Somewhat Ancient.

Among the recent acquisitions of the Historical Society is an interesting map of Old Mexico, New Mexico and the coast of Florida, printed at Paris, exactly two hundred years ago, in 1706. The map was prepared by N. de Fer, geographer of the Dauphin, and embraces all of the continent from Panama on the south to Santa Fe on the north and from California to Cuba. The southern part of what is now the United States is divided between New Mexico in the west and Florida in the east. Among the most conspicuous features are the famous mines of Santa Barbara, in the province of New Biscow, near which is now Chihuahua. The only places shown in New Mexico are Santa Fe and San Antonio de Seyecu, the latter as a village and the former as a royal city and capital.—Ex.

Capitan vs. Stanton.

The first ball games of the season, for this section, were played between the Capitan and Stanton teams; Sunday at Stanton and Wednesday at Capitan.

The Sunday game was a marvel of batting, running, catching and throwing, and but for the fact that both teams were soft and could not stand the pace, the result would have been still more marvelous. As it was, Stanton made 29 runs and Capitan 13. A pretty fair start, though as heretofore mentioned, if the players had not become exhausted, the score might easily have stood 63 to 37.

J. F. Wright, a man who once had two bad lungs, put the sphere out in the alfalfa field and walked home, that being the only home run scored by either side.

The game yesterday started out favorably for the home team, and, in the beginning, had the appearance of a shut out for the visitors; yet in the fourth inning Capitan's infielders went to sleep on the bases and never woke up till the visitors had made the score 15 to 8. After that inning the outfielders of the same team seemed to have been doped, in fact, took lengthy naps; and at the end of the seventh inning the game stood 26 to 11, in favor of Stanton. About that time the air became sulphuric, Capitan's catcher went blind and the game was called.

We do not mean our readers to infer that the Capitan team cannot play, for it contains several fair players, but some, evidently, had been grazing on sleepy grass and under these conditions what other result could have been expected.

Another game has been matched by the same teams, and will be played on the Capitan diamond in the near future. The manager for the home team has ordered a liberal supply of high life which will be freely used as the occasion may require.

H. B. Hamilton, the Lincoln Attorney, returned yesterday from Alamogordo. We understand that the ejection cases, arising from parties occupying a part of the Fort Stanton Marine Hospital Reservation, were compromised.

Roswell to Get Railroad.

Roswell, N. M., May 30.—Tom W. Perkins, mayor of McKinney, Texas, writes to G. R. Hunt of Roswell, in reply to a letter of inquiry, that the work of grading has been commenced at the McKinney end of the line of the New Mexico and Pacific railway, and says he is confident that the road will be pushed to completion so as to give direct connection with Roswell and the Pecos valley at as early a date as possible, all the circumstances considered.

Publisher's Notice.

In its June make-up Bob Taylor's Magazine keeps up its own admirable standard. Bob Taylor's editorial department opens with a sympathetic comment on the San Francisco catastrophe and this is followed by a table of comparative statistics on similar disasters.

The preparations for the Jamestown Ter-Centennial make J. K. Collins' "Jamestown and Vicinity" and Waldon Fawcett's "Monticello As It Appears Today" of especial timely interest; While "Peaks and Rainbows in Skyland," by Leonora Beck Ellis, and "Picturesque Cornwall," by J. H. Stevenson, will be read with attention by those interested in summer travel.

One of the most popular departments is that devoted to "Some Beautiful Women of the South." This preserves a record of beauty of which the South is justly proud. The fiction, in addition to "The Shadow of the Attacoa," which increases in interest with each issue, comprises:

"Jimmy Jurgens' Bridal Journey" by Gelston Spring; "A Dixie Girl's Letters," by Louise Forssland; "The Widow's Might," by B. F. Napheys; "The Machinations of Aurora," by Garnett N. Wiley. "Trend of the Times" is a new editorial department devoted to current events. The travel department, the book notes and the theatrical pages are all well sustained.

"BRYAN NEXT PRESIDENT."

Omaha, Neb., May 26.—Bryan will be the next president, was the emphatic declaration today of Col. John I. Martin, of St. Louis, Sergeant-at-Arms of three democratic national conventions. Mr. Martin stopped in Omaha today, on his return from a business into Nebraska, long enough to congratulate National Committeeman Jim Dahlman, who took office as Mayor of Omaha this week.

"In my position," said Martin. "I have no candidate. I must represent the whole party. But, sir, Bryan will be the next president. He never was so strong as he is today, and his strength is growing. The name of Bryan means organization in democracy; organization begets confidence, and confidence leads to success.

"He unquestionably holds the position as the leader of his party, free from jealousy and bickering, and has its confidence."

J. M. Rice, president of the Eagle Mining and Improvement Co., was down from Parsons yesterday. The Parsons mine is getting in shape for an active and profitable campaign this year.

SWINGING ROCK FIRMLY FIXED.

South American Natural Wonder Defied Dictator of Argentine.

One of the strangest of natural wonders of South America, is the swinging rock of Tandil (La piedra hoveidiza), says the Philadelphia Record. The stone lies about half an hour's walk from the city of Tandil, province of Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, upon the highest summit of a little rocky ridge. When seen from the ravine it has the form of a giant pyramid, while from another view it resembles an enormous cone. It is twenty-one feet long and twenty-eight feet high, and its weight is judged to be about 12,500 hundredweight, or about 627 tons. From the distance the stone presents a peculiar aspect. It is so highly poised on the rocky slope that it seems as if we were watching a stone roll down the hill and resting for a second upon a very small base. But when we approach this swinging rock we are astonished by a new wonder. We can set the stone in motion by merely pushing it with the hand. Very often the traveler is spared even the trouble of pushing the stone, as the wind will cause it to swing.

Early in the nineteenth century the Argentine Republic was ruled by the dictator Rosa with unparalleled cruelty for about twenty-five years. To show his supreme power the tyrant ordered that the stone be encircled with ropes and many horses to be harnessed to these ropes—but the stone could not be moved one inch from its resting place.

In Old New York.

It is the custom of the New York papers to sneer at the unsophisticated doings of the people in other parts of the country. Apparently, however, judging from the revelations made in the evidence of Col. Mann in the libel case now on trial, many of the most prominent and wealthy men of the metropolis were the easiest kinds of easy marks for parties who merely proposed to write them up favorably or unfavorably, according as they paid out their cash, generously or not. It is marvelous to read how easy it was to get large sums of money ostensibly as loans or in return for certificates of stock whose value bore no proper proportion to the money paid out. That the leaders of New York society should have been held up in this way argues ill for their common sense, and at the same time shows the total lack of real value to the utterances of the so-called society journal.—Pittsburg Post.

Very Plain Congressman.

Senator Beveridge was talking one afternoon to a group of newly elected congressmen.

"You boys," he said, "must on no account appear green. Keep cool, go slow, think before you speak; then you won't give yourselves away."

The unripe congressmen laughed, and Senator Beveridge continued:

"I should hate to hear that one of you had acted as a new congressman once did.

"He, as soon as he reached Washington, went off to a photographer's to be photographed.

"I want my likeness taken," he said.

"'Cabinet?' the photographer asked. 'The sitter reddened and looked pleased.

"'No,' he answered, 'just a plain, everyday congressman.'"

Sacrifice Imperative.

It was her first proposal, and, although somewhat rattled, she remembered the proprieties.

"You would give up everything for me?" she asked.

He answered her that he would.

"Even smoking?"

"I couldn't do that."

"Sir!"

"No; for I never smoked."

Then he had to promise to learn to smoke so as to have something to sacrifice. And in the heart of each the joy bells rang.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ferrets Carry Wires.

Superintendent of Construction Cline of the Bell Telephone Company, while superintending the laying of the underground system of conduits at Terre Haute, Indiana, employed ferrets to carry wires through the ducts. A rat is put in the duct and given a start ahead of the ferret to which is harnessed a line.

DAZED WITH PAIN.

The Sufferings of a Citizen of Olympia, Wash.

L. S. Gorham, of 516 East 4th St., Olympia, Wash., says: "Six years ago I got wet and took cold, and was soon flat in bed, suffering tortures with my back. Every movement caused an agonizing pain, and the persistency of it exhausted me, so that for a time I was dazed and stupid. On the advice of a friend I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, and soon noticed a change for the better. The kidney secretions had been disordered and irregular, and contained a heavy sediment, but in a week's time the urine was clear and natural again and the passages regular. Gradually the aching and soreness left my back and then the lameness. I used six boxes to make sure of a cure, and the trouble has never returned."

DIED SUDDENLY OF HEART DISEASE.

How frequently does a head line similar to the above greet us in the newspapers. The rush, push and strenuousness of the American people has a strong tendency to lead up to valvular and other affections of the heart, attended by irregular action, palpitation, dizziness, smothered sensations and other distressing symptoms.

Three of the prominent ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made are recommended by some of the leading writers on Materia Medica for the cure of just such cases. "Golden Seal root, for instance, is said by the UNITED STATES DISPENSATORY, a standard authority, "to impart tone and increased power to the heart's action." Numerous other leading authorities represent Golden Seal as an unsurpassed tonic for the muscular system in general, and as the heart is almost wholly composed of muscular tissue, it naturally follows that it must be greatly strengthened by this superb, general tonic. But probably the most important ingredient of "Golden Medical Discovery" so far as its marvelous cures of valvular and other affections of the heart are concerned, is Stone root, or Collinsonia Can., Prof. Wm. Paine, author of Paine's Epitomy of Medicine, says of it:

"I, not long since, had a patient who was so much oppressed with valvular disease of the heart that his friends were obliged to carry him up-stairs. He, however, gradually recovered under the influence of Collinsonin (medicinal principle extracted from Stone root), and is now attending to his business. Heretofore physicians knew of no remedy for the removal of so distressing and so dangerous a malady. With them it was all guess-work, and it fearfully warned the afflicted that death was near at hand. Collinsonin unquestionably affords relief in such cases, and in most instances effects a cure."

Stone root is also recommended by Drs. Hale and Ellingwood, of Chicago, for valvular and other diseases of the heart. The latter says: "It is a heart tonic of direct and permanent influence."

"Golden Medical Discovery," not only cures serious heart affections, but is a most efficient general tonic and invigorator, strengthening the stomach, invigorating the liver, regulating the bowels and curing catarrhal affections in all parts of the system.

BIRDS KILLED BY THOUSANDS.

Storms and Fogs Fatal During Seasons of Migration.

A gannet or Solan goose, the bird which has made the Bass Rock so famous, has been picked up in an exhausted state in a garden at Billingborough, Lancashire. It is rare that a bird so absolutely dependent on the sea for its existence is found so far inland.

Fogs, it has been shown, act as a deterrent to migration, causing the moving hosts to rise above the fog level, and so to pass over places they usually visit; or, overtaking them, they temporarily bar further progress.

The list of British birds owes its continual increase to fogs and other adverse weather conditions. During the last year or two British ornithologists, aided by lighthouse keepers, acting with the consent of the Elder Brethren of Trinity House, have done much to clear up the mysteries of migration.

During heavy wind and rain birds fly low when crossing the sea, barely overtopping the waves, instead of, as was supposed, rising above the clouds. Where lighthouses are stationed the birds fly to the white light in boisterous weather, and the death rate in consequence is appalling, tens of thousands striking the lantern and falling into the sea.—London Daily Mail.

Sorcerer's Costume.

The ancient sorcerer wore a long, loose garment, a coat with sleeves wide and flowing. The crown of the hat was long and pointed, while the brim was wide and drooping.

Golden Eagle Lassoed by Boys.

Two small boys armed with a lasso captured a golden eagle late Wednesday afternoon after an interesting struggle with the bird. The boys are the sons of Edward Franks. They were playing in the yard of their home when the great bird swooped down and lighted on the back fence. A hurried search for a gun was unfruitful, and as the bird seemed disinclined to leave other measures were employed by the nimrods.

Somebody suggested a lasso, and finally a noose of clothesline was cast about the bird and he was captured after a sharp battle.

It is said that the eagle probably flew so high that he encountered extreme cold and was unable to resist it.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

An exhibition of pictures was, some few years back, held in the Big Tun of Heidelberg. The space at the hanger's disposal, although limited, was employed to the very best advantage for the display of the cabinet paintings that were on view. An additional attraction was provided in the shape of music, to which on certain nights during the time the show lasted the company present footed it merrily.

IMPROVEMENT SOCIETIES.

How They May Be Organized in Every Town.

The organization of a society is simple. A president, secretary and treasurer are the necessary officers, and the committees which are appointed may be as many or as few as are required, says Harper's Bazar. It is very desirable to interest the town officials and the prominent citizens of the place and secure their co-operation. The school teachers should be enlisted and through them the children may be reached. The young people also should have a share in making plans for the town. The dues should be small, possibly $2 a year paid in quarterly sums, and in some places a promise of two days' work a year is also added, one day being given to home improvements, and the other to those of a public character.

The most important committee, because the one whose work is fundamental, is that on sanitation. The members are to investigate the town's water supply, the public sewers and drains, and the back premises of houses. The refuse too often thrown in rubbish heaps is to be carted away and destroyed; a place is to be provided for ash piles, and one where garbage may be carried by a public official and burned. These unsightly spots should be far from the center of the town and a thick hedge may screen the place from the highway. In all public places such as the railroad station, the village corners, and park had the schoolhouse yards there should be neat rubbish boxes placed, painted, not a burning red, as is too often the case, but a soft and inconspicuous leaf-green.

A PERFECT HAND.

How Its Appearance Became Familiar to the Public.

The story of how probably the most perfect feminine hand in America became known to the people is rather interesting.

As the story goes the possessor of the hand was with some friends in a photographer's one day and while talking, held up a piece of candy. The pose of the hand with its perfect contour and faultless shape attracted the attention of the artist who proposed to photograph it. The result was a beautiful picture kept in the family until one day, after reading a letter from someone inquiring as to who wrote the Postum and Grape-Nuts advertisements, Mr. Post said to his wife, "We receive so many inquiries of this kind, that it is evident some people are curious to know, suppose we let the advertising department have that picture of your hand to print and name it 'A Helping Hand.'" (Mrs. Post has assisted him in preparation of some of the most famous advertisements).

There was a natural shrinking from the publicity, but with an agreement that no name would accompany the picture its use was granted.

The case was presented in the light of extending a welcoming hand to the friends of Postum and Grape-Nuts, so the picture appeared on the back covers of many of the January and February magazines and became known to millions of people.

Many artists have commented upon it as probably the most perfect hand in the world.

The advertising dept. of the Postum Co. did not seem able to resist the temptation to enlist the curiosity of the public, by refraining from giving the name of the owner when the picture appeared but stated that the name would be given later in one of the newspaper announcements, thus seeking to induce the readers to look for and read the forthcoming advertisements to learn the name of the owner.

This combination of art and commerce and the multitude of inquiries furnishes an excellent illustration of the interest the public takes in the personal and family life of large manufacturers whose names become household words through extensive and continuous announcements in newspapers and periodicals.

TWO OPEN LETTERS

IMPORTANT TO MARRIED WOMEN

Mrs. Mary Dimmick of Washington tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well.

It is with great pleasure we publish the following letters, as they convincingly prove the claim we have so many times made in our columns that Mrs.

Mrs. Mary Dimmick

Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., is fully qualified to give helpful advice to sick women. Read Mrs. Dimmick's letters.

Her first letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have been a sufferer for the past eight years with a trouble which first originated from painful periods—the pains were excruciating, with inflammation and ulceration of the female organs. The doctor says I must have an operation or I cannot live. I do not want to submit to an operation if I can possibly avoid it. Please help me."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, Washington, D. C.

Her second letter:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"You will remember my condition when I last wrote you, and that the doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I received your kind letter and followed your advice very carefully and am now entirely well. As my case was so serious it seems a miracle that I am cured. I know that I owe not only my health but my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to your advice. I can walk miles without an ache or a pain, and I wish every suffering woman would read this letter and realize what you can do for them."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 50th and East Capitol Streets, Washington, D. C.

How easy it was for Mrs. Dimmick to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and how little it cost her—a two-cent stamp. Yet how valuable was the reply! As Mrs. Dimmick says—it saved her life.

Mrs. Pinkham has on file thousands of just such letters as the above, and offers ailing women helpful advice.

As an evidence that Arizona is not solidly committed against joint statehood, we reprint the following from the Tucson Star:

"The people of Arizona will favor, will prefer, they will vote for joint statehood, so soon as the question is presented to them in its every aspect, and when they come to understand the many accruing advantages in the interest of economical government, and the resulting of a great and influential state therefrom.

"It has been less than a year since the Star called for a discussion of the question by the press. Then there were not a dozen citizens in Tucson who would even discuss the question favorably. Today more than a majority of our people are favorable to statehood on the best terms congress will concede. More than a fourth of the population are strong in their avowal of a preference for joint rather than single statehood.

"Hence it will be seen that the growth of the idea in favor of a great state has been more rapid even the most sanguine advocates of jointure even dared to believe, much less predict."

We have often said that if the people of Arizona were given a chance to express their will, free from corporate influence, the probabilities very much favored the joint statehood bill when a constitution was presented. But it must be remembered that the corporations have that territory by the throat, and as long as they are enabled to pay taxes on a 10 per cent valuation, it naturally follows that they would oppose joint statehood. New Mexico has its faults, but when it comes to tax dodging we are not in it with our sister territory; hence the belief that the ordinary citizen of that territory would favor any kind of statehood to be relieved of the present intolerable conditions.

In the democratic primaries, held in Eddy county a week ago, about 1600 votes were cast, the increased vote coming from the new towns of Artesia, with 400; Dayton, 100; Lakewood, 130;

Hope, 110; Monument, 90; and various other little places swell the total. The most surprising result, perhaps, of the primary was the defeat of Cicero Stewart for sheriff by J. D. Christopher. Stewart has been sheriff of Eddy county since 1897, and has one of the best records in the territory. The vote shows a marked increase over two years ago, and the increase is largely in favor of the democrats.

The statehood bill is still hanging in the balance; but late reports indicate that the conferees of both houses will agree on the adoption of the first Foraker amendment, which calls for a majority vote of both Arizona and New Mexico on a constitution, yet at the same time makes it necessary to vote on election of a full set of officers.

The Santa Fe New Mexican has an unpleasant way of styling every paper that does not agree with a "yellow dog sheet." For this it deserves no credit, but despite this fact, the New Mexican has always been a readable journal, and has vastly improved of late. It is the case of taking the "bitter with the sweet."

The political pot is boiling in almost every section of the territory, save Lincoln county. It is high time to start the ball rolling here. The season is growing apace, and the offices must be filled. Trot out into the open, gentlemen; the voters would like to inspect your running qualities.

The marriage of King Alfonso XIII, of Spain, to Princess Ena, of Battenburg, has brought to the court of Madrid a great number of leading representatives of the world. The marriage itself is received with more popular favor in Spain than any during the last 100 years.

Woman's Narrow Horizon.

A government employer of many women clerks has declared that not one in twenty reads the papers or knows anything of geography or contemporary events, says Success Magazine. "Ask them if the Panama Canal is to be at sea level or not, and they will stare at if you were talking Chinese," he complained. "They may read the horrors in the papers, but they skip everything of value." He had his finger flatly on one of woman's chief defects—the lack of broad, impersonal interests. The average girl's horizon is bounded on the north by her clothes, on the south by her social relations, on the east by her private hopes, and on the west by her income; four solid walls that shut out very thoroughly the world's light and movement. She can never go far in any but mechanical work until she has climbed out into wider horizons, and she will be at the world's mercy until she opens her mind by an interest in what happens outside her circle of acquaintance.

Military Encampment.

The program mapped out by the general staff for the mobilization of the troops at a number of camps in the United States during the summer months contemplates that camps will be established at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming; Fort Riley, Kansas; American Lake, Washington, and Fort Clark, Texas. The chiefs of the special staff corps have been advised of the proposed summer plans, that details may be worked out pending congressional provision for the encampments.

A NECESSARY EVIL.

Experience of a Minister Who Tried to Think That of Coffee.

"A descendant of the Danes, a nation of coffee-drinkers, I used coffee freely till I was 20 years old," writes a clergyman from Iowa. "At that time I was a student at a Biblical Institute, and suddenly became aware of the fact that my nerves had become demoralized, my brain dull and sluggish and that insomnia was fastening its hold upon me.

"I was loath to believe that these things came from the coffee I was drinking, but at last was forced to that conclusion, and quit it.

"I was so accustomed to a hot table beverage and felt the need of it so much, that after abstaining from coffee for a time and recovering my health, I went back to it. I did this several times, but always with disastrous results. I had about made up my mind that coffee was a necessary evil.

"About this time a friend told me that I would find Postum Food Coffee very fine and in many respects away ahead of coffee. So I bought some and, making it very carefully according to the directions, we were delighted to find that he had not exaggerated in the least. From that day to this we have liked it better than the old kind of coffee or anything else in the way of a table drink.

"Its use gave me, in a very short time, an increase in strength, clearness of brain and steadiness of nerves; and sleep, restful and restoring, came back to me.

"I am thankful that we heard of Postum and shall be glad to testify at any time to the good it has done me." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

FELT A NATURAL RESENTMENT.

Inebriated Individual Felt He Had Been Unjustly Dealt With.

In a certain town there live the families of Jim Smith and John Smith. They live side by side, and the houses are nearly alike. They are not related in any way. Jim Smith is a saloonist and a promoter of prize fights; John Smith is a bank director, and his wife and daughters are leaders of society. Naturally it irks the John Smiths when, as might be expected, some one calls at their home and insists upon seeing Jim Smith.

One evening, after several calls of this sort had been made during the day, a man obviously under the influence of ardent liquor made his way with some difficulty up the steps of the John Smith home, rang the bell, and when the eldest daughter of John Smith appeared at the door, inquired blandly:

"Doesh—doesh Jim Smish live 'ere?"

Patience and temper had been worn out. The girl slammed the door in his face, exclaiming at the same time:

"No, he doesn't"

Dignifiedly the intoxicated man ambled down the steps, down the walk and to the gate. There he paused and thought, while from behind the curtains of the window the elder daughter of John Smith watched him curiously. She could see that he was muttering to himself. Finally he shook his head sagely and retraced his steps to the John Smith door. Again he rang the bell, and again the daughter opened it. Gazing at her with eyes that told of wounded sensibilities, he inquired resentfully:

"Who'n dickens shaid he did?"—Seattle Post Intelligencer.

The Bankrupt's Hymn.

There is a lawyer by the name of Hoxie out in Hampton, Iowa, who is noted within a reasonably limited territory as a consummate wag.

A few years ago a good old deacon in the Congregational church in that city, who had held many public as well as private offices of trust in the community, found himself on the verge of financial ruin. In endeavoring to recoup and save himself from insolvency, he dragged a large number of his unsuspecting friends into the maelstrom, and was finally compelled to resort to bankruptcy. Now we will use Hoxie's own words in telling the sequel: "The day was set for the deacon's discharge in bankruptcy, and after he had got his decree, I was going home for supper, when I heard the sound of music. I listened, and noted that it emanated from the Congregational church. I was in a quandary. This was not Sunday, nor yet prayer meeting night. I approached and peered through the door. There sat Deacon P—, oblivious to every surrounding, his face wreathed as with a beatific vision, a copy of the hymnal before his face, and he was singing that old familiar hymn, 'Jesus paid it all!'"—Green Bag.

A New Theory.

In an uptown school the teacher in one of the lower grades endeavored to instill a little information into her pupils on the subject of horses and their gaits, and then asked each of them to prepare a brief essay embodying some of the facts they had just learned. One of the boys thereupon prepared and turned in the following lucid offering:

"Some horses is called paceters. They can run faster 'cause they are bowlegged."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Calf Will Prove Costly.

An interesting suit has just been decided in the District Court at Buffalo, Wyoming, and will be taken to the State Supreme Court. The suit involved the ownership of a $10 calf. Several witnesses identified the calf as belonging to the plaintiff on the one hand, and the instinct of the cow and calf were put in evidence as proving motherhood on the other. Expert cowmen were called in to testify, and they swore that on the range the fact that a calf sucked a particular cow and that the cow permitted it was taken as conclusive evidence of parentage.

The case promises to go through all of the courts of the land. Something like $500 has already been spent by the litigants.

Supposed Pauper was Rich.

William S. Cook, the oldest initiated Odd Fellow in California, died recently, apparently in great poverty and his lodge buried him. He was even in arrears for several months' rent for a shabby room where he had lodged for thirty years. The public administrator's search of safe deposit vaults, however, revealed that Cook was a miser, who left more than $100,000 in bonds and other securities. His only relative is a brother in Virginia.

DE LAVAL SEPARATORS

have been placed by the Beatrice Creamery Co., of Lincoln, Neb., with its patrons during the past five or six years. The Beatrice Company is the largest and most successful creamery concern in the world. Its success and growth have been nothing short of marvelous. Before the adoption of the farm separator system the Beatrice Company used from 600 to 800 DE LAVAL factory separators. Their experience with these machines proved the DE LAVAL to be the most profitable of all cream separators. When their patrons demanded separators for home use they were given the benefit of this experience. The Beatrice Company realized that its success depended upon the success of its patrons. In view of this the DE LAVAL was chosen by them as the only separator which would bring about the desired result. That the DE LAVAL has come up to their expectation goes without saying. If this is the kind of experience you would profit by, write us today for new catalogue and full particulars.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA

A Desperately Serious Case Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Brought to the very verge of starvation by the rejection of all nourishment, her vitality almost destroyed, the recovery of Mrs. J. A. Wyatt, of No. 1189 Seventh street, Des Moines, Iowa, seemed hopeless. Her physicians utterly failed to reach the seat of the difficulty and death must have resulted if she had not pursued an independent course suggested by her sister's experience.

Mrs. Wyatt says: "I had pain in the region of the heart, palpitation and shortness of breath so that I could not walk very fast. My head ached very badly and I was seized with vomiting spells whenever I took any food. A doctor was called who pronounced the trouble gastritis, but he gave me no relief. Then I tried a second doctor without benefit. By this time I had become very weak. I could not keep the most delicate broth on my stomach, and at the end of a month I was scarcely more than skin and bone and was really starving to death.

"Then I recalled how much benefit my sister had got from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to take them in place of the doctor's medicine. It proved a wise decision for they helped me as nothing else had done. Soon I could take weak tea and crackers and steadily more nourishment. In two weeks I was able to leave my bed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were the only thing that checked the vomiting and as soon as that was stopped my other difficulties left me. I have a vigorous appetite now and am able to attend to all the duties of my home. I praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People to all my friends because I am thoroughly convinced of their merit."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists and by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

WORST FORM OF ECZEMA.

Black Splotches All Over Face—Affected Parts Now Clear as Ever—Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

"About four years ago I was afflicted with black splotches all over my face and a few covering my body, which produced a severe itching irritation, and which caused me a great deal of annoyance and suffering, to such an extent that I was forced to call in two of the leading physicians of my town. After a thorough examination of the dreaded complaint they announced it to be skin eczema in its worst form. They treated me for the same for the length of one year, but the treatment did me no good. Finally my husband purchased a set of the Cuticura Remedies, and after using the contents of the first bottle of Cuticura Resolvent in connection with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, the breaking out entirely stopped. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for six months, and after that every splotch was entirely gone and the affected parts were left as clear as ever. The Cuticura Remedies not only cured me of that dreadful disease, eczema, but other complicated troubles as well. Lizzie E. Sledge, 540 Jones Ave., Selma, Ala. Oct. 28, 1905."

BEYOND KEN OF LITTLE CHILD.

Advent of Black Angel Had No Significance for Him.

Mrs. Dash is young, handsome and worldly. Morning, noon and night she appears fresh and eager for its gaiety, for no one loves life more than she does.

She has a small son 3 years old who seems to carry round with him a soul at least 3,000 years old. He is a romantic, highly geared little chap, although sturdy and cherubic to the eye, a mere baby, and his parents have had the good sense to let him unfold from within under the guidance of an old world nursery governess.

The little lad's fancies are quaint and fantastic and the days are too short for his imagination to get its work in. Busy, indeed, is he with his pony, his small pets, his old nurse and his outdoor and indoor play.

Recently his lovely mamma was stricken with a serious illness. The telephone jangled all day with the inquiries of friends, servants with solemn faces moved about, noiseless trained nurses came and went, doctors arrived in swift motors and little "Chapple" was much impressed with his first knowledge of dangerous sickness.

In a fortnight he was summoned to the sickroom to see his mamma, who was beginning to feel the real glow of convalescence.

There was his mother sure enough lying palely beaming under a canopy of snowy laces against the embroidered pillows around which swept the very silken coverlid.

"Good morning, my baby boy," with a hug. "What has my blessed been doing while his mother was sick? What has he done with all the beautiful flowers that came?"

Lifting his head proudly and dimpling with pleasure, said he:

"I've been keeping the flowers fresh to put on your grave, dear mother."—Chicago Chronicle.

Fault of Our Civilization.

When a man sees a woman stumbling along with a bag that is twice too heavy for her, wearily shifting it from right to left and trying in vain to hold up her skirts with her elbows, his natural desire is to put his muscles at her service. It will be play for him to swing that bag upon a car, while to her it is a real difficulty.

Yet he knows his offer would be politely refused. Her face may express sentences varying from "I am sorry, but it wouldn't be proper" to "Mind your own business," but "No, thank you," would be the inevitable reply.

And all the time she would like nothing better than to accept his help. But she has heard warning tales all her life long; about the annoyances, the confusion and the terror strange men can inflict on imprudent women, and she is afraid to trust appearances or accent or any of the evidences of his caste and quality.

And probably she is wise. The devil is clever at masquerade, and it is easier to keep out of trouble than to get out of it. Yet what a long way we have gone from the original creation if one human being cannot put his hands out to help another without an introduction or a chaperon.—"Maude Muller" in Chicago Journal.

Better Than the Rack.

Nero grew weary of the bloody combats in the arena.

"They are getting stale," he yawned; "if I would avoid, ennui I must get something new."

"What shall it be, O illustrious one?" asked the Roman senator.

"Well, I think I'll found a naval academy. Then I can get some variety in the torture line."

And with the authority of an emperor Nero began appointing cadets from the young men of the empire who were noted for their cruelty.

THE PRESIDENT GETS EVEN.

It will cost ex-senator Chandler something for acting as the president's messenger and then telling the truth about it. Since the everybody-is-a-liar-but-Teddy incident the White House has been investigating Mr. Chandler's official position and discovered that his presence in Washington is not necessary.

News from Washington is to the effect that the president has discovered that the Spanish treaty commission, of which Mr. Chandler is the head, is not doing work enough to justify its existence, and the friends of the president say that the administration's well-known stern and conscientious devotion to the interests of the public requires that the commission be abolished.

A New York paper says why it was never discovered before that the job was a sinecure is not explained. Everybody outside the White House and the capitol has known it for a long time. However, it is stated that a careful examination shows that it cost the government $600,000 in salaries, expenses and rent to allow the claims amounting to $323,000, and that this cannot be permitted.

Mr. Chandler will be allowed to go on his way until September 5, at which time he will be free to write letters and statements to his heart's content; unhampered by official duties.

The commission was created for two years, with permission to the president to extend its life for six months at a time. The president has been extending it accordingly. The last extension was on March 5, and will be up to September 5. This will be the last extension. The chance to get even is too good to be allowed to pass without improving.—El Paso Times.

A sentiment of the people is desired—if you are against, come and say so, if you desire action, your presence is equally desirable. The doors are open.

A carnivorous animal of the genus Mephitis, odoriferous in character, of a semi-domestic nature, a connoisseur on chicken coops and an all-round familiar individual, visited our sanctum yesterday morning. A baseball bat and a broom, in the hands of our foreman and a friend who happened to be present, put this specimen of felinity out of existence; but it required 30 cents worth of carbolic acid to make the office fit for occupancy, and our foreman will not be able to attend church next Sunday as a result of a juxtaposition with the visitor.

Two murderers were swung into eternity, by due process of law, at Raton last week.
