For Scabby Sheep.

A New Order Relating to Dipping Issued From Washington.

A new order has been issued by the department of agriculture at Washington, concerning the dipping of sheep for scab, as follows:

Whereas, the shipment of live stock affected with any contagious infections or communicable disease from one state or territory to another, or from any state into the District of Columbia, or from the district into any state, is prohibited by the act of congress approved May 28th, 1884, and,

Whereas, the contagious disease of sheep known as scabies, or scab exists in many parts of the United States, due notice to which was given in the department order of June 18, 1897: and,

Whereas, Some of the preparations in which diseased sheep have been dipped by owners and stockyard companies, with the object of destroying the contagion and making legal the shipment of said sheep in inner-state trade, have proved inefficent, and said sheep have disseminated the contagion notwithstanding such treatment; and,

Whereas, The damage and losses from scabies in sheep have been in some sections very heavy and discouraging to those engaged in the sheep industry.

It is ordered, That from and after August 10, 1899 no sheep affected with scabies and no sheep which have been in contact with others so affected, shall be allowed shipment from one state or territory to another, or from any state into the Districr of Columbia, or from that district into any state, unles said sheep shall have first been dipped in a mixture approved by this department.

The dips now approved are:

First—The tobacco and sulphur dip, made with sufficient extract of tobacco to give a mixture containing not less than five one-hundredths of 1 per cent of nicotine and 2 per cent of flower of sulphur.

Second—The lime-and-sulphur dip, made with eight pounds of unslacked lime and twenty-four pounds of flower of sulphur to 100 gallons of water. The lime and sulphur should be boild together for not less than two hours, and all sediment allowed to subside before the liquid is placed in the dipping vat.

The owner of the sheep is privileged to choose which one of the above-mentioned dips shall be used for his animals. The department will instruct inspectors to enforce care in dipping sheep, but it assumes the responsibility for loss or damage to such animals, and persons who wish to avoid any risks that may be incident to dipping at the stock-yard should see that their sheep are free from disease before they are shipped to market. J. H. Brigham.
Secretary.

NEW MEXICO AND ARIZONA ABOUT EQUAL.

The Copper Situation, a mining journal published in New York, prints in its most conspicuous column an article headed "Rich Copper Ore; A Splendid Showing by the Copper King of Arizona." The article says: "There is now on exhibition at the offices of the Copper King of Arizona, No. 33 Wall street, a half ton of the richest ore ever extracted from an Arizona mine. It is well worthy the attention of all interested in the red metal." And it then proceeds to give a copy of the assay certificate, dated June 23, 1899, showing 43 1-3 pure copper, the assay being made from the samples on exhibition. This is very good, and it is nothing new to know that fine copper ore comes from Arizona.

But on behalf of New Mexico are presented the following figures taken from a statement of the Philadelphia Smelting and Refining company of Pueblo, of values in more than half a ton of copper ore from Rio Arriba county, not by assay of samples, but of amount actually allowed and paid on the whole shipment.

"From L. B. Prince, Espanola, June 13, 1899.—Net pounds, 1,203; silver, 2 ounces per ton; copper, dry, 43½ per cent."

The similarity between 43 1-3 in Arizona and 43½ in New Mexico strikingly illustrates the sisterly character of the two territories, but one cannot refrain from a little feeling of self-complacency that the preponderance, though slight, is on the side of New Mexico. Of course, assays of picked specimens of this ore run much higher, but 43½ per cent of pure copper will do very well as an average of a trial shipment of over half ton.

Lieutenant Curry Recruiting.

Second Lieutenant George Curry, of Alamogordo, of the 11 regiment of volunteers, has been detailed for recruiting duty. A number of his friends in Otero, Dona Ana and Lincoln counties and in El Paso including a number who were in his company when he was a captain in the rough riders, desired to enlist to accompany him to the Philippines. He telegraphed to the war department to that effect, and was assigned to recruiting service. The 11th regiment is being organized in the Philippines, so the recruits will go there without doing garrison duty in this country. Lieutenant Curry will probably be promoted at an early day. He and his squad will certainly be fighters.

A WONDERFUL CURE OF DIARRHOEA.

A PROMINENT VIRGINIA EDITOR.

Had Almost Given Up, but Was Brought Back to Perfect Health by Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

READ HIS EDITORIAL.

From the Times, Hillsville, Va.

I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and also some testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been brought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow-sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man to-day and feel as well as I ever did in my life. Official Paper of Lincoln County

THE PROPOSED RESERVATION.

Elsewhere in these columns is a letter from Binger Hermann, General Commissioner United States Land Office, Washington, D. C., in which the government's purpose in the protection of forests is set forth in unmistakable terms.

It is not the intention of the EAGLE to assume the position of a counsel to the people of Lincoln County, as to what action they should take regarding this proposed reserve, but simply to publish the letter referred to that the object, conditions and results may be understood by those who may be interested in the matter one way or another.

It is generally conceded by those who have taken the trouble to investigate it, that in inland sections particularly, the rain fall and water supply are dependent greatly on the existence or absence of forests. It is likely that the reader can call to mind an instance where he has had an opportunity to personally observe the results of the devastation of forests; and has seen the water supply of the locality seriously impaired, if not absolutely destroyed.

Should the people of Lincoln county accept these conditions as plausible, then the following should not escape their consideration: The entire territory of southern New Mexico between the Pecos river or the Texas line on the east to the Rio Grande on the west is almost entirely void of timber except that found in the Sacramento, White and Capitan Mountains, the quantity of which is by no means so great that the present rate of consumption will not in a few years exhaust it.

The lumber trade of the Sacramentos is presumably legitimate and is giving employment to many laborers, and is in that respect a great temporary benefit to that section of New Mexico, and no doubt could be so conducted, and profitably too, to the lumber people without any serious injury to the agricultural and stock interests &c., of that section, if a reasonable portion of the forests, particularly unmatured trees, should be preserved. The indiscriminate slaughter of timber is not justifiable under any conditions.

The lumber trade of the Sacramentos is only referred to by incident, and it does not directly concern Lincoln county or the development of our resources. There is probably not an individual any where in southern New Mexico who objects to a reasonable portion of merchantable timber being taken from our forest domain, if it would stop at that, but if two thirds or nine-tenths of it be taken there is nothing left for home consumption and domestic uses. There is probably not more than enough timber in Lincoln county than is necessary to be used in the development of the county's resources, and if such is the case, it would be well to protect it, if it is in danger. If it is not in any danger of being disposed of indiscriminately and to the detriment of home development, then no protection is necessary.

It does not appear to the EAGLE that it is the object of the government in segregating this domain, to in any way interfere with the development of the county's resources, as it is stated in the letter referred to, that it is not the intention of the government to withhold from the general use of the public the areas covered thereby, or to in any way lock up their resources, but that the intent is to maintain and utilize their forest products in a state of the highest continued production for the direct benefit of the people dependent thereon to supply local demands within the state in which the timber grows. Notice the statement, to supply local demands within the state in which the timber grows. It appears that the meaning intended to be conveyed is that this reserve is supposed to prohibit the cutting of timber for the purpose of exporting to markets outside the state, and that matured timber may be cut for any kind of improvements going on in the state or inside the reservation. For example: nobody will be prohibited from the use of timbers for building purposes, for operating mines either on or off the reservation. Neither does it interfere with the vested rights of those who live inside its limits. It is still grazing lands for stockmen; open to miners and prospectors and all kinds of development except homestead entries. As to further settlement of the White Mountains, it is next to impossible for the reason, that there are more engaged in agricultural pursuits on the little streams running out of the White Mountains now than the water supply will furnish irrigation facilities, without which nothing can be grown successfully. The Bonito which is settled from head to mouth is now dry in some places and crops are a failure for want of water to irrigate them.

Many settlers who located lands on these little mountain streams have deserted their homes and left the country. Why? Simply because they could not support their families on them, they were driven off by starvation. It is true, there are many nice farms and beautiful homes on these little rivers, but they contain all the people they will sustain for agricultural purposes, and the water supply in the dry seasons, like the present year, is not sufficient for the amount of land under cultivation; and should the water supply be impaired by the devastation of forests, the agricultural and fruit interests would go with it, and when the water was thus taken the stock interests of the county would also be injured, the best winter ranges being in the mountains; and most, if not all surface water in the county dependent on the rain and snowfall in the mountains.

There is no question but that the portion of territory embraced in this reserve is chiefly a stock and mineral region. If neither of these interests are injured by the restrictions imposed, and the territory already contains as many homesteaders as can gain a livelyhood through agricultural pursuits, and those who are already engaged are not to be interfered with, but on the other hand to be the gainers, as some as stockmen and mine operators, who have the use of matured timbers for all domestic purposes, and the assurance that the supply will not be exhausted by exportation of timber to outside markets, why should any of them oppose it.

If, however, this is not the case, and the phraseology of this letter from the United States Land Commissioner does not mean what it says; and that by setting this territory aside, the development of the County's resources is going to be locked, and great damage is going to result from it, let by all means oppose it, as never before in our history has such opportunities been in reach of the people of Lincoln county, as at present. But before taking action in the matter, it will do no harm to investigate from an unprejudiced standpoint, so that the greatest good may result to Lincoln county in the end. If it is necessary to have a reservation for the protection of timber and water, as large as the one proposed, let us have it. If this one is too large and there is a single section that would be more prosperous without, cut the territory down to suit the conditions, so that the general prosperity of our county shall not be impeded. If there is farming and fruit lands in the Salado, or any where else, leave it open to homesteaders, but find out before acting. If we have enough timber for domestic uses, and for the development of our mining resources in the White Mountains alone, leave the Capitans out of the reservation, as well as the Gallina range which has not been included.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT HIMSELF.

Through an oversight the EAGLE last week failed to mention a serious accident which overtook one of our young nimrods, William Gallacher. He, Marshall Parker, Richard Taliaferro and others were hunting squirrels near White Oaks spring when young Gallacher crossing a pipe line struck his rifle hammer against the pipe, discharged the gun, the contents taking effect in his left arm and shoulder. The ball entered the under side of his arm between the elbow and shoulder and passed out on top of the shoulder between the joint and the neck, making an ugly wound. Dr. M. G. Paden was called and found by probing that no bones were broken. The young hunter is rapidly recovering and when the wound is healed no serious impediment will likely remain to use of the arm. Other youngsters may profit by William's experience and if accidents are to be avoided keep cartridges in the magazine until ready for use and never carry a gun loaded, it only requires a second or two to load and unload a magazine gun.

GRAY GLEANINGS.

Gray, N. M., Sept. 5, 1899.

A sad accident occurred at the Salado on Sunday. The family of Wm. Brown, foreman, at shaft No. 1, were just arriving from their old home to take up their residence here, and when they had almost reached their cottage and were crossing a narrow bridge, one of the horses shied and pushed the other off into the arroyo. Mrs. Wm. Brown, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Tom Brown, were thrown violently out of the back, the elder lady receiving a broken wrist in consequence, and the younger lady a broken limb. The rest of the family, fortunately, escaped unhurt. One of the horses, however, was killed, and the other badly crippled. The people of the community deplore this unfortunate entrance into Gray and hope that brighter days will soon be in store for the sufferers.

C. B. Eddy and several ladies, members of the party traveling in the Company's private car, visited the mines on Saturday.

Among recent visitors at the Salado, we note the Editor of the EAGLE, S. M. Wharton and his wife, and Supt. of Schools, J. A. Riley and his wife.

An additional force of thirty men is expected to reach the mines today. And so the population increases, having been already enlarged within the past week by the arrival of the families of a number of the miners.

A subscription school, taught by Mary Skehan, will begin on Monday, the 11th. inst.

Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken; tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying Electric Bitters; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cts., guaranteed, M. G. Paden's Drug store.

ABOUT THE FOREST RESERVE.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15 1899.

Mr. W. H. Buntain,
Forest Superintendent,
Santa Fe, New Mexico,

Sir:

In making reports upon proposed reserves or upon suggested additions to or eliminations from existing reserves, should you report adversely, you will be careful to submit, in detail, the reasons which lead to your conclusions in the matter; and, in like manner, in all cases in which you recommend the creation of reserves, or aditions to or eliminations from existing reserves, you will cover, in detail, each of the following points:

1. The density, character and size of the timber.

2. The character of the land, whether it is steep, rough or mountainous, and how much, if any, is susceptible of cultivation or adapted to grazing.

3. The probable number of actual settlers on the lands, and when they established themselves there; whether they are there seeking permanent homes, or simply with a speculative intent to obtain the timber or some other prospective advantage; and whether any interests involved will be injured by reserving the lands.

4. Whether the lands are better adapted to forest uses than other purposes, that is, whether the preservation of the timber, for present and future use, and as a water conservative, constitutes the foremost consideration in connection with the lands.

In reporting upon this point, you should show whether the conditions are such as require the preservation of a part, or all, of the timber, keeping in view the forest reservation policy of this office to supply present and future need for timber by providing for the use of matured trees which can be cut without detriment to the reserves. You will endeavor to make it generally understood that it is not intended to withhold from the general use of the public the areas covered thereby, and practically lock up their resources, but that the intent is to maintain and utilize their forest products in a state of the highest continued production for the direct benefit of the people dependent thereon to supply local demands within the state in which the timber grows.

You will also bear in mind that it is frequently as important to embrace within a reservation lands which are covered with a sparse growth of trees, and undergrowth serving as a direct water conservative, as it is in other localities to include densely wooded areas. Where irrigation is a serious question, the matter of insuring conditions favorable to continous water flow, becomes frequently the leading feature in a forest reservation. You should, accordingly, in every case, consider very carefully the bearing which the lands have upon the question of water supply.

5. You should, in each case, report all other facts which may have a material bearing upon the questions involved in considering the advisability of setting the lands apart for forest reservation purposes.

6. You should describe the lands to be reserved (or eliminated) by the lines of survey, or if they are unsurveyed, by the lines as they will be when the official surveys are extended. You should also accompany your recommendation with a diagram showing the lands which you deem should be reserved, or restored to the public domain, as the case may be.

7. In addition to making a personal examination of the lands, you should interview residents of the vicinity who are familiar with the lands in question and obtain statements from them covering the above points, and forward the same for consideration in connection with your report.

8. You should also, in each case, report the newspaper, or newspapers, of general circulation, nearest the land in question, in which it is most desirable that a notice of the proposed reservation (or elimination) of the lands should be published, in order to insure all parties, whose interests may be affected, having timely notice of the contemplated withdrawl (or restoration) of the lands.

Very respectfully,
BINGER HERMANN,
Commissioner.

FAITHFUL TO EACH OTHER.

The disturbing element in the south is the carpet-bagger, who wants to boost himself into office on the negro's vote. He was not raised with the colored man and cares nothing for him and his race further than to use them in politics. The Chicago News contains the following:

"Old memories of the south before the war must have been aroused in the minds of many men who yesterday read of the journey which a Chicagoan, once a slaveholder, had undertaken to save the life of an old time slave. The ex-slave, living in Maryland, had been doomed to die upon the gallows; the master, hundred of miles away, believes his former chattel innocent, and hurries to the rescue. Not even the smoke of war, the vicissitudes of fortune or the passing of nearly forty years has made the white man forget the colored, or the master lose his interest in the faithful servant of the past. There have been many such romances of old slave and old slaveholder since the war, and the hurried ride of the Chicagoan to the aid of his ante bellum servant is one of the most touching stories of them all."

Commenting on this the Houston Post says:

There is a touch of pathos in this which only the true southerner can appreciate. The white man who was raised with the "nigger," played marbles with him, stole away and went swimming and fishing with him, still has an affection for him. The fact is that the only really true friend that the black man has is the white man of the south, and his worst enemy is the misguided individual who doesn't know him."—El Paso Times.

After the Oil Monopoly.

Judge J. W. Crumpacker, of the district court for Bernalillo county, last Tuesday held B. G Wilson New Mexico agent of the Continental Oil Company, to answer before the grand jury upon a charge of violating the territorial commerce law. As general agent of the oil company he declined to secure license for the corporation, which decided to defy the law; the people and the courts. Mr. Wilson can either give $1,000 bond for appearance or go to jail until the grand jury assembles. If the law be finally sustained by higher court, the corporation will have to pay a heavy fine, and the defendant may be both fined and imprisoned. This holding is purely formal in result, as the facts are admitted, the only question being whether the act of the legislature creating the commerce commission is constitutional. It is understood this question will be raised before the supreme court next week on application for a writ of habeas corpus. The solicitor general represented the territory and N. B. Field the defendant.—Chief tain.

NEW GAME LAW

The last session of the legislature changed the game law of the territory as follows: For Lincoln county the act makes it unlawful to kill, wound, snare or trap any quail, wild turkey and etc., or to kill, wound or in any way destroy any antelope, deer, elk or mountain sheep, except that said birds or animals, the animals being with horns, may be killed with a gun during the months of October, November and December. This date also applies to all the southern counties, but in the more Northern counties the season opens one month earlier.

WOOL MARKET QUIET.

According to the American wool and cotton Reporter of 31st ult. the last week in August has been quietest experienced in the wool market for months, actual sales aggregating less than four million pounds. The consumption of wool in this country is greater than for many years and it is doubtful if it has ever been surpassed in amount, and the needs of the mills must be supplied by domestic wools unless the latter advance to a point which renders importations possible.

THOUSAND DOLLARS PER MAN.

The Daily Output of a Mine at Hillsboro Is Great.

The big strike of $1,600 per ton ore at the Trippe holds out handsomely and appears to be continuous for a distance of 900 feet in length, at least. In depth this magnificent ore body has been probed 50 feet without a fault of any description in the formation. miners are taking out $1,000 worth of ore per day to the man and an armed guard has been placed over the stockpile of glittering mineral that is so rapidly accumulating. The mine will certainly add a million dollars or two to the already ample fortune of Senator Andrews.—Hillsboro Advocate.

FIFTY MILLION COFFEE DRINKERS IN AMERICA.

Why the Famous Firm of Arbuckle Bros. Control the Bulk of the Coffee Trade.

It is estimated that there are fifty million coffee drinkers in America. We have long since passed the mark of being the largest coffee consumers in the world, one third of the entire coffee grown being used in America. This proportion has been steadily growing since 1864 when the total amount of coffee imported was only 79,000 tons.

From Brazil, Peru, Java and Sumatra, Ceylon, India, Africa, the Philippines, and the islands of the tropical seas, bags, bales and barrels pour into New York city every year by the hundreds of thousands. From New York they are distributed to all parts of the country.

But the greater portion of the coffee imported is retained in New York by the famous firm of Arbuckle Bros.—the largest coffee dealers in the world. They buy more than all other dealers combined, and the name Arbuckle has become synonymous for immense dealings in the favorite breakfast beverage. This has given them great prestige among coffee growers in every part of the world; and as large buying always makes for good buying, it is not surprising that Arbuckles' has become famous as the standard of coffee values, a standard no other house has been able to reach.

Millions of homes in every section of the country to day use nothing but Arbuckles' coffee. The test of experience has taught the careful housewife that her faith not only means money saved, but that she is supplying the best coffee that money can procure for the coffee drinkers of her household.

One immense advantage possessed by Arbuckle Bros. is that of being able to deliver the coffee berry to the consumer with all its delightful aroma and flavor intact. This they do by a process, the patents of which they exclusively hold, covering the many little pores of the berry thereby holding in its goodness. The ingredients used in the process are entirely wholesome and nothing deleterious is used to mar the delicacy of flavor or taste.

Part of the success of Arbuckles' coffee has been due to the generous and unique system used to popularize it. In each package of the coffee there is a list of articles. With each package in which the list is found the purchaser is entitled to a definite part of some article to be selected by him or her from the list, subject only to the condition that the signature on the package is to be cut out and returned to Arbuckle Bros. Everybody should see this list.
