Udall draws a crowd

New Mexico Democratic Senator Tom Udall attracts a big audience to the Convention Center during town hall meeting in Ruidoso

Although the session was open to all topics, healthcare reform dominates

DIANNE STALLINGS
dstallings@ruidosonews.com

Arriving more than a half-hour late Tuesday, U.S. Sen. Tom Udall still won some respect from a packed house of about 500 primarily Lincoln County residents for facing their questions about the federal government's proposed healthcare overhaul.

Several in the audience at the Ruidoso Convention Center, weighted heavily with retirees, jabbed at U.S. Rep. Harry Teague's lack of public forums on the subject. Dr. Walter R. Seidel interrupted criticism about the lack of effective control over proposed "reform" of the system to congratulate Udall for scheduling the forum.

"We have a congressman from the area who has no balls," he said of Teague, to loud applause.

Both Udall and Teague are first-term Democrats. Lincoln County is considered by voter registration to be a predominantly conservative Republican refuge in a Democrat-dominated New Mexico.

Before Udall's plane flew into Ruidoso's regional airport, his staff directed people who wanted to ask questions to fill out cards listing their names. Cards were picked randomly and, after Udall's entrance, three sets of five people were allowed to come to the podium to pose their questions.

Toward the end of the hour-long session, Seidel walked to the microphone and said he had patients waiting, but wanted to speak before he left. With concurrence from others in line, the physician, who said he's practiced in Ruidoso 15 years, said, "All we see is a system that is broken and needs repair. As a physician, I have to identify what is wrong with my patients before I can fix them. Unfortunately, you guys haven't identified the problem and you plan to fix it with more bureaucratic bull—."

He doesn't want government telling him how to take care of his patients, he said. Udall broke in and said if Seidel accepted Medicaid and Medicare patients, he's already being paid with government dollars.

Someone from the audience yelled out, "Yeah, 10 cents on a dollar."

Seidel added, "That's everyone's money – yours, mine, theirs."

The family practitioner said he read the bills around which the reform plan is being built and 90 percent of the rules and methods of operating will be left to the discretion of the Health and Human Services director to develop as policy, he contended, adding, "There is no control."

Dr. Seidel: "My patients are scared to death. You haven't read the bill. Your staff hasn't read the bill. You say trust the government to fix it, but I don't believe you believe that anymore than I do."

That was the problem when former President George W. Bush deferred to Treasury Secretary Henry Paulson in the first bailout bill, he said. Now its H&HS Secretary Kathleen Sebelius who will be in control.

"My patients are scared to death," he said. "You haven't read the bill. (Your staff) hasn't read the bill. You say trust the government to fix it, but I don't believe you believe that anymore than I do. The difference is you have to go out and sell this."

First up at the forum, James Grath rolled to the microphone in a wheelchair and asked how Congress planned to pay for the health care bill without raising the deficit.

"My first pledge to you is when we do healthcare reform, it will be deficit neutral," Udall said, to skeptical murmurs from the audience. "Or I won't vote for it."

After one woman asked about expanding Medicare-type coverage to younger people, Udall asked for a show of hands of people who are satisfied and dissatisfied with Medicare. The majority indicated they were satisfied.

"One of our big challenges with Medicare, and that's why I think people in the audience are worried on this issue of cost, is if you look 10 years out, the way we are going, Medicare will hit the wall, it's not sustainable," Udall said. "The trustees for Medicare reported to us we need to take a look at revenue sources and take a look at benefits and make the two fit together so that Medicare does not hit the wall and we can continue to provide care. I am committed to that. Congress is committed to that. I'm not sure at this particular point whether it would be wise to expand Medicare into a particular area until we get it on a solid basis. In no way would I want to eliminate it."

Some people, when they talk about health care for all are talking about a single payer plan, the senator said. "Single payer has been really taken off the shelf in Washington," he said to a mixed reaction of applause and some boos.

"That's the reality," Udall said. "We have a president who said we are going to grow on the system we have in place and that is an employer-based system. If we can get Medicare healthy and in 20 to 30 years out, it is doing well, part of our solution might be to allow people from 60 to 65 buy into Medicare. Until we get it healthy, I think it's important we don't add to the burden."

Medicare coverage currently begins at 65.

Udall said that of the 26 percent of New Mexicans uninsured, the majority are working. "If you had a system where health care was affordable for employers, you could include them in the system," he said.

Gene King, retired Air Force with three sons in the military, asked what Congress will do to train and retain more physicians to take care of the numbers added to those receiving health care, when their earning ability is being driven down.

Udall said the shortage of physicians in the state is critical and 75 percent of the graduates from the University of New Mexico School of Medicine leave the state for jobs. The first issue is to keep them here, he said. Studies show if newly educated doctors do their residencies in local hospitals, spend several years and learn to love a community, they end up staying.

"You're right; nationwide, if we bring more into the health care system, we will need more doctors," he said.

Rancher Howard Jolly said he thought President Bush made an honest effort to reform Social Security, also considered in a financial crisis, and in his State of the Union address laid down a challenge for anyone including Congress to come up with a plan to fix it.

"In his next year's State of the Union address, he said not one plan came across his desk and the entire Democratic side of the aisle stood up and cheered," Jolly said. "That is the single most irresponsible thing I've ever seen. Three years later, Social Security isn't fixed, Medicare isn't fixed, Medicaid isn't fixed, and I want to know when we're going to see some fiscal responsibility come out of our government."

Udall: We have a president who said we are going to grow on the system we have in place and that is an employer-based system."

He said he is satisfied with his insurance through Presbyterian and doesn't want anything shoved down his throat.

Udall said he hoped he relieved some of Jolly's concerns. "You have a policy and coverage now and you like it," the senator said. "We won't fiddle with it. We will build on the system we have now." Audience reaction was mixed.

Dr. Ken Ogilvie, a retired obstetrician, said he left the state after

Burns continue

The Lincoln National Forest Sacramento Ranger District will continue implementing several prescribed pile burns over the next few months. These pile burns began the week of July 6, and will continue as long as the current weather conditions permit.

The burn in James Canyon near the Irongate subdivision was completed in mid July. Burning will continue in the Cloudcroft area around Bailey Canyon and Sleepy Grass picnic area as well as the Slash Pit at the junction of U.S. Highway 82 and 244, as needed.

Additionally, pile burns will be conducted south of Cloudcroft in the area of Upper Karr recreation area.

Residents of local communities as well as the public may see and smell smoke for the duration of the burns. When the burning begins, signs will be posted along highways affected by the smoke and motorists are urged to use caution. Forest personnel will be posting current information regarding the progress of the burn for communities and residents in the area.

Weed Warriors

Beginning at 8:15 a.m., Wednesday, Weed Warriors will whistle while they thistle at 110 Marble, according to founder Carolyn Felder.

"We'll be spraying first-year plants going north from there and then move over the hill to 305 Marble," she said.

To find the noxious weed fighters, coming from downtown Ruidoso, turn right on White Mountain, turn left on Sunny Slope before the skate park, and take the first right onto White Mountain Meadows. Turn right onto Marble, which is two or three streets down.

On July 15, a Sunday School Class went on a hike at High Chaparral. Larry Seelig, a new volunteer, noticed a house that had the beginnings of a thistle infestation.

"Last week, Pat Greener and I were the 'Thistle Busters' and we knocked it out in less than 30 minutes," Felder said. "Better to get them when there are under 50 plants than wait until there are 500."

CARD Act

New Mexico Attorney General Gary King's Consumer Protection Division advises consumers that the first phase of the new Credit Card Accountability, Responsibility and Disclosure (CARD) Act is now in effect. Credit card users have the right to say "no" or opt out of interest rate increases and other changes in their credit card agreements.

Under the CARD Act, consumers must be given: at least 45 days' warning of changes to their credit card accounts; at least 21 days to pay their monthly credit card statements without threat of late fees; the right to opt out of interest rate and fee increases; and, the right to cancel their accounts while paying off balances under the old, lower interest rates.

Other aspects of the law that will take effect in February 2010 include: restrictions on interest rate increases; bans on issuing and marketing credit cards to young adults; and regulations on gift cards.

In July 2010, requirements for disclosing fees, rates and terms on monthly statements, credit card applications and mailers

OUR OPINION

Easing of music curfew was reasonable

Now let's have a progressive noise ordinance

Judge Mike Line's ruling was in tune last week when he allowed Dreamcatcher Cafe in Midtown to host live outdoor music until 10 p.m. on weekends.

Under the circumstances, this was a reasonable compromise between the standing 9 p.m. curfew and anything later – say, midnight, which is still early in some towns.

But it shouldn't have come to this: 1) Complainants Larry Hess, who also owns an eatery in Midtown (Picnics Deli), and Bill Karn, who divides his time between Ruidoso and California, mustn't be allowed to hold our entertainment scene hostage because of their sleeping habits. Even then, we're talking about two nights a week, three months a year.

And, 2) Ruidoso Village Council must support our tourist economy and culture by drafting an unambiguous, progressive, unilateral and enforceable noise ordinance that promotes nightlife. You can't expect the decibel police to snoop around bands playing in courtyards unless you are prepared to target motorcyclists and other noisemakers roaring in the wee hours.

Lincoln County has plenty of serene getaways and residential havens. Midtown Ruidoso is not one of them. It's time we accept the fact.

High-tech weaponry not so impressive in 'odd' wars

SHERRY ROBINSON

ALL SHE WROTE

Do you read the latest roadside bombing story from Iraq or Afghanistan and wonder why, six years into these wars, we're still losing so many people to the terrorists' crude weapons?

The Commander in Chief does too. Last week, speaking to a veterans' group, President Obama blasted the defense industry and a spendthrift Congress for wasting tax dollars on "weapons better suited to fight the Soviets on the plains of Europe than insurgents in the rugged terrain of Afghanistan."

In New Mexico, our roster of defense contractors reads like a Who's Who of the industry. Look at their Web sites and you'll see plenty of big, sleek aircraft and high-tech weaponry with eye-popping price tags.

What's happening?

I got an inkling last year during a talk by an Air Force engineer whose PowerPoint presentation glittered with fancy devices. Somebody asked if any of it would be useful in Iraq.

"Technology wins wars," she said. "That's not necessarily the war we're fighting today because of the terrorists, but it was true in the past and could be again."

So, to the military and the defense industry, our present wars are oddities – not quite real wars. They're preparing for the real war we "could be" fighting in the future.

Oh, the Army formed an IED (Improvised Explosive Device) Task Force in 2003 under a retired, one-star general with too little clout to get anything done. It was supposed to be the Manhattan Project of IED detection, but it had more money than expertise, or sense. Field commanders grumbled that the task force didn't have the juice or the broad support of other government agencies, according to the Los Angeles Times.

The task force threw money at the problem.

One of the more novel approaches was Los Alamos National Laboratory's Stealthy Insect Sensor Project, which trained bees in little harnesses to detect the explosives used in IEDs, at a cost of more than $2 million. But harnessed bees don't live long, and it wasn't clear how a platoon would manage its bees.

Too many of the IED detection schemes haven't involved testing by troops on the ground – or any testing at all.

Meanwhile, the enemy has continued improving his technology, with help from Pakistan and Iran. And the IED death count grows.

In 2006 the task force morphed into the Joint IED Defeat Organization, which now included the intelligence and defense communities. The previous president Bush assured us, "We are putting the best minds in America to work on this effort." Behind the scenes, he questioned the size of the budget ($4 billion).

Not until 2007, when IED casualties spiked, did the Army Research Lab ask vendors for a mobile or handheld detector to identify IEDs from 10 meters away at a speed of 8 mph or faster. Raytheon, Northrop Grumman, and Lock-heed Martin (all have operations here) are dabbling in IED detection.

One of the shining stars isn't a household name, unless you live in Raton. In 2004 Stolar Research Corp. and a Tucson firm joined to detect command detonation wires in IEDs using Stolar's technology in an unmanned aerial vehicle. Stolar's device helps mining companies see subsurface structures. The IED technology, which is still being evaluated, is also being considered for border defense.

In general, progress is slow.

A few portable detection systems are starting to be deployed. But in April the Army announced a study of soldiers who have a sixth sense about spotting IEDs. Researchers would like to identify these people, so they could be placed strategically in a convoy.

A sixth sense? That's the best we can do? If your son or daughter is serving in Iraq or Afghanistan, do you find that comforting?

YOUR OPINION

DWI approach strong on treatment

To the editor:

THE LINCOLN COUNTY Health Council Substance Abuse Subcommittee feels strongly about the guest commentary regarding a two-pronged approach to the DWI problem that appeared in the Ruidoso News on Aug. 14.

The author of the commentary felt that law enforcement was over-emphasized and treatment was neglected in New Mexico. The author, in his opinion, noted Governor Richardson's efforts to combat the problem centered on enforcement and little else, which is far from the truth.

Our committee is in consensus that efforts to combat not only DWI, but all substance abuse issues including tobacco use, must include a well-planned, comprehensive three-pronged approach that includes prevention as well as enforcement and treatment.

Many members of this committee are also members of the Lincoln County DWI Prevention and Planning Council. Activities in the area of prevention include:

- Delivery of evidence based curriculum in schools in Lincoln County
- Information dissemination to parents and the general public
- Providing alternative activities for youth that are drug free, such as; a Youth Leadership Summit (Light The Fire Summit) and support for SADD chapters
- Participation in Community-Based processes such as LCCHC, Local Collaborative, Juvenile Justice Board, local school boards, community agencies
- Environmental approaches such as compliance checks, saturation patrols, DWI Checkpoints, SYNAR compliance checks and retail merchant education, responsible retailer training, Sticker Shock, and 100 Days and Nights of Summer
- Problem identification and referral includes actions by schools, health care providers, and school based health services

To some individuals, some of these activities may seem to be solely enforcement, but in reality they are prevention. Our committee created a matrix of prevention activities in Lincoln County, and the list is extensive.

Estimates from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Administration are that for every $1 spent on prevention the return is between $7.70 and $36. Universal prevention strategies are much more cost effective than treatment.

In a recent cost-to-benefit analysis of evidence based curriculum delivered effectively in schools, the return was estimated to be $21 for every $1 spent. Of the six Centers for Substance Abuse Prevention strategies listed above, none work effectively as stand-alone programs.

The need for a comprehensive plan is essential in order to achieve success in the battle against substance abuse, including alcohol, tobacco and other drugs.

Prevention works. Those of us in the field of prevention feel very strongly about the impact of our efforts to create safe, healthy individuals, schools, communities and the need to work with individuals in enforcement and treatment.

Hidden gem

To the editor:

I AM WRITING today to express my sincere gratitude and appreciation for one of Ruidoso's "hidden" gems – the Lincoln County Medical Center's Rehabilitation Services Department.

Since the Therapy Center building opened in March 2009, the new services and equipment provided complement an already well-trained and helpful staff dedicated to assisting its clients recover from a variety of surgeries and other medical issues.

Due to a variety of past injuries, genetics, and simply carrying too much weight, I had to have both knees replaced over the past two years. Following the surgeries, I elected to do my rehabilitation at LCMC, and, on both occasions, I received excellent care and treatment that have allowed me to regain lost strength, flexibility and mobility.

While the staff at the Therapy Center would say that my progress toward recovery is largely attributable to my own perseverance and determination, the reality is that their investment of time, personal concern, and professionalism nurtured and inspired me during a sometimes painful and challenging rehabilitation process.

The result, for me, is life-changing and positive in a way I could not anticipate but will forever be grateful.

I would be remiss if I did not mention specifically Dennis Rich and Mary Connell for their personal attention and persistence in guiding my rehabilitation process, as well as their consistent monitoring of my progress towards regaining a full and active lifestyle.

The entire staff has always been helpful, respectful and interested in ensuring that I made a complete recovery.

Still today, nearly six months after surgery and two months removed from prescribed therapy, they take the time to encourage me through my continued exercise regimen.

I hope that everyone reading this letter will recognize the importance of health care in our daily lives, and realize what an incredible asset we have in the new Therapy Center at the Lincoln County Medical Center.

Tax credits critical

To the editor:

AFTER READING Steven Moore's letter, "Retain Foreign Tax Credits," I was elated – not because of what might happen to foreign tax credits if they are stripped from American companies; that would be devastating. I was elated because people are starting to become aware of the issue.

I, too, worked for a business that needed those tax credits. I can say with certainty that without them, we would not have been able to challenge other countries for our business. We would have had to pay a gigantic amount of taxes, and it would have put us in a serious bind.

I'm grateful that the Clinton and Bush administrations started and kept these credits. Let's hope President Obama does the same.

the Medicaid office ceased to pay his fees from May to October. "I was not paid for any care, period. So the government stole months of my services and I didn't like that," he contended.

Ogilvie claimed he had read the entire 1,000-page House Resolution 3200, aka America's Affordable Health Choices Act of 2009. He said that, based on the cost of health care today and the number of people who would be added, "there's a lot of promises and not enough money."

Udall responded that the current system is unsustainable and one reason is that the insured already pay for the uninsured through premiums, through tax support of the hospital and tax support of a medical indigent fund.

"We try to lessen the burden on those who have care now and take care of the whole issue of the uninsured by getting them to put money into the system," he said.

Sally Moore of Capitan asked Udall, "If the bill is so convoluted and confusing, why can't it be dismantled into several bills?"

Udall said there already are several bills, including HR3200 in the Senate, a bill through the Health Committee with U.S. Sen. Jeff Bingaman (D-NM) and one the Senate Finance Committee is working on to be produced in September.

To another questioner, Udall said he supports a public option. "I believe a public option keeps insurance companies honest," he said.

Resident John Finley said that in reading the bill, he saw no mention of tort reform, saying doctors are practicing defensive medicine and that drives up the cost of care. When the applause died down, Udall, an attorney, responded that tort reform should be on the table.

"The thing you should be the proudest of is New Mexico is a leader on tort reform," he said. "We have a cap on damages. We have an incredible reform [that] I think ought to be done at the national level. If you are going to accuse a doctor of malpractice, you first must go to a medical-legal panel with doctors, lawyers and citizens. You cannot file a lawsuit in court until you go and they rule if there is liability or no liability and because of that many frivolous lawsuits are dropped. Tort reform should be on the table."

DeWitt Welch, who said he was retired Army, referred to a comment by a politician after leaving a fundraiser in Albuquerque that, the "real decision will be made in Washington D.C.," not at town hall meetings.

"Is this just going to be lip service made to the public to have these town hall meetings or are you listening and do what they want?" he asked. "After all, you have taken the same oath I have, and I've taken it more times than President Obama (to uphold the Constitution).

"Are people actually going to have a say-so in this or is Congress going to ram this down our throats? The Democratic majority seem to think they can push it with 51 votes."

Udall said he's conducted forums throughout his political career – 15 this calendar year including Tuesday's – and tried to bring his elected offices to the people. Town hall meetings are important to gauge what's going on, he said.

"I'm going to listen to my constituents," Udall said. "I don't think this will be a ramrod job in Washington." When some people began to laugh. He pointed out there's an obvious division of opinion in the room, but with discussion, it may be possible to find common ground.

A representative of a machinists union in southern New Mexico said something must be done about the rising cost of health care, although the quality is good.

Small business impact

Jerry Tully of the Hondo Valley said he doubted the government can keep 1,500 insurance companies honest. He feared the impact on small businesses, saying a 2 percent to 8 percent tax paid to support healthcare reform would wipe out any profit for his ranch.

"Usually, legislation comes from the people," he said. "It's something they want. This is coming the other way. The majority of the American people are against this." Several people booed Tully.

In other questions from participants at the meeting, Udall:

• said veterans will not be affected by the healthcare reform bill and that all veterans should have access to good health care, something that did not always occur in the past.

• was noncommittal if he would follow the directive of the people, if a referendum on healthcare reform was introduced and America voted. He said he would like to look at any bill suggesting a referendum, but had not seen one to date.

• said pharmaceutical companies and tricks they use to extend the time period of a patent to prevent a generic version at a lower cost are not covered in HR3200, but "that's a doughnut hole that should be filled." Too often, a company will slightly alter a medicine and add an extra word to the name to extend a patent, he said.

• said if a healthcare plan passes, he and his family will enroll in that plan. He acknowledged the type of plan offered to federal employees would bankrupt a small employer and the country if it was opened to everyone, because a small entity can't get the same price breaks.

• said nothing in the bill says illegal aliens would be covered by a healthcare plan.

• contended the Senate dropped a provision requiring end-of-life counseling, but acknowledged it remains in the House version. He spoke of his mother's death from cancer and said end-of-life choices should be left to families and the individuals.

As the session wound down, Udall thanked the crowd for coming, saying, "In our democracy, I think the most important thing is to have educated citizens to get involved and engaged."

Funny Money...Not So Funny

There are billions worth of counterfeit currency floating around the country, and unfortunately, some of it is right here in Ruidoso. First National Bank wants to caution customers and the business community at large to watch out for these bogus bills.

Here are some helpful tips:

- A person possessing a suspected bill should report it immediately to law enforcement.
- Phony money can be detected many ways such as red and blue fibers in the paper.
- Hold the bill up to the light and look for the watermark.
- Look at the print quality...if it looks fake, it probably is!
- Here is an excellent resource for all of your counterfeit questions - www.secretservice.gov.

Construction to prevent destruction

HAROLD OAKES
hoakes@ruidosonews.com

Twice is more than enough for school officials to have the facilities ruined by water.

Twice in three years, gym floors at Ruidoso High School were damaged by water. Now crews are working to correct the drainage problems that allowed the damage to occur.

"We contacted PFSA (Public School Finance Authority) and asked them to come down and look at the drainage around the high school," Ruidoso Municipal Schools Superintendent Bea Eta Harris said. "They looked at it and said it needed to be corrected immediately."

FNF New Mexico, LLC is working on multiple sites to prevent damage to the two gyms and the track.

"We asked them to do the track and the gym projects together," Harris said. "We are very anxious to protect these assets."

PFSA is paying for the $1 million project, with the understanding they will be repaid.

"We are very grateful for their offer to pay for this project up front," Harris said. "They realized the need and made the offer."

Harris said the money would have to be repaid to PFSA from a General Obligation (GO) bond.

High Mesa Consulting from Albuquerque designed the drainage correction project that addresses six areas around the school to prevent water damage and mildew problems at the school.

"They really understand how water flows and have done a lot of work with PFSA," Harris said. "We have also had High Mesa look at the drainage issues at the White Mountain School Complex and they have a design to fix those problems."

Harris said that project would have to wait for funding from a GO bond.

"We will have to address the drainage issues before we do the remodel at White Mountain Schools," Harris said.

The remodel of White Mountain Schools will have to be done before the Nob Hill School classes can move to that complex, Harris said.

If the school board goes for a GO bond to pay for the current and any future projects, the decision will have to be made at the Sept. board meeting.

Ruidoso High School has a substitute teacher watching out for students around the construction sites for at least a week.

"Stan Lyons (Ruidoso High School principal) asked about having a substitute there to insure the kids stay safe around the construction equipment," Harris said. "I agreed that is was a good idea. We have barriers up, but we all know how kids like to jump barriers."

The drainage project at Ruidoso High School is scheduled to be completed Dec. 22.

Early enrollment up at ENMU-R

According to the preliminary figures, ENMU-Ruidoso's student enrollments will easily exceed last years' total. As of Monday, Aug. 24, there were 931 students enrolled representing a 13% increase compared to the same time last fall. Dr. Michael Elrod, President of the local college estimates that by the end of the official count, there will be in excess of 1,100 students attending classes. "We are seeing more students taking more classes this fall than previously," Elrod said. "In part, this is due to the number of increased class offerings and our new career and technical education associate degree programs. With the continued economic slowdown throughout the state and region, students are enrolling to upgrade their skills and to pursue new career opportunities."

Reception welcomes faculty back

New things to like at Capitan Schools

JULIE CARTER
jcarter@tularosa.net

Contractors, staff, administration and students have been busy through the summer with some transformations at Capitan Schools that made last week's return to classes a pleasant adventure.

Enrollment is up in Capitan schools including the return of the need for three kindergartens.

Staying with the four-day week schedule, administrators opted to implement a closed campus for the 2009-10 school year. Letters were delivered to all the area businesses that could possibly be impacted by the change. Only one business returned comment and that came in support of the plan.

Student representatives addressed the school board in its May meeting, presenting the concerns of the students. Capitan Superintendent Shirley Crawford said, "I believe the choices (food) available and the courtyard seating we provided have addressed the students concerns. Though we are still working out some kinks but the student response to the change has been very positive."

Summit Food Services was contracted to manage the cafeteria, which offers students several choices of entrees for grades 3-12. There is also a "snack bar" option for middle and high school students for pizza, hamburgers, fruit, salad and snacks.

A breakfast burrito cart is available to middle school and high school students, as well as the breakfast served in the cafeteria. An end-of-the-day snack is served to elementary students.

New bleachers are in place in Traylor Gym and the bleachers at the football field have been refurbished to make them safer and more accessible for the fans and visitors. The concession stand at the football field is receiving an electrical upgrade. The concession, restrooms and changing rooms at the baseball/softball fields have been completed.

The hallway in the high school has been brightened with fresh paint and a new principal sits in that office. Jerrett Perry, formerly of Ruidoso High and Carrizozo Schools administration, has teamed back up with Crawford to create a positive learning environment for Capitan students. They worked together at Ruidoso Schools.

Other additions include a complete upgrade to the high school computer lab, the installation of SmartBoards installed in the majority of the secondary classrooms, and flat screen television monitors and ELMO units installed in the elementary classrooms.

A pep assembly on the first day of school, Aug. 19, introduced students and staff to the facelift Cummins Gym received over the summer. Crawford said the general consensus was "wow" and said the gym will be even better when the championship recognition banners and support banners were back in place.

"But all in all, the facility is beautiful," she said. "I also believe the addition of field size flags has been a source of pride for our students and staff."

– Ruidoso Downs City Council –

Downs OKs temporary agreement with Humane Society

HAROLD OAKES
hoakes@ruidosonews.com

Mayor Armstrong: "This is a fair agreement. We are making some changes in the way we respond to animal calls. Some of the changes should make a difference, but we won't know that for a year."

RUIDOSO DOWNS – The Ruidoso Downs City Council approved an agreement with the Lincoln County Humane Society Monday evening, for now.

"This is a kind of a patch to get us through the end of the year," City Attorney Zach Cook said at Monday's meeting. Cook was directed to get clarification on the proposed contract at the Aug. 10 council meeting.

"I met with Kai Brown (Executive Director of the Lincoln County Humane Society). She said she cannot lower the cost."

The agreement obligates Ruidoso Downs to pay $27,000 for up to 300 dogs and cats taken to the shelter during the year and $125 per dog after 300 animals.

"This is a fair agreement," Mayor Tom Armstrong said. "We are making some changes in the way we respond to animal calls by not taking full control of all the animals. Some of the changes we are making should make a difference, but we won't know that for a year."

The previous contract for sheltering animals picked up in Ruidoso Downs ended June 30.

"We have been operating without a contract," Department of Public Safety Director Alfred Ortiz said. "I'm very pleased that they (the Humane Society) were willing to work with us while we worked this out."

"The $27,000 is reasonable," Councilor Gary Williams said. "We are just going to have to be very cautious when we get close to that 300 number."

Williams initiated the action at the Aug. 10 meeting tabling approval of the agreement pending clarification of consequences of exceeding 300 animals a year.

"We are going to be monitoring this weekly and monthly to ensure that we do not go over that 300 number," Ortiz said. "We are going to make adjustments to animal control so we don't bring in so many animals."

Williams did ask for some changes in the revised agreement.

"In paragraph one, I want 'councilors' changed to read 'governing body,'" Councilor Gary Williams said. "In paragraph seven, I want 'city employees' changed to 'police officers.' The animal control officer and police officers are going to be the only ones dropping off animals.

"I also want 'city administrator' removed from the address," he said. "We don't have a city administrator right now."

The vote to approve the agreement, with Williams' changes, was unanimous.

In other action:

• The Council approved hiring Richard Graham as project manager for the Public Works Department.

"This will provide the Public Works Department with a person to oversee day-to-day operations and assist me in preparing applications for new projects," Public Works director Cletus Richards said. "In the past, the Public Works department has primarily reacted to work orders. I want to see more projects done in-house."

Graham is a former city employee.

"I think we have picked one of the best men who ever worked for the city," Councilor Rene Olivo said.

The council questioned the composition of the committee that selected Graham and recommended either a council member or citizen be included on future selection committees.

• After considering several options, councilors agreed on drainage improvements for River Lane and North Central Street as priority projects for a Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) application.

"River Lane is where the water ends up as it tries to make its way to the river," Armstrong said. "We have to look at this from the bottom up because if we send more water down there without a way to handle it, it will just make the problem worse."

Armstrong pointed out that although there was a committee recommendation for projects, there was a long-standing plan for drainage improvements and some of the other projects were included in other funding requests.

"We stand to lose a considerable amount of money we have spent on other projects if we don't deal with the drainage issues on North Central and River Lane," Councilor Tommy Hood said.

"Sometimes you just need to stay with the plan," Armstrong said.

Richards said the curbs and drainage on River Lane would cost about $410,000 and North Central drainage would cost $74,000 to $75,000. The maximum amount of a CDBG is $500,000.

"This is a competitive process," City Clerk and Treasurer Carol Virden said. "Seldom do you get the full amount."

• Also receiving council approval were one change and two possible changes to the Public Employee Retirement plans for city employees.

Two firefighters will be given the option of changing from the general retirement plan to the Fire Member plan through an election.

City employees will hold an election to consider changing to a new General Member plan with a higher contribution rate and larger retirement pay out. The police officers' contribution to the Police Member Coverage Plan 3 remains the same so they do not have to have an election. The city's contribution to all three plans increased with the vote.

"We figured this into the budget," Finance Director Terri Mosley said.

Governor seeks cost-cutting

Gov. Bill Richardson directed heads of state agencies to identify an additional 3 percent of current year operating expenses for potential cuts.

Those cuts, likely to be imposed during an October special legislative session he may call, would augment reductions implemented in this year's budget. The cuts are part of the governor's broader plan to balance the budget, which will be unveiled in early September, his staff said.

Richardson also urged other branches of state government not under his direct control to cut budgets by up to 3 percent.

He will submit the budget-balancing plan to an executive-legislative working group being formed to negotiate ideas prior to a special session. Richardson said his plan will not increase taxes and will not significantly impact services to the public.

"We will all have to make additional sacrifices, but I believe we can close the existing budget gap in a fiscally responsible way, without increasing taxes. The purpose of submitting my plan is simply to start the discussion. Nothing is etched in stone. I welcome the Legislature's input."

Five members of the executive branch were appointed to the working group. They are Finance & Administration Secretary Katherine Miller, Taxation & Revenue Secretary Rick Homans, Deputy Chief of Staff Eric Witt, Deputy Chief of Staff Paul Ritzma and Deputy Secretary of Finance & Administration Dannette Burch.

Federal grant for fuels reduction may help landowners

DIANNE STALLINGS

Up to 200 acres will be treated in a project costing $330,000

Another $255,000 grant for hazardous fuels reduction to create defensible space in the wildland-urban interface around Ruidoso will help owners of small tracts of land by allowing them to share the expense with the federal government.

The state Forestry Division will handle the grant with the goal of treating at least 200 acres total. The grant must be matched with 30 percent or $76,500 for a total project cost of $331,500. The grant expires Dec. 31, 2011.

Village Manager Debi Lee said although Rick DeLaco, the village's first forester and drafter of the fuel reduction and forest health ordinances for the village, resigned to take a position with a federal agency, he stays in touch.

"I spoke with him today," she told councilors at their meeting earlier this month when they approved the grant. Several of the grants that came in after his departure were a result of his work, she said.

Councilor Jim Stoddard said, "I hope we use his mentorship."

In another issue, councilors removed an item from the consent agenda dealing with Red Oak Consulting and placed it on the regular agenda for a separate discussion. Items on the consent agenda are not discussed and are approved in one vote for all.

Staff asked to extend the term of the administrative services agreement with Red Oak for a period of one year.

"The current contract was signed Dec. 9, 2008, and was intended to end June 30, 2009," with a price of $58,000, Deputy Village Manager Bill Morris wrote in a memorandum. "This service has continued, but a second extension was not processed."

The money for the extension already is allocated, Morris said. "We're just adding extra time. The final report is due Aug. 28."

Councilor Angel Shaw said with that deadline, why would a one-year extension be needed.

"We'll make it three months," Morris suggested, using the start date of Aug. 11.

Councilors approved the motion with Councilor Michele Rebstock voting against it.

In other business, councilors:

• awarded a bank stabilization and channel restoration contract for the Karam project in Midtown on Fern Trail for $170,428 to low bidder C. J. Mead Construction of Edgewood. Six contractors bid.

• awarded a renewal of a contract for software maintenance to New World System. The software us used by the finance and the water billing departments. The contact is paid annually and renewable every three years with a total value of $74,320 or $22,672 for Fiscal Year 2009-2010, $24,712 for FY2010-2011, and $26,936 for FY 2011-2012.

• approved an extension to a New Mexico Finance Authority loan for the Solid Waste Department transfer station, to include some additional construction at the administration shop with leftover dollars. The loan was to expire in May 2009, but will now run to May 2010. Councilor James Stoddard complimented Director Jeff Kaplan, saying, "It finally looks like a professional operation. I commend what you're doing."

• approved a second addendum to amend a contract award from "not to exceed $500,000," to "not to exceed $850,000," for Zia Engineer and Environmental Consultants LLC., for all design and construction management tasks to complete a replacement project for nine bridges. The Federal Emergency Management Agency pays 75 percent, the state 18 percent and the village 7 percent Zia was low bidder out of two bids received.

Village Public Works Director Randall Camp explained this is the final phase for the bridge destroyed in the July 2008 flood on the Rio Ruidoso. The bridges will be aesthetically pleasing and of precast concrete interstate highway rating, with rock facing, but will save money, he said. Otherwise the cost would be about $250,000 per bridge or $2.25 million.

The box culverts used as temporary replacements will be utilized in several village drainage projects, such as at the intersection of Paradise Canyon and Hull Road, Camp said.

Some of the bridges, including Second Bridge at Fox Drive in Upper Canyon, may consist of three lanes.

Councilor Ron Hardeman said if Second Bridge has three lanes and the first bridge only two lanes, access problems could be created. Camp agreed, and joked, "First Bridge just didn't help us out by collapsing [in the flood]."

RHS grad killed in crash

A 2007 graduate of Ruidoso High School died Saturday as a result of injuries sustained in a one-vehicle rollover on U.S. 54 in Otero County.

Keith Garrison, 20, was driving north at 6:07 a.m., in a 1999 Ford Explorer when, at milepost 80 near Tularosa, he went off the west side of the road into the southbound lane and attempted to correct.

The left fender of his car hit a guardrail, the vehicle slid sideways, rolled one and a half times and came to rest on its roof, according to New Mexico State Police Officer David Miller.

Garrison was pronounced dead at the scene, Miller said. The driver was using his seatbelt and alcohol was not involved in the accident, the officer wrote in his report. No passengers were in the vehicle.

Miller said Garrison may have overcorrected at the time of the accident.

"People should keep in mind to get plenty of sleep prior to driving," the officer said. "If your vehicle does leave the roadway, don't try to jerk it back onto the roadway."

RHS students arrested

hoakes@ruidosonews.com

A Ruidoso High School teacher caught six boys skipping class on the third day of school. Two were arrested on misdemeanor drug charges.

According to a report by Ruidoso Police Corporal Christopher "Corky" Condon, the school liaison officer, the teacher found a group of boys behind the industrial arts building during first period Thursday, Aug. 20.

Three of the boys ran and were not identified. One boy was approaching the other two, but was not yet in their vicinity.

Two of the boys reportedly attempted to bury something as the teacher approached.

The teacher searched the area and found a plastic bag with a green leafy substance in it, a pipe that smelled of burnt tobacco and marijuana and a lighter in the vicinity.

In the administration office, Condon was called and he searched the boys. Condon found eye drops on Eric Villalba, 15, of the 200 block of North Parnell St., Ruidoso Downs, and eye drops, two lighters and a small pocket knife on Ismael Beltran, 15, of the 700 block of Utah St., Ruidoso Downs. The third boy had a pack of lighters.

Condon arrested Villalba and Beltran on charges of possession of marijuana on school property and possession of drug paraphernalia. They were transported to the Ruidoso Police Department where they were referred to the Juvenile Probation Office and released to their parents.

The third boy is being disciplined by RHS administration.

With marker, Eve Ball's memory is preserved

DIANNE STALLINGS
dstallings@ruidosonews.com

For Lynda Sanchez, a historical marker commemorating the life of author and preservationist Eve Ball will evoke memories every time she passes it on the road west of the settlement of Lincoln. The two women were friends and literary collaborators before Ball's death in 1984.

Sanchez also worked hard to ensure Ball was considered when state officials called for nominations of women to be recognized on historical markers and she wrote a book on Ball's pioneering lifestyle and the years dedicating to interviewing Mescalero Apache leaders, the families of early Hispanic settlers and Anglos.

Sanchez recently saw the end product of that effort when the scenic historic marker was installed on U.S. 380 about half way between historic Lincoln and the village of Capitan honoring Ball's accomplishments.

Born in 1890, Ball was a "Woman Among Men," as Sanchez memorialized in her book on the author who influenced so much of the regional history. She also contributed articles to the Ruidoso News.

"The sacred mountain, Sierra Blanca, is the backdrop, and the many people she interviewed and whose lives and history were preserved in her books and hundreds of articles continue to live because she passed this way," Sanchez said. "The marker was installed on the 25th year anniversary of her passing on to the land beyond the shining mountains. It is part of the New Mexico Historic Women's Marker Initiative founded by members of the New Mexico Women's Forum in their state wide effort to recognize women's contributions to our state."

Sanchez said Lincoln County was in the forefront of the marker movement to submit a nominee and with the help of County Manager Tom Stewart and county commissioners, to get behind a selection.

"I attended a special gala at the Governor's Mansion about two years ago when Eve was one of 18 that had already been accepted," she said. "This initiative ensures that women's diverse histories and contributions will inspire and provide guidance for future generations. The Legislature in 2006 funded the project."

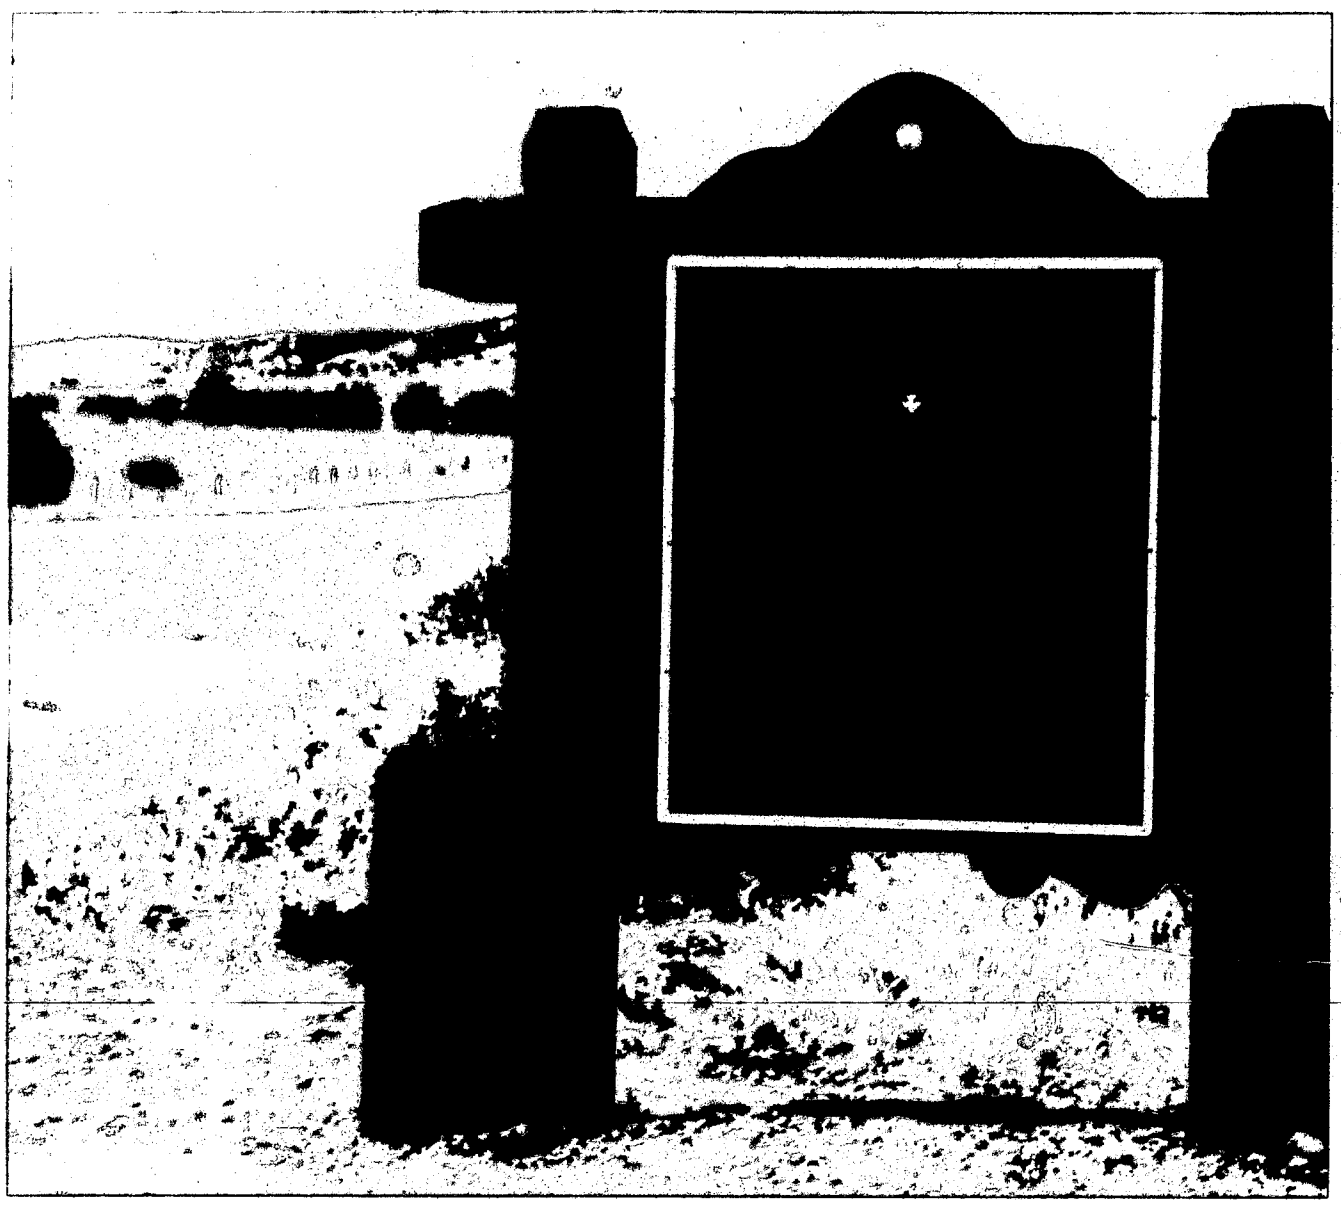
She was caught by surprise on the timing of the installation, however.

"It was a wonderful surprise to see them installing the sign," Sanchez said. "I had worked with the State Highway Department trying to locate a place that would exemplify her spirit, would be visible and pay tribute to our outstanding selection.

"We drove by three sites, and this was the one that met the specifications and would also provide parking and space for tourists and others to view Sierra Blanca looking up the valley toward Fort Stanton, and to read about this remarkable woman.

"We had talked about it being located closer to her residence in Ruidoso, but traffic, congestion and too many signs would have rendered it almost impossible to stop and read to learn about Eve and the Women's Marker Initiative. The State Highway Department was most helpful and the sign is beautiful."

Eve Ball is known to many residents of Lincoln County not only for her books and research, but for her warmth, generosity and love of the people and their unique, colorful history, Sanchez said.



Seeing this sign being installed west of Lincoln, with Sierra Blanca as a backdrop, was a pleasant surprise for Fort Stanton historian Lynda Sanchez.

Wood draws three of a kind

Trainer qualifies a trio of runners for the All American Futurity and maintains his heritage

MIKE CURRAN
mcurran@ruidosonews.com

Blane Wood is having a good meet this year. And placing three of his horses into the Grade 1, Labor Day All American Futurity Thursday put some icing on the cake.

A win in the vaunted, $2 million Quarter Horse show-case race would make for a tasty, life-long savoring desert.

Ten good runners, tested in battle, made the leap for the chance to claim the $1 million first-place check. Wood's chances for victory were raised when Love Samba (a filly) ran the fastest time of the 20 trials with a :21.201. First Corona Call (gelding) raced over the line with a third fastest :21.252 and Gols Victory Pop (gelding) grabbed the eighth spot with a :21.394.

All he has to do now to realize his life's ambition is win it. That's all.

One of the hardest dreams to achieve in all of Quarter Horse racing.

Some genes run in the family, and if that's true in horseracing, then Wood might have another ally in the mix.

His father, Leo Wood, won the prestigious event in 1979 with Pie In The Sky.

The elder Wood was a quiet, laid-back guy but he imparted everything he knew to his son who started training in 1983/84.

Fantastic Corona Jr on top in All American Derby

TY WYANT
For the Ruidoso News

Fantastic Corona Jr made his $40,000 supplemental payment look like a solid investment by defeating a blue-chip trial field and setting the fastest-qualifying mark to the Grade 1, $624,784 All American Derby on Friday afternoon at Ruidoso Downs.

Fantastic Corona Jr led the top-four qualifiers and five qualifiers into the derby from the second of five trials.

Also qualifying from that heat were One Diamond Kitty, Stolis Winner, King Brimmerton and Brenda Beautiful.

Defending world champion Stolis Winner, first-place finisher in the 2008 All American Futurity, finished third in the trial in his first start in nine months.

The 10-fastest qualifiers from the five 440-yard trials qualify to race for the $312,392 winner's share in the All American Derby and an invitation to the Grade 1, $750,000 Champion Of Champions.

The 440-yard Champion Of Champions will be contested on Dec. 12, at Los Alamitos Race Course in Southern California.

The 2010 running of the All American Derby is projected to have a purse of more than $1.2 million.

One of five qualifiers trained by Paul Jones, Fantastic Corona Jr. raced the 440 yards in :21.131 under Ramon Sanchez to win by a neck over One Diamond Kitty.

Owned by Gianni Samaja, John Andreini and Vince Genco, Fantastic Corona Jr gained national attention last fall and winter at Los Alamitos and then moved to New Mexico this spring to prepare for the All American Derby.

At Los Alamitos, Fantastic Corona Jr was a close second in the Los Alamitos Winter Derby and third in the Grade 1, $2 million Los Alamitos Two Million.

The Corona Cartel-sired Fantastic Corona Jr prepared for his Ruidoso Downs campaign at Jones' Tularosa, New Mexico training facility this spring before moving to Ruidoso Downs in May.

This gave him ample time to acclimate to the 6,900-foot altitude at Ruidoso Downs.

He then prepared for the All American Derby trials with a second-place finish in a Ruidoso Downs allowance race.

"Getting a race over the track was everything," said

Future race track chaplains trained at Ruidoso Downs

TY WYANT
For the Ruidoso News

The future is happening on the Ruidoso Downs backstretch where the horses are stabled.

But those horses, including the 2-year-olds racing in the $2 million All American Futurity on Labor Day, may not be the ones who will do the most to impact future lives.

It will probably be the future chaplains who are part of the first class on the Ruidoso Downs Chaplains School of Ministry.

Those 12 future chaplains will leave the chaplaincy school after Labor Day and head back to racetracks across North America, offering their guidance and ministry to thousands of backstretch workers and track employees needing support and comfort.

New Mexico Racing Commission (NMRC) representatives met with local track chaplains and told the chaplains that the NMRC would like to have them at every track.

"We told them that we couldn't do that, but we could train chaplains," said chaplain Mark Green, who is serving at Ruidoso Downs and will be at Zia Park in Hobbs this fall.

The result was the Ruidoso Downs Chaplains School of Ministry.

The five-week school connects spiritual resources with first-hand instruction about racetracks and the racehorse-business.

"These students will be miles ahead of where I was when I started in 2001.

"I had an excellent mentor, but these students will have a much better understanding of track operations," said Green.

"Everything is going really well. These students have exceeded my expectations. They are really incredible."

Next year, the school may become a more intensive two- to three-week program.

"It has been a burden for some students to be away from home for five weeks, so it makes sense to shorten the program," said Green.

The students learned throughout Ruidoso Downs and made field trips to Crystal Springs Farm, Double Eagle Ranch and JEH Stallion Station.

The students are Cheryl Rogers, Willfred Bodden, Nicole Bodden, Kay Neal, Betty Neal, Mark Stage, Larry Sibley, Barbra Sibley, Manuel Mendez, Theresa Mendez, Donald Stover and Ventura Bandera.

Upon graduation, students will receive a certificate.

They will be interviewed by Race Track Chaplaincy of America (RTCA) president Dr. Enrique Torres and placed at a racetrack.

The RTCA oversees 77 chaplains at 117 tracks and breeding/training centers worldwide.

Green and Torres were joined by teachers Jim Lindenberger, John Duncan, Pat Trembley, Sam Ed Spence, Sharon Moree, Ann McGovern and Bruce Rimbo at Ruidoso Downs.

Editors note. For further information and feature story prospects call Mark Green at 317-1522. RTCA info at www.racetrackchaplaincy.org.

Goodbye Norma Jean holds off rivals in First Lady Cap at Downs

G. Chris Coleman's Goodbye Norma Jean put away favored Petition The Lady in the turn and then held off stablemate Sailor's Sister in the stretch to win the $50,000 First Lady Handicap at Ruidoso Downs, on Saturday afternoon.

Goodbye Norma Jean, the 2-1 second choice, raced the six furlongs in 1:10.98 with Ricardo Jaime in the irons for trainer Henry Dominguez.

Sailor's Sister finished a neck behind Goodbye Norma Jean at the wire. Stormy Express overtook Petition The Lady for third in the field of six female sprinters.

Goodbye Norma Jean and Sailor's Sister are trained by Henry Dominguez.

The five-year-old Goodbye Norma Jean, a daughter of Tale of the Cat, is annually one of the top female sprinters on the New Mexico circuit.

She ended her 2008 campaign with a win in the Bold Ego Handicap at Sunland Park.

She came into the First Lady off a third-place run in the Fern Sawyer Handicap at Ruidoso Downs.

Runner-up Sailor's Sister, owned by Tommy Town thoroughbreds, defeated Goodbye Norma Jean in a minor stakes at SunRay Park in June, and was second behind Petition The Lady in the Chamisa Stakes in her previous out.

Ruidoso High School athlete rolls the dice

MIKE CURRAN
mcurran@ruidosonews.com

RHS senior athlete Cole Davis has decided to forego football this year and play baseball for the Albuquerque Baseball Academy (ABA).

Davis recently tried out and made the team to play in the September Showcase and Arizona Senior Fall Classic. Usually, only the best in New Mexico and the El Paso-area who try out make it.

At that point, he had an important choice to make – football or baseball?

The right-handed catcher, left-hand hitting athlete chose baseball and informed Ruidoso head football coach Kief Johnson of his decision. Johnson, true to form, gave Davis his blessing.

The 6-foot 185-pound Davis was a key player at fullback for the Warriors last season. He will be missed.

But Davis' dream is to play baseball at the college level. And to accomplish that goal he believes he has to put all his efforts into making that dream a reality.

To that end he works Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays on conditioning (weight training and cardio-vascular) with Scott Maynard.

Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, Davis will work on his hitting, throwing and field work.

Sunday he will go to UNM and work with their coaches on hitting and take part in controlled scrimmages.

This summer he kept his hand in baseball by playing for the Socorro Mosquitoes.

"Maybe Cole's acceptance on Albuquerque's ABA team will open doors for other aspiring baseball players in the Ruidoso-area in the future," his mother Andrea Davis said.

Locals earn gold at National Senior Games in California

Local bowlers scored a win at the 2009 National Senior Games (NSG) in San Jose, Calif., in doubles competition. Entered in the 65-69 age division were Gene Nitz and partner, Tom Douglas.

They scored 1,312 pins in a 3-game series during the week of Aug. 10-14, to win the gold medal with Nitz knocking down a 704 and Douglas a 608.

Nitz also earned a silver in singles with a 722, finishing only two pins out of first place. Douglas came in ninth in the age division.

Capitan resident, Ginny Makowski, played in the 55-59 age category on the Albuquerque resident's softball team and saw her squad, "The Silver Gloves," take fourth place in the national games.

Alto swimmer, June Hence competed in the 70-74 division at the Stanford University 50-meter pool, placing eighth in the 100-meter breaststroke and sixth in the 500-meter freestyle.

She trains at the Ruidoso Athletic Club pool and has attended several national games.

Bart Young, of Ruidoso, grabbed a seventh place ribbon from 12 competitors in the 75-79 age javelin throw. This was his second appearance at the national games.

Chris Carusona, owner of Ruidoso Ford, a veteran of several trips to the NSG had his best time in years in the 60-64 age group of 25 participants in the 5-kilometer racewalk but finished out of the awards placements.

The National Senior Games for men and women, age 50 and up, in 21 sports, are held every two years at changing sites.

This year, Stanford University hosted the games and 2011 will see Houston accommodate the athletes at the university and other city venues.

To qualify, New Mexicans must place one, two or three in events at the state meet games in even-numbered years.

New Mexico-bred Sale up, shows optimism in market

TY WYANT
For the Ruidoso News

The New Mexico-bred Quarter Horse Yearling Sale at Ruidoso Downs on Friday and Saturday nights bucked a national downward trend with solid increases.

The median price was up 15 percent showing strong interest in the middle-segment of the yearling market and the overall average indicated wide-ranging support with a nine-percent increase over comparable 2008 figures.

"We're really pleased with the sale. It showed a strengthening market and that horsemen look for New Mexico-breds to run at all the money they can run at in the state," said Ruidoso Select Sale Company general manager Lowell Neumayer. "This is a strong indicator that we should have another excellent Select Yearling Sale."

The Ruidoso Select Yearling Sale on Sept. 4-6, is quarter horse racing's premier yearling sale. Last year, the sale average more than $42,000 per yearling and the sale has shown increases for each of the past five years.

Very few thoroughbred or quarter horse yearling sales have shown growth in recent years.

However, there has been evidence of recent optimism in the international thoroughbred markets with increases in the Saratoga and Deauville offerings.

"The [New Mexico-bred] sale was excellent and very encouraging for the Select Sale," said one consignor who offers yearlings in each sale. "It was good. I'm happy."

The New Mexico-Bred Quarter Horse Yearling Sale tallied gross receipts of $1,640,200 for the 164 sellers. This translates to a $10,001 average price and a median price of $6,700. That is an eight-percent increase on the gross receipts.

Sellers were pleased with the prices that their yearlings brought, evidenced by the buy-back rate being down to 18 percent this year from 22 percent last year.

Topping the offering at $62,000 was a full brother to stakes winner and former world-record holder Kendall Jackson. He is also a half-brother to the Grade 2 stakes winner Alice K White. The Dash Ta Fame son was purchased by David Barrett from the MJ Farms consignment.

Dash Ta Fame also sired the second high seller and the high-selling filly. The first foal out of Grade 2 stakes winner Blazin Nights was purchased by Johnny Trotter from the Tommy Bouldin consignment for $57,000.

WOOD

learned from my father," Wood said. "We had a very close relationship. He was based out of Lubbock and so are we.

"That's where all the groundwork is done. The foundation was laid there and, with the help of my family, is still a work in progress."

Wood's wife Sandy maintains the books and keeps the operation on budget and viable.

"She's the hidden heroine," Wood said. "She doesn't get near the credit she deserves."

Their son, Trey, a star high school quarterback, obtained his training license upon graduation and now assists his father in the 50-Quarter Horse barn at Ruidoso Downs.

"The horses in our barn are just that – our horses. We work together and communicate. We both make important decisions.

"My son and I have always been close but especially since his near-fatal hunting accident in May 2005," Wood explained.

That was a tough eight-month period for the family.

Four months after his son's near-tragedy, Wood's daughter, Lacey, became seriously ill from complications after giving birth to her daughter Bralee. She recovered and lives in Blue Ridge, Texas, with her husband and their three children.

Three months after his daughter's trauma, in January 2006, Wood was badly injured when he was kicked in the head by a horse. He recuperated in time.

"Things like this can make you closer as a family," Wood said. "Now, many times we eat, hunt, fish and share time together."

By qualifying three runners to this year's All American Futurity, the Wood barn tripled their accomplishment from last year when they had none.

"It's so important to get a horse placed in that event," Wood said. "Last season, it was emotionally frustrating when we didn't. But Trey said to me in our barn office one day, 'Don't worry, dad, next year we'll qualify.' "

Thursday, during the All American trials, Wood received a phone call from his grand-daughter Bralee in Texas.

"Is this the day of the All American, papa?" she asked the trainer.

And then she wished him good luck. It just shows how involved the entire family is in horseracing.

"We're lucky to have everyone in the Wood clan engaged in the business," the trainer said. "And we're fortunate to have good, smart owners/breeders with us. Most of them have money because they're smart.

"They are loyal clients and will stay with you through thick and thin. You win together and you lose together.

"It's nice when you like the people you train for."

Wood believes an intelligent trainer knows his or her limitations.

"Although you're always open to new clients with a good horse, you have to give each runner a hands-on approach, and that requires time and commitment," he said. "With Trey and me, the owners get a two-for-one deal and we know what we can handle."

If Wood is able to win the 2009 All American Futurity, it will fulfill a lifelong dream.

"If we don't win, it'll be OK," Wood said. "We'll get up the next morning and do what we usually do.

"And some day, when I pass on, maybe someone will say, 'He took care of his family and he was a good trainer.' "

Douglas Alan Woods

Purple haze all in my brain
Lately things just don't seem the same

Actin' funny, but I don't know why
'Scuse me while I kiss the sky

Douglas Alan Woods, 56, long time resident of Capitan, NM, passed away at his home on Monday, August 17, 2009.

Doug's first love was music. Having been raised in the "Motor City", aka Detroit, Michigan, Doug was exposed to all kinds of music at an early age...but his favorite was Rock and Roll. To this day, Doug has an extensive collection of music, and could not only "Name That Tune", but he could usually tell you the year it was recorded, as well as most of the band members. After leaving Michigan in the early seventies, Doug traveled around and lived in many states, before settling in New Mexico.

Doug's other love was being outdoors, and in particular, out in his garden. He grew all types of vegetables, and was happy to share them anybody that seemed interested in them.

Doug was employed by Cornelius Construction for 18 years.

Doug is survived by his parents, Clifford and Josephine Woods, of Truth or Consequences, NM and Michigan; his companion of 12 years, Sue Griffith, of Capitan; (sister) Gail Chamberlain and her husband Jerry, niece Rachel Paradis, and husband Jay, and [illegible] Keaton; nephew Mark [illegible]

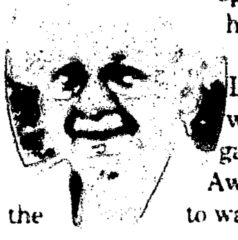
Arts in the Orchard coming up

I just looked out the patio doors and there was beautiful gorgeous double rainbow.

It is trying to rain now. Wayne, our son, reported a heavy rain in Lincoln but it didn't reach four miles west at Double Crossing.



ROSALIE DUNLAP

I want to give a belated thanks to those who sent such beautiful birthday cards to Ralph, our anniversary and all the get well and thinking of you. Thanks.

We spent the weekend in Lincoln. Ralph spent his time catching up on the shop, visiting and taking it easy.

I spent the weekend at Fort Lone Tree, north of Capitan, attending the quarterly Creative Memories workshop.

There were not as many as usual but we all had a great time sorting pictures and putting them into albums.

Everyone enjoyed their massages by Grace. We all look forward to her attending the next workshop.

The "Arts in the Orchard" is coming up Sept. 12 and 13. There will be various vendors, demonstrations and entertainment. The activities will be at the Dr. Woods Orchard and the La Placita area.

You might even see Ralph spinning on his wheel that he has made.

We spent some time at the Lincoln County Fair when we were up for the pageant. Ralph gave his award during the Awards Program then we stayed to watch the Pet Show.

The little ones are so cute with their pets and the mother's put in a lot of work on some of the costumes.

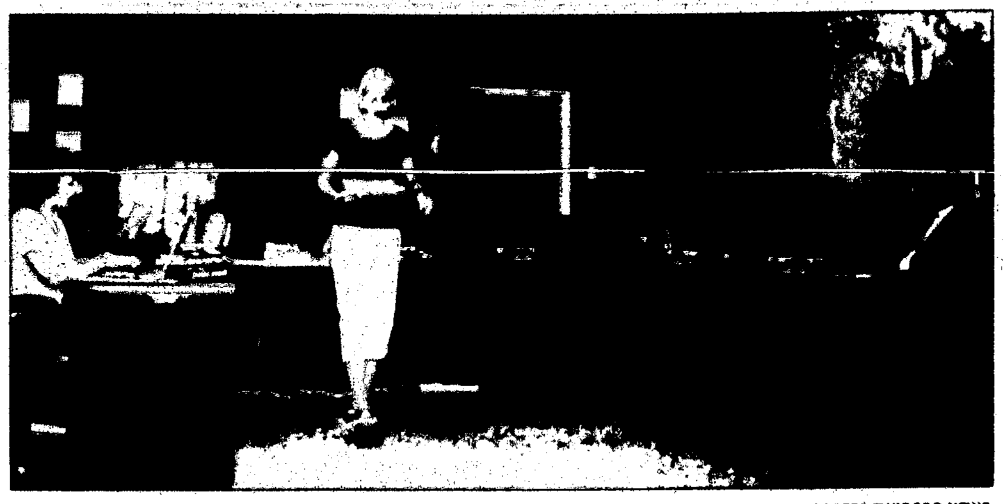
Business seems to be good this summer in Lincoln. The Dolan house has added three more tables in the "front" room. They have some beautiful tables and chairs and a china cabinet to go with them.

Doña Ana County has been declared a disaster area due to the drought.

It has been so hot and dry. Today (Monday) was a pleasant and cloudy day for a welcome change.

Watch for the school children as you drive in the early morning and evening traffic.

SCHOOL OPEN HOUSE TONIGHT



JULIE CARTER/RUIDOSO NEWS

Becca Ferguson, Carrizozo Schools Dean of Students, center, gives the Carrizozo School Board handouts of information she explains to them. The school is hosting an open house today, 5-7 p.m., beginning with a general meeting in the Old Gym. Staff will discuss the AYP designation for Carrizozo Schools for 2009-10. The school will also be seeking volunteers from parents and community for a School Advisory Council. There will be opportunity to meet the many new teachers as well as to learn about the new MESA program for 7-12th grade students. Hamburgers and hot dogs will be served to students and their families.

Elk Foundation grants to benefit seven New Mexico counties

MISSOULA, MONT. – Seven counties in New Mexico are slated for wildlife habitat conservation projects using $65,358 in new grants from the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation.

The 2009 RMEF grants will affect Catron, Lincoln, Mora, Otero, Sierra, Socorro and Taos counties.

"Our volunteers across New Mexico helped drive the 2008 fundraisers that made these grants possible.

"This is where Elk Foundation banquets, auctions and other events transform into on-the-ground conservation work, and it's part of the payday for supporters who are passionate about giving something back to the outdoors," said David Allen, Elk Foundation president and CEO.

Elk Foundation grants will help fund the following New Mexico projects, listed by county:

- Catron County – Improve forage for elk by mechanically thinning 750 acres of pinion and juniper to rejuvenate grasses, forbs and shrubs in the Pelona Mountain Area on BLM lands.
- Lincoln County – Thin 1,100 acres of encroaching pinion and juniper to stimulate browse for elk in the Lincoln National Forest.
- Mora County – Restore riparian, wet meadow and grassland habitat for elk and other wildlife in the Wagon Mound area.
- Otero County – Develop 30 maintenance-free water catchment devices and wildlife drinking locations to improve habitat for elk, mule deer, pronghorn, javelina, scaled and Gambel's quail, and other species in Otero Mesa area on BLM Lands.
- Sierra County – Prescribe burn 9,078 acres of ponderosa pine, mixed conifer, pinion and juniper to enhance forage for elk in Gila National Forest.
- Socorro County – Restore grassland and aspen habitat by thinning 1,600 acres and prescribe burning 8,433 acres of decadent conifer in Cibola National Forest.
- Taos County – Reseed native grasses on 2,243 acres to replace exotic pasture grasses and restore habitat for elk and other wildlife in Ute Mountain area on BLM lands.

Partners for 2009 projects in New Mexico include Bureau of Land Management, New Mexico Department of Game and Fish, U.S. Forest Service, other agencies, corporations, landowners and organizations.

Since 1984, the Elk Foundation and its partners have completed more than 220 conservation projects in New Mexico with a value of more than $18.4 million.

Practical alternatives

A free workshop, Practical Applications of Alternative Energy, will be held at 9 a.m. – noon, Wednesday, Sept. 16, at the County Commission meeting room in the Lincoln County Court House in Carrizozo.

The presenter will be Stirling Spencer.

The workshop is sponsored by the NRCS and the Upper Hondo and Carrizozo Soil and Water Districts.

The workshop will include practical information on and comparisons of solar, wind turbine, gas-powered and windmill energy for farm and ranch use.

Alternative energy is becoming more economical, more practical, more necessary and easier to install.

Join in and learn what sources of energy will best meet your needs.

The indoor information session will be followed by a field trip to view a solar set up and wind turbine on a nearby ranch.

A RSVP will help in planning the event. Call the Carrizozo NRCS officer at 648-2941, ext. 3 for more information or to RSVP.

Library and Chamber

The Capitan Chamber of Commerce and the Capitan Public Library will again be sponsoring the annual Village Wide Yard Sale Saturday, Sept. 12.

Anyone residing in the village of Capitan or within a 5-mile radius of the village limits are invited to participate.

Five dollars will cover advertising, a sign for your yard and your address on a hand-out map.

Entry forms will be available at the chamber and the library today.

The completed form and $5 must be submitted by noon on Friday, Sept. 11.

Maps for the sale will also be available at the library the morning of the sale.

The library's $5-a-bag book sale will be held in conjunction with the village wide yard sale rather than the first Saturday of the month.

The Not 2 Shabby Shop will be holding a sale and celebrating their three-year anniversary on Sept. 12.

If you are looking for a bargain or collectible item, this is the place to be.

Birdhouses, too

The 16th Annual Carrizozo Street Fair will be held 10 a.m. – 3 p.m., Sept. 7.

The ever-popular Bird-House Auction is also back and will held during the fair at 11:15 a.m. with local auctioneer Frank Walker at the microphone.

Thirty-seven birdhouses have been completed with 13 of those done by new artists.

They can be seen in several Carrizozo locations including Roy's Gift Gallery, City Bank, the Big Blue Auction House, Manny's Café, La BrewJa, 408 Gallery and the Four Winds Restaurant.

The Street Fair Parade will be held at 10 a.m. and is shaping up to be the best yet. Among new entries are the Shriner's cars and Steel Talons of Holloman Air Force Base.

Music in the park will be provided by Desert Wind and Paul Pino and Tone Daddies.

A cakewalk with home baked items will be held at several points in McDonald Park.

A "who can find the largest goathead" contest will be held. So look around for your entry.

Mike Lagg's Awesome Obstacle Course will be in operation sporting a new Teeter Tot.

There will also be several games for kids including the Jumping Bear Balloon.

The Annual Street Fair T-shirt, Carolina blue in color this year, will be for sale for $12.

A welcome-back rally held in the newly refurbished gym ended the first day of school with multiplied enthusiasm. A courtyard area beckons students to enjoy conversation and lunch from a reformatted lunch program including a snack bar option. At left, Superintendent Shirley Crawford pitches in to help things run smoothly in the lunch room proving she's not just another "pretty" face in administration. Soap stars hope to clean up at 36th Daytime Emmys

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

They left their respective soap operas and came back, and it paid off. Now they're both up for Daytime Emmys.

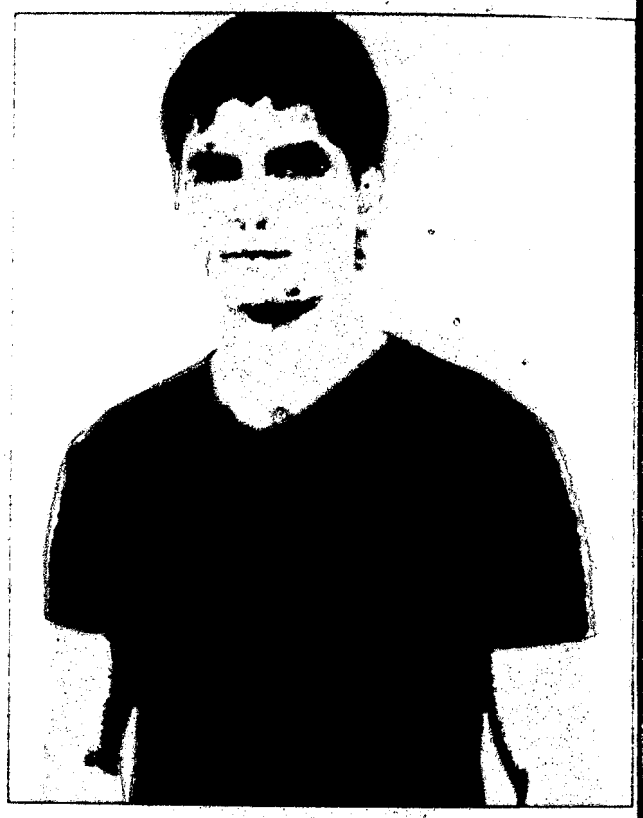
Susan Haskell, alias Dr. Marty Saybrooke on ABC's "One Life to Live," and Daniel Cosgrove -- who plays Bill Lewis on CBS soon-to-end "Guiding Light" -- are among the actors nominated in the 36th annual edition of the Daytime Emmy Awards. The CW televises the event for the first time Sunday, Aug. 30, as Vanessa Williams hosts at the Orpheum Theatre in Los Angeles.

Haskell and Cosgrove share a couple of other Daytime Emmy aspects. Each has been nominated for playing the same role before and in a different category. In fact, Haskell won the first time, in 1994 for outstanding supporting actress.

"I've gotta say, it's nice," she allows of being a nominee again. "I am not going to be shy about that. The character has always been fantastic, and when they give you a story where you get to do something that's really interesting, it's a nice treat.

"The whole thing of finding out you have a son while not really having your memory, that's pretty crazy," Haskell says of the "One Life to Live" plot that brought her a current nomination for outstanding lead actress. "I enjoy that kind of work, when it's that meaty. It's not that you can't separate what's real from what isn't, but you go home a little more tired than usual, that's for sure."

Also seen as attorney Matt Durning on "Beverly Hills, 90210," Cosgrove returns to the Daytime Emmys as an outstanding lead actor nominee, having been up for supporting work on "Guiding Light" last year. "You think, 'There are people who have been here a long time, so they're the lead actors,'" he says. "It's a weird thing. If the story's based around you, you can look at it as though you're the lead actor in that case."



Daniel Cosgrove

Such is the case this time for Cosgrove, who explains his related Daytime Emmy bid is for "Bill Lewis' wedding day. It started off with Lizzie, played by the wonderful Marcy Rylan, telling him that (his bride-to-be) Ava was not carrying his child. He found out that Ava did indeed lie, but that the baby would look like him, so he went through with the wedding. Then the child ended up not looking like him at all."

The marriage ultimately was annulled, and Bill married Lizzie recently. Cosgrove's rivals for his possible Daytime Emmy are Anthony Geary ("General Hospital," ABC), Thorsten Kaye ("All My Children," ABC), Christian LeBlanc ("The Young and the Restless," CBS) and Peter Reckell ("Days of our Lives," NBC).

Cosgrove and Haskell both had prime-time television stints during their time away from their soaps, he on such shows as "Dirty Sexy Money" and "In Justice," she most notably as Lt. Cmdr. Jordan Parker on "JAG." Haskell recalls that experience as "a lot of fun being out there and being in California. It would have been nice if it had been longer, but it's all good."

The Daytime Emmy contenders Haskell faces are Jeanne Cooper ("The Young and the Restless"), Susan Flannery ("The Bold and the Beautiful," CBS), Debbi Morgan ("All My Children") and Maura West ("As the World Turns," CBS).

"I know everyone says it's an honor just to be nominated, but I really feel that way," Haskell concludes. "It's nice to be able to think, 'I guess I'm doing something OK.'"

Brad Paisley helps deliver for fans at CMA Music Festival

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Brad Paisley performs on "CMA Music Festival: Country's Night to Rock" Monday on ABC.

A new hit album, three CMT Music Awards and a performance at the White House.

Brad Paisley has had a good summer, to put it mildly, and he knows he has his fans to thank for much of it.

In the course of his latest tour, the singer-songwriter appeared again in June at the Country Music Association's yearly Nashville event that draws many stars along with numerous buyers of music and concert tickets. The result airs as the annual ABC special "CMA Music Festival: Country's Night to Rock," which expands to three hours for the first time Monday, Aug. 31.

Paisley's contributions are from "American Saturday Night," which went straight to the top of the country charts upon its release in late June. He sings the CD's title tune, as well as "Then."

Among the many others showcased on the special are Kenny Chesney, Reba McEntire, Martina McBride, Taylor Swift, Brooks & Dunn, Sugarland, the Judds, Trace Adkins, Miranda Lambert, Kid Rock, Lady Antebellum, John Rich, Darius Rucker, Julianne Hough, Kellie Pickler, Jason Aldean, Jake Owen, Jamey Johnson and the Zac Brown Band.

The amiable Paisley remembers the feeling of test-driving his new material before the CMA Music Festival audience. "Before an album comes out, it's always a little bit like going to a poetry reading as opposed to a concert. People will hear things they know, but then it's like, 'Hmm, what's this?' Then, it's funny; a week after the album comes out, they're singing the words (to the new songs)."

Paisley likes to foster that sense of the musically unknown, invoking his respect for "the Beatles that way. It's like, 'Here comes "Revolver," then here comes "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band." ' They sound like the same band, but I don't know why, because they never did anything you ever expected. That was almost their usual mode, to do the unexpected. I'm not much like the Beatles, but in that way, I try to be.

"I have to thank country radio for that," Paisley adds. "It's one thing to take those chances and zig when you should have zagged, but they played them. When you've had big hits like 'Celebrity' and 'Little Moments' that are more typical of me, and you follow those with (the darker) 'Whiskey Lullaby,' they could have said, 'Have you got anything else like (the earlier songs)?' They've never done that to me, and they're learning who I am right along with me. I didn't know, either."

In mid-July, Paisley paid a memorable visit to Washington, D.C. -- 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., specifically.

"We were going to be on vacation when we got the call to play the White House," he recalls, so he delayed that break to perform with Alison Krauss and country veteran Charley Pride for President Barack Obama and other dignitaries.

"That's going to be a short list, through the years, of people who have played inside that building," Paisley reflects. "I'm sure Buck Owens did, and probably Frank Sinatra and Louis Armstrong did. You'll see all those names, then there'll be this 'Brad Paisley.' Anytime I'm in any kind of company like that, it's just mind-blowing. I don't feel like I'm carrying on any tradition; it's more a feeling of being lucky and inheriting something from someone I'm not related to."

Paisley was especially moved that his White House gig featured "my first batch of songs that have current events, social commentary and patriotism all rolled in. The timing was just unreal for me, my latest single being 'Welcome to the Future.' The third verse is my nod to the progress that our country made in being ready to elect a minority to that most powerful office, and more specifically, an African-American. I didn't think I'd ever see that in my lifetime."

Paisley's latest song collection is another nod to his versatility, which has encompassed the whimsical ("Celebrity," "I'm Gonna Miss Her (The Fishin' Song)") and the poignant ("Waitin' on a Woman," "He Didn't Have to Be") on a path that has earned him three Grammys, as well as multiple honors from both the Country Music Association and the Academy of Country Music.

A parent of two sons (including one who arrived in April) with his wife, "According to Jim" actress Kimberly Williams-Paisley, Paisley has been part of the Nashville scene since he began performing on the "WWVA Country Jamboree" radio broadcasts at age 13. He appreciates that so many of today's country stars -- including those featured with him on the CMA Music Festival special -- are all doing their own things under the umbrella labeled "country music."

"In the '90s, you had a million similar artists out there," Paisley says. "They were all really good, but they were so similar, country got stereotyped. Today we have Kenny (Chesney) who's known for what he does, and Keith (Urban) is Keith, and there's Taylor (Swift) and Rascal Flatts ... just all these different people with all these different sounds.

"I don't feel pressure to try to sound different from other people right now," Paisley notes. "I did back in 1999, but maybe that was just the fact that I was new. They didn't know I played the guitar yet, because my first couple of singles didn't showcase that at all, but those got me here. Now my records won't sound like Keith's, which won't sound like Sugarland's. It's fun to be us, I think."

Federer hopes to Slam the field at the U.S. Open

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

Realize it or not, this is the summer of Roger. The rest of us are merely bearing witness to it.

Yes, Roger Federer is enjoying a charmed existence these days, having attained personal and professional milestones over the past several months.

It started in May, when he won the French Open, giving him his 14th Grand Slam singles title, thus equaling Pete Sampras' career mark. The win also marked his first title in Paris and gave him the career Grand Slam, something accomplished by only five other men and nine women.

His run continued in July, when he took his sixth Wimbledon championship, a win that not only gave him his 15th Slam and enabled him to pass Sampras but also vaulted him back to the world No. 1 slot he lost to Rafael Nadal last year.

And later that month, he became a first-time father after his wife, Mirka, gave birth to twins in Switzerland.

Now he continues his run toward tennis immortality at USTA National Tennis Center in Flushing, N.Y., in the U.S. Open, which airs on ESPN2 and CBS beginning Monday, Aug. 31, and running through the men's final on Sept. 13.

"I think he's the favorite," Patrick McEnroe, an ESPN tennis analyst and former player, says of Federer. "I mean, after having won the French and Wimbledon, it's amazing what a difference a few months make. I mean, a lot of us - myself included - didn't think he'd be able to get back to No. 1 in the world. I thought he could get the record, but to do it the way he's done it in the last few months, you know he hasn't lost a match in Madrid, Paris and then Wimbledon.

"He's almost playing with house money now, and obviously he's very comfortable on the hardcourts, although interestingly, remember that sort of mid part of the year down in Florida and California, he was saying he couldn't wait to get on clay after he broke his raquet against (Novak) Djokovic down in Miami. But now he's got the confidence back."

His chief rival on the hardcourts of Flushing figures to be Nadal, who won here last year and seemed to be stealing the tennis limelight from Federer. But a case of tendinitis in both knees sidelined the 23-year-old Spaniard for three months this summer, so his ability to stand up to the pounding of playing on concrete is in question.

"I think in the big picture," McEnroe says, "Nadal has had in the last few months to look in the mirror and figure out, 'OK, I'm basically wearing myself down, battering myself down,' with the amount of physicality that he plays with and the training he does, etc., that my guess is he's really had to figure out a way to tone down how much effort he puts in on the practice court and then be able to play with the same kind of ferocity that he plays with.

"And it reminds me a little of sort of the mentality that Jim Courier had as a player. He kind of wore himself down by the time he got to the mid-20s because he practiced so hard and trained so hard that it ended up being he didn't have a lot left when he needed it later in his career. Now Nadal is obviously a better player and is a more talented player, but I think he's had to come to grips with the same kind of thing. I mean, he's only (23) and he's got significant tendinitis knee problems, so I think it's going to be very interesting to see. Obviously, normally the hardcourts is what beats him up the most, but it's sort of surprising to me that it was really the long run on the clay that sort of took him out there for a couple of months. So, I mean for the sake of tennis, I think we all hope that he comes back and is 100 percent."

And then there is Andy Roddick, who is playing a more consistent game this year, as evidenced by his epic loss in the Wimbledon final to Federer in July.

"I think he's more mature in every way," McEnroe says. "I mean, he's more mature emotionally, he's more mature physically. Obviously, getting himself in even better condition with the weight loss (that) has been a huge help for him. He's more mature in the way he's playing the game, in that he is more consistent, he's more well-rounded, and I think he's got a great shot at the Open."

On the women's side, there is the curious case of Dinara Safina, who despite her world No. 1 ranking has yet to win a Grand Slam final. She got to the top ranking by being incredibly consistent, winning consecutive tournaments in Madrid and Rome and had four finals appearances, including the Australian and French Opens. But embarassing letdowns at the French Open and Wimbledon have many questioning whether her ranking is deserved.

"She's obviously got major mental problems in the key moments of majors," he says. "You know, you can't hide from that reality after what happened at Wimbledon and the French Open - it was almost hard to watch for a player as good as she is. But look, if you keep knocking on the door, eventually it's going to happen, and she's obviously got the game and the ability. It's a psychological block at this point. Now there have been other great players who have not had immediate success when they get to the finals of majors. I mean, even Andre Agassi, Ivan Lendl. I'm not sure she's at that level, but she's certainly capable of doing it."

Of course, no discussion of women's Grand Slam contenders is complete without Venus and Serena Williams, who between them own five Flushing titles.

"You've got to like the Williams sisters' chances," McEnroe says. "I mean, they're just more comfortable in that environment, they've been there many times. When they're playing their best, I think they can dominate the other top women in the world. ..."

Dinara Safina competes in the U.S. Open, airing on ESPN2 and CBS beginning Monday.

Veteran actor Jean Rochefort also appears.

Horoscopes

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20
Aries, recuperation from an injury or illness will take time. Don't try to do it all now. You'll have plenty of time to catch up in the weeks to come.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21
Stop being so argumentative, Taurus. Those around you will grow tired of hearing how you're always right. Accept that someone else's opinion might be valid.

GEMINI - May 22/Jun 21
Gemini, your love life could use some work. You can't seem to get along with your partner no matter what you do. Instead of butting heads, sit down and calmly work it out.

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22
Cancer, instead of being so generous to others, start concentrating on helping your immediate family. They're in need of your love and attention. Quality family time is the goal.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23
Normally a go-getter, Leo, you're ready to throw in the towel in regard to a project that isn't working out. But don't give up. You'll get relief soon.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, now is not the time to make rash career decisions. You have too many responsibilities and bills coming in. Even though your job may not appeal to you, stick with it.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Libra, if you don't make a move soon in your love life, you're going to miss the opportunity. Stop looking for the perfect Mr. or Mrs. Right. Rather, look outside your comfort zone.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Watch how much you spend this week, Scorpio. You could go overboard if you're not paying attention. Better leave the credit card at home and use cash instead.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
Sagittarius, you have put all your eggs in one basket and now that things haven't worked out you're left wondering what to do. Don't worry, family members won't let you down.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
Someone in your family has stepped on your toes, Capricorn. Rather than lash out, keep your feelings to yourself and be the bigger person in this situation.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
You want to support a friend, Aquarius, but you just don't agree with this person's motives. Don't get involved in the situation; you'll regret it later.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20
Pisces, overindulging in all areas of your life is not a healthy way to live. Rethink your personal goals and streamline.
