various items make up the rest of the $20 billion.

But how does the State of New Mexico fit into the big picture of golf in America? Not good, but not bad either.

Nationally, New Mexico ranks forty-second in the total number of golf courses with 79. Florida ranks first with 977 courses, California second with 835, New York third with 793, and Texas fourth with 753.

In terms of the estimated number of golfers by state, New Mexico with 177,000 golfers ranks thirty-three out of 49 states. There is insufficent data to determine the number of golfers in both Alaska and Hawaii, and the District of Columbia is counted as a state. California tops the list with estimates of 2,624,000 golfers.

The NGF estimates of those 177,000 golfers, 45,000 are women and 38,000 are over the age of 50.

Among other states, New Mexico ranks in the middle of the pack in categories like number of municipal golf courses, private golf course and nine hole courses.

But, in the category of total number of golfers to total golf holes, New Mexico was third from the bottom with 3,000 golfers for every golf hole. Only California and Utah had a worse ratio of golfers to golf holes with 3,700.

While estimates of total revenues from golf in New Mexico were unavailable, figures from local golf professionals show that golf and golf-related sales generate more than $2.5 million in the local economy.

Those numbers may seem low to some, but remember the five Ruidoso area courses are dependent on the weather and are sometimes unplayable during the winter months.

There is also no way of measuring how much golf-related spending bring in to the economy of Ruidoso each year.

Actual figures on the total number of rounds played on the five courses are not available, but it would be safe to estimate that more than 100,000 rounds of golf are played here each year.

"We have no trouble filling the golf course five days a week," said Inn of the Mountain Gods golf pro Larry Huffman.

As far as who is playing on area courses, the percentage breakdown for each course are pretty close. Retirees seem to make up the largest percentage of people playing golf on area courses, as much as 50 percent on some courses. Business people and vacationers are the next highest group. Women make up between 15 and 20 percent of those playing golf on area courses. Junior golfers make up the smallest percentage on all the area course.

What does the future of golf look in Ruidoso? Local golf pros are optimistic.

Cree Meadows Country Club golf professional Jack Warlick said in the next 10 years, he would expect a 30 percent increase in the amount of golfers at Cree Meadows, and a 30 percent increase in the amount of golfers in America.

Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club golf professional Chuck Dunn said Alto has seen a growth rate of between five and 10 percent each year for the past seven years. He said golf will grow as the baby boomers move from more active sports, like tennis and jogging, to a sport that emphasizes camaraderie and social interaction.

Huffman said golf is entering an explosive stage and more people are coming into golf like never before. He said there is always room for growth at any course.

Carrizozo Golf Course manager Ted Turnbow said he has seen the number of people playing golf at his small course grow each year. He said more locals from Carrizozo and Capitan are playing golf, and he is seeing a lot more people coming to Carrizozo to play golf when they can't get on the bigger courses in Ruidoso.

The Ruidoso area is fortunate to have five uniquely different golf courses available to its many golfers. Only Albuquerque with its 12 different golf courses has more to offer New Mexico golfers than does the area around Ruidoso. If you add in the courses within 100 miles of Ruidoso, this area could give the Duke City a run for its money on being the golf capital of New Mexico.

Area golfers also are eagerly awaiting the completion of the new Sierra Blanca Golf Club on what was the old municipal airport.

In the coming weeks, The News will take an individual look at Cree Meadows Country Club, Alto Lakes and Country Club, The Inn of the Mountain Gods Country Club, The Carrizozo Golf Course, and the Innsbrook Village Country Club.

The News will give you a look at the course and its history, plus we will have an individual look at how the professionals at each course play each hole.

We will also take a look at the new Sierra Blanca Golf Club, scheduled to open either later this year or next summer. We'll show you the layout of the course, and talk with the architect about why certain holes were designed the way they were.

We hope you enjoy it!

The Pro Shop for the Inn of the Mountain Gods Golf Course is located behind the main hotel and convention center. Larry Huffman is the golf pro. The Inn course was rated in 1987 by Golf Digest magazine as the #1 course in New Mexico.

The Pro Shop at the Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club (above top) is located in the main clubhouse at Alto. Chuck Dunn is the golf professional and the Director of Golf at Alto. The Pro Shop at Cree Meadows Country Club is located in the back portion of the clubhouse. Jack Warlick is the golf professional at Cree Meadows.

9 fillies run in the Sweetheart

RUIDOSO DOWNS-Joanne Woodward's Ruffetta, a romping winner of an allowance race here on June 24, heads a field of 9 fillies and mares in Saturday's inaugural running of the Sweetheart Handicap.

The Sweetheart Handicap, a $25,000-added test at one mile, also lured Connie Canales' speedster Irishly and Fletcher Hall's classy Fly Dragoness. Ruffetta, a seven-year-old Kentucky-bred mare, was extra-sharp in her last outing. On that day, she led virtually every step of the way and stopped the clock in a fine final time of 1:33.3, while posting a 3 1/4-length victory in the 7 1/2-furlong test.

The bay daughter of Sharpen Up has been at the top of her game all meeting. In her previous start, Ruffetta finished second to tough Classy Deer in an invitational handicap, and before that, she was third in the First Lady Handicap at 6 furlongs.

Ruffetta, from the shedrow of leading thoroughbred trainer Doyal Roberts, has won 12 of 73 career starts and $96,809. Ruffetta will carry topweight of 123 pounds, and will spot the field from four to 11 pounds.

Irishly, based on her most recent outing, could be Ruffetta's main opposition. The New Mexico-bred speedster crushed an allowance field here on July 4, sprinting to a long early lead en route to a 4-length triumph in a rapid final clocking of 1:33.1. Irishly, a 4-year-old daughter of Irish Conn, is trained by Barry Germany.

Fly Dragoness, also from the stable of Roberts, finished second in the First Lady Handicap here on June 2, defeating stablemate Ruffetta by a nose. The 4-year-old daughter of Full Choke, has won 13 of 29 starts and more than $125,000. This will be her first test around two turns.

In Saturday's $78,000 Rainbow Futurity Consolation at 350 yards, Allred & Hubbard's Quick Fun and Terry Bell's Valid Proposal renew their rivalry and take on a field of eight other 2-year-olds.

Quick Fun, a lightly-raced son of Dash For Cash, has won both of his career starts, including a head-decision against Valid Proposal in the second heat of the June 28 time trials. Quick Fun is trained by Don Farris.

Valid Proposal, who was second, beaten only a head by Signed To Fly in the Grade 1 Kansas Futurity on May 27, has won three of eight career starts and more than $90,000. Leading quarter horse conditioner Jack Brooks trains the son of On A High.

Horses to Watch

MIGHTY BRIGHT: Has some back class, but has been running at the bottom of the barrel his last two starts. Showed signs of life in last start during a trip in which he was never really asked to run. This 5-year-old gelding should find a field he can beat at the $2500 claiming level very soon.

CASH LINK: Was much the best in the first start of his career. Was left standing at the gate, but closed like a bullet through the stretch. This Bob Arnett-trained colt will break his maiden in his next start.

DIAMONDS AND BUGS: Is going to be hard to beat in lover level 870 yard claiming races for the rest of the meeting. This 5-year-old gelding loves to win races, as he did in his last start when he romped home under a hand ride. He should pose for pictures a few more times this season.

MISSION TAKER: Needs to find a field of routers that comes up empty on early speed. If this 4-year-old gelding ever does, he should lead from flagfall to finish. His last race, when he ran third, was much better than it looks on paper.

OSO PRIETO: Ready to revert to the form that saw him win three of three starts in January of 1989. He ran a big race here last Sunday, and although he only posted a 1/2-length decision, he was by far the superior horse in the race.

Twinkle City wins 3 in row

RUIDOSO DOWNS-Twinkle City, rushing up to the lead along the rail, ulled away from the pack down the stretch to post a powerful 3-length victory in Monday's feature race.

The impressive sophomore daughter of Banner Sport has now won three of four lifetime starts. The explosive bay filly suffered the only loss of her career when she finished third in the Aspen Breeders' Cup here June 23.

Twinkle City, guided by leading thoroughbred jockey Joe Martinez for the first time, broke a step behind speedsters Slipofagirl and African Shadow.

For the first time in eight days, the Twin Trifecta was hit. There were 1,526 exchange tickets after the first half of the exotic wager when the first three favorites swept the third race. There were 22 winning tickets in the Twin Trifecta and the payoff was $5,050.40 for each winning ticket.

A pot of gold is somewhere over the Rainbow

The Rainbow Futurity will run for the 27th time on Sunday, July 15, at Ruidoso Downs Race Track. Following is the field of qualifiers who will compete for the $436,776.47 purse:

STRAIT TO THE BANK
Qualifying time: 17.465
Trainer: Jack Brooks
Probable Jockey: Jacky Martin
Owner: Jesse Garza (Mesquite, N.M.)

Devastated his field in the trials by 3-lengths in the fastest qualifying time. His time is tied for fastest 350-yard clocking of this meet. Signed To Fly won the Kansas Futurity on May 27 in 17.46. Has won his last three races by a combined 6-lengths. Failed to qualify for Kansas Futurity when his trial heat — which he won by 1 1/2-lengths — was run into a ferocious headwind. An explosive gate horse.

"The only horses I've ever trained that had that kind of speed away from the latch are Strawberry Silk (1989 Champion 2-year-old) and Mr. Master Bug (1982 Champion 2-year-old)," said Brooks.

Qualified for both the West Texas Futurity and the Sun Country Futurity, but finished off the board in each race after slow starts. One of the few horses in the finals not bred by current owners. Was sold at Ruidoso Horse Sales in 1989 for $40,000 by the John Shaw family. Brooks seeks to become second trainer in history to win Rainbow Futurity three times.

Brooks won the race in 1988 with Merganser and in 1984 with Heavenly. Martin has won the race twice, in 1988 on Merganser and in 1985 aboard Brigand Silk.

"If he runs like he did in the trials, he's going to be hard to beat — I guarantee it," said Brooks.

BY A DECK
Qualifying time: 17.490
Trainer: Glen Atkinson
Probable Jockey: Kenneth Hart.
Owner: Willie Talley (Athens, TX)

Captured eighth trial heat, considered one of the toughest in the history of this racetrack, by a head over Kansas Futurity winner Signed To Fly. Seven horses from the eighth trial heat qualified for finals. Entered the trials as a maiden, after finishing second in each of his first four career starts. Ran second to Rattle D Snap in West Texas Consolation at Sunland Park. Bred and raised by owner.

"When we were breaking this horse, he didn't show anything," Atkinson said. "He never won a work race. I don't think he ever came within 2-lengths of the winner. He wasn't showing anything when we left Brenham (Texas). But the owner said he was paid up for the futurities here, so we brought him anyway. If the owner had told me to turn him out, I wouldn't have had any problem with that. But now I'm glad the owner wanted to stick with him." Atkinson calls him easy to train and 100 percent sound. "I could've run him back the next day after the trials if I'd wanted to," Atkinson said. "I tried to hand walk him the day after his trial heat, but I couldn't do it. He was feeling too good. I had to put him on the walker."

Atkinson seeks to become the first trainer in history to saddle back-to-back Rainbow Futurity winners. Atkinson won the race with Deadly Dart last year.

"It's great to have a second go at it," Atkinson said. "We'd like to make a little history out here. He's got a real legitimate shot to win it." Hart seeks his first-ever Rainbow Futurity triumph.

SIGNED TO FLY
Qualifying time: 17.510
Trainer: Arnold Simmons
Probable Jockey: Alex Baldillez
Owner: Carlos Consoni (Sao Paulo, Brazil)

Winner of Kansas Futurity is only horse from that heat to encore in the Rainbow. Seeks to become first horse since 1981 (Special Effort) to win first two legs of quarter horse 2-year-old Triple Crown.

"Sure, we've thought about the Triple Crown," Simmons said. "But it's not something we're going to wash out over. We're just glad to be able to line up and run with them." Has won four of six lifetime starts. Had four-race winning streak snapped by By A Deck in time trials. "We weren't disappointed at all that we got beat in the trial heat," Simmons said. "To me, the worst thing in the world is to win a heat and not qualify." Broke from rail for the first time in his career in the time trials. "Alex (Baldillez) said he was really spooked by the rail. He kept trying to get away from it. He said he never could let him run," Simmons said.

Simmons, who has won the Kansas Futurity twice and the All American Futurity once, has never won Rainbow Futurity. Baldillez has never won the race either.

HES SPRINGIN EASY
Qualifying time: 17.570
Trainer: Jack Brooks
Probable Jockey: unknown
Owner: Brooks & Wells

Has won every other race in a six-race career. Ran fourth, beaten only by a neck in the West Texas Futurity. Finished seventh in the Sun Country Futurity. Usually quick away from gate; but broke a little late in his Rainbow time trial heat and ran third.

"He broke a little tardy in his time trial," Brooks said. "He's not like that. He's a great gate horse." Has a bit of a nasty temperament. "You have to handle him with care. He has a tendency to act up on you if you don't," Brooks said. "We try to keep him real calm or else he can use himself up before a race."

His 17.70 clocking was tied for fastest time of the two-day Rainbow elimination heats.

THE ROCKET BUG
Qualifying time: 17.660
Trainer: Dwayne "Sleepy" Gilbreath
Probable Jockey: Luke Myles
Owner: Marvin Barnes (Ada, OK)

Suffered first loss in three starts while finishing fourth in eighth heat of the Rainbow time trials. Debuted on March 2 in West Texas Futurity trials and won his heat while outrunning Valid Proposal, who ran second in the Kansas Futurity.

"He came back from his first race a little sore in the shins and we turned him out for about 45 days," Gilbreath said. Returned in Rainbow eliminations and won his heat by 1-length. Broke a little slow in Rainbow time trials. "He didn't break as well as he can," Gilbreath said. "About the second jump out of the gate he stumbled a bit." Gilbreath calls him an easy horse to work with. "He's no problem. He's all business."

Gilbreath won the Rainbow Futurity in 1982 with Yankee Win, his only victory ever in a 2-year-old Triple Crown race. Myles has never won the Rainbow Futurity. Owner bred and raised the colt himself.

BIG NINE OH
Qualifying time: 17.66
Trainer: Mel Karr
Probable Jockey: Mike Short
Owner: Mel Karr (Lubbock, TX)

The Cinderella horse of the finals. Karr, who has a PhD from the University of Illinois in animal nutrition, biochemisty and physiology, has a tiny stable of three horses. Breeding and training horses is just a hobby for Karr. He owns a consulting business, a machinery business and a chemical business.

"Training horses is kind of like golf for me," he said. "But this is harder than my other three businesses combined." The first racehorse Karr purchased — P.J. Jet — finished second in the All American Derby in 1980. On his obvious underdog role, Karr said, "It just takes one horse to win it." Karr swears Big Nine Oh is the second best horses in his stable behind the filly What A Party Doll, who fractured a knee here in her first outing over the track. "I know the filly can outrun this colt," he said.

Karr developed a special feed for his racehorses. Big Nine Oh's half-sister, My Sweet Ten, won the Black Gold Futurity at Blue Ribbon Downs and ran out $176,000. Karr says his colt is just ornery. "He won't walk into the walker. We have to back him in. Sometime he won't let you even lead him into the stall. But he's no problem at the starting gates — it just takes two men to push him in." Karr calls Big Nine Oh's race in the trials the worst of his career. "That was the first time he made any mistakes. He was moving his head around and veered in at the start."

MICHELLE LEIGHANN
Qualifying time: 17.66
Trainer: Don Farris
Probable Jockey: Jerry Nicodemus
Owner: Joan Dale Hubbard (Fort Worth, TX)

Finished second to Valid Proposal in the Kansas Futurity time trials in the first start of her career. Posted a 1-length victory in a quick time of 17.75 in the Rainbow elimination heats. Finished sixth in the eighth heat of the Rainbow time trials. One of two Dash For Cash sired horses in the finals.

Farris is only trainer to ever win the Rainbow Futurity three times. His Rainbow Futurity winners include Double Queen (1964), Streakin Six (1979) Meganette (1983). Nicodemus is the only jockey in history to win the Rainbow Futurity three times, and he seeks to become the first jockey in history to win the race in back-to-back years. His Rainbow Futurity winners include Deadly Dart (1989), Meganette (1983) and Rocket Wrangler (1970).

SPECIAL LEGEND
Qualifying time: 17.68
Trainer: Jack Brooks
Probable Jockey: unknown
Owner: Walt Fletcher (Lakin, KS)

One of only three horses to emerge in the finals from a trial heat other than the eighth race. Has won four of six starts, including time trial heats in the Sun Country, Kansas and now the Rainbow. The only qualifier not to benefit from a slight tailwind. There was virtually no wind during his fourth race trial heat. Has hinted of huge ability since his debut when he logged a 102 speed index in a maiden race at Sunland Park. Won his trial heat for the Sun Country Futurity, but finished eighth in the finals after a slow start.

"He fell flat on his face coming out of the gate in his elimination heat and still only got beat a length by Signed To Fly," Brooks said. One of two horses sired by Special Effort in the finals. Bred and raised by owner.

TYPHOON LAGOON
Qualifying time: 17.695
Trainer: Jerry Lazenby
Probable Jockey: Steve Fuller
Owner: Jay Brumbaugh

The seventh and final qualifier from the eighth heat of the time trials. The only maiden in the field. Was beaten a nose by undefeated Vital Streak in the Kansas Futurity Consolation. A big, immature colt, according to Lazenby.

"He just needs to mature," Lazenby said. "If he runs that race back that he ran in the Consolation, he'll sure be tough." Lazenby usually works this colt out before a race, but will change strategy before the Rainbow Futurity and just freshen him with morning gallops.

Lazenby has never won a 2-year-old Triple Crown race. He finished third in the Rainbow Futurity in 1988 with Okeydokey Baby. Fuller's only win in the Rainbow Futurity came in 1987 when he won aboard Dash For Speed.

PERFECTION OF CLASS
Qualifying time: 17.71
Trainer: Jack Brooks
Probable Jockey: unknown
Owner: Sandra Irvine (White Bear Lake, MN)

One of three finalists not to compete in the eighth trial heat. Won the seventh race trial heat handily. Has won half of her six lifetime starts. One of only two fillies in the finals. Qualified for the Sun Country Futurity, but finished sixth in the final after a slow start.

"She's shown a lot of talent all along," Brooks said. "From the word go, I thought she was one of my top 10 2-year-olds." Appears to be one of the most improved horses in the finals. Has won her last two races easily. "She's a little better gate horse than she used to be," Brooks said. "In the elimination trials she was sandwiched between horses. Then, at the end of the grandstand, she just shot away from them."

Was sold at the 1989 Ruidoso Horses Sales by Perfect Dash Partnership for $10,000.

CAR CARE TIPS
Presented By
RUIDOSO Ford Lincoln—Mercury
Pulling a boat or camping trailer at high speeds on Interstate highways may be a "piece of cake" for your tow vehicle but it's especially hard on small trailer tires and wheel bearings. Ruidoso Ford Lincoln Mercury has issued a warning to owners of these trailers: preventive maintenance is critical.
A small wheel may turn at triple the speed of a standard wheel. On a 2,000 mile trip it will have traveled the equivalent of 6,000 miles or more, at speeds of up to 200 mph.
Check tire inflation frequently and include the spare in the procedure.

Easily A Dozen is easy favorite

RUIDOSO DOWNS-Easily A Dozen, a winner in a division of the Rainbow Derby time trials in her last start, heads a field of nine in Friday's feature race.

The 350-yard dash is reserved for 3-year-olds and up and carries a purse of $5,500.

Easily A Dozen won the ninth of 11 Rainbow Derby Trial heats on June 21, but the final time of 22.09 was not fast enough for the finals or the consolation.

The 3-year-old daughter of Easy Dozen has captured four of 13 lifetime starts. In the time trials, the Glen Atkinson-trained miss defeated solid sophomores Handi Express and Ramble With Effort. Easily A Dozen, who was ninth in last year's Kansas Futurity, has earned in excess of $20,000.

Raise A Roula, second to multiple-stakes winner Six Shooter Tex in his last start at 550 yards, could provide Easily A Dozen with her stiffest competition. The six-year-old son of thoroughbred sire Roulade has won six of 26 lifetime starts and more than $40,000.

In an allowance race here June 16, the Steve Rigdon-trained gelding battled the length of the stretch against Six Shooter Tex before dropping a 1/2-length decision.

Miss Attorney could provide the surprise in this spot. In her most recent outing, the 5-year-old mare by Casady Casanova, finished fourth beaten only a half-length by the tough gelding Hottest Thing Going.

Trained by Benton Zwerschke, Miss Attorney has captured five of 26 career starts and bankrolled more than $50,000. The black mare ran sixth here in the Grade 3 Go Together Handicap on May 20 in her second outing of the year.

Capitan chooses new attorney and considers future of town's landfill

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Village of Capitan has a new attorney.

Village trustees Monday directed Capitan mayor Frank Warth to negotiate a contract for legal services with J. Robert Beauvais, who is the attorney for Lincoln County, the Town of Carrizozo and the Capitan-Carrizozo Natural Gas Association.

Don Dutton was formerly the attorney for the Village of Capitan.

Don Shaw, president of the Economic Development Corporation of Lincoln County approached the trustees to request financial support in the group's efforts to attract business to Lincoln County.

The county commission is funding the organization with a one-quarter mill guaranteed and another one-quarter mill if the funds are matched with money from other sources, said Shaw.

The Village of Ruidoso is giving $37,500 to the economic development group.

A budget meeting is planned for Monday, July 16, and discussion of what funds, if any, are available to provide the development group will occur then, said Warth.

Future growth in Capitan can be expected if a proposed Smokey Bear enhancement project is successful in time for the 50th anniversary of the national fire prevention program.

Howard Shanks and representatives of the National Forest Service and State Forestry described the program to the trustees and residents in attendance at Monday's meeting.

The program will be a nationwide effort to promote Smokey Bear and the history of fire prevention with Capitan being the center of attention.

There is also the possibility of establishing a historical museum in Capitan as well.

During discussion of solid waste collection proposals, Warth announced Capitan's intentions to reclassify its landfill from a Class B, accepting household waste, to a Class C for construction waste.

The Village at that time would take its household waste to Ruidoso for compaction and transportation to Roswell.

The county landfill at Fort Stanton Mesa could be closed as early as August 4.

Wayne Hobbs was the only respondent to the request for proposals for trash collection in Capitan. His proposal was for the same rate as the previous agreement.

Warth said Hobbs would be able to service the community during any transition period when the classification change occurs.

Capitan would still retain control over the landfill after it becomes a Class C site, said Warth.

Trustee Alfred Leroy Montes said he didn't like the idea of Ruidoso using Capitan's landfill.

"Would you pay for it?" asked Dr. Bernhard E. Reimann, who explained the large costs and liability smaller communities face in solid waste disposal.

A proposed rate schedule for the Class C site already exists. Capitan residents would have free use of the facility on Saturdays with a water bill.

"I think we're on the right track," said trustee Norman Renfro.

The trustees postponed action on the adoption of a 1/16 percent gross receipts sales tax to finance solid waste disposal. The tax is allowable without referendum under the Solid Waste Act.

Trustee Jimmy D. Wright suggested time be allowed for Capitan residents to discuss the tax.

Wright also noted using the tax will help Capitan in the future when state grant money is made available for solid waste.

"The question they will ask is what have you done for yourself," he said.

In other business the trustees:

—Approved a bid for animal control services by the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office.

—Will review proposals for the Smokey Bear Museum. Two proposal were received from current operator Willie Hobbs and from Kirt Temple.

—Approved the only bid for gravel submitted by H.N. LaRue and Sons.

—Approved ordinance 90-3 for the Taylor Annexation.

—Approved Jan Starns as Village Clerk on a probationary period.

—Reinstated the Village Solid Waste Commission with Reimann as chairman.

—Opted out of the New Mexico Retiree Health Care system.

—Discussed revision of the animal control ordinance to include licensing procedures for cats.

Joe Bowlin, of the Billy the Kid Outlaw Gang, prepares a hole for grave markers designating the grave sites of Dick Brewer and Buckshot Roberts who shot each other in a gun fight at the Blazer's Mill in Mescalero. The grave sites were discovered last year.

Unofficial results are in for 10K run

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Official results of the 10th Annual Smokey Bear Run were unavailable and The Ruidoso News was able to compile only part of the results available on race day.

The News had contacted organizer Paul Whitwam for the results, but his office left a message stating he was going on vacation and did not have enough time to gather the results for publication.

The results published here were taken off the leader board on race day, but their accuracy cannot be guaranteed. Also, there were no times available for each runner.

Outlaw Gang will be in Ruidoso this Saturday

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

The Billy the Kid Outlaw Gang will be riding into Ruidoso this weekend for the Billy the Kid-Pat Garrett Days celebration.

Festivities for the weekend include look-alike contests, a stew cookoff and the dedication of historical markers relevant to the Lincoln County Wars.

The group, which promotes the history surrounding the life of Billy the Kid, invites the public to participate in the scheduled activities and have some fun with the notous history of Lincoln County.

Businesses and individuals may enter the Stinking Springs Stew Cookoff, which is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, July 14, at the Cedar Creek Picnic Area in Ruidoso near the Smokey Bear Ranger District office.

Most of the activities scheduled for the weekend event will be at the Cedar Creek Picnic Area.

There is a $5 entry fee for the cookoff, in which participants cook a stew over an open fire using only those ingredients that were available in the New Mexico Territory in December 1880.

Judging of the stews will begin at noon.

The stew cookoff is also a reenactment of a famous incident in which Billy the Kid's stomach allegedly weakened on him and caused him to be arrested.

On a cold December night, the Kid was surrounded by Sheriff Pat Garrett and a posse of deputies near Stinking Springs. During the siege the lawmen prepared a stew of such a savory aroma, the Kid's stomach got to him and he surrendered.

Participants in the cook-off are reminded to bring their own fire wood.

Also scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday are the look-alike contests. Gang members and non-members may enter as either Billy the Kid, Pat Garrett, Susan McSween or Deluvina Maxwell. Children aged 12 years or less may enter in a young Billy or young Susan McSween contest. Entry fees are $5.

Prizes will be awarded in all contests.

If you're not too familiar with Lincoln County War history, Deluvina Maxwell was an Indian woman in Old Fort Sumner who was a friend of Billy the Kid.

In the event of rain, the look-alike contest will be moved to the Flying J Ranch.

A membership meeting will be conducted at 4 p.m. Saturday at Cedar Creek and anyone interested in membership in the Billy the Kid Outlaw Gang is invited to attend.

A social hour is scheduled to begin at 4:30 p.m. Saturday at the picnic grounds, followed by dinner and entertainment at 6:30 p.m. at the Flying J Ranch north of Ruidoso off Highway 48.

There will be two guided tours Sunday, July 15.

At 9 a.m. Sunday, a tour will leave from the state highway marker at mile marker 274 on U.S. Route 70 to see the Tunstall murder site.

At 2 p.m. Sunday in Las Cruces, the dedication of a Pat Garrett historical marker will occur at mile marker 153 on U.S. Route 70 east of Las Cruces.

For more information regarding these tours you may contact Maryln Bowlin at 257-2227.

Gang members are particularly excited their event will be photographed by a Smithsonian photographer.

4-H'ers tackle drugs

Thirty-six New Mexico young people will tackle drug abuse, crime and environmental pollution issues during a summer citizenship program sponsored by the National 4-H Council.

New Mexico young people scheduled to attend the program include Aaron Russell of Capitan, and Brett Barham and Cheryl Hightower of Carrizozo.

The students are among 4,000 4-H members nationwide who are participating in the weeklong program. The New Mexico participants raised about $850 each to attend the program, which begins July 28 at the national 4-H campus in Chevy Chase, Md.

The money covers air fare, tuition and personal expenses.

This year's program features an incentive for participants to bring their knowledge graduates who develop plans to improve auto safety in their hometowns.

In addition, New Mexico 4-H members are scheduled to meet with their state congressmen and with agriculture and commerce officials. Participants also will meet with the New Mexico delegation to discuss solutions to drug abuse, the nation's rising crime rate and environmental pollution.

Nogal Camp Meeting is scheduled July 18-22

The 51st Nogal Mesa Ranchmens Camp Meeting will be July 18-22 in Lincoln County, with the first service at 8 p.m. Wednesday, July 18, with supper at 6:30 p.m.

Preachers for the interdenominational meeting will be the Rev. Rick Steele and the Rev. Royal Jacobs.

According to a news release, Steele is being replaced as manager for the Nogal meeting this year by Steve Cody of Oklahoma; so he can devote all his thoughts to his preaching. All other volunteers and leaders will be the same as in former years.

Those who plan to camp in the 23 acres of the Lincoln National Forest at 7000 foot altitude, should bring camping gear, bedding and jackets for cool nights and possible rain. Water, restrooms, and electricity are furnished free of charge and financed by donations.

Day services are conducted in the tabernacle at 11 a.m., 3 and 8 p.m. Meals are 6-8 a.m., 12:30 and 6:30 p.m.

Direction signs are posted on U.S. 380 west of Capitan and east of Carrizozo, and on State Road 37. For further information, call LaMoyne Peters, Capitan, 88316, (505) 354-2302.

A workday for final preparations is scheduled for Saturday, July 14. All volunteers are welcome to bring a basket lunch, and help set up chairs, sweep and get the campground ready.

BLM wants nominations

Fran Cherry, District Manager of the Bureau of Land Management Roswell District Office, has announced a call for nominations from the public for membership to the Roswell District Advisory Council.

Vacancies will occur in two categories, non-Renewable Resources (2 positions) and Elected Official of General Purpose Government. Nominations should include name and address, telephone, biographical sketch, and category of interest in which the nominee appears best qualified to advise the District Manager on Programs and policies concerning management of public lands. Nominations will be accepted through July 30, 1990.

Advisory Councils are required under the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976, as amended.

Council members are appointed by the Secretary of the Interior and serve three-year terms. Nominees selected to fill upcoming vacancies will serve from January 1, 1991 through December 31, 1993.

Cowbelles take third in parade

The float entered by the Corriente Cowbelles in the Capitan Fourth of July parade won third place.

The float featured a patriotic theme, with songs sung by Sherry Underwood.

The group conducted a meeting on the fourth and finalized plans for a team roping and barrel racing competition for July 21. One $300 scholarship and four book scholarships will be awarded then.

Barrel racing will begin at 8 p.m. and the roping begins at 4 p.m. Saturday, July 21 at the rodeo arena in Capitan.

A concession stand will be available for participants.

Music festivals can tune up the regional economy

by RICHARD A. HARROLD
Ruidoso News Staff Writer

Imagine 30,000 visitors, in addition to the regular visitors, crowding into Ruidoso for a weekend.

Most of these visitors will not stay in motels, but will want to camp in the surrounding forest land. Their cars will crowd the streets because some will sleep in their automobiles, expecting public showers someplace in the morning. Many, also, will hang out around their automobiles, vans and minibuses to play guitar, mandolin, banjo and fiddle on the street corners while others will look like throw-backs to the 1960s.

But in that one weekend, these visitors will generate more than a half million dollars in gross revenues for the community.

Is Ruidoso interested in something like that?

What is being described here is the Telluride Bluegrass Festival which played for the 17th time from June 21 through 24 in Telluride, Colorado.

This Victorian mining community, tucked away in a box canyon, has a steady population of only about 1,000 people. But the community is inundated each year during the Bluegrass Festival by crowds now reaching 20,000 to 30,000.

The southwestern Colorado town, located in the San Juan Mountains, is also famous for the Telluride Film and Jazz festivals, each with an international drawing.

Of course, the Bluegrass Festival didn't begin with tens of thousands of visitors and naturally the community of Telluride wasn't always as extremely well organized in handling large crowds as it is now. But looking into how things are operated now at the festival can provide valuable information for any local promoter or planner who thinks this type of activity is what Ruidoso wants.

The festival grounds in Telluride can hold about 4,000 to 5,000 people at a time. Organizers prohibit ticket holders from bringing in alcohol in glass containers, but concoctions mixed in large thermos containers are ignored.

It is festival style seating and everyone brings their own lawn chairs, blankets and umbrellas.

Inside a beer and wine booth is available as well as other booths where vendors sell everything from straw hats woven by peasants in Guatemala to tie-dye T-shirts and other clothing. Tie-dye is definitely the biggest seller.

A water faucet was also available and much used. Many persons used the cold water to drench their shirts & in the water weenies and others just soak their heads to cool off under the hot sun.

Organizers provide a "kids area" where three personnel conduct "new games" for adults as well as children providing the youngsters with a positive outlet for energy, frustration and whatever else kids need to work out on vacation.

And next to that is the medical tent, staffed with medical personnel, and with an ambulance standing-by at all times.

Performers during this year's festival included Peter Rowan, the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, David Grissman and James Taylor. Each day during the four-day event had at least six to eight performers scheduled.

The stage has developed into quite a technological achievement. The sound was so good during James Taylor's set it was like listening to a compact disc. About 30 reserved seats were available in front of center stage.

With all those people milling about it is a merchant's dream in town. Main street was abuzz with people virtually 24 hours each day.

At 8 a.m. Sunday morning, the line at Baked In Telluride ran outside for 200 feet. At 3 p.m. the same day, the line was still out the door at the bakery famous for its croissants and deli sandwiches. But pressure to provide prompt service caused the operators to stop making sandwiches and serving only pastries.

A girl working the counter at Underdawg, a small local fast-food cafe, sighed and pushed her hair back as three customers came in for every two that left.

"It's been like this all day," she said. "Never a chance for a break."

At night all the taverns have live music and are jammed full of patrons. Some have rock bands for something different and some with bluegrass players that performed at the festival earlier in the day, but who just show up and started to play.

Spontaneous concerts occur at most every corner with either amateurs pickin' and grinnin', or some of the performers from the festival playing at the patio cafes.

Crowd management in Telluride is unique in some respects, primarily because of the town's location in a box canyon.

Because the highway route leading into town comes to a dead end, organizers stop traffic and park visitors in fields outside of town. A series of shuttle buses run free of charge every 15 minutes from the lots into town from dawn to 3 a.m.

A persistent traveler may still drive into town and take a chance on parking near the festival, but the spaces go fast and people are very reluctant to give them up.

Because of this, many visitors who park in town sleep in their vehicles, rising to shower at the public facilities the town provides at the high school at the price of $2 for each shower.

About 80 percent of the visitors bring along mountain bikes, something seen in Colorado with the same frequency as magnificent vistas. There's hardly a ski town in Colorado where the ski shops do not convert to bikes and camping gear during the summer months. Many, including those in Telluride, offer rentals as well.

While there are nearly as many rooms available in Telluride as there are permanent residents, the inns and condominiums are almost always booked many months in advance. But most visitors to the Bluegrass Festival prefer to hike a short distance outside of town to the National Forest area to camp.

The organizers do provide a camp area at $15 a night and this, too, is always full.

Festival personnel are frequently hired shortly before the Festival begins to provide traffic direction or simply to stand around and tell you not to bring alcohol into the festival grounds. These people are offered either a cash wage or a free pass into one of the shows.

Beginning slow is probably the best option, attracting local talent and area performers until a regular following is established.

The Wheatland Township Bluegrass Festival in Remus, Michigan, began with local bands in a farmer's field 14 years ago and has grown into a three-day affair attracting some of the biggest names out of Tennessee and Kentucky.

The Wheatland Festival also demonstrates a successful festival need not be conducted within a community and not necessarily have the best accommodations available. It definitely seems most bluegrass followers prefer to camp and as close to the festival itself as possible.

And there are always those who go to the Telluride festival and never go into the festival grounds, but who prefer to hang out at the cafes and taverns.

A bluegrass festival in the mountains around Ruidoso just might be a successful venture because it attracts all ages and cultural diversity. And the first year or so, as long as you plan ahead, will be small. The following must be established.

But once that following takes hold, look out buddy. You better have room to expand!

Police and sheriff officers continuously cruise through town either on foot or on bicycle, a few in cars, to enforce the open container law ("Dump it buddy"), but mostly just to ensure peaceful coexistence among the masses. The impression is many things are ignored to make sure people have a good time and spend their money.

Everything is within walking distance in Telluride. The high school, where the public showers are located, is at the west side with the festival grounds on the east side and all the stores in between in a pleasant distance of about one mile.

Gathering performers at the festival is accomplished in two ways.

The big names, like Peter Rowan and the Dirt Band, show up because they like to play in Telluride. However, the other acts are often brought in from the workshops and contests during the festival.

Each year workshops are conducted by many bluegrass favorites and contests for fiddling, guitar, banjo, mandolin, auto-harp, dulcimer and entire groups occur with the winners invited back the following year to perform as an act.

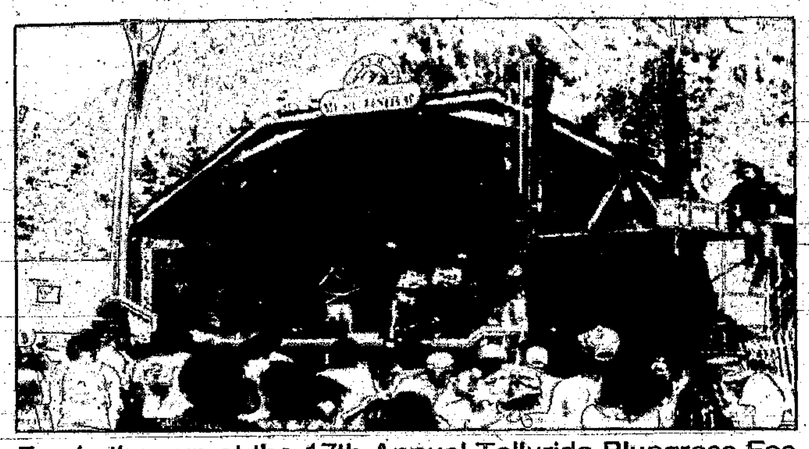
Advance tickets for the festival average $30 for each day, while they go for $40 the day of the show—if there's room. With 5,000 ticket holders in the festival grounds each day, that comes to $150,000 each day generated just by ticket sales.

Beginning something like this in Ruidoso, a promoter will run into some different problems.

One, traffic into Ruidoso cannot be restricted without a lot of legal problems because the routes into town are through routes. Also, in-town parking is extremely limited.

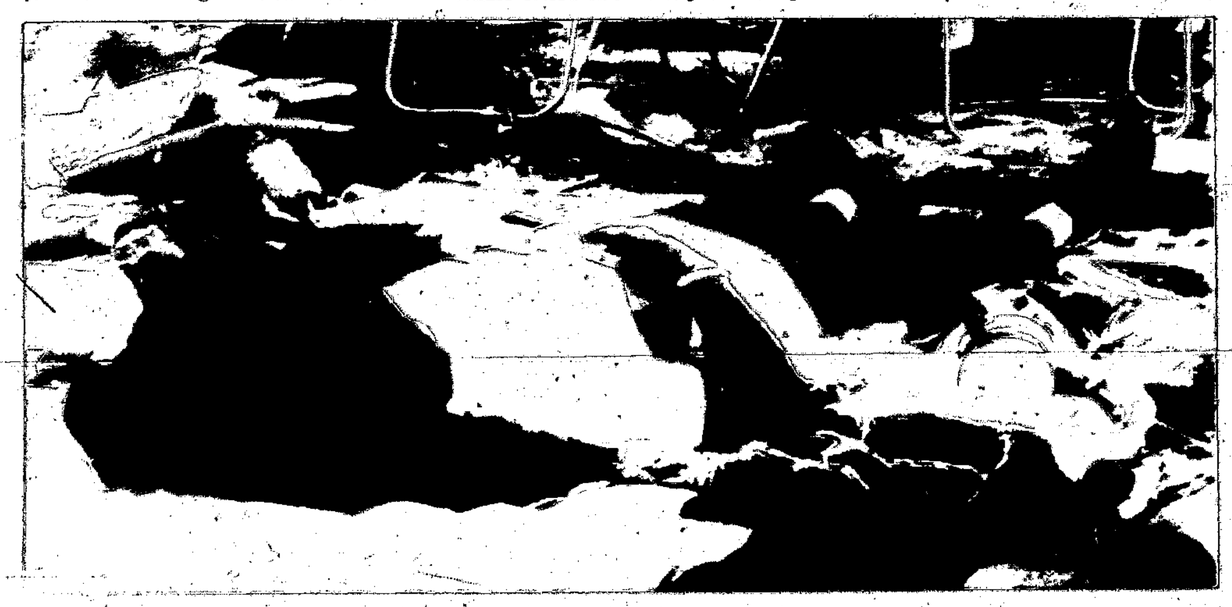
Also, because Ruidoso is considerably larger than Telluride, businesses tend to be spread throughout town rather than concentrated in one area. So the promoter faces the issue of how to locate a festival close enough to local businesses, but without creating a traffic snag.

Areas outside of town may be more suitable for a festival, such as Nogal Mesa at the Rancher's Camp or perhaps the Super Select Sale Site. However, the Nogal site is closer to forest land for campers.



Fun in the sun at the 17th Annual Telluride Bluegrass Festival in Telluride, Colorado. It doesn't take a lot to start a festival, but hard work, effective communication coordination is necessary to make one successful.

Dave Grissman (center, playing mandolin) performs his unique style of "bluegrass-fusion" during Sunday's show. Other performers at the four-day event included Peter Rowan, The Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, James Taylor and Runaway Express.



Sometimes the sun is too hot and it makes you a wee-bit sleepy. Record high temperatures throughout the southwest made this year's Telluride Festival a sear-sier. But tye-dye reigns at the Bluegrass Festival, where you can even purchase tye-dye lycra stretch pants. (Photos by Richard A. Harrold)

CRIME STOPPERS

"CRIME OF THE WEEK"

The Ruidoso-Lincoln County Crime Stoppers will pay up to $1,000.00 for information that leads to the arrest and Grand Jury Indictment or Magistrate Court Bindover of the person or persons who committed this crime or any other uncolved felony crime in Lincoln County.

Let's work together to call a stop to crime.

Phone 257-4545

The Crime: Cruelty to Animals

On June 20, 1990, unknown person or persons made their way to the Tisdale residence in Lower Eagle Creek in Lincoln County. At approximately 2:00 AM loud noises were heard. Later that morning it was found that a three month old Thoroughbred colt had been deliberately shot in the head and killed. The colt was found next to the fence approximately twenty yards from the Tisdale residence. Blood was found on the fence and the ground near the colt, and it appears that a high powered rifle was used to commit the crime.

Crimestoppers, in cooperation with concerned citizens of Lincoln County, will pay a $1000 cash reward for information leading to the arrest and magistrate court bind-over or grand jury indictment of the person or persons who committed this crime. Crimestoppers will also pay cash rewards for information that solves other felony crimes or leads to the recovery of stolen property.

Mental health survey asks for local input

People who have mental illness in their families are urged to give comments about the need for mental health services in southern New Mexico.

The Alliance for the Mentally Ill is helping HED conduct two surveys in Lincoln County and other southern counties. One survey is for individuals who receive counseling and other services from physicians and community agencies or shelters. The other survey is for the families of the mentally ill.

The 1990 New Mexico Legislature passed a bill (House Memorial 7) requesting that the Health and Environment Department conduct the survey to determine whether a mental health facility needs to be provided in southern New Mexico. The surveys were developed by the HM 7 Subcommittee.

To ensure confidentiality, no names are used on the surveys, and all information will be used to comply with the requirements of HM 7.

To obtain a copy of the survey form, call Frances Jones at 257-7601. Jones is the county survey coordinator for Lincoln County, and is also a member of the Board for New Mexico Alliance for the Mentally Ill.

Cheerleaders head for camp

The Ruidoso High School Cheerleaders recently sold tickets on a picnic table to help pay for their trip to camp.

The cheerleaders ended up raising about $1,200 which paid for all eight girls to go to camp in Portales next week.

The cheerleaders for this coming year are Becky Overdorf, Rachel Garrett, Tammy Hicks, Molly Long, Brie DeBusk, Julie DeAngelo, Ashley Fryer and Bridget Herrera. Their sponsor is Peggy Lawing.

The winners of the table were Ken and Fran Jones of Ruidoso.

Resource group is meeting at the Inn

The village council began the reconstruction of the Lodgers Tax Advisory Committee on Monday by dissolving the current membership during a special meeting.

Mayor Victor Alonso said New Mexico state statutes and village ordinance require that the Lodgers Tax Committee be made up of two members from lodging establishments, two members from tourist related businesses and one member at large. He said the current committee did not meet the law.

Alonso recommended the current members be removed in order to appoint new members that meet the laws requirements. Councilor Al Junge made the motion to remove the current members, with the exception of recently appointed member Ed Hyman, and let the Mayor make new appointments. The motion carried unanimously.

Alonso thanked the current members of the committee for their service and civic mindedness.

The council then went into executive session to discuss threatened or pending litigation. The council took no action following the executive session and the meeting was adjourned.

The Silver Lining

Gerald Tully celebrates 87 years

Kay Lynn Singer

Memorial services were conducted July 5 at Church of the Holy Mount for Kay Lynn Singer, who was called Home by Our Lord on June 28.

Lay reader Walter Rawley read from the Book of Job: "I know that my redeemer liveth, and that at the latter day He shall stand upon the earth, and though this body be destroyed yet shall I see God ..."

He also read the Twenty-third Psalm and from the Book of Revelations of Saint John.

The Rev. Ann Gaddy read from the Gospel according to Saint John: "I am the good shepherd and know my sheep, and am known of mine... and they hear my voice. And I lay down my life for the sheep."

Kay's son, Elton Boyd Singer, read a verse written by Kay:

"May those with whom my life's
been blessed,
Be not strangers when I die
As I come to final rest
Let me see a loving eye."

Kay lived a true Christian life, and was a lady of great kindness and compassion. She was a staunch supporter of the Lincoln County Humane Society, making regular donations, and often visiting the shelter, bringing food and doing her best to help the dogs and cats, puppies and kittens in any way she could.

Kay will always hold a fond spot in our hearts and we are happy that she is safe and happy with Our Lord in Heaven.

Happy Birthday To Gerald Tully

Gerald Tully will celebrate his 87th birthday July 12. He and his twin sister, Geraldine, were born on this date in 1909 at Fort Stanton, to James V. Tully Senior and the former Ora Gilmore. Also to this union were born Fred, Susan, James Jr. and Kiavas.

At the age of three Gerald was brought to his present home in Glencoe. In those days the highway ran past his present home. The old post office and store building are still there right beside the road.

Gerald went to school at the old Bonnell Ranch school which stood nearby where Saint Anne's Chapel now stands; and also the little School up the way which stood near the Canyon Trading Post.

Later he went to Tularosa High School and later attended New Mexico State University.

Although he is widely known as one of the top rodeo ropers of all time, Gerald served faithfully in many other fields. For a while he taught school in San Patricio. He fought forest fires in the Mogollon Mountains; and worked on the Kings Highway over in the Mimbres mountains; and in the gold and silver mines in the Mogollon mountains.

In 1920 the highway was moved to the North side of the river, and here Gerald and Geraldine helped their father in the Glencoe General Store and Post Office.

Gerald had made a hand on the ranch since boyhood, and in 1928 began roping in rodeos, steer roping and team roping. He has entered contests all over the Southwest, and has risen to the very top. He still competes in rodeos, long after men of his age have retired.

In the Cowboy Hall of Fame in Colorado Springs is one of Gerald's old saddles, with a notation that Gerald is one of the all time greats in the roping field.

Happy Marriage Blesses His Life

On November 9, 1940, Gerald's star of good fortune shone down brightly when he was married to the former Wynema Hutchison, in Saint Anne's Chapel, Glencoe. The ceremony was performed by the late and beloved Reverend Ted Howden, and our Mother played the organ.

They have four children: Gerry, Toni Barrow, Pam Perry, and Tricia Mitchell; and seven grandchildren.

One of the reasons for Gerald's long and active life is that he has been an athlete and has followed always the rules of good physical condition, among which are no tobacco or alcohol. He has played baseball, basketball, bowling and other sports.

Gerald has had a life long appreciation and fondness for horses. And his horses respond to his good treatment and consideration, making a great man and horse team.

Gerald is a Christian gentleman, a devoted husband and father and a great friend and neighbor.

We wish him many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

Calling all mayor wannabes

by FRANKIE JARRELL
Ruidoso News Editor

How would you like to be mayor of the Village of Ruidoso Downs?

When the board learned Monday that the elected mayor, C.L. "Bones" Wright, had resigned, members asked for public input in the selection of a new mayor.

Wright was elected in March, and since then he and his board have been in a power tug of war. He said the problems he had working with this board were causing him health problems.

And so he quit.

Mayor pro-tempore Bonnie Addy presided Monday over a meeting that was peppered with comments from members of the audience who filled the small meeting room.

"Why doesn't the board put a questionnaire in the paper?" asked volunteer fire chief Mark Hazel.

Another audience member suggested putting the question of who should be mayor in the "coming up" calendar.

"Let people bring in their own paper," said Addy. She suggested a box be placed in the Municipal Building for citizens to stop by and put their choices for mayor.

Village attorney Gary Mitchell explained that even though Addy is the mayor pro-tem, she is not automatically in line for mayor. He said the board can appoint any registered voter in Ruidoso Downs.

The problem now is that the board is made up of just six members, each with a vote, and nobody to break a tie.

Since the March election, two of seven trustees have resigned, and now the mayor. One of those vacant slots has not been filled, and the question over who the mayor would appoint and who the board would approve is one of the matters of contention that led to Wright's resignation.

Wilma Webb, who received more votes than any of the trustee candidates in March, resigned at the second meeting after the March elections and was immediately appointed municipal clerk.

She was relieved of those duties Monday. Webb, who has been fired before as village clerk, said Wednesday she has completed all the requirements for her certification by the New Mexico Municipal Clerks Association.

Webb was hired in 1977 as billing clerk for the Village of Ruidoso Downs and remained in that position until 1982 when Mayor J.C. Day appointed her municipal clerk.

In 1986, Wright ran for mayor as a write-in candidate and was declared the winner. Former Mayor Jake Harris challenged that race and was eventually declared the mayor.

Harris took office in June 1986 and relieved Webb of her duties. She sued the Village of Ruidoso Downs and that case has never been settled.

But the newly-elected mayor and council believed that the District Court had ordered them to give Webb back her job. It's unclear if that will be part of the final ruling.

But, for now, Webb is out.

In other regular business Monday, the board:

—Adopted the New Mexico Uniform Traffic Ordinance.

—Approved hiring Johnnie Romero as a dispatcher for 90 days. The board agreed the position should be temporary since Ruidoso Downs and Ruidoso are working on a plan to combine the two dispatch areas.

—Approved sending Trustee Jackie Branum, and perhaps others, to an Open Meetings Workshop in Roswell.

—Authorized Chris Carusona of Ruidoso Ford to place a sign on his property.

—Discussed vacating some right of way in Ruidoso Gardens, but agreed to advertise the small strip of land for sale to the highest bidder. The village will reserve the right to drill a well on the land.

Celebration to help charities

Altrusa of Ruidoso is taking requests for a share of the income from this year's All American Celebration.

The Celebration, sponsored by Ruidoso Downs Race Track, is a part of the All American Festival week activities in September. Las year the event raised about $40,000 for the Don McBeth Jockey Fund.

Altrusa has set up a committee to consider requests for funds. The criteria includes that the requesting group be in Lincoln County and meet an area need.

The groups selected to share in the proceeds from the Charity Celebration will also have an opportunity to help with the event.

Applications will be ranked on how well the organization's proposal meets Altrusa goals of community service, literacy, vocational services and international relations.

The application should include details of how the funds will be managed and used, why the funds are needed and should list other sources of income.

Applications are due by August 1. The committee will then conduct private interviews to be completed by August 16.

Send applications to Altrusa; PO Box 1143; Ruidoso NM 88345; or to the Charity Celebration, % Ruidoso Downs Race Track; PO Box 3636 HS; Ruidoso NM 88345.

Wet streets contribute to rollover

Wet conditions on Wednesday caused the driver of a pickup to lose control and the truck to roll over about a half mile from Jellystone Park.

The driver, 27-year-old Ramon Portugal of El Paso, was eastbound on Highway 70 when, according to his statement to police, the vehicle began to fishtail.

Police say the vehicle left the roadway on the north side and traveled 81 feet before overturning. Portugal was not injured. He was wearing a seat belt.

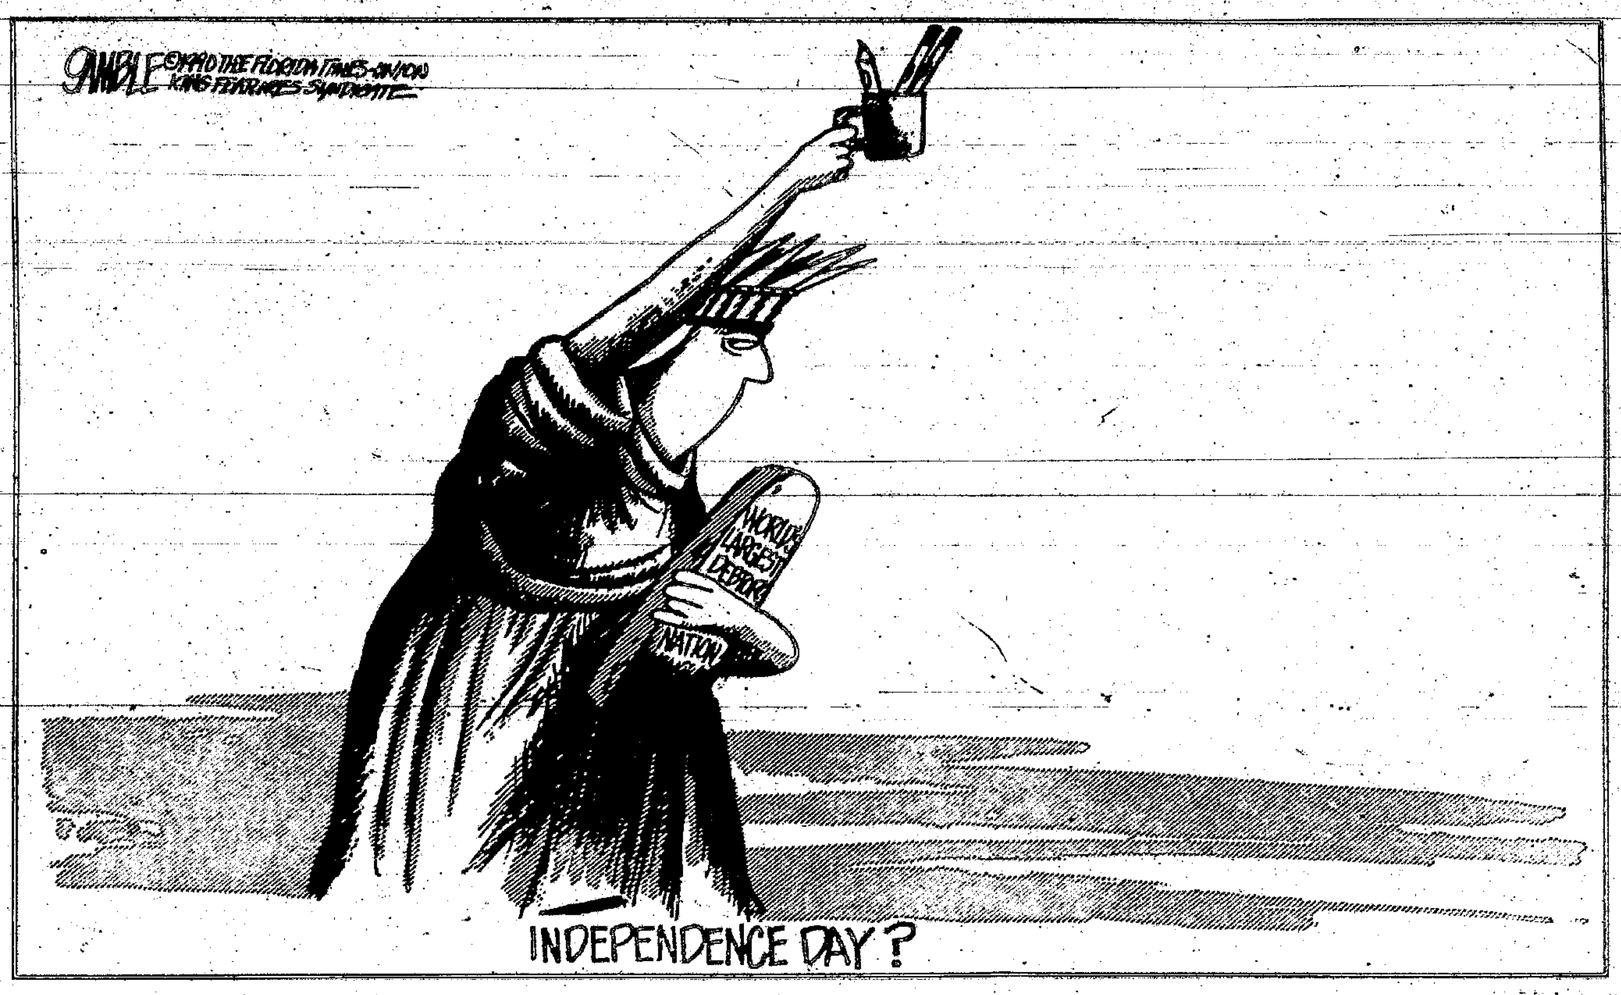
A Juarez, Mexico, man was taken to a Roswell hospital with head injuries following a one vehicle accident early Wednesday morning.

According to a State Police report, the accident happened around 4 a.m. on Highway 70, eight miles east of Fox Cave, near mile marker 278. The report says 26-year-old Rigoberto Caldera of Juarez was driving a 1977 Chevrolet Van with five other passengers when the right rear tire blew out.

Police say Caldera could not control the vehicle, and exited the vehicle through the left front door. It is not clear whether Caldera was thrown from the vehicle or jumped. He was not wearing a seatbelt.

The vehicle came to rest upright, sideways in the roadway. Caldera struck his head on the pavement, when he exited the vehicle. He was taken from the scene to the Eastern New Mexico Medical Center hospital in Roswell with head injuries.

Opinion



Editorial

Take mathematics ... if you can add, you know that you can't go on indefinitely spending more money than you have. When the going gets tough, you've just got to tighten your belt, cut some corners and live within your means. That goes for families, states and even countries.

That's why we are dismayed with a series of reports coming from our leaders in Washington D.C.

First, we read that our country has joined the ranks of the world's largest debtor nations. We're in debt up to our eyeballs.

Second, we read that President Bush has changed his message on taxes. Read these lips: we're going to have to raise taxes. Add those higher federal taxes to the user fees, increasing property taxes and escalating sales taxes we pay on the local and state level.

Third, we're so happy with all the reforms in the Soviet Union that we want to help them out with financial aid. The question doesn't seem whether or not we'll send money, to our new friends, but when. Never mind that we're so far in debt, and looking to raise taxes just to keep going.

Back to mathematics ... that just doesn't add up. If we don't have it, how can we keep giving it away? Maybe our elected officials need some lessons in simple mathematics. The voters may just have to give them some numbers they can understand at the ballot box.

Letters

DEAR EDITOR:

I believe your article of July 2 regarding lawsuits involving the Village of Ruidoso did not reflect a true accounting of litigation caused by the actions of the last administration, either in number or accurate detail. For instance, what happened to the lawsuits filed by Mike Davalos, former village engineer; John Salas, former village engineering assistant; Jimmy Neeley, former building inspector; the folks whose home burned in Cedar Creek; the lady in Cedar Creek who had a run-in with the building inspector, to name just a few? I'm sure there must be more than the ones I know of personally. As to accuracy, there are a couple of major details regarding my layout that need clarification. Somehow the wrong slant has been put on what my case was/is all about.

I have never contested that the Village has every right to create and/or eliminate personnel positions at any time and for whatever reason it chooses. My contention is that a political entity, like an individual, must obey the law. In my case, the Village admittedly did not follow its own written procedures in eliminating the job that I had held for eight years and the local District Court decided that their cited reason, fiscal necessity, eliminated the necessity for them to do so. I disagree. Does "fiscal necessity" allow an individual to break or disregard the law? Try it and see.

As to my having been offered a position of patrol officer and refusing the job, the facts are: When my job as Deputy Chief of Police was eliminated, I was aware that a starting level patrol officer position was in the process of being filled — a position subordinate to officers that I had been supervising — and that I could submit an application for it, with no guarantee that I would be selected. No one ever said "here is a job you can have." If that is a legal job offering then every job listed in the help wanted section of this newspaper is a legally binding "offer" to every individual who reads the listing.

The Court also decided that a Personnel Board has no authority to hear any personnel grievance caused by action taken due to "impending fiscal necessity." That decision, if allowed to stand, will leave all Village employees with absolutely no administrative recourse available to them any time their boss cites fiscal reasons for altering their jobs. Without such recourse, the only way an employee can voice a disagreement is to file a lawsuit, burdening the courts and costing the public thousands of tax dollars. Incidentally, the "impending fiscal necessity" cited by the Village as the reason for abolishing my position never materialized — that year the Village received and spent more than $1.6 million than the year before! That brings up what I consider to be even more important issue — the issue of fairness and honesty.

New Mexico is one of the very few states that has not enacted a statute recognizing a covenant of good faith and fair dealing between governmental entities and their employees. Among other things, such a statute would protect a regular employee from the whims and vagaries of local politics and individual appointees and the necessity to "be liked" by whoever gets elected in order to keep his job. I believe that most would agree that there is no room for politics in law enforcement.

I sincerely hope that this clarifies why I did and why I feel I must appeal the recent District Court decision. I also hope that our present mayor, management and council understand that I bear no ill will toward them — I simply want what is right and fair, both for me and all Village employees, and restitution for what the actions of the previous administration, with whom I was previously not in political favor, have cost me. I encourage public inspection of my and all aspects of my case. In sincerity I right and believe that will eventually be seen clearly correct as well.

Couple marries in Pennsylvania

Jean Marie Howden and Patrick Kuchma were married at 5 p.m. May 26, at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Duquesne, Pennsylvania.

The bride is the daughter of John and Jerry Howden of Ruidoso and the groom is the son of Patricia Kuchma of West Mifflin, Pennsylvania.

The bride wore a white satin gown featuring a Queen Anne neckline of schiffli lace edged in sequins and pearls. The dress featured a slightly puffed sleeve with a fitted arm of illusion with matching lace on a fitted bodice with a dropped waistline giving into a ruffled Cathedral train and full skirt.

She carried a cascade of white orchids.

Tracey Latin, the bride's roommate at college, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Sherie Hamilton of Garland, Texas, Donna Conaway of Palestine, Texas, and Mary Beth Brevko of New Huntington, Pennsylvania.

The matron of honor and the bridesmaids wore satin teal dresses with mini trains.

Tom Kuchma, the groom's brother from New Jersey, was the best man and the ushers were Tim and Terry Kuchma, brothers of the groom, and Dave Brevko, brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a dress of seafoam green chiffon and the groom's mother wore ecru silk lace.

A reception followed in the Chesterfield's Lounge/Restaurant at North Huntington. The hostess for the reception was Sue Friberg of Garland, Texas, the bride's sister.

The bride is a graduate of Ruidoso High School and New Mexico State University in Las Cruces, and now is employed with the U.S. Secret Service.

The groom is a graduate of Prince Georges College in Largo, Pennsylvania, and is also employed with the Secret Service.

The couple is at home in Laurel, Maryland.

Pfingstens mark 50 years

A reception is scheduled from 2-4:30 p.m. Saturday, July 14, at the Lincoln County fair building in Capitan to celebrate the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pfingsten of Capitan.

Nieces and nephews will be hosts for the reception.

Fred Pfingsten and Leota Bradfofd were married on July 16, 1940, in Roswell. They have made their home in Lincoln County ever since.

Mr. and Mrs. Pfingsten met while attending New Mexico State University in Las Cruces. Mr Pfingsten was an agriculture major, which has served him well in his chosen life's work.

Mrs. Pfingsten spent 26 years in the schoolroom, retiring from teaching in 1978. She is now employed by the Lincoln County heritage trust as a museum interpreter.

They have both been and will continue to be in community affairs and still enjoy their ranch life to the fullest.

Dr. Walter informs retirees about various health issues

Dr. Robert Walters, a consulting clinical psychologist of Ruidoso spoke to the Lincoln County Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons on the subject of New Mexico Health Policy.

Dr. Walters has spent more than 20 years in the health care field and is on the board of directors for the new Mexico Health Decisions organization. NMHD is a project designed to enable the people of New Mexico to share information and concerns about factors affecting their health, and to promote action to impact these issues.

Goals of the NMHD are to establish a health system that is: just, responsive, ethical, fiscally sound, culturally sensitive, accessible, inclusive of diverse approaches to health services, and responsible. It also does not discriminate on the basis of ability to pay, nature of illness/disease, age, ethnicity, gender disability, or geographical location.

NMHD is a free-standing organization not tied to any state or national agency, organization or institution. It is incorporated in New Mexico and is seeking non-profit status. Its activities are directed by a board of directors. That board is meeting in Ruidoso this Saturday.

Membership in NMHD is open to any individual or organization interested in factors affecting health and health policies. Those interested in setting up and/or attending a small group meeting are urged to call the New Mexico Health Decisions' temporary office at 1-255-9559 (Albuquerque).

According to a news release, Dr. Walters shared a number of startling statistics about New Mexico Health Status including the fact that New Mexico is second in the nation in teenage pregnancy birth rate; the state is first in motor vehicle accident deaths; alcoholism in New Mexico is three times the national average; New Mexico ranks 46th in mental health care systems and services; this state is 44th in per capita health care expenditures; 29 of 33 New Mexico counties have been designated as "health manpower shortage" areas, (fortunately Lincoln Co. is not one of these).

New Mexico providers/hospitals deliver about $110 million in free (unreimbursed) care annually.

The Plant Corner

Mini-plants brighten up small quarters

by SALLY BLACK
Ruidoso News Plant Specialist

DEAR SALLY:

I live in a small apartment. I love live plants, just do not have the space for them. Most small plants I buy soon outgrow their space. Are there slow-growing plants that would be good for those of us who love plants but just do not have the space?

Thanks,

Craig

DEAR CRAIG:

For those who live in small quarters or grow our plants under fluorescent lights where space is limited, miniature plants also make it possible to grow a great many and variety of plants in a very little space. Growing these "little fellers" can give a very special satisfaction. I suggest you buy a book on growing miniature plants and learn all you can before you make preparations for proper growing conditions.

True miniatures are usually defined as plants under 6" tall.(although there are many that are even smaller), while those that grow larger, but under 12", are called dwarfs. It would be useful to know some of the botanical terms that are used to describe these "little fellers." If you see a listing in a seed catalog for instance, which reads "Lantana nana compacta," you can be sure it refers to a dwarf or miniature, since NANA means small, and COMPACTA means just what it sounds like —compact. PUMILA and PUSILLA are two other words used in horticultural Latin to denote dwarf or miniature plants. SINNINGIA PUSILLA is a very tiny one indeed, some only a couple of inches tall, yet constantly produces flowers, such as the gloxinias.

I will give you a short list of some more common miniature vegetables and flowers to put your new plant project in motion.

Tom Thumb lettuce is roughly the size of a tennis ball and makes a pretty plant as well as a very special and elegant individual salad. Grow in Spring and Fall.

Tiny Tim tomatoes can be grown in 4 to 6 inch pots and produce cherry-sized tomatoes. There are also other varieties, check with your nurseryman or catalogs.

Miniature Roses produce tiny perfect blooms on plants that are usually not more than 12 inches tall. These "little fellers" are considerably easier to grow indoors than full-sized garden roses, but they do need rather specific care, including a lot of light. Use a south exposure or a spot only about 3 inches from fluorescent tubes for 16 hours a day. They like cool temps about 60 degrees to 80 degrees with fresh air and humidity, small frequent waterings are best to keep soil moist and if not fresh air use ceiling fan for air circulation.

One tiny rose that does well under lights is the "Rosmarin" which has pink and white blossoms.

Miniature geraniums are in many respects far better house plants than many of the larger varieties sold for outdoor use. Given good light, they don't become overgrown and rangy, and some of them can get by with less light, which means they are more likely to bloom during the dark winter months. Many of them are regular and constant bloomers throughout much of the years

Although miniature geraniums need extra fast drainage, they don't tolerate being allowed to go really dry, and may need daily waterings. And because they produce so many flowers, they need more fertilizer as well. Mix a gallon jug of water and 1/4 the label recommended amount of any good fertilizer, such as Miracle-Gro, and use at least once a week. Otherwise growing conditions are about the same as for larger geraniums. Refer to my last two columns, both on geraniums.

There are more than 100 varieties of mini-geraniums on the market, the tiniest being the "Pigmy" with small red flowers. I bet Mr. Conley would order special for you — to be continued next week.

Send questions to Sally Black, c/o The Ruidoso News, P.O. Box 128, Ruidoso, N.M. 88345.

CECE GRIFFIN

Griffin is featured

Cece Griffin, chairperson of the Lincoln County Democrats, was featured in the June-July issue of "The Party Line."

According to that story, Cecelia A. "Cece" Griffin, says her first campaign was when President Franklin D. Roosevelt ran against Wendell Wilkie.

"And she's been been campaigning every since," continues the story

Griffin has worked for the State Tax Commission and State Highway and State Highway Department. She was elected Lincoln County chair after serving as vice chair. She has set voter registration as a priority in Lincoln County.

Griffin is married to Charles Griffin and has three daughters and five grandchildren.

Two local girls selected for state teen pageant

Two Ruidoso 16-year-olds have been selected to compete in the 1990 New Mexico Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant August 3-4, at the Holiday Inn Pyramid Hotel in Albuquerque.

Jackie Ann Cremar and Melissa Richardson, along with other 13 to 18 year olds, will be honored and recognized for their achievements in school, community and personally, according to a news release.

MELISSA RICHARDSON

Cremar's accomplishments and hobbies are: volleyball, basketball, snow skiing, sewing, crocheting, embroidering, photographing, and her favorite baking.

Her sponsors are Allen's Auto Parts, High Sierra Auto Parts, McCarty Construction, Ruidoso Plants, Flower Nook, Powell Automotive, Jack's Appliances, Wieland's Yucca Emporium, and Lawrance Tafoya.

Richardson's hobbies are volleyball, basketball and tennis. Some of her accomplishments are Student Council Representative, FHA Treasurer and a DECA Representative.

Her sponsors are Three Bees, Equitable Life and Casualty Insurance Co., Pine Mountain Realty, Territorial Abstract and Libby Richardson.

The two Ruidoso High School students and other young ladies from all over the state who compete in the pageant are required to participate in the "Volunteer Service Program" of the Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant. Through this program many teen girls are becoming involved in community activities by contributing at least 12 hours of time helping those less fortunate than themselves.

MISS T.E.E.N. Contestants donated more than 800,000 hours of time across the country to many volunteer and charitable organizations last year. For 1990, the official national charity organization of the pageant is Reading is Fundamental (RIF). Through the Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant contestants will have the opportunity to donate their time to RIF in a nationwide effort to cure the illiteracy problem in our country.

Toastmasters Clubs throughout the state are assisting the contestants through their offer of "Youth Leadership" Programs. Not only do the contestants receive training in speech or talent presentations, but also in leadership training to better equip them to be the positive role models for their peers.

Contestants will be judged on Scholastic Achievement, Volunteer Service, Speech or Talent, personal interview, and Formal Presentation. Awards will be presented in each category.

The 1990 New Mexico Miss T.E.E.N. will receive a $1000 scholarship to the University of New Mexico, $500 in cash, self improvement/modeling scholarship to Plaza Three Academy of Albuquerque, formal gown by designer Cynthia Cone of Las Cruces, select Merchandise and Gifts, and an all expense paid trip to represent the state of New Mexico at the National Finals in Kansas City, Missouri. Over $100,000 in scholarships and prizes will be awarded at the National Pageant.

LEGAL NOTICE
VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO,
NEW MEXICO
NOTICE OF MEETING AND OF INTENTION TO ADOPT ORDINANCE

The Village Council of the Village of Ruidoso, New Mexico, herein, gives notice that it will hold a regular public meeting to be held on Tuesday, July 31, 1990 beginning at the hour of 6:30 p.m. at the Ruidoso Village Hall, 313 Cree Meadow Drive, Ruidoso, New Mexico and of its intention to adopt ordinance 90-8 concerning its Sales Tax Revenue Bonds, Series August 15, 1990 at such meeting, and to take such other action, as may properly come before such meeting.

The title of the proposed ordinance is,

AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF THE VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO SALES TAX REVENUE BONDS, SERIES AUGUST 15, 1990, IN THE PRINCIPAL AMOUNT OF $935,000 FOR THE PURPOSE OF CONSTRUCTING, PURCHASING, FURNISHING, EQUIPPING AND IMPROVING A PUBLIC MUNICIPAL CIVIC EVENTS CENTER BUILDING, TO BE FOR USE AS AN EXPOSITION BUILDING AUDITORIUM AND CONVENTION HALL AND FACILITY, AND IMPROVING THE GROUND RELATING THERETO, INCLUDING BUT NOT NECESSARILY LIMITED TO ACQUIRING AND IMPROVING PARKING LOTS THEREFOR, PROVIDING THAT THE BONDS WILL BE PAYABLE AND COLLECTIBLE FROM THE GROSS RECEIPTS TAX DISTRIBUTED TO THE VILLAGE AS AUTHORIZED BY SECTION 7-1-6.4, NMSA 1978 AND FROM A PORTION OF THE LODGERS' TAX IMPOSED BY THE VILLAGE PURSUANT TO SECTION 3-38-13, THROUGH 3-38-24, NMSA 1978; PROVIDING FOR THE DISPOSITION OF THE RECEIPTS DERIVED FROM SAID TAX PROCEEDS; PRESCRIBING OTHER DETAILS CONCERNING SAID BONDS AND SAID TAX PROCEEDS INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO COVENANTS AND AGREEMENTS IN CONNECTION THEREWITH AND THE FORM, TERMS, CONDITIONS, AND MANNER OF EXECUTION OF SAID BONDS AND CONCERNING THE PROJECT; RATIFYING ACTION PREVIOUSLY TAKEN IN CONNECTION THEREWITH; REPEALING ALL ORDINANCES IN CONFLICT HEREWITH; AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

The following is a general summary of the subject matter contained in the proposed ordinance.

Preambles recite such matters as existence of the Village; the monthly receipt by the Village of certain proceeds of the State gross receipts tax distributed by the Revenue Division pursuant to Section 7-1-6.4, NMSA 1978 and that such monthly distribution of the Section 7-1-6.15, NMSA 1978, equal to the product of the quotient of 1.35% divided by the tax rate imposed by Section 7-9-4, NMSA 1978, times the net receipts (i.e., the total gross reciepts tax less any refunds disbursed in that month) for the month attributable to the gross receipts tax from business locations within the Village and other places designated in Section 7-1-6.4, NMSA (the "pledged State Gross Receipts Tax Revenues"); a portion of such distribution pursuant to now repealed Section 7-1-6, NMSA 1978 (i.e. 1% of the taxable gross receipts for the Village for each month on any person engaging in business in New Mexico and herein "Parity Pledged State Gross Receipts Tax Revenues") was previously pledged to the Village of Ruidoso Sales Tax Revenue Bonds, Series 1980 (herein the "1980 Bonds"), which remain payable from the Parity Pledged State Gross Receipts Tax Revenues; the prior issuance of the Village of Ruidoso, New Mexico Sales Tax Revenue Bonds, Series Receipts Tax Revenues and the Supplemental Municipal Gross Receipts Tax Revenues; that the Village has previously issued its "Village of Ruidoso Supplemental Gross Receipts Tax Revenue Bonds, Series November 25, 1985" payable form the Supplemental Municipal Gross Receipts Tax Revenues and the "Village of Ruidoso Municipal Gross Receipts Tax Revenue Bonds, Series August 1, 1987", payable from dedicated Municipal Gross Receipts Tax Revenues; recites that the net receipts of the lodgers tax ("Pledged Lodgers' Tax Revenues) imposed by the Village pursuant to Sections 3-38-13 through 3-38-24, NMSA 1978, and Ordinances Nos. 74-3 and 85-10, effective May 1, 1974 and July 1, 1985, respectively, shall be pledged to the Bonds as hereafter defined; that the Pledged State Gross Receipts Tax Revenues and the Pledged Lodgers' Tax Revenues together are referred to herein as the "Pledged Revenues," and that otherwise there is no outstanding pledge of the "Pledged Revenues" as hereafter defined or any other gross receipts tax revenues; that the Bonds, will have a first lien (but not an exclusively first lien) on the Pledged Revenues; quotes Section 3-31-6C, NMSA 1978, which prohibits the repeal or amendment of laws authorizing the pledge of revenues to pay the Bonds; recites the receipt of a Bond Purchase Agreement wherein the Village agrees to sell the Bonds to Rilee and Associates, Inc., and Kious and Company, Inc., for the principal amount thereof less a discount designated therein plus accrued interest to the date of delivery, Preliminary Official Statement and Final Official Statement relating to the Bonds; and determines that the project is a governmental purpose and will not cause the Bonds to be "private activity bonds" as defined by the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, and that neither the Village nor any subordinate entity thereof reasonably expects to issue no more than $5,000,000 of bonds and similar obligations during 1990.

Sections 1 through 4 define terms used in the ordinance, ratify previous action by officers of the Village; authorize the Project as hereafter defined and authorize the issuance of the "Village of Ruidoso Sales Tax Revenue Bonds, Series August 15, 1990 (the "Bonds"), in the principal amount of $935,000 payable from the Pledged Revenues for the purpose of constructing, purchasing, furnishing, equipping and improving a public municipal civic events center for use as an exposition building, auditorium and convention hall and facility and improving the ground relating thereto, including but not necessarily limited to acquiring and improving parking lots therefore and all costs incidental to the foregoing and the issuance of the Bonds (the "Project").

Section 5 provides details of the Bonds including but not limited to dating the Bonds August 15, 1990, specifying denominations of $5,000 or any even multiples thereof; providing that such Bonds shall be registered as to both principal and interest; providing for varying rates of interest of which will not exceed 12% per annum to the respective maturities of the Bonds payable February 15, 1991 and August 15 and February 15 of each year thereafter, the place and manner of payment of principal of and interest on the Bonds including provisions for payment of interest on Regular Record Dates and Special Record Datest; provide that the Bonds shall mature in varying amounts on August 15, 1991 through 1996, 2000, 2005 and 2010, and provide for continuation of interest upon nonpayment of principal at maturity or prior redemption.

Sections 6 through 12 provide terms and conditions of optional and mandatory sinking fund prior redemption, that the Bonds are negotiable instruments under the Uniform Commercial Code and are special obligations payable solely from the Pledged State Gross Receipts Tax Revenues; provide for the manner of execution and authentication of, and registration records for the Bonds, payment to registered owners, replacement bonds, delivery of the bond certificate to the registrar and cancellation of Bonds; provide for a successor registrar or paying agent; and further provide for the form of the Bonds, certificate of authentication, assignment and legal opinion certificate.

Sections 13 through 19 designate the Bonds as qualified tax exempt obligations under Section 265(b)(3)B of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, provide for the execution and delivery of the Bonds and initial registration thereof; for disposition of proceeds of the Bonds into several funds and obligations in connection therewith; for the continuation and administration of the Income Fund and establishment of the Bond Fund for the Bonds, and provides for a flow of funds; for the administration of all funds and special accounts created by the ordinance; the places and times of the deposits into the funds and accounts; and constitute an irrevocable and first lien (but not necessarily an exclusive first lien) on all of the Pledged State Gross Receipts Tax Revenues, being on a parity with the lien thereon of the outstanding Village of Ruidoso Sales Tax Revenue Bonds, Series 1980 (which have a lien on only that part of the Pledged State Gross Receipts Tax Revenues which constitutes the Parity Pledged State Gross Receipts Tax Revenues) and the outstanding Village of Ruidoso, New Mexico, Sales Tax Revenue Bonds, Series April 1, 1986.

Sections 20 through 22 set out the terms and conditions under which a party lien obligations may be issued, prohibit the issuance of obligations having superior lien, permit the issuance of obligations having a subordinate lien, set forth terms and obligations relative to refunding obligations and provide for equality among the Bonds in the application of the Pledged State Gross Receipts Tax Revenues.

Section 23 provides protective covenants whereby the Village covenants with each registered owner for the protection of such registered owners covering such matters as prompt payment of Bond principal and interest, records, audits, restrictions on extending interest payments, performing duties, other liens on Pledged Revenues, "duty" with respect to amount of Pledged Revenues, continuity of the Village's existence, no impairment of contract, and tax covenant.

Sections 24 through 36 set forth defeasance provisions; delegate certain powers to Village officers; describe events of default; provide for a method of enforcing the ordinance; provide separability and repealer clauses; provide for the amendment of the ordinance; provide an irrepealability clause and provide for an emergency and effective date and a summary for publication.

There is also contained a statement by the Mayor that this ordinance is an emergency.

COMPLETE COPIES OF THIS PROPOSEL ORDINANCE ARE ON FILE IN THE OFFICE OF THE VILLAGE CLERK AT THE RUIDOSO VILLAGE HALL, 313 CREE MEADOW DRIVE, RUIDOSO, NEW MEXICO, AND ARE AVAILABLE FOR INSPECTION AND/OR PURCHASE DURING REGULAR OFFICE HOURS.

WITNESS my hand and the seal of the Village this July 31, 1990.

Now You Can Give Your Problem Nails The Professional Treatment With Nail Magic.

If you have nails that break, split, chip, peel, or just won't grow, you need more than an ordinary nail hardener and conditioner. You need the special care of Nail Magic, the complete professional treatment for problem nails. ☐ Nail Magic's unique formula was perfected by a professional manicurist over 40 years ago. It has been used ever since in beauty salons throughout the country with remarkable results. ☐ Nail Magic's careful blend of ingredients helps promote growth while strengthening and conditioning weak or damaged nails. It has worked wonders on many hopeless cases. ☐ You can use Nail Magic as a base coat, top coat or clear enamel finish. ☐ It's quick and easy to apply, taking less than three minutes twice a week for the first 60 days. ☐ By the end of this initial treatment, and then each [illegible] your nails are longer, stronger and more beautiful. ☐ Then one application a week is all it takes to maintain an healthy, attractive appearance.

What Nail Magic Users Say:

Here are just a few comments from the thousands unsolicited letters we have received from users of Nail Magic.

I have used one long bottle of your product and my nails have never looked better. I had nails that split and broke off so I could never let them grow very long. Now they are healthy and pretty.

Sharon Maines
Director of Consumer Affairs

Dear Sharon,

I'm a comparison shopper, and lately I've been noticing the low prices on items marked TRP in Furr's. What does this sign mean?

Barbara, Los Alamos

Dear Barbara,

TRP stands for Today's Reduced Prices. Since Furr's buys in volume and is able to purchase many items at a discount from the manufacturer, we are able to pass those savings on to our customers in the form of reduced prices. That's what the Furr's TRPs are all about. So whenever you see an item tagged with the TRP sign, you know you're getting the benefit of Furr's volume buying. You'll find Furr's TRP signs in every department. Look for them whenever you shop; they're some of the best buys in town.
