BANDITS ATTACK TEXAS SETTLEMENTS

THREE AMERICAN TROOPS AND TEN-YEAR-OLD BOY KILLED IN BIG BEND SECTION.

THREE AMERICANS MISSING

Seventy Bandits Held at Bay Three Hours by Nine Cavalrymen at Glenn Springs, Texas.

Alpine, Texas—Villa bandits, some 70 in number, forded the Rio Grande Friday night and, sweeping 15 miles on American soil, raided the little settlement of Glenn Springs and attacked a detachment of American cavalry, consisting of nine men of Troop A of the Fourteenth cavalry.

Three troopers and a little 10-year-old boy were killed, two cavalrymen were wounded and another is missing. He is believed to be a prisoner of the bandits, who fled southward into Coahuila, Mexico.

Two American citizens, J. Deemer, and a man named Compton, according toreports received here, were carried across the Rio Grande and reports have it that their throats have been cut. A posse of 50 citizens of Marathon went in pursuit of the Villistas.

Three Troopers Dead.

The dead troopers are: William Cohen and Stephen J. Colock, New York City and Lawrence K. Rogers, Danville, Ky.

The missing trooper is Roscoe Tyree. The little boy was the son of Compton. He was deaf and dumb and the bandits are thought to have killed him in rage because he could not answer their questions.

Two troopers, Privates J. Birck and Frank Defree, were brought here badly wounded.

At 5:30 o'clock Thursday evening the mounted Mexican bandits forded the Rio Grande at Boquillas and swept into the little settlement, shouting "Death to the Gringos." The bandits surrounded the store of J. Deemer and after looting the place set it on fire. Deemer and a clerk named Compton were seized and bound.

Fifteen miles over the mountainous country the body of bandits made their way, heading toward Marathon, and in their night ride they came upon Glenn Springs, where a small detachment of nine cavalrymen under command of Sergeant Smyth Troop A, Fourteenth cavalry, was stationed.

Bandits Attack Camp of Nine

The Mexicans apppeared suddenly on the top of a hill beneath which Glenn Springs nesteled. Noting their numbers, Private Birck, on outpost duty, emptied his revolver to rouse the camp and then dashed back to the tent. Sergeant Smyth and Private Croskem jumped to the fly of the tent. Observing numbers of Mexicans at hand they ran to an adobe hut where the six other cavalrymen were preparing to make their defense. The door of the house, which had only one window, was barred, and Sergeant Smyth, seeing that his men were outnumbered by ten to one, gave orders to shoot carefully and not waste the ammunition."

Bandit Blood is Spilled.

The little band of nine men took turns shooting from the window. Bloodstains on the dry ground around the house furnished the only evidence that the bandits suffered in the attack, but Sergeant Smyth believes that seven or eight bandits were killed and some were wounded. For three long hours the fight went on.

The Mexicans fought in skirmish formation. That was proof to Smyth's eyes that he was dealing with a military body.

Set Fire to Hut.

Unable to rout the Americans from their mud-walled fort, the leader of the Mexican band gave orders to throw fire balls on the roof, which was thatched partly with tin and partly with candalaria weed.

There was no water in the house to check the flames and the fire threw down its heat like a boiler upon the nine soldiers below. The heat became intense and the faces and backs of the soldiers became blistered and burnt.

"I can't stand it any longer," cried Private William Cohen. "I'll take another shot and then try and make it through the window."

Cohen leaped into the window frame to make a dash for the open. A bullet split his skull and he fell back dead into the house.

Time to Make a Dash

Smyth told his men that the time had come to make a dash.

NO BREAK WITH THE GERMANS AT PRESENT

BERLIN NOTIFIED THAT U. S. RIGHTS ARE NOT CONTINGENT ON WHAT OTHERS MAY DO.

RESPONSIBILITY SINGLED OUT

Washington "Can Not for a Moment" Discuss Conduct of Any Third Government in Present Case.

Washington.—A note cabled by Secretary Lansing to Ambassador Gerard for delivery to the Berlin foreign office informs the German government that the United States accepts its "declaration of abandonment" of its former submarine policy and now relies upon a scrupulous execution of the altered policy to remove the principal danger of interruption of good relations existing between the two countries.

With this acceptance is coupled formal notice to Germany that the United States can not for a moment entertain, much less discuss, a suggestion that respect by German naval authorities of the rights of citizens of the United States on the high seas should in the slightest degree be made contingent upon the conduct of any other government affecting the rights of neutrals and noncombatants. This is in reply to the concluding statement in the last German note to the effect that while submarine commanders had been ordered to sink no peaceful freight or passenger-carrying ships without warning or without safety for passengers and crew the German government would reserve to itself complete liberty of decision unless the United States was successful in its efforts to break the British blockade.

Secretary Lansing issued a statement denying that the greater part of Germany's answer to the demand of the United States was devoted to matters which the American government could not discuss with the Berlin government, but he considered Germany had "yielded to our representation" and that we "can have no reason to quarrel with her" so long as the policy is lived up to.

Candidate Announcements.

For Sheriff,
JOHN B. BAIRD.
C. W. HYDE.

For Tax Assessor,

Walker Hyde for Sheriff.

The Mountaineer is authorized to place in its announcement column in this week's issue the name of C. W. Hyde, of Carrizozo, as a candidate for Sheriff of Lincoln county. Mr. Hyde is an old settler in the county. He came here in the spring of 1885 and was engaged in the cattle business up to seven years ago; his work on the range brought him in close contact with all the stock men of the country, and he is well known by all the old settlers in the county. Mr. Hyde not only has an extensive acquaintance, but is very popular among all the people—new as well as old settlers. Since going out of the stock business he has served as Deputy Sheriff and understands perfectly well the duties of the office he seeks. For the past six years Mr. Hyde has been a special agent of the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad Co., and is regarded by the management of the road as a very valuable man for the work assigned him. He is a competent man in every sense of the word for the office of sheriff and would certainly discharge the duties of the office to the satisfaction of the people and with credit to himself. It is Mr. Hyde's intention to visit all parts of the county and see all the people during the campaign. He is making the race subject to the action of a Democratic primary election, and invites those who have not formed his acquaintance to closely investigate his qualifications to fill the office and his character as a citizen.

To Our Subscribers.

We will most respectfully say to our delinquent subscribers and others owing the office that we are needing money very much. It is not saying too much to state that we have given you a good local paper during past year and are preparing to improve it, and greatly need what is due us.

Will be Loyal to Their Country.

We can turn our entire minds to it. There is no possibibility of actual menace to Roswell, we are too far from the border for that. Nor is there any sense in the fool talk of some alarmists in regard to the Spanish-speaking population, a small factor in the Pecos valley. For the most part such an insinuation is a grievous slander. Most of the race are just as loyal to the United States as though they were born in Iowa, and they would if necessity fight for the protection of New Mexico. There will be no necessity. All of these bogeys can be laid aside and Roswell may with undisturbed mind turn to the proper and generous solution of the problems left behind by the moving of Battery A. It is a big job, and it must be done right, under the leadership of the Red Cross.—Roswell Daily News.

We are glad to find others voicing our own opinion as to the probable course of our Native people in case of war with Old Mevico. Our acquaintance and association with the Spanish-Americans has not been of long duration, but so far we find them agreeable, neighbors and a law-abiding class of people. From the sentiments we frequently hear expressed among them we believe they will prove as loyal to the Government of the United States as would the people of Missouri or Arkansas. We have no fears of any local trouble on their part and we blieve it is the opinion of a majority of the American people of this whole part of the country.

Some Wonderful Shooting.

Denver, Colorado May 4th 1916.

The Titsworth Co. Capitan, New Mexico, Gentlemen—I am mailing you under seperate cover, posters advertising an exhibition of fancy expert rifle, revolver and shotgun shooting which I expect to give in your town, Tuesday May 23rd, at 3, P. M. for the purpose of demonstrating the wonderful shooting qualities of the amunition manufactured by The Peters Cartridge Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

This exhibition will draw a crowd, and will be a big advertisment for you. If possible, get permission for me to fire four or five shots in the street; this I do everywhere to attract attention just before the exhibition. There is no danger, as I will use a shotgun.

For the exhibition select a spot just outside the city limits where there will be no danger, taking care not to get too far out. Also be sure to choose a location where I will not have to shoot toward the sun.

Inform all the shooters and skeptics of my exhibition AND HAVE THE NEWSPAPERS MENTION IT. If you have a gun, arrange a trap shoot to follow the exhibition, if possible.

Thanking you in advance for your help, I am

Respectfully yours,
A. H. Hardy.

Notes from Luke's Corners.

Sandy Hanover and Jim Brimberry both are cultivating dry land crops this year. Their cane and macaroni both are up and growing, but the recent rains have soured the whole crop, they say, and they will have to replant.

Slop Bucket Dick was arrested for "Bootlegging" yesterday and the way he was caught at it came about in a very unusual way. The Mormon who has been dodging about the Corners the last few months was turning thanks or saying grace, which ever it was, and while doing so located a bottle of Lamascas Salve through a knot hole in the floor. He was tried before Judge Bloodgood today and plead guilty and turned loose.

The Nuxvomica mail carrier reports a shortage in the Aggerita Berry and Prickly Pear crop all down the draw this year, and they expect to have to live on beef and other cheap food.

As ever yours truly.

Message from Paradise Valley

Times are somewhat dull in Paradise Valley at the present, but suppose 'tis owing to the season. Spring time is here

Then comes sweet summer,
Laden back with a ripple cheer,
'Tis then life is worth living for.

Dr. Walker has returned home again after spending a few days with friends at Alto, and is now farming, planting corn and beans.

Mr. Riley, of Carrizozo, was in the Valley last week contracting for steers.

Boston Wright has gone to Santa Fe with a car load of witnesses in the federal court.

Gscar Stewart is certainly a hustler; he works early and late.

The big snow was quite a surprise, being so late in the spring for such weather. Some of our new comers are wanting to know if it snows all summer here. Most everybody had their corn planted before the snow and some of it was up.

W. L. Brooke, of Alto, we learn has located in Paradise Valley, and will be over soon to plant a crop of beans. We are certainly glad to have such a good citizen settle among us.

W. H. Sellers, Oscar Stewart and Roy Stewart run down on the Bonita on a business trip last week.

Mr. Abe Foster is working on the school house. He handles the shovel like an old time railroader.

Singing at Mr. Sellers' was well attended last Sunday night.

Simon the Jester.

The last moving picture play of the year will be shown at the school Saturday evening, the 13th. For this program the famous play, "Simon the Jester" dramatized from the novel by W. J. Locke, has been chosen. This special feature is shown in six reels produced by the Pathe Company as one of their "Gold Rooster Plays." The "Gold Rooster" label is placed only on the finest features produced by Pathe, stamed with all-star casts.

George Aded's comedy, "The College Widow," which was announced for this date, could not be secured in time, and "Simon the Jester," an even finer and more expensive feature play, was substituted.

A NEW MEXICO SONG.

Oh, give me a home in the golden west
Where the sand-storms sweep over the prairie's crest;
Where we've rattle snakes plenty and vinegar rhones,
And the night birds whistle Cassey Jones.

Where coyote scalps brings fifty cents,
And the bull-bats sleep on barbed wire fence;
Where the Mexican Quail and the whippowill,
Joins in the chorus of Steam Boat Bill.

Where the white-face cattle and the bronco steed,
Go out to nibble the loco weed,
And the farmers subsist on the beautiful scenes,
With an occasional mixture of rabbitt and beans.

We have no chills, no fevers, pelegra nor gont;
We look lean and hungry,
But we are strong and stout.

BOB'S COOK-BOOK.

It has long been a matter of common knowledge that Mr. Robert P. Ervien, commissioner of public lands, is a man of unusual versatility, but it is not so generally known that he is an adept in the culinary art if one may judge from the evidence at hand in the form of a most attractive booklet recently issued by the STATE LAND OFFICE under the title of "NEW MEXICO COOKERY."

The cover design is a characteristic scene of New Mexico, showing an adobe house adorned with long strings of red chile drying in the warm, autumn sunshine, with stately Lombardy populars in the background.

In this booklet are to be found many receipts that are published for the first time, more especially those that concern the preparation of dishes in which chile forms a principal ingredient. At first glance it might appear that a cook-book is a rather round-about way in which to advertise the resources of New Mexico, but in an interview with a representative of this paper Mr. Ervien stated that this special cook-book has a mission in the field of literature very similar to that of the hymn-book which advertised a certain brand of patent medicine. He said that in a little village, in the effete East, once upon a time, as the story runs, a struggling church was most anxious to secure a supply of hymn-books, but not having the funds necessary to purchase them, the minister of the church was on the alert for a generous donor of the books. One day a traveling agent for a patent medicine was in the village and hearing of the minister's perplexity the agent called upon him and offered to present the church the desired number of hymn-books, providing the minister would consent to having advertisements of the patent medicine which the agent represented printed in the books.

The minister was loth to accept on those terms, for it seemed almost like a desecration to him, but he certainly wanted those hymn books and after consulting with his trustees, he finally concluded that it would be excusable under the circumstances to take the gift so opportunely offered, and the agent was so notified.

The day before Christmas the hymn books arrived, and after a hasty glance through the books it was with a feeling of joy and gratitude that the minister failed to detect any indications of an advertisement, and came to the conclusion that the agent had repented of the commercial character of his gift, and in the generosity of his better nature had sent the books without the objectionable advertisements.

Christmas morning found a new hymn book in every pew, and with a beaming face the minister arose and requested the congregation to sing "Hymn Number 34." Imagine his consternation when these words greeted his ear:

"Hark the herald angels sing,
Take Doan's pills for anything
Peace on earth and mercy mild,
Two for a man and one for a child."

That's like Bob's Cook-book. Reading between the lines of every receipt in the booklet kind of an advertisement for New Mexico, telling the story of a wonderfully fertile land and giving the manner of cooking the products of the soil as "Those to the manor born" have been accustomed, to prepare them for generations, giving publicity to a personal knowledge of this special kind of cookery acquired only after many years of patient endeavor.

This little brochure on New Mexico cookery is a valuable contribution to New Mexican literature, and every housewife in the state, as well as many of those outside its boundaries will want a copy of this unique booklet, and if it accomplishes its mission of bringing to the attention of its readers a better understanding of the use of the special products of the soil of New Mexico, as well as an appreciation of the fertility of this land, this booklet will have served a most excellent purpose. Mr. Ervien states that this booklet is for free distribution, and if any one desiring it sent either to herself or her friends will kindly send names and addresses to the STATE LAND OFFICE, with request for the booklet on NEW MEXICO COOKERY, it will be mailed directly as desired.

Alleged Plotters Are Found Guilty.

New York.—The jury, which for ten days heard testimony of Robert Fay, a former lieutenant in the German army; Walter Scholz and Paul Daecho charged with conspiracy to destroy munitions ships through bomb contrivances, returned a verdict of "guilty" against all the defendants. The jury asked for clemency in behalf of Daecho, who, according to his own statements and those of Fay and Scholz, was an employe of Fay, and knew little of the details of the plots.

In Woman's Realm

Frock of Taffeta Should by All Means Be Included in the Outfit of the Girl Graduate—Dainty Touches That May Be Achieved by the Proper Selection of Pretty and Appropriate Neckwear, of Which There Is Plenty.

Outfitting the girl graduate for the closing of her school days and for her summertime occupations will certainly include providing her with one pretty frock of taffeta. There is no end to the variety in dresses of this kind, but among them all none more suited to a young girl could be found than the simple, cool-looking and graceful model which is shown in the picture.

The straight-hanging skirt is merely four lengths of the silk stitched together and hemmed. It is gathered with a narrow waistband. Two bands of taffeta, about four inches wide, are cut on the straight of the goods and edged with a narrow ruffle of the silk. This edging is set on to the band with a small piping and is cut on the bias of the silk.

A plain underbodice of chiffon or crepe has long easy-fitting coat sleeves. The skeleton overbodice is narrowed at the back and front except about the waistline, where the back is joined to the front pieces. It blouses a little and is felled into the belt at the front. There is a wide crushed girdle of the silk, and a sash with two short standing loops and two rounded ends is made of it also. It conceals the fastening of the girdle at the left side.

A net collar, edged with a narrow plaited frill of double net, is extended at the front to the waistline, forming an edging for the fronts of the overbodice. Very wide cuffs of the net are made to match the collar and extend a little way over the hand. The skirt is a little shorter than ankle length. The bands are machine stitched to the skirt with their underside turned out, and afterward the are turned down so that only on edge is sewed to the skirt; the lower edge is free. They serve to hold the skirt out from the figure, as fashion demands, as well as to ornament it.

To add the charm of daintiness to the toilette, or to make a plain blouse or dress more attractive, or merely to provide a careful and pretty finish, is the mission of neckwear.

Colored organdies in light tones and tints are used in conjunction with white in borders and frills.

For little capes like that shown in the picture both white and colored organdies are used. These capes prove to be gems as accessories. Demure and quiet looking as they are, they succeed in focusing attention on themselves and are to be worn for outdoor dress as well as in the house. They are larger than the capes and cape collars similar in style but not intended for street wear. Plain borders and hemstitching or plaited frills and hemstitching finish them.

Ruffs are made of malines for wear with tailored or silk suits and often of the same color as the suit or a combination of two colors. Here again narrow side-plaitings give the malines the requisite body. The plaitings are sewed to a band of narrow ribbon just long enough to reach about the neck. A small ribbon bow and a little nose gay of flowers conceal the fastening of the ruff, or the flowers are sometimes mounted at the side, the ruff fastening with ribbon ties at the front.
