CHAMP CLARK ON REPUBLICAN MONEY.

"The financial bill passed by this congress is the most monstrous measure ever placed on the statutes. It is sometimes called the Overstreet bill, but it should be called the "Atlantic City bill," because it was concocted there in vacation by a corterie of republican magnates in secret conclave. In my mind Atlantic City is the poorest place in America to ascertain the settled, sober cause of the American people.

That bill not only established the gold standard, which the republican party never promised, but it retired the greenbacks, and let me say that if the republican party had promised to retire the greenbacks there never would have been a republican congress to enact such a law and there never would have been a republican president to sign such a measure.

I will not argue the greenback question, I have simply this to say There never has been a war waged by our country in which the greenback did not give us the victory, and if the greenbacks were good enough in the civil war to induce our people to leave their homes, their wives and little children to risk their lives on a thousand battlefields in the defense of their country, then it ought to be good enough for gentlemen who make their living by reclining in the shade of Wall street, clipping gold coupons off coin bonds. If the greenbacks were not good money then as a matter of common decency we owe it to the old soldiers even at this late day to pay them the diffence between gold and greenbacks from 1861 to 1865.

By the Atlantic City bill congress advocated the paramount function of government—the money making function—and turned it over to an association of national bankers, a function too vast and too dangerous fo be given to any citizen or corporation. That system broadens the money question and puts it on a higher plane on which Andrew Jackson fought Nicholas Biddle and the old bank of the United States, and as he conquered in the thirties so will we conquer under the leadership of the great Nebraskan.

I repeat that while we maintain our position of 1896 in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the consent of any other nation on earth, the republicans have changed theirs and have changed it radically. I do not have to make assertions or quote democrats to show that we are right on the money question. I will quote you a republican of the highest degree. Certainly republicans ought to believe each other—for nobody else will believe them.

My republican witness says: "I am for largest use of silver in the currency of this country. I would not dishonor it. I would give it equal credit with gold. I would make no discrimination. I would use both metals as money and discredit neither. I want the double standard."

These potent words, that were flatly spoken are like apples of gold in pictures of silver. They are clear and unmistakable in their meaning. Now my republican friends, who are engaged in the condemned business of worshiping the golden calf, what orator and statesman do you suppose made that forcible declaration in favor of silver, which I have just quoted? It wasn't Silver Dick Bland, God bless him. It was a man who you delight to honor. Don't all fall off your seats in a fit ofappoplexy when I tell his name. It was the head man of the republican pie counter, William McKinley, president of the United Stated, now running for re-election on the republican ticket, on a gold standard platform after signing a gold standard bill. He is the man who said it. He said it on he floor of the American congress. It is so printed in the Record. You can't deny it. These words were spoken by Wm. McKinley, your idol, with front of brass and feet of clay—spoken by him while he was yet free and before he had fallen under the malign influence of Mark Hanna and his foul crew of political buccaneers. What is more, McKinley in addition to speaking in favor of silver, voted for it and voted for it repeatedly. He voted for the original Bland silver bill, which was a bill for the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at 16 to 1. He voted for the Bland bill with the Allison amendments, and when Rutherford B. Hays vetoed the Bland-Allison bill, Wm. McKinley voted to pass it over the Hayes veto, which was the noblest act of his public career."

MURDER AND RAPINE OF MANZANO DESPERADOES.

A communication to the Albuquerque Citizen gives the following history of the gang of desperate characters rendezvousing in a pass of the Manzano mountains:

"On August 1st the Citizen published a communication from Ada Roper, from Eastview, Valencia county, giving some fa about half a dozen murders which had been committed in the Manzano mountains, by a gang of horse thieves whose rendezvous is in Abo pass, and by a similar gang living at Talica and Manzano.

Not only murders have been committed, but the gangs have absolutely impoverished the small ranch and stock owners by presistently stealing their horses, cattle and sheep, and still these desperadoes go unpunished.

These crimes, which have been going on in the Manzano mountains for years, have been confirmed on many occasions, but a Mexican gentleman who arrived in the city yesterday, and who called at this office to substantiate the truth of the Roper communication, states positively that on his trip the other day through these mountains, he saw the decomposed remains of several men alluded to in the roper letter, and that it is common talk at Eastview, among those who dared not report these crimes, that recently two white men and an Indian were held up, robbed and shot by these desperadoes.

Our informant warns American miners and prospectors, and others, who go to look up ranch property, to steer clear of the Abo pass in the Manzano mountains, for crime is rampant and the murderers have no respect for age or youth."

Lincoln county has suffered great losses from the raids and high-handed deviltry of these Manzano vampires for years, and they continue to drive away the sheep, cattle and horses of our ranchmen to this hell-infected district, where they defy arrest and mock the ranchman who asks for the return of his property. The Alcalde, who is one of the vermin himself, reigns supreme on a self-erected throne, over the destinies of the Manzano district, and the Caucasian who unfortunately falls a victim to trial in his court is lucky to miss the force of his powder, and unless sufficient money can be produced to pay an exacting ransom, the prisoner's sentence is in most cases transportation ocross the Great Divide

GRAN QUIVIRA'S HIDDEN TREASURE.

One of the curious things in this curious world is the effort of an aged woman, blind and penniless, to locate the legendary treasure at the ruins of the Gran Quivira, situated about two days' drive from this city. The woman is the widow of an old soldier named Corbin, who some five years ago squatted on 160 acres of government land which includes the ruins. Corbin and his wife lived in a tent in this city and for years kept up a fruitless search for the supposed treasure. Then they left for a time, and Corbin died and Mrs. Corbin returned here. Three years ago the old lady appeared on the scene alone and pitched her tent near the ruins. She claimed to have a map drawn by her husband, showing the probable location of the chest of gold and Spanish jewelry which she sought to unearth. There is no water in the region for miles around, and she arranged with a herder boy to bring her wood and water, and managed to keep a scant supply of provisions on hand through the generosity of E. A. Dow, the general merchant, and others, residing near Tajibue. She had cords attached to the tent and fastened to stakes set here and there about the ruins so as to enable her, notwithstanding her blindness, to roam about the ruins, using the chords as a guide to retrace her steps. Of late a Mr. Kleber, who lives on one of the Dow ranches, has been sending her water by his herder boy, and not long since she was found away out on the prairie completely lost and mystified as to her location. She said she had set out to reach Albuquerque or Santa Fe to organize a company with $1,200 capital stock, a sum necessary for carrying forward her researches at the ruins. On this trip she had a bottle of water, a saw and a pistol. The herder boy conducted her back to her tent and notified Mr. Dow, who sent a team and conveyed her to this city, where she attempted to secure funds by giving lectures. Becoming a burden on the charitably inclined, the Benevolent Association purchased her a ticket to Colorado Springs, where she claimed to have friends who wauld advance the necessary money and send a guide with her to the ruins of the Gran Quivira.

—Citizen.

LINCOLN COUNTY FUED AKIN TO KENTUCKY.

El Capitan gives the following account of a family war which has been raging between two factions of youngsters in southern Lincoln county:

"In the justice's court on Saturday, Arch Parker, aged 13, and Young and Gus Barrett, aged respectively 17 and 11, were each placed under a $100 peace bond for six months, the fathers of the boys being sureties. The trouble was that the boys were continually fighting among themselves, and about two weeks ago the Parker boy caught the smaller of the Barrett boys and slit both his ears with a knife, threatening to cut them off the next time he caught him. A short time later Young Barrett, on horseback, chased the Parker boy through the yard of Mr. Watkins, running over his little child and injuring it so badly that it has been unable to walk, though it is now getting better. Mr. Watkins made the complaint upon which the peace bonds were made."

FOR COMMISSIONER DISTRICT NO. 3.
Ed. C. Pfingsten.

A WASHINGTON HAND PRESS.

The EAGLE is making preparations for power machinery, and will sell a Washington hand press at a very reasonable figure. This is a first class machine, and is as good as new. It must go; who wants it?

That Roswell democratic legislative convention was a hot number, and a Texas importation, a kind of a political Ananias whose politics, judging from the phraseology of his harangue before that convention, is a mongrel of republicanism, populism and democracy, without a predominant feature of either, made an ass of himself. This gentleman of cosmopolitan politics is the law partner of U. S. Lateman the nominee of the democrats of this district for representative in the 34th legislature. He claims to be a Texas democrat, but he most certainly has lost the history of his ancestry, which if properly traced would show him to have evoluted from a Maine republican into a Texas populist, and is now merging into a state of semi-eruptive lunacy which persistently followed will land him inside the walls of that territorial institution of public charity at Las Vegas, called the asylum. This gentleman of scattered convictions answers to the name of Gatewood and lives at Carlsbad. He says he is a democrat, but it is the opinion of the EAGLE that he has either lied or is alkalied.

S. M. Wharton, editor of the White Oaks EAGLE, is making an effort to collect his notes against J. H. Lightfoot for the purchase price of the plant with which the "minor" is printed, all the notes being now due. This is probably the source of the rumor which was current last week to the effect that the "minor" was soon to suspend publication.—El Capitan.

The "miner" does not owe the EAGLE a cent on the purchase price of the "miner" plant.

J. F. Hinkle, of Lower Penasco, Chaves Co., is a candidate for the democratic nomination for councilman from this district. Mr. Hinkle has served this district in the House of the territorial legislature and made a very creditable record. J. E. Wharton, of this place, is also mentioned as a candidate for the nomination.

Hon. Silas Alexander, Attorney W. E. Kelly and Elfego Baca, all of Socorro, and Col. G. W. Prichard, of this city, are candidates for the judgship of this district, to succeed Hon. Chas. Leland, whose resignation takes effect September, 5th.

The Bonito country, which is the agricultural district of Lincoln county, is experiencing an off year. The ordinary yield will be cut short nearly one half this season.

"WHOM THE GODS WOULD DESTROY THEY FIRST MAKE MAD."

The madness of Roosevelt, as referred to in a recent speech of Ex-Governor Altgeld, is exhibited in the paragraphs below:

"Referring to the Democrats, he said:

'They stand for lawlessness and disorder, for dishonesty and dishonor, for license and disaster at home and cowardly shrinking from duty abroad.'"

After saying this is a personal insult to the 6,500,000 men who supported Mr. Bryan in 1896 and to the 11,000,000 who are going to support him in 1900, Gov. Altgeld continues:

"The question arises—Is this the language of a sincere and discreet man, and therefore worthy of notice, or is it simply the hysterical rant of a political montebank and therefore to be treated with contempt?"

Altgeld then asks who Roosevelt is, and continues:

"I will notice only a few of the incidents of his public career which throw light on the question of his sincerity and discretion. I find it recorded that some years ago he was a member of the New York legislature, and on one occasion he roused the hopes of the country by making a speech against a class which he called the criminal rich. But he at once dashed these hopes by turning around and voting with and for these very criminal rich whom he had denounced.

In the years 1897-98 he held a Federal office in Washington, and in order to escape paying his taxes in New York he signed an affidavit and swore before the ever-living God that he was not a citizen of New York. If this was true, then under the constitution of New York he would not have been eligible to the governorship of that state. But, subsequently accepting a nomination and election to that office, he showed that he did not believe his own affidavit. This being so, may it not be that he does not believe the charge that he has made against us?

It is next recorded that he entered the Spanish war in Cuba, and, although his regiment was commanded by another man, he succeeded by means of that modern weapon of warfare known as a newspaper bureau in winning more renown in a week than Gen. Grant did in four years of hard fighting, and he seems to be the only man on the continent who boasts of having with his own hand shot down and killed a Spaniard who was fleeing from the battle field. In his book he says: 'As they turned to run I closed in and fired twice, missing the first and killing the second.' He then boasts that he had considered this feat unique, and so it was. He is the first brave man to shoot an enemy in the back.

Again, the modern historians tell us that it was he who first demonstrated to mankind that, however useful the camera may be to science, to art and to industry, its true mission is to develop tin-plate heroes."

A BIG SALE OF NEW MEXICO CATTLE.

Folsom, N. M., Aug. 8—The 2,000 head of two-year-old and 2,000 head of yearling Hereford steers sold by H. M. Porter, of Denver, to A. D. Spaugh, of Converse county, Wyoming, are today being loaded into cars for shipment to Mr. Spaugh's Wyoming ranch. The yearlings brought $20 per head and the two-year-olds $25 a head, making the total purchase price paid in cash to Mr. Porter $90,000. This is one of the largest sales of cattle recorded in New Mexico in the past ten years.—Optic.

THE COMPROMISE STRIKE.

Heinlman and Crary have bonded the Compromise property west of the North Homestake, and have ore now in sight that runs $24 to $32 per ton.

SOME POINTS ON HOLDING A MINING CLAIM.

The locator of a mining claim who fails to do the required annual assessment, but who resumes work upon the claim before any other party has made a location on the same claim, has been given by the courts a quasi title in cases where another party had located upon the claim subsequent to the resumption of work by the original locator. The most recent decision on that question, that we call to mind, was by Judge Hallett, of Colorado. He decided a case involving that principle in favor of the original locator. He held that the second locator acquired no rights by filing on the claim after the first claimant had recommenced work; that any rights a "jumper" might have would begin only with the first stroke of his pick, and could not be based upon any alleged neglect or lapse of the previous locator, provided that such previous locator had resumed work before the jumper had made his location. Judge Hallett's decision has not been reversed by any higher court. His decision in effect is that the annual assessment work required by law is not for the purpose of keeping a live title to the claim, but to prevent such title from collapse; that it made no difference whether the annual work in question was done or not, so long as the first locator had asserted his rights in the following year before any attempt had been made to relocate the claim. That is, if a man did not do the required amount of work up to a certain time his claim lapsed; but if, however, he began work on the claim during the following year, before another locator had intervened, he reestablished his rights, his location then being practically an original location, and no other locator could claim title by relating back any lapse of which the first locator had not taken advantage in time. The action of the original locator in such cases is risky, and he is liable to have trouble. If he fail to perform the necessary assessment work his claim is jumpable under the law, and it were better to take no such chances as those taken in the case in question. The matter is here referred to in answer to sundry inquiries on the subject.—M. and S. Press.

SHOT AT HIS NEIGHBOR BUT MISSED HIS AIM.

A few days ago C. B. Knowlton fired his six shooter several times at F. M. Crockett, but none of them took effect. Knowlton and Crockett own farms near each other on the Rio Bonito, near Angus, and the attack on Crockett grew out of a previous difficulty between Knowlton and two of Crockett's boys, who claim that Knowlton fired his gun at them, accusing them of stealing his apples, as an excuse for wanting to take their lives.

Crockett was fired on by Knowlton near the latter's place while Crockett was returning from P. G. Peter's store at Angus, where he had been for supplies. At the first shot which was in very close range, Crockett jumped from his wagon, on the opposite side from his assailant, who was advancing on horseback and shooting every time he caught sight of him. The shooting excited the team which ran away with the wagon and left Crockett unprotected, when he took to his heels and ran for life. He was pursued a short distance by Knowlton who held his pistol in hand but did not fire any more after Crockett left the wagon.

Mr. Crockett went to Capitan after officers who arrested Knowlton and took him to Capitan for a preliminary hearing. He waived examination and was placed under a bond of $5,000 to await the action of the grand jury. He is now behind the bars at the county bastile.

OF LOCAL INTEREST.

The potato crop on the Bonito is a failure this year.

A "V." ranch cow boy was killed by lightning last week. Name not known.

Judge Bellomy is putting a new roof on one of his buildings on White Oaks Avenue, east of Ah Nue Laundry.

Jones Taliaferro brought in a number of tons of lead carbonate ore from Gallina Monday. He is going to ship it to El Paso.

L. H Rudisille, administrator of the estate of John Piehler, sold at auction the goods and chattels of that estate here Saturday.

Hotel Ozanne is being completely overhauled and refitted. When improvements underway are completed this will be akin to a palace.

Lin Branum was in the burg from the ranch Tuesday. Lin says rain is badly needed and stock must suffer unless it falls in the next few days.

Mrs. Dr. Lane and Mrs. John W. Owen were delegates to the Baptist Association on Bonito this week. Dr. Lane and Miss Carrie Simms also attended from here.

N. C. Shaffer, of Oakfield, Ohio, an acquaintance of Frank J. Sager, came in with Mr. Sager, Friday. He is looking for a business location somewhere in this country.

John W. Owen and William Thompson have purchased a new well drilling machine and will begin sinking a well for Owen on a ranch he has just located northeast of town.

The White Oaks Saloon opened in the Fauvet block Tuesday morning. Five cent beer is a new departure for White Oaks, and as a consequence a good deal of the beverage is departing.

Captain D. W. Roberts, of Nogal, is in the city. He and A. Cox have just opened a copper property in the Oscura Mountains. They have shipped one car load of ore that paid them $48.00. They have 100 tons more on the dump ready for shipment.

First payment on Boston Boy property was made to Messrs. Heiniman and Crary Tuesday. This concluded the final sale of the property and means the erection of a new stamp mill and an additional large force of men employed when the work begins.

F. M. Crockett was in the city Saturday from Bonito, with vegetables. Mr. Crockett says the old-fashioned, ring-tailed coon has migrated from Alabama to the White Mountains of New Mexico, and that Rio Bonito is alive with them since corn is in roasting-ear.

I. N. Bailey, wife and daughter, Mrs. Henry Fitz, were here from Spring Ranch Saturday. White Oaks is still holding her own against all trading points in the country. Spring Ranch is nearly the same distance from Roswell as from White Oaks, and they must come through Lincoln to reach here.

"My baby was terribly sick with the diarrhoea,', says J. H. Doak, of Williams, Oregon. "We were unable to cure him with the doctor's assistance, and as a last resort we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I am happy to say it gave immediate relief and a complete cure." Buy it of Dr. Paden.

BRIEF SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF WILLIAM F. MONTEITH.

Through kindness of Miss Henrietta Monteith, sister of the deceased, the EAGLE has secured the following information regarding the life and business career of William Ferguson Monteith, who died here on July 29th.

William Ferguson Monteith was the fourth son of Robert and Mabel Monteith, of Melbourne, Province of Quebec, Canada; was born February 16th, 1844, and was educated at St. Francis College, Richmond, Quebec. He began his business career at Portland, Maine, where he resided for several years as one of the successful merchants of that city. From Portland he moved to Alabama, from whence after a short time he moved to Topeka, Kansas, and engaged in a very successful merchandising business. After the death of his wife at Topeka, little more than three years ago, he came to New Mexico, and 8 months ago to this place, where he was engaged in mining promotions up to the time of his death.

Miss Henrietta Monteith, his sister, who made the journey here last week from Melbourne, Canada, in an effort to reach him before life had departed, speaks touchingly of her brother's home relations, the happy ties of which were first broken at the death of his wife at Topeka, about three years ago. He was devotedly attached to his family, was an affectionate and loving husband and a faithful brother. His death is deeply mourned by his family and a large circle of friends left at different places. His remains will be interred at Topeka, Kansas, by the side of his wife.

WAR IN RABENTON.

Jake Hicks and Wallace Schartzer had war in Rabenton last week, and but for bad marksmanship there necessarily would have been a double funeral, as a number of shots were fired with the best of intentions, but all went wide of the mark.

Jicarilla Placers.

We are experiencing a good healthy boom in the Jicks at present. About ten families are now in this vicinity of the camp.

The American Placer Co. is working a force of 15 men, and are rapidly getting machinery in place. Johnson and son are superintending the erection of the big hydraulic machine, and W. M. Lane is in charge of the well drilling outfit. Lane is going right down, and if there is any water between here and Pekin, China, Billie will get it.

Max Wienberger is here a month for the benefit of his health and incidentally to look after a number of prospects under his control.

Mr. McBrayer is working the Geneva under some kind of lease or contract, for E. H. Talbot.

John Brotherton has struck good ore on one of his claims recently.

Wiener, Wienberger and Simms are pushing development on their company property.

A Mr. Davis, of Breckenridge, Texas, and family are here, and Mr. Davis is working for the Placer Co.

Col. S. L. Bean has spent a good deal of his time in the "Jicks" this month.

The camp is looking up, and mining prospects for the future are very promising.

HORSES AND MULES TRANSPORTED TO AFRICA.

It is said that since the South African war commenced England has spent many thousands of pounds in the United States for supplies. The greater portion of that amount has been spent for horses and mules. About 18,000 mules and 8,000 horses have been shipped from this country to South Africa, at an average cost of $60 to $75 each, respectively. This is one of the reasons for the jump in prices of our horses and mules, and our own wars in Cuba, Porto Rica and the Philippines have added materially to the demand.

There is little reason to suspect that the demand will be less for sometime to come and prices may yet go higher and higher, owing to the fact that horses and mules have been a drag in the markets for several years and breeding, as a consequence, greatly reduced.

The individual who had sufficient foresight to invest in horses at $5 a head, or mules at a low figure, or to hold on to those possessed, will double and thribble his capital in the next two years.

It will be several years before breeders can so increase the supply as to impair the demand.

WAR HORSES THAT WERE PENSIONED.

A pension was granted in the Unite States to the horse named Comanche which belonged to Captain Keoh, a near relative of General Custer. It was the only horse which escaped the massacre in which Custer was killed, and was stationed at Ft. Riley, Kansas, with the 7th Cavalry, Custer's old regiment. His pension is sufficient to pay for his transportation wherever he goes, and also for his forage. He is cared for by a man who does nothing else. He is saddled, briddled, equipped and led out for inspection, yet no one rides on his saddle. He has been much sought after by showmen, but all their offers have been declined. He will be kept as long as life lasts, and after that his skeleton will probably be sent to Smithsonian Institute. The horse which carried the German Emperor through the Fronco-German war also is in receipt of a pension.

The Great Presidential Campaign of 1900.

The wars of America have, heretofore, settled affairs of state. Great questions of policy, of national motives and national conclusions have been answered as soon as the battle smoke cleared away, and the victor realized his victory. The war with Spain is unlike its predecessors. It has not answered questions, but has created problems which may not be solved lightly. These problems are being formulated by the political parties, and before they can be definitely settled at the ballot box it is necessary that the people be informed in regard to the situation. The result of the campaign of 1900 will make a broad mark upon the page of history; it will doubtless establish the policy of the great Republic of America for a quarter of a century. It is vastly important, therefore, that every citizen shall study the situation through that best of mediums, a great newspaper. The Semi Weekly Republic which affords a comprehensive view of political situation in all its bearings. It publishes the new news. The Semi Weekly Republic is a Democratic paper, but it offers to its readers the news regarding all the political parties, and this without prejudice. It is a fair newspaper. Its telegraph and cable news service has been proved to be the very best employed by a modern paper. Its special features are unsurpassed. It is the newspaper for the reader who has not access to a daily paper.

News features, art, and literature combine to make the Republic's Sunday Magazine a specially attractive weekly magazine. The half-tone illustrations printed in this magazine surpass anything ever attempted by a newspaper. These products of photography are worth the price of the paper. Special articles by trained writers on the news and the subjects engaging the public attention are prepared for the Republic's Sunday Magazine. A distinctly useful and attractive feature of this magazine is the fashion department. Always reliable and up with the times, the ladies find the fashion page a delight. Indeed, The Republic's Sunday Magazine appeals to every member of the family.

The subscription price of the Semi-Weekly Republic is $1.00 per year. The Republic Sunday Magazine $1.25 per year. Both papers are now being offered at the very low price of $1.50 for one year. To secure this low rate both must be ordered and paid for at the same time.

Address all orders to THE REPUBLIC, St. Louis, Mo.
