A ROUSING MEETING.

In answer to a notice in last week's papers, and a subsequent distribution of circulars announcing a mass meeting at the Bank Hall Wednesday night, a large crowd gathered and took part in the deliberation of the meeting.

Will J. Doering, who had been one of prime movers of the gathering, called the meeting to order and announced its purpose. The purpose, in a word, was to create a community of interest by the formation of an organization to work for the upbuilding and advancement of Carrizozo and community. Mr. Doering called for the nomination of a chairman, and the name of J. H. Canning being the only one presented he was unanimously chosen for the position.

Upon taking the chair, Mr. Canning enlarged more fully, in a business-like talk, upon the necessity for organization and the good to be derived from concerted and intelligent action. Will J. Doering was elected secretary of the meeting.

The chair called for expressions from many citizens present, and a unanimity of feeling and interest were advanced by each and every speaker. It was the consensus of opinion that the meeting organize a club or association of some kind, and a motion to that effect was adopted without a dissenting voice. The newly born organization had to have a name. Several were suggested, and finally the name, "Chamber of Commerce," was adopted. A motion prevailed that a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer be elected, and that the president appoint a committee of three to draft a set of by-laws, said committee to present its draft to a meeting in the same hall next wednesday night.

The officers elected were J. H. Canning, president, J. F. Kimbell, vice-president; Will J. Doering, Secretary; Frank J. Sager treasurer.

The committee appointed by the chair to draft a set of by-laws for the government of the chamber of commerce consisted of Jno A. Haley, Geo W. Hall and Ed. R. Kelley. A committee on membership, consisting of five members, was also appointed. This committee was authorized to ascertain, so far as possible, the probable cost of the improvements talked of and also the expense of carrying out various suggestions made at the meeting, solicit membership and subscriptions. This committee consists of O. L. Henry, E. D. Fred, J. F. Kimbell, S. W. Perry and Albert Ziegler. A further committee was appointed, known as the "Fire" committee, to consult with interested parties as to securing some fire protection for the town. Ira O. Wetmore, F. W. Gurney and Geo. Roslington compose this committee. The chamber adjourned to convene next Wednesday night at the Bank Hall.

Thus ended what was, perhaps, the most important meeting in the history of the town. The crowd was large; it was enthusiastic; it was harmonious. Not a discordant note was heard, and the enthusiasm and support given every proposition looking to the betterment of Carrizozo are significant auguries of the town's future growth and prosperity.

Don't forget next Wednesday night's meeting—everybody come.

COST OF TAKING THE CENSUS.

The cost of taking the next census, as estimated by Director North in his annual report issued will be $12,930,000. The director points with pride to the fact that this sum is but $410,000 more than the cost of the census of 1900, notwithstanding the enormous growth in the population during the last decade. If the work can be done for this sum it will be the first time in the history of the nation that a census has been taken and compiled at practically the same cost as the previous enumeration. The increase from decade to decade heretofore has been about 50 per cent.

AN IMPORTANT CONCESSION TO HOMESTEADERS.

An important concession to homesteaders in New Mexico, has been made by the general land office, granting additional leave of absence to such homesteaders as may need such leave for the purpose of earning a living while improving their homesteads. The drouth conditions which have prevailed in several sections of New Mexico, notably in the counties of Union, Quay, Roosevelt, Guadalupe, Torrance and Lincoln, during the past year have made the problem of living a serious one to many homeseekers and have resulted in many applications for leave of absence over and above the legal limit.

The Santa Fe land office has just received a circular in which the remedy is supplied.

Under this circular the register and receiver of each land district together with the special agent are designated an advisory board for such district for the purpose of passing upon applications for leave of absence. The homesteader who finds that he cannot make a living on his claim during the season and who desires leave of absence must make application and state his case to this board, when, in the event that the conditions justify it the board is empowered to grant further leave of absence without prejudice to the rights of the homesteader.

ARTICLES ON IRRIGATION.

Territorial Engineer Vernon L. Sullivan has published a pamphlet on irrigation, the articles appearing therein having been prepared by citizens of various parts of the territory in competition for a prize offered by the engineer, at the late National Irrigation Congress at Albuquerque. The pamphlet contains many valuable suggestions, not only relating to irrigation from streams and reservoirs, but also successful irrigation from wells.

The prize was awarded to F. G. Tracy, of Carlsbad, New Mexico. In our opinion, one of the most striking and important paragraphs in the prize-winning article is the following:

"He has learned that the proper use of water for irrigation begins with the CONSERVATION OF THE RAINFALL, and under conditions like his own which are common to the greater portion of this territory, this calls for FALL FLOWING if the best results are to be obtained the following season. The storage of this rainfall in the soil is of more importance to New Mexico, because more generally practicable than to store it in surface reservoirs. Every farmer can do this with little actual expense and with certain profit to himself and benefit to the community."

PROMINENT PEOPLE

MAY GET NOBEL PRIZE

English literary circles are decidedly interested in the announcement that this year's Nobel prize for literary pre-eminence will, in all probability, be awarded to Algernon Charles Swinburne, often called the greatest living poet and unquestionably the foremost producer of English poetic literature since the Victorians.

Algernon Charles Swinburne has been a considerable figure in British letters since 1861, and a towering one in the world's poetry for at least a quarter of a century. It is more true of Swinburne than of most poets that no genuine estimate of their work can be given in their lifetime. Swinburne's work has always created the utmost degree of bitter contention and it is moreover so many sided as to be difficult of ready comparison. There are those who readily class him as a greater poet than Tennyson, while inferior to Browning. Still others condemn his work because it has never touched the heart of the mass. Of course this last may have been due mainly to the tendency of the age, away from poetry and more advanced literature. In the end it is merely a matter of opinion.

It has always been a matter of comment among many judges of verse that Swinburne has not before now been awarded the Nobel prize.

Swinburne is the son of a gentle British family. His mother was the daughter of a peer and his father, Admiral Swinburne, a naval officer of distinction. Swinburne is 71 years old.

FACES FINANCIAL RUIN

Col. William C. Greene, copper king and virtual prince of Cananea, Old Mexico, is reported to be a physical wreck and not far from a wreck in a financial sense. Worry over his mining properties and other investments has driven him to the verge of collapse, and in the care of two physicians and a retinue of nurses he has retired to the mountains of northern Mexico.

Col. Greene has been one of the bizarre characters in the financial world. A few years ago his wealth was estimated in the hundreds of millions, and even to-day his mining properties are believed to be exceedingly valuable if they were reorganized and properly handled. The fiery colonel trusted his lieutenants implicitly, however, and his present troubles are the result of his ill-placed trust.

Born in New York state half a century ago, Greene went when quite young to Arizona, and became a typical cowboy of the old type. He could ride, gamble, shoot, fight Indians or desperadoes and he was considered a man without fear. He was often wounded and he has killed his man.

From ranching he turned to mining, and in this field his pluck, audacity, judgment and shrewdness made him quick wealth. The Cananea district, in the state of Sonora, Mexico, is almost a metropolis. It is the seat of exceptionally rich gold, silver and copper mines belonging to Greene, and has a population of nearly 25,000, largely transient. Greene is its literal king, and it is even a wicked camp than Deadwood, Cripple Creek or Silver City were in their woolliest days. In New York he has been the business associate of John W. Gates, James A. Drake and other big Wall street men. He has thrown money carelessly and made his stenographer a present of stock which brought her $250,000.

SEEKS TO PREVENT FLOODS

George Otis Smith, director of the United States geological survey, has invited the officers of the leading railroads of the country to a conference to study out a co-operative plan for saving hundreds of thousands of dollars and the scores of lives that are lost every year in this country through floods. It is proposed to gather facts as to the amount of water floating in the rivers of the country under certain conditions and in different periods of the year. It is proposed that the roads, through their employes, take daily readings of the water conditions at all bridges and culverts. By that means when there is danger of a rise the government and other roads can co-operate in either averting the trouble or in getting the danger and the financial loss down to the minimum point.

The railroads have heretofore been the chief sufferers from floods in the basins where their tracks lie and Director Smith is the first man in a position of authority to suggest or take any steps toward the fulfillment of a plan for the elimination of the danger and expenses from this source. The United States geological survey is the largest organization of its kind in the world, and possibly the most important scientific bureau or organization in America. Its administration is naturally in the hands of a group of trained specialists, and of the four men who have been at the head of the bureau during its 25 years of existence Prof. Smith is considered perhaps the most able scientist. He was an assistant to his predecessor, Director Walcott, before he succeeded to the position in May, 1907. In the former capacity he had carried on geological work in Michigan and others of the middle west and eastern states. He had also done economic work in the coal fields of the west.

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

No other medicine has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women or received so many genuine testimonials as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every one you meet has either been benefited by it, or has friends who have.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., any woman any day may see the files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, and here are the letters in which they openly state over their own signatures that they were cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made from roots and herbs, without drugs, and is wholesome and harmless.

The reason why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the feminine organism, restoring it to a healthy normal condition.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

ANEGLECTED CASTLE

WHY IS KAISER'S OLD FAMILY HOME UNVISITED?

Too Much Poetry There for Kaiserin, Says Public Report—Dislike for Second Place Said to Be Real Cause for Staying Away.

Hechingen, Germany.—"Why doesn't the kaiser or the kaiserin ever come to the castle of Hohenzollern?" is a question that they are asking these days, not only in the ancient provinces of Hohenzollern, but throughout southwestern Germany.

This magnificent pile is situated on a wooded spur of the Swabian Alb, just above Hechingen. For this reason, although the castle dominates the landscape of almost the whole of Hohenzollern, Hechingen takes an especial interest in the structure and would say it if it were not less majestic that it is hurt at the kaiser's neglect.

"The old kaiser, Wilhelm I., came often to the castle," said one of the citizens, "and seemed to take considerable pride in it. Many of the royal family or members of the Prussian court used to come and there was some representative of the house on the hill most of the time. The present ruler in his younger days used to visit us himself.

"But after the completion of Neuschwanstein, planned by King Ludwig of Bavaria, he lost his interest in Hohenzollern. It was as a restoration of a mediaeval stronghold dwarfed by its superb Bavarian rival.

"On account of similarity in situation and construction, the two were often compared—and our kaiser, you know, is not a man who likes to have second place. So Hohenzollern in course of time came to shift pretty much for itself."

As a matter of history and legend it seems that on the eminence on which the castle is so admirably situated there was always a Hohenzollern. There was a stronghold there in the ninth century.

Destroyed and rebuilt through varying fortunes of war it covered much the same ground in the fourteenth century that the building now does. With the passing of the age of chivalry, the old fortress fell into ruins and Frederick IV. of Prussia, wishing to preserve the ancestral home of his family, restored it upon a model of a castle of the latter part of the fourteenth century.

If the visitor should not be satisfied with this brief statement, which may be found in almost any school history, he will not have to go for more information to a guide book. He can read it on the walls and at the same time acquire a large collection of German verses.

The simplest statement is not in trusted to plain prose, but everything is told in rhyme. No other castle in the world is said to have quite so much poetry on its Rhymes on the gate, walls, stairways, tablets, etc. outcrops, scrolls and in festoons re-forth the genealogy of the Hohenzollern family from the earliest time to the present.

That a castle may have too much poetry about it Hechingen firmly believes. It thinks, moreover, that if there had been less of it, or if what there was had been of a better quality, the kaiserin might not have got tired and might have deligned to return.

"Her majesty came here once," said a Hechingen man who seemed to know all about Hohenzollern. "At first she was enthusiastic over the castle, its superb situation and its architectural beauty, and she started in to study the building.

"The inscriptions over the gate caught her eye and she read them. She continued to read as she walked on. She read verse after verse, until finally when she had finished with the genealogical hall she asked to be shown to the royal apartments.

"There were more rhymes there. She went into the library and there were more there. Then she went away. They say that the verses got on her nerves and that she could not stand them. She has never been back since."

EX-COTTON KING NOW A CLERK.

Dan Sully Now Employed on Salary of $10,000 a Year.

New York.—Daniel J. Sully, who, it seems only yesterday, was the Livermore of the cotton market, has gone to work on a salary. No longer the millionaire employer, the man who made hundreds of brokers jump and squirm as he squeezed or expanded cotton to his fancy, has descended from his high eminence to the post of factotum in the cotton concern of Hayden, Stone & Co.

The whilom "King" Sully is now a cotton expert at a salary estimated at about $10,000 a year. Only four years ago he often made that in a day. He would spend it on a horse, or a picture. But fate has swept away the floor of his riches and he must now toil a year for what was before a paltry dripping of his huge operations.

Mr. Sully's new office is a well equipped office as offices go, but woefully shabby and dull compared with the splendid, bustling suite he occupied in the days of his great prosperity.

In those years (1902-1904) Sully was not regarded as a conservative. In fact, he was heralded as the greatest plunger the cotton exchange had ever known. He bought and sold by the tens of thousands of bales. He dictated prices by squeezes and inflations, by tilting his holdings this way and that to suit the whim of his speculations.

But all that is changed. He has become an ultra conservative.

Mr. Sully no longer lives in a mansion on Fifth avenue, but maintains a modest villa in Pelham Manor. He is no longer a member of any exchange.

His last big plunge, when he endeavored to become a "Soap King," lost him the remainder of his fortune—$250,000.

MERRY DEL VAL TO RETIRE.

Protests of American Cardinals Against Modernism Said to Be Cause.

Rome.—According to the Avanti Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, is about to retire. This step, it is asserted, is an outcome of representations made to the Vatican by American and English prelates, but particularly Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Ireland, who objected to the secretary's severe measures against modernism.

According to the Avanti Cardinal Vannutelli received these complaints in London at the eucharistic congress and transmitted them to the pope.

Cardinal Merry del Val will probably be succeeded by Cardinal Rampolla, who formerly held this office. Rampolla's return to power would mean a policy of dignified conciliation with regard to France and an attitude of greater reserve toward Italy.

SICK MAN WANTED CHANGE.

More Than Willing to Make Transfer with Physician.

A Syracuse business man who, besides being extremely active and ambitious, has much sense of humor, was taken sick with a slight attack of pneumonia. His physician, aware that it would be a task to keep his high-strung patient in bed, sought to impress on him the seriousness of the ailment and the necessity of absolute rest; all of which the sick man listened to in a bored manner. Nevertheless he consented to obey the doctor.

But this enforced inactivity rankled in him; and each succeeding day found the patient importuning the medical man attendant to allow him to get out to business. Then, disgusted, he would lie back to cast imprecations at the inexorable physician.

One morning the physician, after having been up all night on an important case, appeared at his patient's house at the usual hour. He had hardly stuck his haggard face inside the door, however, before the man in the bed gave him a quick glance and sat up.

"Eh? ejaculated the patient. Then shoving out his hand to grasp the doctor's satchel, he added: "Doc, I guess you'd better get into bed here and let me go out with the medicine bag."

Making Sure.

Our Freddy is fully endowed with the inquiring mind of youth. Recently he said: "Mamma, who puts the bottle of milk on our front porch every night when we are all asleep?"

"Isn't that a rather foolish question?" his mother answered. "Whom do you suppose?"

"Well," said the small investigator, thoughtfully, "I suppose God does, but I'd like to know for sure!"—A. M. A.

Work of Zambesi Missions.

A pamphlet recently issued by Andrew Murray gives a brief survey of missions south of the Zambesi. There are 31 different missionary organizations at work, ministering to over 10,000,000 people. The student volunteer movement in South Africa has put 84 young missionaries in the field since 1896.

NOT A MIRACLE.

Just Plain Cause and Effect.

There are some quite remarkable things happening every day, which seem almost miraculous.

Some persons would not believe that a man could suffer from coffee drinking so severely as to cause spells of unconsciousness. And to find complete relief in changing from coffee to Postum is well worth recording.

"I used to be a great coffee drinker, so much so that it was killing me by inches. My heart became so weak I would fall and lie unconscious for an hour at a time. The spells caught me sometimes two or three times a day.

"My friends, and even the doctor, told me it was drinking coffee that caused the trouble. I would not believe it, and still drank coffee until I could not leave my room.

"Then my doctor, who drinks Postum himself, persuaded me to stop coffee and try Postum. After much hesitation I concluded to try it. That was eight months ago. Since then I have had but few of those spells, none for more than four months.

"I feel better, sleep better and am better every way. I now drink nothing but Postum and touch no coffee, and as I am seventy years of age all my friends think the improvement quite remarkable."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Inspiration vs. Perspiration.

"Bishop Potter was a wonderfully effective preacher," said a Brooklyn clergyman. "His method was reserved and quiet. He always had himself well in hand.

"I once delivered a sermon before him. I was young and enthusiastic at the time, a disciple of the methods of Tallmago. I let myself go in that sermon. My voice shook the church. My gestures shook the pulpit.

"At luncheon afterwards, I am ashamed to say that I fished for compliments. I leaned over the bishop and asked him in a low voice to give me some advice on preaching.

"Dear knows what I expected him to reply—probably that I was beyond any advice from him. At any rate, what he did reply was this:

"My dear young friend, never mistake in the pulpit perspiration for inspiration."

This section of territory was visited by a fair-sized snow last Saturday. The fall here was about five inches, while in the mountains and beyond the range, east, from whence it came, the fall was a foot, or more. You want of the food you need Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it.

Else you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly. When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do it is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

TWO VIEWS ON THIS COUNTRY.

Dr. R. C. Burton, who came to this country from Greene county, Arkansas, about one year ago, and now lives on a homestead near here, has written a long and interesting letter, to the Soliphone, a paper published in his old home town. In this letter, Mr. Burton tells his impressions of the country, after a year's residence. The letter is too long to be wholly reproduced in the Nuws; therefore, only selections are taken. The reverse side of the picture is painted by M. P. Collier, who passed through Carrizozo in November. That the latter was written by a man who looked at this country through smoked glasses, any unprejudiced reader must conclude. However, a portion of Mr. Burton's letter is given, and, from the same paper, the response of Mr. Collier, and our readers may judge for themselves. Here they are:

"We are located in the south central part of the territory, one hundred miles from Old Mexico on a plain nearly 6,000 feet above sea level. * Good drinking water can be had at a depth of from 25 to 75 feet. We have filed on 80 acres of land one mile from the depot; got water by digging 25 feet. We have two railroads, and a little town of twelve or fifteen hundred inhabitants. * The farmers have only been settling here for the last two years. There is perhaps not two dozen farms in 20 miles of here that have been cultivated for more than two years. * Seven-tenths of all the land that has ever been filed on has been filed on in the last two years—I mean near Carrizozo. * *

"Our little town has open saloons, yet I have not seen a drunken man since I have been here. Everybody seems to mind his own business and leave others to do the same. We have a good 4-room school house about completed, but no church house, though the Methodists have Sunday school and preaching every Sunday in a rented hall. * This, like all other countries, has its advantages and disadvantages. As to climate, it is perfectly lovely; it never gets very cold here; if it snows today, it will be gone tomorrow. We never have to pull through the mud on account of heavy spring rains. When the sun shines hot in mid-summer we always have a pleasant breeze, and when night comes we are not bothered with insects; we just close our windows and doors, pull up a blanket and go to sleep. While this is the healthiest country on the globe with good soil, yet this is a drouthy country and the spring months are very windy. You have to close your doors to keep the sand out of your houses, though we soon get accustomed to this and go along as though the wind was not blowing. This country has been tramped so much by stock we have to break our land in the fall and early winter, so it will get the winter's rain and snow; if not we won't make much the first year. Most of us who broke our land last spring made almost a failure this year. I have just been looking over some of my neighbors' fields that have been in cultivation several years. Their crops were fine. Corn will make from 50 to 75 bushels per acre; bumpkins, potatoes and everything looks fine and nice. I think this is the country with greater possibilities than any country I ever saw. While we are at an altitude of about 6,000 feet, we are surrounded with mountains and elevate their heads from 2,000 to 7,000 feet above us, most of the mountains are covered with fine grass and wild oats; plenty of game, such as bear, deer, turkey, etc."

Replying, Mr. Collier says: "I passed through Dr. Burton's town, Carrizozo, N. M., about noon Sunday, and as the train stops there some little time, I got off to view the town and the surroundings. The Rock Island Railroad has its round house, small repair shops and quite a good lot of trackage right in the town and has made it the end of the freight division. On the east of the town is a range of barren mountains within a half-mile or so, on which I saw a good deal of snow, but the weather was very pleasant in the town and it was uncomfortably warm in the cars. West of town is a barren waste with absolutely no soil on the ground or vegetation of any kind except a small bush, 12 to 18 inches high, and an occasional cactus. I would not exchange an acre of Greene or Clay country lands for 100 acres like that I saw around Carrizozo. The town appears to have about two or three thousand inhabitants and very few farm houses within sight of the railroad track. I could see no herds of sheep or goats and rather suspect the doctor has drawn on his imagination very largely in the matter of his speculative sheep and goat culture."

We are quite willing to admit that the doctor's letter contains some statements that are inaccurate, but that its general features are untrue we most emphatically deny. On the other hand, Mr. Collier's letter portrays conditions that are so far from the truth that it really deserves little attention. As to this being a "barren waste with absolutely no soil on the ground or vegetation of any kind except a small bush, 12 to 18 inches high, and an occasional cactus," if he had pulled off his smoked glasses and looked out of the car window, he would have seen hundreds of cattle, grown fat by grazing on that "barren waste;" and if he had looked a little further, and not strained his eyes, either, he could have seen large stacks of gramma grass, cut from this same "barren waste." MAKES GOOD "SUN PARLOR."

Young Matron Has Room with Decorations Entirely in Yellow.

Every woman who takes a real interest in her home is glad of little suggestions for beautifying it or for making work lighter. To this end, the scrap book has been found to be a wonderful help and satisfaction. An old ledger will do very nicely, but a fresh volume is better.

In spite of the fact that Prof. Somebody claims to have discovered that too much sun in a room has an ill effect upon the mind, the sun-parlor is a growing institution. One young matron has hit upon a plan that she finds satisfactory. She has a corner apartment, north, and the entire place has been done in a deep, soft yellow, precisely the shade of sunshine. When the beams are reflected, as they are on every bright day, by the walls of the building opposite, the effect is not at all unlike that of the sun parlor.

ECONOMY IN THE HOUSEHOLD.

Seeming Trifles That Will Result in Cutting Down Bills.

Water kept in bottles on the ice, instead of breaking the ice into the water, reduces ice bills.

Growing parsley, sage and other herbs in a kitchen window garden gives better seasoning at less money.

Raise some okra in your garden, dried it keeps indefinitely and is the best flavor soup and bouillions can have.

Cheap cuts of meat can be served palatably in stews and croquettes.

Cheese is an excellent substitute for meat, and there is infinite variety in the ways of preparing it.

Serving but two vegetables at dinner is as fashionable as it is economical.

Buying olive oil by the gallon is one of the few times when wholesale purchases means saving.

PRACTICAL HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

To cover the pan in which fish is cooking will make the flesh soft.

Honey should be kept in the dark. If exposed to light it will quickly granulate.

To raise the pile on plush sponge it with a little chloroform and it will look fresh and new again.

Nails used in bathrooms and kitchens on which damp cloths and towels may be hung should be dipped in enamel, so that they may not leave rusty marks.

To clean silver, mix sweet oil and whitening to the thickness of a cream, put on with a soft cloth, wash in hot soap suds and polish with a chamomile skin or a piece of old soft linen.

A cheap floor stain, which will probably be in demand during house cleaning, is made by dissolving a teaspoonful of permanganate of potash in one quart of boiling water. A darker or lighter stain may be had by increasing or decreasing the amount of potash.

Wild Apple Jelly.

This was a new discovery for me last year; perhaps there are others who do not know that wild sour apples will make beautiful jelly. Quarter the apples, cutting away any bad spots; do not remove the skin or seeds; wash well, put into a kettle with enough water to cover them; cook until tender, put into a jelly bag, let drain over night; measure the juice, allowing a cup of sugar to every cup of juice, put juice on stove, squeeze in a little lemon juice, let boil just 20 minutes from time it commenced to boil; in the meantime put the sugar in the oven and heat hot, stirring occasionally; when juice has boiled 20 minutes put in sugar, let whole boil up once. This makes a light, transparent jelly with a beautiful flavor.—Boston Post.

THREE WEEKS.

Brought About a Remarkable Change.

Mrs. A. J. Davis of Murray, Ky., says: "When I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, kidney disease was slowly poisoning me. Dizzy spells almost made me fall, sharp pains like knife thrusts would catch me in the back, and finally an attack of grip left me with a constant agonizing backache. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me quickly and in three weeks' time there was not a symptom of kidney trouble remaining."

WANTED IT OVER WITH.

Game Youngster Preferred Drastic Action in Punishment.

"Youngsters are pretty philosophical," observed Wallace Knight, and then he went ahead to set forth the point of view of a small daughter at his house.

The child was sent to bed early the other evening as punishment for some act contrary to rules and regulations.

After she had been tucked in bed for some time and was supposedly asleep, the youngster called her father and told him she wished he would go ahead and spank her and have it over with, instead of sending her off to bed that way. "This lying in bed never's going to make me any better," she said, "and a good spanking would. Besides it makes me so mad I can't sleep and so what's the use of it?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CURE AT CITY MISSION.

Awful Case of Scabies—Body a Mass of Sores from Scratching—Her Tortures Yield to Cuticura.

"A young woman came to our city mission in a most awful condition physically. Our doctor examined her and told us that she had scabies (the itch), incipient paresis, rheumatism, etc., brought on from exposure. Her poor body was a mass of sores from scratching and she was not able to retain solid food. We worked hard over her for seven weeks but we could see little improvement. One day I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, and we bathed our patient well and gave her a full dose of the Resolvent. She slept better that night and the next day I got a box of Cuticura Ointment. In five weeks this young woman was able to look for a position, and she is now strong and well. Laura Jane Bates, 25 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y., Mar. 11, 1907."

The Bride's Look.

A girl about to be married worries so much she begins to look like an old married woman. In addition to worrying about her clothes and coaxing her folks to give her a new outfit, she sits up too late with her young man, and the result is an anxious, careworn look a week before the wedding that cannot be told from the look on the face of a woman who has been married a year or two. Look at the next girl you meet who is soon to be married, and you will remark that she has "aged rapidly."—Atchison Globe.

Beware of the little fellows. Mosquitoes are more bloodthirsty than Hoss.

The Square Deal.

A stout and opulent man dwelling in a suburban town had borne the expense of the annual Sunday school picnic, and the superintendent of the school, out of gratitude, asked the benefactor to address the children. The philanthropist was not much of a speaker, but he was a master hand at poker. When he found himself gazing into the expectant faces of a hundred and fifty children his embarrassment almost overcame him, but he managed to stammer out: "My dear children, what I want to impress upon you is that—er—er—it pays to be good. That er—er—er—a man who deals from the bottom of the pack is generally buried at the public expense."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; also cases of deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists. # FANCIES OF FASHION

TASTE IN TRIMMING

OVERELABORATION A THING TO BE AVOIDED.

Should Fit in with Gown's General Design in a Harmonious Manner—Sketch Shows Proper and Effective Decoration.

Nothing is more difficult in the planning of costumes than the happy disposal of elaborate trimmings so that they will make a costume striking rather than fussy and fit in with the general design of a gown in a perfectly harmonious manner. Some one has said that no trimming should ever be used without having a meaning, and this is really true, for no matter how handsome trimming may be, plastering it on, hit or miss, will not add to the beauty of a costume but will, on the other hand, mar any gown and produce an effect of overelaboration and expensiveness rather than of real beauty. One often feels, on looking at a handsome gown which is trimmed most elaborately but perhaps not in the most perfect taste, that it would be much better without most of its adornment, and in such a case the cost of handsome trimmings seems a wicked extravagance.

The gown shown is a good example of a costume which has been trimmed elaborately and effectively. The costume is undoubtedly a striking one, scarcely suited to a woman of very quiet taste, but there are many women to whom striking costumes are most becoming, and who should therefore not hesitate to wear them, and for such the arrangement of trimming shown in the illustration is a most attractive one.

The design may be carried out either with embroidery wrought on the material, with allover-embroidery such as may be had in the shops, with heavy applique or passementerie, or with a pattern cut from brocade or flowered silk and, appliqued to the material of the gown. The house gown, shown in the illustration, of black and white messaline, tells how the striped fabrics are employed as trimming. It shows also the high-cut skirt and the ubiquitous vest of shirred chiffon and exquisitely embroidered beading.

This striped material in black and white is very dashing, but the color combination in the strip of embroidered net is most delicate, soft pinks, blues and dead white.

A word of warning in making up all fall raiment. Avoid the conventional petticoat or drop skirt. Dressmakers will stand out for taffetas, because it has body, but get a supple taffeta, and if you can induce the lady of autocratic habits to use it, select messaline of the softest quality.

Your frock must not be bouffant, but must give the effect of no lining, no petticoat, to be truly smart.

HOME-MADE LINGERIE HATS.

Dainty Millinery That Can Be Produced at Small Cost.

Dainty little lingerie hats that can be made at home are in shape all crown, growing slightly larger at the base, where they set well over the hair. They are made of ruffle of lace edged muslin, preferably plaited or fluted. Three of these ruffles run down, two up the side of the hat. A tiny embroidered rose stem (with here and there a leaf also in embroidery) covers the line where these ruffles are joined. And this stem is held in place by four huge wild roses, set in singly in front, in back, and on either side of the hat. The top of the crown is also of lace-edged ruffles.

It would be a simple matter to make this hat of ruching (of lawn and lace) such as comes by the yard. This, too, is already fluted and made in a double ruffle.—Vogue.

FOR THE MEMORANDUM SLIPS.

Useful Article on Writing Table or to Hang on Wall.

Should we be in the habit of saving the unused half-sheets of note-paper that are so useful for many purposes, then it becomes necessary to make some kind of receptacle for them, and in our sketch we show a capital little article of this description. It is intended for hanging on the wall by the side of the writing-table, or it may, if fitted with a support at the back, be made to stand on the writing-table itself, and in that case, there should be no loop of cord on the lower side. Seven inches in height, by five inches in width, is a good size to make it in, and for the foundation, stout cardboard may be used. This can be smoothly covered with any pretty piece of material, and edged with cord. A pocket is arranged in the lower part, into which the half-sheets of note-paper may be slipped, and where they will be ready to hand when required. On the pocket the words "Let us forget" are worked in silk

FRUIT-EATING BATS

QUEER CREATURE FOUND IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Returned Soldier Tells of Shooting Combination of Bird and Beast Unlike Anything He Had Ever Seen.

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I think the hardest thing to kill in the Philippines is a flying fox or fruit-eating bat. Those fruit-eating bats come flying over by the thousands from the Island of Basilan to the Island of Mindanao just at sunset, and fly back between four and five in the morning.

"I went out hunting with two shipmates about two miles outside of Zamboanga one day, and about three o'clock in the afternoon the natives took us to some rice paddies, where, about five o'clock, the doves and rice hens were flying around so thick we sat in one place and kept on shooting till our shells were very near all gone," says a returned soldier from the Philippines.

"Just as we were going to start back to the ship a Moro told one of the Filipinos about some big birds which roosted at night in the trees close by. As near as we could make out it was some kind of a wild turkey, so we concluded to try to get one.

"While we were sitting there waiting patiently for turkeys the Moro came running up and pointed into one of the big trees, and what did we see but a big fruit-eating bat sailing around the tree.

"After wasting a box of shells I finally succeeded in breaking one's wing. When he came down he started to screech, or rather I don't know what kind of a noise you would call it, till we couldn't hear. I hit him on the head with the gun barrel about four times, and it didn't seem to faze him. One of the Moros said he wanted him for 'chew eat,' so I blew the bat's head off and gave it to him.

"These bats are about the size of a half-grown cat in body, and this one's wings spread from tip to tip about three feet. They have a head just like a fox, and their bodies are covered with fine fur, something like a muskrat's, but not as thick. They have two hind legs with heavy claws on them for hanging on trees, and they also have a hook on each joint of their wings, so they can hang either way.

"I examined this bat and found out it had no stomach. I wanted to find what they lived on, but all I could find was water of the fruit. I think all they eat is fruit growing wild in the mountains.

"Their wings are like fine rubber, and you can fill them full of holes and it won't faze them. If you hit them bad in the body they will sail off and drop so far away that you won't be able to find them.

"The only way to get them is to break a wing, or go where they hang in the trees in the daytime and kill them with clubs. I never saw them hanging in the trees in the day time, but soldiers told me they saw them in the mountains hanging on trees so thick that the branches were about to break under their weight.

"The fur bearers out there don't amount to much. The only thing I saw that might be of any use was a mountain cat and those flying foxes. The deer hides have only got coarse hair on them, and they haven't got a nice pelt like the deer in the states."

Seeming Rain of Insects.

Shamokin, Pa.—A seeming rain of insects occurred here making it very inconvenient for pedestrians. They were annoyed in the eyes, and nose, and blocked by the strange visitors, driven here, it is thought, by mountain breezes.

CORNET BROUGHT ABOUT PEACE.

Spite Controversy Happily Ended Without Legal Warfare.

"Fellow was raising bees back in the foothill country," remarked Frank H. Short of Fresno. "Plenty of sagebrush; sage makes clear, delicious honey. Got in a row with a neighbor; shot his dog; said its barking annoyed his queen bees. Neighbor waited a whole year to get even, plowed up a big patch, planted wild mustard; grew fine. Bees thick on mustard flowers. Mustard makes bitter honey. Like to ruin the bee man's sales. Bee farmer came to me, wanted to sue for damages. 'What can I do?' he asked.

"Nothing," I said. "He has a right to grow mustard on his own land."

"Well," he said, "I'll get some scheme to annoy him."

"So he got a cornet; used to sit up from midnight till four o'clock in the morning practicing 'Wearing of the Green.' Fellow with the mustard was an Englishman; stood it for three weeks; went out with a scythe and cut down all the mustard. They've been good friends ever since."—San Francisco Chronicle.
