SOMEONE "TO BEAT BRYAN."

The following from the Denver News reflects clearly the alignment of political parties in 1900.

"Tammany's attempt to create a presidential boom for Mayor Van-Wyck, which ex-Governor Hogg of Texas so neatly punctured, has revealed the fact that a certain element in the Democratic party is anxiously looking about for some one who can "beat Bryan" for the nomination of the national convention of next year. The movement is of course inspired by those who bolted in 1896, and who are known as "gold Democrats." This class is more hostile to the great free coinage leader than it is to McKinley himself, and if Bryan and McKinley are both renominated by their respective parties, which action now seems inevitable, these "gold Democrats" will be found in the gold standard Republican camp, and there, as a matter of fact, is where they belong.

There is another class of timid, compromising gentlemen, who say they want a "more moderate candidate." They are anxious to see the party "reunited," and while professing a devotion to the declarations of the Chicago platform of 1896, desire a nominee less pronounced in the affirmation of its principles than is Mr. Bryan. They want a negative, rather than a positive candidate. This class may be expected to support Mr. Bryan when he shall have been renominated, but will waste their energies in trying to harmonize the single and double standard elements in the party. Oil and water do not mix in politics any more than in anything else.

It cannot be observed that the combined efforts of these two factions of the party, if such they may be called, are accomplishing anything more than to emphasize the preponderating hold that Mr. Bryan has on the masses of the party and of the people. Who would have dared to assert that the rank and file of Tammany in the very heart of New York city would have yelled themselves hoarse at the mention of Bryan's name, especially when they had been called together to cheer Van-Wyck? This incident presages the fate of every "boom" for every "candidate to beat Bryan" that may be launched. They need create no alarm. They will only render Mr. Bryan's renomination the more certain, and the more clearly demonstrate the necessity of that action by the national Democratic convention of 1900.

The coming year is destined to witness a wonderful realignment of voters as to parties. Old partisan issues are lost to view or relegated to the rear by the new questions which face the nation. Currency and coinage remain to be settled, and must be considered the paramount issue as affecting the very basic interests of business and trade. The words trusts, and expansion suggest the other questions which have come to the front with startling suddenness, the latter involving relations with other world powers which are far-reaching in their influence on the future of the republic. The different views which will be taken on these issues by the intelligent voters of the United States cannot, nor will they, be bounded by old party lines. There are gold standard Republicans who are bitterly opposed to expansion. There are silver Democrats who favor the imperialistic idea. There are certain Democrats who favor trusts, and certain Republicans who strongly oppose them. Where all these antagonistic elements will land in the approaching national campaign is yet a problem. But one thing is certain and that is that Mr. Bryan does and will represent the side of the people, their interests and their welfare, in the determination of these issues. Mr. McKinley stands, and will continue to stand, for the plutocracy view. McKinley is for monometallism, Bryan for bimetallism; McKinley is for the most odious form of imperialism, Bryan is against it. These are the contrasting positions of the two men. The trust managers and the money magnates look to McKinley; the laborer, the artisan, and the common citizen look to Bryan. Those who are trying to circumvent the popular demand for Bryan's leadership are knowingly or unknowingly the tools of the plutocratic power of the country.—Denver News, July 17.

CENSUS SUPERVISOR FOR NEW MEXICO CHOSEN.

The New Mexican of the 27th. ult. is responsible for the statement that Col J. Frank Chavez of Valencia county, has been appointed Census Supervisor for the New Mexico district, Col. Chavez is a conspicuous native politician and has been a member of the territorial legislature for many years, which certainly entitles him to know as little concerning the general interests of New Mexico as any other individual in it—what further evidence is necessary to convince the people that Mr. Chavz is the man for the place.

Plans have been under consideration for the establishment of a second bank at Roswell, however, the idea has been abandoned and the local bank has been sold to the promoters of the project who have nationalized it. The new National bank began business the 1st.

A recruiting office for the 34th United States infantry for Philippine service has been opened in Albuquerque, with Max. Luna in charge. If the reports of granny Otis can be taken as authentic the war in the Philippines will be over long before these recruits are ready for service, as enlistments are coming slow. This shows conclusively that the public is under the same inspiration that held Mr. McKinley back last year before declaring war against Spain, they do not care to take part in an unholy war.

A Mother Tells How She Saved Her Little Daughter's Life.

I am the mother of eight children and have had a great deal of experience with medicines. Last summer my little daughter had the dysentery in its worst form. We thought she would die. I tried everything I could think of, but nothing seemed to do her any good. I saw by an advertisement in our paper that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was highly recommended and sent and got a bottle at once. It proved to be one of the very best medicines we ever had in the house. It saved my little daughter's life. I am anxious for every mother to know what an excellent medicine it is. Had I known it at first it would have saved me a great deal of anxiety and my little daughter much suffering.—Yours truly, Mrs. Geo. F. Burdick, Liberty, R. I. For sale by M. G. Paden.

Where is the need of a standing army in this country when every man in it is a soldier on a minutes notice? It is not the lack of fighters that makes McKinley's war a failure, but a lack of faith in the justice of the fight.

Rev. J. M. Yingling, pastor of the Bedford Street Methodist church at Cumberland, Md., says: "It affords me much pleasure to recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I have used it and know others who have done so. I have never known it to fail. It is a sure cure when taken in time."—For sale by M. G. Paden.

The hospital ship, Morgan City arrived at San Francisco on July 24th., from Manila with 400 sick and convalescent soldiers. Mack's policy of making the Filipino good is about as severe on the man behind the gun as the one in front of it. It is killing at both ends.

Ingersoll the Agnostic, probably knows more of the "Mistakes of Moses" now than when on terra firma.

Official Paper of Lincoln County

Thirty cases of Yellow fever were reported at the soldiers Home at Hampton Roads, Virginia, on July 31. There are 1,000 old soldiers in the Home. The extent of the contagion and how it got there is not known. Seven deaths were also reported.

Gov. Poynter of Nebraska was at San Francisco to welcome home the Nebraska soldiers who acquitted themselves so honorably in the Philippines. This is as it should be and no doubt when the soldiers reach Nebraska they will meet with such a reception as will cause them to forget for a while at least, the many hardships of the Philippine campaign.

Three mormon elders were taken in charge at Covington, Ga., by white capers and are supposed to have been lynched. They had been ordered out of the country and had been treated to a dose of rotten eggs thrown by angry citizens a day or two previous to the time the white capers took them in charge. Other instances of rough treatment of Mormons in Ga., have occurred recently, and altogether, they are having a lively time proselyting in that section.

The San Francisco Examiner takes General Shafter and the war department to task for making no arrangements to transfer the sick and wounded soldiers returning from the Philippines, from the transport to the hospitals at San Francisco. They were left to crowl down the gang way and help each other to disembark as best they could, and then were to shiver on the warf for three hours before going to the hospital. The sight was so sickening that the people who looked on were highly indignant and so expressed themselves. Some of the sick and wounded soldiers complained bitterly of their treatment. Such things are disgraceful.

Adolph Leutgert, the Chicago sausage maker, who was sentenced to imprisonment for life for murdering his wife, has completed his term in the penitentiary. He was found dead in his cell; the body was removed and burried, and thus is the law satisfied. The incidents of the crime were remarkable. He threw his wife's body into a sausage vat filled with a potash and acid solution that consumed it except some small pieces of bone, and her corset stays and rings. These caused Leutgert's conviction, and again strengthened the saying, that murder will out.

Robt G. Ingersoll is dead and by this time perhaps he knows more of the Hereafter than he did before. He died very suddenly and apparently without warning. He was a great orator and by reason of his religious views was one of the best known men in this country. When he attacked the religious views of the church people, the preachers tumbled over each other to attack Ingersoll, and so every man, woman and child in the country heard of him and his infidelity. However, Ingersoll has gon to the "Beyond." To that bourn "from whence no traveler returns." His family mourn the loss of a good husband and father, and the country has lost a good citizen. If any differences exist between him and his Creator, he must adjust them as best he can, as no earthly power can now be involved in his behalf.

The New Mexican speaking of the rivalry among various republicans to represent New Mexico in the national convention, says:

"The administration of the territorial affairs will remain "Republican, no matter who attends the national convention of the successful party.

Nor can such contest for the honor of representing the party make any material difference in territorial politics, for the people of New Mexico have found out that their interest require the continuance of a Republican administration. Personal rivalries nor quarrels could cause the majority to aid the enemy by party division: nor cause the strengthening of the ranks of the free-trade, do-nothing, calamity party after the practical evidences that success of the Republicans brought national legislation that resulted in good times, higher prices of wool, the building of more railways, the investment of more money in mines, plenty of work and higher wages."

The above statement reminds one of the boy whistling to keep up courage. Why Editors should think it good journalism to indulge in such generalities, full of statements that are untrue, and not condescend to give any facts on which such statements are based, is more than we can understand. Such statements apparently, are only intended to deceive those people who do not stop to think and who accept all that their party organ says just because it says it. When and how much have wages been increased in New Mexico since McKinley was elected President? Do sheep herders or common laborers get any more for work now than before? Every man who knows anything about it, or who will make inquiry, will find that there has been no increase in wages in New Mexico at all, and also that there is not likely to be any increase in the wages of ordinary laborers and they constitute the great mass of laborers in New Mexico. Again, how many important mining sales can the New Mexican point to as a result of the republican rule? Have mining sales increased in New Mexico since McKinley's election? We would like some facts instead of deceptive generalities. However, it is not the purpose of republicans to indulge in facts, but rather to throw up their hats at every thing the party does right or wrong. How long will people be deceived by those whose interest it is to deceived them?

The Star Stables.

NOW that you are going to do your trading in El Paso, don't forget that I have the most complete, and centrally located livery stable in the City.

My Undertaking Department contains a complete line of coffins and caskets, under the charge of an expert embalmer.

J. C. CALDWELL.

The young men of the country are not falling over each other to enlist for the war in the Philippines. Only fourteen enlisted in New Mexico up to date. This shows very conclusively that people generally are not decided as to the justice of our cause in the Philippines and that they do not approve of all that the administration has done in the premises. A just cause is half the battle and that is what we lack in this Philippine war. The Filipinos are fighting for liberty, while we are fighting for—well, somebody ask,—Mack Hanna; McKinley don't know and neither do we.

Notwithstanding the tariff question has been discussed to a greater extent possibly than any other political question, few people appear to understand it. This results from the fact that politicians have sought to deceive rather than to enlighten them. Again, the position of the democratic party has been intentionally misrepresented by the republicans. They refer to democrats as free traders when in fact the platforms of the democratic party have always declared in favor of a revenue tariff, and a tariff which will produce revenue to run this government, don't mean free trade by any means. Then, what does it mean? It means a tariff evenly distributed all over the country that will be just to every one and to every class, and that will discriminate in favor of no man or class of men, as does the republican protective tariff at the present time. Now, this is not a mere general statement, but can be proven—can be logically demonstrated. The present republican tariff affords to the wealthy corporations and manufacturers of this country such protection as that they accumulate vast sums of money at the expense of all other classes. Here is the proof: The wealthy protected class we will say, compose ten per cent of the people. The farmers and those dependent on them about seventy per cent. Has the farmer any protection. He sells in the open markets of the world and at prices fixed entirely by the laws of supply and demand He sells in competition with all other parts of the world produces like products. Again, the manufacturer hires his labor in the open market where workmen compete for employment and where the price of labor is fixed by the laws of supply and demand. Then, where is the farmer or laborer benefited by a republican tariff for protection only, more than they would be by a democratic tariff for revenue? Republicans tell us that protection to factories, increases the demand for farm products and the demand also for labor. This is disproved by the fact that people eat no more under a protective tariff than under a tariff for revenue; and by the further fact, that our manufacturers are now selling in competition with the whole world in other countries and driving out the products of other manufacturing countries. This proves that our manufacturers need no protection or only such as a revenue tariff will afford. Again, the only answer republicans make to this kind of argument is to throw their hats in the air and whoop for the grand old party. Why don't they give us facts instead of continually trying to fool the people?

Albuquerque proposes to hold an annual fair as usual. As New Mexico is in better condition financially at present than for several years past, the fair has every prospect of being a good one. The fact that this is to be a street fair and entirely new in New Mexico will go a long way toward making it a success. Everything is to be free and with reduced rail road rates no body should miss it, should they feel an interest in a state fair. White Oaks should see to it that we have an exhibit of the mineral resources of this locality at this fair, and if some one who is in position to do so will take the initiative in this matter, it will result in great good to this community.

Ernest Gentry, one of the men who robbed the Alamogordo Lumber Company of $6,000 in government script was brought back from California by sheriff Blackington of Socorro.

An Out law Visits White Oaks.

Last Friday Ed Wheeler—one of the gang who was in the train hold-up at Folsom and who afterwards participated in the Cimarron fight, in which Sheriff Farr, of Colorado, and Sam Ketchum, a follower of the notorious Black Jack, were killed and one or more of the sheriff's posse wounded—was in White Oaks. He had sent his saddle by express, to this place and when the authorities discoverd that he was en route, sent telegrams to White Oaks officers to arrest Wheeler and others found with him, when they reached here. The telegram was delayed some where along the line and was received 48 hours after the gentleman, presumably Mr. Wheeler, had called at the express office for his saddle, and was out of the way. Officers are on the look out and it is generally thought that several of the gang are some where in this locality, and that they mean to do mischeif either here or at Alomogordo. A warm reception awaits any attempt to do mischief here, and a surprise is not likely.

APPOINTMENT SCHOOL DIRECTORS.

Superintendent Haley wrote District Atty. Alexander to know what he should do where no election was held for school directors, and was advised that he, Haley, should remove all directors, and either re-appoint them, or appoint others as he saw fit. This matter should be attended to at once as the time for schools this fall is near at hand.

HORACE K. THURBER.

With much regret we announce the death of Mr. Thuber, at Hailey, Idaho, on the 20th, ult. of heart trouble. Mr. Thuber had extensive business interests in different parts of the United States, and was the principal owner in the El Capitan Land & Cattle Company and the El Capitan Sheep Company in Lincoln County. He was born in 1829, and coming to New York in his 35th year, engaged in the wholesale mercantile business with his brother, Francis B. Thurber. The house became the largest of its kind in the world, and Mr. Thurber the prince of New York merchant princes. He he'd several directorships in banks and other financial concerns, but his health failing him in 1885, he withdrew from his New York connections and afterwards came west to recruit. He founded and managed for some time the mining town of Thurber, Texas, and the magnificent system under which the different interests of the town are directed, is Mr. Thurber's own. As a result of his wide experience complete education and extensive travel he was a man of broad views, and yet with his splendid gifts, he never essayed into public life, but rather kept himself in the background. Having no children of his own it was his delight to help on deserving men in business and his pride to watch their success. There is much in his career analagous to that of Stephen Girard. The burial was in Delhi, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Ziegler and Mrs. C. D. Leon entertained friends last Friday evening. About thirty couples were present. Music and song, dancing, &c., all the night long till 2 o'clock in the morning. Excellent refreshments were served at 12. It is needless to say that everybody had a good time when Mr. and Mrs. A. Ziegler and Mrs. C. D. Leon entertain.

During the civil war as well as in our late war with Spain, diarrhoea was one of the most troublesome diseases the army had to contend with. In many instances it became chronic and the old soldiers still suffer from it. Mr. David Taylor of Wind Ridge, Greene Co., Pa., is one of these. He uses Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and says he never found anything that would give him such quick relief. It is for sale by M. G. Paden.

CHRIST CHOOSING HIS DISCIPLES.

Rev. Jno. A. Hollars from the Congregational Pulpit Sunday, 5th.

Text Luke 5:5 10–11.

And Simon answered and said, master, we toiled all night and took nothing, nevertheless at thy word I will let down the nets.

And Jesus said, Simon fear not, from henceforth thou shalt catch men.

And when they had brought their boats to land, they left all and followed him.

Several men had been fishing all night and according to their own confession they had caught nothing; I presume they were out of luck, they had stopped fishing and gone to mending nets, no doubt they were tired and hungry, fishing all night without success will bring a frown to the brow of any fishermen. Perhaps their conversation was not brilliant just at this time; when a man is tired, wet and hungry, he does not say beatiful things, he mumbles his words and says something ugly.

But Jesus came along and changed the whole scene—things always change when the master arrives; scenes of sadness turn to gladness when Jesus comes. Their failures soon turned to success. He told them to launch out into the deep; they followed his instructions and success came.

Peter did not pretend to know much, yet the master knew that he was made of the right kind of material and he wanted him, then again: those fishermen were poor. I am so glad christ came to save earth's poor. He found his disciples among the laboring people, He did not look among the elite, he knew beforehand that he would find nothing but fuss and feathers among so-called society people.

Some one has said that a milliner can make a lady, but she cannot make a woman. The master know he could not use society people: therefore he chose his disciples from among the fishermen.

If christ should come to any of our great modern cities he would make his abode with the down trodden and distressed, I believe God hates the sham of modern society. Modern society is hypocritical—it is a huge fraud—it is a monster with a thousand horns, all surcharged with the poison of a Gilla monster, it is too unpleasant to talk about, therefore we will return to to the disciples. It is quite a relief to study the life of an unsophisticated man or woman.

Peter became perfectly obedient to Christ; he said Master we toiled all night and took nothing; but at thy word I will let down the nets. Every christian is called to a life of obedience. To be a follower of the lowly Nazarene means sacrifice. Doctor Chapman, tells in one of his sermons, how a man returned one night to his sheep corral and found that some of his sheep were missing; he said to his sheperd-dog, go find those sheep; the dog trotted away in the dark and the rain; after a while she returned bringing only two of the lost sheep, but the poor dog was wet and bleeding, she had been torn by the wolves; the master sent her out again; she soon returned with the rest of the sheep; the next morning the man found his dog in the kenel dead; the dog was obedient unto death. We need back bone to dare to follow Christ anywhere; a mamby pamby christianity will never save the lost.

Here is a sample of evolution by a Colorado editor: A girl named plain "Mary" at her birth dropped the "y" when she grew up and became Miss May. As she began to shine in a social way she changed the "y" to "o" and signed her letters Mae. About a year ago she was married, and now she has dropped the "e" and it's just plain Ma.—X

Of the 19 lieutenant generals Confedarate States of America, says the Atlanta Constitution, but 7 still survive; of the 81 major generals, Confederate States of America, only 16 are now in life, while of the 365 brigadier generals, Confederate States of America, but 92 still linger in the land of the living. In other words, of the 473 Confederate general officers only 115 remain—not a fourth of those valorous chieftains to whom Dixie intrusted the command of her regular armies in the greatest of defensive wars.

BREAKFAST AT WHITE OAKS AND SUPPER IN EL PASO.

White Oaks is now next door to El Paso. It is only an hour's drive from town to put one aboard the cars and El Paso can be reached at 7 o'clock in the evening. This seems incredulous almost to persons who little more than a year ago made the trip to El Paso and return in two weeks. The track is just about completed to White Oaks junction 12 miles west of town in the Carrizozo flat. We can now eat breakfast at home and supper in El Paso, have time to transact ordinary business such as takes the great majority to the Pass city and return home the next day. We are no longer lonesome but right in the swim.

NOTICE.

A camp meeting for the salvation of souls, is to be held on the Bonito about one mile below Peters' store, (Angus) Aug. 18–31.

MAJOR LANE DEAD.

Died in Austin, Texas From a Stroke of Apoplexy.

Following this is a clipping from the Austin Statesmen. Maj. Lane was a brother of Dr. A. G. Lane of this place. He was a man, as the following indicates, of superior literary attainments. He wrote the history of the University of Texas, which came out in 1891, and in which is recorded the many difficulties that institution has had in its years of growth and popularity, and its final triumph over all obstacles which now rank it among the first institutions of its character in the country, and makes it the pride of Texas. In his death not only Texas, but the South lost one among a school of southern characters who have been instrumental in closing up the chasm that caused that most terrible of civil wars. He was one among the school of southern gentlemen who have long since declared the war between the north and the south forever closed, and who have by their exemplary actions, caused the roses of peace to climb and clamor over the broken cannons of war. With reference to his journalistic life the Austin Statesman of July 17th, says:

"Yesterday at a few minutes before 1 o'clock Maj. J. J. Lane the veteran newspaper man, died of apoplexy at his home in this city. His death was wholly unexpected he being well an hour previous. The major was well and popularly known, not only in Texas, but in Louisiana, where he lived prior to coming to Texas. Maj. Lane has been in the newspaper business for something over half a century, having served in the capacity of war reporter in the early days of journalism, while doing active service for his country. Since his residence in Texas which has covered some years, Maj. Lane has been identified with state and interstate newspapers, and was known as a gifted writer. During the last few years with the coming of declining years he eased much of his active newspaper work, but he was still looked up to and consulted by the younger contingent of the newspaper fraternity as the Napoleon of the press. The Major was a man of sympathetic nature. As gentle as a woman, and yet as firm as a rock whenever he was right and occassion demanded that he take a stand. Every man who knew the major loved him, and The Statesman this morning merely voices the sentiment of all in extending the most heartfelt sympathy to the family of the deceased. The major leaves surviving him a wife, two daughters and a son."

CAPTURED A DANGEROUS CHARACTER.

J. D. Christopher, special deputy for Sheriff Stewart, of Eddy county arrested Thomas Weatherby at Weed recently. The man is wanted at Stephensonsville Texas for assault to murder. On the way to Carlsbad Weatherby attempted to escape but had not gone far when he fell head over heels into a ditch and was recaptured. Sheriff R. T. Hume came to Carlsbad from Texas to take Weatherby to Stephensonsville. The prisoner has already served a term of eight years for murder.—New Mexican.

GOVERNOR'S ANNUAL REPORT.

Governor Otero is engaged in the preparation of his report for the year ending June 30th, 1899, to the secretary of the interior. The indications are that this year's report will be better and more elaborate than ever and will be a splendid advertising medium for the territory. The reports made by the governor for the years 1897 and 1898 are very valuable and there is still a great demand for them although the issues are entirely exhausted. The bureau of immigration has within the last three months received no less than 160 applications for copies of the 1898 report, which could not be filled, there being none on hand. The Bureau has also received numerous applications for literature bearing on New Mexico during the past few months, which clearly shows that much interest is being aroused in the country at large concerning the territory. People are wanting to know about New Mexico these days. Ex-Governor Prince, the president of the bureau, who has just returned from the east reports that many inquiries were made to him concerning New Mexico, its resources, conditions etc., and that he believes that this territory within the next three years will receive quite an influx of capital and immigrants.—New Mexican.

KILLED BY GASS.

Two Men Die in a Mine at the Jirilla Camp.

Filomino Hernandez and Ben Montoya of Las Cruces, were killed a few days ago in the Jirilla mining camp. The accident took place in the Lucky mine. The night shift had exploded a shot before going home and the day foreman went partly down the shaft and discovered gas and that the bottom of the shaft ladder had been blown away. Filomeno Hernanglez who was with him volunteered to go and fix it, but was advised not to do so until the air pumps had worked awhile. But against all advice he went down to the broken ladder and after several minutes had elapsed he was heard to fall his friend Ben Montoya, also against advice, jumped into the skip and rung to be lowered which was done, but he was overcome before he could recover the former. Their bodies were taken out as soon as it was safe to go down the shaft, but all efforts to resuscitate them were futile. Their bodies were brought to Las Cruces.—New Mexican.

In the present alignment of parties it behooves every laboring man to give the matter of his voting the most serious consideration. Democrats have long contended that the natural tendency of the republican party is toward centralization of both power and wealth. That contention is now amply proved by the formation of more trusts in two years of McKinley's administration than existed before. It is also proved by the administration's demand for a permanent standing army of three times its former size. The aggregation of thousands of industrial concerns into the hands of a few corporations is in itself a violent rearrangement of industrial forces, and labor disturbances will certainly follow. Foreseeing this and being in full sympathy with the trusts, the president sought to have a permanent army large enough to override any protest that might be made by labor. The facts are becoming more apparent every day and will continue to come more plainly into view. It certainly behooves the laboring man to do some independent thinking.—Raton Gazette.

WISE OLD ROOSTER.

A Kansas editor is responsible for the following: "A Kansas duck which had faithfully stuck to business during the summer and laid several dozen of large fawn-colored eggs; complained that she was not appreciated. 'See that hen over there,' said the duck, 'she hasn't laid as many eggs as I have, nor as big, but she has books written about her and verses composed in her honor, while nobody is saying a word about me.' 'The trouble with you is,' said a wise rooster that was standing near, 'that you don't tell the public what you have done. You lay an egg and waddle on without saying a word, but that sister of mine never lays one without letting everybody in the neighborhood know it. If you want to cut any ice in this community you must advertise.'"—X.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE

THE delights of an evening spent around a well-lighted reading table are not half understood. An illustrated magazine with its wealth of illustrations, its stories of adventure and love, its descriptions of travel which carry you to the remotest ends of the earth, and its instructive articles for young and old—these are the first requisites for your own enjoyment and the entertainment and proper education of your children.

To secure for you the best and most interesting of the great illustrated magazines at the lowest possible price has been the aim of the editor of this journal. That we have succeeded we leave our readers to judge. A special contract recently entered into with The Cosmopolitan, which seeks to become better known in this neighborhood, has enabled us to offer you a year's subscription to the greatest of the illustrated magazines together with a year's subscription to this journal,

Both Together One Year for Only $2.10

In this way you secure your own home paper and an illustrated magazine at a price that is only about a fourth of what some of the illustrated magazines sell for. For three years The Cosmopolitan has undisputedly claimed that it reached the largest clientele possessed by any periodical, daily, weekly or monthly, in the world. It was The Cosmopolitan which sent Julian Hawthorne to India to let the world know the real horrors of famine and plague. It was The Cosmopolitan which established at its own cost a great Free Correspondence University which now has over 20,000 students on its rolls. It was The Cosmopolitan which offered a prize of $3,000 for the best horseless carriage and prizes for best plans for public baths, and best arrangement of sewer and pipe systems for cities. It was The Cosmopolitan which set the presidents of great schools and universities seriously discussing the defects of existing educational systems. It is The Cosmopolitan whose enterprise is always in the lead in advancing the world's civilization.
