A Snake Story.

"Speaking of fighting snakes," said the tall man, "I saw the greatest snake fight on record down in Texas several years ago. You may not believe it but it's true, and I could prove it if old Bill Benson were alive. Well, the snakes that did the fighting were small black ones—black runners we called them down there. They were not more than three feet long, but gamer fighters never lived.

"These snakes met in the road near my house one day, and they went at each other as soon as they were in striking distance. They fought and fought, turning and twisting, biting each other, and trying to coil around each other's bodies. They had been fighting fully ten minutes when one of them got the other's tail in his mouth and began to swallow

"The mouth and throat were so small the entire body of the other snake would not go down, but the sharp teeth of the reptile peeled off the skin clean all around, and then the swallowing of the skinless body was easy enough. Well, that skinning and swallowing must have hurt awfully, but that snake was clear grit. He didn't say a word, but just reached around and took hold of the tail of the snake that was swallowing him.

"He'd caught on to this skinning trick, and in a few moments these two snakes were swallowing each other, like a hungry man swallows an oyster. We stood and watched them, old Bill Benson and me, and you may believe it or not, but in less than two minutes after they got fairly started, them two snakes had swallowed each other. Yes, sir, there lay the two black skins in the road, but no snakes; they had just simply swallowed each other out of sight."

"Take another with me," said the short man, "and speaking of snakes with sense and educated snakes, I knew a reptile out in Kansas that was one point ahead of anything you ever heard of. He belonged to an old man who had once been in the show business, but getting too old to travel he had taken to training animals, birds and snakes for a living. He caught this snake when it was young and brought it up, teaching it slow and easy. It was a black snake, and when grown measured sixteen feet two and three quarter inches in length. It was very slender and looked like a long black rope. The old man taught that snake the alphabet, and then he taught it to read.

"How did it read? Simple enough. The old man had taught it to bend itself into the shape of letters. You see the snake was so long and slender it could twist itself into almost any shape. It could make every letter in the alphabet, from A to Z, as fast as you could read them. When it learned to read pretty well the old man taught it several poems; he was fond of poetry.

"Well, that snake soon memorised half a dozen short poems and doubled itself into the shape of letters, and in that way read them through. It was just as plain as could be, no trouble to read it. Well, the snake got along all right with ordinary poetry and reading, but one day the old man got hold of one of James Whitcomb Riley's western poems,

"'Little
o' Tailholt,'

or something like that. He liked it so well he decided to teach it to the snake. Well, the snake tried it, but it broke him all up. The first turn he made of the zig-zag lines broke his back in three places, and he died."

They took one more at the expense of the tall man, and then silence settled on the party.—New York Evening Sun.

Board and Clothes.

It is a little strange that, among the many comments that Mr. Fayerweather's bequest has called out, no one has noted the advance which such a bequest marks upon the state of mind credited to one of the millionaires of a generation ago. "Would you take care of all that money just for your board and clothes?" he asked some one who was envying him his wealth. "No? Well, that is all I get out of it."

To-day, hardly a week passes without recording that some millionaire has learned how to get more out of his money than this. One college alone, it is reported, has received $700,000 in gifts within a year, and there is hardly a city in our land which cannot furnish examples of generous gifts from its citizens.

To foster the arts and sciences and promote the public welfare by swift and bounteous giving when occasion demands is a royal prerogative which has descended to our money kings, and it is to day not only the men of inherited wealth and culture, but those from "the plain people," to whom riches have but just come, who are rising to a sense of their opportunities. Here in a new country, and in the face of a hundred temptations to emphasize the material advantages which wealth brings, we can see the growth of the desire to bend it to the finer uses of civilization. We have abundant examples of vulgar and self indulgent wealth, but they are offset by the constantly increasing instances of men and women whose millions yield them not only board and clothes, but the satisfaction of rendering some beneficent public service.—Boston Post.

A pretty little girl, not more than eight years old, trotted contentedly down Park Row in the rain yesterday afternoon, and every person who saw her stopped and looked till she passed from view. Her face was bright and rosy, and her cheeks were freely sprinkled with the spray that came through a little doll's parasol she carried over her head. It was the tiniest kind of an umbrella; one of the ribs was broken and a big piece of the pink silk was missing. On her head, which was covered with a wealth of golden curls and ringlets, she wore a little straw hat, fancifully trimmed with some soiled ribbon and a piece of plush. Her dress was of pink calico, old and worn, with white flowers on it, and with one hand she held about her shoulders a thin brown shawl. Her skirts barely reached her knees, and both of her shoes were out at the toes. Her face bore an expression of supreme content and pride, and she stepped daintily across a gutter with as much grace as a cultured society girl. The parasol was held at an angle, and once in a while she would look up at the hole and smile. Men looked at her in amazement, then smiled and walked on. She was like a painting of spring coming through a shower. To every one who saw her she was the sunbeam of yesterday's gloomy day.—N. Y. Recorder.

Doctor: "What you need is more exercise. What business do you follow?"

Patient: "I am a brick-layer."

"Humph! I should think you would get all the exercise you required, but your symptoms indicate that you are of a sedentary disposition."

"Well, you see, doctor, I work by the day."

"Ah! that explains it."

"What! you don't mean to say that Carrie is going to marry that calf." "Why, blankety, blank—"

"There, don't break the third commandment. Carrie fairly worships him."

"You seem to forget that calf-worship made Moses break all the commandments at once."

If you don't pay your debts you had better not talk too much in class-meeting.

TERRITORIAL

A Santa Fe man has twenty acres of apple orchard which netted him for 1890 over $5000.

The Albuquerque city council is adopting heroic measures to protect the banks of the Rio Grande from overflow.

Indian signs are reported from the Black Range, and a boy named Theodore Phillips is said to have been shot at.

The law relating to the protection of fish in this territory allows the catching of fish with hook and line from May 1 to November 1.

Wallace Holt, of Seven Rivers will within a short time have the finest lot of strawberries in the southwest. His vines are loaded and promise a large crop.

The farmers of Johnson's meas, Colfax county are anxious to cultivate wheat, but will not do so extensively unless a mill is erected to give them a convenient market.

Denver parties will arrive in Santa Fe, soon, to confer with Superintendent Cart, of the government Indian school, relative to taking the contract for developing artesian water.

The fence law passed by the 28th legislative assembly was repealed by the 29th. Stockmen should take notice and govern themselves accordingly, or they may have to pay dear for feed for their stock.

Col. W. S. Rynerson has received through Territorial Treasurer Palen the second annual installment of $16,000 for the New Mexico Agricultural College and Experiment Station.

The Raton Range publishes facts and figures which show that the present owners of the Maxwell grant are very liberal and progressive, and are doing everything possible to develop and settle up Colfax county.

The Southern Pacific railroad is trying to develop a sufficient supply of water at Lordsburg. At present they are sinking a well three miles to the south of town. So far they have gained a depth of 140 feet without finding water.

Mr. J. R. Van Dam, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, a very pleasant gentleman and one of the wide awake land agents of the Maxwell land grant company, arrived at Maxwell City last week with ten settlers, who had purchased 920 acres of land under the Vermejo ditch.

General A. W. Greely, chief of the United States signal service at Washington, has ordered a set of instruments to be forwarded to the Albuquerque Commercial Club, for the purpose of giving the government regular reports of the state of the weather at that place.

It is reported that construction will be resumed at an early date upon the New Mexico Railway, and the line completed from Eddy, N. M., up the Hondo and Bonito valley to San Pedro, N. M. The line was built from Pecos City to Eddy last year.—Egineering News.

All special taxes on tobacco will cease on May 1st, but cigar manufacturers, tobacco manufacturers and peddlers of tobacco are under the same restriction of law as now, except payment of tobacco taxes. Dealers in manufactured tobacco will pay no taxes.

The weather throughout New Mexico at the present time cannot be excelled, and from but few sections come complaint in regard to the range and the cattle. Grass is growing nicely, and the prospects are favorable for early and thorough roundups on all ranges.

By an act of the last legislature the law prohibiting the carrying of fire arms and the shooting up of towns was made much more binding and effective. The gay and festive youth who takes delight in shooting holes in the midnight air is liable to come to grief.

Don Benigno Romero, of Las Vegas, secretary of the board of directors of the New Mexico insane asylum, is advertising for proposals for the erection of the new building there. Bids must be accompanied by a certified check for $500 and submitted by Saturday, June 20th.

A woman with six little children was left off of No. 4, in Raton Tuesday. She was bound for Chicago but her infant child was in a dying condition which necessitated a delay here. A lady kindly went through the train and stated the circumstances to the passengers and a purse of $32.20 was soon made up and presented to the grateful but distressed mother.

The Territorial board of education was to have met last Saturday at Las Cruces, but this has been postponed because of the fact that the members have not yet had time to fully examine the mass of sample text books sent them by publishers from all over the country. A special meeting to determine the text book question will be called by the governor some time in May.

A strange character, Dr. J. B Newbrough, died at Las Cruces, April 22. He was leader of the Shalam sect, and at one time a prominent Spiritualist of New York. Eight years ago he made a crude complication of various religions, calling the book "Oaspe." The god of his bible is called Tae. The colony near Las Cruces was established about seven years ago, and several hundred thousand dollars have been expended on their land in irrigation and improvements.

Right the Pension Wrong.

The total appropriations made by the Fifty-first Congress for pensions and other war claims amounted to $306,951,950, or about one-third of the total income of the Government for the two years of that Congress's existence. Excluding all but the direct pension appropriations the amount is $288,329,751.

Now, every dollar of this money comes out of the hard earnings of the American people, and, the pensions being continuous, like sums must be spent every two years for the same purpose, or greater sums if something is not done to check the raid upon the Treasury Office.

The country does not grudge one dollar of this money which honestly goes to relieve the distress of any old soldier fairly entitled to consideration. But advantage has been taken of this sentiment by a horde of pension agent banditti. The rolls have been crowded with false and fraudulent claims. The laws have been made so loosely as to encourage this robbery, and, while the really deserving old soldiers get smaller pensions than they should have, a very considerable portion of the total expenditure for pensions goes as plunder to the undeserving —to men who have no claim upon the nation's bounty, and in many cases to men whose claim is founded in fraud, pure and simple.

It will be the duty of the Fifty-second Congress to overhaul the Pension Office resolutely; to search out the frauds and remove them, to remodel the laws and compel their honest administration. This is a duty which Congress cannot shirk without manifesting a cowardice as shameful as that which Mr. Cleveland had so many occasions to rebuke, that which forbade men of either party to raise a voice in defense of the Treasury or in behalf of common honesty when private pension bills of a fraudulent character were being passed by scores and hundreds without examination.

A great wrong has been done and its effects will be continuous unless Congress has the courage to right it. What the measure of courage is we shall see during the coming year.—N. Y. World.

The population of Vermont increased just 136 souls in the ten years ending in 1890.

THE PRESIDENT AND TRADE WITH MEXICO.

In his speech at El Paso the President said: "I am glad to stand at this gateway of trade with the great Republic of Mexico. I am glad to know that it is not only a gateway of commerce, but a gateway of friendship. That not only do these hurrying vehicles of commerce bear the produce of the field and mines in mutual exchange, but that they have facilitated those personal relations which have promoted and must yet more promote the friendliness of two independent, liberty-loving people. * * * I look forward with intense interest to a larger developement of our trade."

And yet it was this same President Harrison's Secretary of the Treasury whose orders put almost a complete stop to "these hurrying vehicles of commerce," commonly called freight cars, which bore the product of the Kansas cornfields and the Mexican mines in mutual exchange. And this same President Harrison used his influence in favor of and exultingly signed his name to the McKinley bill, which contains a proviso specifically designed to stop permanently this mutual exchange of the products of Mexican mines and Kansas fields.

Probably Mexico has suffered little from this interruption of a commerce which President Harrison says he looks upon with so much interest. As to this the information is meagre. But it is certain that the farmers of Kansas had a foreign market for their corn closed to them; that smelting establishments in Texas and Kansas were closed, and that the owners of American mines producing refractory silver ores were left at the mercy of the "carbonate ring."

To the injury of many and large American interests the President assisted in closing that gateway of commerce which seems to him such a beautiful thing when he sees it on his junketing tour.—National Democrat.

The government has finally succeeded in inducing a number of Brule Sioux to enlist in the army, enough to organize a company of cavalry. This fact is heralded over the company as proof that there is no farther danger of an uprising among those Indians this spring. On the contrary, it is a serious question whether it does not actually increase that danger. The Indian is not a possible danger on foot, but a very grave danger on horseback. His home is in the saddle. To enlist him as a cavalryman is simply to furnish him with arms, horses and accoutrements with which to start at any moment on a raid upon the settlements, fully equipped at the expense of the government for marauding and butchery more general and terrible than would be possible under other conditions. It is to be hoped that, if this method of averting Indian disturbances is to be persisted in, the government will proceed very slowly and cautiously, till the effect upon the Indian shall have been fully demonstrated.—Deming Headlight.

The Italian consul at New Orleans, Signor Corti, insists that all but two of the Italians killed by the mob on March 14 were Italian subjects, and that this will be the basis upon which all claims will be presented. Their names, he says, have been on the registration lists, and they may have voted, but they had no right to do so, not having been in the country long enough to be naturalized. Corte states as a fact that the records of his office show a list of 5000 registered persons not really qualified to vote, yet helping to make the laws, while having no idea, as well as no desire, in registering, that they renounced allegiance to the King of Italy. A nice state of things for the patriotic American to contemplate, surely. They are citizens enough to assist in making and corrupting our laws, but claiming all the while proteetion as subjects of an European monarch, and continuing in full their allegiance to him. If the revelations of this Italian imbroglio fail to awaken the eyes of our people to existing dangers, nothing can be relied on to do so.—Portland (Me.) Transcript.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat is tired of Russell Harrison's vapid mouthings and says: "Mr. Russell B. Harrison, the President's son, is a young gentleman with an intellect full of aching voids. He is part owner of a newspaper in New York, and in that newspaper he takes occasion to say very emphatically that Mr. Blaine will not be a candidate for President next year. One of these days it may occur to young Mr. Harrison that his noblest gift to the American people would be a rest."

Uncle Blaine is working hard for reciprocity with Cuba, which will furnish New England with molasses to turn into rum, and he is working just as hard to get away from reciprocity with Canada, which has cabbage and cucumbers to sell in competition with the New England truck patches.

Spain, according to recent reports has created a reciprocity treaty affecting the trade between this country and the great and fertile island of Cuba. Cuban Sugar and Havana cigars are to be received in this country free of duty and various products of our land are to be exempt from custom exactions in the Queen of the Antilles.

Mrs. Nellie Grant-Sartoris, accompanied by the Misses Nivian and Rosemary and Master Lionel Sartoris, landed in New York, Monday.

It is a singular fact that since the present difficulty arose with Italy the Italian immigration to the United States has almost doubled. It appears, then, that the New Orleans method of dealing with the Mafia mob has no fears for the better element of Italy—and they must be of the better element if they are permitted to land under our new immigration laws.—New Mexican.

Baron Fava has arrived at home and still no war has been declared, and probably will not be. The government of Italy is kept busy standing off her creditors.

Mr. Harrison is asking California to excuse him from attempting to say anything original. The request is hardly necessary. No one ever expected him to be original. He is an Indiana Republican, and is well known.

It may not be out of the way to call the attention of the Republican press to the fact that the city of Savannah, Ga., recently gave a bonus of $15,000 for the establishment of the state negro college in that city.

Prof. A. L. Totten, of Yale, predicts the reappearance of Christ in March, 1899. He bases his prediction on mathematical calculations deduced from statements or utterances made in certain passages in Scripture.

Editorial note in the El Paso Times:

If Denver really desires closer and quicker commercial intercourse with El Paso and New Mexico, let Denver join El Paso in building a road through from El Paso to Denver via White Oaks.

The Rio Grande is getting out of its banks at El Paso. Forty Mexican families were compelled to move out of their houses in the lower part of that city. La Union, a little town in New Mexico, just above El Paso, is reported under water.

Ground has at least been broken for the erection of the Grant monument in New York city. It is to be hoped that the monument will be completed during the next century.

Seven men have been dismissed from the Koch hospital, Denver, pronounced permanently cured of consumption. A committee of five physicians passed upon their cases.

Mr. Newwed: "My dear, I wish you'd tell that cook we don't like our beefsteak burned, and don't want our roasts raw."

Mrs. Newwed: "Tell her? How can I? She never comes into the parlor, and she won't let me go into the kitchen."

The wood was symmetrically piled with the ax artistically placed on top, the whole arrangement showing the correct eye of the true artist. Now, if they will kindly come inside the office and reduce to order the formidable piles of "pi" lying around in picturesque confusion, our gratitude will overrun the ordinary measure by which this commodity is supposed to be kept within bounds.

Dried Fruit, Apricots, Peaches and Prunes, a new lot just in from Las Vegas—Brown & Uebrick.

"Pete" Reid returned from his trip to Mexico, Wednesday morning. He states that the party which left here in March, separated a month ago, Dr. Lane going to Colorado, while the last he saw of "the boys" they were starting out on the high road to fame and fortune, each on the back of his own particular burro. Later news is that they are prospecting in Sonora and think they have "caught on."

Mr. U. Ozanne has gone to the railroad with a load of passengers, who prefer his comfortable day coach to the night ride in the mail hack. Good accommodations for rest and meals are found at Ozanne's ranch, in the Oscuras, and the ride from White Oaks to Carthage has lost many of its terrors.

Mrs. C. L. Pearman desires to express her gratitude to the citizens of White Oaks for their kindness and assistance during the sickness of her husband, the late C. L. Pearman. Especially would she thank the members of the Order to which Mr. Pearman belonged, the Knights of Pythias, for their unremitting care and for assuming the responsibilities connected with the burial.

MILLINERY.

Mrs. W. F. Rogers has just received her Spring Stock of Bonnets, Hats, Baby Caps, Flowers, Feathers, Ornaments, etc., etc. She solicits the custom of the ladies of White Oaks and vicinity.

Corralling a drove of horses gives you plenty of work for hours. You don't have time to think what the weather is. You let everything slide, till the work is over. But the cowboy is never unprepared. When this "picnic" happens, whatever the weather, he is not drenched and wet to the skin before it's over, because he is always provided with a "Fish Brand Pommel Slicker." With one of these saddle coats on, you can't get wet if you try. Your entire saddle will be inside the coat, and it will be dry, too. Did you ever try the Pommel Slicker? Just try one, they cost very little. Then no more colds, fevers, rheumatism, and other results to exposure of weather. Every garment stamped with "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. Particulars and illustrated catalogue free.

MR. LEE. "Why, Addie, you needn't cry about it! I only said Mrs. Allen was a very well-informed woman, and I wished you would follow her example."

MRS. LEE. "Yes, and last week you said you wished I could manage to look as stylish as Mrs. Allen,—and she makes all her own clothes. But she has what I haven't."

MR. LEE. "What is that?"

MRS. LEE. "Well, she gets all of her information from the Magazine they take. I admit that she knows all that is going on, and is bright and entertaining in conversation; but I could do as well as she does if I had the same source of information. She lent me the last number of her Magazine lately, and I learned more in one hour's reading, about various social matters and the topics of the day, than I would pick up in a month by my occasional chats with friends. It certainly covers every topic of interest, from the news of the day down to the details of housekeeping; and everything is so beautifully illustrated, too. Every time Mamie goes over to the Allens' she comes back and teases me to get you to take Demorest's Family Magazine, as the stories are so good. Even the boys watch for it every month, as a place is found for them also in its pages; and Mr. Allen swears by it. It is really wonderful how it suits every member of the family!"

MR. LEE. "Well perhaps I had better send for a Specimen Copy; for, if it is anything like what you say it is, it will amuse and instruct the whole of us."

MRS. LEE. "I see that W. Jennings Demorest, the publisher, 15 East 14th Street, New York, is offering to send a Specimen Copy for 10 cents, so we can't lose anything, as each number contains a 'Pattern Order' entitling the holder to any Pattern she may choose, and in any size—which alone makes each copy worth 30 cents; and I just want a jacket pattern like Mrs. Allen's. The subscription price is only $2.00 a year; and I must say I can't see how they can publish so elegant a Magazine for so little money."

If you have not examined the new illustrated monthly which has had so phenomenal a success during the past year, it is worth your while to do so. An increase in Circulation from 16,000 to 50,000 copies in 12 months means that there must be some attractive features about the

It gives 1536 pages annually by the ablest writers and over 1200 illustrations by clever artists. No magazine has ever advanced more rapidly in public favor. Buy a copy at the newsstand.

$300 REWARD

FOR ORE THIEVES!

The common experience of this camp shows that much is lost by the mine operators by the stealing of gold in specimens, if not in amalgam and bullion. Therefore the "Old Abe" Co. offers a standing reward of Three Hundred Dollars for the arrest and conviction, or for information leading to the arrest and conviction of sny person guilty of stealing any of the property of the Old Abe Co., even the smallest specimen of ore. The rule of this company is to mill all specimens. Therefore none of the ore from this mine can be honestly held as specimens. And as the receiver, with guilty knowledge, is as guilty in law as the thief, this offer applies to the holders of Old Abe specimens.

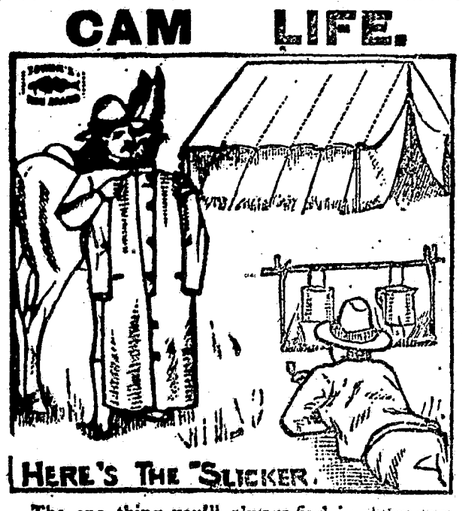
CAM LIFE.



HERE'S THE "SLICKER."

The one thing you'll always find in every cowboy's outfit when he goes on the spring round-up is a "Fish Brand" Pommel Slicker. They make the only perfect saddle coat, and come either black or yellow. They protect the whole front of the rider's body, being made to fit round the outside of the saddle entire. When used as a walking coat, the extension pieces neatly overlap each other, making a regular overcoat with a double stormproof front. When riding, the saddle is dry as a bone, from pommel to cantle, and the rider is entirely protected in every part of his body. These "Slickers," being of extra width, make fine blankets for camp. Beware of worthless imitations, every garment stamped with "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. Particulars and illustrated catalogue free.

SAVE MONEY AND SUFFERING.

One feature of the thousands of testimonials that have been given in behalf of S. S. S. is remarkable. In numbers of instances it is related that a great deal of time and money have been spent in a vain effort to secure relief from disease in the usual way. A knowledge of the virtues of Swift's Specific would have saved the time and the money, to say nothing of the prevention of the suffering. There need be no such mistakes made now. The great blood purifier is for sale by druggists everywhere, and the S. S. S. company in Atlanta will send to any address their Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases free, and a pamphlet containing a few of the thousands of testimonials they hav received from those who have experienced the benefits of this wonderful medicine.

HEED THE WARNING.

It is not infrequently the case that itching pimples and irritating "cat boils" are the forerunners of larger boils, or the most serious carbuncles. Invariably Nature puts out her danger signals, and they should be heeded at once. The pimples and little boils show that the blood is not in a good condition and nature is trying to relieve the system. A few doses of Swifts Specific at this juncture will accomplish wonders. The eruption will be healed and the system cleansed of its impurities. The modern paraphrase of the old saying, "A stitch in time," etc., is that "Timely stitches will save nine pairs of breeches." The modern form has a touch of humor that does not modify the truth of it. In that vein, we may say that a course of Swift's Specific prevents ills terrific.
