PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Following is a report of the proceedings of the board of county commissioners, of Lincoln county, in regular session, held October 5, 1908, at Lincoln, N. M.

Present—R. H. Taylor, chairman; H. A. Duran and P. L. Kruse, members; W. E. Kimbrell, clerk; J. W. Owen, sheriff.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

In the tax matter of Watt Gilmore, erroneous assessment to the amount of $200, the treasurer and collector is hereby ordered to strike same off the tax roll for 1907.

The petition of citizens at the town of Ocuero and surrounding country praying for the establishment of a new precinct to be created out of precinct 14 as now constituted is hereby laid over for action at next regular meeting, for the reason that the boards of registration have been appointed as required by law, and any favorable action that might be taken at this late day in establishment of a new precinct might create confusion and perhaps a contest between the candidates to be voted for at the coming November election.

In the matter of the White Oaks and Lincoln road in which the board ordered the road supervisor of district 3 and precinct 9 to have George A. Titusworth to remove the fence which he established across said road the above action is hereby rescinded. This order is made for the purpose of getting further information regarding said road, and the matter will be taken up at the January 1909 meeting.

In case of assessment of Erink and Nolan. Now on this 5th day of October, 1908, same being the regular session of county commissioners, comes on for hearing the above styled cause, on the application of Frank and Nolan by their attorney, H. B. Hamilton, of the rebate of the raise in their assessment for 1907 of 10/100 head of sheep made by the assessor, the board having heard and considered said application, being fully advised in the premises, wherefore it is ordered by the board that said application be denied and that said raise in assessment made by said assessor remain the same.

Board adjourned till Tuesday, October 6th, 1908 at 8 a.m.

In re Bond No. 2276, Humaldo Duran, county commissioner of Lincoln county. Whereas Humaldo Duran did on or about the first day of January, 1907, execute and deliver his bond as county commissioner of Lincoln county, in the sum of $3,000 with the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company as surety, and whereas the said Humaldo Duran desires to secure the release of the said Fidelity and Guaranty company as such surety, and whereas the said Fidelity and Guaranty company desires to be released as such surety, and whereas the said Humaldo Duran did on or about the first day of January, 1908, file a new and substituted bond in the sum of $2,000, which said bond was intended by the said Humaldo Duran to be in lieu of the bond aforesaid, and whereas said substituted bond has been approved by the proper officer and is now in force and effect; wherefore it is ordered adjusted and decreed by the board that the aforesaid bond of the said Humaldo Duran as principal and the said Fidelity and Guaranty company as surety has been cancelled and is of no force and effect since the first day of January, 1908, and that the said company is not liable and is hereby discharged from all liability from that date for the official acts of the said Humaldo Duran as such county commissioner.

RIBBON EMBROIDERY

A LATE NOVELTY WITH MANY PLEASING POSSIBILITIES.

Beautiful for Cushions, Sofa Pillows, Opera and Fancy Work Bags—A Product of Germany—Some Pretty Designs.

Ribbon work is one of the season's latest novelties in embroidery. In Germany this ribbon work is very elaborate and the ladies there delight in working out some of the most beautiful original designs on cushions, sofa pillows and opera and fancy work bags. Not only are the color schemes exquisite, but brightly colored beads and sequins are worked in with the ribbon.

It is done very much like other plain embroidery. There is a special needle made for the ribbon. It is very short and quite thick at the threading

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS.

To cover the pan in which fish is cooking will make the flesh soft.

Nickel may be kept bright by being rubbed with wool saturated in ammonia.

All lard to fry fritters and doughnuts must be sizzling hot before putting in the batter.

Alcohol and whiting make a good silver polish excellent for polishing plate glass mirrors.

Black lead mixed with vinegar will be found to give a specially good polish to the kitchen stove.

A piece of flannel dampened with spirits of camphor will remove stains from mirrors or window glass.

A weak solution of turpentine poured down the water pipes once a week will drive the water bugs away.

Ripe tomatoes can be cooked in butter, and a cupful of spaghetti added will make a tempting dish for luncheon.

When making gravy add a little parsley to the grease before putting in the flour, remove it after it is thoroughly cooked, add the flour, and see what a delightful change it makes in the ordinary beef gravy.

end. The design is filled in with the ribbon, but the narrow parts of the stems may be done in an outline stitch with embroidery silk.

This dainty ribbon work may be picked up at odd moments and many pretty and useful articles made.

The little band shown in the illustration is to wear at the top of the lingerie collar. It gives a dainty touch of color and also serves to hold the lace in place. The ribbon may be tied in a small bow at the back of the hook invisibly under a bow of the ribbon, as shown in the sketch.

The design is first transferred to the ribbon, which may be a taffeta, watered or soft satin. The very narrow ribbon for the embroidery comes in all colors. It has a very tiny stripe, thus giving more variety to the color scheme.

The design shown may be worked out very prettily in pink, blue or some other becoming color. One-half of the design is given. After it is cut from the page it may be transferred to the ribbon by means of carbon paper.

A very dainty design for a pin cushion top is also given. It may be transferred to a piece of silk as suggested for the collar band. It may be done on taffeta or satin, but is especially pretty on a soft corded silk. A delicate pink silk with the flowers done in deep rose and stems of green embroidery silk would be attractive, or two shades of lavender on a cream silk.

This makes a useful little gift for a girl, and to follow the color scheme of the girl's room is a pretty fancy.

Oil Stains.

It is very aggravating to find that a good blouse is ruined—or seems to be—with drops of oil from the sewing machine.

You were stitching along so steadily that you did not notice you had put on just one drop of oil too many, and that it was leaving a trail along the new material.

At first you will be discouraged, but remember, the oil can speedily be taken out and the material left as good as new.

Cover the stain thickly with lard; let it stand long enough to absorb all the grease; then wash out in cold water with soap.

Bags made of cheesecloth, about eight inches square, filled with oatmeal, some powdered borax, pulverized castile soap and a little powdered orris root, and used in the bath, are delightfully refreshing.

The ancient Romans have a saying to the effect that a long life and a pleasant one depended on the free use of two fluids—olive oil without and wine within. The wise woman of today uses olive oil, but she uses it in moderation—both within and without.

Rub over new tinware with lard and thoroughly heat it in the oven before using it, for thus it is protected from rust.

KITCHENETTE FLATS.

Home Prayed For by the Bachelor Maid Now Making Its Appearance.

Slowly but surely the kitchenette flat, prayed for by the bachelor maid, is making its appearance. Another Harlem apartment house has gone up with suites of two and three rooms and bath and kitchenette, and before it was finished all of the small apartments were taken.

The flats have elevator service, dumb waiters, telephones, hardwood floors and nice bathrooms. The kitchenette is built in an alcove off the living room and two doors surmounted by an open grillwork shut it off when not in use.

It contains six broad, roomy shelves, and beneath these is a porcelain sink under which the refrigerator is built. Then there is a two-burner gas range. The shelves are for cooking utensils and supplies and china if desired, but it is usual to keep china in an outside closet.

There are no washtubs, but bachelor maidens have been known to wash clothes in porcelain bathtubs and dry them in the breeze of an electric fan. The kitchenette idea solves the problem of how the unattached woman may have the comforts of home without a servant to bother her.

Excessive neatness is required for this sort of housekeeping and plentiful ventilation. Only the lighter forms of cooking can be indulged in, and those requiring a short time in preparation. But the thousand and one women dwellers in apartment houses who for years have been cooking in the bathrooms, much to the landlords' annoyance, may now look forward to a better state of things.

Useful Desk Pad.

A desk pad that, with a little care and dexterity, can be made at home successfully was seen among some new things not long ago.

Two pieces of cardboard, about 20 by 14 inches in size, were pasted together at one of the longest edges, making what looks like a pageless book cover.

This was covered by a piece of flowered cretonne neatly turned at the edges, and these raw edges covered by a piece of firm white paper, which extended over the entire inside of the pad.

Two or more pieces of blotting paper were inserted and fastened by ribbons passed through both covers and blotting paper and tied on the outside.

A piece of ribbon of the same shade, but wider, was fastened so that it ran diagonally across each cover, and, tying, held the leaves in place.

Washing Mahogany.

If you find upon your return home from a vacation that the mahogany looks grayish and grimy, don't be afraid to give it a good bath. Housewives do not realize the value of soap and water on old mahogany. It cleans the wood as nothing else does. Take a bowl or a bucket of warm water, into which has been put a tablespoon or more of olive oil and a few shavings of castile soap.

Use a soft sponge or a fresh piece of cheese cloth. Wring it out in the water, so that you will not ruin the carpet or the floor. Go into all the crevices of the carvings with the cheese cloth wrapped about a small pointed stick.

Be sure that every piece of the wood is dried with fresh cheese cloth or a bit of soft flannel.

Macedoine Salad.

One hard-boiled egg, four long radishes, if in season, one-half Spanish onion, one large beet (left from the day before), two large boiled potatoes, one teaspoonful chopped parsley, one stalk of celery. Cut beet and potatoes in small pieces, slice onions, radishes and celery and add parsley. Garnish with lettuce and egg, put through a ricer and serve with mayonnaise or French dressing.

TEN YEARS OF BACKACHE.

Thousands of Women Suffer in the Same Way.

Mrs. Thos. Dunn, 153 Vine St., Columbus, Ohio, says: "For more than ten years I was in misery with backache. The simplest housework completely exhausted me. I had no strength or ambition, was nervous and suffered headache and dizzy spells. After these years of pain I was despairing of ever being cured when Doan's Kidney Pills came to my notice and their use brought quick relief and a permanent cure. I am very grateful."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Two Versions.

At a dinner during the recent Episcopal convention at Richmond a young lady sitting near the bishop of London said to him:

"Bishop, I wish you would set my mind at rest as to the similarity or dissimilarity between your country and ours on one point. Does the butterfly because the tomato can?"

The bishop laughed heartily at this vivacious query. Not so a young Englishman of his party, who, after dinner, sought his host.

"I want to know, you know," said he, "about that joke of Miss B—'. She asked if the butter flew because tomatoes could. Pray tell me what the point is."—Lippincott's Magazine.

EYESIGHT WAS IN DANGER.

From Terrible Eczema—Baby's Head a Mass of Itching Rash and Sores—Disease Cured by Cuticura.

"Our little girl was two months old when she got a rash on her face and within five days her face and head were all one sore. We used different remedies but it got worse instead of better and we thought she would turn blind and that her ears would fall off. She suffered terribly, and would scratch until the blood came. This went on until she was five months old, then I had her under our family doctor's care, but she continued to grow worse. He said it was eczema. When she was seven months old I started to use the Cuticura Remedies and in two months our baby was a different girl. You could not see a sign of a sore and she was as fair as a newborn baby. She has not had a sign of the eczema since. Mrs. H. F. Budke, LeSueur, Minn., Apr. 15 and May 2, '07."

Natural Error.

"Hallo, Scudder; what are you building—a motor shed?"

"No; just a hat box for my wife."

BIG BALLOON HOUSE

BEING BUILT ENTIRELY OF STEEL AT FT. OMAHA, NEB.

Government to Carry on Experiments in Aerial Navigation—First Structure of Its Kind Ever Erected in Country.

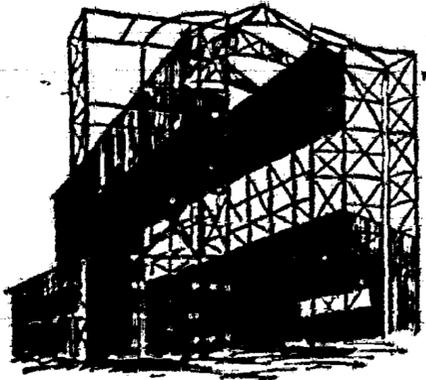

Omaha, Neb.—This city has the first steel balloon house ever erected. It is being built by the United States government in order that balloon experiments may be carried on extensively at Fort Omaha, which is strictly a signal station.

This monster building is going to cost the government $50,000. It is erected by a Minneapolis company, and as it is the first steel balloon house ever built, is something in the nature of an experiment, there being absolutely no precedent to follow.

It is entirely of steel. Not an atom of wood is in the building. Even the window casings are of steel. There are nearly 300 tons of steel in this monster balloon house, which is 200 feet long, 90 feet wide and 75 feet high. Being altogether a new style of architecture and the first of the kind ever erected, it is something of a responsibility.

It is what is known as the "Church truss" building, having an angular top with a circular lower cord. From the spring line of the lower cord to the ridge of the truss is 27 feet. One of the special features of the balloon house is the size of the doors. There is but one entrance, facing the north. The doors to the entrance are mammoth affairs, being 75 feet high and weighing 14 tons. Yet so delicately balanced are they that one man can move them. They are to be opened and shut by means of a lever, which can be operated by one hand. These doors follow the truss slides in shape.

The steel was brought to the fort in sections, held together by 14,000 steel rivets. The skeleton of the building is to be covered with sheets of corrugated iron, which have a new mode of fastening. The usual method is that of pulling nails; but the Omaha building is put together by means of 320,000 Norway iron rivets.

The men who catch the rivets have a hazardous job. Far aloft one of the workmen heats these rivets to a white heat in a forge on a platform. When it is heated he shouts to the riveting crew and seizing the hot rivet in a pair of tongs sends it hurtling through the air all the way from ten to forty feet. One of the riveting crew catches it in a bucket. To catch a white hot rivet is not exactly like catching a baseball. If the catcher misses it means a severe burn for someone.

The method of construction makes it practically impossible for the building to be torn loose. Even the window casings are to be of steel and the entire affair is fireproof. There is a continuous anchorage from the concrete piers, which go seven feet below grade, to the spring line of the lower cord of roof trusses. The anchorages are 14 feet apart on either side of the building. The rear of the building is anchored similarly.

On either side of the front is a high wall which carries the doors. These lowers are 81 feet high. The total weight of the building is 325 tons. There are three parts to the building—the central part, which is to hold big balloons, which have already arrived at the fort, and a shed on each side for storage purposes.

The hydrogen gas house is at the right of the balloon house and will be ready for work in September, when the experiments with the balloons will really begin. There will be at least two balloons, a dirigible and a spherical captive balloon. The government intends to spend any amount of money on these experiments, this being the first steel balloon house owned by the government.

FALCONIO MAY GET RED HAT.

Apostolic Delegate at Washington Likely to Become Cardinal.

Washington.—Archbishop Diomedo Falconio, according to well-spread rumor, will be called to Rome within the next six months to receive the cardinal's hat in reward for his successful diplomatic mission from the Vatican to the Roman Catholic church in the United States.

Third apostolic delegate from the holy see to the American church, Mgr. Falconio is the only one who enjoys the rights of American citizenship. He came to this country early in 1868, with a number of other Neapolitan novices of the Franciscan order, and was stationed at the college in Buffalo and afterward in Allegheny, Pa. He taught in the colleges and also performed parochial work in Buffalo and its environs and in Niagara and several Canadian towns.

He expressed a wish to spend his life in mission work in the United States, and his superiors permitted him to take out naturalization papers.

This he did, and voted for Gen. Grant at his second election in 1872. The future prince of the church was presented to the warrior president by his superior during one of the president's visits to New York in 1874.

Before coming to Washington the delegate served for four years as the pope's legate to the Roman Catholic province of Quebec, with a view to settling the vexed school question. He was the immediate successor to Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state, and carried out the program mapped out by that astute diplomatist. He has always enjoyed the confidence of the papal secretary, and the relations between the American delegation and that important portion of the Roman curia have been marked by the utmost friendliness.

Scheming Old Satan.

"Yes," said the old colored brother, "he clum a tree w'en he seen Satan comin', an' Satan sot fire ter de tree; den he come aildin' down, an' what does you reckon Satan done?"

"You tell it."

BATHING AN INDIAN IDOL.

Curious Ceremony Attended by Thousands of Devout Pilgrims.

Thousands of pilgrims from the various outlying villages and other parts of the Hooghly district poured in from an early hour in the morning to the temples of Jagernath, says the Calcutta Statesman.

The image of the god is placed on a conspicuous part of the temple, so that it can be viewed at an advantage by the immense crowd of pilgrims, and there at a certain fixed hour the bathing ceremony commences.

The most curious part of the festival is that water is not poured on the image of the god until a certain small bird is found sitting on the topmost banner of the temple. There is a popular belief that the bird comes from Puri, the famous place of Hindu pilgrimage to Mahesh on the day of this festival, and his very presence is an indication that the ceremony should commence. Immediately after the bath the bird disappears.

Marine Insurance.

Marine insurance is the oldest kind of modern insurance. Its principles were first employed in the fourteenth century by the merchants of Barcelona, in Spain, when that city was the capital of the kingdom of Catalonia and when its hardy mariners were second to none in the world. About the same time, and also at Barcelona, the famous code of maritime laws known as the "consulado del mar" was promulgated, which is the foundation of the present shipping laws of every country.

Bought Crusoe's Firelock.

Hulda B. White of Philadelphia has purchased the firelock used by Alexander Selkirk, Defoe's original Robinson Crusoe on the island of Juan Fernandez, at a sale in Edinburgh. The relic has an authentic pedigree, and for a long time was in the possession of Selkirk's relatives in Fife-shire, Scotland. The price paid for the gun was $160.

"THE PALE GIRL."

Did Not Know Coffee Was the Cause.

In cold weather some people think a cup of hot coffee good to help keep warm. So it is—for a short time but the drug—caffeine—acts on the heart to weaken the circulation and the reaction is to cause more chilliness.

There is a hot wholesome drink which a Dak. girl found after a time, makes the blood warm and the heart strong.

She says: "Having lived for five years in N. Dak., I have used considerable coffee owing to the cold climate. As a result I had a dull headache regularly, suffered from indigestion, and had no 'life' in me.

"I was known as 'the pale girl,' and people thought I was just weakly. After a time I had heart trouble and became very nervous, never knew what it was to be real well. Took medicine but it never seemed to do any good.

"Since being married my husband and I both have thought coffee was harming us and we would quit, only to begin again, although we felt it was the same as poison to us.

"Then we got some Postum. Well, the effect was really wonderful. My complexion is clear now, headache gone, and I have a great deal of energy I had never known while drinking coffee.

"I haven't been troubled with indigestion since using Postum, am not nervous, and need no medicine. We have a little girl and boy who both love Postum and thrive on it and Grape-Nuts."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Cast your vote for Larrazolo and the full democratic ticket.

Many thinking Republicans say they will not vote for a looter of banks.

This is a democratic year—a democratic president, a democratic delegate to congress and a democratic house.

Vote the straight democratic ticket. It will win, and the larger the majority the louder the rooster will crow on November 3.

Larrazolo will be the next delegate to congress, without question. He is the choice of the people, will be elected by the people, and will represent all the people.

The republican machine and the plunderbund press undertook a big job when they undertook to elect Andrews. The machine can't elect him, and the people won't.

The registration books in the different precincts of the county are now open. See that you are registered, and don't take anyone's word for it. October 23 is the last day you can register.

The last year of Democratic administration in the territory the territorial tax rate was 7 1/4 mills. Six years later, under a Republican administration, the rate was 15 mills. How is that for republican economy?

Howard Leland, who has been register of the U. S. land office at Roswell for more than ten years, died in that city last Friday after a long illness, at the age of 64 years. It may be several weeks before his successor is appointed and qualifies.

The letter rate between the United States and Great Britain and Ireland, but not including any other foreign countries, was reduced from five cents to two cents on October 1st. The distance between New York and London is 3,740 miles, and under this new postal rate it will cost no more to send a letter to these countries than to send one to the nearest postoffice. This is a small matter on a single letter, but an important one to firms having extensive business dealings across the seas.

The sheep and goat men of Lincoln county are enjoying a large dose of Republican prosperity (?) Wool is now selling for less than half the price it sold for the last two years. A letter received from a Republican in this county this week says: "The bottom has dropped out out of the price of goats and mohair. If this is Republican prosperity, here's one who will vote for the other party this year. It can't make matters worse or prices lower." A great many Republicans will do likewise. The people are getting their eyes open.

Colfax county is not in as good condition, from a Republican standpoint, as it was in 1906. The methods used that year in voting the pay-roll of the coal camps in Colfax county gave Mr. Andrews 1,700 votes, and these votes were counted without regard to legal residence or citizenship. It is a well known fact that a great portion of the coal camp laborers are foreigners, and have no right to vote; neither do they desire to do so; but it is easy to overcome that when elections are held on private property, the board is run by the owners and Democrats are not allowed on the ground, much less given an opportunity to vote. According to reliable figures, however, this year these camps will have less than 500 qualified voters, and if the Republican candidate does secure all of them he will have a thousand less than were counted for him two years ago.

FOREST SERVICE CIRCULAR.

The District Foresters who will be in charge of the six field districts of the forest service, beginning January 1, 1908, have been selected by United States Forester Gifford Pinchot. For this, the third district, A. C. Ringland, Albuquerque, New Mexico, is the appointee.

Mr. Ringland was born in New York in 1882. After graduating from the Montclair High School he became a student assistant in the forest service in 1900. He has since held the positions of assistant forest expert, forest assistant, chief of the office of reserve boundaries, chief of the section of settlement, chief of the office of lands, and assistant forester.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Chas. Peoples, of the Peoples Mercantile store, met with a serious accident on Monday morning, which might have been a great deal worse. After opening the store, and while in the act of placing a loaded revolver on the shelf, the weapon fell from his hand, the hammer striking the floor and exploding a cartridge. The bullet entered his left leg about four inches above the ankle, took an upward course, passing through the fleshy part of the limb and coming out a few inches below the knee. A surgeon was phoned for and arrived at the store within ten minutes after the accident, and dressed the wound. No bone was injured, and the only danger anticipated is blood poisoning, the chances of which the doctor believes, are remote. If no evil effects result, Mr. Peoples will be able to attend to business as usual next week.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY AT NOGAL.

Nogal is the place and Saturday, October the 17th is the date where and when a democratic rally will be held. A game of baseball has been arranged for, and other sports are to be added. At night a ball will be given to which all are invited. Everybody attend and make merry.

W. H. WEED DEAD.

At Chattanooga, Tenn., on September 5, 1908, William H. Weed, a pioneer of Lincoln county, died and was there buried the following day, aged about 85. The News is indebted to Harry S. Comrey for the above information. The past ten years the whereabouts of the subject of this sketch were unknown, and many of his old acquaintances believed him long since dead.

William H. Weed was born in the state of New York about eighty-five years ago. He made the overland trip to California in an early day, and his reminiscences of those days formed an entertaining topic when he could be induced to relate them. Later he went to the Panhandle of Texas, then a buffalo country, conducted a mercantile business and accumulated considerable property. In the early eighties he came to White Oaks, where he was engaged in merchandising and mining until about ten years ago. At that time he closed out his business, sold or transferred his property and this country has seen him no more. He was popularly supposed to possess a rather large sum of money when he left this country, but what became of it to one seems to know; as indeed few, if any, know where he went, and Mr. Comrey happened to meet an old friend of the deceased in Albuquerque who acquainted him with the date and place of Mr. Weed's death.

Would you know how Bryan stands on the great issues of the campaign—predatory wealth, class legislation, guaranteeing of bank deposits, gambling on the Stock Exchange, trusts, tariff, asset currency, ship subsidy, imperialism, labor and capital, etc.? There is only one way to get it direct from his own pen. He voices the sentiment of the rank and file of all parties without fear or favor. 390 pages, silk cloth, gold back. $1.25 postpaid.

The price of this great book is $1.25, but in order to place it in the hands of everybody, democrats and republicans alike, I will mail it, at the actual cost to me, on receipt of $1.00. Write for it today.

JONES TALIAFERRO, White Oaks, N. M.

The "Real Bryan" is a marvel of eloquence, logic, inspiration, fire and simplicity. Every paragraph is eloquent; every sentence a gem; every page reflects the power of the man who has done so much to revolutionize the thought of the Nation and to purify the policies of the country.—Iowa Unionist, Des Moines.

THE CIRCUS WAS HERE.

The much advertised circus has come and gone, bringing large crowds from all parts of the county to Carrizozo, and taking large sums of money away with it. The show was fair, yet the prices were high. A stick of candy for the babies cost five cents, while a placard bearing the legend, "Andrews and Statehood," with an admonition tacked to its tail to "vote the straight republican county ticket," is said to have cost five dollars cash. The interest on the remainder, which will be heavy, is due on the third of November, and the presence of large numbers of Bryan and Larrazolo buttons makes it certain that the people will foreclose on that date.

ANNUAL SESSION K. OF P.

The grand lodge Knights of Pythias, of New Mexico, held their annual session in Albuquerque last Friday and Saturday. Las Vegas was chosen as the city in which to build a sanatorium. The supreme lodge has already acted favorably on the proposition to build a sanatorium in New Mexico for the purpose of caring for the sick members of the Pythian order. The following officers were elected to serve during the year:

Grand chanceller, John A. Haley, Carrizozo; vice grand chanceller, W. Homer Hill, Socorro; grand prelate, W. H. Williams, Deming; grand keeper of records and seals, O. G. Shafer, East Las Vegas; grand master of exchequer, Louis W. Galles, Albuquerque; grand master at arms, George L. Bradford, Dawson; grand inner guard, W. Q. Forest, Roswell, and grand outer guard, H. L. Picyley, Raton.

CARRIZOZO PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The school on the south side of the railroad track opened Monday, in accordance with the published announcement, with Miss Bennie McGill in charge.

On the north side school will begin next Monday, the 12th, but, owing to the fact that the school building is incomplete, school will be conducted for a time in the two buildings used last year for that purpose.

Professor Collins, the principal, requests us to announce that children in grades 1, 2, 3 and 4 should attend at the McDonald building, and that grades 5, 6, 7 and 8 should attend at the tent, near Mr. Joe N. White's.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

A warrant, sworn out in the justice court of this precinct, charging T. Hemphill with assault to murder, was executed Saturday at Alamogordo by Deputy Sheriff P. C. Baird, of this place, and Hemphill brought into court, he was arraigned before Justice Tompkins, who, after hearing the testimony, remanded the prisoner to await the action of the grand jury. Sheriff Owen took the prisoner to Lincoln Sunday. Hemphill made an attack on Harry Little about six weeks ago, using the buttend of a billiard cue as a weapon, and inflicted several severe scalp wounds before he was disarmed. Hemphill left town immediately after the attack and his whereabouts only ascertained last week, which led to his arrest with the result stated above.

AFTER THIRTY-SEVEN YEARS.

Two brothers met here Saturday for the first time in thirty-seven years—an average life time. Notwithstanding the intervening thirty-seven years, they are both boys—oneseventy-seven the other eighty-one—and they gamble on the greensward at the Bar W ranch and ramble over the wide prairies at will. They are Mr. Thurston Tarbell, of Guilford, New York, and Mr. G. D. Tarbell, of Carrizozo, father of Mrs. W. C. McDonald. The New York brother's visit will probably extend throughout the winter.

Coming White House Season to Be Gay

WASHINGTON.—The return to Washington of President Roosevelt and family will mean that the social season will begin within a short time after their arrival. Miss Ethel Roosevelt has spent a quiet summer, the greater part of it being at her father's home at Oyster Bay. She has had a rest and is fully prepared for the most notable year of her young life—the year when she will be formally presented to society and will reign as "the first young lady of the land." Regarding Miss Ethel's social campaign in the coming season society is deeply interested.

It has been recalled that the then Alice Roosevelt was given only one entertainment by her parents in the White House from her coming out ball. This was a large dinner party for young people, followed by a dance. Occasionally the parents had a few of their friends in to dinner, but the social and official programs of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt left little time on their calendar for any affairs that Miss Alice might have had in mind. So the little clique, of which the president's daughter was a member saw to it that her season's program was full.

However, this does not promise to be the case when the younger daughter of the White House blooms out as a full fledged social flower. She will have a brilliant ball—the fairy story writers have fixed this important event for early in January, just after the official season opens—and from that time until the "curtain" rings slowly down" on the administration of Theodore Roosevelt his young daughter will be the center of a brilliant whirl. Society even hopes that her engagement will be announced before the close of her father's term, although even the most daring social gossips have not yet selected a life mate for Miss Ethel.

Teddy Interested in Statue of Self

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has let it be known that one of the chief things he is interested in during the closing days of the latest administration is the statue of himself, which is soon to be placed in the senate gallery. All the other ex-presidents have long been immortalized in marble, and most of them had the pleasure, before passing away, of saying whether the work of the sculptor had been sufficiently complimentary.

In view of the fact that Mr. Roosevelt was still young and vigorous, the senate hesitated to perpetuate him until he was closer to the three-score and ten milestone. But he passed the word along that he did not intend to take any chances on fate or African lions, so James E. Fraser, of New York, who was commissioned to execute it months ago, was ordered to hurry up the heroic touches and submit the design in plaster.

A few days ago he notified the superintendent of the capitol building that it was ready to be worked into marble, and the command for him to go ahead was about to be issued, when word came from Oyster Bay that not another stroke of work was to be done until the president had looked himself over and was pleased with the glad smile he was to hand down to posterity.

It is impossible to learn whether Mr. Fraser has molded Mr. Roosevelt as the presiding officer of the senate, in the uniform of a rough rider, or in a tennis costume. It is understood that the sculptor is chiefly concerned over whether he has the proper number of teeth showing and the presidential glasses sitting at the correct angle.

Oster Theory Will Not Stand the Test

THAT the theory advocated by Dr. Oster, the distinguished scientist, who, while a member of the faculty of Johns Hopkins university, declared that man's usefulness is at an end after passing life sixtieth milestone, is a theory that will not stand the test of application to everyday life, is the firm belief of the vast majority of people who have passed that age and continue to lead decidedly useful lives and to take as keen an interest in affairs as many younger members of society. Not only this, but they give the Oster theory a solar plexus punch by achievements accomplished after passing the allotted three-score years and ten.

One of the most notable examples that interest in life does not cease at the age of 60 is to be found in Mrs. Anna E. Philpott, who, at the age of 93, is still a most cheerful and efficient employe of the government bureau of engraving and printing. Mrs. Philpott not only performs the work expected of her by Uncle Sam without finding it a burden, but manages to find time after working hours to devote to reading and fine sewing, the latter diversion not only proving a pleasant pastime but adding considerably to her income. She enjoys perfect eyesight, never having had to resort to the wearing of glasses, and is much more active than many persons years her junior.

In view of the fact that Dr. Oster, upon the celebration of his sixtieth birthday several weeks ago, elected to continue in active service and not depart by way of the chloroform route pointed out by him for those with 60 years to their credit, Mrs. Philpott bears him no ill-will; in fact, she is rather inclined to believe that the learned doctor has been misrepresented, and hopes that he may live to reach the ripe old age she herself has attained, and that he may be as useful in his sphere during his remaining years as she has been in hers.

The result was an overflowing collection.

Will You Marry Me?

By A. M. Perkerson

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Pemberton leaned forward and smiled slightly. The play was from a book he liked, and the acting was good. Suddenly he was jerked back from stagerland to reality by something light falling into his lap. Looking down impatiently, he found it to be a programme. In one corner he could barely make out several pencil characters.

"Will you marry me?" was what Pemberton read.

For some time they looked at each other—Pemberton and the girl—their elbows touching on the common arm betwixt their seats. Her expression went further than mere paleness of cheeks and distended eyes. It told a story of tense, drawn nerves; and determination wrought up to an unnatural pitch. A faint color crept into Pemberton's face. His look was amazed. Slowly, almost hesitatingly, he drew a watch from his vest pocket and opened the back. It contained a photograph—a laughing, vivacious face. He studied it carefully. Undoubtedly it was the face of the girl next to him.

In his surprise at discovering the original of the photograph, he had forgotten the programme and its question. He scribbled just below where she had written.

"Please tell me who you are. Why do you ask such a strange question?" was what he wrote.

He passed the programme and the pencil to the girl. She took them with tense feverishness and, bending forward so that he could no longer catch sight of her face, read hurriedly. He glimpsed a faint color rising in her cheeks. With hardly pause for thought she wrote a reply.

"I can't tell you who I am or why I ask you such a thing. I am in difficulty, and this is the only way out. I can't give any explanations now. Please don't ask me any questions; just write yes or no."

Pemberton read the few lines twice, and looked at the girl. With a quick, decided movement, he straightened his shoulders and wrote one word on the program, making it heavy and distinct.

"Yes," was what the girl read.

After staring for several moments at the program, she turned a quick glance at Pemberton. It was frightened, appealing; and reminded him of a white kitten that mewed up to him one day as he was hurrying along a crowded street.

Resting the program in her lap, the girl wrote feverishly: "Please keep this in mind; I can't speak to you until after the marriage."

She handed the program to Pemberton, and rose, he following her example, and they made their way to the lobby.

The girl's manner had totally changed. The forced determination that had animated her was entirely gone, and by her helpless, appealing look she left everything to Pemberton. He promptly took matters into his own hands.

"We must go to the registrar first, of course," he said, "and we can be—er—that is have the ceremony performed there."

The girl nodded her head.

"I'll call a cab."

In a few minutes a grim, dingy building hove in sight. It was the courthouse. Pemberton tossed the driver a dollar, and they mounted the long flight of stone steps.

The door seemed hardly to have opened and admitted them, when it closed upon their backs; and they found themselves again in the gloomy hall—man and wife.

The girl fumbled in her belt and drew out a watch. It was 15 minutes to four. "I must be at the office of Haskin & Morris by four," she said, looking anxiously at Pemberton. "I can explain then." It was the first time he had heard her voice—his wife's voice—and he noted with a thrill of pleasure how soft and rich it was.

"They're in the Century building," he replied. "We can get there easily in ten minutes."

Without further words they left the building. Their course carried them through the crowded part of the city. It seemed that their heels were dragged back by weights, while the minutes had stolen mercury wings.

Pemberton clicked his watch to triumphantly. "Five minutes to spare," he announced. The girl's expression became animated, and she looked up with a bright light in her eyes.

Pemberton took her arm; and they started across the street, keeping a wary eye out for vehicles. They had got as far as the car track, when an automobile loomed up from behind a big truck, and bore down upon them. It was coming at an unusual rate.

They were almost at the curbing when the girl slipped and fell. It was an exigency that required active self-possession. Grasping the girl around the waist, Pemberton half pushed, half threw her out of the way of danger. The next instant something pounded into his ribs, and he felt himself hurled through the air. Then everything became black.

Pemberton's next sensation was of pleasing numbness. He woke from his half-conscious state to find himself swathed in bandages; the girl's hand resting on his forehead. As his eyes opened, her hand stole away and she uttered an exclamation of pleasure.

"You are not hurt?" he inquired, anxiously.

"No, thanks to you."

"Were you in time?"

"Yes, I got there just on the hour," the girl replied. "I couldn't leave until I saw that you would be taken care of, but by running I reached the office just at four."

He saw with pleasure how her expression had changed; how her cheeks were a healthy red, and her eyes were no longer frightened and appealing.

"What happened?" he asked.

"You were thrown some distance," the girl replied, "and the shock made you unconscious. All night you lay in a stupor, talking deliriously at times, and I," she looked at him with a hesitating smile, "I was frightened."

"To-day is?"

"It happened yesterday. It's just eight o'clock now."

"But surely you haven't been sitting up all night?" Pemberton inquired re-monstratively.

"Yes, of course I have," she replied. They grew quiet, and for several moments neither spoke. The girl's eyes sank to the floor, and she began to toy with the edge of her sleeve.

The girl hesitated a moment. "A will was at the bottom of it all," she said. "A rich uncle died a year ago in the west and bequeathed everything to me; almost half a million dollars. But there was the stipulation in the will that not one cent was to be turned over to me until I had married; and unless I married within a year's time from the day and hour of my uncle's death, I was to be disinherited and the fortune divided among three nephews. It didn't matter whom I married—anyone would do. There was only one stipulation: I must marry someone I had never seen before, and to whom I had never spoken until after the marriage. My uncle took this way of punishing me because years ago I refused to attend a school he picked out. Before that I was quite his favorite, but he was very eccentric, and my refusal stirred up the liveliest ill-feeling in him.

"By leaving the kind of will he did, he thought that I would be unable to carry out its stipulations; and that through a whole year I would suffer the torture of having a fortune almost within my grasp, yet still just beyond it. My year's privilege of remaining single ended yesterday at four o'clock. Unless I had been to the office of Haskin & Morris, his executors, by that time, with the word that I had carried out the requirements of his will to the letter, all my claims to his fortune were to cease.

"I had no intention of trying to win the horrible fortune until noon yesterday, when there were only four hours left. Things suddenly changed, and I had to have money. My brother—he speculated, you see; and he lost, and used his employer's money. He didn't mean to do anything wrong, he was carried away by his enthusiasm, but unless the money was put back yesterday he'd be found out and disgraced, sent to jail."

The girl's sentences had begun to grow jerky towards the last; and she broke off abruptly, tears gathering in her eyes.

Pemberton looked at her, his expression sympathetic and tender. "I had a watch in my vest pocket," he said after a pause. "Will you get it for me?"

Surprised, the girl did as he requested.

"Open the back, please," he said, when she returned.

The girl pried off the thin gold covering and saw beneath it the photograph. She looked with surprise at Pemberton. "Why, it's of me."

"I happened on it two years ago by an old lamp post at a corner," he said. "I have tried ever since to find you, but I never succeeded until yesterday. The picture—I—you see—I fell in love with it."

The girl looked at the floor, her cheeks flaming; Pemberton stared straight ahead.

"You are very brave," he said, softly.

The girl looked up from the floor. For a moment her expression was uncertain, then she leaned over and kissed him.

THE NECHO.

We got a necho at our house since we moved beside the hill. Where there's a path goes through the field, and in the evening when it's still. And I go out and holler, why—away, way off—there seems to be somebody waitin' for a chance to say what I say back to me.

He always waits till I call first, and answers with a lonesome sound; I guess it doesn't make him glad to think a little boy's around. My papa says a necho's just your own voice that keeps soundin' still—I bet you, though, they's some one there that hides himself beyond the hill.

He never seems to holler back except when it is nearly night; I s'pose he has to work somewhere until the sun sinks out of sight; and when I was in bed one time and heard the rain, and it was wet, I wondered if the necho still was out there somewhere waitin' yet.

One time when I had runned away, because they'd punished me, you know, I heard my papa callin' me—and it was nearly dark—and so I called me, too—away out there, and kind of sad, across the hill—And—and then I didn't leave them, and the necho's over yonder still.—S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.

Women's Need of Slumber.

A woman needs seven hours' sleep for the building up of her system. Then she needs two hours' more for the recuperation of her body, and an extra two hours will restore her complexion and take the wrinkles out of her face. The woman who wants to derive the fullest benefit from her sleep will compose her mind before sinking off into slumber. A glass of warm milk taken before retiring is often helpful and insures one a pleasant night's rest.

Night Sweats & Cough.

E. W. Walton, Condr. S. P. Ry., 717 Van Ness St., San Antonio, Tex., writes: "During the summer and fall of 1902, my annoyance from catarrh reached that stage where it was actual misery and developed alarming symptoms, such as a very deep-seated cough, night sweats, and pains in the head and chest. I experimented with several so-called remedies before I finally decided to take a thorough course of Peruna.

"Two of my friends had gone so far as to inform me that the thing for me to do was to resign my position and seek a higher, more congenial climate. Everyone thought I had consumption and I was not expected to live very long.

"Having procured some Peruna, I decided to give it a thorough test and applied myself assiduously to the task, taking it, as per instructions, in the meantime.

"The effects were soon apparent, all alarming symptoms disappeared and my general health became fully as good as it had ever been in my life.

"I have resorted to the use of Peruna on two or three occasions since that time to cure myself of bad colds."

AN UNSPOTTED CHARACTER.

Money is a good thing, especially in these times, but there is something much more valuable. It is character—the consciousness of a pure and honorable life. This it should be a young man's aim to preserve at any cost.

During the past year of commercial distress, while many were proved and found wanting, others came forth tried as by fire. Here and there one comes out of the furnace far more of a man than before. Amid the wreck of his fortune he stands erect—a noble specimen of true manhood. Let it be the aim of every young man, every business man, above all things else, to keep this purity sustained. This is the best possession—this is a capital which can never be taken from him—this is the richest inheritance which he can leave to his children.

Let every young man who reads this look at the list of wealthy, influential, respected men who, during the past year, have been placed behind prison bars—men who fell from prominence to disgrace simply because they permitted black spots to form upon their characters.
