Has Unique Form of Government

Chile's Constitution Is Oldest in Western Hemisphere.

Washington.—"The unusual situation of the President of Chile attempting unsuccessfully to resign, and instead being sent by congress on a six months' leave of absence, draws attention to that country's constitution, which in many ways is the most interesting in Latin America," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

President Arturo Alessandri, to whom reference is made, is now living in Argentina while his country is in the hands of a military and naval committee and a new cabinet formed under this "junta."

"The Chilean constitution," continues the bulletin, "has existed since 1833 and is the oldest constitution of a republic in the Western hemisphere except that of the United States. It is an intimate mixture of the governmental principles of the United States and those of Europe. While it was not designed with such an idea in view, developments in recent years seemed to be steering Chile toward a real parliamentary system; but the recent coup d'etat appears to have been in the opposite direction.

"Under the Chilean constitution of 1833 the American system of three separate functions—executive, legislative and judicial—was adopted; but unlike the United States, Chile incorporated a system of federal centralization which is probably more extreme than in any other republic. The President appoints the 23 intendants, who correspond roughly to our governors. With the intendants nominating them, he also appoints the 62 governors who rule over districts such as might be formed by groups of counties in the United States. The governors appoint subdelegates to administer what might roughly correspond to townships, and the subdelegates in turn appoint inspectors for small precincts. The whole elaborate civil hierarchy centers in the President and is ruled from the national capital.

Has Council of State.

"The constitution of 1833 provided for the indirect election of the President for five years through a sort of electoral college; the indirect election of senators to the provinces for six-year terms; and the direct election of members of the lower house from the districts for three-year terms. There was no vice president. The President was to appoint a cabinet of six members to be confirmed by the senate, and the succession passed to the secretary of the interior if the Presidential chair was vacated, a new Presidential election to be called immediately. A sort of connecting link was established between the Executive and the legislature in the form of a council of state made up of the President, the cabinet, five additional members chosen by the President, and six chosen by congress.

"The constitution has had only slight modifications. The provision establishing the Roman Catholic church and prohibiting other forms of public worship has been amended to permit other religions to celebrate their rites in their own buildings and civil marriages are now recognized. The provision setting up property qualifications for voters has been liberalized until now literacy is the chief test.

"In late years, however, the more liberal parties have gained strength steadily, and it was an alliance of such a complexion that in 1920 elected the recently ousted President. What the President stood for when he took office is indicated by the principal recommendations in his message of June, 1921. He advocated improved legal status for women, labor welfare, complete separation of church and state, decentralization of the government, creation of the office of vice president, abolition of the permanent committee of congress and the council of state, and the popular election of President. The closeness of the latest election is probably one factor in the recent unprecedented ousting of the President. The election was so nearly a tie that a special tribunal—called a court of honor—was set up to decide it. This body declared Alessandri to be elected by a vote in the electoral college, 177 to his opponent's 166.

Longer, Narrower California.

"Financial difficulties made up one factor in the recent events which culminated in the ousting of the President. Chile's income is largely dependent on the worldfamous nitrate deposits of her northern deserts. Two-thirds of the republic's revenue comes from export taxes on the chemical. The remainder is made up of miscellaneous income duties and internal taxes.

"Chile may be superficially compared to California with directions reversed. It stretches in a narrow strip with the Pacific on one side and a mountain range on the other and embraces dry desert, a productive temperate region, and an area of moisture and cold. Whereas California is only 800 miles long, however, Chile is 2,700 miles in length. To correspond with Chile in extent of latitude covered, California would have to arrow on the south a strip twice as long as Mexico's Lower California, and would have to extend northward to the lower tip of Alaska's 'Panhandle.'

Plan New Ways to Use Corncobs

Methods Are Devised to Avoid Waste of 20,000,000 Tons Yearly.

Washington.—Science has found a way to avoid the yearly waste of 20,000,000 tons of corncobs in the corn belt of the United States, according to a report of research work prepared by Frederick E. La Forge and Gerard Slade of the bureau of chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, and O. E. Sweeney, head of the chemical engineering department of Iowa State college, for Engineering Foundation. The Foundation, in commenting on the report, said that chemists and engineers appear to have opened a path to new industries based on waste products, which deals with the discovery of new processes for making the products commercially available and reveals their value.

"One county in Missouri grows a certain kind of Indian corn because its large cobs make good tobacco pipes," says the Foundation. "Some cobs are burned as fuel on farms. A 'people sugar' flavor is made by boiling cobs with water. Meat smoked with cobs has a flavor said to be better than that from hickory. There are other minor uses.

"But what use can be made of the 15,000,000 or 21,000,000 tons of cobs yielded annually in the corn belt? Chemists of the Department of Agriculture, working on the subject since 1919, have discovered new values in cobs and processes for making them commercially available.

Iowa College Investigates.

"Iowa State college is investigating production from cobs of furfural, oxalic and acetic acids, methanol (wood alcohol), charcoal, activated char, pitch, tar, oils, cob flour, furfuran, pentit, a plastic material and fermentation products.

"When cobs are cooked for a few minutes under pressure in superheated water, adhesive materials are extracted. These compounds belong to the carbo-hydrate group of chemicals, to which also belong starch, dextrine and sugars.

"Pentosan adhesives can be used for pasting fiber boxes and cheap paper bags and for other purposes not demanding high-grade, strong adhesives. A special use proposed is in manufacture of briquettes from fine sizes of anthracite, of which a superabundance results in preparing that coal for market. Thus utilization of waste cobs could enhance materially the value of near-waste coal; much experimental work has been done.

"When cobs are digested for about two hours with steam under 150 pounds pressure per square inch, with a very little sulphuric acid, a different product results, furfural.

"It can be obtained also from oat hulls, bagasse, bran and other vegetable substances. Its use has been limited because of the high cost by methods heretofore employed. In 1920, possibly 60 pounds were used in the United States, only as a laboratory reagent; the price was about $30.

"In France and Germany furfural has been made a by-product in the manufacture of alcohol from wood waste. The Miner laboratories of Chicago, by independent research, developed a process for furfural from oat hulls in large quantities. Annual production is now thousands of pounds, and since 1922 the price has been reduced to 25 cents.

Processes Worked Out.

"Research workers of the Department of Agriculture, continuing their investigation at the Arlington Farm, Virginia, have worked out practical processes and equipment for furfural from cobs in large quantities, at still lower cost. On a ratio of 50 tons of cobs a day, yielding four and one-half tons, furfural could be produced for about 6 cents a pound, making no allowance for income from by-products. Furfural can now be made at much lower cost than formaldehyde, and can replace it in a number of fields.

"Attention has turned to discovery of additional uses for furfural and enlargement of its market. More than sixty patents on its production and utilization have been issued, mostly within the last five years, in the United States and other countries. During the war a shortage of acetone could easily have been met by distilling cobs.

"There is a promising field in the manufacture of resins similar to bakelite, suitable for parts of electrical instruments, for printing plates and various other molded articles. These phenol furfural resins are infusible and insoluble; they have high insulating qualities, great strength and great resistance to water and chemicals. They have a large field in radio equipment. Phonograph records may be made from them. There are also innumerable uses for fiber impregnated with these resins where great toughness and resistance are of value."

DOESN'T NEED TWO ARMS

When blood poisoning set in his left arm, necessitating its amputation, Henry Wernsing of Baltimore couldn't think of changing his job. So he continued at the perilous tasks of a steeplejack. His right arm has developed great strength, and he also uses his teeth, as shown in this picture.

TEST NEW METHOD OF RAISING TREASURE BURIED IN THE SEA

Inventors Strive to Regain Gold Cargo Which Went to the Bottom in 1799.

Terschelling, Holland.—A new process for salvaging sand-buried treasure of the gold cargo of the British frigate Lutine, which has battled a century's efforts, has just been put into operation here with every promise of success.

The Lutine was wrecked on a sand bank near this island during a violent gale in the night of October 9, 1799. Its crew of more than 400 perished. Its cargo consisted of several million dollars worth of gold bars and specie.

Fifty feet of sand covers the wreck and repeated efforts have resulted in the recovery of only about $500,000 and the ship's bell, now at Lloyds in London. At first divers were put to work, but later machinery was used to get at the wreck through the thick layer of sand by means of large suction pumps.

Now a new apparatus, invented by a Dutch engineering firm, is being tried. It does away with the suction process and substitutes hydraulic pressure. A tube is driven into the sand and steel grapplers at the bottom seize any objects beneath it. The machine can work in any weather that is not too rough for the salvage vessel to lie out.

During three days that the new apparatus worked recently no gold bars were raised, but indications are certain, according to the inventors, that the right spot has been struck and hope are entertained that the rest of the Lutine's precious cargo, estimated at between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000, soon will be wrested from Davy Jones' locker.

A girl may strike a man as a pretty mine—and hit him later as an angry wife.

"Garden of Eden" Gives Up Bones of New Species

Urga, Mongolia.—Prof. Peter Kozloff, Russian explorer, has discovered near here an enormous number of skeletons of hitherto unknown animals and many human remains which lead him to believe that Mongolia may have been the birthplace of man and the point of origin of a considerable part of the animal and reptile world.

Among the fossils already unearthed by Prof. Kozloff and his assistants are those of 35 quadrupeds of undesignated species; 15 birds of varying sizes; 100 reptiles, snakes and fishes, and more than 1,000 large insects.

It will be recalled that Professor Kozloff last June discovered several remarkable tombs near here belonging to the Chinese soldiers and princes who ruled Mongolia at a time antedating the pharaoh Tut Ankh Amen of Egypt. It will also be remembered that Prof. Roy Chapman Andrews of the American Museum of Natural History, New York city, startled the scientific world last year by discovering nests of dinosaur eggs.

A verdict completely exonerating Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney from all charges brought against him by Evan Burrows Montague, dancer, in a $1,000,000 breach of promise suit and holding that he had been the victim of a conspiracy was returned by a jury in the United States District Court at San Francisco.

E. W. Curran paid with his life for a joke. Riding in an automobile driven by C. Martin, he pulled Martin's cap down over his eyes and the car went over a 50-foot embankment near Fort Wright, Wash., killing Curran instantly. Martin and another passenger in the car was hurt. Curran was a logging contractor.

Charges made by Attorney General John H. Dunbar were on file in Superior Court in Seattle, Wash., against the American University of Chiropractics, located by John E. Lydon, alleging that the school sold physicians' diplomas at prices ranging from $3.75 to $500 each without the formality of a course of instruction as required by law.

Employment in Wyoming steadily increased during past thirty days, due to a further increase in activities in coal mining, oil fields and railway shops. Fall harvesting, principally of sugar beets and bean, has absorbed most of those released from seasonal grain harvesting. Many farm hands are being provided continued agricultural work in plowing for and seeding of a large acreage of winter wheat. The moderate surplus of many classes of labor existing during August has diminished to a minimum. Many coal miners, who have for the past several weeks been engaged in temporary seasonal agricultural work, are again being provided employment in the coal mines. There has recently been an unusual heavy labor turn-over in the oil fields, due principally to the migration of workers to the harvest fields in Montana and other northern states, and of the return to school of a large number of college students, who were employed during summer months. Oil companies are having difficulty in securing enough common labor to supply their demands for present needs. Industrial plants, other than seasonal, including the large oil refineries, continue steady operations, with local industrial labor ample. Resumption of seasonal operations in sugar factories for a period of three months, is providing employment for several hundred workers.

WASHINGTON

The passport business has been a flourishing one for Uncle Sam this summer. It has strengthened the claim of attaches of the division of passport control of the state department that theirs is the one unit of the department that more than pays for itself. During the months of May, June and July, passport applications averaged between 1,200 and 1,400 a day. Figures for August are not complete.

A movement has been started in Washington to get out the chronic stay-at-home vote, which is said to comprise about 50 per cent of the citizenship. The organization is nonpartisan and its only aim will be to stimulate the laggard voter. It is proposed to establish a national organization with state branches and smaller branches for smaller units.

The federal government will defend Walter L. Cohen, negro comptroller of customs at New Orleans, whose appointment to that office is contested in a suit filed in New Orleans recently. Attorney General Stone has directed Louis H. Burns, United States attorney at New Orleans, to appear on behalf of the government.

Secretary Wilbur has announced that America's new Zeppelin, which crossed the Atlantic as the ZR-3, would be rechristened Los Angeles. Speaking at a luncheon given in honor of a group of visiting officers of the ship, the navy secretary said he wanted the great dirigible to become a symbol of peace between Germany, where she was built, and the United States "and all others in the world."

After a two-year investigation Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has announced a complete reorganization of the United States bureau of engraving and printing, the world's greatest money-making plant.

A 20.3 per cent increase in sugar beet production this year is indicated from six European countries producing about one fourth of the total European crop, according to estimates announced by the department of agriculture. These countries report estimates of 11,124,000 short tons, compared with 9,246,945 short tons last year.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald escaped serious injury at Clark Heaton, England, when the platform from which he was addressing an audience collapsed and spilled the premier and 200 of his listeners. None was injured. The premier rose, smiling, and continued his address.

Naval guards around the foreign settlements in Shanghai, China, were strengthened as an additional precaution, to balance the influx of soldiers from the defeated Chekiang armies into Shanghai and environs. Such soldiers are estimated to number fully 10,000. Many of them are armed and almost all are unofficered and undisciplined.

Elimination of the national anthem, which is customarily played whenever the king is present, was ordered by the Socialist woman minister of fine arts at a gala jubilee performance in the Royal theatre in Copenhagen. Most of the Socialist ministers objected to their colleague's order and the public showed its resentment by rising and singing all the stanzas of the anthem, concluding with loud cheering for the king.

The fur has begun to fly in the British election campaign, which is sure to be short and almost certain to be snappy. It may have been the dropping of the case against Editor Campbell of the Workers' Weekly on which the government decided to accept defeat and go to the country, but it has already become plain that the thing the voters are going to hear most about from all sides in this campaign is the Anglo-Russian treaty.

President Ebert of Germany sent the following telegram to Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the ZR-3, at Lakehurst, N. J.: "After your successful transatlantic flight, I, together with the entire German people and the government, congratulate you and your brave crew most heartily. Your achievement will live in history as a great event. Let us hope that the ZR-3 in the course of further flights will proclaim Germany's genius and challenge all nations to free and peaceful rivalry."

ALLIED TROOPS LAND MACHINE GUNS IN CHINESE CITY TO PROTECT FOREIGNERS

Hong Kong.—A detachment of fifty Indian grenadiers, with ammunition and machine guns left here for Shameen, the British concession in Canton. It was said they were sent as a precautionary measure.

Canton.—While Chinese troops continued looting and robbing citizens here, British and French armed naval forces were landed to protect the foreign concession and boats plying between Hong Kong and Canton made extra trips to carry persons fleeing from Canton.

The naval forces put ashore brought with them machine guns with which to protect bridges in the foreign concession. British military forces also arrived from Hong Kong.

Clashes of the rival factions and the expected arrival of Chang Kwing-Ming with a fully armed force of 18,000 are causing an alarming situation. The merchants volunteer corps, whose differences with the so-called "red army" of Chinese laborers precipitated the present trouble in Canton, is concentrating its forces at Shiuhing, west of Canton, with a view to making a final effort to expel the troops from this city.

The local British consul has been accused of harboring Chin-Lim Pak, head of the merchants' volunteer corps and other officials of that organization within the foreign concession.

Looting is still going on, while the troops are robbing the refugees, thousands of whom are seeking safety in Hong Kong. Business is almost at a standstill, a majority of the business houses being closed, the merchants removing their valuables to the foreign concession for safe-keeping. It is said that much loot has been removed to transports, where it is being held pending a favorable opportunity to dispose of it in other districts.

Many private residences have been commandeered for the use of the troops.

Two American and six other foreign gunboats are here to protect foreign interests.

A strict government censorship of telegrams is being maintained.

Shenandoah Ends Flight

Aboard the U. S. S. Shenandoah, Camp Lewis, Wash.—The navy dirigible Shenandoah in the last day of its flight from Lakehurst, N. J., to Camp Lewis, Wash., before it was moored, was able to keep between 3,000 and 4,000 feet off the ground only by tilting at an angle of fifteen degrees and keeping five motors turning at the rate of 1,000 revolutions a minute. The big ship shuttled back and forth between the mooring mast at Camp Lewis and Tacoma. From its control car those on board could see both snow-covered Mount Rainier, nearby, and Mount Hood, more than 200 miles to the south.

Blast Puts Out Gusher

Grand Junction, Colo.—The blazing gusher of the Utah Oil and Refining Company near Cisco, Utah, met its match in the person of Ford Alexander of Los Angeles, expert oilwell fire fighter. Ten minutes after Alexander arrived on the scene and shot a quantity of high explosives near the blazing well, the fire was out. Alexander came to the field from Denver after having been given a contract to extinguish the fire by the Midwest Oil Company, controllers of the Utah Oil and Refining Company.

Upholds Right of Woman to Office

Austin, Texas.—The last vestige of the ancient bar against women in office was swept away by the Texas Supreme Court in holding Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson of Temple, and all other women in the state, eligible to elective positions. Attempts to bring out of the dim past and establish as precedent day law, the fragments of an old order, were cast out by the highest court of the state, which pronounced women as independent entities of an equality with men.

Fitzpo Case Withdrawn

New York.—Perjury charges against Jack Angel Fitzpo, Argentine heavyweight, before Federal Commissioner Hitchcock were withdrawn here with the announcement that the case against the pugilist would be presented to a federal grand jury next week. Coach William H. Lahiff, Fitzpo's prosecutor, asked permission to withdraw his case after he had received a letter from the grand jury foreman asking $50 to appear before that body with his witnesses.

New Mexico State Items

Over 500 delegates from all over New Mexico attended the annual meeting of the Odd Fellows grand lodge at Albuquerque.

Surprising five or six men in a blind alley at the rear of two stores in Raton, Merchant Policeman Charles Taffee, a former police chief of Raton, was fatally shot.

R. G. Mullen, manager of the Rosita Gold Mining Company, in the Elkly district, reports much activity at the mines and states that the new building for the 150-ton mill is nearing completion.

James H. Fahy, well known mining man of the Red River country, was almost instantly killed when he was caught under his car as it leaped over an embankment and rolled over several times. Witnesses brought the body to Red River where it was placed in charge of an undertaker.

At the last conference of the M. E. Church, south, which closed in Albuquerque, Clovis was selected as the meeting place of the conference in the year 1925. Whil the date for the conference was not set, it is understood that it will be held come time in October. The meeting in Albuquerque was one of the largest in attendance ever held in the state and some of the best speakers in the district gave interesting addresses.

The annual Alfalfa Carnival, which was held in Artesia, was a great success and was attended by hundreds of people from all parts of the Pecos valley. Roswell, Carlsbad, Dexter and other nearby towns had large delegations in the city and every street was filled to overflowing with motors which carried most of the visitors. The festival opened with a big parade in the morning and the balance of the two days was taken up with the viewing of the exhibits, the rodeo and many other forms of amusements. Farm products from different parts of the valley made a good showing in the exhibits and livestock came in for a large share of the attention of the visitors in the city. Much credit is due the ladies of Artesia for their share in the work, and the Fairyland exhibit was one of the points of interest for the two days. Music was furnished by both the Artesia and Carlsbad bands and the festival closed with a big dance in the evening.

According to the September report of the U. S. Employment Service of the U. S. Department of Labor in Denver for New Mexico, increased employment was noted in the cotton industry and coal mining. During the first part of October several hundred additional cotton pickers and other workers in connection with the cotton harvest will be needed. A small shortage of sheep herders exists in the southeastern districts of the state. Metal mining continues moderately active, particularly of copper, with sufficient mine labor on hand. The coal companies in northern and western parts of state are gradually increasing production and number of workers, yet continue operations on part time schedules and a slight surplus of coal miners is evident. Oil developments increased in the Farmington district. Lumbering is fairly active, particularly in the Bernalillo district, at which place construction will commence within thirty days on a large planing mill. Highway construction continues, affording employment to several hundred workers in various sections of the state. Contracts for new federal aid highway projects recently let, include approximately 50 miles of roadway in Chaves and Quay counties, several bridges and one-half mile of paving at Bernalillo.

The state and federal aid road commission will soon let the contract for the paving of the connecting link of the highway between Roswell and Dexter, according to announcements made last week. The 10-foot concrete road will begin at the Second street railroad crossing, and extend to the city limits of Roswell, connecting with the Dexter highway at the first farm south.

Stockmen and members of the U. S. Biological Survey in eastern New Mexico believe that the extensive campaign carried on against predatory animals the past two years in New Mexico is largely the cause of the increase in the number of rabbits in the state. In 1923, coyotes did such damage that 83 coyote control associations were organized in the state. With the disappearance of the coyote, rabbits have rapidly increased. A recent survey, in cooperation with farmers in the vicinity of Portales, indicates that a damage of nearly $30,000 in crops there has been done by rabbits this season. Rabbits also are held to be the cause of the epidemic of anthrax which exists in the Guadalupe mountains.

If the plans of the committee in charge of the work are carried out, the State Fair in Albuquerque may be revived during the coming year. The committee was appointed some time ago and meetings will be held from time to time to discuss the possibility of holding the fair again in 1925 and making it bigger and better than those held in the past. It is believed that the cooperation of the business men of the city will be obtained by the committee and many from out of the city and county have expressed their willingness to participate.

CONSIDER CAREFULLY THE MERITS, BEFORE VOTING.

Consider

CALM CONSIDERATION of the fitness for the office in all the republican county candidates ask of the voters in this campaign; compare the candidates for each office carefully, taking into consideration the qualifications of each candidate as compared with those of the opposite side and let your judgement decide your vote.

Poll Tax

POLL TAX: Voters are not required to pay poll tax in order to vote.

A number of voters have gained the idea that they are required to pay poll tax before they will be allowed to vote. This is not the case.

The voters in the state of New Mexico are not required to pay a poll tax in order to vote at any election.

Mud

UP TO THIS writing two partien of democratic candidates for state offices and campaign speakers have spoken in Carrizozo; the burden of their song has been BURSUM—what an unregenerated scoundrel Bursum has been, is and will be—as they would have you believe, was the principal theme of their argument. This is always the case when any man in politics dares to rise above the stature of the common herd he becomes the target of the mud slingers. Let 'em sling, every smack is a boost.

Sympathy

DON'T LET sympathy, hard luck stories or personal considerations sway your judgement in casting your vote. The selection of county officials is a matter that affects your pocket book and the welfare of your community.

County Commissioners

Mr. Brack Sloan, who for the past two years has served so well on that board needs no introduction to the taxpayers of this county; his honest and conscientious service as a commissioner and member of the County Board of Education is well recognized. Mr. Sloan is the only candidate on either ticket who has experience as a member of that important board, and to replace him with an inexperienced man at this time would be a most unwise thing to do.

Mr. Taxpayer and Mrs. School Patron, take this matter under advisement and consider it well—upon your action depends the welfare of the community. This is no idle thought or meaningless statement. The middle of the rivers no place to swap horses; you can not afford to take any chances of dropping a tried and faithful servant to pick up an untried and inexperienced candidate, it's not good business. Keep Brack Sloan on the job!

Rich. Hunt of Nogal belongs to that rugged class of men that Americans are proud to call the mainstay of the nation, of that hardy pioneer stock who blazed the trails across the Alleghany's, making possible the development of the Great West; himself a pioneer of Lincoln County and one who has always done his part in the betterment of the community. Mr. Hunt is a man of sound business ability, well acquainted with the industrial conditions of the country, along every line of enterprise. He is honest, capable and trustworthy. No better selection could have been made and no man or woman will have cause to regret casting their vote for Richard Hunt.

THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES ARE EFFICIENT AND HONEST.

Treasurer

MERE MENTION of the Treasurer's office in this county causes the average citizen to scowl and say cuss words; his confidence has been rudely shaken and he is not in a mood to be trifled with. Recognizing this the republicans placed in nomination for that office a man who enjoys the confidence of the people of Lincoln County to the fullest extent. E. W. Hulbert, who has served the people as treasurer and county treasurer for many years in the past, is the republican candidate. Mr. Hulbert has a record of honest, efficient and conscientious service unexcelled by any man in the state of New Mexico, not alone in Lincoln County. No taxpayer need hesitate in supporting Mr. Hulbert; no taxpayer need have any misgivings as to the result of any audit of the treasurer's office under his administration.

Assessor

COMPLETE, equal and impartial assessment of all property of the county is a matter of first importance. Failure of county assessors to property and impartially perform their duties is the cause of more dissatisfaction than all other causes put together.

Rumaldo Duran, the republican candidate for that office, served this county 12 years as county commissioner to the entire satisfaction of the people; he is personally acquainted with every property owner in the county and knows the value of the property. This added to his experience as commissioner especially qualifies him for that office. As an official he is alive and on the job every minute.

Clerk

IN MANY respects the office of County Clerk, is the most important office to be filled. In no other office of the county does efficiency and accuracy count for so much. An error in the transcribing of the records may easily prove disastrous to some individual and calamitous to the community. For that reason the ability of that official to properly perform the work is paramount to all other considerations; no element of sympathy should influence any voter in the selection of this official.

Mrs. Ivy Lindsey Adams, the republican candidate for this office, possesses all the qualifications necessary to efficiently fill this office.

School Sup't

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS, Mrs. Maude L. Blaney has heretofore proved her ability to fill this office, no candidate on the ticket is more fully qualified to perform the duties of the office for which they were nominated than is Mrs. Blaney, and if the people of Lincoln county are seeking ability and efficiency in the administration of that most important position they will surely not overlook Mrs. Blaney. A woman who has devoted all of her energies to the betterment of the schools; who has, while superintendent of schools in this county, accomplished more in the improvement of the rural schools of this county than all other incumbents of that office put together.

Can you afford to reject her in favor of one who lacks the experience she possesses? Are you willing to place this office in the hands of an untried person?

In deciding this question, dismiss bias and partiality, and let good judgement reign.

Probate Judge

PROBATE JUDGE, in the search for a person competent to fill this office, the republicans carefully considered the merits of the man that was unanimously nominated to fill it. Mr. J. M. Montoya, of Ruidoso, is an intelligent conscientious young man, a student and well equipped to sit in judgement upon any matter that may come before him. You will not make any mistake in voting for Mr. Montoya.

Legislature

REPRESENTATIVE: George A. Freudenbloom, the republican candidate for representative from Lincoln county, is a man whose wide and intimate acquaintance with the party leaders and public men in the state, will be of great benefit in matters of legislation for New Mexico in general and Lincoln county in particular. Mr. Freudenbloom is a booster of known ability. His interests are all in Lincoln county and his work as representative will all be along progressive lines.

Remember

MR. STOCKMAN, let your memory revert back to your business dealings with the state land office during the past eighteen months and decide who you will vote for: Prager Miller, or Mr. Hunt, the present Commissioner.

Sage Advice.

THE Carrizozo News last week had this bit of advice for the democratic voters:

"Work 'em yet! and come in! Invoke all the religious hatred possible where it will be effective, but soft pedal in other sections of the county where it will have a reverse effect."

Mr. Bursum!

Please answer these questions:

1. ISN'T it true that you sold a third-hand truck worth $1443 to Socorro county for $3500?

2. ISN'T it true that you owe $20,000 in back taxes in Socorro county while the school teachers of the county have $40,000 coming to them in back pay?

3. ISN'T it true that John R. Gaunt, who is charged with ruining Catron county, was your henchman? And that Catron county was formed with your assistance for Gaunt's benefit?

4. ISN'T it true that you Red to the U. S. Senate in getting right of way for your Pueblo Indian Bill and that Senator Borah recalled the bill when he discovered your duplicity?

5. ISN'T it true that you supported and have never repudiated such men as Jaramillo, Albert B. Fall, J. H. Wagner, John R. Gaunt, Dave Leahy, and Sec Romero?

6. ISN'T it true that your term as warden of the penitentiary was ended under a cloud?

7. ISN'T it true that you tried to make $60,000 on a Mexican cattle deal while you were U. S. Senator, contrary to the law? And that you are liable to impeachment for it?

8. WHAT have you ever done for New Mexico that was not prompted by political or personal motives,

Mr. Otero!

Will you answer?

1. WASN'T Jaramillo an Otero appointment? Isn't it true that you have promised him his old job as warden if you win? Have you ever denied this? Isn't Gillette to go back to the Highway Department if you win? Have you ever denied that in your Taos speech you promised to reappoint all Mechem appointees?

2. WHAT on earth have you ever done that would warrant your becoming Governor of New Mexico? What will be your policies other than to obey the orders of your brother, Eduardo, and the gang of Bursum—Leahy—Romero—Fall?

HEAT TREATMENT OF COTTON SEED.

Bulletin by New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts.

The Federal Horticultural Board will probably permit the movement of cotton seed, which has been properly heated, from any county in New Mexico to designated oil fields in Texas. This modification of the quarantine, President Kent of New Mexico College of Agriculture states, has been urged for some time because it is felt the oil mills in the quarantined area will not be able to handle all the seed produced in that section. It is important to get this seed out so that competitive bidding for the seed may be secured in case there is more seed produced in that section. It is important to get this seed out so that it can be milled in the quarantined area.

This modification of the Federal quarantine on account of the pink boll worm has been secured because of the requirement that cotton seed be heated as it comes from the gin rolls. It is imperative that this heat treatment of seed be properly managed. President Kent wishes to advise that inspection will be much more rigid this year, and more careful operation of the sterilizers will be demanded. Every sterilizer, or disinfecting machine, must be equipped with a thermograph; and thermograph charts must be kept on file, properly dated, or may be sent to the office of Sidney D Smith, El Paso, Texas, if he so desires. Thermographs should be ordered immediately so each one is carefully tested before being shipped and this requires some time.

At the present time it appears that none of the Texas gins near the New Mexico line will be equipped with sterilizing machines. This means that New Mexico cotton growers must gin their seed cotton in New Mexico gins. The quarantine regarding the movement of seed cotton out of the state has not been removed. The quarantine on lint cotton grown in New Mexico, which prevented it being sold except for export purposes, has been removed from lint cotton grown in all the counties except Eddy, Chaves and Dona Ana. It is expected that it will soon be lifted in Eddy and Chaves, leaving only Dona Ana county where lint cotton is still under quarantine.

Romance of the Orient Sealed HOT in Tins

By EVELYN WELLS

AGAIN romance and machinery take hands. One man crowded the tea flavors of the Far East into a tin and sealed the lid. Sealed it in vacuum while it was still hot from its roasting, which is the point of the story. For in San Francisco, in an ultra modern, magical way, tea with a zest of the Orient is now perfected in the Occident in the latest vacuum way.

To most of us tea production is a legendary cent of pretson, vaguely suggestive of romance. Dainty Oriental maidens, in warm, flowering fields—vast sultry areas in India, China and Japan—Mongolo-Hindus, toiling in the drying and rolling and packing of fragrant leaves—and for us coloco, satisfied thirst and intimate gossip over the dainty tea cups.

Too often romance goes down before the machine of today. But in this case, the machine brings to all the essence of Oriental romance in tea perfection. By this latest movement of the wheel of science, thousands of miles removed from cherry blossom maidens and temple bells, the crowning glory of the tea drinking Orient is preserved for us and hermetically sealed in the modern tea tin.

Tea, and few of us know this, must be roasted like coffee. First, in the Orient. This for preservation. And again in the Occident. This for perfection.

August Schilling of San Francisco is responsible for this newest startling method of preservation. He is a pioneer master in his own line. A man who pinned the poet's fancy into the art by putting on the American table a drink such as princes paid fortunes for in ancient Russia.

It was he who conceived the idea of roasting the tea leaf for the second time after its journey across the Pacific to restore its original flavor and fragrance.

Hidden in the veins of the rose-like leaf of the tea plant is the essential oil of tea. This is the soul of its flower. The second roasting, or toasting as it is called in the tea vernacular, drawn this essential tea oil to the edges of the leaf ready for release when drenched with hot water. And that is the secret of delicious tea. But tea preservation was a different matter and a difficult art.

Curiously enough Schilling has been an outstanding figure in the packing of teas in America.

In 1891 he introduced to the American public the first tea to be packed in tins. This was known as the Perfection Tin. Before this, tea had always been sold in bulk form. The Perfection Tin was the first move toward packaged tea in America. And ladies with very thin waists and very large bustles accepted with pleased astonishment this radical improvement on the paper bag. His next development was the parchmin lined carton which became the standard method of packing teas all over America.

It being natural that this man should present the latest development in tea packing—sealing HOT in vacuum tins.

"Trowel" Club Entertains.

By G. S. Hoover

Seldom has there been put on at Fort Stanton a more successful entertainment or more enjoyable than the one put on in Ward No. 10 and in the Seaman's Social Club October 9 under the auspices of the Trowel Club.

Both the ward and the Clubhouse were beautifully and profusely decorated with flowers and Autumn leaves gathered from miles around by the members of the Trowel Club and arranged by the women members and other women friends of that organization. The ladies put in the whole afternoon putting up the decorations and were well repaid for their efforts by the expressions of appreciation and pleasure on the part of the patients and visitors.

The program in the ward was begun at 7:15 and lasted about about forty-five minutes, a literal feast of music both vocal and instrumental.

After the program everyone present was served with sweet cider and home made doughnuts refreshments which proved a treat to all.

Beginning at 8:30 the entire entertainment was repeated in the clubhouse of the Seamen's Social Club, being here augmented by a reading "A Telephone Romance" rendered by Mrs. F. S. Copeland with her usual grace and ability.

Here there were rendered by Miss McClure, in addition to the regular program, several requested piano selections. That the men at the Fort know and appreciate good music is constantly proven by the class of selections which they request and by the reception which good music receives.

After the program here, as in the ward, the doughnuts were distributed and the cider keg tapped. It was only the ringing of the bell for preparation for "lights out" at 9:45 that caused the disbursement of the crowd which filled the large club house.

The Trowel Club is a new organization in welfare work at Fort Stanton but the four entertainments that they have put on since they came into being two months ago show that they are doing a work long needed. They are paying particular attention to entertaining the men in wards who are not able to be about and who cannot attend the picture shows and other diversions in Amusement Hall, and for this are to be commended.

The program follows:

Piano Solo, "Sam," Fox Trot—Miss McClure.

Vocal Quartette, "Goodbye Sweet Day", Mesdames Copeland and Garred and Misses Fleming and Townsend.

Medley by Banjo Orchestra—Messrs McNeff, Rasmussen, Lamb, Turner, Kersey and Hendron.

Piano Solo, "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" by Rachmanow, "Second Hungarian Rhapsodie" by Liszt, Encore, "The Juggler"—Miss McClure.

Reading, "A Telephone Romance"—Mrs. F. S. Copeland.

Violin and Piano Duet, "The Rosary"—Miss McClure and Mr. McNeff.

Vocal Trio, "Cider Time"—Mesdames Copeland and Garred and Miss Fleming.

SLOGAN FOR TAXPAYERS OF LINCOLN COUNTY

Mr. J. M. Hawkins,
Public Relations Department,
E. P. & S. W. Railroad Company.

Dear Sir:

In opening our discussion of the system of taxation in the state of New Mexico, I began, as you know, with an outline of the purposes for which taxes are levied, the method pursued in making levies and a reference to the taxpayer's influence over expenditures, which of course determine the size of everyone's tax bill.

It is, I think, beyond argument, that every member of the community, whether he recognizes that fact or not, is vitally interested in keeping the total tax burden at the minimum, for no matter who directly pays the taxes the money comes from the united effort and the industry of all.

His next interest is in the assessment of property. In this he is very much concerned. Every taxpayer wants to know that his property is reasonably assessed when compared with the assessment on the property of his neighbor, to the end that the tax burden may be fairly distributed.

The total amount of money raised for all public purposes having been determined, the total amount of the assessment roll then governs the rate levy and each taxpayer must bear his share of the burden by paying the amount which the rate applied to the value of his property will produce.

The constitution of New Mexico provides that "taxes levied upon tangible property shall be in proportion to the value thereof and taxes shall be equal and uniform upon subjects of taxation of the same class." The legislature has provided by law for the maintenance of two assessing authorities. The state tax commission is composed of a chief tax commissioner and two associate commissioners, each appointed by the governor for a term of six years. The state tax commission determines the value to be placed upon the property of railroad, telegraph, telephone and transmission companies, of banks, of trust and mortgage loan companies, mutual building and loan associations, and savings and loan associations, of mineral properties, and the amount of taxes to be paid by express companies and private car lines.

The tax commission also sits as a board of appeals to pass upon assessments wherein the taxpayer and the county board are in dispute. The state tax commission has, in addition, numerous other duties of vast importance to the taxpayer aside from the determination of assessed values.

The legislature also created the office of county assessor, an officer elected by the people to serve for a term of two years. It is the duty of the assessor to assess at its full value all tangible property, the assessment of which is not directly placed in the hands of the state tax commission.

The tax law provides that all cattle, horses, sheep, goats, and other livestock and farm products shall be listed, assessed and taxed in the county where they are situated on the 25th day of April of each year and that all other property, both real and personal, shall be listed, assessed and taxed in the county where it is situated on the first day of January of each year. It is the duty of every person owning property in a county to file with the assessor a sworn statement of all property which by law is subject to taxation on the first day of the year, such statement to be filed not later than the 31st day of January each year. The schedule of livestock and farm products must be filed not later than the first day of May of each year. Failure to render a true and complete list of property to the assessor constitutes perjury and is punishable as such, and where the taxpayer through oversight or otherwise fails to file any schedule of property it is the duty of the assessor to ascertain the extent and value of his property and assess it to him with an added penalty of 25 per cent. of its value.

The board of county commissioners sitting ex officio as a board of equalization on the first Monday in May has power to alter or correct an assessment made by the county assessor and at its meeting on the first Monday in June any taxpayer who may believe that his property has been improperly assessed may appear before the said board and present facts as to why his assessment should be changed. From the decision of the board he may appeal further to the state tax commission which convenes on the third Monday in July for the purpose, among others, of passing on such appeals. From the decision of the state tax commission appeal may be taken to the courts, so that the law provides machinery for protecting the taxpayer against errors and mistakes of judgement in the assessment of his property.

It is the intent of the law that all privately owned property shall be subject to taxation, except where specifically exempted, as in the case of a $200.00 exemption to the head of a family and a $2,000.00 exemption to soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses who served in the armed forces of the United States for 90 days or more at any time in which the United States was officially engaged in war, including resident unmarried widows of such soldiers, sailors and marines.

The taxpayer's next interest is in the collection of taxes. The collection of taxes is vested in the county treasurer, an officer created by the legislature and elected by the people to serve for a term of two years. It is his duty to collect all taxes from every one against whom they have been assessed, and, failing to do so, to refer their collection to the district attorney, whose duty it is to file suit, and, if necessary, to sell the property against which the taxes are levied.

If one taxpayer pays his own taxes in full, as the law prescribes, and his neighbor pleads poverty and does not pay his taxes, the taxpayer who pays in full must in the end pay more than his just share in order to offset the taxes which his neighbor fails to pay.

Therefore, the slogan of the taxpayer should be economy in the expenditure of public money, correct, fair and equitable assessments, and a full collection of taxes.

Yours very truly,

H. B. HARDING,
Land and Tax Agent

"FOR JOHN came unto you in the way of righteousness, and ye believed him not: but the publicans and the harlots believed him: and ye, when ye had seen it, repented not afterward, that ye might believe him."—Matt. 21-32.

REGARDLESS of your race, creed, sex, politics, or former state or condition of servitude, it is YOUR duty to vote on all questions submitted at the polls, whether national, state, county, municipal or precinct. Failing in this you are forfeiting a privilege that has only been conferred upon you by former generations of unselfish patriots who purchased the glorious heritage with the blood of their veins on countless bloody fields. It has been no easy task to wrest the wand of freedom from the reluctant hands of a jealous and heartless tyranny, but each generation has produced its quota of liberty-loving heroes ready and willing—even anxious—to fling themselves into the cause that has lifted the yoke of serfdom from our ungraceful shoulders. Are we of an ease loving and procrastinating period to squander our birthright and permit the moths of apathy to eat the dearly purchased cloak of freedom from our backs?—VOTE!

Nogales, Sonora, Mexico.—Mexican troops continue to patrol the Chinese colony of this city in a drive against the members of the Chinese imperialistic faction who are sought by the government on charges of espionage.

Lincoln Must Stand Trial

Geneva, Ill.—The jury which has been hearing evidence as to the mental condition of Warren J. Lincoln, who killed his wife and her brother and crated their heads in a concrete block, returned a verdict finding Lincoln to be sane at this time. The verdict means that Lincoln, the Aurora, Ill., horticulturist-lawyer, who kept the no Charities parade for months by confessions and repudiations before he finally led them to a dump pile where he pointed out the block of concrete containing the heads of his victims, must stand trial for the slayings.

Coal China Sold at Auction.

St. Louis.—Seventeen thousand government-owned coal chins from Alaska were offered for sale at an auction to the establishment of the Pontiac Fur Company. For the first time there were offered lots of dyed seal chins of a golden chestnut hue, while 14,000 were black and the remaining 1,000 were offered raw. Another government-owned lot ready for auction consisted of 787 blue fox chins, fifteen white fox and four sea otter.

Farm Implement Sales Increase.

Washington.—Recovering from the slump of 1921, farm equipment manufacturers had gear for augmented trade with an increase of 74 per cent and over 114 per cent above the 1921 production. Census bureau statistics announced for the annual census of manufactures of farm equipment placed the value of the output at $[illegible], as compared with $[illegible] in 1921 and $[illegible] in 1923. Manufacturers of tractors showed outstanding increases.

Wholesale Prices Decline.

Washington.—Wholesale commodity prices in September showed slight decreases from the August level, information gathered in representative markets by the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor showed. The weighted index number covering 404 commodities dropped from 1[illegible] for August to 1[illegible] for last month. Decreases in farm products and building materials had not quite been sufficient to offset increases in other commodities. The index for the preceding month was [illegible] and the figure a year ago, [illegible].

SAVORY CORN DISHES

When the fresh corn may be obtained, gathered, husked and cooked within an hour from the garden one knows what delicious corn is. However, the canned variety will serve as a substitute after fresh corn is gone.

Corn on the cob should cook rapidly ten minutes; longer cooking toughens it and makes it less palatable. Serve on a platter covered with a napkin to keep it hot.

For those who like the corn cut from the cob, use two cupfuls of corn cut from the cob, add one teaspoonful of salt, enough pepper to season and a teaspoonful of sugar; cook in a little water until the corn is tender, add cream or butter and a little milk and serve at once. The salt should be added just before going to the table.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Corn.—Wash, remove the seeds and pulp of as many tomatoes as needed, fill with corn prepared with seasonings as below and bake in a hot oven until the tomatoes are soft but not broken.

Chop one-half tablespoonful of green pepper, the same of onion and cook in two tablespoonfuls of butter; add two tablespoonfuls of flour, one teaspoonful each of salt and sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful each of mustard and paprika, one cupful of corn cut from the cob and one-half cupful of milk. Cook all together until thick before adding the corn.

Corn Chowder.—To the above mixture add two cupfuls of diced potatoes, a slice of salt pork diced and cooked until brown, four milk crackers soaked in milk. Cook the potatoes with pork and fat in water to cover, add the corn mixture and two cupfuls of scalded milk with the crackers. Seasoning may be added if needed.

Corn and Potato Salad.—Cut tender cooked corn from the cob—any leftover is good—add to one or more cupfuls of finely diced potatoes a bit of minced onion and one small cucumber finely diced. Mix with a good salad dressing and let stand for several hours to season before serving.

Scalloped corn with leftover chicken makes a most tasty dish which will be sufficiently nourishing for a meal dish.

A man without a wife, a house without a roof.—German Proverb.

SOUTHERN COOKERY

It is next to impossible to get a well-balanced (by measure) recipe from any of the old Southern cooks. Proportions are very hard to get, and one is indeed fortunate to be able to watch, measure and obtain an accurate one.

Coins.—This is an old New Orleans recipe: In a mortar pound one-half cupful of rice until fine; then cook in three cupfuls of boiling salted water, drain, cool to lukewarm and add one-half a yeast cake dissolved in one-half cupful of warm water. Beat well and set away in a moderately warm place overnight. In the morning add three well-beaten eggs, one-fourth cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, three or four tablespoonfuls of flour, or ground rice, and a pinch of nutmeg. Beat the mixture hard and let rise for fifteen minutes, then drop by spoonfuls into deep fat. When a rich brown remove, drain and sprinkle with sugar and serve very hot.

Omelet Fritters are prepared by cutting an omelet into sections; dip into fritter batter and fry as usual. A nice way to use leftover omelet.

Creole Bouilla Baisse.—Take three slices of red snapper and three of red fish, six large tomatoes, half a lemon, three onions, a small bunch of herbs, a clove of garlic, a bay leaf, a sprig of parsley, a pinch of thyme, three tablespoonfuls of olive oil, one-fourth teaspoonful of saffron, salt, pepper and cayenne to taste.

Flesh the head of the red snapper and the bones of the fish over the fire in two quarts of water, add the onion sliced and a bunch of herbs. Cook and reduce to one quart, strain and reserve the stock. Chop the parsley, garlic, bay leaf and thyme and pulp well. Rub the fish well with salt and pepper, then with the herbs, until the slices are well permeated with them. Cook lightly in the olive oil, add the two remaining onions chopped fine. Place tomatoes with the lemon cut into slices, add fish stock and cook until the tomatoes are cooked; season and cook to reduce stock one-half. Add the fish and cook until done. Place slices of fish on fresh hot toast, add the saffron to the stock and simmer five minutes. Pour over the fish and serve at once.

Baked Apples.—Peel and core good-flavored apples and put to cook in a deep crock or bean pot. Bake with a little water added until the apples are tender; sweeten with brown sugar, cover and keep hot in the oven for until a day. They will be brown, delicious and well flavored.

Uncover Works of Da Vinci

The oldest canal lock in France built by Leonardo da Vinci under the reign of Francois I in the fifteenth century, has just been rediscovered near Vicreon.

Da Vinci, who boasted that he was as great an engineer as he was a painter, constructed the lock because the River Loire lacked sufficient water for the boats, with their cargoes of salt, that came up from Nantes. In the course of centuries the lock disappeared and even its exact situation was forgotten, but the old foundations planted by the painter of "Mona Lisa" have just been unearthed.

Expect to Harness Tides

The force of the ebb and flow of the Atlantic's tide may soon be harnessed to produce electricity, Dexter P. Cooper, brother of Hugh L. Cooper, the hydraulic engineer who designed the hydroelectric plants at Muscle Shoals, Keokuk, and Niagara Falls, Canada, is at present making preliminary surveys along the Maine coast with a view to finding generating station sites near Eastport. The average difference between high and low tide at Eastport is 19 feet 2 inches.

"77" DONS' REMEDY BEST FOR COLDS-GRIP

GIVE YOUR EYES A CHANCE

Woman Bemoans Fact of Lack of Chivalry

Chivalry once flourished in this land of ours, but, alas, now it is as dead as an Egyptian mummy. It is a lost art—so lost, indeed, that were a man to be observed practicing its rites in this age his friends would tap their foreheads significantly and sadly remark that "poor John is evidently not quite as he should be."

See the crowd dashing after the early morning trains and cars, enjoins a woman writer in London Answers. Do the present-day men stand on one side and help the women on? Oh, dear no! The scene is more like a football match or a free fight, from which the distressed damsel emerges with her hat over one eye, half her hairpins lost and a couple of ribs broken in her umbrella.

The modern "lord of creation" differs considerably from the knights of old.

On arriving at the office, when his typist apologizes for being five minutes late owing to some calamity in the house circle, does he sweetly say, "Oh, don't mention it!"

No, he snaps out, "There's no excuse for you, Miss Smith, you're not a victim of the morning after the night before!"

He reaches home in the evening and when his wife desires to unburden herself on the subject of her household worries he insists on taking the floor and holding forth on the lack of appreciation of his great business abilities shown by the managing director.

When the baby cries in the small cold hours of the morning, does he hop out of bed and gently soothe him back to slumber again? Oh, no! He sleepily grunts "What's a woman good for if she can't keep one small kid quiet?"

As a lover, too, the modern young man is sadly lacking. His ancestor of a few generations ago would have fought a duel to death to win a smile from his adored one; but the suitor of today becomes a sulky bear if his lady-love keeps him waiting for five minutes, although he knows only too well gold medals have never been awarded to the fair sex for punctuality.

No; the age of chivalry is dead; but we Twentieth century women have slaughtered it ourselves, so its no use groaning. Through reaching out for votes and equal rights with men we have toppled off those pedestals on which we used to be enthroned.

No longer can we shroud ourselves in a veil of romance and mystery—we've torn it to bits on the golf course and the football field.

Yet sometimes—bend your head and let one modern woman whisper a secret—I'd like to creep back to my deserted pedestal.

Altogether Unflattering

Representative Royal Johnson of South Dakota said in the course of a witty speech at a Washington banquet:

"In the Black hills of South Dakota there is a mine with a peculiar name—a name that has a beautiful story attached to it.

"A prospector and his wife were strolling in the hills one day when the woman tripped over a stone. The stone, dislodged by her dainty foot, rolled forward five or six yards. When it stopped the prospector noticed a little thread of yellow running across it. It was gold. A gold mine had been discovered.

"When it came to the naming of the new gold mine, the prospector's wife said:

"'Will you name it after me?'

"'Yes,' said the prospector, 'I will name it in yore honor, my love.'

"And from that day to this, gentlemen, one of the richest gold mines in the West has been known as 'The Terror.'"

Ponce de Leon's Search

The story of Ponce de Leon, the Spanish explorer, who came to Florida 400 years ago and scanned the new continent in search of the "Fountain of Youth," and finally perished in the wilderness, is familiar to every high school student.

Now comes Col. L. H. Maus of the United States medical corps, who in an address declared that the place for which De Leon was searching was the Hot Springs of Arkansas. That it was fame of the "healing waters" of these springs brought to the seacoast by adventuring explorers of which History has no record, which came to the ears of the Spanish explorer and sent him into the interior in search for the "Fountain." De Leon's expedition, according to Colonel Maus, was not so fantastic as the school books make it appear.

Life Devoted to Chess

Romance centered round the life of John Henry Blackburne, the noted chess player, who died recently in England at the age of eighty-two. In his youth he was employed in a hosiery store, but was discharged because he overstayed his leave while chess playing in London. He then devoted himself to his favorite game, and when he toured the country his brilliance soon found reward, for he was hailed as a chess genius. While in his prime Blackburne met all wizards of the board. Two years ago, when eighty years old, he played 20 games simultaneously in London, winning nine, drawing ten, and being beaten in one by a woman.

New View Point

John Dos Passos, the youthful novelist, said at a Greenwich Village dance: "The old were to blame for the war, and they are to blame for all our post war woes.

"Respect for old age is silly unless it is the old age of a good and wise person. Old age in itself is not a thing to be respected. Why, is there a man or woman alive so foolish as to respect old age in an egg?"—Exchange.

NERVOUS & HALF-SICK WOMEN

Relieved by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

These Three Letters Prove It

Lowell, Mass.—"I am sending you a few lines to let you know what good your medicine has done for me. I want you to let every one know that it has helped me in nervous troubles. I have four children and you know there is a lot to do where children are. They would come in from school and they would start telling me about their little troubles but I could not stand it. I had to send them away. I could not even walk on the street alone I was so nervous. I found one of your books and read it and then I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got it and had taken one bottle when I saw a change in myself. I was surprised. The children can talk all they want to now and it does not bother me. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOSEPH LEMIEUX, 34 South Street, Lowell, Mass.

Felt Like A New Woman

Springfield, Missouri.—"For four or five months I was run-down, nervous, my back ached and I did not feel like doing a thing. Sometimes my legs ached and felt like they would break and I had a hurting in my sides. I had been reading in the newspapers the letters of other women who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the advertising of it appealed to me so I bought some and saw results in almost no time. I had hardly been able to do my own work and after taking the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I recommend it to my friends who have troubles like I did, and hope they will find the same results."—Mrs. M. CARPENTER, 607 W. Chase Street, Springfield, Missouri.

40 Years Old, Feels Like 20

Hagerstown, Md.—"I was very bad off with backache, a bearing-down feeling in my body and a pain in my left side. I could not be on my feet at times and once I was so bad I walked bent over to one side for three weeks. My sister read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me a bottle. I got so much relief that I took more until I was well. I am 40 years old and feel like 20. I am sure this medicine will help all women."—Mrs. MARY E. SANDY, 436 W. Franklin Street, Hagerstown, Md.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

All druggists are having increased sales of this medicine.

Men of Prominence Enormous Feeders

Sports writers who see Firpo eat are astonished at the quantity of meat consumed by the Wild Bull.

I doubt if he holds a better record in that respect than did some Philadelphians who were as confident in other ways as Firpo in the ring.

Senator Penrose was a prodigious meat eater. I saw him at breakfast devour two eggs, a large broiled fish and a handsome beefsteak, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

At dinner two drinks were for him and an unusual chase after oysters and fish.

T. De Witt Cuyler matched the senator as a hearty eater. At the Hitchcock club it was quite the customary thing for him to follow half a dozen oysters with a large fish, an entire big porterhouse steak and top them off with a quail.

John G. Johnson did as well as that and I saw him begin a meal with a dozen big oysters.

Henry F. Walton, former speaker of the Pennsylvania assembly was another famous diner. His physician once ordered him to walk a mile instead of eating lunch.

Would Make Great Haul for Burglars

The richest spot in the United States is less than three feet square in a vault in the United States Treasury department. Here are stored 19 packages of gold certificates with the total value of $600,000,000.

Although the packages have the height and width of the usual bank note and are only about 18 inches long, 10 of them have the total value of $320,000,000. Each package contains 4,000 $10,000 bills, valued at $40,000,000. The remaining six packages are worth $80,000,000.

This money is kept in the reserve vault of the treasurer's office, or the so-called "storage room," of the treasury until it is needed for circulation. These gold certificates are not put into circulation unless an equal amount of gold is put into the treasury in their place. The gold is kept until it is redeemed by the gold-covered bank notes. At present there is more than $1,500,000,000 outstanding in gold certificates.
