As Seen by a Republican Newspaper.

The following clipping is from Southwestern Stockman-Farmer, published at Phoenix, Arizona, a Republican paper, under date of August 30th:

"Of all the sour souls which live and thrive in Washington, that of Senator Fall of New Mexico seems to be the most distinguishable. He dips his thoughts in the vinegar of conceit and washes them in the vitrol of animosity. His recent diatribe on the peace treaty shames us for living in the same section of America. We have two thousand subscribers in New Mexico and we wonder if a single one of them would again "fall" fer Fall "

In no other state through which President Wilson toured in the interest of the peace treaty, did he create such a strong sentiment in its favor as California It in said that the state would vote overwhelmingly in favor of the treaty could it be submitted to its voters.

The People Spoke.

The defeat of the three amendments to the State Constitution strongly indicates that the voters are alert to their best interests. If these amendments were not originated by the state administration, they had its hearty endorsement. There could be but little objection to the amendment to permit soldiers to vote while away from home serving their country, and has it been put before the people singly it would no doubt have carried, but it was coupled with the other two which bore marks on their face that made them obnoxious, and it went down in defeat. In reality, the two which met such distavor with the voters were intended to take from the people the control of the schools and other public interests and place them in the hands of boards tobe selected by the Governor. The people saw the danger and refused to stand for it. The state, probably, never had another Governor who tried so hard to extend his authority and get control of public interests which are in the hands of the people as the present one. If this election indicates anything, it shows a determination on the part of the people to contro their public interests which the constitution gives them. regardless of the Governor's wishes or what the legislature may propose.

AHEAD OF THE SILLY SEASON

Discussion Started as to Why Cow Invariably Arises With Her Hind Quarters Foremost.

Inquiring minds in Connecticut are grappling the old-age question why a cow, which is to say the genus bos, rises from recumbency by elevating her anterior quarters first, whereas a horse reverses the process and a pig appears to have no predilections but to be solely concerned, when there is a prospect of something to eat in sight, to get in motion toward it all at once.

Generally speaking, it can of course be said that a cow takes the method physiologically the easiest for her in getting on her feet, remarks the Rochester Post Express. The head-and-up procedure probably produces muscular stresses and interior discomforts which she understands better than she can explain. It is open to question also if she ever in all her ruminations reflected on the matter; nor is it clear that it is worth our while to do so, since it is only an inconsequential fact with an immaterial reason behind it. It is an interesting bit of information, and it might be profitable in imaginable emergencies to know how an animal normally acts and which is the danger end of her to be avoided. But the obscure cause of it is of no apparent practical importance, for it is just one of those things that are so and might as well be so as something else.

It seems fair from all that is known of the cow, to acquit her of any disposition to do things kind end foremost out of cantankerousness, or to cling to a notion or method through perversity or pride because it happens to be hers. There is no evidence of that domineering spirit in her or of a willful insistence in having her own way. She does the things that are to be done sequentially, in order, settles her pressing problems first and leaves to the future others that may arise. Imperiled by enemies her way would be to fight them to a standstill first and leave for later consideration a bovine league to secure her against possible new attacks. Her ratiocinative processes may be limited, but there is reason to believe that as far as she does see she sees clearly, never out of focus; that her intuitions are sure, and that, while she may sometimes seem to, she never really does things wrong end first or clings to a course when conclusive reasons for abandoning it appear. On the whole therefore, it seems profitable to consider the cow in the field, how she acts, for Solomon in all his glory was not so wise in all respects as one of these.

Only Tamed Humming Bird.

Sergt. Charles Haberkorn and Orderly M. J. Maw, of the National Soldiers' home, at Sawtelle, Cal., are the proud possessors of what is believed to be the only pet humming bird in existence, says Our Dumb Animals. Their feathered friend is a beautiful red-breasted specimen who answers to the name of Dick.

This unusual bird is so tame that he eats his meals from the end of a medicine dropper held in the mouth of one of his friends. They feed him sugar syrup in this way. He will also feed all while sipping nectar from a cluster of flowers held by one of the men. Another favorite stunt of his is that of perching upon their fingers while eating his meals.

The men are both pensioned veterans of the Spanish American war. They discovered the bird flitting around the home grounds a year ago, and decided to tame it. Orderly Maw having had experience taming birds in the tropics many years ago when he was a sailor. By putting out dishes of sugar syrup for the hummer they gradually domesticated it.

The Ghost Ship.

Among the war stories that British naval men feel free to tell now is one about a "ghost ship" whose mystery has never been solved.

In 1917 a convoy of 12 ships left a British port. At dawn on the day after sailing the escort commander discovered thirteen ships under his charge. While the identity of the extra ship was being discussed the convoy was suddenly attacked by German light cruisers and most of the escort and nine of the merchantmen were sunk. The Germans then made off.

Survivors positively assert that there were thirteen ships and that the mysterious vessel disappeared as strangely as she had appeared. They are certain that the ship was not sunk. Official inquiries failed to throw any light on the nature of the craft. It was ascertained that she could not have been a disguised German raider, and her presence was "logged" by the escort commander.

Baptist College for New Mexico.

Albuquerque, N M., Sept. 30. The Baptist State Board of New Mexico, located at Albuquerque, has received notice of an appropriation of $100.00 from the Education Board of the Southern Baptist Convention at Birmingham, Ala., for the establishment of a standard Baptist College in the State, on condition that the Baptists of of New Mexico raise a like amount. Rev. J. W. Brunner, corresponding secretary of New Mexico State Board reports that there is a hearty sentiment all over the state among Baptists in favor of the establishment of such a school.

One of the most important matters, probably, to come before the New Mexico Baptist State Convention, meeting in Santa Fe on Oct, 22-24 will be the decision as to the permanent location for the college. Many towns in New Mexico are submitting offers for the school. In making the decision as to where the college shall be located, the Convention will take into consideration the offers which the towns themselves shall make for the school, in the way of land and money, moral atmosphere, conveniences and accommodations, railroad facilities, climate, and the surrounding Baptist constituency. Towns are invited to submit their offers and data concerning the items mentioned above to the Board at Albuquerque.

The college will be a standard school. It is expected the enrolment the first year will be good, in view of the fact that New Mexico is the center of the largest territory in the bounds of the Southern Baptist Convention, without a Baptist College,

As Seen by a Republican Newspaper.

The following clipping is from Southwestern Stockman-Farmer, published at Phoenix, Arizona, a Republican paper, under date of August 30th:

"Of all the sour souls which live and thrive in Washington, that of Senator Fall of New Mexico seems to be the most distinguishable. He dips his thoughts in the vinegar of conceit and washes them in the vitrol of animosity. His recent diatribe on the peace treaty shames us for living in the same section of America. We have two thousand subscribers in New Mexico and we wonder if a single one of them would again "fall" for Fall."

In no other state through which President Wilson toured in the interest of the peace treaty, did he create such a strong sentiment in its favor as California. It in said that the state would vote overwhelmingly in favor of the treaty could it be submitted to its voters.

Sunshine Pharmacy.

The People Spoke.

The defeat of the three amendments to the State Constitution strongly indicates that the voters are alert to their best interests. If these amendments were not originated by the state administration, they had its hearty endorsement. There could be but little objection to the amendment to permit soldiers to vote while away from home serving their country, and has it been put before the people singly it would no doubt have carried, but it was coupled with the other two which bore marks on their face that made them obnoxious, and it went down in defeat. In reality, the two which met such distavor with the voters were intended to take from the people the control of the schools and other public interests and place them in the hands of boards to be selected by the Governor. The people saw the danger and refused to stand for it. The state, probably, never had another Governor who tried so hard to extend his authority and get control of public interests which are in the hands of the people as the present one. If this election indicates anything, it shows a determination on the part of the people to control their public interests which the constitution gives them, regardless of the Governor's wishes or what the legislature may propose.

AHEAD OF THE SILLY SEASON

Discussion Started as to Why Cow Invariably Arises With Her Hind Quarters Foremost.

Inquiring minds in Connecticut are grappling the old-age question why a cow, which is to say the genus bos, rises from recumbency by elevating her anterior quarters first, whereas a horse reverses the process and a pig appears to have no predilections but to be solely concerned, when there is a prospect of something to eat in sight, to get in motion toward it all at once.

Generally speaking, it can of course be said that a cow takes the method physiologically the easiest for her in getting on her feet, remarks the Rochester Post Express. The head-and-up procedure probably produces muscular stresses and interior discomforts which she understands better than she can explain. It is open to question also if she ever in all her ruminations reflected on the matter; nor is it clear that it is worth our while to do so, since it is only an inconsequential fact with an immaterial reason behind it. It is an interesting bit of information, and it might be profitable in imaginable emergencies to know how an animal normally acts and which is the danger end of her to be avoided. But the obscure cause of it is of no apparent practical importance, for it is just one of those things that are so and might as well be so as something else.

It seems fair from all that is known of the cow, to acquit her of any disposition to do things hind end foremost out of contrankerousness or to cling to a notion or method through perversity or pride because it happens to be hers. There is no evidence of that domineering spirit in her or of a will for insistence in having her own way. She does the things that are to be done sequentially, in order settles her pressing problems first and leaves to the future others that may arise. Imperiled by enemies her way would be to fight them to a standstill first and leave for later consideration a bovine league to secure her against possible new attacks. Her ratiocinative processes may be limited, but there is reason to believe that as far as she does see she sees clearly, never out of focus; that her intuitions are sure, and that, while she may sometimes seem to, she never really does things wrong end first or clings to a course when conclusive reasons for abandoning it appear. On the whole, therefore, it seems profitable to consider the cow in the field, how she acts, for Solomon in all his glory was not so wise in all respects as one of these.

Only Tamed Humming Bird.

Sergt. Charles Robertson and Orderly M. J. Maw, of the National Soldiers' home, at Sawtelle, Cal., are the proud possessors of what is believed to be the only pet humming-bird in existence, says Our Dumb Animals. Their feathered friend is a beautiful red-breasted specimen who answers to the name of Dick.

This unusual bird is so tame that he eats his meals from the end of a medicine dropper held in the mouth of one of his friends. They feed him sugar syrup in this way. He will also treat all while sipping nectar from a cluster of flowers held by one of the men. Another favorite stunt of his is that of perching upon their fingers while eating his meals.

The men are both practiced veterans of the Spanish-Moorish war. They discovered the bird flitting around the home grounds a year ago, and decided to tame it. Orderly Maw having had experience taming birds in the tropics many years ago when he was a sailor. By putting out dishes of sugar syrup for the hummer they gradually domesticated it.

The Ghost Ship.

Among the war stories that British naval men feel free to tell now is one about a "ghost ship" whose mystery has never been solved.

In 1917 a convoy of 12 ships left a British port. At dawn on the day after sailing the escort commander discovered thirteen ships under his charge. While the identity of the extra ship was being discussed the convoy was suddenly attacked by German light cruisers and most of the escort and nine of the merchantmen were sunk. The Germans then made off.

Survivors positively assert that there were thirteen ships and that the mysterious vessel disappeared as strangely as she had appeared. They are certain that the ship was not sunk. Official inquiries failed to throw any light on the nature of the craft. It was ascertained that she could not have been a disguised German raider, and her presence was "logged" by the escort commander.

Baptist College for New Mexico.

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 30: The Baptist State Board of New Mexico, located at Albuquerque, has received notice of an appropriation of $100,000 from the Education Board of the Southern Baptist Convention at Birmingham, Ala., for the establishment of a standard Baptist College in the State, on condition that the Baptists of New Mexico raise a like amount. Rev. J. W. Brnner, corresponding secretary of New Mexico State Board reports that there is a hearty sentiment all over the state among Baptists in favor of the establishment of such a school.

One of the most important matters, probably, to come before the New Mexico Baptist State Convention, meeting in Santa Fe on Oct. 22-24 will be the decision as to the permanent location for the college. Many towns in New Mexico are submitting offers for the school. In making the decision as to where the college shall be located, the Convention will take into consideration the offers which the towns themselves shall make for the school, in the way of land and money, moral atmosphere, conveniences and accommodations, railroad facilities, climate, and the surrounding Baptist constituency. Towns are invited to submit their offers and data concerning the items mentioned above to the Board at Albuquerque.

The college will be a standard school. It is expected the enrolment the first year will be good, in view of the fact that New Mexico is the center of the largest territory in the bounds of the Southern Baptist Convention, without a Baptist College.
