THE CAPITAN MOUNTAINEER

FOURTH YEAR NUMBER 18. CAPITAN, NEW MEXICO, AUGUST 24TH 1918. SUBSCRIPTION PRICE $1.50 A YEAR.

From Soldier Boys.

U. S. S. B-3 Asiatic Fleet, Cavite, P. I., July 15, 1918—Editors Capitan Mountaineer—I have just received your most interesting little papar, which I just simply devoured from beginning to end and appreciated it most highly.

Many, many thanks for it, and please accept my congratulations for such splendid American spirit it shows, besides all all the interesting news it contains.

Thanking you again for your kindness,

I remain sincerely yours,
Harry Coe.

Semewhere in France, July 29, 1918—Mr. Sam Bigger—Dear Sir—Letting you know that I have received several of your papers and which I appreciate very much—I think it is just great to get a Capitan paper. There are a few Mexico boys here in my company, and they can't wait until I am through reading the paper before they want it. We are having some vever pretty weather here at the present time. and hope it will continue so for a while. Our boys are sure going after the Kaise, and believe me, I am doing my bit trying to catch him; in fact, all of the Americans are giving him fits.

R. L. Hale.

Transporting Our Troops.

The world has been astonished at the great number of America soldiers transported to Europe in the last half of the year. The number now approximate s 1,500,000, and the loss of life in transporting them has been almost infintesimal.

The success with which we have moved our troops from the scattered camps in this country and across 3,000 miles of ocean to the battle front is great evidence of American efficiency. We have not only surprised our enemies, we have surprised our friends and ourselves:

The British controller of shipping, Sir Joseph McClay, speak of this movement across the sea as "A transport miricle." We have been inclined to attribute this achievement solely to our Navey and shipping, but the British controller speaks in high praise of the share the American railroads had in the work. He says:

"If the American railroads had not been operated with success the whole transport movement might have failed, because it was essential to quick transportation that the troops should be ready for the ships."

Director General McAdoo seems justified in his statement that while the development of the policy of the Railroad Administration requires time, progress has been made toward the goal.

Mr J. M. Cox and wife and son J. S. Cox and wife, of Hondo, were trading in Capitan Tuesday. Mr. J. M. Cox has lately returned from Texas where he spent the past two years and says that crop prospects are poor in Texas and he is back here to stay.

Mr. Gaines, the Tucson Forest Ranger, had two saddle horses killed by lightning last Sunday. Four horses were standing under a big tree, which the bolt struck, killing two of them.

We understand that Mr. Mills who has acquired the Spindle store is stocking up his establishment preparatory to supplying that part of the country's mercantile wants.

WAR NEWS

Gen. Foch is systematically and surely driving the Germans from their positions all along the western front, capturing prisoners, artillery, smaller arms and munitions of war.

On the 19th the Allies took several towns and captured 2,200 prisoners. The reports say that in Lys sector the enemy has retreated over a front of six miles, leaving the town of Merville in British hands. Between the Matz and Oise rivers the French have fought their way to the western outskirts of the dominating positions of Lassigny, and farther south in this hill and wooded region have debouched from the Theiscourt wood and also captured the town of Pimprez, situated in the Oise valley on the Noyon-Compiegne road.

The reports say that the gains are of the greatest importance to the allies, for, aside from wide areas over which the enemy has been compelled acknowledge defeat. That within a short time they will be forced to commence a retrograde movement on a scale that will mean the entire blotting out of old lines and the taking up new ones. That under new gains of the British around Roye, and particularly those made by the French, the Germans are now in a bad predicament. Their positions are dominated by the allied guns from the west, southwest and south for many miles and apparently a retreat eastward across the plains of Picardy and over the Somme and even from the western Aisne will be necessitated.

A German submarine, report says, was sunk on the 19th in a running battle with a British tank steamer about 300 miles northeast of Nantucket.

War To Be Over Next Year.

Edwin L. James, a war correspondent at the front writes:

"It seems to be the consensus of opinion in best informed circles that the war will be over next year. While speculation differs as to the exact time, I often have heard the month of September mentioned as a time when the Germans will probably have enough.

No one seriously expects the decision this year. General March has said that the American forces can penetrate the German line when and where it pleases. That is perfectly true, but to make such penetration we must have many times the troops it would take to make the initial hole, to widen it and deepen it and make it secure enough to bring a decision.

Now the German effective strength is being worn down by constantly repeated allied attacks all along the front. Of course, during the winter months when fighting eases off on both sides, Ludendorff will replenish his conbat forces as best he can. The German high command will have perhaps six hundred thousand recruits for that parpose, while the allied high command will have two million or more Americans in addition to recruits

Who, then, can doubt the relative ability of the two sides when they face each other next spring.

I repeat that it is helief of the American army that six months after next spring's effort starts, the Germans may be defeated.

While the Hun is yet a formidable foe, those of our army who have the best information say he has "shot his bolt." The allied task in March was to hold the Germans until cold weather hampered active military operations. That task is so well done that the boche is not only held, but be is on the defensive everywhere on the western front Having completed this year's task at least two, or perhaps three, months before the fighting season is over, the allied command is now carrying out its plan to weaken the Hun as much as practicable so that he will be able to oppose that much less resistance to the allied victory drive of 1919.

I find that the idea that the war will continue at least another year has spread among the French people and the condition has been completely accepted. This does not mean at all that they will not hold fast if it takes longer At present they are resigned to another year of war, and if it takes longer they will resign themselves to as much time as is necessary, for no longer is the final outcome doubted. Certainly no one doubts that the English people will hold on and as for Americans they are only begining. There will be poor soil in the lands of the allies for pacifist seed during the next year. Certainly there is no field in the allied armies, and because it is the freshest, least of all in the American army.

Then the answer of our army as to when the war will end is that it may probably be over by September of next year. If it takes longer to whip the boche, why so much more complete the job will be."

Government Takes Over Wool Crop.

San Francisco, August 19.—The army, navy and the Red Cross require 900,000,000 pounds of wool and this country's production this year will be 280,000,000 pounds, consequently no wool will go into clothing for civilians this year, said Lewis Penwell, United States wool administrator, who arrived here today from Oregon.

Penwell addressed a gathering of wool men and declared that owing to the demand of ships for war purposes, no tonnage could be spared to bring this country wool for civilian clothing. No hand knitting yarn is to be made, said Penwell, and an order will be issued stopping the manufature fancy Indian blankets and Navajo rugs.

The war news from the front says that the French have made a terrible slaughter of Huns in the new drive. Besides those killed in battle, they captured 8,000 prisoners.

Some of the Germans in high command have frankly admitted that the American soldiers are an important factor in the war.

General von Blume who is on the retired list, writes an article on the subject which appears in the Rheinische Westfaelische Zeitung of Essen. He frankly admits that the Americans, all in all, have done very smart work and it would be a very serious thing if the German army command had to face an American fighting army of millions."

General von Liebert, who was former German commandant at Lodz, and who now is military critic of the Tageliche Rundschau of Berlin, tell the public that the American army has actually become a big factor and the debarkations in France are proceding regularly He says the French and British owe their recent successes to their trans-Atlantic ally, without whom their offensive would have been "doomed to disappointment."

A report says that sixty Prussians were captured near Fismette by Americans without either side firing a shot. They told the intelligence officer who questioned them that they had agreed to surrender if the opportunity arose.

A single American fleet arrived on the French coast this week conveying 36,000 soldiers. The fleet was composed of 13 giant ships, ten destroyers and 5,000 members of the crews That's "goin' some" towards getting the American boys to the front.

Lieutenant Edwin C. Chamberlain, a young Texan, has attracted a good deal of attention by adaring exploits the other day He brought down five Hun air planes, took in a German infantryman and got safely into camp.

Hon. Edwin Mechem.

Hon. Edwin Mechem, of Alamogordo, formally announces his candidacy for Judge of this District through the columns of the Mountaineer this week. This is a piece of news that will interest many people in Lincoln county where Mr Mechem is well known and has many friends. There can be many things said in recommendation of Mr. Mechem's candidacy for the important office of District Judge. He is recognized everywhere that he is known as a very able lawyer of sixteen years active and successful practice, seven of which have been spent in this district. He in a man excellent character and has never resorted to any "tricks" or questionable means of accomplish his purposes He is not impulsive nor hasty in his methods; he acts with deliberation and as Judge would give the evidence in cases a patient and thorough consideration before rendering a decision. and his decisions would be what he believes to be law. With such a man on the bench the people would be assured that full justice would be given to every one brought into his court and every case fairly adjudicated.

Mr. Mechem's candidacy is subject to the Republican nomination in the district, composed of the counties of Lincoln, Otero, Dona Ana and Torrance

A Candidate for Districtict Judge.

The Mountaineer is authorized to place before its readers this week the name of Mr. Lytton C. Taylor, of Las Cruces, as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Judge of this District conposed of the counties of Lincoln. Otero, Torrance and Dona Ana. Mr. Taylor is no altogther a stranger to some of the voters of Lincoln county. He lived in Capitan several years; first attended school here and later worked in the mines at Colo a. He moved to Las Cruces some fifteen years ago; attended the New Mexico Agricultural College; took special law course at Columbia University, New York City, and has been engaged in the general practice of the law in Las Cruces for the past seven years. Mr. Taylor is known throughout the state as a very able lawyer and a man of high character, and will certainly have a strong following for the nomination for District Judge.

Mrs. Ben F. Nabours left the early part of the week for an extended visit at Three Rivers.

MOHAIR

Washington, August [illegible]—For considerable time past Congressman W. B. Walton, of New Mexico, has been exerting his best efforts in behalf of the mohair growers of his state. He is just on receipt of information from the Chief of the Wool Division of the War Industries Board that it is the intention of the Government to take over the entire fall crop of mohair, and growers are being notified that no sales be made or contracts be entered into for fall mohair. The War Industries Board is having data compiled regarding mohair, with the intention of definitely establishing prices on this commodity within the next few weeks.

SHARE OUR SUGAR WITH THE ALLIES

British Get Two Pounds a Month. French Pound and Half, Italians One Pound.

GERMAN SUPPLY PLENTIFUL.

All Nations Permit Use of Sweetening for Home Preserving Purposes.

America's new sugar ration of two pounds a month per person is equitable when compared with the sugar ration enforced by rigid governmental orders in England, France and Italy, nations with which we are sharing sugar.

Each Allied nation in the matter of sugar consumption is sharing on nearest possible equal terms the hardships imposed by greatly altered conditions in the world sugar situation.

Formerly classed as a luxury sugar is now, war time essential. The fair and just division of this essential is in the hands of the various Allied food controllers.

The United States Food Administration has asked this nation to observe a voluntary sugar ration of two pounds per person a month.

In the other countries at war with Germany sugar is one of the scarce articles on every menu whether in the households of both rich and poor, or in the hotels.

England today has a sugar ration of two pounds per month per person. In France the ration is a pound and a half and in Italy it is one pound a month. And the prices in allied countries are from two to three times as high as in America.

If you go to a hotel in England or France these days and order tea or coffee they serve absolutely no sugar with it. If you want sugar you must bring it with you.

In England it is allowable to use one seventh of an ounce of sugar in the preparation of each luncheon. In France many persons carry little saccharine tablets about with them for use in hotels and in England rich and poor must take their sugar with them if they wish to have sweetened tea while visiting friends.

Before the war started France had [illegible] acres devoted to sugar production. By 1917 the French sugar acreage had decreased to 150,000 acres. Today the French man or woman with a sugar card has no assurance whatever that he or she will be able to actually buy sugar. To buy it, one must first find it.

Italy Has "State Sugar."

Especially drastic regulations govern the use of sugar in Italy. Its manufacture, distribution and sale are closely controlled, and in part actually taken over by the state.

Saccharine is permitted to be sold and used as a substitute for sugar and the government manufactures a mixture of saccharine and sugar called "State Sugar," which is largely used.

German Sugar Ration Adequate.

Germany, before the war, produced a great surplus of sugar and exported large quantities. Today the Germans have virtually gone out of the export business, but have plenty of cheap sugar for home use.

Wholesale prices prevalent in the Allied nations, according to information received by the United States Food Administration are as follows: England, 10 cents a pound; France, 12 cents; Italy, 26 cents.

While these high prices are being paid abroad the American wholesale price is being held at 7½ cents.

Reuben Boone writes home from England that he receives the Capitan Mountaineer regularly and that he greatly appreciates it, as it gives him all the home news.

War Time Sweeteners

AMERICA has several excellent war time sweeteners that will be used largely during the shortage in the sugar supply.

They are maple sugar, syrups, honey and molasses and may be used in preparing desserts and other dishes requiring sweetening.

When a cup of syrup or honey is used to replace a cup of sugar the liquid in the recipes should be decreased one-fourth. One-third of a cupful of sugar is equivalent to one-third of a cup of honey, about one-half cup of syrup and about one-half cup of corn sugar. One-fourth of a cup of sugar is equal to about one-half cup of syrup or one-third cup of corn sugar. One tablespoon of sugar is equal to one tablespoon of honey, about one and one-half tablespoons of syrup and one and one-third tablespoons of corn sugar.

Sugar may be saved by the use of raisins, dates, figs, dried pears and fruit pastes used on the breakfast cereals.

Fruit marmalades, butters and jellies should be used to take the place of the ordinary sweetening at a meal and not as accessories to it. Fruits may be preserved without sugar. It may be added when sugar is more plentiful.

Preserving demands this year a thin syrup instead of a heavy syrup.

If sugar is used one-half of the amount may be replaced by another sweetener.

Drying is a means of preserving (without sugar) apples, cherries, strawberries and black caps.

When ready to use they may have added the needed sugar in the form of a syrup. When sugar is more plentiful fruit juices may be made into jellies or may be used as fruit juices with or without sugar, as beverages, fruit gelatins and frozen desserts.

Fresh fruits supply the place of sugar in the diet. They should be used freely. Desserts where sugar is scarce may be made of gelatins, junkets, custards, puddings and cakes.

French Sugar Mills Destroyed

France must import sugar today, most of it from this side of the ocean, because the largest portion of French sugar beet land is in German hands. As a result, the French people have been placed on a sugar ration of about 18 pounds a year for domestic use; a pound and a half a month. This photograph shows how the German troops destroyed French sugar mills. Thanks to the French rationing system the annual consumption has been cut to 600,000 tons, according to reports reaching the United States Food Administration. Before the war France had an average sugar crop of about 750,000 tons of sugar and had some left over for export.
