Mining and Prospecting.

Evidence of Prosperity.

Some remarkable good strikes of rich ore have recently been made in the mountains surrounding Nogal, but we are n t at liberty to give details until later on.

The El Paso Herald of 20th inst, has this to say of Lincoln Co., No section of the southwest is showing more signs of rapid development now and in the future than the southeastern part of New Mexico, known for years to be richly mineralized. It has been severely handicapped by lack of transportation facilities now relieved by the Rock Island road. Already great progress is being made and new companies are being attracted to that rich section, and many of them are taking hold and the next twelve months will show greater progress than the last dozen years have shown.

The county of Lincoln is the richest in this part of the territory It has gold, copper, silver, coal and every indication of oil. One of the several rich companies now taking hold to develop the resouces of the county is the New Mexico Oil and Development company of which W. W. Woodard is secretary and treasurer This company composed of eastern capitalists have acquired about 2,000 acres of oil lands, about the same amount of coal lands and some very promising copper properties.

Mr. Woodard was in El Paso yesterday and when asked what his company was doing, said: "We are drilling a six inch well for oil nine miles north of Carrizozo station on the Rock Island railroad at the head of the "mal pais" and about two miles and a half to the west of that road. We drilled one well 380 feet and struck a magnificent flow of good soft water and as that was good enough in itself we concluded we would leave it alone and drill another. This well has such a volume of water that by pumping 856 gallons per hour for twenty-four hours we could not lower it an inch. We have been offered several times the cost of the well for the water. We struck some small deposits of oil within 125 feet but not in paying quantities.

"The well we have now started we are rigged out to drill 3,000 feet if necessary and we have every confidence in striking oil. Oil experts tell us we have all the indications of finding a good deposit. Only the drill will tell whether they are right or not. If we do not strike oil we have demonstrated there is an abundance of good water and as the lands have a rich soil the water will be worth quite as much as the oil we might find.

"To the eastward of the oil lands about six miles, our company has nearly 2,000 acres bituminous coal lands which we shall develop. We are only waiting for the coming within the next thirty days of about twenty of the heavy stockholders of the company from the east who are to look over our holdings.

The company also owns some copper properties in the White mountains in the same county. These claims are being developed gradually at present. We have struck good quantities of ore running 47 per cent copper. We shall undertake operations on a much greatea scale on all the properties in the fall."

Mr. Woodard is enthusiastic on the prospects of Lincoln county and is only one of many who are taking hold of the mineral prospects of that county and renewed confidence is felt in the mineral resources of that section and there is plenty of room for many more.

Representatives of eastern capital continue to come in right along and are examining mines with a view to purchasing. Lincoln county is evidently on the eve of a mining boom.

If we were to tell the plain, unvarnished facts about the numerous large gold nuggets that are coming out of the American and Helen Rae mines, the statements would sound so unreasonable as to be doubted by a majority of our readers. Chunks of ore as large as a small wash tub so full of free gold as to hold the rocks together after receiving sledge hammer blows, sounds big, but they are found in these mines The estimated value of some of these nuggets run into thousands of dollars.

Not a day passes but what the hotels of Nogal are filled to their utmost capacity with strangers from different points of the compass, attracted here by the inexhaustable mineral resources of this district and as Nogal is the center or distributing point for all the mining camps around, it is naturally the mecca for visiting investors. Nature has provided no more beautiful or picturesque spot for a town than this, surrounded as it is by prominent mountains and high elevations, nearly 7000 feet above sea level, the stranger can easily ascend them through canyons and trails and from their summit view the plains and mesas which lie like a panorama below them. From Church mountain one can with a field glass, see the ranges across the Rio Grande in Old Mexico, 153 miles to the south and nearly the same distance to the north, west or east. From the main street of Nogal one can look up Dry Gulch canyon and see the smoke coming from the mill at the American mine, while a little to one side is observed the shaft house of the Helen Rae, and beyond, towering high and lofty above all is Nogal peak, resembling a vigilant sentinel of the whole valley and nestling at its feet is Parsons, where the Eagle company's mill is daily grinding out the golden wealth from the mountains of ore around it. Across the Carrizozo plains is observed the Bar W. ranch, the Grambles ranch and the high mesa 25 miles away, where the New Mexico Oil and Development company is at work boring for oil. On the north is the Vera Cruz mountains at the base of which is the placer mill belonging to the Free Gold Mining company producing from the gravel the wealth that lies hid ten there. Across the mountains, lie Capitan and White Oaks watching with jealous eyes the strides forward of their sister, Nogal.

The placer fields of the Jicarillas bid fair to be worked with up to date machines in the near future instead of the old dry washers the miners have used the past thirty years. Several companies are now interesting themselves in these mountains, and since the fact has been demonstrated that an abundance of water can be secured, the placer ground has greatly increased in value.

Judge H. B. Hamilton, the well known attorney at El Paso and also attorney for the Eagle Mining company in an interview with the Albuquerque Journal Democrat said that the Eagle Mining company anticipated spending millions in the development and operation of mines at White Oaks and on the Bonito. The Eagle mining company is the purchaser of the famous Old Abe mine at White Oaks. The Parsons mines which were purchased by the Eagle company some time ago, contain vast bodies of gold ore running $4 to $6 to the ton. The ore is easily accessible and the company proposes to install an immense plant that will treat several hundred tons a day at a cost of less than a dollar a ton. The profits will thus be enormous. Some what similar methods will be employed in the Old Abe, but here the ore bodies are not so large and the values run much higher.

Unless all signs fail, says the El Paso Herald, there is about to begin the greatest year of development that has ever been seen in the southwest. New companies are being organized to begin operations, mines are being bonded, and plans are being made for future operations Prospectors are getting ready to "hit the mountains" again. Plans for new plants are heard of nearly every day. From the experience of former years these things are but signs of what is to come with the opening up of cool weather New Mexico will undoubtedly show the greatest development in a mining way ever known in the history of the territory. There is the strongest evidence that mine owners will pursue development on a greater scale than usual and sink deeper to show what is in the many promising properties. The little prospect hole will give way to real development. Undoubtedly New Mexico has the mineral, but work energy and capital are needed badly and everything goes to show that the next years work will mark the begining of a new era in real mining in that territory.

Every old prospect hole in the country is being relocated and promising assays are being obtained from some

Hudspeth Withdraws

To the Democrats of Lincoln county:

In withdrawing from the race for representative to the legislature I wish to heartily thank my friends for their loyal support. Mr. McIvers, who has the support of a majority of the Lincoln county delegation is a big hearted gentleman whom I heartily commend to the democrats of this district. He has already done much for Lincoln county in developing its resources and will make an able and useful representative.

Respectfully,
A. H. HUDSPETH.

Lincoln county N. M. mining people evidently know what they want in the way of developing their resources. They have made sure of the nomination of W. A. McIvers, a thoroughly live and progressive mining man, for the territorial legislature. No man has done more for the country and he knows the needs of the mining interests, therefore they think he is the man for the place.—El Paso Herald.

The Lincoln Forest Reserve, Outrage.

The creating by proclamation of what is termed the "Lincoln Forest Reserve," is one of the greatest outrages ever perpetrated on the people living within the jurisdiction of same, and how and when the President could have been induced to create such a gross injustice is beyond our comprehension.

It was naturally supposed that our delegate in Congress could have prevented such a measure being enacted, but Hon. B S Rodey, our delegate assures this paper that he knew nothing about the Presidents intention of creating this reserve, but supposed, and in fact was advised that no such action would be taken, and nothing was done while he was on duty but what was his surprise after returning home to ascertain that the President had actually issued this proclamation. Hon. Rodey wishes the people to exhonorate him from having any connection with the matter, promising to do all in his power to have the President revoke the same. In connection with this subject we heartily concur with our neighbors of the White Oaks Eagle in that the majority of the people of Lincoln county are probably in favor of a forest reserve embracing the head waters of the streams and sufficient adjacent timber lands to protect the water supply but it is outraging our people to include large areas of agricultural and grazing lands on which are already many homes and patented homesteads. This reserve takes in 500,000 acres of public domain and includes most of the homesteads on the Carrizozo flat and other localities on which there is little or no timber to protect. This is a matter for the immediate consideration of all who are interested and the quicker the better.

The Republican county ticket is worthy the hearty support of every honest voter in Lincoln county regardless of party. Every man on the ticket is competent to fill the office for which he has been nominated. All are well known through out the county as honest and obliging men. The ticket from top to bottom is the best ever put out by any party in Lincoln county.

R. C. Sturgeon, of Chicago, secretary and treasurer of the American Mining company arrived in town last Monday to look over affairs at the mine and incidently to attend the wedding of Mr. Rice's daughter. Mr. Sturgeon is one of those rustling, busy fellows so full of enthusiasm and good nature that he at once imbues those around him with the same characteristics. This country needs a few citizens like him.

J. M. Rice, manager of the American and Eagle mining companies says: "We are quarrying low grade ore out of Nogal mountain and treating it ourselves. We do not intend to ship any of it. The mines we control, the Helen Rae, the Old Abe are the richest in New Mexico, the Old Abe being the deepest dry mine in the world. It is down 1,300 feet. We think our camp will be rapidly developed and all of us look for great things to happen within the next two years". Mr. Rice knows what he is talking about. He is not given to blowing without just cause, and it is the prediction of all conservative men that the events to occur in the next two years in this neck of the woods will open the eyes of the world.
