Sharpshooters Important Arm of Patriot Army

To the markemanship of the Colonial sharpshooters is due a goodly portion of credit for the successful outcome of the war for American independence, though histories and books dealing with the subject make but slight reference to these backwoodsmen who rallied to the call and in many engagements turned into victory what would have been defeat for the regulars.

Washington well knew what the backwoodsmen could do, and when preparing for the seige of Boston probably remembered how the remnant of Braddock's 1,000 men had been saved at Fort Duquesne. For, about the first thing he did after taking command at Cambridge was to dispatch a hurry call into the West for riflemen! Couriers and messengers were sent into the Berkshires, the Cumberlands and the Alleghanies calling for every hunter, trailer, scout and pioneer to come to New England and get the honors that awaited them. They did come—1,500 came in response to Washington's call for 810 sharpshooters.

On the way east, these backwoodsmen gave exhibitions, according to orders, that recruiting for the Colonial army might be encouraged. At Boston, Washington had his 14,000 to 16,000 men, many of whose guns were of a bore so smooth and so huge that they were little better than blunderbusses, drawn up in two lines that they might witness the wonderful shooting of the frontier riflemen. In one exhibition a pole was set up and at a distance of 250 feet the riflemen simply riddled it. A rifleman, at the siege of Boston, discovering some red-coats on a scow in the harbor, spent the afternoon killing every mortal man in the party, Livingston Wright tells us in an article in Grit.

Wonderful Markemanship.

A Pennsylvania contingent, coming east, stopped at a roadside well. After refreshment, they proceeded to give an exhibition shoot. Before it started, a buzzard happened to be flying overhead and three men fired at it. A dispute arose as to who killed it, and inspection of the deceased scavenger revealed that all three balls had passed through it. At the beginning of the exhibition proper, two brothers stepped out. One took a piece of board 5 by 7 inches in size and, stooping over, held this board between his knees. The other brother stepped off 60 paces and put eight balls in succession through the board.

Is it any wonder that General Howe wrote to England about "the terrible guns" of the provincials? Orders went out in the British army to capture a rifleman alive, at all hazards. One was finally captured and sent to England, where he was made to perform, and his feats did more to retard recruiting than any other scheme that could have been conceived.

In many a Revolutionary skirmish and general engagement it was the riflemen who formed the backbone of the Colonial forces. The momentous battle of Saratoga, which turned the tide of the Revolution and brought in France as an active, open participant against England, was won largely by the backwoods riflemen. Gen. Daniel Morgan is the boy who made your Saratoga. His wonderful guerilla campaigning throughout the Revolution led Frederick the Great to refer to him as "the greatest leader of light infantry in the world." With his organization which he called "the Virginia riflemen," Morgan maneuvered a series of engagements, that culminating in the victory of Stillwater, and together with the activities of the mountaineers of Ethan Allen, Seth Warner and John Stark, made the climax at Saratoga a decisive battle.

The Kentucky rifle, largely instrumental in winning the War of the Revolution, was the result of necessity for protection against Indians and the beasts of the wilds, compelling the backwoodsmen to devise an arm better than the matchlock, wheellock or flintlock. This remarkable weapon, with its five-foot barrel and slight, graceful stock, carrying a single buckshot, was so heavy that only a powerful man could use it. The weight, like all features of the instrument, was a device that the urgencies of the times demanded. The heavy barrel absorbed much of the noise and recoil.

The discovery of ramming a buckshot home in a bit of greased cloth or "patch," as it was called, had much to do with the winning of the Revolution. This simple, time-saving device of "the greased patch" was a stroke of genius closely allied with the gradual development of that peculiar instrument of death known as "the Kentucky rifle." Even in Revolutionary days it was a rare instrument, and when one was found its owner was invariably a rare type of man—a chap who was used to wading and swimming streams, going to bed under a cliff, fireless, foodless and followed usually by the remorseless Indian, as he was to having his unerring rifle in the finest possible condition.

Rifles Held as Heirlooms.

In the Kentucky rifle the American backwoods gunsmiths evolved a wonderful achievement, but they are rarely seen today. Antique shops do not know them at all and where one is occasionally found on the wall or over the mantel of some home in the Middle West, the South or the Southwest, it is not for sale. The head of the household will tell you "thet there weepin belongs to my oldest son an' air gwintor be handed down."

When the Pilgrims began to settle around Boston in 1630 the matchlock, wheellock and snaphance were the arms. These, with the later flintlock, were guns that comprise the period of American history from the Plymouth Rock days to the Revolution. The matchlock of Miles Standish was a cumbersome affair whose chief merit was the noise it made. The wheellock, snaphance and such were flimsy excuses over the bow and arrow. The flintlock was a good gun. In the Buckman tavern at Lexington, Mass., is an ancient, six-foot-barrel flintlock with which Capt. John Noyes fired across the Sudbury river and killed an Indian, a stupendously long shot for that period (1690). These were the guns of the Minute men and most of the regular troops of the Colonial army, the improved "Kentucky rifles" being used almost wholly by the backwoods sharpshooters, who made up in skill what they lacked in numbers.

Battle of Bennington

Near the town of Bennington, Vt., the Americans under Stark defeated the British under Baum and Breymann, on August 16, 1777.

Oh! Never may the purple stain
Of combat blot these fields again,
Nor this fair valley ever cease
To wear the placid smile of peace.

And men shall hold the memory dear
Of those who fought for freedom here,
And guard the heritage they won
While these green hillsides feel the sun.

—William Cullen Bryant.

SHOULD NOT BE FORGOTTEN

Services Rendered by Haym Salomon Were Invaluable to the Revolutionary Cause.

It is unlikely that one person in a thousand has ever heard the name of Haym Salomon, a figure of importance in Revolutionary times, yet one who has been strangely neglected in our annals. Haym Salomon was a Polish Jew banker of New York and Philadelphia who financed and backed the new United States in their fight for self-government. His services have been ignored for nearly 150 years, his name, although appearing in the encyclopedias and in President Madison's correspondence to Randolph and in congressional records, also being mentioned in a few histories, is practically unknown. Haym Salomon was born in Lissa, Poland, in 1740. He came to America in 1772 and was identified with the cause of American independence. In 1776 he was imprisoned by the British on a charge of espionage, and although a prisoner, succeeded in stirring up sedition among Hessian officers. Two years later he escaped to Philadelphia, where he became an agent of Robert Morris and succeeded in obtaining large sums from Holland and France for the conduct of the American war. Salomon loaned Morris about $500,000 of his own money for the patriot cause, and at his death in 1785 $400,000 of this had not been returned. In addition he supplied funds to Jefferson, Madison, Randolph, and other patriot leaders. Haym Salomon died at the age of forty-five in Philadelphia, leaving a widow and two small children. All his papers and the documents showing the government's obligation were lost in the confusion following the occupation of Washington by the British in 1814.

First Continental Congress.

The first Continental congress was held at Philadelphia September 5, 1774. It voted not to obey the recent acts of parliament; protested against standing armies being kept in the colonies without consent of the people; sustained Massachusetts in her resistance, and agreed to hold no intercourse with Great Britain.

The purchasing agents of western states as far east as Colorado will convene in San Francisco Sept. 27-30, for their annual convention. D. B. Gray, secretary, states that these men represent purchasing power of approximately $1,500,000,000 a year. More than 400 are expected to attend.

With oil production and development in Southern California breaking records, the Standard Oil Company of California has decided to forego further development and curtail production so far as possible, it was officially announced at Los Angeles. The company will extend its storage facilities and await a break in the market.

Victor M. Place, former football coach at the University of Washington, and in his college days at Dartmouth a member of the mythical "All-America" football squad, was killed in a logging accident at Brookings, Ore. Place coached football at Ohio Wesleyan College from 1903 to 1905, and at the University of Washington in 1906 and 1907. He was succeeded at the local school by Gilmour Dobie, now coach at Cornell University. Later Place practiced law in Seattle.

R. H. McDonald, arrested at Livingston, Mont., after an exciting chase by a deputy sheriff from Billings, Special Officer William Olson and Deputy Sheriff C. E. Gilbert, pleaded guilty and was fined $100 in the Justice Court on a charge of gambling on Northern Pacific train No. 2. McDonald's partner got off the train at Logan and has not been apprehended. The two men were playing cards with Mike Mowrey, complaining witness, and the Billings deputy recognized them as the same two who had been arrested and fined on a similar charge in Billings recently.

Flights which army aviators hope will eclipse any achievement of the air since aviation began will be attempted in San Diego, Calif., by Rockwell field pilots. The aviators who have been selected to go after the records are Capt. Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. John B. Richter. Captain Smith and Lieutenant Richter hope not only to pass the world endurance record held by Lieutenants Kelly and MacReady, but to stay in the air three times as long as did these two airmen. This they hope to accomplish by taking aboard gasoline, oil, water and food while in mid-air.

WASHINGTON

Director Scobey, of the mint, announced the acceptance of tenders of 1,000,000 ounces of silver, offered under the Pittman act, including all tenders up to June 2. The total of accepted offerings under the act was brought up to 200,520,000 ounces which, it was said, is expected to satisfy requirements of the law.

Secretary of Interior Work has announced that eighteen reclamation projects in eleven western states would be surveyed with the $225,000 appropriated by the last Congress for that purpose. These projects are in Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Texas, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

The government has accomplished the task of living within its income in the past twelve months and has accumulated a surplus of $200,000,000 in addition, President Harding said in a speech at a meeting of department heads and bureau division chief, constituting the government "business organization." Further reductions, he said, would be made in expenditures in the coming year.

The treasury department announced that it had accepted subscriptions totaling $180,800,500 to the latest issue of certificates of indebtedness. A total of $342,462,000 was subscribed, but the treasury's requirements for the next few months permitted the amount of cash offers taken to be held close to the original estimate of $150,000,000. Secretary Mellon, however, decided to accept all subscriptions for which matured securities were offered in payment. These amounted to $135,244,000.

A sensational discovery for the treatment of tuberculosis was announced by Prof. Georges Dreyer of Oxford university. The method consists of depriving microbes of the protective covering that enables them to resist digestion. Once bereft of this armor the microbes are easily combated.

The French seized 170 locomotives and 2,000 freight cars on branch lines between Dortmund and Essen, thus virtually completing French control of the Ruhr transportation lines. The food situation at Dortmund, Bochum and other points is growing more serious daily as the result of the French seizure.

King Albert summoned Premier Theunis, whose ministry resigned recently, and asked him to form a new ministry. M. Theunis reserved his answer until he has had time to attempt the solution of the question of the use of the Flemish language in the University of Ghent and the fourteen months' military service controversy.

Soviet Russia, through its prime minister, M. Tchitcherin, sent its gratitude and greeting to the people of the United States at the banquet given to officials of the American Relief Association by the government. Addressing the officials, M. Tchitcherin paid a touching tribute to the tact and devotion of Colonel Haskell and his associates during Russia's hunger days. Trotsky, in a statement, lauded the United States for its aid to Russia.

The radio craze will not spread to Japan if officials of the Navy Department can prevent it. Fearing that the Japanese people will get the "radio bug" and listen in on ultra secret messages from the powerful naval stations, these naval officials were reported opposing the new 2,000,000-yen organization planned to correspond to the Radio Corporation of the United States. It is backed by H. Hattori, wealthy Tokio jeweler, and planned broadcasting on a big scale. All of the details had been worked out even to musicians who have been approached to appear on the radio programs.

Wall Street, in the midst of a many-sided "clean-up" campaign, directed primarily at bucket shops, was hit by another failure—that of Knauth, Nachod and Kuhne, a member of the New York Stock Exchange and of the New York Curb Market. Boasting a record of seventy years in the street, twenty-eight of them as members of the stock exchange, the supposedly powerful house, with strong German connections, was forced into a receivership with $11,000,000 liabilities.

With her decks a veritable shambles, the little sailing vessel Mary Beatrice arrived at New York City with the story of a terrible fight at sea in which nine men were killed and numerous others wounded. The bodies of the slain were dumped overboard at the height of the battle. Two of the dead were white men, two negroes and five Chinese. The casualties resulted in a battle between coolies and the crew. According to information in possession of the United State immigration authorities, twenty Chinese were being smuggled into New York for a fee of $500 apiece.

J. M. Burnett, who lives about four miles north of Capitan, returned Monday from a trip to California where he spent several months working on a dairy ranch. He is arranging to move there and is advertising to sell his horses, cattle, farming utensils and various other things. He will not sell his place here. He says may want to return to this country at some future time and will want a home to come to. Mr. Burnett will locate in a large county, one hundred and eighty miles north of Los Angeles, which he says is a good country and where a good living can be made.

The Mountaineer family spent the 4th of July in a very pleasant way. We joined Mr. A. G. Merryfield and family and R. S. Burch and family in a picnic in a beautiful grove near Mr. Merryfield's well. We had a fine supply of well barbecued beef, some fat well baked hens with dressing, and pies, cakes galore, with good strong coffee boiled over a brush fire, and a small barrel of lemonade. Such a day, with such refreshments and such entertainment is something to enjoyed and appreciated.

The people of the Arabela country had a barbecue the 4th on Louis Parcell's ranch, which we learn was well attended and all had plenty of good things to eat. A dance followed at night.

The barbecue at Fort Stanton on the 4th is said to have been largely attended and 1600 pounds of beef, besides the accessories that go with a barbecue feast was consumed and enjoyed. The amusements are said to have been good and a dance was given at night and the day was well enjoyed.

The home of Mrs. Susan Barber, at White Oaks, was destroyed by fire last Saturday afternoon. The fire started in an upstairs room and had gained much headway before Mrs. Barber discovered it that it was beyond control and although not been for loose wire hanging from the porch by which she let herself to the ground she would have perished as all other means of escape had been cut off by the flames. Neighbors rushed to the burning house but nothing could be done to save it and all its contents were lost. Mrs. Barber's loss is considerable. Besides her residence and its furnishings, her clothing, except that which she was wearing at the time, and many pieces of jewelry, some of which are said to have been very costly, as they included diamonds. These things were greatly prized by Mrs. Barber and had treasured them for many years.

Ben Walker, Archie and Ted Smith were in from White Oaks on Monday and told about a forest fire which started near there on Sunday night, caused by a stroke of lightning. Fire fighters from the "Oaks," including the young men mentioned, battled with the flames until about daybreak before they got the fire under control. About two hundred acres of forest timber was consumed, including Pato mountain which was left bare by the raging fire.—Carrizozo Outlook.

SELF-PITY SHOWS WEAKNESS

Can Properly Be Set Down Not Only as a Bad Habit, but a Poisonous One.

Have you among your friends or acquaintances any men or women who are always pitying themselves? If so, you can set them down as weaklings. Self-pity is self-destruction. Self-pity saps one's self-reliance. Self-pity breeds despair. The strong don't indulge in self-pity. They are too busy thinking and working and talking constructively. They are intent on attaining some object, some goal. They are too engaged in practicing self-help that they have no time to waste on self-pity.

Self-pity is not only a bad habit; it is a pernicious habit. It hurts self and it disgusts others. The person who is chronically guilty of self-pity hasn't in him the spirit of self-sacrifice, and without self-sacrifice no human being can qualify to go far or rise far. Self-pity reveals a lack of self-discipline. We all encounter difficulties and discouragements; we all have ambitions thwarted. But we do not let discouragements discourage; we do not give up because baffled and thwarted time and again; we do not wear our occasional streaks of pessimism on our sleeve or on our countenance. We keep a stiff upper lip. We wrestle on. And we smile on. We don't become cry babies. We may inwardly wince, but we don't flinch. We don't pour tales of woe into the ears of others—we know they have troubles enough of their own.

We refuse to be cowards. We refuse to wear the white feather. We strive to be men. We become men. We are men.—Forbes Magazine.

Clerk's One-Cylinder Mind.

"I usually know what I want and when I do I ask for it explicitly," said the Man Who Grumbles. "Yesterday I entered a paint store and to the clerk who offered to wait on me I said: 'I want a quart of white paint, best quality, for wood to be used outside.'

"The clerk seemed puzzled. He studied a moment and asked: 'How much do you want?' I told him. He seemed satisfied and after a brief pause asked: 'Interior or outside?' Again supplied the information. He made no objection but still sought information. 'Going to use it on wood?' he suggested. I assured him that I intended to smear it on my window frames and they are of wood.

"I thought the transaction was about to be closed, but the clerk was still in doubt on one points. 'What color?' he asked cheerfully. I satisfied his curiosity and he got the paint for me. Stupid? Not a bit. He simply had a one-cylinder mind. I had supplied too many facts for him to assimilate at once."—New York Sun.

IN 1923 and 1924

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

The wide, wide world has become so narrowed by science that news from all around the globe is printed in the current New York World, together with the views of nation builders, master men and leading women everywhere and particularly in the United States. No other newspaper is better equipped to give the news of the world at the time it is news than The New York World.

The Thrice-a-Week edition of The World is the greatest example of comprehensive journalism in America. It will keep you as thoroughly informed as a daily, which would cost five or six times as much. It is a unique newspaper, published three time a week, for $1 a year. This is the orgular subscription price and it pays for 156 newspapers.

We can furnish subscribers to Capitan Mountaineer it and the Thrice-a-Week New York World both for $3 a year. Come in and give us your subscriptions.

In a recent issue of this paper it was stated that Mr. W. T. Lumkins and family had located in Carrizozo and gone into the restaurant business there. It was a mistake. They were on a deal for the Star restaurant, but it fell to go through. They then went back to Roswell and leased a hotel building at 114 North Richardson Str. They have a good building well furnished and centrally located, and will give their guests first class accomodations. They will be glad to have all their former patrons and friends in Capitan and vicinity to stop with them when they visit Roswell and they will receive the best treatment it is possible to give them.

A report was put in circulation here the early part of this week that the forest service had issued an order prohibiting the people from getting dead wood in the forest for domestic purposes. The report is not true; the Mountaineer editor has this information direct from two Forest Rangers. People living near the forest have the same privileges in regard to getting dead wood for domestic use out of the forest they have always had.

The revival meeting advertised to be held in Capitan will commence on Wednesday night of next week. Considerable preparations are being made to make the meeting a successful one. A tent with a capacity to hold several hundred people has been secured, which will be put up on the lot just west of Titsworth Co's. big barn, and if the weather permits some of the services may be held in the town park near by.

Jack Kemper and wife returned a few days ago after an absence of several months. They visited a while in Texas and then came to Corona, where Jack formerly lived and spent some time there. He has again taken charge of the billiard hall, satisfied to remain in Capitan.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Now Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Washington, D. C.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which a physician said I would have to have for a very bad case of female trouble. My system was all run down for two years after my little girl was born. Then I read of your wonderful medicine and decided to try it. I could hardly drag one foot after the other, and after taking six bottles of the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I now do all my housework, also washing and ironing, and do not know what real trouble is. My health is fine, and I weigh 140 pounds. When I started taking it I weighed 97 pounds. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any one who is suffering from female trouble or is run down. You may use this testimonial for I am only too glad to let suffering women know what the Vegetable Compound did for me."—Mrs. IDA HEWITT, 1529 Penna. Ave. S.E., Washington, D.C.

Such letters from women in every section of this country prove beyond question the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Testing Brass Pipe.

One of the most interesting checks on the temper and chemical characteristics of brass pipe is the ability of the chemist to look inside the metal with the aid of a microscope and see the grain structure of the brass itself. To the experienced eye of the brass chemist the formation, size and color of the grain will tell many things about the metal. They will show the temper of the brass, and it is many times possible to detect dangerous stresses which leave a pipe liable to season cracks. The manufacture of brass pipe has made great progress since the old days when the metal was cast by the "I hope so" rather than the "I know why" process. Brass making is a scientific business and brass pipe is now produced constant in alloy, standard in temper, with dangerous stresses removed by scientific heat treatments.—Scientific American.

He Hugs Wrong Mother.

Mother had been residing in the country and I went down to the train to meet her. When the train unloaded its passengers I spied her standing with her black traveling bag on the platform. She had on the same blue suit and red hat as when she left.

I went up behind her, put my arms around her, and was about to kiss her when a surprised voice said: "Well, sah, I think you-all's made a big mistake." It was a colored woman. All the people on the platform laughed. I finally found mother wearing a silk dress and heatily led her away to our auto.—Chicago Tribune.

A man is a gourmet as he is a poet or an artist or simply learned. Taste is a delicate organ, perfectable and worthy of respect like the eye and ear. To be wanting in the sense of taste is to be deprived of an exquisite faculty.—Guy de Maupassant.

GOOD THINGS FOR ANY DAY

As there is a diversity of tastes in almost every family it is necessary that we have variety.

Smoked Salmon Chartreuse.—Boil one and one-fourth cupfuls of rice until tender, add two teaspoonfuls of curry powder creamed with two tablespoonfuls of butter. Make a white sauce of butter, flour and milk, add the two and one-half cupfuls of salmon that has been soaked in warm water to remove the excess of salt, add one tablespoonful of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of onion juice, and pepper. Line a buttered bread tin with the rice; pack in the fish mixture, put a layer of rice over the top and steam or bake in a pan of water thirty minutes. Serve with creamed peas.

Summer Soup.—Let stew one hour in a quart of water one generous quart of fresh tomatoes peeled and sliced thin, one cucumber and a clove of garlic. Add salt, one teaspoonful, and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper with one tablespoonful of sugar. Strain into the soup tureen and set aside to cool. Add a few pieces of ice and one and one-half cupfuls of thinly sliced cucumbers sprinkled with salt and pepper and vinegar. Let chill in the refrigerator one hour. Just before serving toss into the soup one cupful of croutons which have been sprinkled with tarragon vinegar.

Raisin Pie.—Take one cupful of seeded raisins and stew in a cupful of water for five minutes; thicken with two tablespoonfuls of rolled cracker crumbs. Remove from the fire and add one cupful of sugar, a tablespoonful of butter, the juice and grated rind of a lemon. Fill the pastry shell with the mixture and lay strips of pastry latticewise across the top. Bake in a moderate oven.

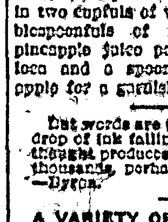
Sponge Drops.—Beat the whites of three eggs until stiff, then add one-third of a cupful of powdered sugar, two egg yolks beaten thick and lemon colored, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and one-third of a cupful of flour, flavor to taste. Drop by spoonfuls on baking sheet; sprinkle with powdered sugar before baking.

Pineapple Tapioca.—Cook until clear three tablespoonfuls of minute tapioca in two cupfuls of water; add three tablespoonfuls of sugar. Serve with pineapple juice poured over the tapioca and a spoonful of diced pineapple for a garnish.

But words are things, and a small drop of ink falling like dew upon a thought produces that which makes thousands, perhaps millions, think.—Byron.

A VARIETY OF GOOD THINGS

A substantial and filling dish is an omelet prepared with mashed potato. Take three cupfuls of hot mashed potato, three eggs, salt and pepper to taste and three tablespoonfuls of butter. Beat the eggs until light and stir in the mashed potato. Season to taste and beat until fluffy. In the meantime melt the butter and spread it over the potato mixture. Cook on the stove to brown, then place a moment in the oven.



Tutti-Frutti Cheese.—To one package of cream cheese add one-half cupful of sweet cream; chop six candied cherries, one canned apricot, a strip of citron, one dozen seeded raisins; mix with the cheese; add one teaspoonful each of nutmeg, grated lemon peel and sugar, and a small piece of candied pineapple, chopped. Mold in a shallow pan and cut in squares to serve with buttered toast for afternoon tea.

Marshmallow Dessert.—Whip one cupful of heavy cream; add one-half cupful of finely-cut pineapple and a dozen marshmallows, cut into quarters. Chill and serve with a spoonful of maraschino cherries with sirup over each.

Sweet potatoes, French fried, are delicious; sprinkle with a little sugar and serve hot.

Macaroon Wafers.—Cream one-half cupful of butter; add one cupful of sugar gradually, the yolks of three eggs and the white of one, four tablespoonfuls of cold water, one teaspoonful of baking powder, two teaspoonfuls of vanilla and flour enough to roll. Place on ice to stiffen, and they may be rolled with little flour. To the other two whites add sugar and put a teaspoonful of frosting on each macaroon.

Pineapple Fluff.—Beat the whites of three eggs until stiff, add three tablespoonfuls of sugar and four tablespoonfuls of grated pineapple; mix together. Butter cups slightly, fill gently and set into hot water to bake a light brown. Turn out and serve with whipped cream; garnish with bits of preserved pineapple or with maraschino cherries.

Starboard and Larboard.

The starboard side of a ship was at one time the steer-board side, in memory of the Anglo-Saxons who used to steer their boats by putting out an oar on the right-hand side of the stern. The larboard (now known as the port side) is a corruption of lower board, which was always considered inferior to the starboard.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says, "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, correcting urinary troubles and neutralizing the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by parcel post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

American Traveler in Paris Wanted His Quarters Given Their Proper Designation.

Jesse Lasky, the movie magnate, was talking about the woes of post-war foreign travel.

"In Paris, the other day," he said, "I met an American in the bar of one of the hotels de luxe.

"'It is costing me here in this hotel,' the American said, as he forked out about $2 for a glass of beer—'well, it is costing me here just 8,000 francs a week.'

"'But your quarters?' said I. 'Very spacious, eh?'

"'Quarters?' he gruntled. 'You mean eighths.'"

"There goes an old buddy of mine," Perkins remarked as a man passed.

"Who is he?" asked Brown.

"Bill Bristow—poor old Bill!"

"Why 'poor old Bill'?"

"Well, it's this way," Perkins explained. "When the war broke out I enlisted and Bill got married."

"Yes, go on."

"Well, can't you see? I got a discharge more than two years ago now."—Kansas City Star.

FIRE FIGHTER GAINS 30 POUNDS

"Tanlac Can't Be Beat," Declares This Albuquerque Citizen.

"Three years ago Tanlac rid me of a nervous, run-down condition, built me up from a hundred and twenty-five pounds to a hundred and fifty-five, and I have felt fine ever since," declared Henry C. SMALL BROTHER GOT BUSY

His Afternoon of Play Certainly Proved Embarrassing for Unfortunate Older Sister.

I was soon to be married, writes a correspondent of the Detroit Free Press, and spent a busy day among my collection of old letters, which I wanted to reread before destroying. When I took the large basket down to the basement to consign to the furnace, brother entered vigorous protest. He had just made a fresh fire, and he argued that my papers would ruin it. He agreed to burn the letters that afternoon.

But alack and alas, Small brother and some of his playmates discovered the basket a short time later, and one of them had a brilliant idea. They would play post office. So each took an armful and proceeded to distribute my love letters in the neighbors' post boxes.

We live in a suburb, where every one knows every one else, so I'll leave it to you to picture my embarrassment when the recipients began to return my property.

A Current Event.

Gen. George A. Wingate said in New York the other day:

"Any man who maltreats our young war invalids deserves the fate of Mrs. Malaprop's daughter.

"'Your daughter recites real well,' the pastor's wife said to Mrs. Malaprop at a church socialable.

"'Yes,' said Mrs. Malaprop. 'We going to give her a course of electrocution.'

"Then she smiled and added:

"'Sort o' finish her off, yo know.'"

Even for Small Boy.

Little Neal was sitting at the breakfast table when his mother asked him how many pancakes he had eaten.

"Three," he answered.

"If you ate three more, how many would that make?" questioned his mother, as the little fellow is learning arithmetic.

"Well," replied Neal slowly, "I guess it would make a tummy-full."

His Substitute.

Strenuous Young Woman (turning down a proposal of marriage)—I must have a live man, who, club in hand, will beat me into submission.

Silver Purchase Halted by Government

Washington.—Director Scobey of the mint has closed the treasury books to all offers of silver for purchase by the government, and it was officially stated no further tenders are likely to be accepted for two or three years. Actual treasury purchases of silver ended June 1, when offers estimated at two hundred million ounces had been received under the Pittman act. Since the offers all were on the basis of estimates, Mr. Scobey had no way of ascertaining definitely whether the amount required by the law, would be entirely filled. Consequently he has continued to receive and file offers. The two hundred million ounces purchased is to replace that loaned by the treasury to Great Britain for use in India during the war. When that bullion is again in the vaults, the government will be out of the silver market. Officials believe the treasury will have no further need for additional stocks for several years.

Mistletoe Infection Serious

Denver.—Western yellow pine is subject to severe injury by mistletoe and the damage to the forest caused by the insidious and destructive action of this pest presents one of the important silvicultural problems in the Southwest, declared the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, in its new bulletin entitled "The Western Yellow Pine Mistletoe." This booklet—Department Bulletin 1112—has just been printed and is now available for free distribution by the Department of Agriculture as long as the supply lasts after which it may be secured from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for 15 cents per copy.

Women Vote for Bobbed Hair

Bartlesville, Okla.—One hundred and fifty women employees of the Empire Oil Company's head office in Bartlesville voted to "bob" their hair. Several stenographers have been wearing their hair in abbreviated fashion for some time, and tired of the chaffing of their long haired sisters started a campaign to make the fashion general in the office.

New Geyser Erupts in Yellowstone

Livingston, Mont.—A new geyser erupting in Norris Basin, Yellowstone National park, is declared by rangers a notable addition to the scenic feature of the park. Suggestions have already been informally advised that the new geyser will be named for President Harding in honor of his projected visit to the park the latter part of this month.

Rodeo Participants Warned

Washington.—Participants in an old-fashioned western "rodeo" which is shown in Washington during the Shrine convention were admonished by Police Judge Hardison not to transgress the laws of humane treatment in their exhibitions of "steer wrestling." A cube brought to the Humane society against one of the employees of the show was dismissed for want of evidence, but the judge told the prisoner and his employers that as he had seen "steer wrestling" demonstrated in other instances, he regarded it as "cruel and painful treatment" of dumb animals, punishable under the law. He indicated that he would not if proper evidence of cruel treatment were laid before him.

New Argentine Loan

London.—It is announced that Morgan Grenfell and Company, and the banking house of Baring, offered on June 1 for public subscription in London a new Argentine government loan of £1,500,000, 5 per cent bonds, at 89½, redeemable in July, 1943.

Denver.—The United States Land Office has announced that 8,703.52 acres of land in Grand and Summit counties will be thrown open for entry July 16, soldiers to have preference in filings. The land is designated as fractional portions of townships 1 and 2 south, ranges 80 and 81 west. Soldiers are to have preference for right of entry up to Oct. 13, and all such applications will be treated as of July 16. The rules require that personal examination of the ground must be made by applicants.

New York.—Edward H. Fuller and W. F. McGee, partners in the brokerage company of E. M. Fuller and Co., that failed with a loss of more than $3,000,000 to customers, pleaded guilty to charges of operating a bucket shop. The plea of guilty came when their fourth trial on the charge was called in the Court of General Sessions. The penalty is imprisonment from two and a half to five years. Fuller and McGee were remanded to the custody of the United States marshal.
