P. G. Peters' residence in the Highland addition is nearing completion. When finished it will be quite an attractive feature to that portion of the town, and one of the prettiest residences in the entire town.

The regular annual meeting of the Lincoln Baptist association was called to meet on the Ruidoso yesterday. This association embraces all southern New Mexico, and a large attendance is expected from the association's domain.

Two or three shots one night this week startled some of the residents of the south side, but an investigation by the officers showed that no harm had been done further than disturbing the slumbers of the inhabitants.

Mrs. A. M. Brothers and Mrs. Geo. Dillard have leased the Burrell House, and solicit a share of the public patronage. Mrs. Dillard has charge of the rooms, and Mrs. Brothers will superintend the culinary department.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

CAREER LIKE A ROCKET

When a deputy sheriff, armed with a writ of attachment issued from the supreme court, the other day served copies of that paper upon John Brandt Walker, wizard of Wall street, and on other brokers with whom Walker has accounts, what may be the final chapter was written in the romantic story of Brandt Walker's kaleidoscopic advent, rise and crash "on the street." The attachment was issued on a $23,500 claim of a brokerage firm which asserts a balance due on a series of wheat and stock deals. That Walker did not find it convenient to settle so comparatively trivial a bill is taken to mean that he has struck the bottom of the financial toboggan chute, and this idea is borne out by his recent sale of his expensive garage, stable and team of big-bred trotters at figures said to be far lower than the prices he paid in their purchase.

Only a year ago John Brandt Walker was the sensation of the stock brokers' world. His plunging methods—or lack of method—on the board of trade attracted the attention of veteran speculators who had seen scores of men tempt fortune by bold or bizarre campaigns. Walker's campaign was unique, in that it went farther than most others had dared, and also in that it was successful. A million dollars a month for 90 days was the measure of his winnings at the close of his big bear campaign, which closed only last December.

Walker is 40 years old, son of Edwin Walker, a famous Chicago railroad lawyer, and came to New York from the former city a few years ago with $15,000. This he promptly lost, and he repeated the performance several times, as often as he could get enough cash or backing to make a new start.

SHREWD WOMAN POLITICIAN

Mrs. Frank W. Dodson, who is seeking a second election to the office of county recorder of Polk county, Iowa, put to rout a bold band of jury fixers in Des Moines and completely revolutionized the drawing of jurors throughout the entire state. She is known as the shrewdest politician in Iowa.

Five years ago she was the wife of Attorney Frank W. Dodson, a candidate for district judge. To his wife he confided his hopes and ambitions. He also confided to her the little ins and outs of politics. Dodson died suddenly and his widow was left with a little son to support. Mrs. Dodson turned her attention to politics and ran for county recorder. The politicians fought her, but she went direct to the people with convincing arguments, laying bare the secrets of the corrupt ward heelers, and she won.

The Iowa statute at that time placed the drawing of jurors in the hands of the clerk, auditor and recorder, and Mrs. Dodson discovered that the drawing of jurors was a farce. She set to work to correct the abuse. She stirred up such a fuss as the state had never seen. Corporations which always had enough friends on the jury panel to protect their interests, saw that a revolution of the system was imminent, and got very busy. So did the political machines. Again did Mrs. Dodson go to the people. So great was her influence that the Civic League, which labored for pure government, joined in the movement. The contest reached the courts. Mrs. Dodson personally presented her side of the jury situation to the judges. The fight was bitter. She explained to the court that the jury boxes were tied with pieces of thin wire, whereas the law required that they should be securely sealed. The court ordered the boxes securely sealed and directed that no jurists be drawn in secret. Then Mrs. Dodson went farther. She appealed to the legislature, and after days and days of indefatigable labor, opposed by the politicians at every step, she brought about the passage of a new jury law that put an end to the selection of the jury lists by election officers.

WITH PERRY IN JAPAN

Chief Engineer Edward Dunham Robie, U. S. N., ranking as a rear admiral on the retired list, and who celebrated his golden-wedding anniversary at Washington the other day, is an interesting figure in one of the most memorable naval expeditions that ever set out from this country. He is one of the five surviving officers of the 200 who accompanied Commodore M. C. Perry in the famous expedition which opened up Japan to the civilized world in 1852-1854, and thus did more toward the rapid advancement of that progressive nation to the first rank of powers and to cement its people in friendship to the people of the United States of America than all the rest of the world combined.

Admiral Robie was born in Burlington, Vt., September 11, 1831, and is a son of Jacob Carter and Louisa Dunham Robie. He was educated at the Binghamton academy, Binghamton, N. Y., where he won the scholarship prize, and was subsequently warranted an assistant engineer in the United States navy.

After an eventful life, rich in accomplishment and full of exciting incidents, he was retired for age September 11, 1893, with the rank of commodore, being the only one of his class to attain that rank; and in 1906, by act of congress, his rank was raised to that of rear admiral for his creditable record in the civil war.

AN EARLY VICTIM.

"What is the matter, Jack?"
"Boohoo! Catherine says she's decided I ain't her affinity 'after all!"

The Merry Widow.

A man whose wife was extremely jealous planned a pleasant surprise for her in the form of a trip to New York to see "The Merry Widow," and wrote a friend in the city to let him know the earliest date for which he could secure seats. The next day when he was away from home the following telegram was delivered there, addressed to him, but opened by his wife:

"Nothing doing with the widow until the tenth. Will that suit you?"

Explanations were demanded.—Lippincott's.

Attractions of Flowers.

A flower has an almost human way of first attracting insects. This is by appealing to their fondness for sweet things. There is secreted in every flower a store of honey, large or small, as the case may be, to which the midge, the butterfly, the bee, the blue-bottle fly and other insects are attracted.

On the Country Picnic.

She hung her head.
"Really, Mr. Mannering," she stammered, "this—or—is so—so sudden—"
"For goodness sake," cried Mannering, "stop blushing so. Here comes a bull!"

BURIAL OF THE EX-PRESIDENT

GROVER CLEVELAND'S FUNERAL, MARKED BY SIMPLICITY AND ABSENCE OF POMP.

NOTABLE GATHERING

PRESIDENT, GOVERNORS, EX-CABINET OFFICERS AND DISTINGUISHED GUESTS.

Princeton, N. J.—Grover Cleveland's body lies buried in the Cleveland plot in Princeton cemetery.

At 6 o'clock Friday, just as the sun was sinking in the west, a distinguished company silently watched as the body was lowered into the grave.

Then the simple burial service of the Presbyterian church was read, and before the last carriages in the cortege had driven up to the path leading to the burial place, the benediction had been pronounced and the members of the family, President Roosevelt and others who had gathered about the grave, were leaving the cemetery.

Many of the personal friends of the dead statesman lingered about the spot which was to mark his last resting place, and each in turn was permitted to cast a shovelful of earth into the grave.

Agreeably to the wishes of Mrs. Cleveland, the services, both at the house and at the cemetery, were of the simplest character.

Although the funeral was of a strictly private nature, those in attendance numbered many distinguished citizens, including President Roosevelt, Governors Fort of New Jersey, Hughes of New York and Hoke Smith of Georgia, former members of President Cleveland's Cabinet, officials of the Equitable Life and friends and neighbors.

Upon arrival at the house the President went to Mrs. Cleveland, offering his sympathy and expressing keen regret at Mr. Cleveland's death.

A few minutes later the four clergymen who officiated, came down stairs to the hall leading to the reception booth, followed by Mrs. Cleveland and the children, Esther and Richard.

The services began with an invocation by Rev. Sylvester W. Beach of the First Presbyterian church of Princeton, which was followed by Scriptural reading by Rev. Maitland V. Bartlett of the West Farms Presbyterian church of New York, a former pastor of Mr. Cleveland, who read from the fourteenth chapter of the Book of John and a number of passages from the fourth and twenty-second chapter of the Thessalonians. In closing, Doctor Bartlett read from the Book of Revelations.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke then said that "according to the request of one whose slightest wish at this moment we all respect, there will be no address or sermon, but there was a poem written more than a hundred years ago by William Wordsworth, which is expressive of his character."

He then read the poem, "Character of the Happy Warrior." This was followed by readings from the Presbyterian book of common worship, the services at the house concluding with prayer.

The services were concluded at 5:30 and five minutes later the casket had been tenderly carried to the hearse and the procession started on its way to the cemetery.

Along the streets from the house to the cemetery national guardsmen, mounted and on foot, policed the way. As President Roosevelt passed through the gate leading from the Westland grounds the militiamen presented arms, and the President doffed his hat in recognition.

The pall bearers, six on either side of the hearse, marched with the procession as it wended its way slowly down Bayard Lane to Nassau street and on along the main thoroughfare of the town.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

SUB-COMMITTEE ON ARRANGEMENTS MEETS AND SELECTS OFFICERS.

BRYAN MEN CONTROL

THEODORE A. BELL OF CALIFORNIA WILL BE TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN.

Denver.—At a meeting of the sub-committee on arrangements from the Democratic national committee held Saturday the will of William J. Bryan regarding the temporary officer who should sound the alarm note at the convention was respected and Mr. Bell of California was named without dissent.

The following list of officers was agreed upon:

Temporary Chairman—Theodore A. Bell, California.

General Secretary, Urey Woodson, Kentucky.

Assistant General Secretary, Edwin Softer, New York.

Sergeant-at-Arms, John I. Martin, Missouri.

Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms, J. C. Fenn, Indiana.

Parliamentary Clerk—N. D. Crutchfield, Illinois.

Chief Doorkeeper, Eugene W. Sullivan, Illinois.

Chaplain first day, Bishop J. Keane, Wyoming.

Official Reporter—Milton W. Bloomberg, Washington, D. C.

Official Historian, R. A. Cables.

Henry D. Clayton of Alabama and Judson Harmon of Ohio seem to have the lead for the permanent chairmanship, with Clayton seemingly in greatest favor.

At the meeting, which was held at the Brown hotel, there were present Thomas Taggart, Indiana; Urey Woodson, Kentucky; J. C. Dahlman, Nebraska; Norman E. Mack, New York; R. M. Johnston, Texas; J. E. Osborne, Wyoming; Roger C. Sullivan, Illinois. The proxy of Clark Howell of Atlanta was held by Mr. Woodson and the proxy of John T. McGray of West Virginia by Mr. Sullivan. The meeting was purely formal. Everything had been prepared beforehand. Mr. Johnston named Mr. Bell, and it was so ordered.

Mr. Woodson was given authority to name not over fifteen assistant clerks and reading clerks and Mr. Taggart will name the doorkeepers and assistant sergeants-at-arms, also the chaplains for the remaining days of the convention.

The committee recommended that the delegation from the Philippines be granted seats in the convention with the alternates from the other states and possessions, but that they be given no vote in the affairs of the party.

The recommendation is in line with the ruling of the convention four years ago, when it was held that the Philippines are not a part of the United States, hence the island delegates are not entitled to a voice or a vote. This question will be decided definitely by the committee on credentials and may be appealed to the convention.

The members of the committee Saturday morning visited the auditorium in a body and inspected it from basement to attic. At the close of their tour they reported it to be the finest convention hall they had ever seen and declared all arrangements perfect.

They approved all suggestions made by Colonel John I. Martin, sergeant-at-arms, for the handling of the crowd.

Sherman is Recovering.

Cleveland.—James S. Sherman, Republican candidate for vice president, passed a comfortable day Saturday and at night his temperature, pulse and respiration were normal. Mr. Sherman will be kept in the hospital a few days so as to recover his strength.

One Best Bet.
Bacon—What do they call that uniform the girls wear in the "March of the Amazons" on the stage?
Egbert—Undress uniform, I reckon.
—Yonkers Statesman.

Hands Full.
"If Smithers undertakes to pull my ears," said a fellow at a street corner, "he will have his hands full."
The crowd looked at the man's ears and smiled.

'Twould Be Useless.
Mistress—"Jane, I saw the milkman kiss you this morning. In the future I will take the milk in."
Jane—" 'Twouldn't be no use, mum. He's promised never to kiss anybody but me."

The Neighbors' Hens.
"Who got up those hanging gardens of Babylon?"
"Some king."
"For what purpose?"
"I judge he wanted to outwit the neighbors' chickens."

What He Was Discharged.
Office Boy—What am I fired for?
Employer—For constantly smoking cigarettes. You have heard, haven't you, that where there is so much smoke, there must be some fire?—Bohemian.

The Fashionable Term.
"Bluffington is suffering with rheumatism, I hear."
"No, he isn't suffering. He's got it, but he's quite proud and happy. His doctor calls it 'gout.'"

Give or Take.
Him (at the concert)—Don't you think Miss Howells takes great pains with her singing?
Her—"Gives," I think, would be a more appropriate word than "takes."

NEARING THE TRUTH.

Some months ago the territorial republican weeklies were almost unanimous in their support of Andrews, and each one endeavored to excel the other in shouting his praises. We were told that he was a man who "did things," the old soldier's friend and without his nomination and election statehood was doomed. This sounded pretty well, and was instrumental in catching many suckers. Finally, it was discovered that Mr. Andrews had no more to do with securing pensions than the man in the moon, unless it was by special act; and many of his erstwhile supporters have dropped him, and are beginning to resort to truth. The following from the Tucumcari News, taken in part from two articles appearing in that paper last week, in which a frank acknowledgment is made of Mr. Andrews' weakness, and condemns in unmeasured terms his style of campaigning:

"The News has every reason to believe that we have a hard fight in the territory to win this delegate election and we consider Andrews the least capable of the three candidates in the field to land us in the republican column this fall, and if we can't elect a republican delegate we are up against another long wait for statehood. That pull that Andrews has among Pennsylvania and New York congressmen and senators is getting to be a joke with them. * * * * * The republicans of Quay county are not going to stand for the steam roller tactics that have been used for Mr. Andrews. Andrews' friends are using the postoffice department and the pension bureau for the purpose of lining up a delegation for him. Because a veteran draws a pension is no reason that he is indebted to Andrews for having served his country. The government is due the disabled veteran all he will ever be able to get from it, and the fact that Mr. Andrews is using this old hoax for the purpose of getting votes is an insult to the old soldiers of our country."

DON'T LIKE HIS PARTY'S RECORD.

Mr. Taft's very creditable promise to make all campaign contributions and expenditures public, according to the laws of New York, does not change the official record of his party.—New York World.

We have been reliably informed that at the Otero county republican convention the delegation was instructed for Judge Mann for congress, the New Mexican to the contrary notwithstanding. The New Mexican's report that that county had instructed its delegation for Andrews dampened the ardor of the Mann supporters in Lincoln county, and it is believed that it will result in an Andrews delegation from this county. How much will it profit a man to gain Lincoln county and lose the whole territory?

He Prayed.

As an evidence that a church is not always a place of solemnity, even when only sacred subjects are under discussion, we report herewith a little incident that took place in a local church one evening recently, and which caused a ripple of laughter to pass over the assembled worshippers. In the preliminaries leading up to the regular service, the congregation was standing while a song was being sung. At its conclusion, the director requested the congregation to remain standing while Bro. Jones (so called for the sake of euphony) to lead in prayer. The sequel proved that Bro. Jones belonged to that old-fashioned class which has peculiar ideas as to the manner in which the throne of grace should be approached; and instead of beginning a supplication to the Lord, blandly responded: "If you want me to pray, you'll have to get down on your knees." The congregation did kneel, and a prayer went up that shook the rafters.

No. 3 was ten hours late yesterday, arriving about eleven last night. A wreck on the Rock Island caused the delay.

ANDREWS WINS.

Pursuant to call, the republicans met in Wetmore's hall Monday night and elected five delegates to attend the republican county convention at Lincoln on the 11th inst. The regular county call allowed this precinct only one delegate, based on the vote of 1906, but the increase in that party's strength the past two years in this precinct induced the republicans to elect five delegates and ask that they be seated in the county convention. The five delegates chosen are: Ira O. Wetmore, Wm. F. A. Glerke, Jose Serano, William Kahler and C. L. Davis.

There was not a ripple on the surface over the selection of these delegates, but when it was proposed to instruct them for Andrews a few protested that it was bad policy to do; for the reason that it would mean the support of a weak candidate. Two or three rather good talks were made in opposition to instructing the delegates, but they availed little; and when the question was voted on those opposed to instructions sat quietly in their seats, not even casting a vote in the negative. The gum-shoe methods of the gentleman from Pennsylvania had triumphed, and his opponents got out of the way to avoid being run over by the steam roller.

The meeting decided to organize a republican club, and proceeded to elect officers and an executive committee of ten. Before this executive committee was completed, however, some one suggested that its membership be increased to fifteen, evidently, as some democrat present said, to give all members an office. This suggestion caught like wild fire, and the republican party of precinct No. 14 was left without an army—they are all generals, colonels and captains, no high privates.

FREE VACCINATION.

The authorities at Fort Stanton authorize the statement that all parties wishing to be vaccinated may have it done free of charge at the sanatorium. The only restriction is that applicants must appear in the forenoon of Mondays and Fridays.

The Bar W outfit started its wagon this week. Quite a number of the smaller ranchers will work with the Bar W's, and a general round-up of the range will be made.

Robt. H. Taylor was down from White Oaks two or three days this week.

Rabenton elected four delegates to the republican county convention at Lincoln, and instructed them for Andrews. This almost insures an Andrews delegation from this county.

James King, sheriff from Holdenville, Oklahoma, was here this week, looking for a man by the name of H. B. Howell, alias C. Tyler, who broke jail in Oklahoma some months ago, and who was charged with various crimes. Through the assistance of officers Kirby and Adams, the curprit was located at Duran, and the authorities here were notified Tuesday night that Sheriff King had captured his man.

Receipts from National Forests. Bureau of Forestry.

Announcement has just been made of the amounts which each State containing National Forests will receive under the new law giving 25 per cent of the gross receipts from Forests to the States. The total amount to go to the States, from the receipts of the fiscal year which ended June 30, is $447,063.79.

The amounts to go to each State or Territory are: Alaska, $2,684.78; Arizona, $42,610.44; Arkansas, $313.68; Calif., $52,437.78; Colorado, $50,955.67; Idaho, $56,307.84; Kansas, $643.55; Montana, $75,807.41; Nebraska, $2,349.77; Nevada, $4,577.95; New Mexico, $25,464.12; Oklahoma, $554.48; Oregon, $82,313.52; South Dakota, $8,456.60; Utah, $32,151.02; (including Uinta Indian refund of $5,348.07); Washington, $18,032.79, and Wyoming, $41,402.38.

The law requires that this money be expended upon public roads and schools by the counties which contain National Forest land. In this way the counties are compensated for the reduction of taxable area brought about by the existence of the Forests.

Before this year the States have received 10 per cent of the gross receipts, but Congress voted last winter to increase the amount to 25 per cent.

FROM A FOREIGN VIEWPOINT.

Freeman's Journal (Dublin).

Those who a few weeks ago were prophesying Mr. Taft's election as "a dead sure thing" are beginning to realize that Mr. Bryan, after all, has his chances. True, he has been twice defeated, defeated principally by the defection of sections of his own party who disliked his program. But, then, it is remembered that he polled a million votes more than the orthodox Democrat. Judge Parker, whose nomination the Democrats of Wall street imposed upon the convention of 1904. Many things have since.

Nowhere has wealth organized itself so skillfully to take toll of the earnings and creations of the workers. From behind its tariff wall, erected professedly in the interest of the wage earner, it operates more successfully and ruthlessly than ever mediæval baron from behind his castle fosse. The meat of the world's ranch, the fruit of the greatest fruit-producing country, the oil of the wells that light half the civilized world, the iron and coal that America possesses in incalculable quantities, have been as successfully monopolized as the imported wines and silks in the trade in which the court favorites of the Tudors and Stuarts found their dower. The coin of the wage-earner is clipped whenever he proceeds to barter with the trusts.

The victorious republicans four years ago, eight years ago, were to end all this. They were to restrain the trusts. They were to revise the tariff.

Mr. Taft's committee is now engaged in passing the hat to "predatory wealth." The situation gives the key to the Bryan campaign. President Roosevelt must feel flattered. He has nominated Mr. Taft as his successor, and the opposition to Mr. Taft is to be based on the argument that he is not strong enough to carry out the Roosevelt policy, that the executant of that policy must be found in the democratic camp. There is a good deal of truth in the contention. President Roosevelt stole a good deal of Mr. Bryan's thunder. He was never able "to catch the Nebraska man bathing, but he got at his wardrobe and filched some of his most characteristic garments." He could not make them the fashion in the republican camp, and it is pretty clear that if they are to be worn successfully at Washington they must be exhibited there on the person of their original wearer.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

Geo. Roslington has purchased the cement residence of E. C. Patterson, one block west of the Bank.

Contracts have been let to H. D. Martin for the construction of two adobe houses on the Highland Park Addition.

Mrs. John H. Skinner went over to Capitan yesterday. She will remain several days and attend the Methodist camp meeting, near Capitan, before returning.

Misses Charlotte and Helen Rice, Louise Meadows and Mrs. Richards arrived last night from Chicago and went over to Parsons this morning.

J. M. Rice, manager of the Eagle mining company, came over from Parsons yesterday to meet his daughters and a party of mining men from Chicago.

C. C. Stotz, a business man of El Reno, Okla., arrived in Carrizozo Wednesday and left this morning for Parsons and other points on the Bonito. He is looking over the country, with a view of locating and investing capital.

J. M. Fulmer, treasurer of the Eagle mining company, and a party of five came in last night from Chicago and drove over to Parsons this morning. The company mills are about ready to start, and these gentlemen came from Chicago to inspect the improvements recently made at the mines.

Jess Holden was up Sunday from Alamogordo and returned on Monday's No. 3. If we were not sworn to secrecy, we could point out the magnetic attractions of our city, or rather the particular magnet that draws Mr. Holden hitherward, but we must not betray a confidence.

The News had hoped to be able to announce a game of ball between White Oaks and Carrizozo for tomorrow afternoon, but so far negotiations that have been pending have not been concluded. There is little question, however, that if these two teams do not meet tomorrow they will do so in the near future.

A house belonging to Joe Howard, in Highland addition, burned Sunday night at about 8:30. The house was unoccupied, and it is not known how the fire started. Mr. Howard lives in Capitan, and we have not seen him since the house burned, but we have been informed that the building was insured for $400.

George Eakers of Nogal returned yesterday morning from Las Vegas, where he had gone to deliver W. W. Roberts at the territorial insane asylum. Roberts was sent from this county to the asylum early in the year, but escaped from that institution in June, and was recaptured only a few days ago.

D. M. Cox was down from Ancho yesterday. He has a homestead near that town and is engaged in farming. His corn crop is assured, he says, notwithstanding that for 94 days it didn't have a drop of rain on it. Mr. Cox is an advocate of dry farming, and his success this year has amply rewarded his belief.

The White Oaks social club had an open meeting last Friday night, and a number of guests were present. Those attending from Carrizozo were: Misses Allie Johnson, Gertrude Kelley and Georgia Lesnet; Messrs. Charles McMasters, George Johnson, Edward Kelley and Francis Canning.

S. W. Hale, section foreman on the Capitan branch, is camped with his crew about four miles up the flat. He is putting in a large number of ties, and expects to keep his crew employed in the present locality two weeks. Many thousands of ties have been put in on the branch line the past year, and, as a consequence, the service has been much improved.

The Nogal Peak Gold Mining Co. has elected its board of directors for the ensuing year. They are: Messrs. Stancil, Bean, Craig, Turner and Norman, all of Roswell except J. A. Norman of this place. A fund was raised to do some development work on the company's property, and Mr. Norman, who is the manager, expects to begin operations next week.

Rev. S. B. Calloway, pastor of the First Baptist church of Alamogordo, and Mrs. R. H. Pierce and Mrs. Seiger came up from Alamogordo Wednesday night and went to Capitan on yesterday's train. They were on their way to the Ruidoso to attend the Lincoln Baptist association and the camp meeting that will continue for about two weeks, after the association adjourns.

Mrs. Hicks and two daughters, Annie and Virgie, arrived on Friday's limited from Tucumcari, and were met by Elbert T. Collier who drove them to White Oaks that evening. They had been in Tucumcari for some time visiting Mrs. S. M. Wharton, a daughter of Mrs. Hicks. They will remain about three weeks at White Oaks, guests of Mrs. E. T. Collier, another daughter. Their home is near Brownwood, Texas.

E. J. Gordon is in charge of the crew putting in the new turntable. He thinks it will require three weeks yet to complete the job. The circle is being enlarged and excavating is difficult and tedious by reason of the fact that all tracks leading to the round house have to be blocked up and kept in condition for constant use. The new work will be concrete and of a substantial nature.

A. R. Gschwind, wife and sister-in-law, were up from Oscura yesterday, purchasing goods and transacting other business. This family came from Chicago early in the year and located near Oscura. It certainly did our heart good to meet a staunch German democrat, and Mr. Gschwind is not the only one of that nationality in that neck-o-woods who is a believer in democratic principles.

CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO.

Subway for Moving Sidewalks.

Strap-hanging in street cars and the general congestion of interurban travel will be at an end if the invention of a New York man, who is backed by prominent capitalists of that city, proves as successful as is anticipated. Attracted to the conditions of the Brooklyn bridge, where during the rush hours the traction companies endeavor to transport 60,000 passengers an hour, with facilities which 45,000 tax to the utmost, he evolved a scheme based to an extent on the moving sidewalk which was a feature of the pier at the world's fair at Chicago in 1893. His idea, explains the Technical World, is to equip the Brooklyn bridge with a series of five moving platforms, one within another. The outer one would travel at the rate of three miles an hour, the second at six miles an hour, the third at nine and the fourth at twelve. The inner one, which he would operate at fifteen miles an hour, he would have equipped with seats, each holding half a dozen persons. To step from one platform to another while both were in motion would be both safe and easy. With this system of platforms, moving in one direction on one side of the bridge and back on the other, the inventor claims he can transport 174,000 persons an hour. As an economical method of transportation, the promoters declare that there would be no motormen, conductors nor brakemen to pay and that the expense for power, repairs and operating force would be less than for any other system that is in use to-day.

There is always something fascinatingly mysterious about the government secret service. The men engaged under the chief are not known to the public at large even by name, and one's next-door neighbor may be a secret service agent without one having any suspicion of his occupation. The secret service bureau is attached to the treasury department and is maintained for the detection of counterfeiters and for the protection of the person of the president. The men are employed, however, by other departments on a confidential requisition from the head of the department. If the attorney general or the secretary of commerce and labor needs detectives—each has needed them in recent investigations—the secretary of the treasury has supplied the men. This practice of diverting the detectives of the treasury department from their proper work was objected to in congress not long ago, and an attempt was made to prevent it. If the secret service men become more detectors of counterfeiters, much of the popular interest in them will disappear.

The report from Mombasa, British East Africa, that 40,000 deaths have resulted from famine in the province of Osoqa in Uganda furnishes an illustration of the perils which still confront the dwellers on the dark continent, notwithstanding the progress made in opening up that region to civilization. The news also recalls the frequent experiences from famine in India. In both localities the causes are practically the same—failure of usual sources of food supply and inability, owing to lack of transportation facilities, to reach and relieve those in dire need. One of the great functions of advancing civilization is to equalize the opportunities for securing the necessities of life.

SUFFERED TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

With Eczema—Her Limb Peeled and Foot Was Raw—Thought Amputation Was Necessary—Believed Life-Saved by Cuticura.

"I have been treated by doctors for twenty-five years for a bad case of eczema on my leg. They did their best, but failed to cure it. My doctor had advised me to have my leg cut off. At this time my leg was peeled from the knee, my foot was like a piece of raw flesh, and I had to walk on crutches. I bought a set of Cuticura Remedies. After the first two treatments the swelling went down, and in two months my leg was cured and the new skin came on. The doctor was surprised and said that he would use Cuticura for his own patients. I have now been cured over seven years, and but for the Cuticura Remedies I might have lost my life. Mrs. J. B. Renaud, 277 Montana St., Montreal, Que., Feb. 20, 1907."

WOOD PRESERVATION

TREATMENT THAT GIVES TIMBERS LONGER LIFE.

COMPARISON BETWEEN TREATED AND UNTREATED PROPS

TREATING TELEPHONE POLES

TREATING PLANT FOR FENCE POSTS

"Timber thoroughly treated with proper preservatives will last almost indefinitely," says a government expert who is an authority on wood preservation. "Engineers have known for years that this is true," he continues, "but up to the present time, at least in America, complicated and expensive plants have been necessary for the work and wood preservation has often been too expensive an operation to allow treated timber to come into general use."

Methods in wood preservation have undergone a marked change in the last few years, however, and the work which a few years ago was limited to a few experiments carried on in scattered parts of the United States has grown with such rapidity that wood preservation has become a business which figures most prominently in the industrial life of this country.

Each year railroads are treating an increasing portion of their cross ties, miners their mine props, farmers their fence posts and the men of many other industries are bringing preservatives into play to close the pores and prepare the timber they use to resist the fungi which cause decay. The work points the way to one of the chief means of the conservation of the nation's forest resources, for as the length of the life of timber is increased the drain upon the forests is lessened, and more wood made available for use.

In nearly all localities in the Rocky mountain and Pacific states is found an abundant supply of certain kinds of timber which have only a slight commercial importance. Engelmann spruce, lodgepole and other kinds of pine, aspen, and cottonwood are only a partial list of the kinds of wood which are strong enough and abundant enough to win high value for construction purposes, were it not for one single defect which has prevented their general adoption. When exposed to the soil and weather they decay so rapidly that they have to be renewed too often to justify their use.

Dead timber of lodgepole pine and other species also is found in large tracts, but is sharply discriminated against by all constructing engineers and contractors. As a matter of fact, the dead timber, provided it is sound, is just as good as green timber of the same species; and indeed, in some ways, is even more valuable. For it is well known that thoroughly seasoned timber is both stronger and more durable than the same timber when green. Timber which was killed by fire or insects, and which is still in a sound condition, differs from green timber chiefly in being thoroughly seasoned—that is to say, it is stronger, more durable and lighter. And so not only are the freight rates considerably reduced, but a better grade of timber is secured.

Even in a thoroughly seasoned condition, lodgepole pine, Engelmann spruce, and the other species mentioned above, are by no means durable woods when compared with Douglas fir, Oregon cedar, and the other kinds of wood which are used so extensively in construction work. And before they can successfully compete with such timbers, in spite of their lower price, they must be made to last longer under unfavorable conditions.

After several years' study, the United States forest service has proved that in many cases the complicated and expensive plants are not necessary for the proper treatment of many kinds of timber; and that many of the timbers which decay most rapidly in the natural state, are among the easiest and cheapest to treat. Many of the species mentioned above offer little resistance to the entrance of the preservative. The principle of the method is to immerse the thoroughly seasoned wood in a hot bath of the liquid, leave it in for a few hours, and then either plunge it into a cold bath of a preservative, or else run out the hot liquid from the treating tank, and fill it up again with liquid of a lower temperature. This requires only the simplest kind of machinery, and the cost of operation is so slight that even cheap timbers like fence posts and shingles can be treated by the average farmer of small means.

Although the forest service, by extensive experiments in all portions of the country, considers that the practicability of the process has been conclusively proved, more or less difficulty has been encountered in inducing others to adopt the process on a commercial scale. In order to demonstrate beyond any doubt that the process is adapted to commercial treatments, the service has arranged to erect small treating plants—semi-commercial in size—on several of the national forests. Tests will be made on the local timbers, and careful record kept of the cost of the work. The treated timber will then be placed in permanent position, where its future durability can be compared with untreated timber of the same or other kinds.

Three such plants will be erected, and it is expected that they will be in successful operation during the summer. According to the present plans one plant will be erected at some locality on or near the Black Hills National forest, South Dakota, another on the Holy Cross National forest in Colorado; and the third on the Henrys Lake National forest, near St. Anthony, Idaho.

The investigations in wood preservation by the use of creosote, which is nothing more than the dead oil of coal tar and zinc chlorid, are considered of such importance by the government that one branch of a bureau in the department of agriculture—the "Office of Wood Preservation" in the forest service—is given over entirely to the work of experiments in co-operation with railroad companies, mining corporations and individuals who desire to prolong the life of the timber which they use. Advice and practical assistance is furnished all who request it of the forester at Washington.

CHILD'S DIGNITY WAS HURT.

Dissatisfied with the Appearance of Her Medical Adviser.

Shortly after the removal to the suburbs of the household in which Claire, aged four, is the controlling spirit, she was taken ill. The nearest physician was called in. After her mother had explained what she thought was wrong, questions were directed to the little lady herself. In contrast to her usual display of volubility Claire became extremely non-committal.

"Does your head ache, little one?"
"No-o-o."
"Is the pain there?" asked the doctor softly, pointing to the patient's stomach.

"No," very emphatic.
"Are you cold?" and the professional hand sought the pulse.

No answer, simply a tolerance of conditions that gave him the right to touch her.

"Now please tell me just where you don't feel quite right," coaxed the doctor.

Dead silence.
"Precious, tell the doctor where you feel sick," cooed the mother.

"I don't feel sick anywhere—not now."

The man of medicine gave directions, wrote prescriptions, and went his way.

"Why, Claire!" the mother reproached. "You've acted very badly. Mother never knew, her little girl to be so rude. The doctor came to help you get strong—so you can run and play. Aren't you sorry to displease mother so? You always told Dr. Regan how you felt."

"Mother, I'm sorry, but not much. It's this way! Dr. Regan always comes in his carriage and his horse stands at the door. This doctor"—with a note of contempt—"just sneaks in with a little black bag—and all the other children will think we've got just a common doctor."—N. Y. Times.

KIND THOUGHT OF THE BRIDE.

Possibly Turned Silly Custom Into Something Really Worth While.

"The most considerate girl I ever knew got married yesterday," said the man. "She showed her thoughtfulness in a most unusual way. The day before the wedding she called the attention of the rest of the family to a row of old shoes standing in a downstairs closet.

"I want you to throw these after the carriage," she said. "They are all mates. I collected them to throw away. I learned some time ago that certain poor souls who have hard work to get clothes of any description keep a lookout for big weddings. They hang around the house at going-away time and pick up the good luck shoes. Maybe they get a fit, and maybe they don't. Anyway, I've done all I could to accommodate them.

"Here are six pairs of shoes to be fired after me. If somebody doesn't get fitted in that collection, it isn't my fault."

The General Demand

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

A fishing party left yesterday morning for the South Fork of the Bonito, and will remain about three weeks. Those in the party are: Frank J. Sager and wife, Miss Lorena and Esther Sager, Mrs. J. R. Humphrey and two children and Miss Ruth Tompkins. It is feared that that famous trout stream will live only in story when this party has exhausted its energy with rod and reel—there'll be no fish left.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira O. Wetmore left yesterday morning for the Ruidoso campmeeting. They expected to drive through in a day and to camp on the banks of the little Noisy last night.

L. C. Barlow, manager of the Vera Cruz mining company, left for Chicago Monday. Mr. Barlow went to attend a meeting of the board of directors of his company, and to make arrangements for installing a cyanide plant at the company's mines.

J. J. Johnson was exhibiting a ladies' gold watch Monday that he had just received as a premium for securing subscribers to the Railroad Trainmen's Journal. Mr. Johnson will, of course, present the watch to his wife upon her return home.

Miss Nettie Lee entertained a few friends Monday evening in honor of Miss Nellie McMains, who left the next day for Douglas, Arizona. Twelve young people were present, music and games furnishing the means of diversion on the occasion.
