County Clerk

THE CAPITAN MOUNTAINEER

SEVENTH YEAR NUMBER 4. CAPITAN, NEW MEXICO, APRIL 23, 1921 SUBSCRIPTION PRICE $1.50 A

New Mexico History.

All teachers of the county who have undertaken work in state or local history under the plan put out by the New Mexico State Normal some three months ago, are urged by the Normal to turn over to the Normal immediately after the close of their schools the papers that have resulted from that work. The Normal is very anxious that none of this valuable material shall be lost through negliging to file it and have it kept in a safe place. Unexpected responses have come in response to the Normal's call from outsiders as well as from teachers, but the Normal is especially anxious that the material being collected and worked up by the teachers and students of the state shall not be mislaid or neglected. So you are requested to send it in at the earliest practicable moment

Directions to Wayfarers.

Mr. Witt Sears, who has been superintending the job of having signs painted and put up on the National Highway between Hondo and Roswell, has succeed in having the work completed and collected the money to pay for it. This little investment is money well spent as the sign board will point to those touring west a nearer and better route than any other they can travel to reach the country west of us, and will be the means of a large part of that travel coming by way of Capitan and Carrizozo.

"Hancock."

Hon. J V. Tully, of Glencoe, received a thoroughbred stallion here Tuesday, shipped from Fort Reno, Oklahoma. "Hancock" is a remount government horse loaned to Mr. Tully for this season. He will make the season at Mr. Tully's ranch, at Glencoe, on the Ruidoso, and $20 will be charged for service to selected mares. "Hancock" is a beautiful bay with star in face, is 16 hands high and exceedingly well proportioned. Those who have first-class mares and wish to raise saddle or race stock should see this fine horse. He shows every inch to be a race horse, and is perhaps the best horse of his kind ever brought to this county. His full pedigree and registration papers will soon be published in the Mountaineer.

Hospital Day at Ft. Stanton.

There is a communication in the Mountaineer this week from M. D. Cohen, commanding the post at Fort Stanton, announcing that May 12th has been designated as a National Hospital Day and that it will be appropriately observed at Fort Stanton. Besides this announcement, some interesting news matter and historical information in contained in Commander Cohen's communication and it well deserves attention.

Mrs. Louis Keel Dies.

Roswell was shocked and saddened this afternoon to learn that Mrs. Louie Keel died at St. Mary's hospital about 1:20 o'clock.

She was taken to St. Mary's last night from her home, at 101 South Pennsylvania, and underwent a rather serious operation in an effort to save her life.

She leaves besides her husband, four children, two boys, and two girls, to whom she was most devoted.—Roswell Daily News.

White Line Time Change.

On and after Sunday, April 24th, a number of changes will be made in the train service on the E. P & S. W. Lines, which automatically changes the schedule of the White Stage Company's Passenger Car.

Trains No. 7 and 8 will be discontinued for an indefinite period and the running schedule of the Golden State Limited Trains No. 3 and No. 4 will be shortened several hours between Chicago and Los Angeles

Golden State Limited Train No. 3 west bound will (on and after April 24th) arrive in Carrizozo at 9:25 a. m., El Paso at 1:05 p m. and Los Angeles at 1:10 p. m. the next day. The schedule of the Golden State Limited Train No. 4 east bound remains unchanged.

The White Line Passenger Car schedule effective Sunday, April 24 will be as follows:

Leave Roswell 4:15 a. m. (stopping twenty minutes for breakfast at Bonito Inn, Lincoln,) arriving in Carrizozo at 9:15 a. m, connecting with Golden State Limited Train No. 3, arriving in El Paso at 1:05 p m.

Returning leave El Paso at 1:05 p. m. on Golden State Limited Train No. 4, arriving in Carrizozo at 4:35 p m., take White Line Passenger Car at Carrizozo depot, arriving in Roswell at 10 p m., stopping twenty minutes for supper at the Bonito Inn.

Mercantile Business Change.

Billy Ferguson has sold his store in Nogal back to O. C. Davis and gone to his farm on Nogal mesa. We are glad that Billy will still be with us, for we have no better citizens than he. We are also glad that Mr. Davis is again permanently located at Nogal. No man in the county stands higher in public esteem than O. C. Davis, who has lived in Nogal and vicinity since 1881.

Attention !

If you want to get quick action on your property, list it with Sears & White.

We are receiving quite a lot of inquiries from parties in the North and East in regard to farms and ranches in this country next Senate, the third man in control in raising funds for the prosecution of the war will be the unspeakable Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin?

That the Republicans tried at the special session of the Legislature to appropriate $1,500,000 for the State Council of Defense, composed of six Republicans and one Democrat, and that the Democrats forced it to be reduced to $750,000?

In spite of the $1,500,000 spent on the roads of the state by the Republican State Highway Commission, the roads in most counties of the state are in worse shape than they were two years ago?

That although the Republicans claim they must control Congress to insure that the President will have full suppore for his war measures, one fourth of the Republican strength in Congress steadily voted against war measures and that most of it has been renominated?

AHEAD OF THE SILLY SEASON

Discussion Started as to Why Cow Invariably Arises With Her Hind Quarters Foremost.

Inquiring minds in Connecticut are grappling the old-age question why a cow, which is to say the genus bos, rises from recumbency by elevating her anterior quarters first, whereas a horse reverses the process and a pig appears to have no predilections but to be solely concerned, when there is a prospect of something to eat in sight, to get in motion toward it all at once.

Generally speaking, it can of course be said that a cow takes the method physiologically the easiest for her in getting on her feet, remarks the Rochester Post Express. The head-end-up procedure probably produces muscular stresses and interior discomforts which she understands better than she can explain. It is open to question also if she ever in all her ruminations reflected on the matter; nor is it clear that it is worth our while to do so, since it is only an inconsequential fact with an immaterial reason behind it. It is an interesting bit of information, and it might be profitable in imaginable emergencies to know how an animal normally acts and which is the danger end of her to be avoided. But the obscure cause of it is of no apparent practical importance, for it is just one of those things that are so and might as well be so as something else.

It seems fair from all that is known of the cow, to acquit her of any disposition to do things hind end foremost out of cantankerousness, or to cling to a notion or method through perversity or pride because it happens to be hers. There is no evidence of that domineering spirit in her or of a willful insistence in having her own way. She does the things that are to be done sequentially, in order, settles her pressing problems first and leaves to the future others that may arise. Imperiled by enemies, her way would be to fight them to a standstill first and leave for later consideration a bovine league to secure her against possible new attacks. Her ratiocinative processes may be limited, but there is reason to believe that as far as she does see she sees clearly, never out of focus; that her intuitions are sure, and that, while she may sometimes seem to, she never really does things wrong end first or clings to a course when conclusive reasons for abandoning it appear. On the whole, therefore, it seems profitable to consider the cow in the field, how she acts, for Solomon in all his glory was not so wise in all respects as one of these.

Only Tamed Humming Bird.

Sergt. Charles Haberkorn and Orderly M. J. Maw, of the National Soldiers' home, at Sawtelle, Cal., are the proud possessors of what is believed to be the only pet humming-bird in existence, says Our Dumb Animals. Their feathered friend is a beautiful red-breasted specimen who answers to the name of Dick.

This unusual bird is so tame that he eats his meals from the end of a medicine dropper held in the mouth of one of his friends. They feed him sugar syrup in this way. He will also tread air while sipping nectar from a cluster of flowers held by one of the men. Another favorite stunt of his is that of perching upon their fingers while eating his meals.

The men are both pensioned veterans of the Spanish-American war. They discovered the bird flitting around the home grounds a year ago, and decided to tame it. Orderly Maw having had experience taming birds in the tropics many years ago when he was a sailor. By putting out dishes of sugar syrup for the hummer they gradually domesticated it.

The Ghost Ship.

Among the war stories that British naval men feel free to tell now is one about a "ghost ship" whose mystery has never been solved.

In 1917 a convoy of 12 ships left a British port. At dawn on the day after sailing the escort commander discovered thirteen ships under his charge. While the identity of the extra ship was being discussed the convoy was suddenly attacked by German light cruisers and most of the escort and nine of the merchantmen were sunk. The Germans then made off.

Survivors positively assert that there were thirteen ships and that the mysterious vessel disappeared as strangely as she had appeared. They are certain that the ship was not sunk. Official inquiries failed to throw any light on the nature of the craft. It was ascertained that she could not have been a disguised German raider, and her presence was "logged" by the escort commander.

Lion Attacks Trainer.

Sioux City, Iowa.—Fred Delmar, owner of a wild animal act, suffered a badly lacerated arm and other injuries when attacked by a lion in a cage at the fair grounds here. The attack was made after Delmar had jabbed at the lion with a fork. While the lion was chewing Delmar's arm the trainer gave a mighty lunge, throwing the animal off, and then ran from the cage.

Passes Into the Seventh Year.

The Capitan Mountaineer has entered into the seveneh year of its publication. It seems but a short time since the first issue was printed and that six years have away with wonderful rapidity During the six years of the papers existence not singgle issue has been omitted, but at times is has taken a hard pull "to get by." Now that we are starting in on another year we would be glad if all our subscribers whose subscriptions expired at the end of the last year would come in and renew for the coming year, and if convenient pay for it in advance as it will be a great help in keeping the paper going through the hard times we are now having We would also be glad if those who owe for the past year or a longer time would come in and pay or send in the amounts al ready due. We need money and would certainly appreciate such assistance en the part of subscribers.

National Hospital Day.

Editor,
Capitan Mountaineer,
Dear Sir:—

Thursday May 12th. will be generally observed throughout the U ed States by 8,000 hospitals as a "National Hospital Day," on which special efforts will be made to inform the public as to the services which hospitals render and as their relation to the community. May 12th has been selected as the most fitting date, because on that day was born Florence Nightingale, pioneer in modern hospital and nursing methods.

I inclose a letter from from the Surgeon General commending the establishment of the day.

This hospital (No 9 of the J. S Pub'ic Health Service) is one of the Marine Hosp'tals established to care for merchant seamen etc, and was in service long before the war. It was originally an Army Post of the Indian days, and was taken over by the U. S. Public Health Service in 1898, at which time the buildings were remodeled and coverted into a tuberculosis hospital.

The present capacity of the hospital is 261 patients, who are cared for by six medical officers, eight nurses and one hundred other employees. Like most hospitals its actual patient population fluctuates from day to day. At present it numbers 167. The monthly turover is about sixteen discharges and admittances.

I should be glad to have you announce the adoption of May 12 and to use any of the foregoing data in that connection. Any further information that you may desire I shall be glad to supply so far as it is available; and I shall be very glad to see one of your representatives and assist him in any way to secure a good story for Hospital Day. Special facilities will be provided for any photographer whom you may care to send to the hospital.

The program for May 12th will include sundry receptions and exhibits, the details of which have not been decided, but will be sent you later.

Yours very truly,
M. D. Cohen
Surgeon. Reserve, In Charge.

NEAR PUNCTUAL, AS IT WERE

Two Neat Explanations of Train Schedules That Are About the Best of Their Kind.

Railways have had their troubles during these amazing years of world war and continental congestion; so, consequently, have passengers. On a rickety-rackety, half-forgotten little branch line to nowhere in particular, not long ago, a long, lank, lazy Yankee station master, with an Uncle Sam goatee, mentioned those mighty and historic obstacles in excuse for the lateness of a certain two-car train, for which an impatient salesman of agricultural implements was waiting. But although he offered an excuse, he did not enjoy doing so, and concluded his remarks by announcing resentfully:

"She'll be in before long, and before long oughter be soon enough for reasonable folks. Ef she's in 'at' nowadays she'd oughter be cheered, and no feller with a grain of common sense nor patience has any call to growl ef she's 'thereabouts.'"

In the amiable South a world war is not necessary to evoke an even greater superiority to petty uncertainties of time. The colored man in charge of a southern waiting room, in a place by no means a village, was heard explaining the local electric car connections with the nearest city.

"Cars run on de hour, gen'lemen," he told two inquirers, with a beaming smile; and added confidentially, "Co'se dey's times 'tain't on de hour jes' perzackly to de minute. Sometimes dey starts a li'l' bit after, and sometimes, w'en dey's a hot box, dey's so much after dey's de same as a li'l' bit befo'; but mos' ginerally, gen'lemen, dey gits away jes' about."

RESULT OF BALLOON FLIGHT

Account of Origin of First Pair of Suspenders That Reader Is Not Forced to Believe.

One day during the warm summer of 1847 Gabe Swallow, an honest farmer of Horseboro, desisted from his work in the squillion field and leaned against his rake while he wiped his honest brow with the sleeve of his honest shirt.

His face being upturned for this operation his eyes caught a speck in the sky.

"By spinach ef um beant a balloon!" he exclaimed, "and shoot me for a weasel ef the man beant havin' trouble with um!"

He was right. The balloon was descending at a fearsome rate, the anchor swaying and jerking wildly.

"Well, I'll be thundered and lightninged! What's got me?" cried Gabe Swallow.

The anchor had him. It had him by the nape of the belt and it lifted him 8,000 feet above the hills and dales of Horseboro and swung him gally in the breezes for two hours and set him roughly in a treetop at Kinetown, 80 miles north. The only change in his appearance was that his belt, instead of being completely around his waist, was partly around his waist and partly around his right shoulder.

"By spinach, it do feel all right thisaway, too!" he thought, and, improving on the idea when he reached home, he made the world's first pair of suspenders.—Detroit Free Press.

TEMPORARY MASK OF WISDOM

Even Most Foolish Man Has Look of Intelligence When He Is Lighting a Pipe.

Why is it that a man always looks so intelligent when he is lighting his pipe?

Probably it is because the intake of breath which is necessary to start proper combustion causes a drawing up of his brows, a wrinkling of the forehead, a concavity of the cheeks and a puckering of the mouth, all of which produces an owlish and oracular demeanor. This mask of wisdom and soberness, when brightly lit by the gleam and yellow shining of the match flame which leaps up and down over the bowl of the pipe, has dismayed many a timid observer. We know that our friend, like ourself, was but a well-nourished simpleton whose mind, even if spread at its thinnest, could not shelter more than one-tenth of his doings with common sense. How come it, then, that this simple act of laying fire to dried vegetation could so uplift and ensage him?

Whenever a man lights his pipe his mind seems born anew; in other words, it leaps back into the vast ocean of simple absurdity whence most of our minds come trickling. The momentary light gives him time to think, and he starts afresh upon argument, rebuttal and contradiction. And inevitably he says something particularly idiotic.—Exchange.

Introducing the Monocle.

One interesting thing about the monocle is that the fashion of wearing it was introduced at the Congress of Vienna, that congress which remade the map of Europe and, in the opinion of many, laid the mines whose explosion was the great war. Sir Horace Rumbold, in writing on the subject of the origin of odd fashions and customs, said that a Dutch exquisite, Jonkheer Dreele, was the first man to wear a monocle, and that he showed the then brand new fad to the diplomats and others assembled at the congress. After that introduction the fad spread to all parts of Europe, but it took its deepest hold on the English well-to-do classes.
