EXCHANGE BANK BURGLARIZED.

Vault Blown Open, Safe Partially Demolished, but the Strong Box Untouched.

DAYBREAK DROVE AWAY OPERATORS.

The first burglary attempted on an extensive scale in Lincoln county, occurred Monday night or Tuesday morning, when burglars entered the Exchange Bank, blew open the vault, and tried their hand on a Disbold safe that held the bank's cash. Just when the burglars began operations is, of course, unknown, for the light of day, which is the dread of all yeggmen, caught them before their work was completed, and they got no money, but made their escape.

The physical evidences show that the building was entered through a rear window, the latch of which was broken. The janitor, on approaching the building in the morning, noticed the open window, and when reaching the front found the door had also been pried open and propped back. Frank J. Sager, the cashier, was immediately notified, and hastened to the bank.

Upon reaching the bank Mr. Sager discovered that the vault had been blown open and entered, and that, apparently, repeated efforts had been made to blow open the safe. The outer section of the door to the safe had been blown off; other shots had been placed that had stripped off another section of the stubborn door, and, to some extent, warping the body of the safe; but daylight, added to the marvelous resisting power of the finest steel, frustrated the efforts of the yeggmen and when they left the job two powerful sections, with the bolt work intact, still shut them from the interior, besides still another door to the inner compartment which held the cash.

During the day the bank secured the services of some machinists from the shops to remove the remaining obstructions to an entrance to the safe. These workmen, armed with the most modern tools, were hours in accomplishing this purpose; and this in itself shows how far the burglars were from their spoil, after what was likely an all-night's attempt. Nitro-glycerine was, no doubt, the explosive that was used in the work on the vault and safe, and the fact that the vault was scarcely damaged, except in effecting an entrance, is rather conclusive evidence that the operators understood how to obtain maximum results with a minimum of noise.

The night favored the burglars; for a severe blizzard had blown the preceding day, raged throughout the night of the burglary and everybody was seeking comfort in their homes. The air was full of sounds, the wind was making an awful din and the temperature was near zero. So, it is nothing wonderful that the explosions aroused no one on such a night, and that the burglars had a long period to work their fell purpose without interruption. Burglars, too, have some means by which they can deaden the sound of an explosion, and most noted evidences of this is their ability to crack banks in the heart of cities and get away with the loot. Anyone, then, recalling the severity of the storm can readily understand how their own efforts were aided by nature and little risk they suffered in detection.

The day following continued blustery and very cold, and no trace, whatever, has been obtained of the perpetrators. An improvised dark lantern, a coil of fuse, a pick, used to effect an entrance to the building, a chisel

QUITE HANDY FOR LECTURER

Portable Reading Box Equipped With Storage Battery, Electric Light and Manuscript Rollers.

The lecturer and the stump speaker who uses manuscript will hail with joy the invention of two Californians. This is a portable reading box equipped with a storage battery and electric light and rollers for the manuscript. The front and side of the box are hinged and open when it is to be used for lecturing. At other times they fasten, and the whole can be carried by a strap in the top like a grip. The battery is along the back, in the bottom, and the light comes down from the top in front, shedding its rays over the speaker's manuscript, which is pasted together in one long strip and passes over rollers being turned by a handle at the side. With such an apparatus a lecturer need not dread speaking in a poorly lighted hall, and those who use it for outdoor oratory can always count on a well-illuminated manuscript on the darkest night. The front, it will be understood, lets down completely while the top is raised only a few inches.

Substitute for Platinum.

A substitute for platinum in electric light bulbs is much to be desired. This metal is very rare and costly, and even the minute pieces in the 250 million electric lamps manufactured yearly have a total value of more than $500,000. The proposition to use iron wire in its place has now been made by Dr. H. J. S. Sand, of Nottingham University College. Hitherto only platinum wire has been satisfactorily sealed into the bases of the bulbs on a commercial scale, but Dr. Sand claims a method of sealing iron wire vacuum-tight into glass, and has made a successful demonstration of his process.

Novel Stage Effect.

A novel and brilliant stage effect is said to have been the idea of an actress of Charlottenburg. Miniature lamps carried as personal decoration in fancy dances have had a pleasing appearance, but this German performer has sought something more sensational by covering her costume with stripes of finely divided metal, and bringing each stripe into the circuit of a small electric current of high voltage and high rate of oscillation. On a darkened stage, the figure appears in a wild and startling garb of ribbons of lightning.

Alternating Current.

An alternating current of electricity plunges back and forth through the filament in an incandescent lamp 120 times a second

USING TELEPHONE IN MINES

Miners Get Used to Racket and Seem to Have No Trouble in Conversing Over Wire.

With the extension of the long distance telephone system as far west as Denver it is now possible to talk from Chicago to the bottom of some of the deepest mines in the Rockies.

At Idaho Springs, where the Newhouse tunnel has been run under the mountains for over three miles to connect a network of underground workings, there is a mine now down 2,500 feet. This mine, like many others, has its own telephone system which is connected with the surface telephone lines. At the bottom of the deepest shaft, 2,500 feet under the mountain, there is now a telephone instrument, and standing there in the bowels of the earth one can call up Chicago.

Of course telephoning in a mine isn't quite as easy as it is in a sound proof telephone booth, especially if the great drills are working. Nevertheless the miners get used to the racket and seem to have no trouble talking over the telephone, though to others it is almost impossible at first few attempts.

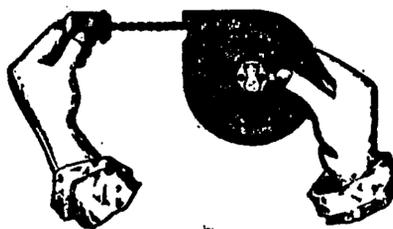

They tried talking to Chicago last summer, when the arrival of the long distance telephone caused almost as big a sensation in Colorado as did the first railroads. It is a common occurrence to talk with Denver, forty miles away, from some of the subterranean workings in the Rocky mountains.

The telephone instruments in the mines are specially constructed with a view of protecting their delicate parts from the dampness. At Idaho Springs there is a regular telephone system under one of the mountains where there are over a hundred mines, all of them tapped by an underground railway through which the telephone wires run.

which takes the place of an extension cord and light, says Popular Electricity. Provided with an attachment plug, 15 feet of cord, a crank on one side of the case for winding up the cord and a standard socket in the center on the other side, the equipment affords a convenient, self-supported light and an enclosure for the unused cord.

Striking Electrical Sign.

A very striking electrical sign has been set up in Denver, says Scientific American. The sign represents a skyrocket shooting from the ground to a height of 150 feet, where it explodes into hundreds of sparks that fall in a shower to the ground. This effect is produced by successively illuminating a string of lamps running up the side of the building to the top of a tall framework on the roof. Over 1,000 lamps are used to produce the effect.

It is reported that a scientist has invented a process by which cream can be separated from milk by the use of electricity. But experiments have not yet been carried forward to a point where its practicability is fully assured.

BEST BROWN BREAD

RECIPE FOR THE EXCELLENT BOSTON PRODUCT.

Enthusiastic Easterners Declare No Article of Food is More Delicious, and There is Much Truth in Statement.

Every housekeeper longs to excel in the art—for it is an art—of bread making. There is no article that appears more often on our tables than bread, yet good home-made bread is seldom found.

Boston brown bread is not in the same class as white or even graham bread, for it is lightened with sour milk and soda and steamed until almost done, then baked a few minutes in a very hot oven. It is not like "the bread mother made," but far better, especially if you put raisins or currants or finely-chopped dates in it. This, eaten hot with fresh, unsalted butter and an accompaniment of hot Boston baked beans and a cup of steaming Java, enriched with real cream, should make you thankful that you are numbered among the advocates of "plain living and high thinking."

Such a meal needs no prelude nor entree, and dessert seems superfluous.

Boston brown bread requires two mixing bowls; in one, sift one cup of rye, or whole wheat flour, one cup of corn meal, two cups of graham flour and one teaspoon of salt. In the other bowl place a cup of New Orleans molasses, a tablespoon of sugar and one tablespoon of soda.

With the molasses, sugar and soda, mix two cups of sour milk, or buttermilk, and while it is foaming stir it into the bowl of flour and salt. Mix to a smooth batter, beating well for several minutes. It should be of a consistency to stir easily, and break when poured from the spoon, but not to run.

With some molasses you may need to add from a spoonful to a cupful of warm water to make it right. Butter the molds well and fill two-thirds full, as it will rise. Cook in a steamer, or lacking this, tie the cover on tightly and place in a kettle of boiling water. Cover the kettle, also, and keep boiling for three hours, looking from time to time to see that the water in the kettle is not boiled away. When necessary to replenish, use boiling water.

At the end of three hours, take the cans, or molds, from the boiler, remove the lids and set in a hot oven until a crust is formed on the top of the loaf. The quantities given should make three loaves; it may be baked instead of steamed, but is not so tender, nor so moist. When it is not convenient to use sour milk and soda, substitute sweet milk and baking powder, but use a teaspoon of soda to neutralize the acid in molasses. If water is used—and some bakers think it gives a more tender loaf—add a tablespoon of butter to give richness.

For Sunday Night Supper,

The little boneless herring that come in glasses are delicious for supper if they are soaked in cold water for an hour, washed through several waters and then drained dry and cooked in butter with a few drops of lemon juice. Persons who object to the smoky flavor find the herrings are much improved by the soaking. Rubbed to a paste with a little butter and a minced olive or two, the herring made delicious sandwiches. The unsalted pickles, liked so much by the Germans, are also favored as a mixture with the herring.

Rusk.

Two teacups of raised dough, one teacup sugar, half cup of butter, two well-beaten eggs, flour enough to make a stiff dough; set to rise, and when light mold into high biscuit and let rise again; sift sugar and cinnamon over the top and place in oven.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

Senatorial Trifles Cost Much Money

WASHINGTON.—The vanities, follies and eccentricities of statesmen are brought a trifle further into the limelight through the secretary of the senate's annual report, made public in congress. It discloses the little odds and ends of luxury and comfort near a senator's heart, when it can be obtained at government expense.

From May 1 to June 28 there were 238 cases of apollharis splits furnished the senate, costing $1,856. Taxicabs for taking senators home at the close of sessions cost $110. Twenty-six boxes of lemons were used during the month of July last year. They cost more than $175. It required two barrels of granulated sugar, costing $36.33, to sweeten them.

Five gallons of witchhazel cost $3.25. One dozen bottles soda mint and pepsin tablets to cure indigestion were purchased for $44.20. Three large bottles of bromo seltzer were worth $2. Nineteen dozen of assorted hair brushes cost $2.20. Ten cases of soap were obtained for $27.50. Twenty-four dozen whisk brooms aggregated $50.

One bag of ground alum salt cost $1; two ounces of quince seed, 20 cents; one quart of castor oil, 40 cents; one dram oil rose, $1, and two bottles of salhepatica, 90 cents. Two thousand quinine pills were bought. The small items of the pharmacy and toilet cost $215.47. One pound of snuff, to replenish the two boxes just within the senate chamber cost 80 cents.

The items in the report, printed in fine type, cover over more than 700 pages. Any one who has a lurking suspicion that senators don't imbibe water freely should glance at the record of $1,834 spent for apollinaris water. More than $3,000 was expended for other mineral waters.

A number of senators drew practically nothing against their annual allowance of $125 for stationery, and they are given a refund of the amount. Others were heavy stationery users, the amount of their commutation account being small.

Crop of Capital Rumors Is Abundant

IF THE legislative season is dull, the rumor crop is very large, and it has been what might be called a season of denials in the capitol. Recently whisperings of changes in the president's cabinet were afloat, and they multiplied so rapidly and assumed such distorted shapes that they led to vigorous denials from the white house authorities. The two in particular that were whispered around were the resignation of Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh and the elevation of Mr. Taft's secretary, Charles D. Norton, to the place, and the elevation of Congressman James A. Tawney to the position now occupied by Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger. Both called forth the most vigorous denials.

Aside from denying rumors, President Taft's chief work has been along the lines of the Panama canal zone, which he intends bringing to the attention of congress very soon. The president has recommended and is preparing to urge legislation appropriating large sums for the fortification of both entrances to the canal zone, and this in itself will cause a struggle. In addition there is pending before the senate a bill, already passed by the house, replacing the canal commission by a director general at the head of a civil government, the details of which are being worked out by the president.

Moreover, there is the question of canal tolls, which on the recommendation of the president, is being worked out in a bill by Chairman Mann of the house committee on inter-state commerce. He is also anxious that the tolls to be charged be decided on at this session, so that there will be time for the world's commerce to adjust itself to the proposed rates.

On the subject of fortifying the canal there has already developed opposition, and though both houses can be counted on to vote for fortifications, many long speeches will be made on the other side either by peace advocates or by congressmen generally hostile to the expenditure of money on the canal. The election of United States senators by popular vote is also looming up.

Postal Thieves Reported Plentiful

NUMEROUS complaints are coming daily to the postoffice department at Washington caused by the losses of packages and money. Mails are easy to rob, but few postal thieves ever escape detection. They are sure to be caught and punished in the end. No thief is harder to catch than are those who rob the government's mail. Their methods are skillful and the plunder is easily hidden or destroyed. Postoffice thieves are not arrested every day, although valuable letters and other articles are stolen almost daily and an army of sharp inspectors are on the watch. Positive proof of guilt must be in the possession of the inspector before an arrest is made. Circumstantial evidence does not go at any time. In almost every case an arrest means conviction.

The postoffice employee never knows when he is being shadowed. Outside of business hours, even, he may be watched, when not under suspicion of theft, to see if he is spending more money than his salary will allow.

It is wonderful that there are as few thieves among the many thousands of clerks who handle the mails, for great temptations surround them, as they handle millions of valuable parcels. These clerks soon learn to tell by the very touch of a letter whether it contains money. It would be an easy matter for the dishonest clerk to slip letters into his pocket and open them in some private place.

AFFIDAVITS TO REFUTE CHARGES.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—The House committee on territories today decided that the Constitution of New Mexico is Republican in form and not contrary to the Constitution of the United States and the Declaration of Independence, and that the committee has no right to question the election of delegates to the Constitutional Convention, the date of the convention or its proceedings. This eliminates all charges except those that on the day of the election for the approval of the Constitution the saloons were open, that intimidation, threats, coercion, and violence were used, that ballots against the Constitution were withheld and that other means were employed to prevent a fair, legal, peaceable election and expression of the popular will. The committee insists on affidavits from persons who deny that such was the case and until such are received, the matter is hung up in the committee and may result in an investigating committee being sent to New Mexico this summer. The last meeting of the House Committee will be held on next Monday by which time such affidavits must be in the hands of Chairman E. L. Hamilton. No time therefore should be lost by peace officers and others who can vouch for the fairness of the election to send such affidavits at once to Congressman Hamilton.

In addition to the statements contained in the above dispatch, telegrams have been received from Delegate Andrews at Washington, calling upon the citizens of the territory to refute the charges by affidavits. The charges might have some foundation in some counties, we are not able to say, but in Lincoln county they are certainly not applicable, and no difficulty existed in getting affidavits here refuting every charge. Something like a dozen affidavits were sent from here, denying every charge made, so far as this county is concerned.

Snow! Snow!! Snow!!!

Like a blanket, all New Mexico, in fact the entire Rocky Mountain region, has been covered with snow. Various thicknesses have fallen in this county, from four to twenty inches. In this immediate vicinity the fall was lighter than any other place reported in the county, while the heaviest reported was in the Mesa country between Nogal and Capitan.

The prospects for a good season in almost every part of the county are excellent, which indures sufficient moisture for the preparation of land for crops, and the starting off of the same, while it will also produce early feed for stock, which is so badly needed. The depression that has been felt by farmer and stockman, owing to the lack of winter moisture, has therefore been dissipated by one fell swoop of nature, and the future wears a roseate hue.

The farmer has had a lean time of it, indeed, during the past two seasons, and the dry winter added to his gloom. The stockman was still harder hit, because he had to sell or move his stock, always at a loss. Now, when hope was all but abandoned, the snow, for which all have been crying, came, and, in the twinkling of an eye, the scene changes. Where all was despondency any doubt, now all is joy and hope; and the feeling that animates all is that the dark period has ended—the silver lining is not only visible, but is the most prominent feature of the cloud. Good times are in store. Let's all be prepared to take advantage of them.

The County Seat Case.

The litigation in the county seat case is about as outlined in the News last week. The application of the attorneys for Carrizozo has been filed, and the court, we understand, has set the case for hearing Monday, March 6th. At that time, if the application is sustained, the case will be dismissed and the injunction dissolved. When this is done, building operations can at once proceed, and everything be shaped up for a spring term of court, which is due in May.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

In thus giving notice to subscribers we are departing from a rule of years' standing. However, we are impelled to this step because of the need of money but principally to comply with the requirements of the postal authorities. All publications are required to keep their subscriptions up to a certain period or be denied the mailing privileges so essential to the life of a publication. Therefore, in compliance with the ruling of the department, the names of all subscribers who come within this limit and who fail to respond to this notice will be taken from our mailing list and an account rendered. Our patrons must readily appreciate the urgency that prompts this notice, and, doing so, will come to our relief, liquidate the delinquency and continue to read the News. The application is general and affects all who come within the rule; and for the satisfaction of the few who are in arrears, we are quite willing to confess that the delinquency is largely due to the oversight of this office.

Supreme Court Rules.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Not for years have so many far reaching principles relating to interstate commerce been approved by the supreme court of the United States as were established in its decision today as the unquestioned law of the land. Decisions on several other different questions also were announced.

Among the questions of interstate commerce decided were:

That the passenger has no right to buy tickets with services, advertising, releases or property, nor can the railroad company buy services, advertising, releases or property with transportation.

That a state law regulating the size of crews on trains within the state is not an obstruction to interstate commerce, but is rather enacted in aid of interstate commerce, and may be passed by a state for the public safety.

That the supreme court will review the validity of an order of the interstate commerce commission even though the two year limitation on the life of the order has expired.

That a railway system may not escape regulation as an instrument of interstate commerce because one of its constituents is a wharf, commissioner and dominating power over the warpage company rests in the fact that it is a holding company.

That the interstate commerce commission does not possess the power to reduce a rate as unjust and unreasonable merely because the rate is inequitable under some circumstances, as in cases where railroads induce shippers to enter a field by offering rates so low as to be unremunerative and later increase the rates.

The court furthermore decided as constitutional a state statute providing that no contract of relief, benefit or ordinance should bar the right of a railroad employe engaged in the operation of a railroad to sue the employer for damages resulting from injuries received in the course of his employment.

Plain Talk by Mexican Minister.

Paris, Feb. 20.—in a review of the crisis in Mexico made today for the Associated Press, Jose Yves Limantour, minister of finance of Mexico, declared that the only basis for peace was that the insurgents lay down their arms pending negotiations with the government, which, on its part, should grant reform to the evils that made the revolution possible.

The only alternative that he foresaw was the probability of a long-wasting struggle, "for," said the minister, "the federal troops are no match for the cowboy insurgents."

In the opinion of Senor Limantour the federal system in Mexico must go and the great states to the north which have passed from family to family should be distributed among the people.

For himself, the minister said he had no political ambitions, though he had been frequently urged to contest the presidency with Diaz. He expects to start home within two weeks.

The minister makes three suggestions:

First, that the abuses contaminating the local administrations, as in cities and towns, which have the greatest grievances, should be immediately abolished.

Second, some means should be found to allow the people to share more extensively in the holding of land.

In the third place, there is opposition to President Diaz on the ground that he has been too long in office and new blood is needed to direct the affairs of the republic.

"But," added the minister, "Diaz was legally returned to the presidency by the people."

"I dislike to touch the delicate questions of neutrality," continued the minister, "but I am convinced that the United States' interpretation is too restricted. Unless it is enlarged it will seriously imperil the government's chances of quelling the revolution."

Eighteen inches of snow on the level, and drifts three and four feet deep.

Theo. Tompkins returned from Ancho Saturday, where he has a position as clerk.

Ed. Wilson and family have moved to their ranch on the east of Jack's Peak.

Two brothers of the late Geo. Thorp arrived from points in Texas a few days ago to look after the estate of their deceased brother.

Frank Marsh, of Jack's Peak, was in this week. He is negotiating a sale of his splendid iron claims, and hopes soon to have something good to report.

Mr. Little, of the Little Metal Reduction company, of Colorado, was in camp last week, looking over the chance for starting up in the next few weeks.

The building for the assay office is completed. The exterior presents a handsome appearance.

Mr. Stuart is sinking a shaft on his new place with the object of securing water. As the shaft was already down sixty feet he may not have to continue work long before finding water.

There is a report that Mr. Bloodgood was fortunate in discovering a new channel of gold on the enterprise claims, which is good yellow gold and very abundant.

The storm of Friday was immense. Thursday the sky was intensely dark and threatening, and on Friday the snow began falling in earnest, which put a smile on every face. Saturday it continued day and night. On Sunday there was about eighteen inches on the level, with drifts from three to five feet deep.

Do you know that croup can be prevented? Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It is also a certain cure for croup and has never been known to fail. Sold by all dealers.

While it is often impossible to prevent an accident, it is never impossible to be prepared—it is not beyond anyone's purse. Invest 25 cents in a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and you are prepared for sprains, bruises and like injuries. Sold by all dealers.

A few minutes delay in treating some cases of croup, even the length of time it takes to go for a doctor often proves dangerous. The safest way is to keep Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and at the first indication of croup give the child a dose. Pleasant to take and always cures. Sold by all dealers.

An attack of the grip is often followed by a persistent cough, which to many proves a great annoyance. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been extensively used and with good success for the relief and cure of this cough. Many cases have been cured after all other remedies had failed. Sold by all dealers.

K. of P. Ball at Capitan.

Myrtle Lodge No. 19 Knights of Pythias of Capitan, celebrated the forty-eighth anniversary of the order Wednesday by a ball at the schoolhouse. About fifty couple participated, and an enjoyable time was had. Were it not for the bad weather, a much larger crowd would have attended. A sumptuous supper was served at the hotel at midnight, after which all returned to the ball room, where dancing was continued until 4 a. m. The K. of P.'s, as entertainers, did themselves proud on the occasion, and the guests spoke highly of the knightly courtesy extended. The lodge is in a flourishing condition, with a constantly increasing membership.

Amateur Theatricals.

A pleasing little drama entitled "The Heart of a Hero," will be staged at Real's hall on Thursday evening, March 2nd. The piece will be acted by local talent. Some of those who will take part in the play have previously faced the music, and all have more or less histrionic talent. We believe the play will be well worth seeing, and the small admission fee will insure a full house. The performance will begin at 8:30 sharp. Admission, 35 cts; children, 25 cts.

The Card Club.

The regular weekly meeting of the Carrizozo Whist Club was held at the home of Mrs. William Whittingham Wednesday afternoon.

The prizes were given to Mrs. John Kimbell and Mrs. G. L. Ulrick who scored highest and lowest points in the games—a cutglass dish to Mrs. Kimbell and a jeweled hatpin to Mrs. Ulrick.

After the dainty two course luncheon was served, a game of Lotto was played, Mrs. John McCourt being awarded the prize, a set of kitchen knives.

Two new members were added to the club, Mesdames Campbell and Elliott.

The club will meet every second Wednesday until June when it will disband for the summer months.

The guests present to enjoy Mrs. Whittingham's charming party were, in addition to the regular members, Mesdames Rely, Hock, McCourt and Bell. Mrs. G. L. Ulrick will entertain the Club Wednesday, March, 8th.

Territorial Policeman Kills Jailer.)

Fred Higgins, former sheriff of Chaves county and for the past three years a member of the mounted police force, shot and killed the jailer at Las Cruces last Saturday night. The following dispatch gives an account of the tragedy:

Las Cruces, N. M., Feb. 20.—Evidences adduced today at the preliminary hearing of Mounted Policeman Fred Higgins who shot and killed Jailer Tranquilino Lopez, indicated that both men were intoxicated and that the jailer tried to take Higgins' gun away from him previous to the firing of the fatal shot. Decision has been reserved until tomorrow at nine o'clock in the morning, but it is believed Higgins will be dismissed. Over two hundred people attended the hearing. Ten witnesses were examined. Reinhart Candelaria testified that both men were drunk. Lem Moore said on the stand that Higgins told Reinhart that he was an officer and showed his badge.

NOT ALLOWED BAIL.

Las Cruces, Feb. 21.—Fred Higgins was given a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Manuel Lopez, yesterday afternoon, charged with the murder of Tranquilino Lopez, in the first degree.

The result of the hearing was that Higgins was bound over to the grand jury without bail. Ten witnesses were examined, but Higgins was not put on the stand.

The next proceedings will be an application for a writ of habeas corpus.

— CAPITAN, N. M. —

Frank J. Sager, cashier of the Exchange Bank, went to El Paso yesterday.

Chas. J. Schreck, principal of the Carrizozo schools, has a brother visiting him from the east.

The Rev. Pace of Alamogordo preached at the Baptist church here Sunday, morning and evening.

Gordon Pine entertained a number of his school mates yesterday at a birthday party Wednesday — his ninth.

Train No. 3, due here Sunday, arrived the following evening, eighteen hours late. The delay was caused by snow drifts east of this territory.

J. E. Koonce, of Nogal, was taken to the Laws sanatorium at Lincoln last Saturday to undergo an operation for appendicitis. His condition is reported to be serious.

A regular meeting of Comet Chapter No. 29, Eastern Star, will be held in the Masonic Hall, on Wednesday evening, March 1. The principal business will be the installation of officers.

A friend, writing us from Angus, reports zero weather and a good fall of snow. He reports a snowfall Saturday of nine inches, and Monday an additional fall of four inches, making a total of 13 inches.

B. F. Stewart, of Ruidoso, returned this week from Mexico, where he had been for some time. Between the Insurrectos and the Federals that country has become very uncomfortable for non-combatants.

There will be preaching at the Baptist church Sunday morning at 11 a.m., by Brother Allen. In the evening at 7:30 Brother Nicols, secretary of the New Mexico Children's Home Society, will preach. You are cordially invited.

Attorney H. B. Hamilton was over this week from Capitan. He was interested in securing evidence to refute the charges that have been filed with congress, alleging fraud, intimidation and whiskey-selling on the day of the constitutional election.

The wife and three children of J. E. Farley, night roundhouse foreman, arrived Tuesday from Alamogordo during the big wind storm. Farley is happy, and endorses the old saying that "it's an ill wind that blows nobody good." He has rented the Gurney cottage, north of the school house.

Albert Ziegler, of the firm of Ziegler Bros., leaves tonight for the east, to purchase a spring and summer stock of goods. Mr. Ziegler intends to purchase the best the market affords, and furnish his customers with a large and varied stock to select from. He will visit his wife and children, who are in Trinidad, Colo., while absent.

W. F. Cobb, representing the Union Metallic Cartridge Co. and the Remington Arms Co., is in town today. Mr. Cobb is a noted wing shot of the southwest, and will meet the gun club on the local grounds this afternoon in a shoot. Mr. Cobb highly compliments the gun club on its grounds and also added that it had one of the finest traps made—a statement which carries merit.

Henry Lacey, the local telephone manager, lately disposed of his motor cycle in order to possess a 1911 model. The new machine has arrived. It has all the latest improvements, and is a beauty of its kind. It is a two-cylinder, six horsepower machine. It runs smoothly, makes very little noise on combustion, and can be geared up to a 25 mile an hour clip.

Henry Emerson, Jack Wilson, Billy Baker and E. P. Irving, all of Nogal, started Wednesday morning for the Elephant Butte dam. They had three good teams of horses, and expect to work on the dam site; otherwise they will go on a prospecting trip in the Mogollon mountains. They intend to return about the latter part of May.

New Mexico was glad to get the show of the past week, but could have gotten along very well without the severe cold. However, the snow was a saviour and it filled a long-felt want.

The railroad line, north of here, which had been snow-bound for several days, was opened to traffic Tuesday morning at 2 o'clock a.m., from which hour until 9 a.m. eight passenger trains passed this station.

On Sunday, just north of Duran, an engine ran into a snow bank twenty feet high which demolished its headlight. The snow had drifted in a cut, and was not noticed by the engineer until the engine had buried itself in the drift.

One extreme follows another, and the pendulum never swings farther one way than another, and that being the case, a wet spring and summer may be expected. Little rain in the summer, and no snow in the early part of the winter may be followed by a sufficient moisture this season. At least we've had a good start, and the prediction is that next month will give us more of the same medicine.

DISH PAN THAT IS NOVELTY

Ingenious Device That Keeps Dishes and Cutlery Separate and Standing Upright.

A dish pan that serves the double purpose of a receptacle in which to wash dishes and one in which to keep them has been designed by a California woman. In the bottom of the pan, in the center, is a ring-like abutment. Along one side are top and bottom curved bends in which knives, forks and spoons can be stood upright and kept separate from the other contents of the pan. With the ring in the center, dishes are stood up around the sides, which makes them easier to wash and does away with the necessity of the washer having her hands always immersed in the hot, soapy water. Furthermore, the invention takes the place of a cupboard in families where only a few dishes are used, as these can be kept in the pan when not otherwise in use. Another advantage of having the dishes stand upright in the wash pan is that they drain better. In fact, one can be used for a drain pan alone.

RICE IN CHINESE FASHION

One Method of Yellow Rice That May Well Be Copied by the American Cook.

The Chinese method of cooking rice differs from that of the ordinary housewife, and the rice when done, instead of being a mushy, sticky paste, is spotlessly white, perfectly dry, with each grain standing by itself. To attain these results pick the rice over carefully to remove all refuse; then wash it through several waters, rubbing it between the hands to remove the coating of starchy powder. When the water is perfectly clear you will know that the rice is in fit condition to be cooked. Have some water boiling in a saucepan, the proper proportions being about two quarts of unsalted water to each half pint of rice. Sprinkle the rice in so slowly that the water will scarcely stop boiling and cook it at a gallop in order that the grains may be kept in motion while boiling. Do not stir or touch the rice in any way after the grains have commenced to soften. When they are done drain off all the water and set the pan in the oven, that the rice may swell. Do not let it cook or brown, and serve it as soon as it has become thoroughly dry, which will probably be in less than ten minutes. Let each person salt the rice to suit his own taste after it has been brought to the table.

If you have only a little bit of chicken left over—not enough to cream or serve alone—melt one tablespoonful of butter in a deep baking dish, scatter over it one-quarter cup of cracker crumbs, add a layer of the chicken, chopped, then a layer of oysters, and salt, pepper and butter. Put in more cracker crumbs, more chicken and oysters, and proceed in this way until the dish is full, adding seasoning with each layer. Pour over the whole the oyster liquor to which a well-beaten egg and a cup of milk have been added. Put in the oven until hot and lightly browned and serve.

TAKE A LESSON FROM VENUS

Moral That Writer Has Drawn Is Not Without Some Points of Worthiness.

Miss Venus is a lovely girl; not one time has she muttered, against her pale, illumined life not one word has she uttered. Just think she's been without her arms for many dusty ages, and yet she never drops the brine or rants in hopeless rages. She has to stand a bunch of guff from Art bugs down to draymen, and yet she never once comes back and grills the heathen layman. When some low-brow of brutal mein starts merrily to panning and says her face is worse than wood and that her hair needs canning or that he has a waitress friend who jerks a coffee jigger could give her many, many leagues and beat her out on figger, she never even looks at him, that rank untutored snarner, but holds her tongue and pedestal; O, Venus is a winner. She's on the job both day and night; she hears men knock or flatter and women not of classic mold get madder than a hatter. She suffers long and quietly with calm and placid manner, in cold no mits to reach a quilt, in heat, no hands to fan her. She's a lesson in herself—a fruit for daily picking. Just spafe the world your trouble tales and scratch the useless kicking.—G. S., in Chicago Tribune.

Needed Assistance.

A poor old cast-down hobo started to knock the paint off of a back door the other morning, and when he tearfully told the lady who appeared that he had a sick wife at home and a dozen hungry kids, she gave him a couple of home-made biscuits. Daintily the hobo handled them, and once more he glanced up wistfully.

"What's the matter," indignantly demanded the housewife, "aren't you satisfied with the biscuits?"

"Yes, dear lady," replied the trampful one, "but I thought perhaps you would be so kind as to loan me a nut-cracker for a few minutes."

PRINCESS XENIA TO WEAR "HAPPY CROWN"

ROME.—"There will be no alliance between his imperial highness the duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Katharine Elkins of America."

This is the semi-official announcement doubtless inspired from the court of Victor Emmanuel III., king of Italy. Queen Helena makes no secret of her satisfaction at the outcome of this remarkable romance between the daughter of the late West Virginia millionaire and United States senator and the man who is first cousin to the king, and who might ascend the throne should death take away his brothers and the little sons of the royal family. And as for the Bourbon Duchess d'Aosta, sister-in-law of the duke, she is unfeignedly delighted. From the first she utterly opposed the marriage of a prince of the blood royal and a "vulgar American commoner," as she was pleased to dub the beautiful and exceedingly rich young American girl.

So once, at least, romance is dead. Why? Did not the ardent young lovers plight eternal troth? Of course no one but they really knows, yet the report that they did was more than mere rumor. The story has it that the king of Italy was willing to give his consent. If this was true, he gave way before the united opposition of the ladies of the royal family. It has been said that the duke and Miss Elkins vowed that if they could not wed each other, they would never wed any one else. There was at least a substantial basis of truth in these reports, but just how far the romance went and just what killed it the world will probably never know.

Affections Transferred.

And so the duke of the Abruzzi went away to seek solace in the wilds of Africa. Report has it that the wound in his heart has healed and that formal announcement of his engagement to the dashing, handsome, hot-headed Princess Xenia, daughter of the ruler of little Montenegro, who last August proclaimed himself king over his 300,000 subjects, may be expected, writes a correspondent of the New York World. Though the king's income is not a fifth of that so long enjoyed by Senator Elkins, he is of royal blood. His daughter, according to foreign etiquette, is therefore quite the duke's equal and fit to be the wife of the man who might some day be king.

Not that the beautiful Xenia is not well bred and of exquisite charm and grace. Her highness had the advantage of a bringing-up at the Russian court, where they do things differently from the somewhat primitive court at Cetinje. Her father, who has ruled since 1860, lives little differently from the fierce and uncouth men who are his subjects.

To begin with, Princess Xenia is best known in Europe as one of the few living women who have jilted a king. It was King Alexander of Serbia whom she jilted, away back in 1899, when he came a-courting to the miniature court of the then Prince Nicholas of Montenegro, now self-proclaimed king.

"Impossible!" cried Princess.

As it always is with royalty, the marriage had been arranged by the families in question. Whether or not the Princess Xenia would like Alexander, whom she had never seen, did not concern them; the piquant and self-willed daughter of the ruler, she was not even consulted.

Alexander had already scoured the courts of Europe for a mate. Russia and Austria had told him that no Serbians need apply. Finally he got down as far as Montenegro, and Nicholas, eager for more influence in the Balkans, gladly gave his consent for his daughter Xenia. The poor princess, barely 18 then, was told to make ready to meet her future lord and master.

In he shambled, grinning, blinking through his heavy glasses, knock-kneed, and most unattractive. The princess gave him one glance and shuddered.

"Mon Dieu!" she cried in French, "mais vous etes impossible!" or in polite English, she frankly told Alexander that he was impossible. It was the cry of an innocent, unspoiled young girl. The prince was not at all rebuffed, and attempted to mumble some protest that perhaps fatigue and nervousness had overcome her royal highness.

Xenia gasped once more. And then she fled from the room. The royal romance had died before it was born. Alexander married Mme. Draga Maschin, and a few years later both were assassinated by the king's officers in the royal palace at Belgrade.

But the fame of the Princess Xenia's spirit and wondrous classic beauty had gone abroad in Europe, and many a peer and nobleman came a-courting.

Prince George of Greece was eager to marry Xenia, but she would have none of him. The Grand Duke Michael, brother of the czar of Russia, was another aspirant for her hand, but he got the mitten, too. At 29 today she would have Abruzzi.

Proud of Daughters' Stations.

There are five living daughters of King Nicholas, and three of them have made matches far in advance of anything their own Montenegro might afford, as the king himself boasted not long ago to a questioning Britisher at Cetinje.

"It's too bad," remarked the Englishman, who was a man of great importance, "that Montenegro offers such a poor field for exportation."

"On the contrary," answered the king with spirit, "we have here the most beautiful articles for exportation!"

"And what are they, your majesty?" queried his guest.

"Why, my own daughters," answered Nicholas with a hearty laugh. "Princess Helena is queen of Italy, Princess Militza married the Grand Duke Peter of Russia, Princess Zorga, had she lived, would have been queen of Serbia, Princess Anastasia is now Grand Duchess Nicholas, and Princess Anna is Princess Francis Joseph of Battenberg. Now you must admit that I have placed my articles of exportation very favorably on the foreign markets."

It is only too true, and it is chiefly due to Princess Helena, now the wife of Italy's King, that this newest royal match is about to be made. And also to the promise of an aged soothsayer in whom Xenia believes implicitly. It is a weird story.

Soothsayer's Warning.

No people of all Europe are so superstitious as those of Montenegro. And Princess Xenia feels the same as her father's uneducated peasantry. She is said to believe in signs and talismans and fortune telling, which, after all, is not astonishing when one considers that she was brought up in the court of the czar, who is much addicted to consultation with priestly soothsayers, if the report is true. Superstition has been in the Slayic blood too long to be eradicated in one generation.

"The Crown of Happiness"—such is the gift she has reason to believe the duke of the Abruzzi is holding out to her. She heard the words even before she was called to meet Alexander and ever since then she has been expecting their fruition. There was an aged soothsayer who tolled about the Montenegrin mountains with his wife and daughter, telling their futures to the simple folk who dwell on the rocky slopes of the tiny kingdom.

Nicholas heard of this wonderful man years ago and bade him come to the palace.

"I shall not come!" was his curt answer to Nicholas' messenger.

"Shall we fetch him by force, your royal highness?" asked the retainers.

"Oh, no, let him alone in his tent!" laughed the prince, dismissing the matter.

Foretold the Future.

But Princess Xenia had heard of this strange old man and she resolved to seek him out. She found him in his tent on a mountainside, where his wife and daughter, his tent bearers always, had pitched it. A fire burned in front to shut out the chill airs of the mountain.

"Will you tell my fortune, sir?" asked the princess, laying a goodly piece of silver on his outstretched palm.

"Certainly my lady," said the old man, taking her pink and white hand in his.

"I see a crown, a royal crown," he said, "no, two crowns!"

"I see two royal crowns," he went on. "One is fatal and bloodstained, the other leads to happiness and power. I am hesitating for I do not know which of the two you should accept—the first or the second."

On the following day the strolling soothsayer made bold to visit the palace at Cetinje and demanded that he see the Princess Xenia. The astonished flunkey at the gate would have barred the old man, but he was so insistent that the news of his visit was conveyed to the princess.

"Admit him at once," ordered Xenia.

"I have come," said the soothsayer, slowly and solemnly, "to warn you to refuse the first crown offered to you, no matter what it may be, because that crown will fall with blood."

Prophecy Proved True.

The warning was not forgotten. Soon afterward Xenia refused King Alexander and his crown did fall in the bloodiest royal slaughter of modern times, dragging his queen down to death with him and setting up another dynasty.

"He was right, as I knew he would be," declared the princess when word of Alexander's assassination came to Cetinje. And her father, who had been angered at her refusal of a throne, perforce had to agree with her. Xenia, of course, had more abiding faith than ever in the soothsayer's strange words.

"I will take the second royal crown when it is offered me," she said, calmly enough. "It will be the crown of happiness, as the old man said, and that is what I most desire in this world!"

But the years sped on and no crown was offered. The lovely Xenia passed twenty-five years and twenty-six and twenty-seven. Her next birthday, April 10, will be her thirtieth. The people of Montenegro think that it is high time their princess should find herself a husband. So does Queen Helena of Italy, her elder sister, who has already tried several matches for her, only to be met with the curt "Not until I can convince myself that the crown offered to me is the 'Happy Crown!'"

Smallest Foot in Spain.

Newspapers of neither America nor Great Britain have a monopoly on symposia and contests. The Madrid weekly "Blanco y Negro" (white and black) completed this year a competition to discover the Spanish woman owning the smallest foot in the kingdom. The rules of the contest were:

- (1) Each contestant shall send an outline of her foot, traced on a sheet of white paper, accompanied by her name and address, and her height.
- (2) In order to make the contest as nearly fair as possible, no lady is entitled to compete whose height is less than 59 inches.
- (3) The prize will be awarded to the owner of the smallest foot. In case of equality of size, it will be given to the foot best proportioned.
- (4) The prize will consist of six pairs of shoes, to be selected by the winner of the contest.—Sunday Magazine.

Children's Food.

Certain little suggestions are always to be followed when planning the diet of the little ones. To keep healthy little stomachs in the nursery never serve hot stewed fruit to the children. Plenty of stewed fruit and baked apples they should eat, but they must invariably be cooked the day before and dished up cold. The nursery potatoes should always be baked or boiled in their jackets. Stewed and fried potatoes or potatoes boiled without their skins supply starch, with a loss of all the wholesome potash salts that the skin gives out during the process of cooking into the white part of the vegetable.

Getting His.

"Eh! Enjoyable?"

"Yes. When I went in another dentist was filling my dentist's teeth."

EXCHANGE BANK BURGLARIZED.

and wrench were the appliances left on the scene by the burglars. The damage done was covered by insurance; for the bank had thrown around itself and its depositors all the conceivable safeguards. And even if the strong box had been tapped the loss would have fallen principally on the insurance company, very slightly on the bank and would never have touched the balance of a depositor. Besides this insurance the bank had a further insurance, which gives them protection in just such cases as this; and that is that a large portion of the bank's funds are held by other banks—its correspondents in New York and other banking centers. If the cash had been taken it would have affected the bank's operation for a very short time—until it could hear from its correspondents—but as it is the institution is doing business at the same old stand; the only thing to cause annoyance is the necessity for a night watchman, pending the arrival of repairs for the vault and the latest improved, burglar-proof safe, which have been ordered.

The bank officials, naturally, feel happy that the results were no worse and their friends are congratulating them upon the safety appliances that withstood the efforts of the cracksman, and all hope the perpetrators will be apprehended.
