In Alaskan Waters With the Geodetic Survey

At the left is shown the steamer employed by the coast and geodetic survey of the United States government in mapping Alaskan waters. At the right is the northernmost point on the Alaska-Canadian boundary, marked by the flags of the two nations. At this point the 141st meridian plunges into the Arctic ocean.

Staff of Life in Many Countries

Various Methods of Making Bread Described.

Washington, D. C.—"Though bread may pose as the pancake, the scone, the tortilla, the carta di musica, and the biscuit in various countries, getting the wherewithal to buy it or the preparation of it is of necessity one of the chief interests of man and woman in every clime—even though in the South sea islands it grows on trees," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The Arab woman digs a pit in the sand and builds a hot fire in it. Then she rakes away the embers and plasters her dough on the hot sides. When the bread is done, she picks it off with a pair of tongs.

"Wrapping Paper" Bread.

"The deliciously crisp Persian bread which is bought in enormous flat pancake-like sheets sometimes 30 inches long, is prepared in a number of ways, but that customarily seen for sale in the capital city of Persia is baked in large ovens in which the dough is spread out on great piles of red-hot pebbles. And in olden days there was no profiteering in the staff of life in the Persian kingdom. A baker who left the straight and narrow path of his just profits was thrust into his own oven and nicely browned.

"In some parts of the Arab kingdom the husband does the household marketing and after having purchased various necessary commodities, he then buys a large sheet of native bread, which is of delightful pliability, and rolls up his purchases in it.

"The Egyptian baker makes 'puff-balls,' because he wishes to get the largest loaf out of the smallest amount of flour. One writer describes it as a hole wrapped in a crust. The dough is rolled out as thin as a pie crust and the edges of two pieces joined all around; the heat does the rest.

In Norway "Bread Hangs High."

"The Ecuadorean woman follows a very interesting old custom. She bakes bread in the shape of people and animals for All Saints day.

"The Sardinian housewife has a big baking day once every week. Flour is kneaded in large earthenware bowls and rolled very thin on a table that is so low that the cook must kneel before it. Nearly every home has its own flour mill made of black lava and fashioned almost like those unearthed at Pompeii and Herculaneum. The woman performs the whole process of cleaning and grinding the wheat, sifting the flour, and baking the bread. She uses very little yeast and her baking must be done to a turn because the supply must last for a week. The large thin circular pieces are called 'carta di musica,' meaning paper to write music on.

"The well-known, flat bread of the Norwegian peasant is made by mixing coarse barley meal and water, rolling the dough thin and baking it over a round flat baking stone under which a fire of fagots is kept burning. Enough of this bread is made at one baking to last a whole winter. Holes are punched in the cakes so that they can be strung on a pole and placed across the ceiling. It often happens in some of the peasant homes of northern Norway that a man can reach up and tear off a piece of this bread as he wants it.

Tortillas for Mexicans.

"In Syria the hearth is often two stones between which fagots are placed and the bread is cooked on an iron plate placed on top.

"Some of the Indian tribes of the Pacific slopes of the United States make a kind of flour from acorns which they soak in boiling water, mould into a flat cake and cook in the sun. The tortilla of the Mexican is almost as much a part of his costume or background as his huge peaked hat. It is a kind of flapjack which it takes a cultivated taste and a gastronomic trick or two to appreciate. It is made from Indian corn which has been parboiled and crushed into a paste and is baked on an iron or stone plate but not enough to make the tortilla brown.

"Cassava root makes one of the principal foods of the people of tropical America. From the coarse meal, somewhat resembling oatmeal, thin round cakes are made.

Scotch and Indians Have Scones.

"In India the natives eat round, flat cakes of unleavened wheat bread called 'chapattics.' The cook shapes them with his hands and bakes them on a griddle on the coals. They resemble to some extent the thin sheets made of wheat flour and water, called scones, which are eaten in Scotland.

"One of the most interesting of the unleavened breads is the Passover bread which has been used by orthodox Jews since the time of Moses. It is made much like the most primitive bread—a mixture of flour and water baked in round cakes—and resembles the calcined remains of cakes made from coarsely ground grain which have been recovered from the Swiss lake-dwellings of the Stone Age. In those days, however, the grains used were barley and a one-grained wheat.

First Bread From Barley.

"Egyptologists believe that barley was the first grain used by the ancients in their bread-making, but wheat must have come into use soon after barley. Loaves of bread are represented in sculpture on ancient monuments. There were two quite familiar varieties—a small round loaf somewhat like our muffin and an elongated roll sprinkled on top with seeds like the modern Vienna roll. Incidentally the Vienna roll was introduced into the United States during the Civil war when a 'war bakery' operated in the basement of the United States capitol turned out products to feed the populace of Washington.

"The Egyptians evidently first learned the use of leaven and taught it to the Greeks, Jews and Romans who passed it on through the nations they subjected.

"No story on bread would be complete without at least a reference to the black bread of Russia, which has for so long been the staff of life to the masses. The United States has its distinctly typical forms of bread, such as the hoe-cake, the corn-pone and the 'spoon bread' of Dixie, and the rich brown mass that is served with Boston's Saturday night beans."

$16,000,000 Given Ex-Enemy Aliens

Washington.—About $16,000,000 has been restored to 5,500 former enemy aliens by the alien property custodian under provisions of the Winslow bill permitting the return to owners of trusts seized during the war up to $10,000 in value. A total of 12,500 claims have been filed under this act.

Thomas W. Miller, the custodian, in a statement issued recently, indorsed bills introduced in congress providing for investment of seized funds while in the hands of the government, declaring that if enacted, they would "place in channels of trade a large amount of funds now lying dormant."

Funds seized by the alien property custodian from German and Austrian fire insurance companies of California would be attached for $2,500,000, representing interest on policies held by victims of the San Francisco fire, under claims filed with the State department by the Policyholders' Association of San Francisco.

Foreign Profiles for N. Y. Anniversary Coins

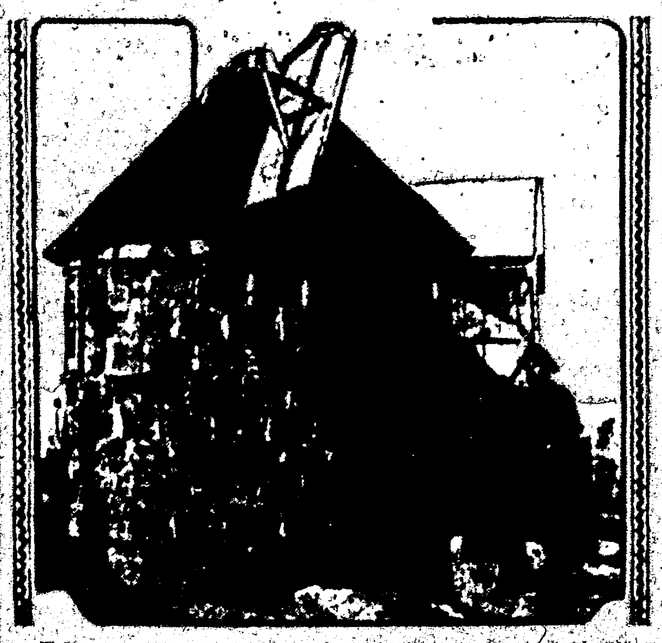
New York.—In connection with the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of New York state in May, announcement has been made that 100,000 special 50-cent pieces will be issued shortly. New Netherlands and the middle Atlantic states were settled in 1624 by the Walloons, French and Belgians. One side of the coin will show the profiles of Admiral Coligny and William the Silent. On the other side will be a picture of the ship New Netherland sailing for America. The designs were suggested by Dr. John Baer Stoudt and were worked out by George Morgan, the artist, at the Philadelphia mint.

The Fifth National bank of New York is agent for these coins, but they will be handled by all national banks.

Old Documents Displayed

Washington.—The originals of the nation's most historic" documents—Declaration of Independence and the Constitution—long stored in a vault and displayed only on special occasions, now are on public view in a specially constructed shrine in the congressional library.

Observatory Built by Iowa Farmer



Being seventy-two years of age is no handicap to Frank Carrington, a farmer of Washta, Ia., and an authority on the solar system. Carrington determined to build an observatory on his farm and proceeded to do so. While not very large in size, it is equal in effectiveness to many of the country's largest observatories. The entire roof may be turned in any direction with the slightest pressure of the hand. The cost of building this one-man observatory was just seventy-five dollars.

Further study of the estimate and probable surplus available for tax reduction will be made before completing the various schedules.

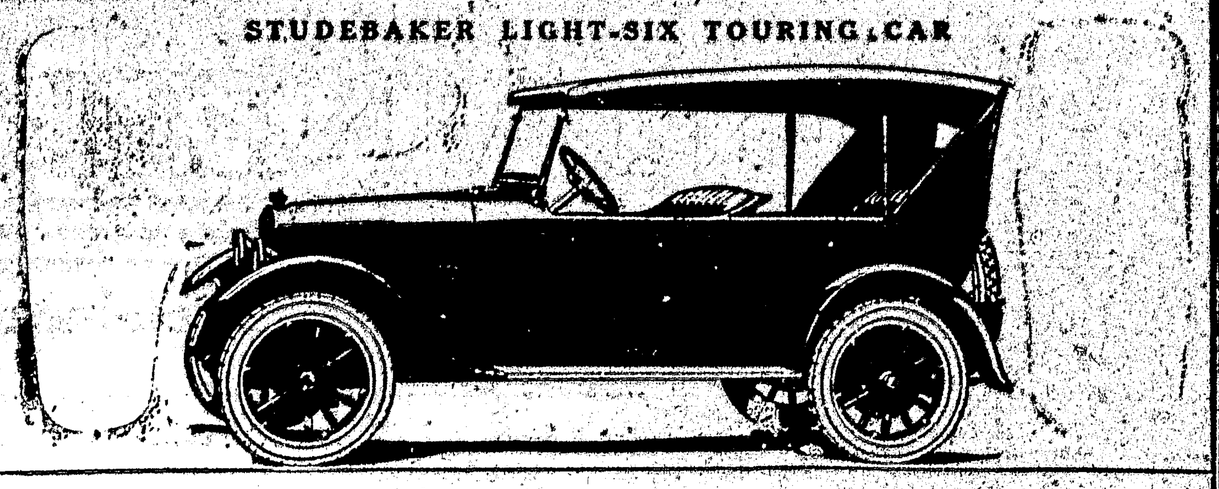
STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX TOURING CAR



Mark This Example

of what Studebaker alone can do

STUDEBAKER is the world's largest maker of quality cars. Our assets are $20,000,000. We have $50,000,000 in model plants.

Our sales have almost trebled in three years, because of our matchless values. Last year, 145,167 people paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

Come and learn why

Come and see, before you buy a car, the reasons for this success. See this Light-Six Touring Car, for instance.

Built of the finest steels. Of the very same steels we use in the costliest of our cars. On some we pay makers 15% premium to get just the quality specified.

Built under an engineering department which costs us $500,000 yearly.

Each car subjected in the building to 32,000 separate inspections.

Same steels, same workmanship as in the costliest Studebaker models.

Two great features

There are many features in this Light-Six found in no rival car. But we want to mention two in particular.

The motor is perfectly balanced. That means long life and freedom from vibration.

The reason is this: We machine all surfaces of our crankshafts and connecting rods by 61 operations. Just as was done in Liberty Airplane Motors. This is done in no other car at our prices.

Then we use more Timken bearings in this car than are used in any competitive car within $1,500 of our price. And Timken bearings take up wear as no other bearings do.

Why this price?

This Light-Six Touring Car is priced very low. Built under ordinary conditions such a car would cost you from $200 to $400 more.

But we build 150,000 cars per year. We make our own parts. We build our own bodies in $10,000,000 body plants. We have 12,500 up-to-date machines. Our major costs are divided by enormous output.

The result is a value no other maker even tries to match in a fine car of this size. Come see what it means to you.

Send for the Book

Mail us the coupon below. We will send you free our new book that will inform you on five simple things which reveal the value of a car. For instance—

It will enable you to look at any car and tell whether it's been cheapened to meet a price or offers true quality.

It will tell you why some cars rattle at 20,000 miles and others don't. It shows one single point in a closed car which measures whether you're getting top or medium quality. The book is free. Clip the coupon now.

How It Excels

Steels are identical with the steels in the costliest car we make.
More Timken bearings than in any competitive car within $1,500 of its price.
Genuine leather cushions, 10 inches deep. Curled hair filling.
All-steel body.
One-piece windshield—rainproof.
Attractive cowl lights.
Quick-action cowl ventilator.
Non-skid cord tires.
Transmission and ignition locks.
Perfect motor balance.

The Forest Service are laying out a large number of lots on the Bonito which they will offer for sale or lease to tourists and others who wish to stretch their tents or build summer cottages so they can spend their vacations on the shores of the beautiful Bonito.

A. M. McCarty well known farmer and good citizen of the Ancho-Jicarilla country was here this week on business. Mr. McCarty is a thorough farmer and when the seasons are anything like good he always raises an abundance.

THE MOUNTAINEER extends its sincere good wishes to young Mr. Walker and trusts he will live to be 100 years old and be intensely happy all along life's journey.

ATTENTION PLEASE!

12:00 o'clock Tuesday at Capitan—it is rumored, and I am just informed that my brother W. B. Payne is being detained at Roswell to be arrested and brought back to Carrizozo, charged with the burning of the Titsworth store. He was on his way to Texas in company with his little boys to bring his wife home, and being intimately acquainted with his affairs, I am in a position to assure his friends that he is not guilty of this charge or complicity in it, and therefore please suspend judgement until he can prove his innocence. We feel and in fact know that SOME ONE is doing all this in order to "muddy the waters" for the purpose of obscuring crimes of greater importance.

Notes From Navajo Bend.

What seems to be reliable news is to the effect that the old Miser has made another deposit in the Wampus Creek Bank, right near the pool where he does the most of his bathing and fishing.

The Hask Knife Boss roped Miss Daisy Witherspoon by mistake this morning thinking she was a side hill Geiser. Miss Daisy had to apologize to the court for appearing the first time in her New Coveralls, Judge Bloodgood remitted her fine with the understanding that she must teach the other ladies of the Bend to wear them.

One of our State Senators has written our efficient Postmaster for data on Wampus Creek, preparatory to passing a Bill for the benefit of the dry farmers, but the Senator did not say what denomination the bill would be. It is hoped though that it will be as much as a $20.00 bill.

The Mails were all late this week on account of a change in the schedule—three drivers are complaining about the change considerable and have petitioned the Postal Authorities to pay them extra for being late.

Judge Bloodgood fined the local Bootlegger yesterday for selling illicit Liquor to all the inhabitants in the bend but him self. The Bootlegger says he would take it to the supreme court only for the fact that he might got fined for the same offence when it reaches that resort.

Ned Tubbs eldest son disposed of all his real estate one day this week by washing his face and hands. He says the rest of the dirt on his body is private property. He is recovering from the operation nicely.

Some time ago Bud Brimberry sent to a mail order house for a woman—with the full intention of proposing to her—he picked out the prettiest one in the Catalogue which was number 19D471 and whose name was Georgette Crepe-White—price $5.98. Today Bud reports every thing favorable and he is expecting her on most any early mail as her dress has already already arrived and he has it in his possession.

Rin andd Dubb Vanwrankle bath combed their heads and went fishing today and they say they made a big catch and will comb again in a few days.

Niggor Lasses reports the death of his old hound—one of his neighbbors caught the sucking eggs and killed him with a shot gun by accident.

Rocky Rivers has changed politics and will join the Rangers so he says, and forever hereafter vote for the other man regardless who he is.

Grandpa Witherspoon who has been a citizen of the Bend ever since the year his brother had the Oklahoma itch says the largest snow he ever saw in this country was a Canadian who lived here long enough to die.

There will be news next week as the old Needle Doctor will pull a tooth for Snakey Ed and get shot as soon as Ed can get his gun—full particulars cannot be obtained at this writing.

A Mr. Whitaker representing the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, was here and spoke to a representative audience of our people concerning the importance highways and play grounds and especially in the interest of a scenic route from Roswell to Pine Lodge through Capitan, the Bonito, Cloudcroft, the Indian Reservation and on to the Carlsbad cave.

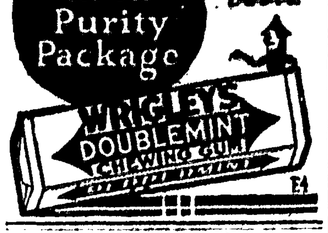
SEALED in its Purity Package



Had No Weather

The first result of man's study of the weather was apparently to run away from it. Sir Napier Shaw, the English authority on meteorology, points out that the first civilization of which we have much record, that of Egypt, existed where there was really no weather. This civilization may have been the result, he says, of a migration of all the bright individuals or races from other parts of the world, who fled their inclement native climes and settled in Egypt. A similar movement seemed to be in progress at the present day.

LIVE STOCK

FEEDLOT LAMENESS REQUIRES ATTENTION

All farm animals are subject to foot-rot, possibly sheep more than the others. It is usually associated with dirt and barnyard filth. Mud sometimes dries between the claws to the consistency of a brick, which causes an abrasion, and this paves the way for necrophorus infection. Most outbreaks are infectious. After the lameness has become severe there is a slight discharge, with very offensive odor, and the hoof becomes rotten, usually in one spot which soon spreads to the deeper structures. After a fortnight the claws begin to separate, the animal is enthrifty and in great pain; the claws may slough, and the animal be unable to stand if more than one foot is affected.

Cases of lameness in the feed lots should not be neglected—employ a veterinarian if possible. Clean the foot and pare away all dead tissue. Apply a two per cent solution of silver nitrate or a five per cent solution of zinc chloride. Pine tar might then be applied, and bandages placed in such a way as to not only protect the foot from dirt but to keep the claw from spreading. Keep the animal on clean, dry ground.

Sometimes it becomes necessary to treat a whole flock and special attention to individuals cannot be accomplished. In such cases the sheep may be made to stand for five minutes in a pan containing an antiseptic solution. The solution should be deep enough to cover the feet. A solution made by dissolving one pound of copper sulphate in a gallon of water may be used, or dissolve one pound of fresh chloride of lime in three gallons of water. This treatment should be repeated and continued as long as necessary. Separate the diseased animals from the herd and place them in a clean pasture.—George H. Glover, Colorado Agricultural College.

Silage With Legume Hay Is Excellent for Ewes

Corn silage is a most excellent feed for the breeding ewe. Fed alone, however, it is a poor ration. It needs balancing. In practice it is balanced to economic advantage by feeding it along with a good legume hay, such as red clover, alfalfa, alsike clover, a good quality of sweet clover, or soy bean hay. If the ewes that are fed silage are given all of any one of these leguminous hays that they will clean up in conjunction with their silage feed, they will take enough of the balancing hay to make the ration acceptable.

During the winter time a ration composed of silage along with one or more of these leguminous hays is adequate during the early part of the season. After that, however, or about a month or so before the ewes begin to lamb, it is a good plan to feed some concentrated grain or grains, such as oats, bran, barley, or corn. A mixture of oats and corn in equal parts is splendid, or barley and oats is good.

A little grain fed continuously for a month or six weeks before the lambs arrive creates a desirable reserve for future milk production.

Practice of Inbreeding Requires Much Caution

When may inbreeding be practiced? This question is answered by Prof. B. W. Fairbanks of Colorado Agricultural college as follows: When the breeder understands the fundamental principles of breeding; when he is dealing with excellent individual animals and when these animals are of good ancestry. Line breeding, he says, has all the advantages of inbreeding without its disadvantages, but there is a place for inbreeding, if practiced with discretion.

Live Stock Hints

Give your horses and cattle a good bed. Bedding is cheap.

Hogs in dry lots should always have access to alfalfa in racks.

Mutton and wool are crops that require little labor and bring good returns.

A good time to replace scrub stock with pure breds is when price of live stock is low.

The hog will produce more meat from 100 pounds of feed than will any other animal.

Two slogans for live stock men: "Feed or get fooled" and "Keep the best; sell the rest."

Hogs are profitable when fed on the by-products of dairying. Hogs and cows make a good combination.

Impure drinking water accounts for much sickness among hogs. The first consideration is to supply plenty of pure water for the hog lots. This is as important as good feeding.

When well managed the hog is one of the best sources of farm income. Hogs have paid for many a farm. You can sell hogs any time of the year and at almost any age and weight.

A liberal amount of hay or straw should be fed the animals before they are turned on the green alfalfa. After they have become used to it the hay is not necessary, but it is advisable to keep an ample supply of hay for the stock grazing on alfalfa.

Plenty of bedding not only keeps the stock warm and clean, and therefore for that reason alone should be practiced, but it adds much humus to the manure and keeps the liquids from wasting. Thus, as usual, it pays in dollars and cents to be humane.

Paper Film Invented

A recent British invention, which may completely revolutionize the film industry, enables paper films to be projected on the screen by means of reflection from light placed in front of the reels, not behind them, as at present. These new paper films are said to possess many advantages over the ordinary celluloid kind. They are noninflammable, they do not crack or tear, and last considerably longer than celluloid. They can also be made very cheaply, and may be sent through the mails in ordinary paper wrappers.

CORNS

Thousands afflicted with nasal catarrh have found Zonite highly efficacious as treatment for it. Spray the nose morning and night according to directions on bottle. Tones up the mucous membranes and kills germs without injuring body tissues. Doesn't irritate or burn and is positively non-poisonous.

Zonite KILLS GERMS

Too Liberal

A doctor was pleased with a certain aerated water, and aided its sale by his recommendation. He acted solely in the interest of humanity generally, and expected no return.

To his surprise there came one morning an effusive letter from the company, stating that his recommendations had done them so much good that they "ventured to send him a hundred—"

There the page came to an end.

"This will never do," said the doctor. "It is very kind, but I could not think of accepting anything."

Here he turned the page, and found the sentence run, "of our circulars for distribution."

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly."—Mrs. I. A. HOLFORD, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of those troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holford, give it to their daughters.

Cautious Porter

The lording had just arrived at the tiny North Wales railway station, and John Evans Jones, the porter, had dragged from the guard's van a store of luggage, which included several portmanteaux, a camera, fishing tackle and golf clubs and a particularly ferocious bulldog.

"Aw, portah," commanded his lordship, "just put—aw—my portmanteaux, cameraw, steeteraw, on a cab."

John Evans Jones surveyed the bulldog dubiously.

"Yes, sir," he said slowly. "Er—the steeteraw won't bite, will he, sir?"

Sardinia Becomes Modern

For years and years the native costumes of the people who inhabit Sardinia have been famous for their vivid and harmonious colorings, but no great has been the inroad of modern business and travel the last ten years that these extremely highly-colored clothes are steadily being replaced by modern European clothes of somber hues. Today the modern clothes are noticeable for their great popularity among the natives.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, made up of over 1,000 business men, is negotiating with the forest service for a tract of about 200 acres in the Lincoln National forest for a big summer camp. The Lincoln forest is now one of the most popular playgrounds in the state and the records of the forest service show that approximately 100,000 people visited the forest last year. It is the plan of the chamber to work out a scenic loop to the Carlsbad caves from the camp site which will be one of the finest drives in the entire state. Work will be started at once and the new building will be erected as fast as the material can be placed on the ground. When all the work is completed the Raton fairgrounds will be one of the best equipped in the state.

English Life Getting Longer

The editor of Whitaker's Almanac, for years accepted as a handbook of much miscellaneous information in Great Britain and the world, is preparing to change his tables relating to the expectancy of life, which is now ten years longer than a few years ago, due to the work of the various public health organizations.

Trichinosis

Trichinosis, a painful and often fatal disease, is caused by a small parasite that is sometimes present in pork. The trichina parasite is so small that it can only be seen with a microscope, and hogs harboring it show no symptoms nor does the diseased pork appear different from pork not diseased. All pork should be thoroughly cooked before eating, as that is the only sure way of killing the germ of the disease.
