Service Men to Profit From This Cook Book

Mrs. Gertrude Brebner of Chicago, known as the little mother of the ex-service boys, recently sent out 2,500 letters to famous living Americans asking for recipes for their favorite dishes. President Harding sent his prescription for waffles, Thomas Edison for cold-slaw, and William Jennings Bryan for fried onions. From the 500 recipes received Mrs. Brebner compiled a cook book, all profits of which will be donated to needy ex-service men. The photograph shows Mrs. Brebner autographing a copy for President Harding.

Swatow Exposed to the Typhoon

City That Was Nearly Wiped Out Is Least Protected of Chinese Ports.

SQUATS ON ALLUVIAL PLAIN

Coolies and Embroidery Have Helped Make It an Important Town—One of the Best Eastern Markets for Foreign Goods.

Washington.—Swatow, all but swept off the map by a typhoon, was put there by coolies and embroidery, says a bulletin from the National Geographic society. The coolies go south to the Straits Settlements, whence they send home much money and come themselves when their toil in the tropics has won them a competence.

Just as the Canton Chinese have impressed themselves on America, the Ningpo merchants made their way in most of the trade marts of China, and the Shantung coolie on the battlefields of France, so the Swatow coolie has had his share in the development of the Straits Settlements and more than one has risen to affluence thereby.

Relief Measure Creates an Industry.

Swatow also produces a peculiar grass cloth or native linen, made not from flax, but from a form of hemp. Table sets of this material, embroidered in white or contrasting colors, with storks and dragons and other fanciful designs, are admired and prized throughout the world. This industry was started by a missionary as a means of relief during one of the many disasters from which Swatow has suffered, and it has attained huge proportions. Swatow embroidery, drawn work and grass cloth today are "best sellers" in native shops from Hongkong to Shanghai.

If in China you overhear a reference to "Swatow Blues," do not conclude that the city is going in for jazz. An important Swatow product is indigo, and the city has a full share in making China "the land of the blue gown."

Leading Market for Foreign Goods.

The influx of money from the Straits and the Philippines is so great that Swatow can always import more than it exports, and it has been one of the best markets for foreign goods to be found on the whole wrinkled coast of China.

Sugar is also one of Swatow's chief products and the British and American consulates are situated near the main refinery on Kakchioh. Hongkong, however, is winning away the sugar trade from Swatow, which was once the center of sugar production. The fields inland from Swatow produce huge crops of sugar cane, and the Mandarin oranges of the region are famed throughout the East.

Swatow's Location Invites Disaster.

One of the important ports that hide here and there along the very irregular coast line of China, Swatow's misfortune is that of being less protected from the sea than her neighbors to the north and south. Shanghai is several miles up the Woosung. Hangchow, the city of the famous tidal wave or bore, which resembles the cap in the Bay of Fundy, is far enough from the sea to escape the force of the storm.

One ascends for miles between low-lying banks, dotted with icehouses for preserving fish before coming to Ningpo. Foochow is several hours' run up the Min. Amoy is situated very much like Swatow, but lies on much higher ground. Hongkong is on the landward side of the island of Victoria and the safety of its harbor is as famous as its beauty.

Swatow owes its existence to the Han Kiang, whose muddy waters built up the low plain on which a small fishing village grew to a treaty port of considerable importance. And it is upon the low-lying alluvial plain on both banks of the Han that the port depends for its importance.

From August to October, the typhoons sweep up the Chinese coast, and opposite Swatow the hills of southern Formosa form a funnel whose force is most felt along the low-lying coast in which Swatow squats. So potent are the winds that many of the missionary buildings are hid among the low hills of Kakchioh, across the dempsteams roadstead from Swatow proper.

To the tourist Swatow is an uninteresting city. It has only one good road, that the newly macadamized Malo or great road, which more or less parallels the wharves from the large piers of the ocean-going vessels to the tiny havens to which the fishing boats and up-river junks repair.

Promise of Napoleon to Marshal Ney Carried Out

Paris.—The promise made by Napoleon to Marshal Ney has just been fulfilled by the commission governing the Saar valley under the supervision of the League of Nations. The commission has authorized the institution of a supreme court at Sarrlouis, the celebrated marshal's birthplace.

It is a town of less than 10,000 inhabitants, which was the old capital and military stronghold when the Saar was a French province. When General Mangin passed through the Saar with his troops on the way to the Rhine some of the old inhabitants who retained French sympathies reminded him of the promise.

"But I'm not Napoleon's successor," General Mangin replied, "and the judiciary is not my line. I will pass on the request to the proper authorities."

General Mangin was relieved of his command in the Rhineland before he could take steps in the matter, but the Saar commission found no objection to the project, since it was not only gratifying to the town of Sarrlouis, but was considered of real utility.

The two septuagenarians both rowed in the Centennial regatta on the Schuylkill in 1876.

DON'T CUFF REDHEADED BOY

Galveston Man Did It and It Cost Him Liberty and Much Home Brew.

Galveston, Tex.—It doesn't pay to cuff redheaded boys. Ask S. Menenced, for it cost him his liberty and about 100 gallons of home brew.

Attracted by a strange odor, the redheaded boy crawled under a cafe in the outskirts of the city. He found a liquid dripping through the floor. The lad recognized "the real stuff," and hastened to procure a bottle in which to save the drippings. He was seen by the proprietor, Menenced, who proceeded to cuff him vigorously. The lad immediately went to the police station, filed charges of assault against Menenced, who was arrested. While making the arrest, the officers discovered about 100 gallons of home-made wine and whisky and now Menenced is facing charges of violation of the federal prohibition law in addition to two charges of aggravated assault.

Twenty-eights striking Northern Pacific shopmen at Arco, Wash., are starting suits for $1,000 each against the railroad because they have lost their jobs. After the strike was declared the railroad management decided to build a fence around the shops as a protection to the property and the workers. The contract for building the fence was let to a construction concern. The twenty-eight idle shopmen immediately applied for jobs helping put up the fence, and got them. When the Northern Pacific found it out, the twenty-eight allege in their lawsuit, they lost their new jobs. Boycott and blacklisting are charged.

Catawissa, Pa.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding presented a check for $100 to Clover, a 31-year-old horse. This became known recently with the publication of a letter from the President's wife to the animal's owner, the Rev. Dr. Myers, in which she expressed herself deeply moved by the "sense of justice and gratitude and faithfulness which impels you to sacrifice your comfort rather than kill a splendid horse which has given you a long life of willing service."

Colorado Wins Important Decision.

Durango.—By the decision of the U. S. Land Office at Durango, the state's title to section 16, township 35 north, range 10 west, is confirmed, which includes any and all the coal deposits which may be in this section of state school land, and is one of the most important decisions rendered in recent years as affecting the title to our school sections.

This case has been in controversy for the past two years. A decision was rendered in favor of the state two years ago by the officials of the land office at Durango, and confirmed by the commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington. Later, on appeal, the decision of the local land office at Durango and the commissioner of the General Land Office was reversed by the secretary of the interior. A protest was filed by the State Board of Land Commissioners with the Interior Department, asking that the case be remanded back to the land office at Durango for further hearing, which request was granted, and during October, 1921, the case was tried again at Durango. Evidence of an overwhelming nature was presented by the State Board of Land Commissioners at that time, resulting in a decision in favor of the state.

This decision will undoubtedly be appealed to the secretary of the interior, but the facts in the case are so favorable to the contention of the state as to its ownership of this section that there seems to be but little question that the secretary of the interior will confirm the decision of the local land office.

This decision is very far reaching, from the fact that it will create a precedent that will tend to clear up the title of the state to the coal underneath many school sections in the state, and finally will result in an extensive revenue to the state school fund.

May Fly Across Ocean in Glider.

Berlin.—The recent success of German student aviators in motorless aviation at Gersfeld has given rise to widespread gratification and scientists already are discussing the likelihood of such aircraft crossing the Atlantic. Observers of the past week's experiments assert that if the Versailles treaty had not limited the size of German aerial motors this scientific development in aviation would not have occurred so soon. They find further significance in the fact that the new soil planes utilize vertical winds, which are foes to the present motor fliers. Captain Keller, who is in charge of the aerial service at Stuttgart, and Professor Wegener, a flying expert, advances the theory that this type of craft could fly to New York, closely trailing an ocean liner, on the same principle as gulls utilize the upgoing currents above the troughs left by steamships.

School Teacher in Jail Plot.

Leavenworth, Kan.—Mildred Ward, 23, formerly a school teacher at Fairbury, Neb., is in the Leavenworth county jail charged with plotting the escape of prisoners and smuggling a revolver into the Kansas state penitentiary at Lansing, a suburb. Four prisoners are alleged to have been in the plot, and all are now in solitary confinement, according to announcement by the warden.

Steel Tube Plant to Close.

Toledo, Ohio.—George B. Storer, manager of the Standard Steel Tube Company, announced that he will close down the plant on Sept. 10 in sympathy with Mr. Ford's protest against high coal prices.

Lieutenant Governor Arrested.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Lieut. Gov. M. E. Trapp was arrested at his home by Deputy Sheriff F. G. Frederick of Seminole county on a charge of perjury in connection with an alleged transaction with Seminole county three years ago.

Candidates Against Prohibition.

Helena, Mont.—Candidates' attitudes on prohibition and on Governor Joseph M. Dixon's taxation policies figured largely in the campaign in Montana's primary election. Several candidates for nomination for members of Congress as well as aspirants to lower offices, declared themselves in favor of modification of the Volstead act to permit sale of beer and light wines. Against these candidates, the Montana Anti-Saloon League has waged a vigorous campaign.

Seven Points of Supremacy

1. The sole leather used in "FOOT-FITTING" is of the best quality obtainable. Even the insoles are cut from standard oak sole leather.
2. "FOOT-FITTING" are the only shoes in the world having full length vamps and tongues cut from the leather box toes. This feature prevents tipping at the tip and makes a smooth toe and inner surface.
3. The insoles are shaped to fit the foot, they fit tightly against the outsole. There is no need or room for a cork filler. A small piece of felt is used to prevent squeaking.
4. The Celluloid inside counter pocket is of great value, for it saves the wear on the socks. There is no rough surface to rub against.
5. "FOOT-FITTING" heels are ¼-inch longer than generally used. They give additional support to the arch and increase the comfort and wear of the shoe.
6. The vamp is reinforced with duck. This absorbs the moisture from the foot, this keeps the vamp from crackling and holds the shoe in shape.
7. Celluloids "FOOT-FITTING" shoes are called "FOOT-FITTING" because they fit the foot snugly. Built on combination lasts they support the foot like a doctor's bandage—"FOOT-FITTING" give Comfort, Service and Appearance.

Tax Commission has ruled maximum allowance for all expense per room including teacher's salary for rural schools having three rooms or less is nine hundred ninety dollars for first or higher grade certificate eight hundred ten dollars for second six hundred thirty for third for nine months term as provided chapter eighty three laws nineteen nineteen.

Van L. White Sec'y
Tax Commission.

In reply to a telegram to the State Department of Education for assistance we found that everything rested with the Educational Auditor and the State Tax Commission.

It would seem that the State Tax Commission had taken advantage of the teachers as they did not advise the County Superintendents nor the Educational Auditor that they were contemplating such a reduction.

All salaries for teachers, janitors etc had been reduced before the budgets were sent the Auditor. Teachers were carefully checked up and salary stated accordingly.

This will place many teachers in a very difficult position as rooms and board were not reduced, neither was clothing.

This reduction does not affect the schools employing four or more teachers but the smaller schools in the Rural districts where teachers must furnish their references board, live in isolation and spend oftentimes one-fourth of a month's salary to reach the school and teach from six to eight grades and a little high school if the rural children are to have any work above the eighth grade.

School will begin Monday providing the teachers can see their way clear to make a living or be given one by the patrons.

A Prodigal Homeward Bound.

Word has just reached here that the "Prodigal Son" is homeward bound. About two months ago this disobedient boy in his two clyinder Jackson, with no regard for the tear-dimmed eyes of his many friends, threw himself in low, soon getting in high, sped away for that good old state—Arkansas. It does not appear that the delicious fruits, golden corn, nor the beautiful streams and wonderful scenery, nor the handsome maidens nor attractive widows were sufficient. But it does not yet apperr to him what the truth may be. For ought that we know he may not have forgotten the girl he left behind him. Anyway, we welceme our friend Jacob H. Norris back home to the land of sunshine and cool invigorating breezes.

Billy Sevier Republican candidate for Commissioner in this District, was in town Tuesday.

Jack Ferguson was here Tuesday from his ranch in Bean Canyon.

Dr. F. H. Johnson was here Sunday from Carrizozo.

Jack Kempner has opened a pool hall and barber shop in W. B. Payne's building and seems to be doing a good business.

Robert Hinchey, from the Baca Canyon neighborhood, made one of his occasional visits to Capitan the first of the week. Mr. Hinchey is one of the most intelligent and best posted men in the country and we always enjoy his visits and would be glad if he would make them more frequent.

J. R. Green, the railroad conductor, has decided to let his family remain on the ranch this year and send the children to school in Capitan. They will be brought in on the school truck which now passes near their home.

Dr. E. C. Price returned Sunday and says that he will be here for time. The new government hospital where he been assigned and notified to report for duty has not been finished, on account of labor troubles, and consequently, is not ready to receive patients. The Doctor will attend to calls while he remains here.

It has been raining in different localities in the county this week, and the prospects are good for a continuation of rains.

The Capitan school board has appointed Mr. Pat Stuart janitor for the school house and he has moved his family here for the school term, and they are located in T. Key's house on the place formerly owned by W. H. Fisher.

A decided improvement is noticable in the appearance of the Corona Maverick, edited and published by Homer A. Stuart. It has been changed from a 4-page folio to an 8-page quarto, and its local department, also, shows much impovement.

Henry Stutts, from the Arabela community, was here this week visiting his son-in-law, Mr. Henry Silva and family. Mr. Stutts expects to move here in a short time and make his home with Mr. Silva and family.

Mrs. Earl Hedgecoxe and little twin daughters, now living in the Pecos Valley, passed through Capitan on the mail car Wednesday morning on their return home from a visit out west. These are the little children that got lost at the Hedgecoxe ranch north of the Capitan mountain a few years ago, which will be remembered by all who were living this country at that time.

Air Ship Without Engine.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The world of aviation is all agog over the latest news from Germany, where it appears that a German aeronaut has succeeded in remaining in the air more than two hours in a motorless plane, using only air currents, and not riding them without control of direction, but crossing and recrossing starting his point at various elevations above it and returning to his starting place when the time was up.

Almost unbelievable, to those whose only idea of a flying machine is a whirling propeller and a heavy engine, it is pointed out here the German aeronaut has only done for a short space of time what the Albatross does for weeks, and has but imitated all those birds of great wing spread which soar, circle, rise and fall without any movement of their wings save slight flexurees for balancing purposes.

It has long been known that the power of the air currents was amply sufficient to support a weight grater than its bulk of air, even in a man made bird; Lilienthal, the German father of gliding, demonstrated that years before he lost his life. But until recently it was supposed that direction controlled flight could not be obtained by man without a source of power independent of the supporting air. Now these German trials and tests seems to demontrate that the art of the birds is not beyond the power of man to master, and at least to make it possible, if no probable, that the age of flight is not to be a continuation of engine-driven planes, but a story of bird-like structures which take their power air which supports them.

MRS. LULA VANN FULTON, ARK.

Suggests to Suffering Women the Road to Health

Fulton, Arkansas.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a soreness in my side. I would suffer so badly every month from my waist down that I could not be on my feet half the time. I was not able to do my work without help. I saw your Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and gave it a fair trial. Now I am able to do my work and don't even have a backache every month. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound enough and highly recommend it to those who have troubles like mine. I am willing for these facts to be used as a testimonial to lead all who suffer with female troubles, as I did, to the right road to health."—Mrs. LULA VANN, Box 43, Fulton, Arkansas.

Its this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by word of mouth and by letter, one woman to another, that should cause you to consider taking this well-known medicine, if you are troubled with such symptoms as painful periods, weak, nervous feelings, miserable pains in your back, and cannot work at certain times.

Here is a woman who is so grateful and glad to be relieved from a painful and nerve racking physical condition that she wishes to tell all sick women.

Reasonable Conclusion.

He says he has smoked more Edgeworth than any other living man

Gentlemen:

I think that I am entitled to be called a charter member of the Edgeworth Smokers Club, as I have used the Edgeworth Sliced Plug between twenty and twenty-five years.

When I commenced using it I was selling hardware on the road. One of my customers who kept a general store told me that he had just received a new tobacco and wished that I would try it. He gave me a box for which he charged me 10c. He made a mistake, as it was selling at that time for 25c. I liked it so well that I made it a point to ask for it in every store in the different towns that I made, but few had it. The next time that I called on this customer I bought six boxes, which would last until I got around again. I still continued to ask for it in the different towns and tried to induce the dealers to stock it.

In 1906 or 1907 I went to the Carolina and stayed there three years. I was surprised not to be able to get it there. At that time I was in Beaufort, S. C., and made frequent trips to Savannah, Ga., and Charleston, S. C. and was unable to get it in either of these cities. Finally I ordered some direct from you and also induced a dealer in Beaufort to stock it.

I have used it always for over twenty years except occasionally when I could not get it. I figure that I have smoked over 1000 of the 10c boxes, which have cost for the last few years 25c. For at least five years I have not bought a cigar. I have had some given to me, but they do not take the place of the old pipe filled with Edgeworth.

I am sixty-one years of age and still think that it is the best tobacco on the market. I don't think there is a man living who has smoked any more Edgeworth than I. What do you think?

Yours truly,
(Signed) H. F. Baldwin

It is always pleasing to hear from old Edgeworth smokers, and we would like to know if this record is the best ever made.

But we are interested, too, in new Edgeworth smokers. We like to know that young men, men who are breaking in their first pipes, find Edgeworth before they get very far in their pipe-smoking careers.

So we have a standing invitation to send free samples of Edgeworth to all who ask for them. If you haven't tried Edgeworth, we have a sample package here containing Plug Slice and Ready-Rubbed that is only waiting for your name and address.

When you write for it, address Larus & Brother Company, 44 South 21st Street, Richmond, Va. If you'll add the name and address of your tobacco dealer, we'd appreciate the courtesy.

To Retail Tobacco Merchants: If your jobber cannot supply you with Edgeworth, Larus & Brother Company will gladly send you prepaid by parcel post a sample of two-dozen carton of any size of Edgeworth Plug Slice or Ready-Rubbed for the same price you would pay the jobber.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Go to it! Even an electric button won't accomplish anything unless it is pushed. When men and women have their ideals and work in common the world will be helped along with something like electric speed.

VARIETY FOR YOUR TABLE

The greatest help in avoiding monotony in menus is the weekly planning ahead of the meals. An occasional meal may be left blank and filled in with such leftovers as are found available.

The kind of food we serve depends upon the kind of people we are to serve. A child needs plain, wholesome food, as do hungry men. When one has a heavy main dish, a light dessert should follow, and when serving a light main dish, a hearty dessert.

Fats in meats need acid fruits and tart flavors to cut them and make them both appetizing and digestible.

During the heated term the meat dishes should be cut down. Nitrogenous foods have a process of putrefaction which is peculiar to that food. By this decomposition by-products are formed, which are more or less poisonous. Vegetable foods may ferment and cause irritation, but with animal foods, as well as the protein vegetable foods like peas and beans, these poisons often cause autointoxication. The vast majority who suffer in this way are overeaters. Going without a meal once or twice a week, or fasting a day, would improve the health of two-thirds of the overfat and self-indulgent. The individual who cannot say "no" to his appetite, "for his stomach's sake," will not stand very firm on higher demands.

In dishes requiring milk, the overfed should use skim milk. This will make a very acceptable soup; rice and tapioca may be cooked in skim milk; chicken and ham, which is such a favorite dish baked in milk. The skim milk may be used, at much less expense.

Veal en Casserole.—Cut the veal in serving-sized pieces, roll in seasoned flour and brown in a little fat. Have the casserole hot, add the meat with a chopped green pepper and one small onion, also chopped. Add a little hot water, cover and cook slowly for three hours. Add seasonings when the dish is half-cooked. An old fowl, squirrel or rabbit may be made into a most tasty dish by this long slow cooking.

Forenoon and afternoon and night,
forenoon and afternoon and night and what
The empty song repeats itself no more;
yon, that is life
Make this forenoon sublime, this afternoon a psalm, this night a prayer
And time is conquered and the crown is won."

SOMETHING TO EAT

Tuna fish has been called the turkey of the sea. The following dish is California Chicken Pie.—Take a large can of tuna, two carrots diced, two medium-sized potatoes diced, one medium sized onion chopped, one cupful green peas, one tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of salt, one fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper, and paprika. Boil the carrots and potatoes, onions and peas together until tender in a small amount of water, salted. Make a white sauce, melting the butter, adding the flour, and, when smooth, the milk and seasoning. When well-cooked remove from the heat. Line a baking dish with plain pastry, fill with the vegetables in layers, cover with a layer of fish, repeat until all are used. Cover with a crust in which vent holes are placed and bake until the crust is brown.

Date Crumbles.—Beat two eggs, add one cupful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one tablespoonful of flour, one cupful each of chopped walnuts and dates. Mix all together and spread on two greased pie tins. Bake in a slow oven three-quarters of an hour. Crumble and serve in tall glasses mixed with whipped cream lightly sweetened and flavored.

Rhubarb de Luxe.—Take four cupfuls of rhubarb cut in small pieces, two cupfuls of granulated sugar, one-half teaspoonful of mace, one-fourth teaspoonful cinnamon, twelve whole cloves, one large orange. Place the ingredients all together in a greased casserole, adding the rind from the orange as well as the pulp and juice. Cover and bake until the rhubarb is tender. If very juicy, uncover during the last 15 minutes of baking.

Fruit Cream.—Beat one egg, one-half glass of jelly and two tablespoonfuls of sugar until it is stiff enough to stand. Serve in sherbet cups topped with a spoonful of sweetened and flavored cream, whipped until stiff.

Horseradish Sauce.—Mix one-fourth of a cupful of grated horseradish with one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, moisten with vinegar and stir into the mixture one beaten egg. Add one cupful of thin white sauce, heat, beating well with a Dover beater. Serve with veal or any delicate flavored meat. Whipped cream may be used in place of the white sauce if it is at hand, making a richer, more dainty sauce.

ROOM FOR BUT ONE THOUGHT

Quite Impossible for Glutton's Ideas to Rise Above Consideration of His Stomach.

"Henry Watterson," said a Louisville editor, "was a gourmand—a fin gourmet, as the French put it—but he hated gluttony like sin.

"Gluttons, he claimed, couldn't keep their minds off their stomachs. He said he once visited an English lord, and the smoking room of the castle was crowded with trophies of the lord's skill in the hunting field.

"A fat glutton was among the party. He, with the rest, admired the fine display of antlers—horns of the mountain sheep, the elk, the antelope, the wild goat, moose and so on. Then there were skins—bear skins, bison skins, tiger skins. And stuffed birds—pheasants, woodcock, wild turkey, wild duck.

"'My lord,' said the glutton, 'tell me—did you eat all this yourself?'"

ALWAYS HIS UNLUCKY DAY

Dr. Rathenau, German Statesman, Had Dread of Saturday Which His Tragic Fate Justified.

Two weeks before his murder M. Rathenau was chatting with a few friends after dinner in the living room of his villa at Grunwald. The talk had been about the popular superstition which attaches to Friday, a day of evil repute.

"My unlucky day," M. Rathenau remarked, "has always been Saturday. Twice in my life I have nearly been killed. Once, when a child, I was badly injured in a runaway. This was on a Saturday. Then years later I was almost killed in a fall down a stairway—on a Saturday. It's my bad day."

M. Rathenau was assassinated on Saturday.—Le Petit Parisien, Paris.

Will Clean Historic Edifice.

Westminster abbey, London, is going to have its first bath for many a year.

Prominent experts in old wood carvings of the Gothic and Norman periods, have discovered a preparation which can be run over the wood of the old choir stalls and on the alabaster of tombs, which will take off the dirt, without harming the beautiful work, bringing to light the wonderful color effects of the old paints beneath the dirt layers.

A preparation of lime, which will give the historic abbey the effect of having been whitewashed when first applied, will be painted on the outside stone work of the abbey, to clean the gray stone back to its original colors. At present the outside is, in places, black.

Giddap.

A modest high school girl in an Oregon town while copying a passage from Sir Walter Scott, came to the line: "The horses stepped into the stream up to their bellies."

And this is how her teacher found the line written when the copy was turned in:

"The horses stepped into the stream up to their waists."

Not Now.

"When I was young girls were taught to darn their own stockings."

"Yes, Grandma, but in those days it was possible to place a darn where it wouldn't show."—Life.

Once at Least Golfer Had a Chance to Turn in a Score His Opponent Could Not Beat.

Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel company, plays a first-class game of golf. Between him and his "big chief," Charles M. Schwab, exists a keen friendly rivalry, the two playing regularly together.

In the steel trade, they tell the story of a match once played between the two. On the first hole, the story goes, Schwab, who was keeping score, asked Grace how many shots he had taken, and was told five. "I took a four," said Schwab. At the next hole, Grace had a four and Schwab claimed a three. At the third hole, Schwab asked: "Gene, how many did you have?"

"One," replied Grace. "Now beat that if you can!"—Wall Street Journal.

The Leisurely Unrighteous.

"Not any more," replied Farmer Cornstosel.

"You run them out?"

"No. They got rich and moved away."

Maybe that hill is not there, after all—

VERY often the hill we seem to be climbing is made out of the common mistakes of diet which starve tissues and nerves and slow down energies.

How smooth and level the path seemed to be when we were younger.

Simple, natural food may level that hill to a smooth path again.

Why not try it?

Begin today with a dish of Grape-Nuts with cream or milk—and fresh or preserved fruit added if you like.

Keep on with this crisp, delicious, strengthening food in place of heavy, ill-assorted, starchy breakfasts and lunches—and see if the old-time zest and speed on the old-time level path doesn't come back again.
