Millions Out of Jobs All the Time

Sage Foundation Completes Five-Year Survey.

New York.—Averaging good and bad years, 10 to 12 per cent of all the workers in the United States, several millions of men and women, are out of work all the time, and widespread unemployment is now a constant phenomenon with far-reaching economic, social, psychological and moral bearings. These are some of the facts brought out in the introduction to the report of a five-year study of employment methods, needs and agencies made public here by the Russell Sage foundation.

In seeking work through certain types of commercial or fee-charging employment bureaus, particularly those dealing with unskilled and casual labor, thousands of men and women are being exploited, and public employment bureaus or exchanges can make a material contribution toward the solution of this and other phases of the ever-recurring problem of unemployment, the report continues.

It is made clear in the report that the figures on unemployment, while representing the average of the country's experience during the last two decades, are not necessarily indicative of present conditions or of the last year.

Completed Report Voluminous.

The investigation, which extended into more than seventy cities in thirty-one states and Canada, has just been completed. The full report, covering more than 600 printed pages, will be issued shortly. The survey was conducted by a staff of trained field investigators, all of whom had previously been engaged in employment work, under the direction of Shelby M. Harrison, director of the foundation's department of surveys and exhibits.

Practically every known means for bringing work and the worker together was studied. The "want ad" pages of newspapers, the fee-charging labor agencies, the free public employment office, the labor union's method of securing work for its members, the fraternal order's activities in this field, the practice of applying for work at the factory gate or the office door, all were investigated. The report points out the advantages and disadvantages to employer and employee in each of these means and its effect on the general employment situation.

A special study was made of the situation in Ohio, Wisconsin, Massachusetts and New York, where there has been the greatest development of organized public employment work. Separate studies were made also of the special problems of farm labor, migratory and casual workers, junior workers, handicapped workers, immigrants, negro workers and professional workers.

Workers Present Insecurity.

After citing the fact that each year from 2,000,000 to 6,000,000 persons are out of work for weeks and sometimes for months at a time, the introduction to the foundation's forthcoming report says:

"There is something which we are just beginning to recognize, a resentment on the part of the workers against an industrial situation in which such insecurity and uncertainty of employment are possible. It is not only unemployment but the fear of unemployment, the knowledge that any job is uncertain and insecure, subject to the fluctuations of economic change, which are responsible for much of our present industrial unrest."

This situation, the report says, has been aggravated by the fact that the unskilled worker who has sought employment through certain types of labor agencies in many cases has been subjected to such abuses as paying a fee and then failing to get a job, being sent to distant points where no work or where unsatisfactory work exists, but whence he could not return because of the expense involved, being employed through collusion between the agent and employer and after a few days' work being discharged to make way for a new workman while the agent and employer divided the fee.

The report further says: "One conclusion drawn from such findings has been that we must have public bureaus to take the place of the private fee-charging agencies. That is, in so far as people are informed on the question and have expressed their sentiments, most of them appeared convinced that we should have public employment bureaus because of the abuses of some fee-charging agencies, quite regardless of other considerations. In addition, however, the feeling has been growing that this service in the nature of the case should be free, and that the very fact of fee-charging carries with it a dangerous temptation to abuse and fraud.

Young Chicks Eaten by Missouri Frogs

Columbia, Mo.—The newest menace to chicks in this section are the bullfrogs, who are getting so large that they can swallow medium-sized fryers. This was discovered by Clarence Makin and Ernest Jones, who killed about 15 bullfrogs at John Gilbert's lake the other day.

On dressing two of the frogs they discovered they had swallowed chickens almost the size of quail.

Dreams Find Diamond

Middletown, N. Y.—Frank Triggiani lost a $150 diamond from the setting of a ring. He dreamed it was in the possession of an acquaintance, and the next morning asked him for it. The man denied any knowledge of the jewel.

Triggiani dreamed the same dream and sought out the man and demanded the diamond. The man gave it to him, mystified over how Triggiani learned he had found it. Triggiani did not tell him.

Slaughter Ducks by the Thousands

Mexicans Use Batteries of Guns on Fowl.

Mexico City.—Mexican sportsmen, in their fight to preserve the country's diminishing flocks of ducks from pot hunters, who hundreds of times yearly slaughter as high as 2,000 birds at a single discharge of their "armadas," have again lost. Publication of the 1924 hunting regulations by the fish and game bureau of the department of agriculture shows that the hunting of wild ducks by means of "armadas," or great batteries of shotguns, will be permitted from November 1 to February 20.

While only two shots a week from each "armada" are permitted, this is considered a minimum restriction, as the fowl will not return to the same lake in sufficient numbers to make the firing of more than two "armadas" a week profitable.

Divide With Land Owners.

Throughout the valley of Mexico are scores of shallow lakes where every variety of duck that numbers in the United States and Canada can be found during the winter. Dotting the shores of these lakes are Indian villages whose inhabitants eke out a precarious existence during the summer by cultivating their patches of corn and beans, but who live easy during the winter by means of their "armadas."

By giving from one-third to one-half of their spoils to the owners of the lands in which the lakes are situated they are able to obtain permission to make enormous bags. Some of the land owners, it is estimated, receive as much as 50,000 pesos ($10,000) a year as their share.

Sportsmen who have shot over the greater part of the valley declare that not less than fifty of these "armadas," each with an average of 150 barrels, are shot at least twice a week for four months each year, and, with hundreds of ducks to the average bag, the total number slaughtered each winter reaches a staggering figure.

In placing their batteries the Indians throw up a low breastwork of mud and plants at a strategic point in one of the shallow lakes and imbed in the ramparts as high as 200 barrels of all kinds, ranging from those of ancient shotguns to blunderbusses. These are loaded with black powder and all sorts of missiles and connected by a train of powder to an old flintlock, which is discharged by means of a string from the marksman's hiding place.

When the "armada" is loaded and the ducks begin to feed in the lake, generally about noon, the entire population of the village operating the "armada" begins, with infinite patience and without frightening the birds, to drive the ducks within range.

When this has been done the "armada" is discharged and the hunt for the victims, hundreds of them only crippled, begins. As many as two thousand ducks have been shot down in a single discharge of the great "armada" at Texcoco Viejo, near the Mexican capital.

After the game is sold the village celebrates with a big carousal and then waits until new victims gather.

Appeals to U. S. Clubs Planned.

Despairing, after repeated attempts, of limiting pot hunting through local regulations, Mexican sportsmen are planning to address an appeal to game commissions and gun clubs in the United States and Canada in the hope that, by combined action, it may be possible to halt the annual massacre.

They argue that the funds and efforts being expended by Mexico's northern neighbors to protect migratory game in these countries are wasted if, when the birds reach Mexico in the winter, they are bagged almost without restriction. The practice, they declare, is as unsportsmanlike as the trapping of quail, shipments of which totaling as high as 25,000 are not uncommon in northern Mexico, and will send the ducks after the vanished wild pigeons unless regulated.

Finally make up most of the bags, but canvasbacks, mallard, widgeon, bluebills, redheads and teal of all kinds are also shot down by hundreds of thousands.

A total of 16,412 deaths from accidents during 1923 caused by automobiles and other motor vehicles, excluding motorcycles, is shown in statistics compiled by the census bureau covering the death registration area of the United States, which includes 87.6 per cent of the total population. This total represents a death rate of 21.9 per 100,000 population, compared with 19.9 in 1922, 21.5 in 1921, and 10.1 in 1920. California topped the list with a rate of 37.4 deaths per 100,000 population and Wyoming was second with a rate of 31.1.

Public interest in the Prince of Wales was so great, members of his staff said in Montreal, that certain newspapers have not hesitated to indulge in the creation of fabrications concerning him when no actual news existed. It was said that these publications take advantage of the prince's position and the fact that he is a visitor in a foreign land to say things about him which an ordinary citizen could meet by court action. They know that the prince will take no notice of their falsehoods, rather than intensify the facts himself.

Doheny, head of the Pan-American Petroleum interests before the senate investigating committee last January relative to the $100,000 personal loan note given to Doheny by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. SCHOOL NOTES

By E. S. COPELAND.

All the Capitan teachers attended the Corona convention. Miss McClure gave a piano selection and Mrs. Copeland played a clarinet solo.

Our county superintendent, Mrs. Coe, spent Tuesday in visiting the Capitan schools.

Some good geography talks were given Tuesday morning. George Bryan and Frances Gardenhire gave some first hand information on the meat packing industry, and Emilia Fritz told of her trip to Corona where she attended the teachers convention.

Our Hallowe'en handiwork this season is exceptionally good. Music is going well in the grades under the direction of Miss McClure. Books have been secured in which the pupils are rapidly progressing.

On Thursday, Oct 24, both the basketball teams of Lincoln played the Capitan teams on the latter's court. The visitors' masculine aggregation showed much improvement but could not hold the more experienced Capitan five. The latter won 3 to 10. The girls' game was fiercely contested in more than one way and the final outcome vacillated back and forth until the timekeeper's whistle ended the tigerish and titanic struggle. The score for the first quarter was zero on each side and at the end of the half stood at 2 to 2. The exciting denouement revealed 10 to 8 in favor of Capitan.

The Capitan athletic teams go to Carrizozo for the return games this Saturday.

The $2.00 Poll Tax

The Democratic law imposing an annual poll tax of $2.00 on both women and men, which took the place of the old Republican law, providing for a $1.00 poll tax on men only, will be repealed promptly if the Republicans elect the next governor and legislature.

This bill as introduced in the House by a Democrat originally provided for a $2.00 poll tax on both men and women. It was argued in the House for almost two hours. A motion was made to table it, and lost. A motion was made to cut out the application to women, and lost. A motion was made to cut the amount from $3.00 to $1.00 and lost. A motion was then made to cut the amount from $3.00 to $2.00 and carried, and the bill was then passed and went to the senate, the Republican members of the House voting against it.

It was referred to the Senate Committee on Education, of which Senator Brickley, a Democrat, and author of the School Code, was chairman. He incorporated it into his code.

When the School Code was completed by Senator Brickley and presented to the senate, a committee of Republicans called on Gov. Hinkle to ascertain if he considered it an administration measure and he informed them that he did. They called on Supt. Eckles to know she approved it and she informed them that she did.

Pursuant to their agreemen not to obstruct Democratic legislation, the Republican senators passed the bill, although not a single Republican senator was satisfied with it.

The bill then went to Gov. Hinkle who approved it and the $2.00 poll tax on women and men became a law and the entire school code with its many other iniquitous provisions went into effect.

Gov. Hinkle has been quoted as saying the Republicans were in part responsible for the code. To a certain extent they were. Perhaps they should have blocked all of the Democratic legislation, but they did not. They recognized that the people had voted for Democrat governor, so they agreed to the Democratic laws.

In the case of the school code, the Republican senate made Senator Brickley the chairman of the committee on education and permitted him to write the bill. The Democratic superintendent of public instruction and Democratic members of the House and Democratic leaders helped him write it and when all the Democrats got it fixed to suit them after two months' consideration, the Republican senators passed it for them on the 57th or 58th day of the session.

The Republicans never at any time wanted a $2.00 poll tax on any one, more particularly they did not want one on the women. If they had they would have passed it years ago as they had been in control of both branches of the legislature for 28 years.

It is significant that the first time the Democrats got in control of one branch, they taxed the women and doubled the tax on the men.

If they had been in control of both houses what would have happened?

Paul C. Wilson and wife of Jicarilla were in town this week.

Fred Pilngston was in from Lincoln this week.

Rev. H. K. Stanley of Fort Canton was in Capitan Friday.

A Halloween party was given by Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Jones Friday evening.

According to Gov. J. F. Hinkle, Collection of the Gasoline Tax Costs NINE Times As Much Under the Democrats as it Cost Under the Republicans.

The statement under the Republican administration over $500,000 in gasoline excise taxes was collected at a total expense of less than $3000 has frequently been challenged.

The figures to substantiate this claim are set out very clearly and definitely on page 67 of Governor J. F. Hinkle's budget recommendations to the legislature.

This statement of Governor Hinkle shows that during the years of 1919, 1920, 1921 and 1922 there was collected $513,113.59, all but $8,758 of this was collected in 1921 and 1922, the law not having become effective until about the first of January, 1921.

Mr. Hinkle says: "Expenditures for the collection of this tax" amounted to $2,284.46, and then adds a note in which he says Miss Porter has presented a claim to the highway commission for office work, $600.

Including Miss Porter's claim, the total expense would be $2,884.46 for administering this law and collecting $513,113.59, or a little over one half of one per cent.

Had Mr. Carter collected this money at 5 per cent, the amount he retains, it would have cost the state $25,655.68 instead of $2,884.46.

The Cash on Hand

NOV. 30, 1922 AND AUG. 31, 1924

Balance cash on hand as shown by printed report of E. L. Safford, state auditor, Nov. 30, 1922 ..... $3,317,453.17

Balance cash on hand as shown by quaterly report of Juan N. Vigil state auditor, on August 31, 1924 $2 602,842.79, less $605,892.73 in failed banks $1,396,450.06

Decrease in state money under Democratic administration in 21 months $1,921,003.11

During this period the usual current funds were collected and spent.

And $1,821,003.11 of the state's savings were frittered away, in expenses, or in failed banks.

And $1,000,000 worth of highway bonds were sold and the money spent.

This indicates that nearly three million dollars has gone out of the state treasury in excess of current collections.

Why So Much Economy?

The Taxpayers Have Found Where Hinkle cut--He Cut the CASH.

HANNETT PROMISES TO CONTINUE THE HINKLE POLICY.

Troops Patrol Nogales, Mexico.

Nogales, Sonora.—Mexican troops continue to patrol the Chinese colony of this city in a drive against the members of the Chinese imperialistic faction who are sought by the government on charges of espionage.

Lincoln Must Stand Trial.

Geneva, Ill.—The jury which has been hearing evidence as to the mental condition of Warren J. Lincoln, who killed his wife and her brother and sealed their heads in a concrete block, returned a verdict finding Lincoln to be sane at this time. The verdict means that Lincoln, the Aurora, Ill., horticultural lawyer, who kept the authorities puzzled for months by confessions and repudiations before he finally led them to a dump pile where he pointed out the block of concrete containing the heads of his victims, must stand trial for the slayings.

Coal Chips Sold at Auction.

St. Louis.—Seventeen thousand government-owned coal chips from Alaska were offered for sale at an auction in the establishment of the Feelo Fuel Company. For the first time there were offered lots of dyed coal chips of a golden chestnut hue, while 10,000 were black and the remaining 1,000 were offered raw. Another government-owned lot ready for auction consisted of 700 bins for chips, fifteen white fox and four sea otter.

Farm Implement Sales Increase.

Washington.—Recovering from the slump of 1921, farm equipment manufacturers had year for surpassed 1921 with an increase of 74 per cent and were 11.9 per cent above the 1920 production. Census Bureau statistics announced for the annual census of manufactures of farm equipment places the value of the output of $[illegible], as compared with $[illegible] in 1920 and $[illegible] in 1921. Manufacturers of tractors showed a marked increase.

Wholesale Prices Decline.

Washington.—Wholesale commodity prices in September showed slight decrease from the August level. Information gathered in from wholesale markets by the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor brought the weighted index number, covering 404 commodities from 1[illegible] for August to 1[illegible] for last month. Decreases in farm products, clothing materials, fuel and metals were chiefly responsible for the drop in the general price level, the figures showed.

Uncover Works of Da Vinci

The oldest canal lock in France built by Leonardo da Vinci under the reign of Francois I in the Sixteenth century, has just been rediscovered near Vierzon.

Da Vinci, who boasted that he was as great an engineer as he was a painter, constructed the lock because the River Loire lacked sufficient water for the boats, with their cargoes of salt, that came up from Nantes. In the course of centuries the lock disappeared and even its exact situation was forgotten, but the old foundations planned by the painter of "Mona Lisa" have just been unearthed.

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing, be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Expect to Harness Tides

The force of the ebb and flow of the Atlantic's tide may soon be harnessed to produce electricity, Dexter P. Cooper, brother of Hugh L. Cooper, the hydraulic engineer who designed the hydroelectric plants at Muscle Shoals, Keokuk, and Niagara Falls, Canada, is at present making preliminary surveys along the Maine coast with a view to finding generating station sites near Eastport. The average difference between high and low tide at Eastport is 18 feet 2 inches.

FARM STOCK

MARKET DEMAND IS FOR FINISHED BEEF

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Well-fattened beef animals weighing from 800 to 1,200 pounds have been in demand on live stock markets during recent years, rather than animals of greater weight. This has been the result of a demand by beef consumers for lightweight, high-grade cuts. Such a demand, says the United States Department of Agriculture, must necessarily be supplied by well-finished animals from 12 to 20 months old carrying a large percentage of the blood of the early-maturing beef breeds—usually that of the Hereford, Aberdeen-Angus, or Shorthorn.

The preparation for market of yearlings, or baby beeves, requires more skill than is necessary for the production of animals marketed at more mature ages, on account of their tendency to grow rather than to fatten. To fatten yearlings successfully, they must be placed on a fattening ration when they are weaned and kept on full feed until they are ready for marketing. Every effort should be made to get the calves through the weaning period without loss of their milk fat. The grain ration should be increased so as to permit as little change in their rate of growth in fattening as possible. Some feeders build "creeps" in the pastures or lots so that the calves can get their grain without being disturbed by cows. Creeps consist of small pens with openings which permit only the calves to enter. These openings may have rollers on each side to prevent bruising the calves.

Calves from heavy milking cows should be weaned gradually over a period of 10 to 15 days. Fall calves should not be weaned until after the cows and calves are on grass. Spring calves should either be kept on grass after weaning in the fall, or be given some succulent feed such as silage. It is advisable to provide them with winter pasturage such as wheat, oats, rye or barley when soil and climatic conditions permit.

Last Finishing Touches Help to Show Animals

There are a good many little last-minute finishing touches that will help make an animal show to best advantage, advises John W. Bartlett, dairy husbandman at the New Jersey State College of Agriculture, New Brunswick.

From now until show time every available minute must be used to train the show cattle to lead and pose. This means considerable work and is an every-day task. The leadsman should walk backward slowly and teach the animal to follow gracefully. This means that the animal's head is held high and that when led into line to be judged she stands with her feet squarely under her body. Attention must be paid to the condition of the feet of each animal. If they are irregular they may be pared down with a chisel or knife.

It is not too early to start polishing horns. This can be done by scraping with a piece of glass or rasping with a rounded file. The next step is to apply emery cloth vigorously until all rough places are removed. Following this a paste of sweet oil and pumice stone should be rubbed on the horns until they feel hot. They are then ready for the final polishing with a strip of cloth applied as though shining shoes. Clipping brings best results when done just before the show. If the skin and hair seem dirty, the body of the animal should be washed with soap and water and rubbed dry. Blankets are to be used at all times during the last days previous to showing. Plenty of grooming helps to make the hide pliable and gives the hair more bloom. Feed the show animal hay rather than grain during the last two weeks, as grain-fed animals are apt to lose flesh at show time when hay only is available.

Ewes Often Overlooked

Every ewe that does not raise a good lamb and fetch should be culled. Usually from one-third to two-thirds of the income from the flock is from wool, so that the flocks of breeding ewes are important. Ewes that are weak in the back, shallow bailed, narrow chested, high in the flank, light in the hind quarters, lousy and poor milkers, should be weeded out.

Minerals for Swine

The following formula has given satisfaction as a mineral mixture for swine: Charcoal, two buckets; salt, one pint; wood ashes, one pint; copperas, two quarts; air slaked lime, one gallon; powdered sulphur, one quart. Keep this mixture before the hogs at all times.

Soy Beans for Pork

What may been old news, a by-product of my beans is fed twice to a ration with of without minerals for growing pigs in the feed lot when feeding whole or ground soy beans to fully matured pigs is the gist of recent opinion of the federal department of agriculture. The soy bean oil meal is a high protein feed, and it has no marked effect on the carcass of the hog, because it has far less fat in it, and is furthermore more digestible and delicate in the body of the hog.

Cause for Soft Pork

Tests have shown that soy beans fed to hogs with or without minerals produced soft carcasses, even when the soy beans were not used until the pigs weighed 100 pounds, and when fed on this ration for only seven or eight weeks. It is hard to get a firm firm by feeding corn or tankage after early use of soy beans; one reason for this outcome is using soy beans is that they are low in calcium or lime.

Lemon Tart.

Carrot Salad.

Put through the meat grinder enough tender carrots to make a cupful, add a teaspoonful of grated onion, a handful of broken nut meats, a bit of minced celery and enough good salad dressing to moisten. Serve on lettuce.

Spanish Potatoes.

Boil until tender, drain and pour into a vegetable dish in which butter and finely minced onions are mixed. Chop the hot potato until well covered with the butter and onion. Plenty of butter will be needed to make them tasty. Season with salt and a dash of cayenne.

OLD-TIME RECIPES

We all enjoy a review of the good things of a generation or more ago; some of the dishes will never be equaled by any modern cookery.

Virginia Sweet Potato Pie.—Peel, boil and mash through a sieve five medium-sized sweet potatoes. Cream together one-fourth cupful of butter and one-half cupful of sugar, adding the well-beaten yolks of three eggs, the juice and grated rind of a lemon, with a pinch of cinnamon. Add the potato with one cupful of rich milk, fold in the beaten whites of the eggs and pour into a pie plate lined with flaky crust. Bake in a moderate oven, taking care that the top does not become too brown before the filling is sufficiently cooked.

Brunswick Stew.—In the early days in Brunswick county hunters prepared this Virginia dish, using squirrels as the meat for the stew. When squirrels are not to be obtained, chicken or lamb is substituted: Cut the meat into serving-sized pieces, dip into flour. Place an iron kettle over the fire and into it place a layer of coarsely chopped salt pork; over this add a layer of thinly sliced onion, next a layer of parboiled potatoes, a layer of green corn cut from the cob (canned corn may be used), and finally a layer of lima beans. Now place the meat in the kettle and repeat with another layer of the pork, onion and other vegetables, then pour over two quarts of boiling water, cover and place the kettle where it will just simmer for three or four hours. Now add a quart of tomatoes cut into pieces, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, a tablespoonful of salt, pepper to taste, cover and cook another hour. Thicken the gravy with flour and butter rubbed to a paste, adding more seasoning if needed; simmer until the gravy is cooked and the stew is ready to serve. This makes a large kettleful but is good reheated if the family do not consume it all the first day.

Mount Oysters.—This is a typical Washington dish. Select large oysters, scrub the shells well, place in a dripping pan in a hot oven, or on top of a coal range. When the shells begin to open, remove to a hot platter and serve at once with melted butter.

Terrapin.—Plunge the terrapin, shell and all, into a kettle of rapidly boiling water. Leave until the meat begins to loosen from the shell, then drain and cool. Remove the shell and take out the gall and entrails—all the rest is edible. Cut the meat into small pieces, retaining all the juice which thus escapes; mix this juice with two or three tablespoonfuls of butter, half a glass of currant jelly, a tablespoonful of worcestershire, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, and salt and cayenne to taste. No pepper with terrapin. Mix the sauce and add the terrapin meat and simmer for a few minutes; now add a cupful of thick rich cream and cook until hot, then serve at once.

NERVOUS & HALF-SICK WOMEN

Relieved by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

These Three Letters Prove It

Lowell, Mass.—"I am sending you a few lines to let you know what good your medicine has done for me. I want you to let every one know that it has helped me in nervous troubles. I have four children and you know there is a lot to do where children are. They would come in from school and they would start telling me about their little troubles but I could not stand it. I had to send them away. I could not even walk on the street alone I was so nervous. I found one of your books and read it and then I saw in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got it and had taken one bottle when I saw a change in myself. I was surprised. The children can talk all they want to now and it does not bother me. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOSEPH LEMIEUX, 84 South Street, Lowell, Mass.

Felt Like A New Woman

Springfield, Missouri.—"For four or five months I was run-down, nervous, my back ached and I did not feel like doing a thing. Sometimes my legs ached and felt like they would break and I had a hurting in my sides. I had been reading in the newspapers the letters of other women who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the advertising of it appealed to me so I bought some and saw results in almost no time. I had hardly been able to do my own work and after taking the Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman. I recommend it to my friends who have troubles like I did, and hope they will find the same results."—Mrs. M. CARPENTER, 607 W. Chase Street, Springfield, Missouri.

40 Years Old, Feels Like 20

Hagerstown, Md.—"I was very bad off with backache, a bearing-down feeling in my body and a pain in my left side. I could not be on my feet at times and once I was so bad I walked bent over to one side for three weeks. My sister read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got me a bottle. I got so much relief that I took more until I was well. I am 40 years old and feel like 20. I am sure this medicine will help all women."—Mrs. MARY E. SANDY, 436 W. Franklin Street, Hagerstown, Md.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

That means that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

All druggists are having increased sales of this medicine.

Men of Prominence Enormous Feeders

Sports writers who see Firpo eat are astonished at the quantity of meat consumed by the Wild Bull.

I doubt if he holds a better record in that respect than did some Philadelphians who were no efficient in other ways as Firpo in the ring.

Senator Penrose was a prodigious meat eater. I saw him at breakfast devour two eggs, a large broiled fish and a handsome beefsteak, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

At dinner two ducks were for him not an unusual choice after oysters and fish.

W. De Witt Coyler matched the senator as a hearty eater. At the Bitterhoken club it was quite the customary thing for him to follow half a dozen oysters with a large fish, an extra big porterhouse steak and top them off with a quail.

John G. Johnson did as well as that and I saw him begin a meal with a dozen big oysters.

Henry F. Walton, former speaker of the Pennsylvania assembly was another famous diner. His physician once ordered him to walk a mile instead of eating lunch.

Would Make Great Haul for Burglars

The richest spot in the United States is less than three feet square in a vault in the United States Treasury department. Here are stored 10 packages of gold certificates with the total value of $609,600,000.

Although the packages have the height and width of the usual bank note and are only about 10 inches long, 10 of them have the total value of $609,600,000. Each package contains 4,000 $10,000 bills, valued at $40,000,000. The remaining six packages are worth $69,000,000.

This money is kept in the reserve vault of the treasurer's office, or the so-called "storage room," of the treasury until it is needed for circulation. These gold certificates are not put into circulation unless an equal amount of gold is put into the treasury in their place. The gold is kept until it is redeemed by the gold-covered bank notes. At present there is more than $1,600,000,000 outstanding in gold certificates.
