LAS VEGAS,

AT LAST!

The long expected illustrated History of Utah by the eminent historian, Hubert H. Bancroft, has at last appeared. It is absolutely a revelation. After visiting the field in person, taking testimony impartially from all sides, critically reviewing the enormous number of 1000 different authorities, and searching many of the secret archives of the Mormon Church. Mr. Bancroft now gives to the world this wonderful and remarkable work, the only true history of Mormonism.

The work reads like a romance—the wonderful adventures of trappers and travellers, the bloody Indian wars, the thrilling accounts of massacres and miraculous escapes, the famous Danite Association or destroying Angels, the story of Brigham Young—all this fresh from the pen of the brilliant and gifted author, forms a narative of exciting interest, as fascinating as a novel, yet true to the letter. Above all in surpassing interest is the unfolding of the great Mormon Question and the mysteries of Polygamy which will be read with equal interest by all classes of people throughout the English speaking world. The work is published in one large handsome volume of over 800 pages, bound in red and gold and grandly illustrated with steel plate portraits of the great Mormon leaders, exquisite tho half tone engravings and dazzling colored plates. It is issued by the great Publishing House of the Pacific Coast, the History Co. of San Francisco, and can only be procured through their authorized agents. We call attention to the advertisement in another column, under the heading of $25.00 Reward.

THE NATIONAL FLOWER.

Bob Burdette Casts His Vote in Favor of the Humble Plantain.

I am going to record my vote for the National flower, and I am not going to pay Messrs. Whang & Co. twenty-five cents for the privilege either. Talk about corruption in our National elections, there has been more money spent in this flower campaign, right at the polls, and openly, too, than would elect a councilman. Fellow citizens, Indians not taxed, Chinamen and women, I give my hand and my vote to the humble and obtrusive plantain. She needs no encomium from me. There she stands, or rather squats. Where? Right there, right where you are looking at this minute if there is a spot of ground six inches square within half a mile of you. In the velvet lawn that cost you four dollars a square foot; in the pansy bed; in the tub wherein grows the accursed oleander, breeder of human backs; in the garden of roses; in the toothsome bed where the south wind loiters amid the loud breathed onion, stealing and giving odor; wherever you have planted any thing; wherever you haven't; on the hillsides of New England, on the bleak and rocky coast of Maine, in the orange groves of Florida, on the great alkali deserts of the wild and woolly West, where Shasta's hoary head lifts itself to the clouds, crowned with eternal grandeur, and where the gibbering tourist cackles and chatters through the glories of Mount Washington; wherever the foot of man has trod; and everywhere that it hasn't, there springs this radiant weed of hope, eternal on the mundane breast, there strikes its oil long root, this hobby of truth, though oftime crushed to earth, rising again stronger than ever, and spreading itself over the adjacent grass, like a true born American hogging four seats in a railway car. Oh, citizens, I do bespeak your "most sweet voices" for the plantain. It knows no East, no South, no North, no West. It has no sectional prejudices, no local pride or limitation; just wherever the soil is fertile or barren it lays hold on life; it comes to stay, it gets there, Eli. Where nothing else will grow it flourishes like the grasshopper; where smartweed perishes because it has no root the plantain makes a crop. A few short weeks in slushy spring the Mayflower hides its pretty bloom in mountain slopes and eastern hills, a transient guest of local fame and briefest life. When autumn flings her gorgeous banners to the skies, the goldenrod, for a few passing weeks, makes radiant the meadow, glen and hill, and then departs to hide away the year; but thou, oh! plantain of the sandy craw, thou hast the grip; thou art a stayer, thou; thou art a laster from Wayback; thou art the first to come, the last to go. Thee, the all beholding sun upon his annual farewell tour sees all the time, making glad the door yard of the poor, and playing merry Cain upon the rich man's lawn. Thou thrivest upon persecution; thou turnest not back from them for the grasshook, and sayest among the lawn mower, ha, ha! The rains nourish thee; the sun-burned drought maketh thee strong; a black frost tingeth thy leaves with luster life and a six foot freeze that kills the cast-iron hitching posts is pie for the plantain. It is American clean through, this fresh and cheeky weed. It has an imported name—plantaginaceæ, and is proud of it, as any American when she has invented a coat of arms and married an ancestor. That is its family name; the plantain which claims the honor of being the national flower has a name as purely American as the continent itself—Plantago major. Long live the major! Forever float that standard weed, where—Eh? What's that? "It isn't an American plant at all; it is found all over the inhabited and uninhabited world?" Well, Jeemses River! Isn't that American? Rise up, major, you are elected.—Robert J. Burdette, in Brooklyn Eagle.

Some Royal Civil Lists.

The people of the United States have, generally speaking, but a vague idea of what it annually costs the people of Europe to maintain their respective sovereigns. The German Emperor heads the list with a yearly stipend of 42,000,000 of francs, which means, in other words, that every man, woman and child of 47,000,000 of Germans who inhabit the Fatherland must pay an annual tribute of about 18 cents to sustain the dignity of the imperial crown. The Czar of Russia comes next, with a civil list of 36,000,000 francs, or a head taxation of nearly 9 cents for each one of his 87,000,000 of subjects. The Emperor of Austria, who rules over 41,000,000 of people, has an annual income of 26,000,000 francs, raised by means of an individual personal taxation of 57 cents. Queen Victoria receives from the 37,000,000 of people which comprise the population of the United Kingdom a royal tribute of 70 cents per head, or $26,700,000.—United Press Dispatches.

THE LEAF-CUTTING BEE.

Strange Doings of a Particularly Industrious Insect.

Of all our visitors, however, the most interesting is the leaf-cutting bee who comes to work upon an old-fashioned blush-rosebush which forms a part of a side wall of our parlor. Bees, you know, are such busy creatures that they can not even make a call without taking their work with them, and it was the faint sound of his industry that first drew attention to our new friend on a leaf of the rosebush. Looking closely to see what the stranger was about, we were amazed to find that, having placed herself astride of the edge of the leaf, the bee was deliberately cutting out with her jaws a piece of the leaf, rolling it up beneath her as she did so. We tried to trace her flight when the cutting was done, but this astonishing visitor baffled us in our pursuit by disappearing quite suddenly into the earth—just where we could not discover.

When all these strange doings were related at the dinner table the family punster declared that such a performance of a bee on a leaf was clearly beyond belief, and had not the bee continued her visits, giving all an opportunity of forming her acquaintance and seeing her work, the truth of our account of Mrs. Bee might still be doubted.

Happily she was not easily disturbed, and at a call from some watcher in the out-door parlor, "The bee is at work," we could gather quite closely around to observe her, when she had carefully chosen the leaf that best suited her and began the work of cutting it. Toward the close of the summer the selection of leaves was made with greater care, sometimes as many as six leaves being inspected before one was found sufficiently tender for her purpose. Often when Miss Bee started for home her roll of work was so heavy that she fairly tumbled off the leaf with it, and had to pause an instant to recover her balance before bravely carrying it away. But where did she take her load, and what did she do with those nicely cut pieces of leaf? She was too busy to tell us; and, although we were eager to return her calls, we could not discover her home, and could not imagine why she cut rose leaves so industriously, until we happened upon a book, Fors Clavigera, one day which told us all about it.

It seems that these bees build nests of the leaves of the rose and other trees under the surface of the ground or in old wood. These nests are sometimes six inches deep, and generally consist of six or seven cells, each shaped like a thimble, the closed end of one thimble fitting into the open end of another. When a cell is formed of the pieces of leaf, such as we've watched the bee cut out, it is filled with honey, and so nicely are the cells built that they hold the liquid honey without leakage. On the cell full of honey an egg is deposited, and then the cell is closed with three circular bits of leaf for a cover. Mr. Ruskin says the bee pushes down the little cell covers "with a tucked-up rim quite tight, like the covering of a pot of preserves." Think of each young bee having a nice little pot of honey all to itself!—Harper's Young People.

HUMOROUS.

—Lumley says he isn't much on grammar, but he knows that the noun wife is in the imperative mood.—Washington Capital.

—Inquiring spectator (at the races)—"Which horse was it that won?" Speculative speculator (gloomily)—"I don't know the name of the horse that won, but I know the names of most of the horses that didn't win."—N. Y. Weekly.

—"That was a very brave act of yours in stopping the runaway horse, young man. Here's a hundred-dollar bill for you." "That's a good deal of money for me." "Nonsense! When a man saves my life I believe in paying him what it is worth."—Epoch.

—When night has let her curtains down, with lowered plaintive hum,
Mosquitoes, thirsty for our blood, around our pillows come;
We watch, we wait with bated breath, we listen
strikes the midnight chime,
And hit our cheeks a stinging slap—and miss 'em every time.
—Boston Courier.

—"Do you know," said Dedbroke, "that there is nothing more depressing to me than to go into one of those big dry-goods stores." "Why?" "It worries me to hear those people yelling 'cash' so promiscuously."—Merchant Traveler.

—Clerk (entering theatrical manager's sanctum)—"There is a young man waiting who wants to read a play to you, sir, and another who says he's come to horsewhip you for a breach of contract." Manager (taking off his coat)—"Oh! show in the man who's come to horsewhip me."—Judy.

—Tommy—"Are we going to take the cat with us when we go to see grandma next week?" Mrs. Figg—"Of course not. What makes you ask such foolish questions?" Tommy—"Cause I heard pa tell Mr. Bragg that the mice would have a high old time while the cat was away next week, that's all."—Twin Cities Magazine.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1892.

A report which, however, lacked confirmation, was in circulation in Washington, on the 19th, that the United States cruiser, Yorktown, had been fired upon in the harbor at Valparaiso, by the Chilians. The report was not believed at the navy department, no information of the firing having been received there.

From the Albuquerque Democrat.

Statehood for New Mexico.

Yesterday the Democrat received from our popular democratic delegate, Mr. Antonio Joseph, a copy of the bill which he has introduced providing for the admission of New Mexico into the Union. The conditions of this bill under which we the people of this territory, are to be made sovereigns, are as follows: All persons who have resided within the limits of said proposed state for 60 days, and otherwise qualified by the laws of the territory, are entitled to vote for delegates to the constitutional convention, and the qualifications of delegates to the convention shall be such as, by the laws of New Mexico, persons are required to possess to be eligible to the legislature. Representation to to the constitutional convention is based upon the census of 1890, exclusive of Indians. One delegate is allowed for each 2000 inhabitants in each county, and one additional delegate for a fraction of over 1000 inhabitants as follows: Bernalillo county, 9; Chaves, 1; Colfax, 4; Dona Ana, 5; Eddy, 1; Grant, 5; Lincoln, 3; Mora, 5; Rio Arriba, 6; San Juan, 1; San Miguel, 12; Santa Fe, 7; Sierra, 2; Socorro, 5; Taos, 5; Valencia, 5. Seventy-six delegates in all. An election is to be called by the governor on Tuesday, after the first Monday in November, 1892, and the governor's proclamation for election should be issued within 30 days after passage of bill. Delegates elected to convention shall meet at Santa Fe, N. M., on the first Monday in January, 1893, to formulate a constitution for the proposed state. A perfect toleration of religious sentiment is secured to every inhabitant. Public lands unappropriated shall remain, subject to the disposition of the United States. Lands belonging to citizens of the United States residing without shall never be taxed at a higher rate than the lands belonging to residents thereof, but nothing shall preclude the state from taxing lands owned by Indians who have severed their tribal relations and secured from the United States a patent thereto, except as it may be as it may be in conflict with congressional law. The first Monday in March, 1893, is designated for holding election to ratify the constitution. A legislature, representative to congress, governor and other state officers are made elective on date of voting upon the constitution. Land in sections 2, 32 and 36, not otherwise disposed of, are granted to the state for the support of public buildings. Price of land, to be sold at public auction, is placed at $5 per acre. Establishment and maintenance of university of New Mexico is also provided for. All mineral lands shall be exempted from grants. Water reservoirs maintenance of insane asylum, school of mines, deaf and dumb asylum, reform school, are all provided for. Three federal officers remain: one district judge, United States attorney and United States marshal Thirty thousand dollars is appropriated to defray the expenses of the convention, and members thereof, at the rate paid members of the legislature. In case the constitution is ratified by the people, the legislature may assemble and elect two United States senators.

The Coming Railroad.

We are reliably informed that during the past week a party of gentlemen, coal experts in the employ of the Pecos Valley R. R., visited the Salado coal mines, near Lincoln, and that they made a thorough examination of the coal mines there, and are well pleased with them and will so report to the committee.

The Pecos Valley R. R. company has men of wealth, influence and push, governing its management, and they wisely see that the Salado coal fields are nearest and most accessible to their road, and that these mines will furnish them an inexhaustible supply of coal for their road and also a supply for the towns and settlements along their their line in the treeless but rich agricultural valley of the Pecos.

The road will be extended the coming summer from its present terminus, Eddy, up to Roswell, thence up to the Rio Hondo and Rio Bonito through the town of Lincoln to the Salado coal fields, thence through the mining town of Nogal and on to Albuquerque. This route furnishes the least obstruction to the building of a railroad from Eddy to Albuquerque, of any route that can be pointed out when mileage and cost of construction are taken into consideration. The line will pass through the thickly settled portion of the county, and the road when built will be the means of developing the vast mineral wealth known to exist in the Capitan and White mountains. Who can say, at the present time, that the town of Lincoln will not have a railroad before that much talked of El Paso road reaches the Carrizozo cattle range, near White Oaks?

The Albuquerque citizen says: "The parties who are at the head of the Pecos Valley road, which is now built and running into New Mexico as far as Eddy, have their plans perfected for extending their line in the direction of Albuquerque, and intend to build one hundred miles during the present year, which will bring them about forty miles this side of Roswell, and during the next year they expect to get all the remainder of the line under way through to Albuquerque. This enterprise will be greatly stimulated by the beginning of work on the Durango road, for this will give a direct communication with the extreme northwest, and make it a division of one of the most important through lines in the country. They will both be valuable roads to Albuquerque as well as valuable to each other, as they will be particularly valuable in developing the territory."

"Bleeding Kansas" is pouring open her wounds afresh. It would almost seem that the days of John Brown and Kansas Jayhawkers had returned.

The Denver Republican thinks the new railroad mileage during 1892 will double that of 1891, while it will fall short of that of 1890.

It now costs fifty cents to gain admission to the old San Xavier mission church near Tucson. The money is used in preserving the structure.

The first through Pullman sleeping car, New York to San Francisco, ran by the Pennsylvania company, left New York, Monday afternoon, and arrived in Kansas City, yesterday morning, over the Missouri Pacific, and thence comes westward by the Atchison route. This will be a regular weekly feature.—Optic.

A Terrible Misfortune.

Is a calamity of the direst kind to feel that one's physical energies are failing in the prime of life—to feel more nervous, more dispirited, weaker every day. Yet this is the unhappy lot of hundreds who surround us. A source of renewed strength which science approves, in behalf of which multitudes of the testimonial have and are every day testifying, and which, in countless instances, has built up constitutions racked by weakness and infirmity and long undermined by other means, surely commends itself to all who need a tonic. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is such a medicine—pure, potent, soothing to the nerves, promoter of digestion and a fortifier of the blood. Dyspepsia and nervousness—the first a cause, the second a consequence of lack of stamina—depart when a course of the Bitters is tried. All forms of malarial disease, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, constipation and biliousness are eradicated by this standard family medicine.

THE LOCAL BUDGET

J. J. Dolan returned to the Fort Tuesday.

W. F. Blanchard is out surveying.

Sheriff Roberts returned yesterday from the Penasco.

Mr. George Kindall was in town early in the week.

Mr. Ben Ellis went to White Oaks, Sunday, with a load of apples.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell, of this place, died last Saturday.

Work on the Salado coal mines was stopped for several days, last week, because of cold weather.

A wagon-load of potatoes, brought into town yesterday, was bought by Rosenthal & Co. Potatoes have been scarce in this market of late.

J. W. Thompson, of Pine Spring, is in town, on business connected with making final proof on his pre-emption.

An agent of Garza is said to be in Albuquerque, getting recruits for the ranks of the Mexican revolutionist, but he seems to meet with little success.

J. B. Matthews and Mr. Bryan, of Lower Penasco, will, we are informed, move to this place in a few weeks. Such additions to our population are most welcome.

The dog-fiend is again on the rampage in Lincoln, several valued, if not valuable, dogs having been poisoned lately. The fellow who does the dirty work would fare hard if he were known.

Sheriff Roberts left early this morning for the Post, to take charge of several soldiers who were concerned in the melee at Nogal and whose trial is set for to-day. It is thought that a change of venue will be taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Milne, who were on their way from White Oaks to their home in Roswell, passed Saturday night in Lincoln. We are glad to state that Mr. Milne's health has greatly improved during the last few months.

A communication in to-day's paper, headed "The Coming Railroad," will be read with interest. There is a growing feeling among our citizens that a railroad through Lincoln is not among the impossibilities.

A movement is being made towards having a new schoolhouse built in this district. There will be funds sufficient to do all that is needed in this direction, and there is no reason why a first-class public school should not be sustained here. Some half-dozen families, now living on their ranches, would come here at once, were they assured of a good school for the children.

The territorial insane asylum, now building at Las Vegas, has just been inspected by Governor Prince, who says that, with the exception of the state capitol, it is the handsomest building in the territory. The material is gray sandstone with red sandstone trimmings.

The first newspaper printed in New Mexico was called The Dawn. It stood tiptoe for two weeks on the verge of civilization at Taos, and then was eclipsed forever in the gloom of superstition then prevailing in the territory.

Speaking of railroad building for 1892, the Denver Republican says the region in which there is the best prospect for the construction of new track in which Denver would be interested, is New Mexico.

The Denver News says: "There is enthusiasm all along the route of the Denver and El Paso Short Line road. The papers of Las Vegas and White Oaks give enthusiastic accounts of the work being done and the prospects of success. Representatives of the road are now in the east negotiating with capitalists for the [illegible]."

New Mexico Irrigation Convention.

TERRITORY OF NEW MEXICO,
EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
January 11, 1892.

Pursuant to a generally expressed desire, and in order to carry forward the work so successfully inaugurated at the Irrigation Congress held at Salt Lake City in September last, I hereby call a Territorial Irrigation Convention to be held at Las Vegas, on March 16, 1892, and the subsequent days, to consider the question of irrigation and the improvement of arid lands in New Mexico and the surrounding region.

To this convention delegates are invited to be sent as follows from New Mexico:

From each county, to be appointed by the county commissioners, 10 delegates.

From each city or incorporated town, to be appointed by the municipal authorities, 5 delegates.

From each board of trade or commercial club, 5 delegates.

From each incorporated irrigation company, 3 delegates.

From each newspaper, 1 delegate.

From the Territorial Bureau of Immigration, to be appointed by its president, 5 delegates.

From the Agricultural College, to be appointed by the regents, 5 delegates.

All persons interested in the general subject of irrigation, living outside of New Mexico will be welcome, and will be received on such terms, as to representation and membership, as the convention may decide.

L. BRADFORD PRINCE,
Governor of New Mexico.

More Navajo Mischief.

Reliable report comes to us that the winter camp of Swires and Norris, near the head of Canon Blanco, was broken into by the Navajos in the absence of the cowboys, and everything of value carried off, including a rifle belonging to Mr. Swires, some grain, provisions and camp utensils.

At the same time we hear through two of T. D. Burns' sheep herders that at an encampment of Navajos in Pinche canon—a large canon east of Blanco—they saw the Indians dressing a beef hide preparatory to making moccasins of it, and found the camp well supplied with beef.

A prominent Blanco cattleman tells us that cattlemen are losing a large number of calves this winter, and from indications he is positive that the Navajos are killing more than usual this winter.

Little attention has been paid to the complaints of stockmen in times past, and it was not until the report of our last grand jury found its way to the department of the Interior, through the courtesy of Judge Seeds, that any assurance of redress has been given us. This comes in the shape of an order to the agent to keep the Navajos upon the reservation, and to permit none to venture beyond its limits without a special permit. We hope that this rule will be rigidly enforced, and that the large bands of Indians that are constantly roaming over the eastern part of our county and into Rio Arriba county in quest of game and to trade will be compelled to remain on their reservation.—Junction City Times.

Five hundred antelope in a bunch is what L. H. Little and Al. Card counted on Cherry creek in the Butros. They bagged one and leaving Little on hord, Al. came into town for additional guns and ammunition, as well as to contract with our market-men for all the meat they might require.—Silver City Sentinel.

Don Manuel Navarez died on the 11th inst., at his residence in Las Cruces. The deceased was a native of Mexico, and was born in or near El Paso, Texas, in 1817, was 75 years of age at the time of his death, and a member of the New Mexico legislature in 1871-72.

One's sensations when in the throes of the grip cannot be described. Like oysters on the half-shell, they have to be tasted to be enjoyed, says the Roswell Record.

Foster's Weather Forecasts.

Denver, Jan. 16.—The following are the forecasts of the weather of the United States, and Colorado in particular, as copyrighted by Prof. W. T. Foster, for the Rocky Mountain News:

ST. JOSEPH, MO., Jan. 15, 1892.

Last week's letter gave detailed forecasts of the storm wave, due to cross the continent from January 14 to 18. The next will be due to reach the California coast, about the 18th, cross the western mountains by the 19, the great central valleys from the 20th to the 22d, and reach the eastern states about the 23d. About the 19th this will become a furious storm in the country drained by the upper Missouri, and the storm will gradually decrease in force as it moves eastward.

A cold wave will strike the upper Missouri valley about the 21st and follow in the path of the preceeding storm. The cold wave will be more severe than and of the month that preceeded.

Another storm wave will be due to reach the California coast, well to the south, about the 24th, cross the mountains by the close of the 25th, the great central valleys from 26th to 28th, and the Atlantic states about the 29th. It will be a fierce winter storm during its entire journey across the continent.

On the 27th, a cold wave will appear in the northwest, moving down the Missouri valley on the 28th and into the southern states on the 29th. This cold wave will become a dangerous blizzard on the western plains on the 28th and a fierce northerner in Texas on the 29th.

Both of the storms will cause very severe weather in all parts of the United States, and extreme cold in all the northern tier of states.

The most severe storms and changes and extremes of the weather will occur from January 10 to February 5th.

I have now completed my calculations as to the 1892 drouth. It is not practical to publish detailed forecasts, as every locality depends largely upon the topography of its immediate vicinity. So far as I can will reply to those who may address me by letter on this subject. In places the drouth will run north to the 40th degree of north latitude, but generally it will be confined to south of that line.

Mortgagee's Sale.

Whereas, Avery M. Cleony and Antonita Cleony, his wife, of the County of Lincoln and Territory of New Mexico, by their certain mortgage deed, dated the second day of December, A. D., 1886, and recorded in the Probate Clerk's office of Lincoln County, in book A, of the record of mortgages, pages 654, 655 and 656, did convey to the undersigned James J. Dolan as mortgagee, the following described real estate, situated in the County of Lincoln and Territory of New Mexico, as follows, to-wit: All of the Southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of Section Thirty-three Township ten South Range Seventeen East, and all of lot three of Section four, Township eleven South range Seventeen East, that is situated on the North side of the Bonito River, to secure the promissory note of said Avery M. Cleony, dated December 21st, 1886 for Three Hundred and fifty and 91-100 dollars, payable to the order of the said James J. Dolan, one year after date, with interest at the rate of twelve per cent per annum from date until paid.

And, whereas, it was provided in and by said mortgage deed, that if default should be made in the payment of said note, when the same should become due and payable, then and in such case the said mortgagee, his heirs and assigns in person, or by his or their agent or attorney, might sell or dispose of said mortgaged premises at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, first giving notice of the time and place of said sale, by publishing a notice in some newspaper published in the County of Lincoln, for twenty days before the date of such sale, and in their names might make and deliver to the purchasers at such sale, a good and sufficient deed of said premises.

And, whereas, default has been made in the payment of said promissory note, due one year after its date, as aforesaid, which default still continues,

Now, therefore, public notice is hereby given, that on the 18th day of February, A. D., 1892, between the hours of ten o'clock a. m. and three o'clock p. m. of said day, at the front door of the court house, in the town and county of Lincoln, the said James J. Dolan, his agent or attorney will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, the premises hereinbefore and in said mortgage deed described, pursuant to the powers and provisions of said mortgage deed.

JAMES J. DOLAN,
Mortgagee.

Escape of an Apache Girl.

Quite a flurry of excitement was caused at the government Indian school last night by the escape of one of the 27 Apache girls who arrived there about three weeks ago. This is the first attempt ever made to bring Apaches was predicted that the undertaking would be unsuccessful. A few days ago two of the Apache boys escaped and were captured and brought back. The Apache youths being fresh from the camp, and not being able to talk a word of English, are very difficult to manage, apart from their stubborn disposition.

The school is divided into companies, each company being officered from among the the pupils. An Isleta girl is the sergeant of the company from which the Apache escaped. The company was being put through the regular drill preparatory to assembling for study when the bold, young damsel took offence at something that transpired and bolting the ranks fled at a rapid gait through the fields and gardens in the vicinity. Prof. Creager and several of the employes started in pursuit, but, at last accounts last night, the girl was still at large. She is about 19 years of age and is tattooed on the face.

Prof. Creager is determined that the Apaches shall submit to discipline like the pupils of the other tribes.—Alb. Dem.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and cannot produce as good results as Hood's. Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in the "good name at home"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is Peculiar to Itself

Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine.

Be Sure

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was benefited with it, and did not want any other.

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." MRS. ELLA A. GOFF, 61 Terrace Street, Boston.
