THE GOVERNMENT AT WASHINGTON IS AT WORK FOR THE WEST

For the first time since Roosevelt's administration there is now a government at Washington that is alive to the needs of the west, and zealously at work to do all that government can do to supply those needs.

Facing mighty international problems, President Harding and the congress have found time to study the situation of the west's great producing industries, the grain growers, the livestock growers, the miners; and to take administrative and legislative action necessary to provide credit and markets for these industries and to restore prosperity to them and the great states they sustain.

Within six months President Harding and the congress have accomplished for the relief of western industries and for the restoration of their prosperity, these outstanding things.

An emergency tariff protecting meats, wheat and wool.

The framing of a permanent tariff law which will give adequate and enduring protection to farmers and livestock growers.

The framing of a revenue law requiring the elimination of six hundred millions of dollars of government expenditures and lifting from the shoulders of all payers of federal taxes a full one fifth of the burden laid upon them by war and the preceding extravagant administration.

Initiation of the $50,000,000 livestock loan pool, which has already restored demand for the range animals grown in New Mexico, at better prices.

Enactment into law of the greatest financial relief measure in the history of the world;—the Agricultural Credits law; making available for marketing the production of grain and livestock two and a half billions of dollars and saving the livestock industry of the west from ruin by checking enforced liquidation and providing the long time credits which will enable livestock growers of this and other range states to "grow out" of debt and to grow back into permanent prosperity.

Federal supervision of the meat industry, from the grower to the consumer, with adequate supervision of both producers and consumers markets.

Regulation, through the Capper Tincher law, of grain exchanges and boards of trade, and the admission of these exchanges of the representatives of farmers' cooperative marketing associations on a basis of equal advantage with professional traders.

The restoration to first place on the government's program of national aid for western development of the reclamation of arid and undrained lands.

Elimation of increases in national forest grazing fees, proposed by the preceding administration, and the postponement until December 1 of this years' grazing fees; thus aiding livestock growers to pass safely through the crisis of financial stringency.

Changing to July 1 the final date for mining claim assessment work, a relief sought for and welcomed by every prospector and owner of an unpatented mining claim throughout the west.

These Things Have Been Done For the West and for New Mexico during the first six months of the Harding administration. In every one of these undertakings Senator Holm O. Bursum of New Mexico has taken an active part; in several of them A LEADING PART.

It was Senator Bursum who launched the agitation in forming the of the $50,000,000 livestock loan pool.

It was Senator Bursum who led the fight which included livestock growers in the Agricultural Credit law

It was Senator Bursum who forced reclamation work to the front by insisting upon federal arbitration of the water rights in conflict beetween Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

It was Senator Bursum who secured the agreement of the senate finance committee to include hides in the tariff law and whose amendment to the wool tariff has been accepted as the basis for that schedule as the senate will adopt it.

President Harding and a republican congress will govern this nation for three and one-half more years. The work done for the west thus far is a guaranty that more and greater things are to be done. The work that Senator Bursum has accomplished is a guaranty of the greater service he can and will perform, working as he will, as a member of the administration, as one of its supporters and in harmony with its undertakings.

Should New Mexico send a democrat to the senate now, he would vote—against the administration. Such a vote would avail New Mexico nothing. He might criticize the administration and the majority in congress, but no helpful result for our state or any of its people could possibly follow.

Holm O. Bursum, a strong, aggressive, able man; already trained in senatorial service; already accepted into the councils of the national administration; already deep in a great program of constructive legislation to aid in upbuilding our state and the west; will have behind him in working out that program, the sympathetic interest and active cooperation of the national administration and of the majority both houses of congress.

The practical interests and material welfare of the people of New Mexico demand that in the special election on September 20, we put aside partisanship, prejudice, the memory of past controversies, and that we send back to the senate Holm O. Bursum, the man we KNOW can do most for our state and its people.

Make up your mind now that you will vote for Bursum on September 20. Get your neighbors to vote for him. Help to send Bursum back to the Senate with a majority so overwhelming that it will attract national attention, as his work for you has already attracted national attention, and that will further strengthen him in the work he has set out to do for the welfare of New Mexico.

Fifteen thousand men and women, members of the non partisan Bursum clubs, join in this appeal to you to cast YOUR vote for the candidate w KNOW can most for New Mexico.

Senator H. O. Bursum Candidate for Election September 20th, 1921

Manly Words.

Santa Fe, Aug 20.—Senator Holm O. Bursum entered a prompt and vigorous denial today of the statement made by R. H. Hanna, tentative democratic candidate for United States senate, in his address to the democratic convention in Albuquerque Friday, that Senator Bursum has brought back to New Mexico with him from the republican national committee $40,000, for use in his campaign.

"If Mr. Hanna made this statement credited to him, I'm sorry," Senator Bursum said, "because it is a falsehood. I did not bring back $40,000 from the national committee or from any other source. I did not bring back 40 cents, or any other sum of money for use in the campaign. It seems unfortunate that Mr. Hanna should have felt it necessary to resort to falsehood in his appeal to his party associates to raise the large sum of money which he is quoted as having said to be necessary to finance his campaign and induce him to remain upon the democratic ticket as a candidate for the senate.

"It is fair for me to say at this time and in this connection that not only have I not received directly or indirectly any contributions to my campaign from the republican national committee or otherwise; but that I have not expended a nickel in connection with the pre-convention campaign which resulted in my nomination by the republican state convention.

"I am sorry that it has been necessary to raise a question of veracity thus early in the campaign. I propose to present to the people in the brief period of this campaign with what I conceive to be the policies and the line of proposed effort which will be most likely to restore prosperity to induce development in our state and as being for the best interest of the nation as a whole. I do not propose to be drawn into any billingsgate and personal abuse, no matter how much of irritation may be supplied by those opposing me, who may resort to that kind of campaigning. It seems to me that the issues before us are of an importance and a gravity to demand not only attention but the most calm, deliberate and dignified consideration, free from anger, irritation and abuse. Certainly my own campaign will be conducted upon that plane, and my friends, if they respect my desires, will maintain the same attitude throughout the campaign."

The Senatorial Campaign.

The senatorial campaign in New Mexico is now being organized by both political parties and promises to be one of the liviest the voters of the state have ever witnessed. It is already attracting attention of the voters in other states; it is being regarded as the first test of sentiment towards the Harding administration and the work of congress and will have a bearing all over the country. Both parties have able and strong candidates in the field who will visit nearly every county in the state and besides this, there will be other able speakers in the interest of both sides. Now, what the voters will want and should have are facts and sound arguments. There are indications that Judge Hanna and those working in his interest will resort to bringing up old charges that have been used against Senator Bursum for last ten years—that he has headed a ring that has swindled the state in various ways. This is spent amuinition, exploded stories, and have nothing to do with present issues and should have no weigh with the voters. In a short time Senator Bursum has made record in the Senate that entitles him to the confidence and support of the voters of the state, and it is not likely with this splendid record beford them that they will be led off by cheap campaign stories. We need a man in the senate can get results and Bursum has already proved to the people that he can do this for them.

NO GENERAL RULE POSSIBLE

Matter of Proper Amount of Bodily Exercise Must Be Left to Discretion of Individual.

"It is an axiom that mental excellence is to a very considerable extent dependent upon a man's physical condition," declared Secretary of State Robert Lansing. "It is equally true that rules of health, except the most general, depend in large measure upon the individual and upon his peculiar needs.

"If I were asked to lay down rules which might be applied generally," continued the American premier, "I would embody them in the phrase 'More fresh air and less food.' How much bodily exercise should be taken and its character depend upon the individual, his physical condition and, to an extent, on his tastes. Of course, exercise is, as a rule, beneficial, but it ought to be a pleasure to the one taking it if he would get the best results.

"It may sound like heresy, but I sometimes wonder whether exercise, when it is not a diversion, is really worth while. Certainly the mind is not rested if it rebels against certain forms of physical training which are being taken, and recreation for the mind of one engaged in intellectual pursuits is, in my opinion, one of the most essential purposes of exercise of the muscles.

"I believe, however, as I have said, that fresh air is one of the great restoratives, and the fact that exercise is generally taken in the open is one of its chief benefits."—From "Secretary Lansing's Story of His Health and Energy," by Richard M. Winans in Physical Culture.

Japanese Beetle in New Jersey.

A public hearing on the proposed quarantine of a portion of New Jersey on account of the Japanese beetle, a serious pest of certain vegetables and fruit, was held by the United States department of agriculture in Washington recently. As a result of infestation of the Japanese beetle in parts of Burlington county, N. J., the proposed quarantine is intended to prohibit the shipment from this territory of green sugar corn, ripe tomatoes and ripe peaches which might cause this pest to spread. A campaign of eradication authorized by congress is now in progress, and the proposed quarantine is deemed necessary to support the measures that are being taken for the suppression of this dangerous pest.

His Expedient.

The army examiner was getting somewhat out of patience with the "dull" candidate before him. But he controlled his temper, and gave him a last chance to distinguish himself.

"Let it be supposed, sir," he said, ironically, "that you were a captain in command of infantry; that in your rear was an impassable abyss; that on both sides of you there rose perpendicular rocks of tremendous height; that in front of you lay the enemy, outnumbering you ten to one. What, sir, in such an emergency would you do?"

"What would I do?" responded the applicant, "I should resign!"

Studying Deep-Sea Life.

A peculiar advantage for the study of marine life is credited the biological station established at Messina about two years ago. The sudden rise of the ocean bed at the strait of Messina causes very unusual upward currents from great depths, and these are so strong as to bring many of the deep-sea animals forcibly to the surface, where they are caught from small boats. The animals are taken under conditions less abnormal than usual. Many of them are able to produce light and some even vary the color of the light at will.

NOT GOOD JUDGE OF POETRY

One Explanation for Napoleon's Peculiar Worship at Shrine of Second-Rate Writer of Verse.

The curious partiality which Napoleon showed for the poems of Ossian, particularly "Temora," puzzled his contemporaries, as it also has his biographers, says the Christian Science Monitor. It is related that he carried a beautifully bound copy of Ossian with him to Egypt, and that on being read plundered of the Odyssey by the past Arcadi, while on board ship, he contemptuously exclaimed: "You call that sublime! What a difference between your Homer and my Ossian," and, reading some passages from "Temora," he said, "This is grand, and sentimental and sublime! Ossian is a poet, Homer mere drivel." Napoleon's preference for the works of the mystery poet of the North continued throughout his life. He was reading Ossian in 1797, and a well-thumbed copy was among his books at St. Helena. There have been many explanations given for so strange a literary preference. The Countess de Menthon unkindly remarks that Napoleon was notoriously deficient in his sense of rhythm and that therefore poetry which was not poetry at all so far as form went, for he read Ossian in French prose, suited him very nicely.

How Indians Tell Time at Night.

To ascertain the time at night the Apache Indians employed a gourd on which the stars of the heavens were marked. As the constellation rose in the sky the Indian referred to his gourd and found out the hour. By turning the gourd around he could tell the order in which the constellations might be expected to appear.

The hill people of Assam reckon time and distance by the number of quids of betelnut chewed. It will be remembered how, according to Washington Irving, the Dutch colonial assembly was invariably dismissed at the last puff of the third pipe of tobacco of Gov. Wouter Van Twiller.

A Montagnais Indian of Canada will set up a tall stick in the snow when traveling ahead of friends who are to follow. He marks with his foot the line of shadow cast, and by the change in the angle of the shadow the oncoming party can tell on arriving at the spot, about how far ahead the leader is.

What Did He Mean?

The minister had eaten a very good dinner and was getting ready to leave for a long time. He happened to glance at the eighteen-year-old daughter.

"Well, well," he laughed. "I suppose that pretty soon I'll be coming back to marry this young woman to one of the interesting young men of the congregation."

The irrepressible eight-year-old sat up.

"Oh, no, you won't," he offered. "Mary is going to be an old bachelor."

The family's laugh told him that he had used the wrong word. So straightway he started to make it right.

"I mean an old witch," he asserted more positively than before.

About Eggs.

Ontario, Canada, now has an egg "circle." This egg circle has been organized for the purpose of eliminating the wholesaler and middleman. Its idea is specifically to prevent any person or persons coming between the farmer's supply of eggs and the consumer. More and more as the cold storage warehouse has come between the consumer and his eggs has the consumer suffered from the separation. Most every one will wish the egg circle well.

Foolish Oversensitiveness.

A great deal of discomfort arises from oversensitiveness about what people may say about you or your actions. Many unhappy persons seem to imagine that they are in an anatomy theater, with the assembled world as spectators, whereas they are playing to empty benches all the while.

Lincoln County High School.

The contract for transportation of children of school age was given to Albert Rhode who will provide a well equipped Auto-Truck with sufficient capacity for all pupils on the North route. All pupils not on that route but near enough to walk to the Jones place or the main road should be there on time to take the conveyance. Mr. Rhode will leave Capitan a few minutes after eight and will be at the Jones place about fifteen minutes after eight. The State Department has been notified concerning children on the East route and notice concerning their decision will be communicated through the children next week. Final registration will be made next Monday at the school house at the opening hour nine o'clock. Nearly seventy pupils have registered for the high school and a complete course has been arranged for all whether special students or regulars. Members of the faculty are arriving. Mr. Peters, the athletic director and Manuel Arts instructor arrived Wednesday night and wants to have all boys meet him next Monday for practice in Basket Ball. He says that he will not be satisfied unless he can have a winning team and entrants should be ready for intensive training. An indoor court will be ready to open the schedule.

Pupils desiring room and board for the year should communicate with the Superintendent at once. A few rooms are available for those desiring to board themselves.

The County Board of Education has concurred with the Superintendent of the Lincoln County High School to charge a fee of $15 each semester for any course or courses taken by pupils over the age of 21; this will cover maintenance expenses in the Commercial department and Science and Surveying departments.

There will be a meeting of the faculty of the Lincoln County Schools of District 23 at o'clock Saturday.

The Manuel Training Department under the supervision of Mr. Peters is making plans for the erection of a new play ground equipment which will be placed on the school grounds to the east of the building. New Basket Ball courts will be built for outdoor practice. For those pupils who have had one or two years Manuel Training and for special students a course in Surveying and Mechanical Drawing will be given; this course will enable students to lay out claims or plan any home project they may desire.

Any boys not able to find rooms may have free room in the new gymnasium by bringing their own cots and bedding. Stoves will be provided.
