Radio Plants to Link Continents

Those in Colombia, Cuba and Buenos Aires Expected to Be Ready This Year.

PLAN TO AVOID INTERFERENCE

All Great Systems Will Use Different Wave Lengths, World Conference Has Decided—Will Not Replace Cable.

New York.—High-power wireless stations of the Radio Corporation of America will be completed this year at Bogota Bay, Colombia, and in Cuba, and the great Buenos Aires station will be in operation in mid-1923, says E. J. Nally, president of the company, who returned a few days ago from conferences in Europe at which a working agreement was reached among the great wireless companies of England, France, Germany and America.

From any part of the United States wireless messages may be relayed speedily to Buenos Aires, South Africa, Java, Calcutta or Melbourne, when the radio building programs of the great American and European countries are completed. At present France has the most powerful station in the world in the American-built Lafayette towers near Bordeaux, but this will be superseded by the end of this year by the Fort Jefferson station of the Radio corporation, which will be the most powerful station in the world. The station under construction at Ste. Assise, near Paris, will be second.

The British wireless chain connecting England with the empire will have one station comparatively close to Argentina, and that will be the station at Bathurst, in Gambia, on the extreme western point of Africa, where the continents of Africa and South America make their closest approach.

"The stations of the Radio corporation in Cuba and Colombia are practically completed," said Mr. Nally, "and are waiting on the completion of all the towers at Fort Jefferson before going into service. That will take place in December. Relaying from New York to Cuba, to Bogota and then to Buenos Aires will be possible, but will be used only as an auxiliary system. When the Buenos Aires plant is completed next summer it will send to and receive from the Fort Jefferson station direct."

All of the great systems will use different wave lengths and avoid interference, according to the agreement reached at the conference abroad, for the use of similar wave lengths would result in confusion high-power wireless communication all over the world. The British colonial chain of wireless stations is described as follows by L. W. Austin, head of the United States Radio Research Laboratory, in a communication to The Journal of the Franklin Institute:

"Unlike the plans for communicating over vast distances by means of huge stations, the imperial committee, headed by Sir Henry Norman, has recommended that stations of only moderate power be used, spaced at distances of not more than 2,000 nautical miles, the intermediate stations acting as relays for the more distant.

"There have been heated discussions in England regarding the relative merits of the high-power, long-distance transmission systems in comparison with the moderate power, intermediate relay systems. There can be no doubt that the system of intermediate stations will give by far the most reliable communication, largely on account of the small variability of signal intensity at shorter distances. And probably for government purposes, where reliability is of more importance than volume of traffic carried, the system is superior.

"The plans of France for extremely long distance communication are centered around the huge transmitting station now being completed at Ste. Assise, between Fontainbleau and Paris. This station is expected by its promoters to communicate with Saigon, Indo-China, 5,500 nautical miles; Buenos Aires, 5,950 miles, and, of course, many nearer points."

Holland is building one station at home and one in Java for communicating a distance of 6,100 miles, almost entirely overland. On the question whether radio is likely to replace the cable in transoceanic communication in the near future, Mr. Austin said:

"Frankly, I do not believe it will, and if it should it will be because the atmospheric disturbances have been practically eliminated. But even now there are certain classes of traffic which can be sent by radio much more economically and quite as satisfactorily where delays of a few hours are not objectionable. Continuous twenty-four hour service is, of course, already possible where distances are moderate. Here automatic high-speed reception is making radio a formidable rival of the wire and cable lines."

Revive Plan to Build World City at Brussels

Brussels.—The striking idea of building an "international city" at the gates of Brussels, which was first proposed to King Albert of the Belgians in 1913, has been revived and it is now proposed to erect the city and inaugurate it at the same time as the Brussels international exposition in 1930.

It is intended that the international city shall be a permanent institution, where every country will have a building in which it will display not only its manufactures and products but examples of its art and records of its social progress.

These plans were first submitted to King Albert in 1913 by Hendrick C. Anderson, an American sculptor, formerly of Newport, R. I., who then was living in Rome. Mr. Anderson was aided in preparing his plans for the ideal city by Senator Henri La Fontaine and Paul Otlet.

Army of Men Scrap Warships

New Industry Supplants Building of Fighting Vessels Along the Delaware River.

MANY AWAITING DISMANTLING

Philadelphia, Birthplace of Many Vessels, Also to Be "Graveyard" of Navy's Fighting Ships That Have Become Obsolete.

Philadelphia.—A new industry—scrapping of old warships—has sprung up along the Delaware river, where not so long ago more than 100,000 men were working feverishly to help build a "bridge of ships" across the Atlantic to check the progress of Germany in the World war.

Philadelphia, the birthplace of many of the vessels, also is to be the "graveyard" of a number of the navy's fighting craft, discarded because they have become obsolete. Later, when the scrapping program of the arms conference becomes effective, many more ships will be added to the list. Hundreds of men are engaged in turning the steel from the discarded ships into materials for the construction of buildings, tools, locomotives, automobiles and other peace-time uses.

In one Delaware river shipyard alone there are awaiting dismantling the battleships Maine, Missouri and Wisconsin, the once proud first-class cruiser Columbia, the monitors Ozark, Monterey and Tonopah and countless destroyers, Eagle boats and smaller craft.

Powerful oxyacetylene torches wielded by masked workmen are being used to cut through the 11½-inch steel turret armor of the Maine, while a 125-ton crane was used to take out its 12-inch guns.

Further along the yard little obsolete submarines with paper thickness shells are being ripped apart with prosaic chisels to the accompaniment of the gatling gunlike staccato of compressed air hammers. The monitor Monterey, an improved edition of Ericsson's gallant Monitor of Civil war fame, with its surface flush deck, rapidly is being converted into billets. Its 10 and 12-inch rifles, however, still appear menacingly through the turrets of its equally superstructure as they did in the early '00s when the vessel was one of the most powerful battle craft afloat.

"Grandfather" of Submarines.

A little submarine, A-1 Plunger, "grandfather" of the modern submarine cruiser S-41, is awaiting scrapping. Creature of the brain of J. P. Holland, the early trials of the A-1 were the subject of almost as much ridicule and scoffing as marked the first efforts of Robert Fulton and his steamboat on the Hudson river.

The most precious "junk" obtained from the ships is the copper, gun metal, navy brass, manganese bronze, lead and zinc. Complete destruction is not necessary in the case of all the craft. The hulls of some of the torpedo boats will undergo a transformation to adapt them to peaceful pursuits. This already has been done with the destroyers Truxton, Worden and Whipple, which will ply between the United States and Central America carrying cargoes of fruit.

Equipped with kerosene oil burners, they will be large cargo carriers and of such light draft that they can navigate shallow rivers on high tide and lay off plantations for loading, thereby eliminating lighterage cost. Their clean lines give them great speed, which makes unnecessary the expensive refrigerating system used in slower fruit boats.

HEIRESS AGED 65 WEDS YOUTH

Widow of St. Louis Millionaire Marries Literary Dilettante.

Says Youngster Is Going to Be Great Man Some Day—Woman Gets One-Half Income From First Husband's $20,000,000 Estate.

St. Louis.—Announcement has just been made here of the marriage in San Diego, Cal., of Mrs. James Campbell, widow of the late president of the North American company, who was reputed the wealthiest man in St. Louis, and Henry Klos Van Heel, literary dilettante. Mrs. Van Heel is sixty-five and her husband lacks a year of being half her age. She is heir to one-half the income from her first husband's $20,000,000 estate.

It is a case of love at first sight.

"Henry and I met two years ago at Mrs. Adolphus Busch's California home," Mrs. Van Heel said, discussing their romance with reporters. "There was a mutual attraction, but I didn't think Henry loved me." She kissed her youthful husband.

Van Heel, who is a native of Holland, has the appearance of a college youth. He has a fair complexion, light hair and mustache of the hue sometimes termed "pink." His bride speaks of him as a boy.

Mrs. Van Heel said that Van Heel's singing was one of the things that attracted her to him. "He sings Dutch and German ballads," she said.

"He had been in the United States before and had returned just before the time we met," she remarked. "It seems to have been fate that we should meet.

"Henry is one of the brightest young men I ever met," she continued. "You may know there is something wonderful about him or I would not have married him.

"I shall wish to keep the name of Campbell," she added. "I shall be known as Mrs. Florence A. Campbell Van Heel."

"That's right," said the young husband, indulgently, "Keep anything you want to."

"Henry is going to be a great man some day—aren't you, dear?" Mrs. Van Heel predicted. "He expresses himself so wonderfully, and tells such thrilling stories. I am always asking him to tell me a story.

"He is going to write five hours a day, and the rest of the day we will spend together."

Pet Rat Gets Tail Mended.

San Francisco.—On the record at Emergency hospital appears the entry: "One rat retailed." Donald Myatt, thirteen, appeared at the hospital with the rat—an Egyptian jumping rat—and tearfully said a cat had "mizzed at my rat while I was holding him by the tail at a pet show and he jumped so hard the skin peeled off." His tears won a busy surgeon and the skin was sewed back on.

Sugar Producers Refused Tax Cut.

Denver.—Sugar companies in Colorado were refused permission to make reductions in the assessed valuation of property in Colorado under the 1922 schedules by the tax commission and assessors from eleven sugar factory counties at a conference in Denver recently.

By this action the various sugar producing companies in the state will be required to pay the same taxes as were paid last year, it was said, with the exception of companies which are not operating or which have closed any of their factories.

A general meeting of the assessors and tax commissioners took place in the new state office building. It was not attended by representatives of the sugar companies, it was said.

"At our conference we agreed that the 1921 values for taxation purposes should stand for 1922," declared John M. Jones, assessor from Boulder county.

"The companies had submitted schedules calling for reductions in the assessed valuation of approximately 89 per cent."

The counties represented at the conference with the state tax commission were Boulder, Adams, Bent, Crowley, Delta, Larimer, Logan, Mesa, Morgan, Otero and Weld.

The Great Western Sugar company submitted schedules requesting a reduction in the assessed valuation of its property in Boulder county of 39.58 per cent under the 1921 assessments. The factory of the sugar company in that county was appraised at $2,600,000 last year.

The Barbecue Question.

The barbecue question has been settled by Capitan withdrawing the announcement that there would be a barbecue and pic-nic here on the 4th of July, and togther with other communities in the county, and join Fort Stanton and have there what is to be known as a Lincoln County Barbecue and Celebration. By having but one celebration there will be great deal more interest taken than if more than one should had. At Fort Stanton good water, good shade and other advantages found for such an occasion which can not all be had here or elewhere in this community. Read the announcement in this paper and the program in the next paper and let us all help make it the most successful barbecue and celebration ever pulled off in the county.

Lincoln County Barbecue

Plans for the Lincoln County Fourth of July Celebration to be held at Fort Stanton, N. M., are completed. Every community in the county will be respectfully asked to help make this the best Celebration ever held in this County. The program for the day has been by the committee, in charge so arranged that every one will have a chance to take part and those who do not care to participate in the events of the day, will be provided with a good seat in order that they may see all that takes place.

The morning program will start at ten o'clock and consists of various games for the children, boys and girls. At noon there will be grand free BARBECUE.

At one o'clock sharp the big program will start. This will consist of Roping and branding, Bronco Busting, Roping and Tying, horse races and other events. A boxing contest and a ladies POLO contest will be the features of the day. Special foot races and other events have been arranged to be held if time will permit.

There will be dancing and music on the grounds during the day and at night a big dance will be held in the Hall at the Fort, where the Champions of the day will be the honored guests.

A special feature of the night program will be the fireworks and Radio concert.

All events of the day, will be free to all. This means that all must do their share of the work before the Fourth. All donations will be made to your community chairman. If you have no cash, perhaps, you have a steer, sheep, goat or pig that will help supply the eats.

Let's all be boosters and make this the greatest day in Lincoln County's history.

Early Day Indian Troubles.

(By W. J. Lowrance.)

Our next fight was on the other side of the mountain from where the Indians were, and our Lieutenant Elkins said boys get ready, and we all drew our pistols and started, and as we rose to the top of the hill, there were five of them, and the fight commenced. We killed one right then and the others scattered. Jim Polk, myself and Henry Dullaney followed two about seven miles and run them into a rough thicket of brush, but could'nt get them out. We shot many times into the thickt trying scare them out but failed, and went back to the Indian camp. The other boys had got back and had captured an Indian squaw that made two out of the five that we got, the other three got away, as our horses were rode down, and the Indians were all on good rested horses horses, as they had been down in Coleman county and stole the horses they were riding from Kin Elkins' ranch. The Indian that we killed was riding a horse that I had rode many a day when I worked for Kin Elkins; the horse was killed in the fight. Now, kind reader, you will no doubt want to know what we did with the squaw. I will say that we took her back ten or twelve miles where we crossed another Indian trail—a very large trail: we being so near afoot were afraid that the the three that had outrun us that day would meet up with this last bunch that we had crossed the trail of and try to recapture her, that we decided to cast our votes to see whether we should kill or not, and Bill Williams the father of the little who was carried off and hung, spoke up and said: If no one else is in favor of killing her he would, so we left it to a vote and the biggest number said kill her and Lieutenant Elkins said: "Now, Bill Williams, if you can get a man that will help you all right," and a man by the name of Ed Ray said he could kill her as quick as a cat, so she was dismounted, as her horse was led off from her she followed after him, when Williams and Ed Ray ran upon her and Ed Ray shot her, but Williams weakened, after he thought he could kill her. She was dressed with two fine blankets, very thin and fine, with sleeves sewed on the top one; she had on one of the finest pair of moccasins I have ever seen. We got a great many things out of their camp, such as looking glasses, guns, coffee and soda. Now, kind reader, you may think it very brutal to have killed this squaw, but if you will stop to think for minute if a band of Indians were to come into your home and kill your loved ones as they did Williams' family, you could not help wanting to kill them. I will say on our return to Camp Colorado, the women had one of the best dinners for us that could gotten up. God bless the women, anyhow, because they were brave and good. Well, I could tell of many more scouts during that year which would no doubt be infering to some, but time and space will not permit, but will say that in the year of 1874, I joined the Ranger force under Captain W. J. Maltby, and we had several Indian fights during that year. One of which was fought in July on the head of Valley Creek, Texas, Runnels County. Our camp was at that time at Post Oak Springs in Coleman county. Our Captain started Lieutenant Best on a scout with twenty-five men, and told him to go to the Table mountains, in Runnels County, and there strike camp for about ten days, and have some of the boys to ride east and west from camp every day and hunt for Indian trails, and we started under orders and went about three miles and struck an Indian trail. There were about fifteen head of horses in the bunch. We ran the trail until about sundown, when the Lieutenant said we must hunt some water and camp for the night. I said to him: "Frank, you are'nt going to quit this trail are you?" and he said he was'nt going to kill the horses to catch them, and we went into camp and got supper, and he gave his lieutenant for eleven of us to go and follow them that night. He started Sergeant Isreal in charge of the scout, and told me to take the direction and stay in the lead of the scout, that I knew the country we rode until we got on top of the dividing ridge between the Brazos river and Colorado river, on one prong of Valley Creek, and Isreal halted us for the balance of the night. Next morning the guard saw some Indians at a distance and he ran into camp and gave the alarm, and we pulled out after them, and when we got in sight of them they were about one mile from us running, and we pulled in after them and the first man that ran in among them was Henry Sacket, and I was the last one. I told the boys they would break their horses down before we could get in gun shot of them, as Sacket fired. The Indians charged him and he turned to go back to the other boys, when his saddle turned and he fell off his mare, and she ran off and left him a foot, and we all charged them and killed one, and we ran them six or seven mile, the boys horses giving out all along, and the last man I passed was John Tinclaire, and he said Bill go on and do the best you can as my horse has given out, so I saw one of the Indians horse giving out and I run up beside him and he gave up. Now, this is the Indian Japer that Captain Maltby says he killed. Now, I will say if John Sinclair is living he will say I captured this Indian, as he was the only man in sight of me.

Sheriff Batton, of Eddy County, Killed.

Carlsbad, N. M., June 5—Sheriff George Batton of Eddy county and a Mexican bandit are dead and Deputy Sheriff Milburn is seriously wounded as the result of a gun battle at Hope, N. M., near there late Saturday night.

Sheriff Batton and the deputy went to Hope to get the man whose name was given as Pedro Galindo and who was reported to be an escaped convict from the Texas penitentiary.

Hearing he was hidden in a house near the town, they went there, but when they knocked a woman responded, and it was said, invited them to come in, after saying Galindo was not there.

As they entered, it was reported, Galindo, hidden behind a dresser, shot out the light. Sheriff Batton emptied his revolver before he died, and his deputy fired five shots. Galino was hit twice. The deputy was wounded in the side.

Sheriff Batton was 55 years old and had a wife and four grown children.

Dr. W. S. Sample, dentist, will make his regular return visit to Capitan for one week, beginning Monday June 12th. Strictly first-class guaranteed work; twenty years in practice, painless extraction of teeth. Remember dates—June 12th to 18th.

Yours truly.

My commission expires April 22nd 1925.

In the District Court, County of Lincoln, State of New Mexico

Geo. W. Prichard, Plaintiff
vs.
Eugenia Garcia, et al Defendants.

Notice of Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the above named court on the 20th day of April, 1922, wherein the above named Plaintiff recovered a judgment against the Defendant, Eugenia Garcia, et al, on the 31st day of October, 1917, for the sum of $225 00 and cost of suit, now amounting to the sum of $322 80, I have levied on the following described property of the said Eugenia Garcia, to-wit:

That certain lot and house thereon known as the Eugenia Garcia property, situate in the Town of Arabela, Lincoln County, New Mexico, and described as follows:

Beginning 25 feet from the the Northeast corner of the building known as the Leopoldo Pacheco blacksmith shop; thence East 75 feet to a stone set in the ground, making the northeast corner of said lot; and thence south along the line dividing the said lot from the property of the said Pacheco, a distance of 115 feet more or less to the land of Mariana Vigil; thence West along the line that divides said lot from the land of the said Mariana Vigil, a distance of 75 feet, thence north 115 feet to the place of beginning.

And I have also levied on one Schidt Pool Table and all the fixtures in the house on said lot.

Notice is therefore given that I will, on the 5th day of August, 1922, at the hour of 10:00 a. m. of said day, in front of the said lot in the town of Arabela, sell the said lot and house thereon and said pool table and fixtures, to the highest bidder; and unless the Plaintiff himself purchases the said property, will sell the same for cash to satisfy said judgment, interest and cost and cost of sale.

Commuters who do business in the metropolitan district may be taking just as good care of their gardens this year as ever, but one would never guess it from the daily conversation of these country dwellers on the suburban trains.

It used to be:

"Yes, I put in my mixed king asters and I got my radishes down and my celery started. Got to remember to buy some new garden hose tonight—looks like a dry spell."

Now it is:

"Sure, I can get WJZ, but I'm not able to get the Detroit broadcasting—perhaps if I had a two-step receiving set—"

"You don't want to overload your bulbs on that set—"

"A one-strand aerial's just as good as a two-strand for your set, but you ought to make it at least 100 feet long."—Chicago Journal.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Established a Record.

An Irishman, who was to return to his native land by a certain steamer, arrived on the pier just as the vessel was starting—in fact, she was already on the move.

Taking a flying leap, he covered the intervening space of six or eight feet at a bound, but tripped on alighting and hit his head, temporarily stunning himself.

When he recovered his senses, the vessel was a couple of hundred yards out at sea.

"By jabbers!" he exclaimed, not realizing what had happened, "what a jump."

Too Optimistic.

"I like optimists. They are good men to follow."

"Not always at the races."

It is utterly impossible to drive a man to drink who isn't headed that way.

SCIENCE ON FARM

Agriculturist of Today Must Know Business Thoroughly.

Canadian Tillers of the Soil Have Proved That Old Days of Haphazard Methods Have Gone.

Agriculture in Canada has the status of a profession which both its high standard of operation and the prime place it occupies in national life justify. The days when land was casually filed on and farmed without any intelligent understanding of agricultural processes are going with the dwindling availability of the land, and rapidly passing is the epoch of the destruction of soil values, and the abandonment of farms which have been rendered unproductive. Clearer and clearer has become the realization that farming is a specialized profession requiring special training, and in the place of this spoliation there is an intelligent system of crop rotation, preservation of the virtue of the land, a discovery of the nobility of the farmer's calling and a determination to secure and achieve the best possible in everything.

The Education of the Farmer.

Agricultural colleges, experimental farms, government literature, railway propaganda, all in an appreciation of the national benefits which accrue, contribute to the education of the farmer who, if he starts out in ignorance, speedily discovers the futility and profitlessness of continuing in this state. It is only of comparatively recent years that farming in Canada has become the comprehensive and exhaustive study it is and its tenets been so widely absorbed, and older farmers who have followed haphazard methods or systems scientifically unsound are gradually forced from necessity into an intelligent study and application of their profession.

This brings us to the city man who is anxious to leave his old life for the greater freedom of the country and take a farm for himself, and, the foregoing holding good, he need not follow far behind the older farmer if he take up the study of his work seriously, bring energy and intelligence to bear upon a following out of the systems of experienced and successful agriculturists, and utilize the results of the expert investigation and research the Dominion places at his disposal. The whole country is working for him and the novice has almost an equal opportunity with the farmer of a lifetime.

A census of Canadian farmers would probably show that fully one-half are not farmers' sons and were not brought up to the life of the farm. Yet none would criticize Canada's farmers on the score of poor farming methods in general, the excellency of their crops with international honors and the universal demand for their live-stock products refuting this effectually. Significant is it, too, that practically all the farmers who have achieved the most signal honors at international farming competitions have not been lifelong farmers, but city men who, taking to the land after reaching maturity without the remotest previous knowledge of agricultural activities, have through intelligent study and close application of the best farming methods surpassed the efforts of those agriculturists who have continued doing things on the farm in the way their fathers used to do them.

CAN NOW WALK AS WELL AS EVER

Esteemed Lincoln Resident Declares Tanlac Has Made a Clean Sweep of Her Rheumatism and and Other Troubles.

"I couldn't believe all they said about Tanlac until I tried it myself, and now I never doubt what I read about it," said Mrs. Anna B. Crawford, 2300 N. 23rd St., Lincoln, Neb., wife of a well-known retired business man.

"I got into a badly run-down condition," she continued, "and suffered greatly from indigestion. I had headache for days at a time, slept poorly and woke up mornings so weak and dizzy I could hardly get up. Then rheumatism set in and made walking difficult and I could scarcely use my arms for the pain.

"But Tanlac has made a clean sweep of my troubles, brought back my appetite and enabled me to gain much weight. It is a pleasure to make a statement in praise of this great medicine."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

COULD HARDLY STAND AT TIMES

Hips, Back and Legs Would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington.—"For several years I have had trouble with the lowest part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with that tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. It has done wonders for me and I keep it in the house right along. I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing."—Mrs. J. M. Stinger, 4032 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these annoying pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear.

It has done this for many, many women: why not give it a fair trial—now.

Try a pipeful or two direct from the factory

Not that it will be any better than the Edgeworth you buy in a store, but we want you to have your first Edgeworth smoke at our expense.

You may repay us by finding that Edgeworth just suits your taste. And if it doesn't—for there are some few men to whom Edgeworth is not just the thing—there's no harm done.

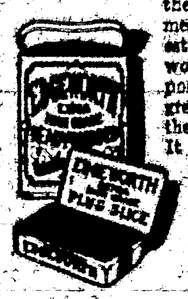
We are glad enough to send free samples in the same spirit that we'd hand you our pouch if circumstances permitted. We wish it were possible to save you even the little trouble of writing for Edgeworth.

Edgeworth is a likable smoke. Men who have tried it and found it to be the right tobacco for them never think of smoking other tobaccos. They'll tell you there are many good tobaccos—and there are. And when you offer them your pouch with "stranger" tobacco in it, they may tise up a pipeful just to be friendly.

But notice how quickly they get back to their beloved Edgeworth!

Day after day Edgeworth fans write to us. They tell us human little stories, friendly anecdotes centering around Edgeworth. Often it is the number of years they have smoked Edgeworth that prompted them to write.

Knowing how hard it is for the average man to write letters, we consider these unsolicited messages the greatest tribute to Edgeworth we could possibly have—greater even than the increasing sales. It gives the business of making tobacco a pleasure that runs through the whole gamut—from factory executive to the smoker in the backwoods.



If you have never tried Edgeworth, let us repeat our offer, "Try a pipeful or two direct from the factory." All you have to do is to write "Let me try a pipeful or two" on a postcard, sign your name and address and send the postcard to us. The address is Larus & Brother Co., 00 South 21st Street, Richmond, Va. If you want to add the name of your tobacco dealer, we'll make sure that he has Edgeworth in stock.

To Retail Tobacco Merchants: If your jobber cannot supply you with Edgeworth, Larus & Brother Company will gladly send you prepaid by parcel post a one- or two-dozen carton of any size of Edgeworth Plug Slice or Ready-Rubbed for the same price you would pay the jobber.

Baby Specialists.

THAT there are Physicians who specialize on Infant ailments you know. All Physicians understand Infant troubles: all Physicians treat them. It is his profession, his duty, to know human ills from the Stork to the Great Beyond.

But in serious cases he calls in the Specialist. Why? He knows as every Mother knows, or ought to know, that Baby is just a baby, needing special treatment, special remedies.

Can a Mother be less thoughtful? Can a Mother try to relieve Baby with a remedy that she would use for herself? Ask yourself; and answer honestly!

Always remember that Baby is just a baby. And remembering this you will remember that Fletcher's Castoria is made especially for Infants and Children.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

The False and the True.

Advertising by the use of large space, the expenditure of huge sums of money have placed on the market, have put in your home, perhaps, many articles that today have been discarded, as you will readily admit.

Do you recall anything that has more modestly appealed to the public than has Fletcher's Castoria: modest in all its claims, pleading at all times—and truthfully—for our babies?

The big splurg, the misleading claims may win for a time, but the honest truth-telling advertiser is like the old story of the tortoise that beat the hare.

Mothers everywhere, and their daughters, new mothers, speak frankly, glowingly, enthusiastically in praise of Fletcher's Castoria. Speak of it lovingly as a friend that has brought comfort, cheer and smiles to their little ones.

To them; to these true mothers no argument can induce them to set aside their bottle of Castoria, their old friend, that they might try even another and unknown remedy for babies. Then, would YOU think of going to YOUR OWN medicine chest to find relief for Baby's troubles? Can you not separate the false from the true?
