NUMBER 35

THE ELECTION.

The election is over—even the shouting—and all may now sit down and figure on the future. The result, naturally, is not pleasing to democrats, but, as this is looked upon as a pretty good country, it is not likely that many will emigrate.

The national result was not what democrats had hoped; indeed, they had reason to expect that Mr. Bryan would receive a much larger vote than was given him. It is true, that on the popular vote, he made a much better showing than did Mr. Parker in 1904, particularly in Indiana, Ohio and the middle west, but made no electoral gains except in Colorado and Nebraska. While the middle west gave its electoral votes to Mr. Taft, there is some consolation over the fact that the democrats elected a number of governors, made gains in the national house of representatives and, in two instances, Indiana and Nebraska, will elect democrats to the United States senate to succeed republicans.

In the territory little is known as to the race for delegate. Andrews has made gains in some counties, the most notable being San Miguel, which he carried by a good majority; while others that gave him good majorities in 1906 have been lessened: Larraxolo has also made gains, two counties, Colfax and Torrance, giving him good majorities, whereas two years ago they went very emphatically for Andrews. We have held the News over until this (Saturday) morning in order to give our readers some information on that point; but all we can say, even at this hour, is that the result is very close, only a few hundred votes, apparently, separating the victor from the vanquished. The first reports gave Andrews a substantial majority, but it has dwindled, if it has not been wiped out entirely. In the county, all precincts have reported save No. 3, Las Palas, and the partial report of that precinct, which, however, is reflected only a verbal one, gives us information sufficient to announce approximately the result.

John Y. Hewitt, democrat, has a lead over his opponent of about a majority in this county, for the council, of about 85. It is believed that Otero and Torrance counties will increase that lead considerably. A telegram to both those counties has, so far, failed to bring any information, and an element of doubt, therefore, surrounds the result.

Mullins and Bryce, democrats, ran along with their ticket, and their majorities in the Pecos valley will send them to Santa Fe to represent the eighteenth and nineteenth legislative districts.

Robert H. Taylor, democrat, of 50.

James G. Riggle, republican, for clerk seems to have won, but later reports indicate a close race, and until the official count the victor will not be known.

Chas. A. Stevens, republican, for sheriff has about 50 majority. Porfirio Chavez, democrat, for assessor has his opponent beaten somewhere in the neighborhood of 50.

T. W. Watson, republican, for treasurer, had a majority, from partial reports, of 27, but later news indicate an error in the first reports, and the result is somewhat doubtful. Mr. Watson, it is believed, will have a margin of 10 or 12.

John A. Haley, democrat, gets a majority of 80 or 90 for superintendent of schools.

Frank E. Thuerer, republican, bests his democratic opponent by about 38 votes, for the office of surveyor.

All in all, the result in the county is about a stand-off, and there is little room for elation by either party as a whole. In our next issue we will give a full and correct analysis of the votes by precincts, with totals and majorities.

Carrizozo News

CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO.

For Better Roads.

Many Americans who live in or near large cities would be surprised to hear it stated that the United States has the poorest roads of any civilized country in the world. Nevertheless, the statement is declared by all who have had opportunity to learn by experience to be unquestionably true, when the roads of the whole country are considered. Lately there has been much criticism of the automobile as being destructive of good roads. The damage is so great that in France the government has been forced to take up the matter, and is even now studying preventive plans. In the United States, however, it may be that the automobile will yet prove a powerful influence in better roads. The American Automobile association has recently held a two days' good roads convention in Buffalo, at which provision was made for practical demonstrations of the best methods of road-building and repairing, and for experiments looking toward the discovery of a binding material for surfacing roads which will not be sucked out by the pneumatic tires. There are signs, too, says Youth's Companion, that the old policy of throwing upon the towns the burden of building the roads and keeping them in repair is to be superseded by the more sensible plan of having the state do it. The towns will, of course, care for their own streets, but the main highways should be built and cared for by the state, as they are in France, Germany and Switzerland. The national government has decided to send the director of the department of roads to the international good roads convention which will open in France in October, and at which the problem of the automobile and the roads will receive special attention.

Light in the Dark Continent.

There is a new ray of light for Africa. Belgium has decided to take under national control the region of the Congo. Not since the days when Great Britain was aroused to a white heat by Armenian massacres has there been so much international indignation as in recent years over reported atrocities in the valley of the Congo. To be sure, there have been pro and con, and the controversy has been general, says the Boston Herald, that the exploitation of the resources of the Congo has given much more attention to the size of the product than to the life and happiness of the natives. Perhaps the fittest and most hopeful comment is the fact that Belgium itself has taken this African dependency from the personal control of the sovereign, King Leopold, and has made national the government and the responsibility therefor.

The residents of a town in Massachusetts whose water has been bad were stunned by the knowledge imparted to them of the reason thereof by the state board of health. They were informed that the cause was due to "Aphanizomenon, one of the cyanophyceae." To this was added the simple advice: "Get rid of them." Such water as that is certainly enough to drive any brain not under the direct intellectual influence of Boston to drink.

Airship invention may make sufficient progress in this country to make it a matter of indifference to Capt. Hobson whether there is an old-fashioned fleet in the Pacific or not.

A NEW HIVE-LIFTER.

It Pays to Have One Where There is Much Lifting.

I would not bother with a hive-lifter for one super or for two or three eight-frame comb-honey supers; but when I have a good crop I have two, three, four, and sometimes five ten-frame supers on at once, and then is the time I expect a lifting device to be of use, writes a correspondent of Bee Culture.

The standard or upright part of my lifter is a 2 1/2-inch boiler-tube five feet nine inches long. There are three oak legs, five-eighths by three by four feet six inches. One end each of these three strips is fastened to the upright pipe 18 inches from the lower end. The other end is connected to the lower end of the pipe by a light iron brace, making a triangle of each leg. The angle is such that the lower end of the upright is three or four inches above the ground. Three light iron braces about ten inches from the center connect the legs and hold them the right distance apart. The upper part of the lifter is a piece of barn-door track three feet nine inches long. It extends out two feet four inches from the center, and is free to make a complete circle.

The tackle block may move in toward the center or out to the end of the track; a bolt through the end of the track prevents it from running off. The end of the track has supported the weight of a 210-pound man.

This machine weighs about 40 pounds. It is heavier than necessary. The proportions and details could be much improved, making a lighter machine; but just as it is, it is very easy to handle, as one can take a good hold with scarcely any stooping.

HENS AND CHICKS.

Nests should be kept as dark as possible and as clean as possible.

Raise fowls that are prepotent, and will reproduce their own types.

Make the laying hens feel comfortable and they will do better.

Meat rations are not needed when grasshoppers and bugs are plentiful.

Bright red combs and wattles are generally a sign of healthy condition.

Don't let food become soured. Sweep up and destroy what the fowls leave after being fed.

All kinds of young fowls need bone food. Neglect this and something is bound to go wrong with your profits.

Fowls Need Grass.

Fowls of all kinds should be permitted to range on grass as much as possible. Grass is a medicine or tonic as well as a feed for poultry. Those fowls which have the run of grass require much less feed than those raised in bare barn yards and are generally healthier. Often, when fowls refuse to eat grain, and are droopy, they will eat grass or greenstuff with relish.

BEES IN FRUIT RAISING.

Part They Play in Bearing of the Trees.

In my earlier days, when I was as much an enthusiastic horticulturist as an apiarist, I conducted many experiments and made many observations. I found that during the blooming of fruit trees, should the weather be too cool to permit bees flying, an imperfect crop was the result. Believing that the cool days might be the cause of the imperfect fruit, rather than the absence of the bees, I investigated a little further in the succeeding years, when it was pleasant weather for the bees to visit the flowers, by covering certain parts of blooming trees with wire cloth or netting to exclude the bees, yet to admit the free access of all pollen carried by the winds, and in every instance the limbs and trees thus covered produced either no fruit or only a few small and imperfect specimens. After repeated experiments it is my candid opinion that without bees our fruit crops would be reduced fully 90 per cent.

Not only is this true of the fruit of the orchard, but likewise with berries and certain vegetables, says the Orange Judd Farmer. As an example let me cite the case of Senator Smink of Rocky Ford, Col., who raises melons in fields miles in length. Years ago he was afraid of even the hum of a bee. His melons were then raised in several separate fields, one of which was in reach of the bees of a neighbor, with whom he had several stormy arguments, saying the bees carried away all the substance from the blossom, and a crop failure would be the result. But to the surprise of all, that particular field yielded over 200 per cent. more and far better melons than any other field.

To-day he owns over 1,500 colonies of bees, and during the trans-Mississippi exposition he remarked that he would keep those bees if he did not get a pound of honey, for no bees means no melons.

at a, then solder the piece of tin one-half inch wide on the bottom of can, as in b. Put a tight cork in top of can and it makes a fine drinking fountain. To fill it, says Farm and Home, lay it on side and pour in the water.

Free Range.

For quick, healthy growth, young fall poultry needs free range. The exercise they get and the variety of food they pick up helps much in the growth of bone, muscle and feathers. Yet free range has its disadvantages. I know my friend in town, who has her poultry yard confined to runs, raises to maturity a larger per cent. of the chicks hatched than I do. The chicks that are not confined grow like weeds, but they run into all sorts of dangers in their rambles. Many a happy little fellow goes forth in the morning that never comes back at night. Poultry that runs wild will get in the same pasture with the pigs, and sometimes a very small porker will devour a number of chicks before the owner finds out where they are going.—Mary Skilling, in Journal of Agriculture.

"And did your uncle remember you in his will?"

"Well, he remembered me, all right, but that was why he didn't mention me in it."

"She feels sure of it."

"Why, in the name of goodness?"

"Because, when he gets up at night to get the baby a drink he never falls over the furniture."—Houston Post.

WOMAN'S BACKACHE

The back is the mainspring of woman's organism. It quickly calls attention to trouble by aching. It tells, with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in the loins, weight in the lower part of the body, that a woman's feminine organism needs immediate attention.

In such cases the one sure remedy which speedily removes the cause, and restores the feminine organism to a healthy, normal condition is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Will Young, of 6 Columbia Ave., Rockland, Me., says:

"I was troubled for a long time with dreadful backaches and a pain in my side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to try it; after taking three bottles I can truly say that I never felt so well in my life."

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had very severe backaches, and pressing-down pains. I could not sleep, and had no appetite. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me feel like a new woman."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backaches, that bearing-down feeling, fatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

FATHER OF THE AUTO

BUILDER OF FIRST STEAM CARRIAGE IN AMERICA.

Oliver Evans Worked on Idea for Steam Propulsion in Boston as Early as 1773—Shop of Inventor Still Standing.

Boston.—A quaint building on St. James street, above Second, now numbered 216, is reputed to be the shop where Oliver Evans worked in the year 1795. Evans was one of the early inventors of which this country has furnished so many, and although he is principally recalled as the inventor of the first "steam carriage," or what we would now term an automobile, when he had his shop in the low-roofed building in Lowndes' or Elmalle's alley, the little lane now named St. James street, he was patronized as the man who could make mills which saved expense by giving 20 pounds more flour to the barrel than any other.

Although Evans was not a native of this city, he was a descendant of the first Episcopal minister of Philadelphia, Evan Evans. The latter died in the year 1728. Oliver was born in Newport, Del., in 1755, and his parents were in humble circumstances. Early he developed a genius for invention, and while he was still a very young man he designed a non-condensing engine, in which power was derived from the tension of high-pressure steam. This invention has been the foundation of a long race of steamboat and locomotive engines. The brothers of Oliver were millers, and the young man soon joined them in their business. While engaged with his brothers he made many inventions and in 1780 he applied for a patent for the application of the steam engine for driving mills, but is said to have been refused.

It is said that as early as the year 1773, when Oliver was only 18, he was occupied with the subject of steam propulsion, both by land as well as water. In these lines, however, he was outdistanced by others, but in his steam carriage, which he named the Oruktor-Amphibolis, which first was put in operation in the year 1804, he was ahead of any person in this country in achieving steam propulsion by land. Evans, in an article in Poulson's Daily Advertiser some years later, thus describes his first attempt to exhibit his steam carriage.

"In the year 1804 I constructed at Philadelphia a machine of my invention for cleaning docks—a heavy, flat mud-flat, with a steam engine of the power of five horses in it to work the machinery. And to show that both steam carriages and steamboats were practicable with my steam engine, I first put wheels to it and propelled it by the engine a mile and a half to the Schuykill, although its weight was equal to that of 200 barrels of flour. I then fixed a paddlewheel at the stem, and propelled it by the engine down the Schuykill and up the Delaware, 16 miles, leaving all the vessels that were under sail full half-way behind me, the wind being ahead."

Evans had the strongest belief in the efficacy of steam to propel carriages, and therefore ought to be regarded as the father of the automobile.

While he occupied the little shop in St. James street Evans was following the business of manufacturing millstones. In 1797 we find him moved to what is now 232 South Second street, a little below St. James street, although the building so numbered is not the original structure. The alley next to it, early in the last century, was the entrance to the custom house, then located some distance back from the street. At the time Evans took his steam carriage to the Schuykill and made his historic voyage on the Delaware his shop was at the corner of Vine street and Ridge road. Later Evans went to New York and died there in 1819.

POWDERLY TO GET OLD POST.

Will Be Commissioner of Immigration Succeeding F. P. Sargent.

Washington.—The appointment of T. V. Powderly as commissioner of immigration to succeed the late Frank P. Sargent will, it is said, be announced in a few days.

Mr. Powderly was for years at the head of the Knights of Labor and is now chief of the information bureau of the immigration office. He was commissioner of immigration until succeeded by Mr. Sargent. He and Lyman J. Gage, while the latter was secretary of the treasury, and while the immigration bureau was a branch of the department, had a disagreement which resulted in Mr. Powderly's withdrawal from the commissionership. Mr. Powderly was general master workman of the Knights of Labor from 1879 to 1893 and from 1878 to 1884 was mayor of Scranton, Pa., elected on the Labor ticket. He was born in Carbondale, Pa., in 1849, and became a machinist. In 1884 he was admitted to the bar in Lackawanna county, Pennsylvania. Mr. Powderly has

SKIN TROUBLES CURED.

First Had Itching Rash—Threatened Later With Blood-Poison in Leg—Relied on Cuticura Remedies.

"About twelve or fifteen years ago I had a breaking-out, and it itched, and stung so badly that I could not have any peace because of it. Three doctors did not help me. Then I used some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent and began to get better right away. They cured me and I have not been bothered with the itching since, to amount to anything. About two years ago I had a grippe and pneumonia which left me with a pain in my side. Treatment ran it into my leg, which then swelled and began to break out. The doctor was afraid it would turn to blood-poison. I used his medicine but it did no good, then I used the Cuticura Remedies three times and cured the breaking-out on my leg. J. F. Avoid Boasting.

The worst use that can be made of success is to boast of it.—Arthur Helps.

A group of aeronauts were telling balloon stories in the smoking-room of a Chicago hotel. Capt. H. E. Honeywell, who, with the Fielding-Antonio balloon was later to break all long-distance speed records, laughed and said:

"The great Elyot made a balloon ascension from Charleston one hot summer afternoon. A thunder-storm came up. Elyot, amid buckets of rain, the roar of thunder and the flash of lightning, was blown about like this-tiedown. On toward midnight he found himself over a plantation and threw out his anchor—a grapnel at the end of a long rope.

"It happened that a colored man had died in one of the huts of this plantation. The funeral was to take place in the morning. A dozen friends of the dead man sat in the soft summer night before the hut, telling ghost stories.

"Suddenly in the darkness above them they heard strange noises—a flapping as of great wings, and monastic cries. And they saw dimly a formless black shape!

"All but one man ran. This one man, as he cowered on his stool, had the ill-luck to be seized by the grapnel.

"The grapnel, going at a great pace, whirled him up four or five feet in the air and jerked him along at the rate of fifteen miles an hour or so.

"Oh, massa, massa," he yelled, squirming and kicking in that strange flight. 'Tso not do cawpsol! Dick's in do house dah! In do house dah!"

The Writ of Injunction.

A timely article in the October Century will be a comparison, by the Hon. Seth Low, member of the Civic Federation, of the Republican and Democratic platforms in their treatment of the labor question. Under title of "The Writ of Injunction as a Party Issue," Mr. Low discusses at length—and with open sympathy with the general aims and purposes of organized labor—the attitude of the general public toward the injunction, the two injunction planks, labor and restraints of trade, and why parliament may pass certain legislation and congress may not.

Eat What

You want of the food you need Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it.

Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly.

When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you.

This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you.

It would bankrupt us. The dollar bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is made at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

ALDRICH TO RETIRE

LEADER OF SENATE WILL QUIT AT END OF TERM.

Angered by Passing of Party Rule in Upper House—Young Blood is Too Hard to Control is His Complaint.

Washington.—Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island is making arrangements to retire from public life at the expiration of his present term, March 3, 1911.

The declaration is made that age is responsible for this determination. He will be 70 when the time fixed for stopping off the stage arrives.

As a matter of cold-blooded fact Senator Aldrich is preparing to give up his position because the greatest deliberative body of the earth is daily becoming more and more nonpartisan.

Mr. Aldrich was elected to the senate in 1881, and will have served 30 years when he retires, according to his present determination, in 1911. Twelve years ago, in 1896, Mr. Aldrich became the tactical leader of the senate, when the Democrats were driven from control and that body was reorganized by the Republicans. He became chairman of the committee on rules. There was then a comparatively small working majority. A combination was arranged by which Senators Allison, Aldrich, Hale, Platt of Connecticut, and Spooner took entire control of the senate. Later, with the entrance of Hanna, he was made a member of this little group, and "the big six" was recognized as absolute and supreme. Step by step Mr. Aldrich was advanced until he became chairman of the finance committee, taking the place so long held by John Sherman. Allison took entire charge of all matters pertaining to the disbursement of public funds and Aldrich looked after all other legislative affairs. The other members of "the big six" were mere adjuncts.

Aldrich and Allison ruled the Republican majority with a rod of iron. And then Hanna died, Spooner retired, and Platt also passed away. Aldrich, Allison and Hale then became "the big three." Still more recently the great powers of Allison and Hale began to be impaired by ill health and age. Aldrich was left in absolute and undisputed domination.

Each year the Republican majority grew until now two-thirds of the senate are members of that party. As the majority grew the inclination to kick over the traces was more in evidence.

Every man wanted to be boss in his own right and continually lessened attention to the leadership of Mr. Aldrich. The culmination of this revolt came with the financial measure of which Mr. Aldrich was the author and which was modified and changed and made more drastic to suit the varying whims of those who refused to have their noses counted and vote accordingly.

With this revolution Mr. Aldrich saw the handwriting on the wall and decided to abandon the struggle for supremacy.

He would gladly relinquish his position now, before it is necessary next year to pilot a revised tariff bill through the senate and appease those representing many conflicting interests and sections. But he has more than two years yet to serve and does not care to run in the middle of a fight. He will wait until his term expires, being fully aware that perhaps the last vestige of tactical control may be wrested away from him in the very next contest.

Since the Aldrich bill passed a quiet canvas has been made among Republican senators for the purpose of ascertaining if a combination to overthrow the "boobism" of Mr. Aldrich can be formed. It is proposed to bind 20 or more Republican senators into a hard and fast agreement to cooperate on various matters of nonpartisan legislation. Acting with the Democrats, this number could enact all kinds of radical or reformatory laws and send them on to the house, despite the most vigorous antagonism of Mr. Aldrich.

If it is found possible to perfect this revolt within the Republican ranks and make it effective as a working force, the overthrow of Senator Aldrich will be accomplished long before the time fixed for his retirement from public life. And with him will probably pass all semblance of discipline and leadership on the Republican side of the senate.

DOG THAT RIDES ON ENGINES.

"Ginger" Boards Trains in Motion and Bosses Trainmen.

Baltimore, Md.—Ginger, a curly-haired, chromo-yellow dog of uncertain ancestry, with, however, a strain of patrician Irish terrier blood in his veins, has been appointed unofficial yardmaster at Calvert station, Northern Central railway. Ginger's promotion is unprecedented in railroad annals, because he only got his job with the company last fall. Merit alone has been responsible for his rise.

The trainmen at Calvert station felt the need of a dog for a long time before they all chipped in and bought Ginger from a saloon keeper. The dog when taken to the station was told that if he made good his rapid advancement would follow.

He made good. In two weeks he was riding the bumpers up and down the yard; in a month he made a tour of inspection of the road as far as Sparrows Point; a little while afterward he was bossing shifting operations in the yard at Calvert station, riding up and down on the pilot of the shifting engine and swearing in pure dog language when things didn't go just right.

Recently the trainmen thought that Ginger's work deserved special recognition, so they clubbed together and bought him a handsome leather collar with brass studs and a name plate, on which is engraved:

GINGER.
N. C. R., Calvert Station,
Baltimore, Md.

Calvert Station yard is a very disturbing place to a person who isn't used to such scenes. Huge engines are roaring and snorting up and down the tracks, shifting cars, taking trains out and performing other duties in clouds of steam and smoke. One wonders how anybody escapes being run over. But the trainmen are used to it, and so is Ginger. The dog has learned to board engines and cars and leave them while they are in motion, and always keeps an eye open for approaching trains when he is out on the tracks. Also he keeps watch on his friends, the trainmen, and if they get into what he considers a dangerous position he barks at them until they abandon it.

OTHER REMARKABLE CURES.

Mr. Jacob L. Davis, Galena, Stone county, Mo., writes: "I have been in bad health for thirty-seven years, and after taking twelve bottles of your Peruna I am cured." Mr. C. N. Peterson, 132 South Main St., Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I cannot tell you how much good Peruna has done me. Constant confinement in my store began to tell on my health, and I felt that I was gradually breaking down. I tried several remedies, but obtained no permanent relief until I took Peruna. I felt better immediately, and five bottles restored me to complete health."

A SINCERE RECOMMENDATION.

Mr. D. C. Prosser, Bravo, Allegan Co., Mich., writes: "Two years ago I was badly afflicted with catarrh of the stomach. I had had a run of typhoid fever, was very depleted. I could find nothing I could eat without causing distress and sour stomach. Finally I came to the conclusion that I had catarrh of the stomach and seeing Peruna advertised, began to take it. It helped me soon, and after taking three or four bottles I was entirely cured of stomach trouble, and can now eat anything."

DEATH OF ALEX ORMOND.

According to the El Paso Times news reached that city Saturday that Alex Ormond, for many years a member of the volunteer fire department and of the police force, died several days previous at San Borja, Chihuahua. He had been prospecting in the state of Chihuahua, near the Sonora line, and was taken ill out in the mountains. The direct cause of death was said to have been a fever contracted in the mountains of western Chihuahua.

Ormond was well known here and had many friends. About two years ago he was watchman for the railroad company, previous to which he had charge of the Pfaff saloon at Capitan.

TWO WAYS OF SERVING EGGS.

Changes from the Ordinary Methods of Preparing Them.

Eggs a la San Malo are a disguised dish. Four hard-cooked eggs, four slices of tomato seasoned with a little salad oil and tarragon vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, little lemon juice, some aspic jelly, pinch of pepper, fine watercress, chopped parsley or chopped pistachio nuts, two teaspoonfuls anchovy or caviare. Put the yolks, butter, caviare, pepper and lemon juice in a mortar and pound them until quite smooth. Put them in a forcing bag with plain tube and fill up the eggs.

Coat them with liquid aspic jelly, arrange on little sprigs of fine cress, chopped parsley or chopped pistachios. Reheat with more aspic. Dip the tomato in hot water, remove skin, slice, season with the salad oil and tarragon vinegar, and lay them on a lace paper in an entree dish. Lay eggs on top. Garnish with small cress and chopped aspic jelly.

Eggs a la Rossi are nearly as elaborate. Seven eggs, seven tablespoonfuls of cream, four tablespoonfuls of lean cooked chopped ham, two pickled gherkins, salt and pepper, seven slices of bread about one-half inch thick to cut out seven cases about 1/2 inch in diameter.

Stamp out the cases with a round cutter. Remove the centers carefully with a knife, so that a thin, hollow case of bread remains. Dip each case for a second in a little milk or brush over with beaten egg, roll in fine bread-crumbs; fry them a golden color in plenty of smoking hot fat. Drain them on white paper.

Carefully break an egg into each of the cases. Put one tablespoonful of cream on each egg; and a dust of salt and pepper. Place the cases in a moderate oven and bake them until the eggs are slightly set. Put a little chopped ham on the top of each egg, and lay across each four strips of gherkin. Serve at once, garnished with fried parsley.

SECURE SUPPLY OF FRESH AIR.

Necessary Ventilators Can Be Put in with Little Trouble.

Where steam-heat is installed, according to Suburban Life, ventilation is especially needed, for the absence of fires and open fireplaces deprives the rooms of a constant source of pure air, and architects are often negligent in supplying efficient substitutes for them. When building a house, it is very easy to have at least one open grating communicating with the outside air placed at the highest possible point in every room, with a flap, if desired, to prevent this outlet becoming an inlet; but even when the house is built without these necessary ventilators, they can be easily made with very little expense or trouble. Perhaps the simplest method of providing a constant inlet for a room is to have a counterpart of the lower rail of the sash-frame made, with upper and lower surfaces parallel. When this is put in its place and the window shut down on it, air comes in readily at the junction of the upper and lower frames, and at a height which prevents those sitting in the room from feeling any draught.

Candied Lemon Rind.

Don't throw away lemon and orange rind. When using lemons for lemonade you may take the rind off in strips or squeeze out the juice and keep the rind in halves. Clean out the inside, throw rinds into cold water, boil five minutes, drain, then cover with boiling water and boil until tender. Make a sirup from one pound of sugar and half a pint of water, skim, put in lemon rind. Cook until transparent. Put on stove to drain, stir sirup until it begins to granulate, and pour over. Let it harden and dry on the rinds. These are better for fruit cake and mince-meat than what you usually buy. Orange peels may be treated in the same way.

Mrs. Rebecca Mock, 1795 E. The kidney secretions were irregular, and I was nervous and lacked energy. But Doan's Kidney Pills gave me prompt relief and continued use cured me."

Nothing Would Help Him—Mother Almost in Despair—Owes Quick Cure to Cuticura.

"Several months ago, my little boy began to break out with itching sores. I doctored him, but as soon as I got them healed up in one place they would break out in another. I was almost in despair. I could not get anything that would help him. Then I began to use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and after using them three times, the sores commenced to heal. He is now well, and not a scar is left on his body. They have never returned nor left him with bad blood, as one would think. Cuticura Remedies are the best I have ever tried, and I shall highly recommend them to any one who is suffering likewise. Mrs. William Gedding, 102 Washington St., Attica, Ind., July 22, 1907."

How I Cured Sweeny and Fistula.

"I want to tell you how I saved one of our horses that had a fistula. We had the horse doctor out and he said it was so bad that he did not think he could cure it, and did not come again. Then we tried Sloan's Liniment and it cured it up nicely.

"One day last spring I was plowing for a neighbor who had a horse with sweeny, and I told him about Sloan's Liniment and he had me get a bottle for him, and it cured his horse all right, and he goes off now like a colt.

"We had a horse that had sweeny awfully bad and we thought it was never going to be any good, but we used Sloan's Liniment and it cured it up nicely. I told another neighbor about it and he said it was the best Liniment he ever used.

"We are using Sloan's Sure Colic Cure and we think it is all right."

A Hard Choice.

"The man's wife is suing his affinity, and they're both pretty."

"Well?"

"This puts the tender-hearted jury up against it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Man Over Forty.
Following his interesting and suggestive discussion of "The Age Mental Virility" in the April Century, Dr. W. A. N. Dorland will go further into the subject in the May number presenting under title of "What the World Might Have Missed," a brilliant and startling summary of the great work done by men over forty—in the field of science, in the world of art, in political and diplomatic life, in music and most of all, perhaps, in literature. The result of the Philadelphia Physicians' years of research along this line of investigation makes a splendid and stimulating showing for the man above middle age.

Big Financiers in Jail.
"So you people put a couple of magnates in jail on heavy fines, did you?" asks the investigating reformer.

"Yes," replies the native. "We fined them the limit; they wouldn't pay and we put them in cells."

"That's a good example."
"Is it? Within two days they organized the prisoners, guards and jailers into the International Penalty Company, issued five hundred million in bonds, paid the fines of all the prisoners, left us with a mortgage on the jail and the court house—and stuck the surplus money in their pockets."—Chicago Evening Post.

Looked Like a Hoe.
"What's dat, boss?"
"Why, that's a safety razor, Sam."
"Er what?"
"A safety razor, Sam. Didn't you ever use one?"
"No, sah, boss. I never did. When I wants to use a hoe I ain't gwine ter use it on m' face!"—Yonkers Statesman.

FOR THOSE FOND OF CHERRIES.

Four Recipes with This Fruit as a Foundation.

Candied Cherries—Wash, stem and pit one pound of large, firm cherries, putting a pound of sugar to a pound of the fruit. Boil the juice and the sugar to a very thick sirup. Put the cherries in this sirup and let them simmer—not boil—for ten minutes. Then set them away in the sirup until the next day. The next morning take the cherries out of the sirup and put in a deep dish. Let the sirup boil up once and pour over the cherries. This should be done for three mornings. On the fourth morning boil the sirup almost to the thickness of candy, dip the cherries in and let them get thoroughly coated, then place them separately on flat dishes and dry.

German Cherry Pie—Make a cherry pie as usual, but omit the upper crust. When almost done beat one egg until very light and add to it one scant half cupful of rice cream. Pour this mixture over the top of the pie. Put pie back in oven and bake until the custard is set. This makes a very attractive as well as an appetizing dish.

Cherry Tapioca—Soak one small cup of tapioca in water over night. In the morning add a pinch of salt and cook until clear, then add butter the size of an egg and one cup of sour cherries, which have been washed and stoned. Add to this sugar enough to sweeten. Flavor with vanilla, turn into earthen or agate dish and bake until it bubbles up. Serve ice cold with rice cream.

Cherry Salad—This is a very dainty dish and really requires little time. For a course at a luncheon it is most tempting. Either the large white or red cherries can be used and it is most effective to mix the two colors. The fruit should be stoned without breaking and in the place of each stone is placed a nut meat (hickory nut, hazelnut or anything you have on hand). The cherries are then spread on the white leaves of lettuce and served with a sharp French dressing, omitting the pepper.

FOR JELLIED CHICKEN PIES.

Just the Dish That Will Find Favor on a Hot Day.

Joint a pair of tender chickens as for fricasse. Cover with cold water, putting the cleaned giblets with them. Set at the side of the range and bring slowly to a gentle boil. Keep this up for half an hour. Take out the meat and set aside to cool. Add to the gravy a teaspoonful of onion juice, a stalk of celery, chopped, a tablespoonful of minced parsley, pepper and salt to taste. Boil for half an hour longer, closely covered.

Soak two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in cold water for an hour, and while the gravy is still hot strain it over the soaked gelatin. Then pour upon the chicken. Have ready a good puff paste nearly an inch thick. Arrange the chicken neatly in a deep dish, pour in the gravy, which should cover the meat entirely, put on the crust, printing it all around the edge to prevent shrinking and "crawling," and bake in a moderate oven for an hour with a paper over the crust. Remove the paper and brown.

Should be eaten cold with sauce.

German Butter Cookies.

These are most delicious and will inspire respect in the heart of a tea-time guest—particularly if cut with fancy shaped cutters.

Mix together to a cream two cups sugar and 2 1/2 cups butter, and add two tablespoons of sweet milk; three well-beaten eggs and just flour enough to roll out. Cut into the desired shapes, place them on a buttered tin and brush the tops with egg yolk mixed with a little water. Mix together one cup of granulated sugar, one teaspoon each of cinnamon and cardamom seed and one cup chopped Jordan almonds. Sprinkle this mixture over the top of the cookies and bake in a quick oven till light brown.

Gave It to Them Straight.
At a heavy transfer point on Sixth avenue, says a letter to the New York Times, few seats being vacant on a Twenty-third street car, a youth darted under the arm of a stout woman and plumped himself down in the seat she was about to occupy. Glaring, she hurled at him: "If I wasn't a perfect lady I'd swat you one on the mouth." Another young man arose, raised his hat, and begged her to sit down. When seated she beamed upon him and said: "Sir, you're a gentleman; them others is hogs."

RAISED FROM SICK BED.

After All Hope Had Vanished,

Mrs. J. H. Bennett, 59 Fountain St., Gardiner, Me., says: "My back used to trouble me so severely that at last I had to give up. I took to my bed and stayed there four months, suffering intense pain, dizziness, headache and inflammation of the bladder. Though without hope, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, and in three months was completely cured. The trouble has never returned."

NAME WAS A COMPROMISE.

Explanation of Remarkable Cognomen of Nevada Town.

A Nevada man having extensive mining claims in the goldfield region tells of a lucky strike that was made last year near Carson City, a strike that proved to be of such promise that a goodly sized camp immediately sprang up around it.

The two principal mine owners were, respectively, an Irishman and a Jew, and as a compliment to these leading citizens the camp decided to leave to them the bestowal of a suitable name upon the new community.

There followed many conferences between the two, none of which resulted in an agreement. The Irishman stood out for a name that would suggest his native isle, while the Jew was just as insistent, on his part, for a name that should be suggestive of the chosen people. This deadlock continued so long that the rest of the camp grew restless, and finally insisted that there should be a compromise. So the new camp was called "Tipperisalem."—Lippincott's.

Australia's Wild Oysters.

Oysters are sometimes regarded as dangerous but they are not usually considered savage. A Queensland judge, however, has decided that they are wild beasts. Before a royal commission on the pearling industry, which has been sitting at Brisbane, a witness stated that eight years ago he had laid 100,000 shells in the neighborhood of Friday Island. The Japanese stole the shells, and the district court judge held that as pearl shell oysters were wild animals there was no penalty for stealing them.

NO GUSHER

But Tells Facts About Postum.

"We have used Postum for the past eight years," writes a Wis. lady, "and drink it three times a day. We never tire of it.

"For several years I could scarcely eat anything on account of dyspepsia, bloating after meals, palpitation, sick headache—in fact was in such misery and distress I tried living on hot water and toast for nearly a year.

"I had quit coffee, the cause of my trouble, and was using hot water, but this was not nourishing.

"Hearing of Postum I began drinking it and my ailments disappeared, and now I can eat anything I want without trouble.

"My parents and husband had about the same experience. Mother would often suffer after eating, while yet drinking coffee. My husband was a great coffee drinker and suffered from indigestion and headache.

"After he stopped coffee and began Postum both ailments left him. He will not drink anything else now and we have it three times a day. I could write more, but am no gusher—only state plain facts."

CITY'S BUSIEST MAN

MULTIFARIOUS ACTIVITIES OF CAPITOL SUPERINTENDENT.

At Least Fifteen Places of Responsibility Filled by Elliott Woods—Music His Chief Recreation—How He Spends His Days.

Washington.—"I do not know how Elliott Woods could be overworked unless he was hitched double with a mule," "Uncle Joe" Cannon recently remarked to the superintendent of the capitol, recognized as the busiest man in Washington. Woods is heels over head in work every winter, but it is in the hottest part of the summer that his energy has the most strenuous calls made upon it, so that everything may be in shape for the reconvening of congress and that all the plans made by the national legislators may be faithfully carried out.

Woods has four separate offices and fills at least 15 places, all of which have responsibilities and require his official attention. His engagement book is more voluminous and comprehensive than that of the most popular debutante. First of all, he is in charge of the whole capitol and the new office buildings of the senate and house. He belongs to all the commissions appointed by congress to look after the selection of sites and construction of monuments and memorials. He is engaged in drawing up the plans of the proposed Lincoln memorial, the plans for the new buildings for the departments of state, justice and commerce and labor, and he is also working on the design for the new pediment to be placed on the west wing of the capitol. Besides, he is the superintendent in charge of the installation of the underground railroad from the capitol to the various office buildings, and he also has to decide what sort of contrivance shall be used to make it possible for members of the house seated in their offices to hear all that is being said on the floor of the house.

It is Woods who is responsible for the greenness and freshness of the capitol lawns and terraces; he is the author of all improvements inside the building; he is at the head of the work on the new heating, lighting and power plant, which will cost $1,500,000, and he is also in charge of the work on the $200,000 addition to the District of Columbia courthouse. All these things he does with the greatest modesty and good humor.

He is an early riser, of necessity rather than inclination. A cup of coffee about six o'clock is his breakfast, and there immediately ensues a mad rush for his first office, which is in a building by itself to the south of the capitol. He used to drive horses on his daily rounds, but the beasts were not endowed with his energy, so they have long since been replaced by an automobile which usually exceeds the speed limit some miles. After he has heard the early morning complaints, read all the mail and given his daily orders to the assistants at his first office, he visits his "den" in the house office building. There he hurries the completion of that splendid structure and betakes himself to his third headquarters in the senate office building. His fourth stop is his main office in the capitol. He reaches here about one o'clock, after a morning which has sped all too rapidly. Some time between one and two o'clock, when he has a spare five minutes, he eats luncheon. He does not attempt pre-digested foods, but eats five minutes' worth and then stops.

The rest of the day he is supervising the work that is going on about him, talking to the numerous visitors that besiege him, being nice to foreign architects who view the capitol and making his plans for the next day. After a good dinner his chief recreation is music. He has composed some creditable strains and hopes to have a complete opera of his own produced next winter. The piano is his forte, but he plays the violin and several other instruments with sure facility.

OLD "VIRGINIA TRAILER."

Odd Looking Vehicle Once Popular Type of Land Craft.

Kansas City, Mo.—George W. McCanne of Jacksonville, Mo., is the owner of a queer looking land craft. In the days of its making (1831) it was known as a "Virginia Trailer." It was built for the trail to the west, and represents ten times the amount of labor that is put upon the very strongest and best wagons of to-day. The tires around the rear wheels are five feet six inches in diameter, and are made of hammered iron. After thousands of miles of travel the tires are three-fourths of an inch thick, two inches broad and the four weigh over 400 pounds.

The wagon was constructed in Lincoln county, Kentucky, by William McCanne, for the purpose of removing his family of six children and his household goods to Missouri. Two blacksmiths hammered out iron bars for all the braces, rings, straps and hub bands. The picture shows the feed box on the tongue, where it was placed when the oxen were feeding. While on the journey the feed box was bolted to the rear end. There were two "booms," across which canvas was fastened to protect the family.

To draw this ponderous vehicle from Kentucky to Missouri Mr. McCanne used two yoke of oxen and a span of horses. The wagon had a capacity of six tons of freight.

Arriving in Missouri, Mr. McCanne took up 600 acres of land at the government valuation of $1.25 per acre. Much of this land is yet in the hands of his descendants.

Mr. McCanne, the maker of the wagon, was a veteran of the war of 1812. It has been estimated that were a modern wagon factory given the contract to duplicate the "Virginia Trailer," using only hammered iron, and making mortises instead of holes, it would cost nearly $1,000. The ancient vehicle was constructed with thoughtful care for every emergency. The hubs for the rear wheels are nearly as large as beer kegs, being 20 inches in length and ten inches in diameter. The bed is 16 feet from end to end.

The "Virginia Trailer" was modeled somewhat after the army wagons used in the last war with Great Britain. Every piece of wood about it is thick and nearly as hard as iron. The ball from no Indian rifle could penetrate it, and a ring of such wagons, defended by American pioneers, would form an impregnable fortification against their copper-colored enemies.

What He Needed.

The Leavenworth Times says that a young society man went into a Leavenworth clothing store recently and asked to look at leggins. "I want something to cover the whole calf," he remarked. "Hadn't you better buy a whole suit of clothes?" said the merchant, suggestively.

MINISTER A TRIFLE MIXED UP.

Consequently There Was an Awkward Perhaps in Funeral Oration.

It was at the funeral of a man who had left his young and attractive helpmeet a widow for the third time. At the time of his death their clergyman was away on a European trip, and in this emergency the Rev. Dr. Blank was called upon.

A neighbor instructed him hastily as to the admirable qualities of the deceased, his benevolence, piety and kind disposition, and gave him various points as to his family relations. During the funeral discourse no outsider would have suspected that the clergyman had not been a lifelong friend of the dead man. When, however, he came to mention the widow in his prayer, it was evident that his data in regard to her had become a trifle confused. He said:

"And now we commend to thy care this widowed handmaid, who has been bereaved again and again and again. Then hesitating an instant, he added: "And perhaps again."

Where Great Writer Lived.

Craigspitlock, where Carlyle's "Sartor Resartus" was written, has just been the scene of a notable wedding. The bride was Miss Mary Carlyle of Craigspitlock, a grand-niece of Thomas Carlyle, and the bridegroom James Carlyle, a farmer of Pingle, Dumfriesshire, a son of Thomas Carlyle's favorite nephew. Pingle is about four miles from Ecclefechan, Carlyle's birthplace, and this village is the original of the Entuph of "Sartor Resartus."

WITH THE IMMORTALS.

From the Denver News.

Bryan is defeated in his third race for the presidency. The News hoped it might be otherwise. We knew perfectly the terrific forces arrayed against the commoner, but we knew likewise the trend of sentiment toward him, and we believed for a long time the tide would set strongly enough to carry him to the White House. We were mistaken. But we were not mistaken in our estimate of the man. Defeated though he be, defeated for the third time, we hold that Bryan has won a place among the immortals. For to Bryan, more than to any other man, more than to any other twenty men, is due the rising tide of reform. When in '96 the "interests" felt that they had gained absolute mastery of both parties, Bryan rose and wrested control of one great organization from them. Every measure of relief from licensed or unlicensed extortion that has passed since that day was initiated by Bryan. The reforms for which Roosevelt has taken credit were filched bodily from the commoner's chest. Mr. Bryan is defeated. But in defeat we should not be at all surprised to see him exert a greater influence on the legislation of the next four years than his victorious rival. He is unquestionably the abler man. He has an immeasurably clearer insight into conditions. He must still be reckoned with, and the nation is to be congratulated on that fact.

When the political history of the last fifty years is written, few things will seem more remarkable than the perennial popularity of Bryan. Without an office, without a machine, without the prestige of past success or the power behind him of organized wealth—indeed with all these things against him, he is still the tribune of the people, the foremost man of a great though beaten party. We of today understand a portion of the reasons for his strength. We know the earnestness, the honesty, the clear-cut intellect and biting speech of the man. We know his life against which no one has dared to cast the mud of scandal. We know his remarkable power over men. The other factors are hidden from us. They may be revealed in the future, or they may not. But this we know, whether history can explain the greatness of the man or not, history will not recognize that greatness to the full.

Mr. Bryan's place in history is secure. Mr. Tait's is yet to make. With loyalty to the vanquished, and willing friendliness for the victor, the News clears the slate.
