Christian Citizenship.

Rev. S. E. Allison, pastor of the Highland Methodist church in Albuquerque, and some years ago pastor of the Methodist church at White Oaks, preached a sermon, using the above heading for his subject. His remarks were so appropos and so thoroughly in line with modern ideas that we are glad to quote from the sermon. He said in part:

"One of the best ways to serve our fellows is to help make for him a good government, in which to live and rear his family, where he will be a free man and not a slave nor a vassal. It is a Christian's duty to pray, but to my mind, it is as much his duty to vote as he prays. In the voting he puts wings often times to his prayers. When they were trying to entrap our Lord and catch him in a snare, they asked him if it was right to pay tribute to Caesar. His reply was: 'Render to Caesar the things which are Caesar's, and to God the things which are God's.' We have duties to our Lord and our church, but we also have duties to our country. Every Christian ought to be a patriot, and that is the teaching of our Lord and Master. The man of sorrows loved the hills of Judea, his native land, and he wept over Jerusalem, and said with a sobbing, breaking heart: 'Oh, Jerusalem, Jerusalem, how oft would I have gathered you, as a hen gathered her brood under her wings, and ye would not. Behold! your house is left unto you desolate.' I think it was Scott who said: 'Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said, this is my own, my native land.'

"I am sure that I voice your sentiments when I say I am glad from the bottom of my heart that we have been admitted into the Union, and that every right is guaranteed to us as citizens of the greatest nation in the wide world. We have forty-eight stars, and I think that New Mexico can be made one of the brightest, yea, one of the first magnitude. That rests with us. What will we do with our opportunity? We are bringing into the Union a state that is rich in her fertile lands, and in her large deposits of mineral. I am not a prophet, but I can look into the future a ways, and see our valleys and wide-stretching plains blooming like a garden. 'The desert shall be made to blossom and bloom as the rose.' But our richest asset is our manhood and our womanhood, and we want to make this manhood count for the most. Now, just because we are admitted as a state, you need not think that all our troubles are over. We want to go to the polls in November and elect good men

"MUY MALO."

Under the above caption, the Roswell Daily Record publishes an interesting and lengthy editorial, which, for lack of space, however, we can only reproduce the following paragraphs:

"It is reported that when Dolores Muniz, committeeman from precinct No. 11, Bernalillo county, was asked at the recent love feast of one of the republican factions, 'Low things looked in his precinct,' he replied, 'Muy malo,' which in English is 'very bad;' but which the interpreter translated into, 'Not very bright.'

"That interpreter wanted to break the news gently. But come to think of it, where is there a spot in the whole United States that an honest Spanish-American could give any other report than that of Dolores Muniz? 'Muy malo,' from Maine to California, from lake to gulf, from Florida to Washington and from New Hampshire to Arizona, it's 'Muy malo,' and echoing back and forth from nearly every precinct and ward and village and city throughout the length and breadth of the land comes 'muy malo.'

"It is not claimed that the country will be democratic in every precinct and village and city in the United States. We are not that vain. But this is evident; whereas the republican party for the past sixteen years has approached election day bouyant with hope: all is now quite different and the best it can do is to close its eyes to the real conditions and interpret 'very bad' into 'not very bright.'

to occupy the positions of honor and trust, and guide our ship of state in right ways. The cry comes from every quarter, you as Christians look after the church, and let politics alone; they are corrupt, and if you have anything to do with them you will get your garments besmirched; and as politics are, there is danger: but politics ought to be clean. As long as the affairs of our great commonwealth are turned over to the ward politicians, we will have just this state of things. If a minister of the gospel happens to open his mouth on the great issues of the day, the politicians throw up their hands in holy horror and say that the ministers are going into politics. I do not believe that the ministers can have so much to say in party politics, and along these lines he must be prudent, but I do maintain that while I am a minister of the gospel, I am also a citizen of this land, and when I became a minister I did not forfeit my rights as an American citizen.

"In the November election I think that party politics ought to be ignored, and we ought to vote

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

Influence of Money in Capital Clubs

WASHINGTON.—The public rebuke of President Taft, in which he stigmatized certain persons as "small-brained and narrow-minded critics," following the withdrawal of names of men prominent in the political world up for membership in the ultra-exclusive Metropolitan club, has centered the attention of the country on the snobbishness of Washington.

Close observers assert that the impetus given to existing social conditions dates from the Spanish-American war. Before the treaty of Paris the millionaire residents of Washington could be counted on the fingers. Now all the rich and retired, the famous or otherwise, the representatives of whisky, sugar, tobacco—every kind of trust—has his palace in an ultra-exclusive residential section and the womenkind set up to be social leaders.

Money and influence in the gilded throng is the test which Washington now applies to every ambitious public man and his wife. The clubs are ruled by money, and men who have balked the political or financial schemes of those who are high in Washington clubdom are punished if they seek the companionship in clubs such as they would obtain in their home cities.

One of the most exclusive clubs in Washington keeps on its rolls a man who deserted his wife and six children to elope with the wife of a fellow-member of the same club, while it refused admission to a man who had defeated the ambitions of certain high officials.

Time was that when a new cabinet official, a new senator or even a member of the lower house came to Washington, some courtesy was accorded by society. Now that richly clad dame inquires about the home status of the raw officials and if the report is not up to the standard, Madame Cabinet Official or Senator or Representative will have a lonesome time, unless she has some personal friends in the great realm.

The president and his wife will be courteous. They will follow the traditions, and will ask them to the functions decreed by a century of observance. But except to visit among those whom their husband's rank makes a natural alliance, they need not hope for amenity from the real leaders of Washington, the wealthy women whose palaces are clustered up and down 16th street and Massachusetts avenue and about Dupont circle.

Government to Wipe Out Moro Pirates

IT is somewhat startling to learn that piracy as bold and fierce as in the days of Captain Kidd still flourishes under the American flag. The Moro pirates of the Philippines have begun their attacks on peaceful merchant ships once more. A patrol of American gunboats was maintained over the Moros in the Sulu seas until recently, and withdrawn in the belief that they had been pacified. The Moros believed that the Americans were afraid of them, and piracy immediately flamed out afresh. Now the patrol will be re-established.

The Malay pirate of the eastern seas is perhaps the most notorious of all freebooting types. He excels Captain Kidd in reckless daring and ruthless cruelty.

Instead of sailing boldly forth in fleets of outrigger boats, after the old-time style, with a force numbering hundreds of armed and intrepid warriors, the Moro pirate of today establishes headquarters on some small island, and therefrom as a base of operations conducts furtive raids. If successful, he becomes bolder, and ventures further afield in quest of booty. Finding a ship in trouble, he attacks it and murders everybody on board. Coming across a village that looks peacefully inviting, he sacks it, massacring all the adult male inhabitants.

Then, with his load of loot, he does not return to the place from which he started, but seeks another island,

Committee Is to Sift Indian Charges

THE lid on the seething cauldron of Indian affairs is loose. It is to be taken off without further delay by Chairman Graham, of the committee on expenditures in the interior department.

For years there has been endless rumor and vague accusations of graft, trickery, jokers in legislation, of appropriations nominally designed for the Indians, but actually going to land grabbing rings; of looting of the Indian estates all over the country, of waste in maintaining the Indians and policies that tend to pauperize them.

The facts are to be dug out. If the charges are true, they are to get light, if not, they are to be disproved. The investigators expect to stir up a very bad odor.

Where do the millions appropriated each year in the Indian bill go? It has been constantly charged that they go in large part to about everybody except the Indians. For instance, $500,000 was appropriated in the last bill for irrigation of the Flathead reservation lands. If the stories now being laid before the probers are true, this money is to be used, not for the Indians, but for lands that have been taken from the Indians and are held by speculators. The Gila irrigation project is alleged to present a somewhat similar situation.

Another case that the committee is going to probe is that of the Crow reservation in Montana. A case of Uintah Indians of Utah is going to be taken up in the effort to locate responsibility for the woes of this tribe.

Rifle for Under Water Action.

When he is working in water infested by sharks and other sea monsters likely to do him harm, the diver has at present to rely for his safety on the use of a knife, or, falling that, on a quick return to the surface. Now comes the invention of Captain Grobl, a German diving instructor, who has constructed a rifle which can be fired under water, and is designed for the better arming of a diver. The most remarkable thing about this is that it fires, not bullets, but water, which is propelled with such force that it has an extraordinary power of penetration. Indeed, the inventor himself has pierced armor plate of medium thickness with the water jet from his weapon. The rifle has a stout barrel and is loaded with a cartridge cased in india rubber.

Small Boat to Sail Far.

The yawl yacht Recluta, 86 tons, has set out on a voyage of 6,000 miles, from Gosport to Buenos Ayres, the headquarters of her new owner. The little vessel carries a crew of four, and is commanded by Capt. Harry Williams, who recently took the 20-ton cutter Moyana to Odessa. All the members of the Recluta's crew are Hampshire men. She will go to Madeira, Cape Verde, Pernambuco and Montevideo. The longest sea run will be a distance of about 2,000 miles, between Cape Verde and Pernambuco.—London Standard.

RABBIT STEW, FRENCH STYLE

New Recipe Recommended to Housewife Who Would Make a Hit With the Folks.

Cut up rabbit, wash and put in jar; now put on the following spices: Salt and pepper, a pinch of cayenne, two whole chili peppers, eight or ten whole peppers, the same amount of cloves and allspice, three or four laurel leaves; then a finely cut onion; three or four cloves of garlic cut fine and about two or three slices of lemon. Then cover with good claret wine. Set away in cool place for two days. Half an hour before cooking take out all the pieces; put in a strainer and let strain. Now put on a frying pan in which you have placed a good sized piece of butter or half butter and half lard; let get smoking hot, then put in your rabbit and let fry on both sides. Then throw all in a stew pan and keep on frying until all is fried. Take your frying pan and put in more butter and lard, then take a heaping wooden ladle of flour and brown it nicely; put in a fine cut onion; when pretty nearly brown, cook a few minutes longer. Then take the wine and spices, with the onions and garlic the rabbit was soaked in, and make the gravy; use all that has drained from the strainer; if not enough add a little water; then pour over the rabbit in the stew pan, and let stand an hour and a half, or until tender. When done, pour on a hot platter. Be liberal with grease, as it is required to make stew good.

HOW TO COOK MUSHROOMS

Variety of Combinations Can Be Served With This Edible Fungus as Chief Ingredient.

A Philadelphia hostess noted for her delicious dinners, and especially for various combinations that have mushrooms as the chief ingredient, says that the reason none of her guests is ever ill after a mushroom supper is that she always has fresh mushrooms, never the canned or bottled sort, and always has them cooked for ten minutes or so before adding the various tid-bits that go to make up the delectable whole. Mushrooms require more cooking than most persons think, and should be thoroughly done before they are served, no matter how much the impatient ones may say. "Oh, they are cooked enough; they will not harm me," as every chafing dish cook has heard them say at times. An Italian dish which this hostess has discovered consists of oysters scalloped with macaroni and served with a mushroom sauce. Cheese is omitted and paprika takes the place of cayenne to make the flavor more delicate, otherwise the oysters and macaroni alternate and are flecked with butter, as in other ways of scalloping, and the dish is one for the gods.

Chocolate Creams.

Beat the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth. Gradually beat into this two cups of confectioners' sugar. Flavor with one-half teaspoon of vanilla and work well. Roll into little balls and drop on slightly buttered platter. Let the balls stand for an hour. Shave five ounces of chocolate, put in small bowl, which you place on the fire in saucepan of boiling water. When the chocolate is melted, remove from fire and drop creams into it, one at a time. Take out with fork and drop gently on buttered dish. It will take one-half hour to harden chocolate.

To Mend a Leaking Ice Pan.

Melt paraffin and while it is hot pour a coating over the bottom of the leaking pan, having first set it on a newspaper; some of the paraffin will run through the holes in the pan, but it can be scraped off and is just as good to use again. Of course, this pan can never be used on the stove, but serves very effectually for the ice water pan beneath the refrigerator.

JNO. A. HALEY, EDITOR

INDISPUTABLE.

The past ten years, and more, the familiar statement made at every republican meeting was: "Elect a republican delegate, and statehood is assured." Many democrats, who put statehood above politics, swallowed the bait, and a republican was constantly sent to Washington to represent New Mexico. There were many others, however, who said congress was not purchasable by such chaff, and further, that we would have statehood when we got a democratic congress.

At last we have statehood, and what are the facts? We didn't get it at the short session after the 1908 election, as we were promised by Delegate Andrews. It is true a makeshift enabling act was passed at the close of the long session—acknowledged to be the greatest freak in the history of national legislation—and only permitted the territory to frame and adopt a constitution, which, to be effective and before a state government could be formed, or even before an election for state officers could be held, had to meet the approval of the president and congress. A republican congress adjourned on the 4th of March without approving our constitution, and statehood was still up in the air.

But in the meantime, a new congress had been chosen, which was overwhelmingly democratic in the lower house and the democrats and insurgent republicans having a majority in the upper chamber. This new congress was convened in special session by the president on the 4th day of April, for the avowed purpose of adopting a reciprocity treaty with Canada. But while the president ignored statehood in his proclamation, it was not so with the democratic congress. It was announced at the beginning of the session, by the democratic leaders, that the passage of a joint resolution, admitting the territories, would be pushed as one of the principal features of the session.

Hon. H. D. Flood, of Virginia, was made chairman of the house committee on territories. Congressman Flood and his associates, ably assisted by a number of democrats from New Mexico, prepared a joint resolution admitting Arizona and New Mexico. The resolution provided that, at the first election for officers, both territories should vote on an amendment—in Arizona on the recall, in New Mexico on an easier plan of amending our constitution—but the result of the vote in neither case to affect the admission of the territories. Delegate Andrews opposed the resolution and signed a minority report; but, in spite of his opposition, the resolution went through the house by a handsome majority.

The resolution went to the senate. It was turned over to the senate committee of which Senator Smith, a standpatter, was the chairman. For weeks and weeks Chairman Smith, on one pretext or another, failed to present the matter to his committee. When, at last, the pressure became too great to be further ignored, he called a committee meeting, and a favorable report on the resolution was made, five democrats and two insurgent republicans constituting a majority of the committee and thus forcing a favorable report.

After this favorable decision by the committee, the chairman did not present the report to the senate for three weeks, and the indications are that he would not have done so then but for the threat of the majority to call up the report. Finally, upon the presentation of the committee's report, a date was fixed for a vote—August 7th—and on the 8th a vote was actually taken, the result being 53 for and 18 against the resolution; and the two senators from Pennsylvania, upon whom Delegate Andrews leaned for support, helped to make the 18 who stood out against statehood for New Mexico.

At last the resolution was up to President Taft, and he, then, was the only obstacle to statehood. The president promptly vetoed the resolution, basing his veto on the recall provision in the Arizona constitution. He said nothing about the proposed amendment to New Mexico's constitution, as, indeed, he could not, with reason, object to its liberal provisions. Nevertheless, statehood was dead, but not beyond resurrection. A new resolution was prepared, eliminating the recall in the Arizona constitution, but retaining the provisions of Flood resolution as to New Mexico, and put through the senate. The resolution went back to the house, and, despite the fact that a democratic congress believed Arizona, or any state or territory, had a right to make its own constitution, without federal interference, Chairman Flood got his committee together, and at the

All honor, then, to Chairman

Flood and the democratic members who put aside their own convictions on self-government in order to give us statehood, and to the liberal republicans, as well, who were imbued with the same spirit. If we owe anything to Delegate Andrews and the Pennsylvania crowd the record fails to reveal it.

Eleven cases of mountain fever are reported from White Oaks.

Seed wheat and seed rye at Humphrey Bros.

Rev. B. W. Allen and family returned Sunday night from a month's vacation, spent at Galveston, Tex.

An eight pound girl put in an appearance Tuesday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller.

Mrs. J. H. Canning and daughter Helen left Wednesday for California, where they may spend the winter.

An Eagle special, bearing the Cleveland, Ohio, delegation, passed through Monday on their return from the San Francisco convention.

The Ladies Aid Society will give a box supper in the White House restaurant Monday evening Sept. 18. Everybody come and bring their boxes.

The ground in this vicinity received another good soaking Friday evening, causing vegetation to take a fresh start. All nature smiles again, thanks to the beneficent action of Jupiter Pluvius.

Prof. Chas. L. Schreck and family came in Sunday morning from their summer vacation. The local schools will open on the 11th, and Professor Schreck will spend the interim arranging the classes for the coming term.

Phil and Francis Blanchard were over from Lincoln Saturday. They accompanied Miss Bertie Cleghorn, who was enroute to Silver City where she will attend school. They report vegetation good, stock in fine shape, but a dull market at present.

W. B. Hoeck, day foreman at the shops, accompanied by his wife, is taking a vacation in California. After stopping a short time in Los Angeles, they are now at Catalina Island angling for big fish. They expect to return in about a fortnight.

Mrs. J. G. Riggle and children came up from Lincoln Saturday, and went to Alamogordo Sunday morning. The two daughters, Genevieve and Gladys, will go to California to join their father, and will attend school there this winter. Mrs. Riggle and son Free have returned to Lincoln.

Messrs. John Cole and Chas. A. Stevens came up from Lincoln Monday, bringing their daughters, Misses Cora Cole and Iona Stevens, who were on their way to the A. & M. College, Mesilla Park. The young ladies were accompanied from here by Mr. Stevens, and Mr. Cole returned to Lincoln Tuesday.

Last Saturday M. B. Foreman, the progressive "dry farmer" from the mal pais, was in town with a wagon load of melons and canteloupes. He stated he has saved about fifty tons of wild hay, which he will use for feed for his stock during the winter. While here he made this office a pleasant call, which he emphasized by leaving several large melons for exhibition. They were not on exhibition very long, however, as their appearance was too tempting for the salivary glands, and consequently have passed into history—but they certainly were lucious.

Morgan Reily, of this town, a youth in his early teens, shows promise of developing into a phenomenal ball player. In fact he is called by the grand stand fans a pocket edition of Ty Cobb. He is equally good anywhere on the field, although some think he excels with the bat. When the regular ball team is short a player, young Reily is in demand, and he generally makes good. On more than one occasion he saved the "old 'uns" from defeat. With a few inches added to his stature and a few pounds to his avoirdupois, he may be heard from as a high-salaried player in some of the eastern leagues.

"The House of Good Taste"

An Old Jicarilla Citizen Gone.

John D. Brotherton died at his home in Jicarilla Sunday night, and was buried Tuesday. Bright's disease, from which he had suffered many months, was the cause of death.

John D. Brotherton was a native of Pennsylvania, was about sixty-five years of age and had lived in this county, principally at Jicarilla, for almost a quarter of a century. He was an experienced oil well driller, having followed that business in his native state, but had devoted most of his time in this county to quartz and placer mining. He was a generous-hearted, whole-souled citizen, a friend of everybody who knew him, and his death produces real sorrow among his large circle of friends.

Another Pressing Need.

Must we be forever indebted to the marches of an erratic Bavarian and a visionary Deutscher?

FALSE HUNGER

A Symptom of Stomach Trouble Corrected by Good Food.

There is, with some forms of stomach trouble, an abnormal craving for food which is frequently mistaken for a "good appetite." A lady teacher writes from Carthage, Mo., to explain how with good food she dealt with this sort of hurtful hunger.

"I have taught school for fifteen years, and up to nine years ago had good, average health. Nine years ago, however, my health began to fail, and continued to grow worse steadily, in spite of doctor's prescriptions, and everything I could do. During all this time my appetite continued good, only the more I ate the more I wanted to eat—I was always hungry.

"The first symptoms of my breakdown were a distressing nervousness and a loss of flesh. The nervousness grew so bad that finally it amounted to actual prostration. Then came stomach troubles, which were very painful, constipation which brought on piles, dyspepsia and severe nervous headaches.

"The doctors seemed powerless to help me, said I was overworked, and at last urged me to give up teaching, if I wished to save my life.

"But this I could not do. I kept on at it as well as I could, each day growing more wretched, my will-power alone keeping me up, till at last a good angel suggested that I try a diet of Grape-Nuts food, and from that day to this I have found it delicious always appetizing and satisfying.

"I owe my restoration to health to Grape-Nuts. My weight has returned and for more than two years I have been free from the nervousness, constipation, piles, headaches, and all the ailments that used to punish me so, and have been able to work freely and easily." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

IDEAL CHINA DISPLAY

CORNER CUPBOARD IS MOST SATISFACTORY REPOSITORY.

Combines Perfect Safety With Effective Background and Dignified Frame or Setting for Delicate Treasures.

By far the most beautiful and satisfactory repository for china is the old corner cupboard or buffet, which is found in all well built houses belonging to the latter half of the Eighteenth century. These cupboards were sometimes open, but more often had glass doors, frequently of great beauty. Here was every requisite for the ideal display of china. They combined perfect safety with an effective background and a dignified frame or setting for these delicate treasures. The arrangement massed their colors in a decorative panel, at the same time that it placed them low enough for leisurely enjoyment and accurate observation. Happily for us, this good old fashion is being revived in our modern houses and will soon become deservedly popular.

Cupboards built into the wall space upon each side of the chimney afford occasion for a display of china which is architecturally delightful. Sometimes a built-in sideboard is used, or a less formal arrangement of shelves in a chimney recess, or inglenook. Again we find a carved wall cabinet, or a combination of plate shelves with a corner seat—all of which are modifications of what we may well call the panel arrangement.

As to the border arrangement, the best instance of this is the plate rail at the top of a rather high wainscoting. It is an ideal location for patterns highly decorated in beautiful and delicate designs. Their position is low enough to be within range of close observation and of leisurely enjoyment, yet high enough to make them quite safe from danger of accident. A similar arrangement higher up in the room, even over doors and windows, is allowable for plates whose border is a simple band of some solid color, or for larger pieces which are slightly imperfect.

Besides these permanent arrangements for china, there are infinite possibilities in the line of temporary provisions. The china cabinet which originated in the days of Sheraton, is familiar to us all. Many good ones are to be bought, and they make possible the artistic massing of china.

Another well-known piece of furniture is the dresser, whose vogue waned almost to the vanishing point, but is now being revived by craftsmen of the present day. It is now being developed in forms so simple and so charming that they bid fair to become most desirable aids in the artistic arrangement of well selected china in any dining room.

Another revival of an old-time adjunct is shown by the interest taken in the wall plate racks which have been so long in use among the Tyrolean peasantry. From these crude and simple suggestions have been evolved designs of infinite variety, and many of them rich in decorative carving.

All such wall fixtures as racks, shelves, or cabinet form delightfully decorative spots of color above the sideboard or the serving table. There is infinite scope for originality along these lines; and when they are well constructed, much beauty of arrangement can be obtained at a comparatively slight expense. The craftsman needs only a proper sense of proportion, a logical sense of fitness, and a practical knowledge of his craft. To these he can add an unlimited variety in decorative finish. Certainly nothing adds more to the charm and attractiveness of a dining room than quaint and pretty china, arranged in artistic fashion.

DISFIGURED WITH CRUSTS

"Some time ago I was taken with eczema from the top of my head to my waist. It began with scales on my body. I suffered untold itching and burning, and could not sleep. I was greatly disfigured with scales and crusts. My ears looked as if they had been most cut off with a razor, and my neck was perfectly raw. I suffered untold agony and pain. I tried two doctors who said I had eczema in its fullest stage, and that it could not be cured. I then tried other remedies to no avail. At last, I tried a set of the genuine Cuticura Remedies, which cured me of eczema when all else had failed, therefore I cannot praise them too highly.

"I suffered with eczema about ten months, but am now entirely cured, and I believe Cuticura Remedies are the best skin cure there is." (Signed) Miss Mattie J. Shaffer, R. F. D. 1, Box 8, Dancy, Miss., Oct. 27, 1910.

"I had suffered from eczema about four years when boils began to break out on different parts of my body. It started with a fine red rash. My back was affected first, when it also spread over my face. The itching was almost unbearable at times. I tried different soaps and salves, but nothing seemed to help me until I began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. One box of them cured me entirely. I recommended them to my sister for her baby who was troubled with tooth eczema, and they completely cured her baby." (Signed) Mrs. F. L. Marberger, Dreherstown, Pa., Sept. 6, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 4 L, Boston.

CURE THAT SORE THROAT

Sore throat is inflammation of the mucous membrane of the throat, and if this membrane happens to be at all sensitive a predisposition to sore throat will exist.

Paxtine Tolleit Antiseptic is both a preventative and a cure for sore throat because it possesses extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal qualities. Just a little in a glass of water, used as a gargle, will quickly relieve all soreness and strengthen the mucous membrane of the throat, and thus overcome all tendency to sore throat.

Paxtine is far superior to liquid antiseptics or Peroxide for all tollet and hygienic uses.

Paxtine may be obtained at any drug store, 25 and 50c a box, or sent postpaid upon receipt of price by The Paxton Tolleit Co., Boston, Mass. Send for a free sample.

Mrs. Peckem stiffened up haughtily. "A horse thief, eh?"

"Yes, I heard that he carried off two or three nags from this district." And then Peckem made a bee-line for the door.

FARM and GARDEN

TRAINING THE TOMATO VINES

Practiced by Few, but if Done in Mid-Summer It Will Greatly Increase Yield of Fruit.

Very few amateurs practice trimming tomato vines, but if this is done in mid-summer the yield of the fruit is very greatly increased.

Extensive experiments at various experiment stations have developed the fact that the increase due to trimming is great. At the Maine station this increase reached as high as 50 per cent., and the gain in weight was very marked, in one instance reaching 58 per cent.

Single-Stem Training.

The plants were grown under ordinary field culture and they were started in the greenhouse, April 1st, planted in the field June 1st and headed back July 24th, August 8th and September 5th.

Of course in milder climates this work should be done earlier.

At each trimming the leading branches were shortened about six inches and most of the side shoots below the first clusters were removed, the others being shortened, and the sunlight was thus freely admitted.

Training tomatoes on wires to run from five to ten feet high, is becoming common practice. This method increases the yield, as the sunlight reaches all the fruit and makes picking much easier.

It is not difficult to train vines in this way, and it can be done in any ordinary garden by means of wires.

The more sun in curing the poorer the hay.

The side-delivery rake has the edge on the hay tedder.

Do not forget to cultivate the trees set out this spring.

Straight corn rows are the trade mark of a careful farmer.

Shallow cultivation conserves the corn roots as well as the moisture.

CABBAGE ALWAYS IN DEMAND

One of Most Universally Grown Crops and Finds Place in Home Garden and Truck Farm.

Cabbage is one of the most universally cultivated of our garden plants. Although it is one of the coarser vegetables it finds a place in the home garden as well as in the market garden and truck farm. In some sections of the United States cabbage is extensively grown as a farm crop.

According to the last census New York state grew more than 25,000 acres of cabbage; Pennsylvania, nearly 11,000; while Virginia grew about 10,000 acres. The three states mentioned outrank all others by at least 2,000 acres. No adequate estimate can be placed on the value of this crop, as it fluctuates very decidedly, both in acreage and in price, from year to year.

Early cabbage is practically all consumed as a green vegetable. The late crop, on the other hand, is handled as a fresh vegetable, as a storage crop, and for the manufacture of sauerkraut. Cabbage is always in demand, and under present conditions it is always available, either as the product of a southern truck farm or a northern farm, garden, or storage house.

The group of cultivated plants which has been derived from the wild cabbage presents a greater diversity of form than that derived from any other single ancestral type.

Wild cabbage is a robust-growing broad-leaved plant enjoying the low, moist areas near the seacoast of southern Europe. The most closely allied form now in cultivation is the collard. The wide variation in the group is illustrated by the diversity of form shown in collards, kale, tree cabbage, marrow kale, cauliflower, and Brussels sprouts. It is almost beyond the bounds of reason to believe that all these forms have been derived from a common parentage, yet such is the fact.

In no truck crop does the character of the seed count for more than in cabbage. It is very essential that the crop come to marketable maturity early, that the heads be uniform in size and character, and that they mature so that the whole crop can be harvested at two cuttings. The small saving made by the purchase of cheap or inferior seed is usually paid for a hundred times over in the lessened value of the crop. A grower can not afford to risk his crop for so small a saving. The best seed that can be obtained is none too good, and anything short of this is not good business. Without highly viable seed of a good strain, true to type, the best results cannot be expected.

Cabbage is a crop which is grown by every market gardener located within wagon-hauling distance of an important center of consumption. The statistics of the distribution of the cultivation of the cabbage clearly indicate the fact that this is one of the most important crops grown by market gardeners.

The counties near each of the important centers of population of the United States are almost universally credited with a considerable acreage of cabbage, thus showing that the gardeners of these regions have given considerable attention to the production of this crop.

DAINTIES FROM SCRAPS

MANY PRETTY THINGS MADE FROM ODDS AND ENDS.

Any Pieces of Lace, However Small, Can by Skillful Fingers Be Turned Into Articles of Beauty.

Every well ordered house has at least one bag for the reception of odds and ends. The stores are now full of beautiful remnants of all sorts and lengths of lace, and many dainty and useful articles may be made from them. It takes only a little thought and ingenuity to see what the newest touches are in neckwear and fancy articles to be able to concoct many pretty things from odds and ends of lace and embroidery. If you happen to have some bits of real or good imitation lace in your possession every scrap, however much it may be torn, may be used to good advantage if mended first by being transferred neatly on to the finest net and sewed to this through paper, afterward tearing the paper away. Any pieces, however small, can by skillful fingers be turned into articles of beauty.

Delightful caps for babies may be fashioned from unprized trifles in the way of muslin and lace scraps. No one looking at them when completed could believe they were ever anything but one uniform whole. Also the little fanciful theater and boudoir caps and other headdresses worn by girls at present may be made in the same way with the addition of ribbon trimmings.

Artistic little candle shades and shades for electric light bulbs are also most successfully made of pieces of lace lined with a color.

There is no end of ways in which these odds and ends may be used on collars, cuffs, jabots and other accessories of dress. Tiny picot edgings or footings, sewed to lace, often make a great difference, not only in appearance, but in durability and strength. Exquisite collar and cuffs sets, pocketbooks, belts, work bags, sachets, cushion covers and other things made of bold openwork design of lace or embroidery may be beautified by sewing over the edges of the open spaces with colored silk. It is easy and quick work and effective. Table covers in natural color linen have a lace edge treated in colored silks and have the edge of the lace cut away and the design buttonholed in irregular outline. Crib and pillow covers and spreads for the go-cart are ornamented in the same style and the effect is uncommon and pretty.

IS BOTH SIMPLE AND HANDY

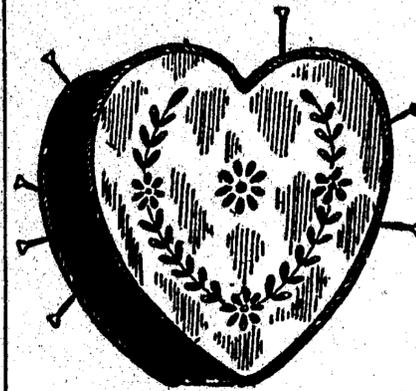

Pincushion Easily Made for Dresser or in Miniature for the Waistcoat Pocket.

This little pincushion recommends itself in many ways; it is very easy to make either for placing upon the dressing table or for hanging over the post of the looking glass, or it can be made in miniature for the waistcoat pocket.

For the dressing table it should measure about four and a half inches across and one inch in thickness. To commence making it, two heart-shaped pieces of cardboard should be cut out and smoothly covered with silk on which the simple design shown in the sketch has been worked in silks of some contrasting color. Velvet ribbon about an inch in width is sewn to the edges of the two sides, and before the sides are completely fastened together the space between them is well stuffed with cotton wool, and lastly, to finish the cushion, it is edged all round with a silk cord. When it is desired to hang the cushion up, then a loop of cord is easily added.

For a waistcoat pocket pincushion of this design very thin cardboard should be used, and an old visiting card may be cut up for the purpose, and the cushion, when complete, should be a little larger or thicker than a half crown piece. Initials might take the place of the floral design worked on the larger cushion.

Striped Silks.

One of the last words from Paris that most of ever changing fashions, is that striped silks are to be very much in vogue during the season.

The smart shops are already showing some of the lovely fabrics which it is said the fashionable modistes have employed for their model gowns.

Taffetas with hair line stripes, Louises and some lustrous messalines with faint, delicate lines of color, are certainly very charming and most fascinating and will make delightful little gowns.

And as stripes have the effect of making the wearer look slim and of adding height, there will doubtless be many women delighted to embrace the new mode.

LATEST FANCY IN KIMONOS

Blouses Made of Eyelet Embroidery, Thin or Thick, as May Be Desired.

Among the new fancies of the lingerie people are kimono blouses made of eyelet embroidery, thin or thick. The design is not very open, and the blouse is cut in the well-known jumper shape. It can be worn over another kimono blouse of china silk, white or colored, or it can be worn merely over a dainty corset cover run through with pink ribbon.

It should have a guimpe of net or lace, as the sleeves are rather wide and somewhat short and expose too much of the arm for any occasion except house wear. As it is quite the fashion to wear flesh-colored slips under one's blouses the idea may be carried out with artistic result under these eyelet kimonos.

One should finish the elbow sleeves of the under slip with a three-inch hem of net, plain or dotted, or an equally wide band of lace.

for the best man. I am a democrat, and for the most part I have voted with the party; but I do not propose to take any kind of dose that the party may see fit to give. I thank God that the day of the old stand-patter is gone: men are voting from principle more and more, and it is a hopeful sign.

"Another thing to my mind, which is one of the most important issues that will be put up at the November election, is the 'blue' ballot, the easy amendment. By having this easy amendment we can take most any kind of a constitution and in the course of time we can make a good one out of it. With all due deference to those who made the one for New Mexico, I feel quite sure that some changes should be made. If the easy amendment does not carry, it will be many, many years before we can change it.
