Do You Want to Win This War.

Every American citizen has but one duty at this time and that is to probe his conscience in answer to the query as to what he can individually do most effectually to aid in winning the war and crushing German militarism.

It is not enough that he buy a Liberty Bond, or subscribe to the Red Cross, or to Knights of Columbus or to the Y. M. C. A. He must support his country with his energy, his enthusiasm, and his will to the fullest extent of his ability.

If he does that, his conduct will include loyal support of the President of the United States and his administration in its war policies. President Wilson is charged with the burden of leading and directing the Nation in its fight against the Hun. He is entitled to and receives the loyal and patriotic and wholesoled support of every American who has any conception of his duty.

If YOU want to win the war, let this thought be left with you. It is as important tothat you vote right as that you give your money right.

The honest conscientious American this year will vote as his son shoots.

Rev. E. B. Atwood, of Albuquerque, is to preach a special sermon at the Baptist church here at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Everybody invitor; all Baptist urgently requested to attend. Rev. Atwood is the corresponding secretary of the Baptiss state convention and Editor of the Baptist New Mexican.

O. Fred Arthur, Supervisor of the Forest Service with headheadquarters at Alamogordo, was in Capitan this week and while in town called on the Mountaineer. Mr. Arthur is a man of fine address and we're always glad to meet people of this kind. He is in this part of the country looking after Forest matters and reports everything moving along smoothly. He reports that Mr. Brubaker will be in charge here with his office in the Post Office Building.

Democratic County Convention.

The Democratic county convention was held in Carrizozo last Monday. In the temporary organization Judge Hewitt was selected to the chair, and Candido Chavez secretary.

A committee from each of the precincts represented was appointed on credentials, order of business and resolutions, and the convention adjourned until 2 p. m.

At 2 p. m the convention convened and Judge Hewitt was made permanent chairman and M. B. Paden secretary.

After some other preliminaries it was annouced that ballotting for candidates was in order and the chair appointed A. S. McCamant, B. F. Goff and Geo. Kimbrell to count the vote.

The first ballot for sheriff the vote stood:

Ed Harris	1
John B. Baird	22
Geo. Clemento	20
C. W. Hyde	20
Dr. Bannigar	1
Second ballot.
Clements	20
Hyde	18
Baird	26
Harris	5
Third ballot
Clements	22
Hyde	10
Baird	31
Harris	5

Hyde withdrew his name from the convention.

Fourth ballot,
Clements	21
Baird	26
Harris	5
W. O. Norman	2

John B. Baird having received a majority of the votes cast was declared the nominee of the convention.

Under suspension of the rules Geo. L. Clements was unanimously nominated for Clerk, Wayne Vanscoyck for Treasurer, Frank R. Miller for Tax Assessor.

The rules were suspended and Geo. Kimbrell was unanimously nominated for Probate Judge.

On ballot for Supt. of Schools, J. E. Koonce received 34 votes and Miss L. B. Spellman 29. Mr. Koonce then withdrew in favor of Miss Spellman, and the rules were suspended and she was declared the nominee.

B. R. Robinson was unanimously nominated for Surveyor.

John L. Bryan, A. S. McCamant and Robert H. Taylor were nominated for county commissioners.

The rules were then suspended and Neil H. Bigger was unanimously nominated for Representative in the Legislature.

M. B Payden and W. O. Norman were selected as State Central Committeemen.

Professor and Mrs. May gave another one of their fine moving picture shows last Friday night the 27th. The Mountaineer people were unable to attend on account of unavoidable reasons. The Mays not only produce good shows but are very pleasant people have many friends who are always glad to see them.

Will Coe of Glencoe was here last Sunday. Mr. Coe was on his way to Santa Fe where he went as a delegate to the Republican State Convention.

John B. Baird.

The Mountaineer places before its readers this week the name of John B. Baird as the Democratic nominee for Sheriff of Lincoln county. Mr. Baird entered the race some two weeks before the primaries were held and developed strength enough to give him the nomination on the fifth ballot.

Mr. Baird has had considerable experience as a peace officer, having served as Deputy Sheriff and cattle sanitary inspector and fully understands the duties of the sheriff's office. He has always been a democrat and worked for the interest of his party and its nominees in all its campaigns since he reached manhood. Now that his party has honored him with the nomination for the responsible position of sheriff he proposes to meet the full expectation of his friends who proved themselves so loyal to him in the race and to make all the people of the county a first-class sheriff in every respect, should he be elected.

"Shorty" Miller for Tax Assessor.

Frank R. ("Shorty) Miller, of Carrizozo, was nominated by the Democratic county convention last Monday. This nomination was made by acclamation which shows Mr. Miller's popularity and the confidence the party has in his ability to make a good tax assessor. Mr Miller was formerly a railroad employe, and while in that service met with the misfortune of getting both legs cut off at the knees. Notwithstanding this "Shorty" has made a living for himself and family; for some time past he has been inspector for the sheep sanitary board and is giving splendid satisfaction He is a loyal Democrat, having worked for the interest of his party every since he became a voter and this is the first time he asked for an office. Mr. Miller is well qualified to attend to all the duties pertaining to the assessor's office, and no better selection of a candidate for that office could have been made by the convention.

For County Commissioner.

The Democrats in their convention last Monday did not overlook the importance of nominating good business men for County Commissioners. In the first district, Mr. A. S. McCamant was proposed and nominated by acclamation. Mr. McCamant is a well known ranchman living at Corona. He is known as a fine business man and an excellent citizen; he knows the needs of the county as well as any man other man in it. His nomination is a wise one in every particular and will certainly have the endorsement of all the Democrats in the county as well as many Republicans.

Jack Price who has been spending a few days on a furlough visiting his wife Mrs Mary Howard Price returned to Camp Travis Wednesday. He is in the Medical Corps. His friends were glad to see him and it is their hope that the war will soon end in an advantageous peace and that he and the rest of the boys will soon be back.

Mr. Bennett of the Pumpkin Center community we learn has moved to Arkansas. He went with C. S. Rockwell.

Robert H. Taylor for County Commissioner.

The Mountaineer places before its readers this week the name of Robert H. Taylor as the Democratic nominee for County Commissioner in Precinct No. 2 which embraces Capitan. Mr Taylor has lately moved to Carrizozo from White Oaks where he lived many years. He has served his people heretofore as Commissioner, and is said to have made a good one. The people of both White Oaks and Carrizozo strongly urged his nomination—the two communities where he is best known. This of itself shows Mr. Taylor's fitness for the position and the confidence reposed in him. It is Mr. Taylor's intention to visit the people in the different parts of the county and meet all his old acquaintances and form the acquaintance of the new comers. No better nomination could have been made.

The state of New Mexico is richer by $59,505.62 due to the receipt by Governor W. E. Lindsey from the federal government of a warrant for that amount which is the percentage due the state from the revenues of the national forests as of date June 30.

That Albuquerque is to become an important Red Cross training center was made clear by the announcement by Miss Sarah Geber, of the Denver Red Cross, that a home service institute will be started after Christmas. Other institutes are to follow, Miss Geber intimated.

NO COMPROMISE ON PEACE TERMS

IMPARTIAL JUSTICE IS PRICE OF PEACE, DECLARES PRESIDENT IN NEW YORK.

GUNS TO SILENCE DRIVE

VITAL ISSUES OF WAR STATED BY EXECUTIVE IN FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN SPEECH.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

PEACE TERMS IN BRIEF.

First, the impartial justice meted out must involve no discrimination between those to whom we wish to be just and those to whom we do not wish to be just. It must be a justice that plays no favorites and knows no standard but the equal rights of the several peoples concerned.

Second, no special or separate interest of any single nation or any group of nations can be made the basis of any part of the settlement which is not consistent with the common interests of all.

Third, there can be no leagues or alliances or special covenants and understandings with the general and common family of the league of nations.

Fourth, and more specifically, there can be no special, selfish economic combinations within the league and no employment of any form of economic boycott or exclusion except as the power of economic penalty by exclusion from the markets of the world may be vested in the league of nations itself as a means of discipline and control.

Fifth, all international agreements and treaties of every kind must be made known in their entirety to the rest of the world.

New York.—The price of peace will be impartial justice to all nations, the instrumentality indispensable to secure it is a league of nations formed not before or after, but at the peace conference; and Germany as a member "will have to redeem her character not by what happens at the peace table, but by what follows." This was President Wilson's answer, given Friday night before an audience of Fourth Liberty Loan workers here to the recent peace talk from the central powers, although he did not refer specifically to the utterances of enemy leaders

Shortly before the President started speaking, news of the further successes of American, British and French offensives on the western front reached the meeting at the Metropolitan opera house, and this gave dramatic point to Mr. Wilson's peroration—that "peace drives can be effectively neutralized and silenced only by showing that every victory of the nations associated against Germany brings the nations nearer the sort of peace which will bring security and reassurance to all peoples and make the recurrence of another such struggle of pitiless forces and bloodshed forever impossible, and that nothing else can."

"We are all agreed," he said, "that there can be no peace obtained by any kind of bargain or compromise with the governments of the central empires, because we have dealt with them already and have seen them deal with other governments, that were parties to this struggle, at Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest. They have convinced us that they are without honor and do not intend justice. They observe no covenants, accept no principle but force and their own interest."

Five thousand persons who filled the Metropolitan opera house to capacity heard the President. Five minutes before his arrival a guard of soldiers, sailors and marines seated at the rear of the platform were suddenly ordered to attention. They arose with a smart click of rifles, the national colors were advanced, and the great audience became silent until the President, without other warning of his coming, walked on the stage, escorted by Benjamin Strong, governor of the federal reserve bank of New York. Then a tremendous burst of cheering broke loose, which caused the President, after taking his seat, to rise three times in acknowledgement.

Mr. Strong read to the audience a summary of late reports showing American troops' advances during the day in France.

"Our boys in France do not learn readily when to stop fighting," he added. "That is the spirit in which we must raise the Liberty Loan."

Cheers greeted the news of the American successes, particularly when Mr. Strong said the Yankee troops in their drive had reclaimed 100 square miles of territory for France.

Proclamation by the President of the United States of America.

Every day the great principles for which we are fighting take fresh hold upon our thought and purpose and make it clearer what the end must be and what we must do to achieve it. We now know more certainly than we ever knew before why free men brought the great nation and government we love into existence, because it grows clearer and clearer what supreme service it is to be America's privilege to render to the world. The anniversary of the discovery of America must therefore have for us in this fateful year a peculiar and thrilling significance. We should make it a day of ardent rededication to the ideals upon which our government is founded and by which our present heroic tasks are inspired.

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do appoint Saturday, the 12th day of October, 1918, as Liberty day. On that day I request the citizens of every community of the United States, city, town and countryside, to celebrate the discovery of our country in order to stimulate a generous response to the Fourth Liberty Loan. Commemorative addresses, pageants, harvest home festivals, or other demonstrations should be arranged for in every neighborhood under the general direction of the secretary of the treasury and the immediate direction of the Liberty Loan committee, in co-operation with the United States bureau of education and the public school authorities. Let the people's response to the Fourth Liberty Loan express the measure of their devotion to the ideals which have guided the country from its discovery until now, and of their determined purpose to defend them and guarantee their triumph.

For the purpose of participating in Liberty day celebrations all employees of the federal government throughout the country whose services can be spared may be excused on Saturday, the 12th day of October, for the entire day.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the District of Columbia this 19th day of September in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Eighteen, and of the Independence of the United States of America the One Hundred and Forty-third.

WOODROW WILSON.

ROBERT LANSING,
Secretary of State.

REVEALS FOES' DIRE STRAITS

German Poster Reproduced by Bureau of Publicity Proof of Shattered Morale of Enemy.

A poster recently issued by the imperial German government in an effort to belittle the participation of America in the war and thus strengthen the morale of her people form the text of one of the most striking pieces of literature that the bureau of publicity of the war loan organization has prepared for use in the forthcoming Fourth Liberty loan.

The center of the poster is devoted to a drawing showing New York city on one side of the Atlantic and a tremendous explosion on the other side, probably somewhere in France. Two sinking vessels are shown in the lane of travel between New York and France, while in the offing are two U-boats securely afloat. "Opportunity for the German U-boats!" is the catchline for this section of the poster. The lane of travel in which the boats are sinking bears this inscription: "America—Europe. Distance 200 times greater than from England to France mainland." In a corner of this section of the poster are shown the names of Serbia, Montenegro, Italy, Roumania, Russia and Belgium. They are lined up in the order named under another exploding figure representative of the European war, and the names of all the countries except Italy are crossed out, indicating that they have been eliminated from the struggle by the Huns.

The title of the poster is "Can America's Entry Make a decision of the War?" Integral sections of it attempt to convince the render that America's army cannot take the place of Russia's withdrawn forces; that the United States cannot build enough ships to have any effect on the result of the war, and that the U-boats will destroy virtually all the ships that America can build when those ships attempt to cross the ocean.

Two millions of the booklets have been printed and will be distributed in various parts of the country, particularly in theaters where Liberty Loan speakers take the book as their text.

Every effort is made in the wording and the illustrations of the poster to minimize and ridicule the efforts of the United States in the war. A striking example of this is found in the figure of Uncle Sam, who is pictured as a cadaverous individual who wears an American flag with nine stars and five stripes around his plug hat and smokes a long-stemmed cob pipe. He also appears to be wearing spats or dancing pumps.

The enormous figure of a Russian soldier is the first object on the poster to strike the eye. He stands with hands in his overcoat pockets, indicative of the fact that he is through fighting. Beside him stands Uncle Sam holding a small spade, designed to represent the United States army, in his right hand. In his left hand Uncle Sam carries a banner which bears the inscription, "America threatens to send transport of one-half million men. But it cannot ship them!" Below Uncle Sam are these words: "It is impossible for America to train and fit out in time for the European war a suitable and sufficiently large army and provide it with the necessary reenforcements." The catchline of this section of the poster is "Russia's army of millions could not down Germany," and on the skirt of the Russian soldier's overcoat are printed these words: "Russia used up altogether fifteen million men in vain!"

On the opposite side of the poster is this catchline: "England's sea power and England's merchant marine have not decided the war!" Below this line appears a huge figure intended to represent the English shipping facilities at the outbreak of the war, which bears these words: "England went into the war with twenty million gross registered tons of freight space."

Alongside this figure of a ship is a drawing designed to show Uncle Sam carrying the United States tonnage under his left arm. The caption above Uncle Sam reads: "Can America replace England on sea?" On the ship which Uncle Sam carries is printed this inscription: "Three million gross registry tons" and below that is another inscription which says: "At the beginning of the war America had only a tonnage of three million gross registered tons." Commenting on these statements, the poster further declares "America cannot increase her gross registered tons for 1918 by more than two to two and a half million tons. Our U-boats sink twice as quickly as England and America can build!"

The answer of the publicity bureau to the two sections of the poster referring to the transportation of men and the building of ships follows: "At the moment the bulletin boards of Germany scoffed the possibility of America sending a force to France, there were already more than a million fighting men overseas, and transports, walled about by the American navy defying the cowardly submarines, were bearing every month hundreds of thousands more. The gauge is set and the summer of 1919 will see 4,000,000 fighting American men in France. Nor will there be a lack of ships to transport and sustain them. The Liberty Bond buyer is fast giving to America a merchant marine that will be the peer of any in the world. America launched in July alone 635,011 tons. Losses to allied and neutral shipping combined, from every cause, for the last six months, amounted to 2,089,393 tons.

"The distance from New York to England, the Boche points out," comments the bureau of publicity publication, "is two hundred times greater than that from England to France, from which he spells 'Opportunity for the German U-boats.' Pitiful is this boast in face of the facts. Instead of the U-boat being an unconquerable engine of war, as the Hun confidently expected, it has become the stinking foe of fishing smacks and other isolated craft. The vast army of Liberty Bond buyers, thirty millions strong, has built an unbroken bridge over the Atlantic ocean into the heart of the enemy's strongholds. Across this bridge there are streaming our millions of fighting men, as good as the world has ever known, munitions and equipment that have been wrought by those back home, whose determination is that the American fighting man shall lack nothing that he needs."

As a back-handed slap at the French, the German propagandists have reproduced a French poster which pleads with French people to eat less in order that the United States may send over more man power. The French poster pointed out that if every person in France would save a hundred grams of food a day that the American reinforcements could be increased a division a month. The French catchline on this poster was "Does France want wheat or men?" and the German poster remarks "Also the allies are now beginning to have their doubts!"

In a further effort to convince the German people that it will be impossible for the United States to transport troops to France, the German section of the poster says that ten tons of freight space are required for every soldier in crossing the water. The truth is that a soldier requires less than one-half this amount of space.

Summing up all the falsehoods which the German poster contains, the booklet says: "The War Lord of Germany may have the futile hope that his people will devour in the place of food, such statements as the foregoing. Falsehoods, however, are poor substitutes and are likely to aggravate rather than appease when the deluded people of Germany learn that every requirement of the American soldier will be met by his patriotic and unqualified support back home. If a single soldier required ten tons of freight space, it would be given him. But the truth is he requires less than one-half of that.

"As for Germany's statement that even if the United States built from two and a half million gross registered tons in 1918, it would not mean deliverance for the allies, no further comment is needed than that by July of this year the 2,000,000-ton mark has been passed. If further refutation of the Hun boast of his U-boat prowess were needed, it might be stated that less than 500 American soldiers have lost their lives in the present war as a result of U-boat attacks."

Closing the booklet is this striking quotation from Secretary McAdoo: "The Fourth Liberty loan is the barrage which will precede the victorious thrust of our army."

WILSON DRAWS FIRST NUMBER

INITIAL CAPSULE, CONTAINING 322, SENDS HUNDREDS OF 1836 A CLASS INTO LINE.

THIRD DRAFT LOTTERY

VICE-PRESIDENT, SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES TAKE PELLETS FROM BOWL.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Washington. — President Wilson personally Monday opened the ceremony of drawing the 17,000 number for the 13,000,000 men registered in the new draft. He drew the first capsule, which contained the number 322.

Standing blindfolded in a great crowd which thronged the marble caucus room of the Senate office building, the President smilingly faced a battery of moving picture cameras as he drew the pellet.

Following the drawing of the first number by the President, Vice President Marshall drew No. 7277.

He was followed by Senator Saulsbury of Delaware, president pro tem of the Senate, who pulled the third capsule from the bowl, containing No 6708.

Speaker Champ Clark followed Saulsbury and drew 1027. The fifth number was 10,169.

Next in turn was Secretary of the Navy Daniels, who drew 10,169.

Acting Secretary of War Crowell followed with 8,366. Other dignitaries followed in order with the following numbers: Senator Chamberlain of the military affairs committee, 5,366. Senator Warren of Wyoming, ranking Republican member of the committee, 1,697. Representative Dent of Alabama, chairman of the House military committee, 7,123. Representative Kahn of California, ranking Republican member of the committee, 2,871. General March, chief of staff, 9,283. Admiral Benson, 6,147. Lieutenant General Young, retired, 10,086. Provost Marshal General Crowder, 438. Colonel Warren, 904.

Only the first 100 numbers were flashed to the country by telegraph. Because of the impracticability of telegraphing all of the 17,000, the press has been asked to refrain from sending more than 100 numbers. The complete master lists will be mailed as soon as the drawing is over to district draft boards thruout the country to be made public by them.

For the first time since the draft bill passed both the Navy Department and the Marine Corps were officially represented at the drawing today. This was because both these branches of the service will now recruit their men from the draft.

In the first draft the drawing occupied sixteen and one-half hours, 10,500 capsules being listed. The second lottery was completed in one hour and fifty minutes, only 1,200 capsules being drawn.

Secretary of War Baker drew the first numbers in the two previous drafts, numbers 258 and 246, respectively.

In the two previous drafts the last numbers drawn were 5,702 and 22, respectively.

BULGARIA HAS SURRENDERED

ARMIES BEATEN, NATION ACCEPTS ALL THE TERMS LAID DOWN BY THE ALLIES.

ALLIES TAKE RAIL LINES

DEMOBILIZING OF ARMY AND SURRENDER OF TROOPS STIPULATED.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Paris, Oct. 1.—An armistice has been concluded between the allies and Bulgaria on the allies' own terms. The announcement was made officially Monday.

Bulgaria is definitely out of the war and Turkey, virtually cut off from communication with her allies and her armies in Palestine almost annihilated, likely soon will be forced to sue for a cessation of hostilities against her.

London.—Speaking at the Guild hall Monday, Andrew Bonar Law, the chancellor of the exchequer, said a Bulgarian convention had been signed by which hostilities ended at noon.

Bulgaria, by the terms fixed, gives up completely the control of railways, the chancellor stated. Control of the Bulgarian railways, the chancellor pointed out, gives control of Bulgaria.

"This convention means," said the chancellor, "that the Germans' dream of a German middle-eastern empire has gone forever."

The armistice concluded with Bulgaria by the entente allies is a purely military convention and contains no provisions of a political character.

Bulgaria agrees to evacuate all the territory she now occupies in Greece and Serbia, to demobilize her army immediately and surrender all means of transportation to the allies.

Bulgaria will also surrender her boats and control of navigation on the Danube and concede to the allies free passage through Bulgaria for the development of military operations.

All Bulgarian arms and ammunition are to be stored under the control of the allies, to whom is conceded the right to occupy all important strategic points.

The military occupation of Bulgaria will be intrusted to British, French and Italian forces, and the evacuated portions of Greece and Serbia, respectively, to Greek and Serbian troops.

The armistice means a complete military surrender and Bulgaria ceases to be a belligerent.

All questions of territorial rearrangements in the Balkans were purposely omitted from the convention.

The allies made no stipulation concerning King Ferdinand, his position being considered an internal matter, one for the Bulgarians themselves to deal with.

The armistice will remain in operation until a final general peace is concluded.

Gen. Franchet D'Esperey, the allied commander-in-chief in Macedonia, signed for the allies and the Bulgarian delegates for their government.

The drive of the allied armies in the Balkans, which resulted in the breakdown of Bulgaria as a military power, began on Sept. 14, when Serbian troops pierced the Bulgarian center east of Monastir. British, French Italians and Greeks joined the Serbs in the drive and quick progress was made. Soon Bulgaria was invaded. The collapse was hastened by unrest in Bulgaria and from time to time for some weeks, revolutionary outbreaks have been reported.

HUN LINE CRUMBLES

Yankees Advance in Argonne, British in Cambrai, and French Gain Half of Chemin des Dames.

London, Oct. 1.—Fighting is going on in Cambrai. The northeastern, western and southwestern suburbs have been captured and the town probably will be cleared up shortly. Half of the Chemin des Dames, from which the enemy is retiring, has been captured by the French.

Viewing the situation in all its aspects—the success of the great offensive in Belgium and France; the blotting out of the war zone in the Balkans; the cutting off of the Turks from intercourse with Germany and Austro-Hungary except by the long route thru the Caucasus and southern Russia, and the steady gains that are being made by the allies in making Russia once more a factor in the struggle—the darkest days of the war seemingly are faced by the Austro-Germans.

On all the sectors under attack from Belgium to Flanders to the region of Verdun, the German front is gradually bending back under the violence of the attacks of the British, Americans, French and Belgians.

The entente allied forces from Belgium to Verdun on six battle fronts are registering victory after victory over the Teutonic armies, and the enemy front almost everywhere is crumbling, notwithstanding the desperate resistance that is being offered on various sectors.
