Boom debate mellows

In Tuesday's County Commission meeting, residents thank Holloman AFB officials for addressing concerns over the sonic impact of Raptor training missions

DIANNE STALLINGS
dstallings@ruidosonews.com

Either the Christmas spirit or a real appreciation of the defenders of the country prevailed at a Lincoln County Commission meeting Tuesday as the subject of super sonic booms was discussed again.

Complaints have flowed into the county and Holloman Air Force Base in nearby Alamogordo over the past few months as pilots trained in the skies over White Oaks, Nogal and Ruidoso in the new F-22 Raptor jet fighters.

Residents of the two smaller settlements contended the noise from the sonic booms was amplified as the sound bounced off the mountains surrounding the communities. But in the latest of at least four discussions with Air Force representatives, the mood was muted in appreciation for their attention to the problem.

Col. Mike Stapleton, 49th Operations Group Commander, told commissioners and those in the audience that officials with the Institute of Noise Control and Engineering Acoustics, who specialize in sonic booms and their impacts on defense tactics and for mitigation with the public, will begin a local study in January at his request.

"I asked them to come down to Holloman to study," he said. Past complaints will help them determine how topography and altitude and other factors combine with the dynamics of the F-22 to influence the noise level.

"The dynamics in the F-22 created conditions that are a little worse than I thought originally would happen," he said.

The team will look at ways to alleviate the noise level within an acceptable range that does not diminish the ability to effectively train pilots in the 5th generation aircraft, Stapleton said. "They will look at climate, topography, at how complaints are platted out to see if something simple could help or if a scientific solution requires a dramatic change in course," he said.

"I cannot promise to make sonic booms go away," he emphasized. "I

Council reluctantly OKs rate study

$58,000 study will analyze who is using the wastewater treatment plant and what each type of customer should pay, among other data

dstallings@ruidosonews.com

Choking on the $58,000 price tag, Ruidoso village councilors swallowed their objections and approved a new wastewater treatment rate study by Red Oaks Consulting.

Calling the price "outrageous," Councilor Michele Rebstock voted against the motion last week. Councilor James Stoddard specified as part of the motion that if the firm fails to produce a report by the April 1 deadline, a penalty will be imposed.

Village Manager Dan O. Higgins and Deputy Manager Bill Morris argued that advantage is gained by working with a firm whose employees already are familiar with the plant's operation, financial obligations and rates. That familiarity will eliminate the learning curve a new firm would require, they said.

The savings of going out for bids on the assignment would be lost by the two additional months of time required to select a different company and the learning period after the hire, they contended.

Morris told councilors the new assignment is the fifth amendment to the village contract with Red Oaks, the firm that came up with a $32 per month needed new wastewater treatment charge to customers a year ago to offset part of the village's obligation under a $40 million state and federal environmentally mandated rehabilitation of the treatment plant.

Morris emphasized the previous study started with existing rates and what additional dollars were required to offset the debt. The new study will begin at ground zero to look at who is using the plant, what each type of customer should pay and what is required to operate the new plant and repay the debt.

Morris reminded councilors they wanted to reexamine the rates after one year to see if more of the burden should be shifted to commercial customers. The study would give the council a defensible base and data for any action, he said.

"They won't start with existing rates," he said. "They'll look at the true cost of providing service, look at users and who benefits. They are not assuming anything from the past."

Councilor Greg Cory said when the council discussed imposing a new gross receipts tax, he thought the aim was to more fairly assess costs by including tourists for whom the village seasonally must provide three to four times the level of service than needed for the permanent population.

The study will consider that data too, Morris said. "Last year we didn't redistribute, we just raised both (commercial and residential). Now we start with the true cost and analyze."

Rebstock said she thought rates already were significantly readjusted for customers served outside the village. She asked why village staff couldn't perform the new study.

"It's way more complex and requires engineering, accounting, information technology. It takes a team," Higgins said.

Stoddard asked about advertising a request for proposals to see if another company would perform the study for less money. Morris responded that Red Oak employees already are familiar with the complex system and know the village's approach.

He doubted staff could handle the work. With the help of Kevin Powers, the village's bonding consultant, Red Oak officials will factor in different scenarios such as imposing a higher GRT, Morris said.

Higgins said the $58,000

Stoddard, Hubbard officials, clarify salary

DIANNE STALLINGS
dstallings@ruidosonews.com

James Stoddard's inclusion on a list published by a New Mexico business weekly of the highest paid executives with non-profits in the state created a misleading picture of his annual compensation.

The $354,261 figure on a list cited by New Mexico Business Weekly in a November 14-20 edition, and republished by the Ruidoso News on Friday's Business Page, reflects about 20 years of accumulated deferred income in Stoddard's retirement fund as executive director of the R.D. and Joan Dale Hubbard Foundation, according to supplied documentation.

Stoddard

His annual salary accounts for about 22 percent of that figure, or roughly $77,000.

Stoddard and foundation officials wanted to clear up any misperception that money slated for worthy projects and groups in Lincoln County and New Mexico is diverted into hefty executive salaries.

The foundation was ranked in the business weekly as ranking 19th in the state for giving at more than $1.33 million.

Stoddard, who also serves on the Ruidoso Village Council, is scheduled to retire at the end of December and his retirement account, to which he contributed over many years, was shown as part of his annual compensation.

The list, which did not break down the different sources for that compensation, was based on public documents and Web site data collected by Guidestar.

New burn

Crews with the Smokey Bear District of the Lincoln National Forest plan to ignite dozer push piles on 100 acres in an area two miles east of Hale Lake along Forest Road 443.

The ignition by U.S. Forest Service employees is set to begin at 10 a.m., today, if conditions are favorable. A second day of ignition may be necessary Thursday to meet the targeted coverage.

Gingerbread bids

The Lodge at Sierra Blanca continues to accept bids on its "Old West Gingerbread Storefront," on view now inside the hotel lobby at 107 Sierra Blanca Dr. Money raised in the auction of the edible village will benefit the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Program of Lincoln County. Bids are accepted through Dec. 19, at which time the sculpture can be taken to home or office by the lucky winner.

To place a bid, interested persons can stop by The Lodge or call 258-5500. Gingerbread cookies are also on sale through Jan. 9. Large cookies orders can be filled with advance notice.

The "Old West Gingerbread Storefront," baked by Lodge culinary artists Alicia Lomeli and Yolanda Graves, is 90 percent edible. More than 15 pounds of flour, 10 pounds of icing, eight pounds of powdered sugar, four pounds of brown sugar and four pounds of butter went into the making of the gingerbread village.

Council cancels

The regular Dec. 30 meeting of the Ruidoso Village Council is canceled. The next meeting is set for 4:30 p.m., Jan. 13, in the village administrative office, 313 Cree Meadows Dr.

Alto Lakes meeting

Members of the Alto Lakes Water & Sanitation District Board will conduct a special meeting at 8 a.m., Thursday, in the Conference Room of the ALW&SD Office, 214 Lake Shore Dr. in Alto.

Pet protection

While enjoying the holidays with dinners, sweets and plenty of presents and decorations, officials with The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals want pet parents to be aware of potential hazards to their furry friends.

"Many of our winter habits and holiday traditions could pose a potential threat to our companion animals," said Dr. Steven Hansen, a board-certified veterinary toxicologist and senior vice president of the ASPCA's Animal Health Services, which includes the ASPCA's Animal Poison Control Center in Urbana, Ill. "As you begin to prepare for a festive season, remember to be wary of activities that can be potentially dangerous to pets."

To keep pets happy and healthy during the holiday season, the ASPCA offers pet owners the following helpful hints:

• Avoid a sour stomach. 'Tis the season for overeating, but remember to keep your pets on a normal diet. Any change of diet, even for one meal, can give your dog or cat severe indigestion and diarrhea. "Please don't give pets holiday leftovers, and do keep them out of the garbage," advises Dr. Louise Murray, director of medicine at the ASPCA's Bergh Memorial Animal Hospital in New York City. Poultry bones can splinter and cause blockages, while greasy, spicy and fatty foods can cause stomach upset.

• Use caution with cocktails. If your plans include adult holiday beverages, be sure to place unattended alcoholic drinks where pets cannot reach them. If ingested, the animal could become very sick and weak and may go into a coma, possibly resulting in death from respiratory failure.

• Skip the sweets. Several popular holiday treats are toxic to pets. Candies containing the sweetener xylitol can be poisonous to dogs. Even small amounts of xylitol can cause a sudden drop in blood sugar, which leads to depression, lack of coordination, seizures and even liver failure in certain cases. "Chocolate, especially baker's and dark chocolate, can also be potentially poisonous to animals, especially dogs," advises Dr. Hansen. Symptoms of significant chocolate ingestion may include vomiting, diarrhea, hyperactivity and increased thirst and urination, as well as abnormal heart rate/rhythm and even seizures. Cats also love to play with candy wrappers, but ingesting aluminum foil or cellophane can pose a choking hazard or cause intestinal blockage.

• Floral arrangements alert. Be careful with holiday floral arrangements and Christmas tree decorations. Lilies are commonly used this time of year and all varieties, including Tiger, Asian, Japanese Show, Stargazer and Casa Blanca can cause kidney failure in cats. In addition, common Yuletide plants such as mistletoe and holly berries can be potentially toxic to pets. Should a cat or dog eat mistletoe, they could possibly suffer gastrointestinal upset and in rare cases, cardiovascular problems. Holly can cause vomiting, diarrhea and lethargy if ingested.

• Cover the Christmas tree water. Christmas tree water may contain fertilizers, which, if ingested can cause stomach upset. Stagnant tree water can also act as a breeding ground for bacteria, and if ingested a pet could end up with abdominal discomfort, vomiting and diarrhea.

• Decorations can be dangerous. Consider decorating your tree with ornaments that are relatively less enticing to pets, such as dried non-toxic flowers, wood, fabric or pine cones. Traditional decorations such as ribbons or tinsel, if ingested, can become lodged in the intestines and cause intestinal obstruction. This is a very common problem, particularly with cats. Also take care to prevent your pets from having access to glass ornaments, wires and cords from holiday decorations. If chewed, such ornaments can damage your pet's mouth from shards of glass or plastic, while a wire can deliver a potentially lethal electrical shock.

• Careful with the candles. Ensure any candle decorations are kept well out of your pets' reach. Animals can easily knock over holiday candles and start a fire, and curious kittens are particularly at risk of getting burned by candle flames.

If your dog or cat accidentally ingests any potentially harmful products and you need emergency advice, consult your veterinarian or the ASPCA's Animal Poison Control Center at 888- 426-4435 (a fee applies) or www.aspca.org/apcc.

River monitoring program proposed

Dianne Stallings
dstallings@ruidosonews.com

The program will use about 18 monitoring points, says Ruidoso Deputy Village Manager Bill Morris.

A new series of tests on the Rio Ruidoso will be geared toward gauging the health of the stream and whether it improves as a regional wastewater treatment plant is revamped.

Officials with the two municipalities that own the plant hope a healthier river may result in a reduction in strict nitrogen and phosphorous contaminant standards imposed on the discharge into the river from the plant.

The standards are included in the treatment plant's five year operating permit and are tied to a court settlement of a WildEarth Guardians lawsuit over the river's water quality.

Speaking last week to members of the Joint Use Board that oversees the plant, Ruidoso Deputy Village Manager Bill Morris asked for approval to issue a request for proposals for professional services to handle the river monitoring program.

The JUB is composed of two officials from Ruidoso, two from Ruidoso Downs and one Lincoln County commissioner.

"This will involve more than the 18 monitoring points" studied for the previous few years by Livingston Associates, an Alamogordo firm, Morris said.

Mindful of a standing complaint from Ruidoso Downs officials that they are not always kept in the loop on issues, Ruidoso Councilor Greg Cory, sitting in as chairman of the JUB for the mayor, asked Ruidoso Downs City Clerk Carol Virden if she reviewed the RFP.

Virden said she and Ruidoso Downs Public Works Director Cleatus Richards met with several Ruidoso officials on the matter and suggested some changes to the wording.

Ruidoso Village Manager Dan O. Higgins said approval could be contingent on Ruidoso Downs' concurrence.

County Commissioner and JUB Member David Parks explained that the new draft approval was needed because the first RFP did not comply with the court stipulated agreement.

"I assume this does get us into full compliance," he said.

"And will look at the final standards by which the JUB will have to operate the plant," Morris said.

JUB members unanimously approved the new RFP.

The estimated $40 million plant rehabilitation ordered by federal and state environmental agencies, already resulted in a $32 monthly residential wastewater treatment extra charge for Ruidoso customers and an increase in property taxes for Ruidoso Downs land and homeowners.

Under another business item, the members ratified staff action on an Enviroquip proposal to include certain equipment under the company's contract for the plant's filtering system to ensure compatibility.

While the addition will increase the contract with Enviroquip by $537,158 for the ancillary equipment, Morris said the overall cost for the equipment will be less than if purchased separately, and will ensure compatibility.

"These are very important parts," Morris said. The move was recommended by the engineering firm designing the plant, he said.

In approving the agreement for Phase 1B with Enviroquip, JUB members included another increase of $161,559 for equipment such as pumps, valves, a lift tool and control modifications.

Cory noticed that the wording was for ratification of the change, which meant the staff acted on the issue and was seeking backing after-the-fact.

"Was that a timing issue?" he asked.

"Yes sir," Morris replied.

To avoid such situations, "Does this body need to meet more regularly?" Cory asked and Morris again said, "Yes."

Higgins said the recommended change came up during a plan review. Parks commended whoever drew up the explanation of the change, saying, "I think I even understood most of it."

OUR OPINION

Midtown needs more life after dark

A few grinches in our village are offended by live music in the courtyard at Dreamcatcher cafe due to "unreasonable noise."

Village Council, which has called a special meeting to review the noise ordinance, should bear in mind that Ruidoso is a tourist town and an arts destination. It must encourage live music in Midtown, per the goals of the Comprehensive Master Plan.

It can start by eliminating a requirement that clubs obtain endless special events permits in order to host music. It might have to clear up language in the noise ordinance to eliminate interpretation.

The eclectic Dreamcatcher should be considered a blessing to Midtown, which rolls up its sidewalks too early. And cafe owners Lynn and Traci Crawford should be thanked, not vilified, for injecting life into the moribund district.

Their music is often original and ranges from acoustic singer-songwriter to breezy jazz; don't expect heavy metal or hip-hop. And it shuts down early – at 9 p.m. weekdays and 10 p.m. weekends, when in fact the venue can legally remain open until 2 a.m.

Beyond that, the cafe hosts a non-denominational service Sunday mornings and the occasional benefit.

In the end, our police have more pressing duties than acting as decibel detectives in our primary commercial zone.

A period of transitioning

There is a frenzy of transitioning going on, the likes of which boggles the mind.

The most dramatic transition, of course, has headquarters in Chicago and Washington, D.C., where the incoming 44th president, Barack Obama, is fashioning a new administration that will shortly assume the authority exercised for the past eight years by the outgoing 43rd president, George W. Bush, and his cohorts.

HAL RHODES

That transition, in turn, has set in motion other, albeit lesser, changeovers, including two in our own Southwest, where the governors of Arizona and New Mexico – Janet Napolitano and Bill Richardson, respectively – have been tapped for Obama administration cabinet posts.

A New Mexican by birth, Napolitano is president-elect Obama's pick to head the sprawling Department of Homeland Security. Richardson is the new president's choice for Commerce secretary.

Thus is the Southwest in the throes of what might be called transitionmania.

In Arizona, Napolitano is preparing to hand over the reins of government to Arizona's secretary of state, Jan Brewer. It's a fascinating situation.

Napolitano is a Democrat, and a popular Democrat, too, in that normally Republican state. Indeed, a series of recent polls have found Napolitano to be running well ahead of John McCain in any challenge she might make two years hence for the Senate seat now occupied by the erstwhile Republican presidential nominee.

Nonetheless, some Arizona Democrats are less than thrilled to see Napolitano relinquish her governorship. Arizonans, you see, have never bothered to establish an office of lieutenant governor in their state's constitutional set-up.

Thus, when an Arizona governor dies or is impeached (as has happened) or resigns, the next in line of succession is the secretary of state, and the current holder of that office, Ms. Brewer, is a Republican.

The gubernatorial transition in New Mexico won't rearrange this state's political landscape to the extent expected in Arizona.

One has to go back to 1962 to find an occasion in which a New Mexico governor has resigned in order to take a job in Washington. On Nov. 30 of that year, Republican Gov. Edwin Mechem submitted his resignation and, by so doing, turned the state's highest office over to his lieutenant governor and fellow-Republican, Tom Bolack.

Bolack served as governor a mere 30 days, but one of his first official acts was to appoint Mechem to the U.S. Senate seat left vacant by the death only 12 days earlier of the state's legendary Democratic Sen. Dennis Chavez. It was a wildly unpopular move and destroyed the political careers of both men, although years later, Mechem was appointed to the federal bench in New Mexico, where he served with distinction.

The state's current gubernatorial transition is unlikely to wreak such havoc. A caveat here: Gov. Richardson hasn't yet resigned, nor will he until his appointment as Commerce Secretary is confirmed by the U.S. Senate. Bill covers his bases.

Still, he has promised full cooperation with the transition that will make Lt. Gov. Diane Denish the first woman to occupy the office of governor in New Mexico. And it's an impressive transition process she has set in motion, with teams of knowledgeable advisors on hand to offer counsel on the full range of critical issues she faces upon taking office, from budget shortfalls and government finance, to education, energy, the environment and public safety.

Denish has done her homework. Which is encouraging. Not in several lifetimes have the challenges facing our nation and states been so daunting.

With luck, all this transitioning, hither and yon, will leave our new leaders better prepared to master the messes they are inheriting.

YOUR OPINION

Income was not fully explained

To the editor:

I WAS DISMAYED to read the article "Stoddard Ranks 10th in Non-Profit Executive Pay." Apparently, no comment was sought from Mr. Stoddard regarding context. Had such effort been made, the reporter would have discovered that most of the reported income was extraordinary and related to Mr. Stoddard's pending retirement.

I have had the distinct honor of knowing Jim Stoddard for a number of years. If one's prosperity is measured by their generosity to their community, he is, indeed, a very wealthy man. He has spent countless hours volunteering his time for the betterment of our schools and parks/recreation.

His service as Village Councilor is distinguished by the amount of time he spends researching the issues affecting our community. His duties with the Hubbard Foundation have benefited countless organizations and individuals throughout southeastern New Mexico. He has taken a personal interest in each and every beneficiary of the generous foundation he represents.

He has, individually, been a continued source of important and sustained financial support for many of our most worth causes. This support has always been given with an insistence that neither attribution nor commendation be given.

On a personal note, I have had few friends closer, nor more devoted, than Jim Stoddard. He is a "friend in need and a friend in deed".

Accordingly, I regret that this article was published. Given the fact that his compensation is not paid by the taxpayers of Ruidoso, I question the newsworthiness of the content. If publication was deemed necessary, the comments of the subject should have been sought. We are a small community and our citizens should be afforded greater consideration.

FOL in good hands

To the editor:

IT IS WITH GREAT gratitude that I write to thank the Chamber of Commerce for picking up where the FOL committee left off. The Festival of Lights parade was a spectacular success.

C of C Executive Director Sandi Aguilar and her FOL team, led by Kathy Alexander, proved to be the magic (as I knew they would) in keeping this wonderful event vibrant. As a member of the FOL since it's inception, I am gratified in seeing the parade continue and grow. As a local small businessman, in very tenuous economic times, I am thankful for the efforts of our Chamber crew, all of whom I have come to admire and respect for the great work they do all year long.

Thanks for fundraiser

To the editor:

AN AVID READER of the Ruidoso News will find many references to how generous our community is to people in need. In the spirit of this holiday season, I offer yet another example.

Kathy Barnett of Barnett Carpets in Ruidoso recently hosted a fundraiser to benefit the Nest domestic violence shelter. She and her amazing staff worked tirelessly to bring nationally recognized speaker Sally Morse, Director of Creative Services at Hunter Douglas, to present a workshop titled "Ten Steps to a Perfect Room."

Many of those in attendance were familiar faces, the faces of generous people who have long supported HEAL and the Nest in each of our fundraisers. They were the faces of bank tellers, teachers, attorneys, secretaries, retired volunteers, government workers and elected officials.

They were ... well, just like us.

Many, many thanks to Kathy and Barnett Carpets for their undying loyalty and support of the women and children of the Nest. We appreciate all of your efforts.

Praising Mario

To the editor:

IN THE WEDNESDAY paper I noticed a comment by Commissioner Ray Alborn referring to a fruit stand. I am going to assume the fruit stand Mr. Alborn was talking about is Mario's Fruit Market.

According to the paper Mr. Alborn was concerned if that location was "suited" for the fruit stand.

First of all, I am wondering if you were that concerned when the location was an empty putt-putt golf course where people often went to drink their beer.

I am wondering if you have even checked out Mario's Fruit Market. If you had then you would know that Mario has done wonders with that location. Not only has he cleaned it up but he has also provided this community with a great business.

My family shops at Mario's regularly. He is about the nicest guy you would ever meet. So, Mr. Alborn, instead of questioning the business why don't you try supporting it?

A debt to Alice King

To the editor:

FIRST LADIES ARE in a unique position to raise the visibility of an issue that has long been marginalized. And those that do it well – like Betty Ford, who allowed us to talk openly for the first time about breast cancer, and Rosalynn Carter, who championed immunizations – can count saving lives as a very tangible part of their legacies. Alice King was that kind of leader and by bringing children's issues to the forefront, particularly issues of abuse, there is no doubt that countless innocent young lives were saved, and the quality of those and many other lives improved.

Before New Mexico Voices for Children spoke on behalf of the state's most vulnerable residents, children had a voice in Alice King. As an advocate, she not only had the governor's ear, she also captured the attention of the entire state with her deep commitment to the health and well being of New Mexico's children.

Our debt to Alice King is very personal. She paved the way for the work we took up in 1987. She had already put children's issues on the table and got policy makers to consider implementing new programs and tackling old problems for the first time.

She was a visionary with an open heart and a determination that New Mexico will be a better place for children. In her work she gathered people together from all over the state and, in doing so, brought collaboration to the forefront as a means to achieve her goals. She listened to everyone, as no voice was too small.

Members of the NM Voices staff and board are deeply saddened by the loss of this singular First Lady. We counted Mrs. King among our allies and often were honored by her presence at our events. I counted her among my friends.

She was a great lady indeed. She will be missed, but her legacy will live on.

can promise you we will respond to every call."

He explained that the mission is for the United States to continue to "own the skies," while other countries are trying to end that dominance. No longer will America have the luxury of adapting to a new aerial battleground over a long time period, he said. "With some enemy situations in the works, we will have 30 seconds, not 30 days," Stapleton said.

But while his pilots train hard, he also is charged with not causing damage to citizens, he added.

Before each resident or commissioner spoke, they prefaced their remarks with gratitude for the job performed by the military.

David Thomas of White Oaks, who previously cited possible damage to historical structures in one of the county's first settlements and asked for the jets to avoid the air space over the community, said he appreciated Stapleton's information.

"I appreciate what you just told us you are going to do and I appreciate your response," he said.

Stapleton again pointed out that citizens help by bringing to the Air Force's attention noise issues, which also can affect tactical decisions in the field.

Jerry Carroll, an Oscura resident who raises goats, asked if the sonic booms and training exercises might be connected to an unexpected abortion in one of his animals.

"I appreciate your response," David Thomas of White Oaks told Holloman officials.

Stapleton said he didn't know, but would check if either acoustic or seismic effects have been linked to such events.

Commissioner Dave Parks said while he knows the sonic booms "are the sound of freedom," he would like an update on how negotiations are going to use more of the U.S. Army's range further west for the air training exercises.

Another Air Force official at a previous meeting told commissioners the ability to use the Army range would alleviate much of the problem.

Stapleton said he is working with officials from Fort Bliss in El Paso and White Sands Missile Range on that option. "It is not easy, but it is the thing to do," he said.

The colonel explained that sonic booms are caused when an aircraft breaks through a mass of air, similar to a boat breaking through a wake. The air compression from an F-22 is about one pound per square inch and that's how the amount of noise is measured.

"Typically when we decrease altitude, we go subsonic, but it is a tremendous airplane and the F-22 is capable of going super sonic traveling side to side and up and down," he said. Stapleton described the F-22 as a 5th generation fighter with increased ability for pilots to see what's happening in 360 degrees around them.

In older aircraft, 85 percent of a pilot's time was gathering information and 15 percent to making decisions. With the F-22, a pilot sees everything quickly in blips and dots on a screen and spends less time thinking about what's going on.

"I have the picture in front of me and can spend more time to make decisions," which can enhance the results of an attack or help prevent an attack, he said. "It's an expensive airplane and program, but it's worth it."

However, the United States must stay alert because other countries and entities will continue to try to climb past America on the ladder of air supremacy, he said.

Commissioner Don Williams said at the speed of an F-22, even with more time, decisions must occur in a matter of seconds. "Not like ducking a shoe," Stapleton agreed, in an apparent reference to President George W. Bush's quick reaction recently in avoiding a shoe thrown by a journalist in Iraq.

Stapleton said eventually 40 fighters in two squadrons will be stationed at Holloman.

When no one else raised their hands or went to the podium, Stapleton joked about a waiting Christmas celebration in the lobby outside commission chambers. "Lunch must be really good," he said.

Inviting the Holloman representatives to stay during the lunch, Commission Chairman Tom Battin said commissioners appreciated the overall response from Holloman.

"I hope you see how proud we are of you and our country," he said. "Given the technical challenge you have to face, we appreciate your initiative to mediate."

is lower than a first estimate of $85,000 for the study.

"If it only adds 60 days, it would be advantageous to go to bid," Stoddard contended. Higgins disagreed, saying any savings would be outweighed by the savings in time.

Stoddard asked Councilor Don Williams, an engineer, his opinion. Williams agreed with Higgins and Morris.

"These people have experience and their research got us to where we are at," Williams said. "There's no guarantee we'd save money with an RFP, just that we would lose time."

Cory asked if serving several commercial enterprises on the Mescalero Apache Reservation as customers will be examined for different approaches and Higgins said the consultants will review the arrangement. But Rebstock said the Tribe's monthly bills doubled and tripled since a surcharge went into effect a year ago.

In other action, councilors:

• acknowledged that the discussion of a different method of appointing volunteers to various village advisory boards is moot, because state statutes designate that duty to the mayor with concurrence from the council.

• ratified Nunley's appointment of Zachary Cook, Robert Dolgener and John Cornelius to the village Impact Fee Committee, with Rebstock voting against.

Another gym at RHS needs work

toddf@ruidosonews.com

With the floor to one gym repaired, a second gym at Ruidoso High School will now need some fixing.

That's according to the facilities master plan update given by Superintendent Bea Etta Harris to the Ruidoso School Board at its regular meeting last week.

Harris stated a basic design flaw in the high school's auxiliary gym, which had been used while the floor in the main gym was being repaired due to flooding, would allow for water damage on the west side.

Harris said sheet metal flashing will be installed to prevent future problems.

The superintendent added that cold weather has delayed work on the school's track. Work resumed later in the week.

Construction on the new middle school is almost complete and work on the road leading to the school will be finished in the spring.

In other business, the board:

• Discussed a proposed Do Not Resuscitate section of the board policy manual, but no action was taken.

• Reviewed a draft of an updated administrative organizational chart.

• Approved Century 21 Aspen Real Estate as the official provider of Realtor services to the district for the next three years.

Sponsored by Lincoln County DWI Prevention

Teen Spotlite features area teens that have made a difference in their community, and the next featured teen is Lyndsey Saenz. Lyndsey is the daughter of Rosie and Lorenzo Saenz, Sr. Saenz is an eighth grader at Mescalero Apache School.

She is a dedicated student, holding a 3.5 GPA. She also participates in school sports in volleyball, softball, basketball and track. She does admit that basketball is her passion.

One of her teachers, Ms. Baeza, states, "Lyndsey has a strong sense of character and is a hard worker both on the playing field and in the classroom."

Saenz is an active member of the Mescalero Prevention Program. Being part of this organization enabled her to travel to Nashville in August. Saenz spent five days there at the Underage Drinking Prevention Conference. The purpose of which was to educate students about the dangers and consequences of underage drinking, how alcohol companies market their products to teens and modern prevention efforts.

Saenz says she enjoyed the trip and looks forward to future opportunities to better prepare her and her peers for the future.

Saenz shares that her biggest accomplishment to date was celebrating her coming of age ceremony this past summer. She feels this was the best time she has ever spent with her entire family. Time was spent preparing meals, visiting with friends, and dancing. This is her most cherished memory.

Parents and teachers are listed as influences in her life. Saenz said her parents encourage her to be in school daily and her teachers push her to do the best she can in the classroom.

Saenz is determined to accomplish her goals for the future. She would like to attend college, possibly at Texas Tech where she would love to play basketball for the Lady Raiders. After college she would like to enter the medical field, either as a paramedic or a surgeon, and return to work on the reservation. Even at a young age, Saenz has her goals and future in sight.

'A whole new era' for Fort Stanton

■ Fort supporters gather to honor volunteers and express hope for the future

Dianne Stallings
dstallings@ruidosonews.com

Current and possible future volunteers to work for the preservation of historic Fort Stanton gathered Sunday to say good-bye to an outgoing president of Fort Stanton Inc. and welcome a new president.

Historian and author Earl Pittman and his wife, university instructor Kathleen Pittman, are bowing out of their active participation at the fort to focus on activities in their new home base of Roswell.

Pittman thanked the many people who helped him during his three years as president, and mentioned Sally Burkstaller, "who saved the fort" many years ago when it was neglected and left to deteriorate after being closed as a state hospital.

He noted that the fort now has functioning restrooms complements of Dee Kessler with the State Monuments Division, who heads the Lincoln State Monument and temporarily the Fort Stanton State Monument.

"This is a whole new era for the fort as a state monument," he said of its recent designation.

Cynthia Orozco, an instructor at Eastern New Mexico University-Ruidoso who will be teaching a class on the fort beginning Jan. 22, offered an emotional tribute to Pittman for his dedication to the fort cause.

Her class will deal with fort history, artifacts, biographies and archaeology, she said. Students can sign up for credit or non-credit by calling the university, stopping by the office in Sierra Mall on Mechem Drive in Ruidoso or on-line at the university Web site. The class is scheduled for 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Ruidoso resident Clinton Smith, Fort Stanton Inc. president-elect, said soon the fort will stand alone without the Department of Corrections drug and alcohol rehabilitation residency program.

The administration building should be under construction by March and ready by November, he said. The museum being operated by volunteers will then move into the new and larger quarters and the entire quadrangle will be available for use during the next Fort Stanton Live celebration, Aug. 7-9, in conjunction with the Lincoln State Monument.

Kessler said everything at the fort but the waterworks was transferred to the State Monuments Division.

"Someone from state Property Control called to tell me we needed to replace a 540 gallon water tank and I told them, 'No ma'am, you need to replace it,'" Kessler said.

Smith said the fort museum also will cooperate with the Hubbard Museum of the American West in an exhibit on Fort Stanton.

He hopes to see more involvement by veterans with the fort. During meetings about a veteran's museum this year, he learned that New Mexico is home to 200,000 veterans and few know the fort and its military cemetery even exist.

DIANNE STALLINGS/RUIDOSO NEWS

Ruidoso's Clinton Smith is the new president of Fort Stanton Inc.

He asked for support from volunteers when money is requested from the State Legislature in January. He's working with a representative from the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce about bringing legislators a gift to remind them of the fort, he said.

Tuesday, Lincoln County Manager Tom Stewart reported to county commissioners that he meet last month with Ernesto Ortega, director of State Monuments, about the future of the fort, about 15 miles northeast of Ruidoso.

"The transition of the fort to State Monument from the Property Control Division, while not yet totally complete, is going well," he said. "There are some legislative issues with funding the transfer and full-time employees that will be cleared up his coming legislative session (in January)."

Ortega met with representatives from Fort Stanton Inc. and EcoServants on their future involvement in fort projects, Stewart said. The fort currently is paid rent by people who live there and use the facilities.

Kessler is the county's point of contact, Stewart said, adding that he "looks forward to a great cooperative venture with State Monuments."

New track at Ruidoso

Ruidoso High School is about to realize a brand new state-of-the-art track complex to go along with their recently renovated gymnasium floor. The construction of this modern athletic field of competition began in early July and was initially slated to be completed by Oct. 1. However, the subsequent flood of July 27 and additional inclement weather prevented the finish of the project until now.

State Representative Dub Williams was responsible for procuring the necessary funding for the construction and Atlas Tracks Ltd., from Oregon, was awarded the contract. Alamo Earthworks was sub-contracted to do the sub-surface work, including a 6-inch foundation and a 4-inch asphalt base. Renner Sports Surfaces of Denver was given the job of laying the top half-inch of polyurethane/rubber coating.

The old track was 25 years old and sorely in need of refurbishment. The top portion of it consisted of a latex binder which was not conducive to the various weather elements in the area.

"If the weather was cold the track would be hard," RHS track and field coach Ronnie Maskew explained. "This contributed to leg problems for some of the competitors in the early part of the season. Conversely, when the weather was hot, the track surface turned soft."

The new polyurethane top coat, mixed with shredded chunks from vehicle tires (a black half-inch base mat), offers a consistent hardness which stays uniform in varying degrees of temperature. It was laid at the rate of 100 meters a day with a miniature version of the standard asphalt road machine applicator.

Ruidoso Warriors go 2-1 in hoops

RHS recovers in Sun Devil tournament

MIKE CURRAN
mcurran@ruidosonews.com

The Ruidoso boys team competed in the Sun Devil Tournament at Sandia Prep in Albuquerque over last weekend and came out on the winning end, with two wins and one loss for their efforts.

Eight teams were in attendance.

The Warriors came out of the gate slow with an initial loss to Pecos High School, Thursday, 57-43.

"Our shooting was cold," RHS head coach Billy Page said. "We went five-for-20 from the free throw line while Pecos put in 20 out of 25.

"We got down early-on in the game and played catch-up for most of the contest."

At one point, the Warriors managed to get within 6 of Pecos but that was as close as they would come.

> "Our defense shut down Tohatchi's outside shooters and forced their squad to make quite a few bad shots"
> Billy Page
> Head coach

"Towards the end we were forced to foul them," Page said.

"Only trouble was, they made the shots and we wound up losing by 14."

Friday's action against McCurdy High School was the flip side of their previous game.

The Warriors came to play, grabbed the lead from the beginning and were able to play their game, winning, 71-51.

"We got a lot of players into the McCurdy contest," Page stated.

"It was a good experience for some of our younger players."

Warrior momentum carried over into Saturday's game against Tohatchi as the boys trounced their opponents, 67-48.

"Our defense shut down Tohatchi's outside shooters and forced their squad to make quite a few bad shots," Page explained.

Two Warriors, Keith Brower and Andrew Gilliland, were chosen to the Sun Devil All-Tournament team at the tourney's conclusion.

Next up, the Warriors travel to Artesia, for a Friday game at 7 p.m.

Lincoln County Regulators match results

JACK SHUSTER
For the Ruidoso News

With a wind so strong it threatened to blow bullets all the way to Roswell, seven hardy cowboys braved the gale at the new Western town under construction at the Ruidoso Gun Club range in Ruidoso Downs on Saturday, Dec. 13, to compete in two stages at the "Mail Order Bride" Cowboy Action Shooting match held by the Lincoln County Regulators.

The Regulators took on the bad guys in this adaptation of the Hallmark Channel's "Mail Order Bride," written by Regulator Frank Coe.

The story begins in Boston in the 1880s where Jen, a pickpocket for Roke, Beantown's top con man, takes the place of a young consumption victim and escapes Roke to become a mail order bride for a rancher in Wyoming.

Following the Pledge of Allegiance led by Special Constable Sgt. Shuster and a Safety Briefing by Territorial Governor Blackey Cole, the shooting started. Range Officer for the match was Rowdy Lane.

Stage One, "I'll find you.," was won by Rowdy Lane, followed by John Steele and Blackey Cole as they confronted the bad guy, Roke, who was trying to get Jen back.

Also finishing that stage, in order, were Oso, Doc Lecter, Kiowa Mike and Frank Coe.

Rowdy Lane took first place in Stage Two, "What's the gun for?," where they ran into the Association, a group trying to run Jen's new husband off the open range.

Helping to handle the toughest cattlemen in Wyoming were John Steele in second place and Blackey Cole in third. They were followed by Oso, Doc Lecter, Kiowa Mike and Frank Coe.

Top Gun for the day was Rowdy Lane.

One clean stages, no misses, was shot by Doc Lecter, Rowdy Lane and Blackey Cole.

In the various categories, Rowdy Lane was first in the Traditional Firearms category, followed by John Steele.

Top Frontier Cartridge Duelist was Blackey Cole. Oso was first in the Gunfighter category and Kiowa Mike held the top spot in Classic Cowboy.

Frank Coe was the best 49er. Top Silver Senior was Doc Lecter.

Cowboy Action Shooting is a multifaceted amateur shooting sport in which contestants compete with firearms typical of those used in the taming of the Old West: single action revolvers; lever action rifles; and side by side double barreled, pre-1899 pump, or lever action shotguns.

The shooting competition is staged in a unique, characterized, Old West style.

Contestants shoot in several one-to-four gun stages in which they engage steel targets.

COURTESY

A posse of Lincoln County Regulators readies for cowboy action.

Scoring is based on accuracy and speed.

The truly unique aspect of Cowboy Action Shooting is the requirement placed on authentic period or Western screen dress.

Each participant is required to adopt a shooting alias appropriate to a character or profession of the late 19th century, or a Hollywood Western star, and develop a costume accordingly.

The Lincoln County Regulators shoot on the second Saturday of each month and will hold their next competition on Saturday, Jan. 10.

Richardson, Williams earn All-american awards

New Mexico State seniors Chris Williams and Derrick Richardson earned All-American honors on Tuesday afternoon.

Williams earned his second All-American honor of his career, as he was named to the fourth team Phil Steele All-American team, while Richardson became the tenth All-American in school history, as he was named an honorable mention selection by SI.com.

Williams led the Aggies this season with 86 receptions for 1,271 yards and nine touchdown catches.

He also led the conference in receiving yards per game (105.9) and receptions per game (7.17).

Williams was fourth in the nation in receiving yards per game and 12th in receptions per game. Earlier in the season, Williams became the Aggies' all-time leader in receiving yards (3,555) and touchdown catches (32).

Against Hawaii this season, Williams tallied a season-high 221 yards and three touchdowns.

He finishes his career with two 200-plus yard performances and a school record 18 100-plus yard games.

Williams was also named a first team all-WAC selection earlier this month and earned his first All-American honor in 2006 when he was named an honorable mention selection by SI.com.

"This is another great honor for my career at NMSU," Williams said.

"It was a great ride and I had a lot of fun during my time as an Aggie. To earn All-American honors two of the four years I was at NMSU is a great thing."

Richardson led the Aggies and the nation in tackles per game this season, averaging 12.5 a contest. His 137 tackles this season is the highest total of this career.

Richardson finished his career as an Aggie with 318 tackles, good for 10th all-time in school history.

He tallied a career-high 21 tackles against UTEP and recorded eight games this season with double-digit tackle numbers.

Richardson is the first Aggie safety since 2000 to receive an all-conference accolade.

Richardson was also named a second team all-WAC selection earlier this month.

"This is a dream come true and I never expected it," Richardson said.

"It is a true example that hard work can pay off. During my career I thought at times that maybe football wasn't for me but I stuck it out and found a great home at New Mexico State."

TRACK

"The very top was a blend of red synthetic rubber mixed with a polyurethane binder of the same color and sprayed on in two coats, much like you would apply color textures to a wall," Maskew said.

Maskew then explained red was chosen because it is more resistant to fading than blue is.

"Red will match the trim coloring of the RHS buildings and is reminiscent of the old traditional, reddish cinder tracks of the past," he added.

The shot-put, long jump and triple jump areas will consist of the same surface, wherever applicable.

The pit areas are comprised of the mineral pearlite, which has been used in lieu of sand for the past 12 years.

"Pearlite doesn't pack up like sand can and is therefore much safer," Maskew said.

According to Maskew, the new track complex should last 20 years with proper maintainence, which should include a resurfacing every eight to 10 years.

Now that the construction is complete, all that remains is for the striping to be applied. This will be done after the first of the new year as weather permits.

When the RHS track and field team hosts its first event in April, it should give the squads an added incentive to succeed. It will rank as one of the most up-to-date high school track and field complexes in the state of New Mexico.

Carrizozo happy with 'no findings' audit

JULIE CARTER
jcarter@ruidosonews.com

Carrizozo, for the first time in several years, has good news about their latest audit and Mayor Bob Hemphill is wearing a well-deserved grin because of it.

According to Hemphill, the auditor for the 2007-08 audit told the mayor in the exit audit conference that the audit had been submitted on time (to the state auditor's office before Dec. 1) and it contained no findings.

The Town of Carrizozo will now wait for final approval from the Department of Finance Authority.

Hemphill announced the news to the Carrizozo trustees and guests during the council meeting Dec. 9.

The Carrizozo Department of Motor Vehicles will be closed Jan. 5-9, while the only licensed DMV clerk, Mary Ann Bingerman, attends mandatory classes on identification fraud.

Bingerman said the classes will also instruct clerks on how to use the new DMV equipment now in place.

The November activity report from the Carrizozo Police Department was presented by Chief Rachel Weiser. Fifty calls were answered and eight citations were issued. Six cases were logged, including one felony and three misdemeanors and two arrests.

Bill Hayes delivered the Carrizozo Municipal Airport report. A total of 119 gallons of fuel was sold in November, leaving an inventory of 320 gallons. Mayor Hemphill said more fuel has been ordered.

Kim Roper's resignation from the animal shelter was "reluctantly" accepted by the mayor and council. Roper cited the need for personal time during the weekends after many weeks of working through them at the shelter.

Roper was given a public thank you by the council and applause from the audience for her tireless dedication to the shelter and the animals.

The council voted to use some of the proceeds from the auction that netted $9,300.12 to give a one-time merit increase of $200 net to town employees.

The 2009 Carrizozo Cowboy Days, scheduled for June 12-14, was approved for $1,000 from Lodger's Tax. Event organizer Roland Caster said the enormity of the event as it is shaping up increased their budget from $9,000 to $14,000.

Caster said cowboy shootouts, the parade, vendors, the roundup with cowboy coffee and biscuits and gravy, kids rodeo, street dance, stage shows, a ranch rodeo and cowboy golf match are among a few of the activities scheduled for the three-day event.

The Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce was approved for $200 lodgers tax and $500 from the town to help with expenses for the Christmas Eve luminaria project.

The chamber is asking for all the volunteers they can find to help with setting out the luminaries the morning of Dec. 24 and with the lighting in the afternoon.

Because Dec. 24 is a regular workday for most of those that usually volunteer, including the members of the Carrizozo Volunteer Fire Department, a shortage of help is feared this year.

Local FM radio station, 101.9, will play 24-hours of uninterrupted Christmas music beginning at 9 a.m. on Christmas eve.

Organizers wish for visitors and residents to tune into the station, giving Carrizozo a stereo music effect for everyone people drive around looking at the luminarias on Christmas.

In other business, the council:

- tabled discussion and action on the property on the north end of Aspen Street;
- set a public hearing for the FEMA amendment ordinance for the next regular meeting;
- tabled action on passing the job description for the police chief until further work could be done on the document;
- awarded Engineers Inc. with the engineering on the streets and drainage project;
- approved the 2009 Holiday Schedule.

The next regular council meeting is at 6 p.m., Jan. 13.

JULIE CARTER/RUIDOSO NEWS

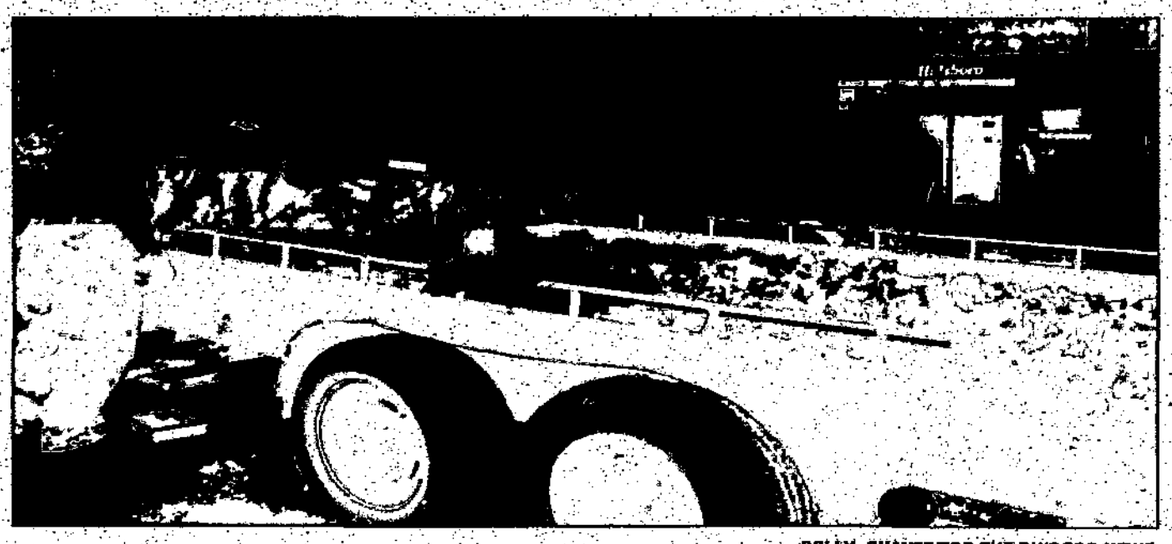
LUMINARIAS ARE BORN



POLLY CHAVEZ/FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Volunteers make it happen in Carrizozo. The Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce members and a group of dedicated volunteers gathered Saturday morning at the main fire station to fold and fill thousands of paper bags with sand and a candle and then store them until Christmas Eve when they will line the streets, giving off an old-fashioned traditional light that says "Welcome." Above left, Cheryl Smith, Johnathan Smith and Fran Altieri are part of the sack folding crew having a good time with the project. Above right, flat bed trailers are loaded with the sacks in stored in various buildings around town until Dec. 24.

The Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce honored three dedicated volunteer members at the chamber's Christmas party Dec. 11. L-r, Gail Major, Donna Harkey and Eileen Lovelace Sedillo were given commemorative china plates (painted by Verta Caster) in thanks for their years of service to the chamber. The awards were presented by Chamber President Dirk Norris.

Clarification

The Capitan Public Library wants to acknowledge the funding they receive annually from Lincoln County, the Vilage of Capitan and individual donations.

Director Pat Garrett said she didn't intend to infer that fundraising was the only source for the for CPL, referencing the Dec. 10 article recognizing Garrett's nomination by the AARP for her volunteer work.

COWBOY SANTA PARADE

Capitan's Cowboy Santa Parade was small but mighty this year, facing gale-force winds and enough cold to make Santa look like he had the right idea wearing his red fur head to toe. At left, Kamryn Torrez visited with Santa (Richard Rumpf), giving him her wish list for the upcoming magical night of toy delivery. At right, Santa is hoofing it to his horse-drawn sleigh and bottom left, is a mule-drawn wagon weathering the wind for the parade. With only seven of the 15 parade entries actually showing up, it wasn't long before the children were warm and toasty at the Capitan Public Library getting sacks of treats (compliments of Wal-Mart), a stuffed animal, gum, (compliments of Phyllis Macaw) and book.

Merry Christmas To Our Customers... Neighbors... Associates... And Friends!

in one night.

No mistletoe needed for 'A Kiss at Midnight'

Most holiday movies revolve around Christmas and children, which is dandy, but Hallmark Channel's "A Kiss at Midnight" next Saturday, Dec. 27, offers more.

The film's message of hope, promising true love can come along at any age, is sure to resonate with viewers whose Christmas wish lists excluded toys.

Susan Flowers (Faith Ford, "Murphy Brown") is a pragmatic matchmaker who is losing business to an online dating service. She's 40 and single, with a nun (Kim Rhodes, "The Suite Life of Zack and Cody") for a best friend and a great mom, Kay (Dyan Cannon).

Josh Sherman (Cameron Daddo, "Drifter"), a handsome widower, runs the online service. His two daughters (Abigail Mavity, Jadin Gould) scheme to send him on his first date in the six years since their mom died. Let's just acknowledge from the outset that viewers know what's coming: Josh and Susan will endure conflict but are destined to fall in love.

On New Year's Eve, Susan hosts a party for couples she introduced. She watches them smooch as they ring in the New Year and vows that she, too, will be in love by next Dec. 31. The title reassures us this will happen.

If someone is in the mood for a movie that's sweet but not cloying, this is it.

"It's a feel-good movie," Cannon says. "People will enjoy watching it, and they will have a good time. It's about all the good things in life - love and truth."

Kay, who runs a bridal salon, is a widow. She falls in love with Arthur (Hal Linden, "Barney Miller") despite her daughter not taking to him.

When Ford met Linden, she says, "I told him, 'I'm honored to work with you.' And he said, 'I am just happy to have a gig.'"

Arthur is not automatically likable, as he tells dusty old jokes, but Susan soon sees what a good heart he has. And she recognizes how wonderful it is that her mother finds love again.

Susan and other single women like her lead great lives and aren't pining for Mr. Right to come along and save them, Ford says.

"She literally is a person who has a life and is very busy," Ford says of her character. "It's interesting and very ironic that her occupation is matching people together. I have to believe there are more people like her."

When Susan decides to personally experience what the online dating service offers that she doesn't, she meets Josh, who is also self-sufficient. He has a lingering sadness from being widowed so young but is a great dad to his two girls. They immediately like Susan.

Of course, there must be some angst, and this movie even has an unconscious child in a hospital bed, always a heart-wrenching scene. Ultimately, though, it's a story of optimism.

Both Ford and Cannon, who spent a month filming this, say the movie's theme just made them happy.

"I hope that they don't give up on finding another person," Ford says of viewers. "And being alone is OK, too. It is not like I (Susan) was miserable until I met my perfect match. Hopefully they will be inspired with who they are as people. The main part with Susan Flowers - and I think it's a good message - is that she is content. You have to be content with who you are as a person, and then you just might meet somebody. She was sort of like a little positive affirmation: 'By this time next year I want to be kissing the man of my dreams.'"

Television has its own ghosts of Christmas past

By Beverly Foster Seinberg
© Zap2It

If it's Christmas, it must be time for those Very Special Episodes of our favorite shows.

Most of them are going into reruns this week -- the network suits don't like to waste new material in the busy days just before, during and after Christmas. But chances are the past few weeks brought us at least one television character getting the ghost-guided trip to Attitude Adjustment Land, a la "A Christmas Carol," or the angel-guided tour of The World Without Him in it, a la "It's a Wonderful Life."

Not all shows drag out these old scenarios for the holidays, and of those that do, only a few do them well. Some of those that did get it right are listed here, along with other memorable television treatments of the Most Wonderful Time of the Year. Want to see them again? Check your local or online video store.

"Smallville" (Thursdays, The CW): One of the better recyclings of the "It's a Wonderful Life" scenario was 2005's "Lexmas." Lex (Michael Rosenbaum) is shot in a Christmas Eve mugging while on a quest for information to discredit Jonathan Kent's (John Schneider) senatorial campaign. When he awakens, he finds himself living the straight life, a pillar of the community and the happy husband of Lana Lang (Kristen Kreuk), with a little boy and another child on the way. His mother, Lillian (Allsen Down), appears and tells him this can be his life if he gets out from under Lionel's (John Glover) influence. We all know how that turned out.

"House" (Tuesdays, Fox): If ever there was a character who needed the Dickens treatment, it's grouchy, Grinchy Greg House (Hugh Laurie). In the season four episode "It's a Wonderful Lie," he tears down the decorations that Kutner (Kal Penn) has put up, insults Wilson's (Robert Sean Leonard) taste in holiday headgear and rigs his department's Secret Santa exchange so everyone draws his name. He doesn't get any ghostly visitors to help him see the error of his ways, but the end of the episode does find him sampling a seasonal activity, thanks to a clinic patient with a St. Nicholas medal.

"Just Shoot Me": Kelsey Grammer lent his sonorous voice as narrator of 1998's "How the Finch Stole Christmas," which can be seen Wednesday, Dec. 24, on TBS. Smarmy administrative assistant Dennis Finch (David Spade) gets a peek at the gift his co-workers got him: a calendar, and not even the kind with naked women. Incensed, he tears down the office decorations and replaces everyone else's presents with insult gifts. Dr. Seuss' classic isn't the only parody target here; Elliot (Enrico Colantoni) falls in love with a puny tree a la "A Charlie Brown Christmas," and Nina (Wendie Malick) has a "Yes, Virginia" epiphany.

"Married ... With Children": The inspired casting of loud, irreverent comic Sam Kinison as the guardian angel saved the 1989 two-parter "It's a Bundyful Life" from being just another roasting of the Jimmy Stewart chestnut. A despondent Al (Ed O'Neill) gets to see what his family's life would be like if he'd never been born. Turns out Peg (Katey Sagal) would have married a rich man and become a model wife and mother, while slutty, dimwitted Kelly (Christina Applegate) would be an honor student, and nerdy Bud (David Faustino) would be Mr. Popularity. Ted McGinley, who plays Peg's husband in the fantasy sequence, returned to the show in 1991 as neighbor Marcy's (Amanda Bearse) new spouse, Jefferson D'Arcy.

"The West Wing": In the emotional 1999 episode "In Excelsis Deo," a homeless veteran dies on the National Mall, and nobody claims his body. Toby (Richard Schiff) is called to identify him because the man's coat had Toby's card in the pocket -- but that's because it's Toby's coat, which he'd given to charity. He makes it his mission to find the man's relatives but can only locate one brother, who's also homeless. Toby pulls some strings and arranges a military funeral at Arlington National Cemetery for the man. This episode won an Emmy for its script, and Schiff took home the Emmy for best supporting actor in a drama series.

"The Brady Bunch": Who can forget the time Carol (Florence Henderson) came down with laryngitis just before her big solo at the Christmas church service? While her siblings wonder whether they should postpone Christmas until Mom is better, little Cindy (Susan Olsen) asks a store Santa (Hal Smith) to deliver a miracle. Henderson, a gifted singer, didn't get many opportunities to show this talent on the show, so the 1969 classic "The Voice of Christmas" is a treat for fans and anyone who believes in ... well, believing.

David Spade stars in "Just Shoot Me" Wednesday on TBS.

"The Odd Couple": The 1970 episode "Scrooge Gets an Oscar" puts a clever twist on the usual rehashing of "A Christmas Carol," as Oscar (Jack Klugman) gets the Scrooge treatment because he doesn't want to be Scrooge. Specifically, he doesn't want to play the character in a production of "Carol" that Felix (Tony Randall) and their poker buddies are involved in. Felix plays the ghosts and the Bob Cratchit character in Oscar's Scrooge dream, but not-so-tiny Murray the cop (Al Molinaro) steals the show as Tiny Tim, with his "God bless us all! Every one!"

To that we add, and to all a good night.

Maddow helps re-energize MSNBC, one show at a time

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2It

She hoped to have success on MSNBC, but Rachel Maddow didn't plan on being its Next Big Thing.

That's just what she's become in the three months since her weeknight program premiered on the cable network. By chewing over the given day's events -- mainly the political ones -- with her trademark wit, liberal-leaning Maddow has parlayed her stint as one of Keith Olbermann's favorite guests on "Countdown" into the adjacent "Rachel Maddow Show," which has upheld if not surpassed its lead-in's ratings virtually from day one.

"I am trying to not pay attention to people writing about me," Maddow muses of her newly minted television fame. "I think that can be sort of bad for you. At the same time, I am trying to appreciate how lucky I am to be having this moment, and to have the show so well-received."

Indeed, "The Rachel Maddow Show" has been giving CNN's stalwart "Larry King Live" serious competition for viewership, but Maddow waxes modest about the fact.

"I started my show the day after the second major-party convention, so I basically opened an umbrella factory at the start of monsoon season. Everybody's ratings went up, MSNBC's more than anybody else's. To the extent I can claim credit for that, I'm happy to, but I recognize that all boats were rising at that moment."

Maddow is quick to note specifically the ratings of the fellow personality who basically mentored her into her current spot. "Keith's numbers are off the hook these days," she says. "My numbers are up, and that's great, but his are really dramatically up. Post-election, his haven't fallen. They've stayed higher than they were before the election."

Which, of course, also is good for Maddow as the host who immediately follows Olbermann. "That explains a lot of what's going on with our prime-time (lineup) now," she reasons, "plus Chris Matthews is coming in No. 1 frequently now (with 'Hardball,' earlier in the evening). I'm happy to get the credit, but I'm not so sure I deserve it."

The political campaign season may be over, but Maddow anticipates having plenty to keep talking about as President-elect Barack Obama moves into the White House. "The transition is frankly a smaller story than the election, and the first 100 days (of the new administration) may be more important to the country, but to have the oxygen back in the room is very exciting to me. It just means we can think about the news in a bigger, more creative way."

That extends to Maddow's interviewing style, which counters the bickering and simultaneous shouting that often populate similar shows.

"I'm not going to put people on in groups to fight with each other," she states. "I'm going to invite people on to communicate my belief that they have something worth listening to. When it comes to conflicts, or even insults in some cases, there's a line to toe between being civil and not being pushed around."

Also continuing her weekday Air America radio program, Maddow admits she's still adjusting to a schedule that accommodates both jobs. "My day is not as well put together as it could be," she says. "I sort of feel I'm on this very steep learning curve, and the steepest part is figuring out how to best apply myself during the day, so that I'm producing the best show with the work and the staff I've got.

"I start my day doing radio at Air America, and I get to MSNBC as soon as possible after that. I like to be there as close to the beginning of the news meeting as I can; we essentially talk through the news of the day and what makes the best sense for the show. I've usually got a bunch of things to add, because I'm coming from a morning spent in radio.

"When I'm prepping for radio, I'm usually also prepping for TV, so I'll throw in a bunch of wild cards. Thus starts a long day of reading, researching, reporting and writing."

And the recipe isn't necessarily finished when Maddow greets her viewers.

"From the moment I get there until the last second before the last segment, the show is being constantly written and rewritten," she says, "but there's rarely a moment when I am not sure what's happening next, or when I'm in an interview and I don't know where I need to go with it. I attribute that to the years I've had in radio. I think it's just a broadcasting thing."

Nevertheless, claims Maddow, "Part of it is insecurity. It's as true in one's personal life as in your professional life, that if you are controlling, it is probably because you're insecure about your ability to control things. I think it's motivated by fear of failure ... but that doesn't mean it's not helpful."

So far, Rhodes Scholar and Stanford and Oxford graduate Maddow hasn't deemed having a television set particularly helpful. She and her partner, Susan, don't own one, but with Maddow now fronting a hit show of her own, she says they have "the intention of getting one."

As new as television stardom is to her, Maddow likes it for what she's liked ever since her first big radio job in Holyoke, Mass.

An Inside Look

Your Christmas plus my Christmas equals 'Our First Christmas'

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2It

The holidays are coming, with cheer, cookies, tinsel and toddies, along with dread, angst, and lots and lots of negotiating.

There are families that don't have to worry about stitching together a new family fabric after a death or a divorce, that don't have to worry about which family traditions will be honored and which will be left on the wayside, that don't have to navigate the thorny thicket of yours, mine and ours.

Hallmark Channel wishes those folks a very happy holiday and then turns its attention to the less harmonious among us in a new movie called "Our First Christmas," airing Saturday, Dec. 20.

Julie Warner stars as Cindy Baer-Neil, a recently remarried widow who is writing a holiday letter detailing her plans, as she and her 14-year-old daughter, Tory (Cassi Thomson), plan to spend their first Christmas with Cindy's new husband, widower Tom (Steven Eckholdt), and his two kids, 12-year-old Lily (Grace Fulton) and 7-year-old Jacob (Maxim Knight).

As the holiday nears, the seams in the newly made family quilt begin to show. Tory wants to continue her family tradition of spending Christmas at a ski cabin in her native Colorado near her paternal grandmother, Evie (Dixie Carter).

Lily and Jacob, on the other hand, want to do as they've always done: perform in the Christmas pageant at the church where their paternal grandfather, Joe (John Ratzenberger), is a retired minister.

Cindy and Tom try to mollify the kids with a compromise -- pageant on Christmas Eve, followed by the cabin the next day -- but it doesn't go over well. Each kid doesn't want his or her vision of Christmas to change a bit, and the situation looks hopeless for all.

Meantime, Evie has come for a pre-holiday visit. While she's not sure where she fits in the new arrangement, she does make an unexpected connection with widower Joe.

But it's going to take a little more work -- and a bit of help from an enigmatic bell-ringing Santa Claus -- before the blended clan can start building new holiday traditions.

The British agent stays close to the daughter (Sophie Marceau) of a murdered oil tycoon, since her former kidnapper (Robert Carlyle) is suspected of masterminding the killing. Denise Richards plays a nuclear expert, and the late Desmond Llewellyn literally bows out as weapons genius "Q" (with John Cleese replacing him).

8 p.m. on KOAT KVIA Grey's Anatomy

Meredith (Ellen Pompeo) freaks out when Derek (Patrick Dempsey) finds her mother's old diary in the house. Callie (Sara Ramirez) anxiously prepares for her first real date with Erica (Brooke Smith), and Cristina (Sandra Oh) stumbles into a part of the hospital that she and the other residents haven't seen before in "Brave New World."

8 p.m. on MAX Movie: The Negotiator

Two experts in police bargaining skills square off in this tense 1998 drama. Samuel L. Jackson plays a hostage negotiator who turns his expertise inside out when he is framed for a crime. He takes Internal Affairs investigators as captives, then demands to deal only with a fellow negotiating master (Kevin Spacey). The excellent cast also includes David Morse, J.T. Walsh and John Spencer ("The West Wing").

7 p.m. on KWBQ Everybody Hates Chris

Chris (Tyler James Williams) agrees to help a classmate, Angel (Hector A. Garcia), improve his grades if Angel will help him get the attention of Chris' latest crush, Maria (Marisol Esparza). 8 p.m. on KOAT KVIA Supernanny

Jo travels to Amherst, N.H., to help a chiropractor and a personal trainer deal with their four out-of-control children. Dad often acts like a kid, even laughing at the kids' antics even when they've crossed the line, leaving his wife to referee on her own. All the children swear like sailors and refuse to do chores, saying they're not paid enough per chore.

8 p.m. on SCIFI Sanctuary

Hungry for their first exclusive on-air story, local news reporter Amy Saunders and cameraman Zach Spencer (Rekha Sharma, Matty Finochio) arrive at a shipping warehouse where three people have been brutally attacked and killed by a mysterious creature. While the authorities work out how best to handle the situation, the pair slips into the building to expose whoever or whatever is wreaking havoc. You can guess how smart that turns out to be.

SATURDAY

7 p.m. on HALL Movie: Our First Christmas

Peace on Earth, remember, kids? Life is nothing like "The Brady Bunch" for the blended family in this new holiday movie. Julie Warner and Steven Eckholdt play newlyweds whose children — she has a girl, he has one of each — want to spend Christmas with their respective grandparents (Dixie Carter, John Ratzenberger) and won't compromise.

8 p.m. on KOAT KVIA Movie: Dr. Seuss' The Cat in the Hat

After bringing a live-action version of "How the Grinch Stole Christmas" to the screen, producer Ron Howard went back to the works of Dr. Seuss for this visually clever 2003 representation of another classic. Mike Myers maintains his wise-guy approach as the title feline, who watches over two youngsters.

8 p.m. on KOBR KTSM WWE Tribute to the Troops

In this hourlong special, WWE Chairman Vince McMahon, along with top WWE superstars and divas, visits forward-operating bases of the U.S. armed forces, meet the troops and perform in front of a military crowd in Iraq. They've taken the reins from Bob Hope as the only entertainers to travel to Iraq and Afghanistan to entertain the troops for the past six consecutive holiday seasons.

9 p.m. on KENW Austin City Limits

England's Bloc Party portrays its music as "living noise." And that seems about right. With its jerky guitar pop, irresistible hooks and big ideas, the band has been compared to everyone from Sonic Youth to The Pixies. In this episode, the band performs songs from its second CD, "A Weekend in the City." Next, the electro rock duo Ghostland Observatory debuts.

Vince McMahon appears in "WWE Tribute to the Troops" Saturday on NBC.

Charlie Carver stars in "Desperate Housewives" Sunday on ABC.

SUNDAY

6 p.m. on KWBQ Jericho

Come on, folks, it's not as if you have anywhere to go. In "Walls of Jericho", people react poorly to the police request for gas from their cars to keep running the generator at the hospital ... which, incidentally, has a new patient. Jake and Heather found him by the road suffering from radiation sickness.

8 p.m. on KDBC KBIM Cold Case

"Come fly with me, let's fly, let's fly away." That would have been good advice for a flight attendant killed in 1960 while trying to form a union. It seems she wasn't making friendly skies, and her bones were discovered in a hotel that was being converted into condos. Rush and the team investigate in the new episode "Wings," which features the music of Frank Sinatra.

8 p.m. on KOAT KVIA Extreme Makeover: Home Edition

Give the tween girls in your house a heads-up: Even if they don't care for this show, an appearance by the Jonas Brothers may draw them into this episode. The featured family has three children with life-threatening medical conditions — one of whom uses a 200-pound wheelchair that won't fit in the house. Enter Ty and the gang to build this deserving quintet a new, accessible dwelling.

9 p.m. on KOAT KVIA Desperate Housewives

Posing as a teen to talk to teens online? Creepy. Posing as a teen to talk to your own son online? Uber-creepy. That's what Lynette (Felicity Huffman) is doing in an effort to find out if Porter (Charlie Carver) is hanging out with a boy who's dealing drugs. Susan (Teri Hatcher) discovers that her husband and her ex being buds is a mixed blessing.

MONDAY

6:30 p.m. on ESPN NFL Football

A .500 record after 12 games shouldn't translate into a shot at a division title, but that's what Kyle Orton and the Chicago Bears may be looking at when they take on the Green Bay Packers tonight at home. As of early December, Chicago stood a scant one game behind the Minnesota Vikings in the NFC North standings and had an easy schedule ahead. Easy, however, may not be how da Bears remember the 37-3 drubbing Aaron Rodgers and the Pack visited on them in Week 11.

9 p.m. on KRWG KENW The Life a House Built: The 25th Anniversary of the Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter Work Project

No matter where you stand on his politics or his presidency, there's no denying Jimmy Carter puts his sweat where his heart is. This new documentary celebrates the quarter century that the former president and his wife have spent working with Habitat for Humanity, which uses volunteer labor from the community — and from the recipients themselves — to build homes for the needy. It focuses on recent building efforts along the Gulf Coast.

9 p.m. on KDBC KBIM CSI: Miami

Guns don't kill people; people kill people. It's just a lot easier if you have a gun. So when a rare and illegal machine gun vaporizes three weapons smugglers, Horatio (David Caruso) and the rest of the CSI team search for the killer before the gun causes more deaths in "Guerillas in the Mist."

David Caruso stars in "CSI: Miami" Monday on CBS.

Hugh Laurie stars in "House" Tuesday on Fox.

TUESDAY

7 p.m. on KDBC KBIM 10th Annual A Home for the Holidays With Faith Hill

The country singer lends extra star power to the latest edition of the annual special that advocates adoption. As always, it offers true stories of families that have benefited from taking in a new member. Other performers include Gavin Rossdale, Jamie Foxx and Tim McGraw — aka Mr. Hill, Kristin Chenoweth, Patricia Heaton, Rene Russo and Martin Short also are scheduled to appear.

7 p.m. on KASY Movie: Babes in Toyland

Fans of the Victor Herbert operetta should steer clear of this fast-and-loose 1986 adaptation. But it's great fun to watch for the camp value and the chance to see a pre-"Bill & Ted" Keanu Reeves. Drew Barrymore stars as young Lisa, who lands in Toyland and becomes embroiled in the battle to save it from mean Barnaby Barnacle (Richard Mulligan). She also needs to save Mary Contrary (Jill Schoelen) from Barnaby so she can marry her love, Jack Be Nimble (Reeves).

7 p.m. on KFOX KASA House

Rock climbing requires fast reflexes, and when a woman (guest star Janel Moloney) suddenly can't move her hands, her daughter almost pays the price. House (Hugh Laurie) tries to figure out what is causing the paralysis and the lady's additional symptoms of blindness and decreased immune system activity in "It's a Wonderful Lie."

WEDNESDAY

6 p.m. on TBS Movie: A Christmas Story

"You'll shoot your eye out!" Peter Billingsley stars in this 1983 comedy, airing nonstop for the next 24 hours on the cable channel, as the little boy who yearns to find a Red Ryder BB gun under the Christmas tree. Not just a Christmas story, it's about parents, little brothers, bullies, decoder rings, double dog dares and most of all, the workings of a youthful mind. Jean Shepherd's writing captures it all perfectly. Darren McGavin also stars.

7 p.m. on KFOX KASA Bones

Oh, my God! They killed Santa! In this episode, the body of a white-bearded man dressed as Santa Claus is discovered in a sewer near a mall. But this was no ordinary mall Santa; his real name was Kristopher Kringle — are we having a "Miracle on 34th Street" flashback yet? Bones (Emily Deschanel) visits her father (Ryan O'Neal) in jail and has a close encounter with Booth (David Boreanaz) under the mistletoe in "The Santa in the Slush."

8 p.m. on KDBC KBIM Criminal Minds

So much for restraining orders. Morgan, Prentiss, Reid and JJ (Shemar Moore, Paget Brewster, Matthew Gray Gubler, A.J. Cook) try to keep a stalker from reaching the woman who is the object of his affection. Meanwhile, Hotch and Rossi (Thomas Gibson, Joe Mantegna) try to determine whether a woman who killed her husband can claim battered-woman syndrome in "The Crossing."

Emily Deschanel stars in "Bones" Wednesday on Fox.

THURSDAY

10 a.m. on FAM Movie: Christmas Caper

Shannen Doherty can't complain about her bad girl image when she plays thieves. In this, a caper goes wrong and she takes refuge at her sister's, where she is supposedly watching her niece and nephew. Her sister and brother-in-law are delayed at an airport, so she is there for the duration. The babysitting stint gives this larcenous lady a lesson in humanity in what is actually a pretty sweet family movie.

8 p.m. on KENW Faith Hill, Joy to the World: A Soundstage Special Event

Faith Hill, backed by an orchestra conducted by David Campbell, sings holiday songs from her upcoming album, "Joy to the World." This was taped over two performances at Sears Centre Arena in Hoffman Estates, Ill. Hill sings a swinging big band version of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" and "Joy to the World," among others. A choir joins Hill and the orchestra for more spiritual songs such as "O Come All Ye Faithful" and "Silent Night."

FRIDAY

7 p.m. on APL Whale Wars

In the season finale, the Sea Shepherds have finally found the most important ship in the Japanese whaling fleet, the Nisshin Maru factory ship. Despite warnings from the Japanese whalers, the Sea Shepherds strike. Naturally, this leads to serious combat, and grenades are lobbed. During the gunfight, the captain says he's shot, and he shows a bullet from his bulletproof vest. They leave Antarctica, but their mission isn't over until whales are no longer hunted.

SATURDAY

7 p.m. on APL It's Me or the Dog

The Shelton family is in need of dog trainer Victoria Stilwell's help. Toy poodle Junie B hates the boys in the house. Andrea and Joe bought the dog for son Spencer, but when Junie B made her dislike known, Mom and daughter Abby bonded with her. This toy poodle has bitten both boys and growls whenever Dad comes near. To make up for Junie B's misanthropy, they took in two more dogs. That just made matters worse, as these pooches are chewers.

SUNDAY

"Faith Hill, Joy to the World: A Soundstage Special Event" airs Thursday on PBS.

4:30 p.m. on FAM Movie: Cars

Vroom! The 2006 CGI box-office success comes to the small screen, with Owen Wilson voicing Lightning McQueen, a hotshot race car who gets stranded in a backwater town. He's revving at the engine to get back to racing, but Radiator Springs has its appeal. Additional voices include Paul Newman, Bonnie Hunt, Larry the Cable Guy, Cheech Marin and Tony Shalhoub.

6 p.m. on TCM Movie: Candleshoe

A troublesome orphan is recruited by a con man to pose as the long-lost granddaughter of a wealthy elderly woman in this 1977 family comedy. The goal is to find rumored treasure hidden on the estate. At first, the kid is just in it for the money, but as she is welcomed into the fold by her "grandmother," the loyal butler and some orphans living at the estate, she's not sure she can go through with it.

Horoscopes

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20
Aries, you have been setting aside your interests for too long. It's time to make yourself a priority. Blow off responsibilities for a while and have some fun.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21
You would like nothing more, Taurus, than to sleep in this week and not worry about too much. Unfortunately that will not be the case. Things will be busier than ever.

GEMINI - May 22/Jun 21
Gemini, you tend to overwhelm people with the amount of information you provide, even for seemingly simple explanations. Tone it down if you're getting blank stares.

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22
This week is a good time to be a homebody and take care of some issues around the house. A few changes in your surroundings can bring a new mood to the place.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23
Leo, it's easy to go with the crowd, but generally the crowd is uninteresting. You tend to march to your own beat, and this week is no different. Others will follow you.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, creating a vision of what you want to achieve is the first step toward achieving it. With a plan in motion - even if on paper - anything seems possible.

behavior. The elf gets his Christmas magic when the family gives him a name of his own. Each night, after the children are safely tucked into bed, the elf flies to the North Pole, where he informs Santa who has been naughty or nice that day. Before the children awaken, the elf has returned to their home, but he is observing them from a new post in the house. The children race out of bed to discover the elf's new hangout for the day. There is one important rule: Children should not touch the elf or he might lose his magic, thus jeopardizing any good reports he may have planned to give Santa. This rule ensures the children's interest in the elf won't wane, and it also teaches self-control. This beautifully illustrated, hardbound book is innovatively packaged and comes with its own pixie elf seated on a shelf in an attractive keepsake box. Children can register their elf's name at elfontheshelf.com and receive a special letter from Santa Claus.

There are also two new surprises in store to further spread elf magic -- an interactive North Pole found at elfontheshelf.com and The Elf on the Shelf Christmas Activity Book. For a list of store locations or to purchase The Elf on the Shelf online, visit www.elfontheshelf.com.

Maximize Morale Around the Office

Over the last 20 years, more and more Americans have grown dissatisfied with their jobs. In the late 1980s, 61 percent of workers said they were satisfied with their jobs. Today, that figure is less than 50 percent. For managers, this can be an alarming figure, particularly when considering recent research suggests a direct link between profits and worker satisfaction. The more satisfied workers are, the research supports, the better the company does. So what's a manager to do? There's no magic wand to wave that can make an employee satisfied at work. Because each employee is different and companies both large and small tend to boast a diverse group of workers, it's almost impossible to make everyone happy. However, there are steps managers can take in an effort to boose morale around the office.

• Set a good example: Managers are often in a difficult spot. A middle manager, for example, might not be involved in big decisions, but is involved in dealing with the people affected by those decisions.

To make things go smoothly, a manager must set a good example. Workers often feel alienated when asked to adhere to rules that their bosses get to ignore. Keep spirits high by following the same rules as those working under you. • Be courteous: Managers typically don't want to be told what to do, and the people they manage are no exception to those feelings. While some cases call for instruction and prioritizing, always be courteous when asking employees to do something. • Be careful if creating a competitive environment: Many managers tend to feel a little competition never hurt anyone, and that's true more often than not. However, competition and comparison are two different things. Routinely comparing one worker to another is more likely to create animosity between coworkers than a positive environment where each person contributes positively in their own way. • Respect a vacation or off day as just that: Thanks to cell phones, the Internet and a host of other technological advancements, it's now easier than ever to get in touch with employees who are out of the office. However, that doesn't mean this should be the norm, especially when workers are on vacation or simply taking a personal day. Even for employees who are satisfied at work, being contacted on scheduled time away can give the impression that their time isn't as valued as the company's bottom line. Unless it's an absolute emergency, let employees enjoy their time away from the office.

Financial Lessons for Children

Caregivers are responsible for teaching their children many things. One of which is responsibility with money. In fact, one of the most important things parents can do is teach their children good money-management skills. This financial education should begin early in childhood so that a child grows up with a firm foundation of information. Starting financial lessons can be as simple as helping children identify needs and wants. Needs are the necessities in life, such as clothing, shelter and food. Wants are the luxuries that are so often made priorities, and it can be easy to see why children mistake the two. It's also important to discuss the topic of earning money and saving it. Start off with small amounts of money that are earned for doing tasks around the house. Young children like to feel useful. So doing a few chores and earning something for their efforts may bring them joy. Earning money also enables them to spend money on things they may want. Here are some other tips to consider:

* Talk to your children about the family's finances. Some parents view this as taboo. But the sooner you're open and honest about money, the more readily children will see the pluses and minuses of it.
* Open up a bank account in your child's name. A piggy bank may be well and good, but a bank account will teach lessons of compound interest. Plus, children can see the deposits and withdrawals in black and white.
* Don't try to control your child's money when he or she is put in charge of it. Lessons are learned through dong the right and wrong things with money. A child will learn sooner if he or she is allowed to make mistakes or earn success.
* Teach your child to be a smart consumer, which includes comparison shopping and avoiding impulse purchases.

Singer Billy Ocean

Q Whatever happened to singer Billy Ocean?
—Peggy Golden, Athens, Texas

Ocean, born Leslie Sebastian Charles in Trinidad in 1950, hit the top of the American charts in 1984 with the Grammy-winning "Caribbean Queen," and again in 1988 with "Get Out of My Dreams, Get Into My Car." He continues to tour, and this year returned to the studio for the first time in 15 years to work on a new album, Because I Love You, which is scheduled for release early in 2009. He lives in England with his wife of 27 years, Judy, and has three grown children.

Ask American Profile

Q I have always been a big fan of Ed Harris. Haven't heard much about him lately. Is he working on any movies or other projects?
—Sandra Engle, Mount Jackson, Va.

Harris, 59, one of the most versatile actors of our time, continues to add intriguing movie roles to his resume. Most recently, he wrote, directed and starred in the big-screen Western Appaloosa, about a lawman hired to defend a town from a ruthless rancher. Last year, he starred in National Treasure: Book of Secrets and Gone Baby Gone, both of which are available on DVD. In 2006, he was nominated for Screen Actors Guild and Golden Globe awards for his role in the HBO miniseries Empire Falls.

Ed Harris wrote, directed and starred in the movie Appaloosa.

Q About 1950 I photographed a young lady named Ella Raines, whom I was told was a movie star. I hadn't heard of her before and I haven't heard of her since. What can you tell me about her?
—Todd Rowland, Hoover, Ala.

Ella Raines was indeed a movie star. The striking Washington-born brunette made about two dozen films during the 1940s and '50s, beginning with a bit role on screen alongside John Wayne in Tall in the Saddle. George Raft starred in A Dangerous Profession and Randolph Scott in The Walls of Hell. In 1954, she starred in her own network TV series, Jane Darwell's Rogues Gallery. She retired from show business in 1956, re-emerging two decades later to make a final screen appearance on the TV series Matt Houston. She died in 1988 at the age of 67 from throat cancer.

Hometown Hero

HELPING HOSPITALIZED KIDS RETURN HOME

Laura Moore founded Dream House to help medically fragile kids, such as her adopted daughter, Katie, live in homes instead of hospitals.

Katie Moore is a happy, bubbling 9-year-old who plays with dolls and climbs trees with her friends. She also is a living miracle. Three years ago, the little blond girl was on 33 different medications and near death from a birth defect when Laura Moore and her husband, Mike, took her as a foster child into their home in Lilburn, Ga. (pop. 11,307). Katie, who survived two rare five-organ transplants, now is the couple's adopted daughter.

As a pediatric nurse for more than 20 years, Moore cared for many children like Katie who had been saved by medical breakthroughs but whose ongoing needs overwhelmed their parents. Seeing these children languish for years in hospitals or nursing homes tugged at her heartstrings, and she resolved to help them.

"If these children can be so determined to stay alive, we must be accountable for the kind of life we are saving them for," says Moore, 46, who founded Dream House for Medically Fragile Children in 2001. Today, the Lilburn-based nonprofit organization offers training and resources for parents, foster parents and other caregivers tending to children with significant medical challenges. Nearly 30 employees – paid through donations and grants – operate a training facility, a care hotline and a staffed transition house, where children with complex healthcare needs receive treatment and lodging while their caregivers learn how to care for them when they come home.

Many of these children have chronic lifelong health issues such as cerebral palsy, severe paralysis or major birth defects, and they require around-the-clock care to survive. Parents may have to learn to insert feeding tubes or tracheotomy tubes for breathing and respond to nightly cardiac monitor alarms.

Teaching parents these critical-care skills and providing respite care and home modification help means Dream House kids can live in homes instead of hospitals.

At-home care is a third of the institutional cost and children become physically and emotionally healthier," Moore says. But there weren't even state regulations for programs like Dream House until she stepped in.

"Laura lobbied the Georgia Legislature to get a bill passed to license transitional care centers," says Normer Adams, executive director of the Georgia Association of Homes and Services for Children in Atlanta. "She is a true visionary and prophet for these children."

Moore's organization is a lifeline for Ken and Judy Hammett, who parent three foster children with cerebral palsy and administer dozens of medications daily. All are in wheelchairs, and two children require a feeding tube and oxygen.

"If I'm having a problem at any hour, I know I can call Dream House and they will tell us what to do," says Judy, 65, of Stone Mountain, Ga.

Moore also helped the couple get money to install a stair lift, handicapped swing and handicapped bathroom at their home. "Laura never stops trying," Judy says. "She sees the faces of those children who die alone in the hospital and this keeps her going."

Nowadays Laura is on a crusade to promote her Dream House concept throughout Georgia and the nation. Dream House owns property in nearby Conyers, where Moore hopes one day to build several more transition care homes.

"For every child we save with new treatments, there is a need to take care of these children," Moore says. "And our program empowers families and communities to do just that." ★

Christmas recipes from the Pastry Queen

Native Texan Rebecca Rather has a made-from-scratch philosophy that has garnered her Rather Sweet Bakery & Cafe in Fredericksburg, Texas (pop. 10,432), loyal fans both near and far. None of her recipes is prepared from a boxed mix, and the only thing in the freezer is bacon, she claims. The proof is in the taste, and Rather says, "I think people can tell the difference."

During the holidays, the award-winning pastry chef, known as the Pastry Queen, likes to blend traditions, whether it is looking to the kitchens of Texas' Mexican and German immigrants or the cowboy culture of her own forebears. Tempting morsels like My Mother's Best Corn Bread Dressing, Mr. Vallone's Italian Cookies and Coconut Snowballs are tasty evidence of her down-home cooking philosophy.

While the Pastry Queen is busy in the kitchen baking up yummy goodies, the town of Fredericksburg rolls out the red carpet for locals and tourists alike during the holiday season. "It's close to impossible not to get swept up in the Christmas spirit when it is all around you," says Rather, who helps to kick off the season's festivities by riding on horseback during the town's annual Christmas parade.

For those who can't make it to Fredericksburg to visit Rather's shop, a copy of her award-winning cookbook will have to do. The Pastry Queen Christmas, Big-Hearted Holiday Entertaining, Texas Style is packed with 95 traditional recipes reflecting the tastes of small-town Texas and is broken up into themes such as the Holiday Open House, Building Gingerbread Houses and Ranch Barn Brunch. Every recipe is created with love using the made-from-scratch philosophy of the big-hearted pastry chef, who extols the "pure joy of cooking great food with and for those I love during the holiday season."

- 2 eggs
- 2 cups cake flour
- 1½ cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 cup sour cream

1. Preheat oven to 350F. Grease muffin cups with butter or cooking spray and lightly flour, knocking out excess, or line with paper baking cups.

2. To prepare cupcakes, stir food coloring and cocoa powder together to make a paste.

3. Combine butter and sugar and beat with a mixer on medium-high speed until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating after each addition. Beat in cocoa paste. Reduce speed to medium and beat batter 4 minutes.

4. Sift together flours, salt and baking soda. Stir vanilla into buttermilk. Add flour mixture and buttermilk mixture alternately to butter mixture, beginning and ending with flour mixture. Beat on medium speed just until combined. Beat in sour cream and vinegar until combined.

5. Fill muffin cups three-fourths full. Bake jumbo cupcakes 25 to 35 minutes or regular-size cupcakes 20 to 25 minutes, until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Remove from oven and cool in pans 5 minutes. Unmold onto a wire rack and cool completely.

6. To prepare icing, beat butter, cream cheese and powdered sugar with a mixer on medium-high speed until light and fluffy. Beat in vanilla and mascarpone on very low speed until just combined. (Excessive beating can make frosting curdle.) Stir in mint extract if using. Frost the top of each muffin. Sprinkle crushed peppermint candy on top if using. Makes 24 regular or 12 jumbo cupcakes.

Amish mantle and miracle invention help home heat bills hit rock bottom

Miracle heaters being given away free with orders for real Amish fireplace mantles to announce the invention that help slash heat bills, but Amish craftsmen under strain of Christmas rush forces household limit of 2

Save money: only uses about 8¢ electric an hour; so turn down your thermostat and never be cold again

(UMS) Everyone hates high heat bills. But we're all sick and tired of simply turning down the thermostat and then being cold.

Well now, the popular HEAT SURGE® miracle heaters are actually being given away free to the general public for the next 48 hours starting at precisely 8:00 a.m. today.

The only thing readers have to do is call the National Distribution Hotline before the 48-hour deadline with their order for the handmade Amish Fireplace Mantle. Everyone who does is instantly being awarded the miracle heater absolutely free.

This is all happening to announce the HEAT SURGE Roll-n-Glow® Fireplace which actually rolls from room-to-room so you can turn down your thermostat and take the heat with you anywhere. That way, everyone who gets them first can immediately start saving on their heat bills.

Just in time for winter weather, portable Amish encased fireplaces are being delivered directly to the doors of all those who beat the deadline.

These remarkable fireplaces are being called a miracle because they have what's being called the 'Fireless Flame' patented technology that gives you the peaceful flicker of a real fire but without any flames, fumes, smells, ashes or mess. Everyone is getting them because they require no chimney and no vent. You just plug them in.

The Fireless Flame looks so real it amazes everybody because it has no real fire. So what's the catch? Well, soft spoken Amish craftsmen who take their time hand building the mantles have a process that forces a strict household limit of 2 to keep up with orders.

□ GENUINE AMISH MANTLES MADE IN THE USA: Everyone wants to save money on heat bills this winter, so entire Amish communities are working from the crack of dawn to finish. These fine real wood Amish made fireplace mantles are built to last forever. The oak mantle is a real steal at just two hundred ninety-eight dollars because all those who beat the order deadline by calling the National Hotline at 1-800-671-5412 to order the fireplace mantles are actually getting the imported hi tech Fireless Flame HEAT SURGE miracle heaters for free

"We can barely keep up ever since we started giving heaters away free. With winter just around the corner, everyone's trying to get them. Amish craftsmen are working their fingers to the bone to be sure everyone gets their delivery in time for Christmas," confirms Timothy Milton, National Shipping Director.

"These portable Roll-n-Glow Fireplaces are the latest home decorating sensation. They actually give you a beautifully redecorated room while they quickly heat from wall to wall. It's the best way to dress up every room, stay really warm and slash your heat bills all at the same time," says Josette Holland, Home Makeover Expert.

Our best one-piece music system.

When we introduced the original Acoustic Wave® music system, Sound & Vision said it delivered "possibly the best reproduced sound many people have ever heard." And the Oregonian reported it had "changed the way many Americans listen to music."
