CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, OCTOBER 6, 1911.

NUMBER 36

WINNING TICKET IS NAMED BY THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

McDONALD, OF CARRIZOZO, HEADS THE TICKET.

The greatest and most enthusiastic meeting ever held in New Mexico passed into history at Santa Fe Thursday evening, when the first democratic state convention adjourned. The immense hall was packed to its capacity at every session of the convention with delegates, and the gallery was at all times crowded. Every county was fully represented, many having double and some triple the number of delegates they had votes in the convention.

For temporary chairman, H. B. Fergusson, of Albuquerque, was chosen. Upon assuming the chair, Mr. Fergusson delivered a very able address. He outlined the position of the democratic party upon the momentous question of the day, and, in burning, eloquent words, portrayed the wrongs under which the people suffered. Permanent organization was effected the following day, by the election of G. A. Richardson, of Roswell, permanent chairman. Mr. Richardson delivered a brief address, which was full of pointed and telling sentences, bristling with strong thought and intelligent application.

The real work of convention began upon the adoption of the platform and resolutions Wednesday afternoon, after which nominations were in order. At five o'clock the chair called for nominations for governor. Bernalillo county yielded to Lincoln county, and Jno. A. Haley, for that delegation, presented the name of W. C. McDonald, of Lincoln county. The mention of Mr. McDonald's name brought forth vociferous and continued applause, and was seconded by every delegation in the hall, Mr. Fergusson making the most stirring speech of the convention in seconding the nomination of Mr. McDonald. The nomination was made by acclamation, and the nominee was escorted to the platform. Mr. McDonald spoke for thirty minutes, heartily and firmly, and convinced his hearers that he would, if elected, do just what he said he would--give New Mexico a just and economical administration. His forceful expressions struck a responsive chord, and there was no question as to how he was regarded by the vast assemblage who believed he should and would be elected governor.

The nominations of the other candidates were made the following day, among whom were two progressive republicans, R. H. Hanna for the supreme bench and G. H. Van Stone for corporation commissioner. The names of all the candidates are to be found in another column, and the platform will be published later.

The progressive republican league pledged its support to the entire democratic ticket. This support of the progressives means that some of the heretofore strong republican counties have been placed in the debatable column. Some of the most prominent members of the republican party are associated with the progressive republican league, and will stump the territory in the interest of the democratic ticket.

PURELY FEMININE

FOR BUSINESS WEAR

PRETTINESS AND UTILITY COMBINED IN GARMENT.

Short Skirt of Tweed Almost Indispensable—Summer Golf Stocks Form Most Important Part of the Wardrobe.

Our illustration shows the short skirt of tweed the business girl affects as a change from her usual nice office suit, and which she wears on the rainy days, with a quick change of bodices at home for dinner. The skirt would be particularly useful if made of men's cloth—black with a hairline of white—and such smooth cloths and combinations are both practical and dressy when the waist accords. The ready-made skirt in this style, though—the cheaper thing—is most commonly in some mannish wool of a rough sort such as homespun or tweed. Here the dress skirt is of brown and white tweed and the waist of yellow embroidered pongee.

Concerning the panel used in the figure version of the skirt, although a summer detail of considerable prestige it has by no means lost its fascinations for the fashion makers, who are preserving slimmness of outline at the cost of any novelty. This unshaped piece of goods, hanging back and front of the skirt, has the utmost possibility for a slim effect, but it is, besides, intended to conceal the outlines of the figure, which are too often revealed by the scant skirts. The French gowns still show them to a great extent, varying the bottom line of the panel with a V point, a deep scallop or a bias such as a sash end would have.

A complete and inexhaustible supply of neckwear is a difficult feat to accomplish, and yet here, too, the business woman who fully understands office needs finds splendid use for the summer golf stocks, or those provided for any sport. Falling to find these, she goes to the haberdasher and gets the manly thing in a small size, and as all such simple and neat fixings are far cheaper than the fussier feminine ones there is always enough for changes. Plain white stocks of doubled pique, rough linen and plain and patterned madras are now being sold at 25 cents, these costing one dollar and sometimes more at the beginning of the season.

But as the stocks are high and need to be drawn rather snugly for a good effect, they are laundered without starch, which makes them cooler and softer to the throat. In fact, as far as starch is concerned the smarter women rather eschew it for all their working collars and waists, thinking it far more important to consider the beauty of the throat and comfort than the stiffness once thought so proper for office clothing. There are some negligee collars of white China silk, the ends buttoning down so that the band has a high, close look, which would be just the thing for the colored flannel waists the business girl must soon consider—that is, if she wears wool with the chillier weather. Any sort of a tie, a bow or a scarf would go with these.

MARY DEAN.

HEMS OF SKIRTS SLASHED

Narrow Draperies, at Present So Much in Vogue, Render This Style Imperative.

Many of the new skirts have deeply slashed hems; or, if the hem is not slashed, the seam of the overlapping drapery is left open to a height of from twelve to fifteen inches. In many cases this opening of the seam or slashing of the hem is absolutely necessary, because the skirt is so narrow that otherwise the wearer could not step.

Every indication points to the continuance of the short jacket for tailored suits. Twenty-six inches is the approximate length that will be most in use. Throughout the summer slightly shorter effects have prevailed, and the abruptly cut away or eton front, with the postillon back, has been considerably seen. But in the preparation of fall models dress-makers and tailors both suggest that the length in front be increased; therefore, models of this kind are being modified to the more practical form for winter.

The almost form fitting, though straight line cut jacket is much seen in Paris. Nearly all of the tailors continue to cut the jacket very flat over the hips. One exception is Callot, who is putting a slight fullness into the basque of the jacket, recalling certain quaint, old fashioned styles. This form of jacket always runs considerably shorter to the front; the fullness or ripple in the back is so slight as to be hardly noticeable, but at the same time it is there, and, to some degree, bespeaks a new fashion.

A WONDERFUL CHANGE.

Mrs. R. Crouse, Manchester, Iowa, says: "For two years my back was weak. Rheumatic pains racked my lower limbs day and night. The passages of the kidney secretions were annoyingly irregular. When I started using Doan's Kidney Pills, these troubles soon lessened and the dull backache vanished. My kidneys now act normally and I give Doan's Kidney Pills credit for this wonderful change."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by druggists and general storekeepers everywhere. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

A PARADOX.

Manager—Has your new play plenty of life in it?

Playwright—Sure. Why, eight people are killed in the last two acts.

CHILD'S HEAD A MASS OF HUMOR

"I think the Cuticura remedies are the best remedies for eczema I have ever heard of. My mother had a child who had a rash on its head when it was real young. Doctor called it baby rash. He gave us medicine, but it did no good. In a few days the head was a solid mass, a running sore. It was awful; the child cried continually. We had to hold him and watch him to keep him from scratching the sore. His suffering was dreadful. At last we remembered Cuticura Remedies. We got a dollar bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and a bar of Cuticura Soap. We gave the Resolvent as directed, washed the head with the Cuticura Soap, and applied the Cuticura Ointment. We had not used half before the child's head was clear and free from eczema, and it has never come back again. His head was healthy and he had a beautiful head of hair. I think the Cuticura Ointment very good for the hair. It makes the hair grow and prevents falling hair." (Signed) Mrs. Francis Lund, Plain City, Utah, Sept. 19, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 12 L, Boston.

Lively.

"Is that the kind of cheese that you want?"

"Keep it still, so that I can look at it."

The next time you feel that swallowing sensation gargle Hamlin's Wizard Oil immediately with three parts water. It will save you days and perhaps weeks of misery from sore throat.

The trouble with giving advice is not many want to take it.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

Calling people down is not a very uplifting process.

Proper Behavior.

Mother—"Willie, you're eating like a pig. Why can't you behave properly?"

Willie—"Why, I thought this was a picnic."—Life.

Its Degree.

Mrs. Blowit—Are you planning an expensive gown?"

Mrs. Knowit—Well, it will take at least five courses and his favorite dishes to get it.

Wisdom.

The Inquisitive Guest—I suppose you would like to get a job in a restaurant patronized by millionaires, where you'd get big tips?

The Obsequious Walter—No, sir; I'd rather have a job in a restaurant where four-flushers on $12 a week salaries bring the girls they are trying to make a hit with.

It certainly looks bright for a democratic victory in New Mexico
this fall, and a democratic president next fall. The "political wheel," stationary for many years is beginning to turn.

Every day brings further assurance of a democratic victory in 1912. The next democratic candidate will be the next president of the United States. Put that in your pipe, and think it over while smoking.

The republican state convention, after a very inharmonious session, adjourned last Saturday, badly broken up—the straight members of that party refusing to be any longer demeaned by wearing a "gang choker." The people are beginning to think for themselves.

The columns of the News are open to all candidates seeking nomination for office. A public notice informs your friends where you stand and the office you seek, and may prevent them making promises to some other aspirant.
This paper plays no favorites.
All democrats look alike to us,
and we do not intend to push any candidate for office until after nominations are made. We have confidence in the wisdom of the democratic party naming the best men for offices, and every man named on that ticket will receive the hearty support of this paper.

The action of the state democratic convention at Santa Fe
this week in nominating W. C.
McDonald for governor, is a compliment that will be fully appreciated by the voters of Lincoln county. Not because he is democrat and a citizen of Carrizozo and Lincoln county, but because he is the unanimous choice of 500 delegates, representing the 26 counties in New Mexico, to fill the office of governor of the new state. He is a man of strong individuality, whom no one can lead, and who will stand up, against all odds, for the best interests of the new state of New Mexico and ALL its people.

And don't forget to vote for the amendment to the constitution—the little blue ticket—you'll get one when you go to vote.

Socialists Nominate a Ticket.

A mass meeting of the Socialists of Lincoln county met at the the Real Hall on Saturday evening for the purpose of nominating a county ticket. There was a good attendance of members most whom traveled long distances to take part in the proceedings. Several speakers addressed the meeting, and dwelt largely on the tenets of the Socialist doctrine. There was quite a large number of ladies present who vied with their brothers in their enthusiasm.

The preliminary business being disposed of, the following ticket was nominated by acclamation:

Rufus Choate, Ancho, sheriff; Eugene F. Jones, Oscuro, treasurer and collector; C. B. Lane, county clerk; Walter Keller, Nogal, assessor; Florence M. Goddard, Carrizozo, superintendent of schools; M. B. Foreman, Carrizozo, probate judge; J. E. West, Capitan, J. M. Harkey, Carrizozo, and James Beaver, Corona, commissioners.

C. F. Goddard of Carrizozo represented Lincoln county at the state convention, which was held at Williard last Monday. A full Socialist state ticket was nominated.

For Probate Judge.

Probate judge is a highly important office in the county, and calls for a good conscientious man to fill it. Paul Bentley is a candidate for the nomination on the democratic ticket. If elected, we believe he will fill the office with credit to himself and satisfaction to all having business before that court. Mr. Bentley is a native of Mississippi, but has lived in Texas most of his life, and has been eight years a resident of this county. We believe Mr. Bentley, if elected, will make a good, conscientious judge.

For Commissioner.

Ed. C. Pfingsten, of Nogal, announces his candidacy for county commissioner for the third district. Ed. is a good man, and as he has lived in this county about 28 years he needs no introduction. He is a successful farmer, and a man who can make dry farming a success must be well versed in the principles of economy, and it is only reasonable to believe that a man who can economize for himself can do likewise for the taxpayers of the county. Mr. Pfingsten was a member of the board of county commissioners in this county ten years ago, and his record in that capacity is familiar to the older residents of Lincoln county. He will perform efficient service, if chosen for the position.

Big of heart and of brain and of body; intrepid in the service of the people; long tried and never found wanting in the cause of true democracy; against whose integrity no voice has ever been raised; whose leadership would solidify the party and draw from the republican ranks — CHAMP CLARK of Missouri. The true elements of strong and virile candidacy are in the Missourian, and as conditions political now exist, he is likely to be the nominee of his party for president.

Our line of ladies' sweaters exceeds anything ever shown in Carrizozo. We have them in all colors and styles at prices surprisingly low prices.—ZIEGLER BROS.

B. Y. P. Union.

The Baptist Young People's Union will meet Sunday evening at 6.30 p.m. Lesson subject:—"Some Elements of Religion—God." Lesson study conducted Miss Sybil Perry. Sword drill by president. Bible training by Miss Spellman.

Biliousness is due to a disordered condition of the stomach and bowels. Chamberlain's tablets are essentially a stomach medicine, intended especially to act on that organ; to cleanse, strengthen and invigorate it, to regulate the liver and to banish biliousness positively and effectually. The commissioners took a trip to Corona Tuesday to investigate some matter from that precinct which came before the board.

The county commissioners met Monday in regular quarterly session, and were busy the best part of the week up the business of the county.

Married, at Ancho, on Monday, Sept. 30, 1911, by the Rev. J. P. Perkins, Antonio Lafolla and Miss Miguelita Gonzales. Both parties reside at Ancho.

An El Paso base ball team are expected to arrive here Saturday night to meet the Carrizozo team Sunday. This should prove to be a game worth witnessing.

Several parties of duckhunters went out to the lakes Sunday and bagged some, notwithstanding the warm weather prevailing. In a month or less the "wing shots" will have their inning.

After paying four bits to see a well-advertised traveling show, such as visited this town last week, the amusement loving people of Carrizozo will conclude that home shows, or those given by local talent, are very often the best value.

Will Ferguson and L. R. Lamay were down from the Mesa Saturday, and were corralled by Jim Woodland to play with the Outlaws against the Browns, but weather conditions prevented the game coming off, and they returned the same evening.

C. B. Lane and wife were down from Alto Saturday. Mr. Layne is a prominent Socialist, and Mrs. Lane is state secretary of that party, and was nominated for superintendent of public instruction at the Socialist convention held at Williard last Tuesday.

The headquarters of the board of registration is at W. J. Doering's office on Main street. All citizens are urgently requested to get their names on the register to ensure them casting a ballot at the first state election in New Mexico. Blank cards are at Roland's drug store for the convenience of voters.

Six of the seven delegates representing this county at the state democratic convention at Santa Fe Tuesday, left for that city Sunday. They were full of hope nominating a state ticket that would meet the approval of all good democrats and independent republicans who have discarded the "gang collar."

Class No. 2 of the Baptist Sunday school met Wednesday evening at the home of Minnie Daniels to organize a class society. It is called the Philathea Class, and will be conducted on the lines of similar societies of that name connected with the church. The following young ladies comprise the committee: Nancie Barefoot, president; Minnie Daniels, vice-president; Ruby Perry, secretary; Sybil Perry, treas.; Lea Kennedy, amanuensis. The society will meet early next week and appoint the various committees.

Lon Roberts Dies in Colorado.

Lon. N. Roberts, a former citizen of Lincoln county, died last Thursday, after a brief illness, of typhoid pneumonia at his home in Colorado Springs.

Lon Roberts was about 34 years old. He was a native of southern Texas, but lived in this county the greater part of his life. He owned considerable property in the vicinity of Tularosa and Nogal where he made his home for many years. The funeral was held at Colorado springs and none of the relatives could reach that place in time to attend. He was in the best of health previous to contracting fever.

The deceased leaves a wife and two small children. Capt. D. W. Roberts of Estey, at one time sheriff of this county, was his uncle, and A. T. Roberts of this town, a cousin, and Fred Roberts of Oscura, and Temple Roberts of El Paso, brothers. Mrs. James F. Hinkle and Miss Ida Roberts of Roswell were sisters.

THE BUSYBODY.

We shun them at every opportunity, those busybodies who pose as our friends when really they are quite the contrary, and who seem to think they are endowed by a special act of Providence with regulating the affairs of their neighbors as well as of those who would rather not be their neighbors. It is easy to comprehend how such persons earn their characterization and easier still for us to apply such a description to all those who in any way display what we may regard as an undue interest in our affairs, says the Christian News and Courier. It is possible, however, that the cap which we place so unhesitatingly upon the heads of certain persons would prove a better fit for us if we could persuade ourselves to "try it on." Unquestionably the mere suggestion to some of us that we could ever overstep the limit of our friendly interest in others is distasteful, and in many cases probably unwarranted, yet it is true that one of the distinctive characteristics of the present age, with its freedom of living and its consequent sacrifice of many of those refining and restraining influences that were so vital a part of another and more distant day, is the readiness with which we indulge our curiosity. Not satisfied nowadays with the bestowal of a confidence which is sufficient, perhaps, to pique our interest it is not unusual for some persons to solicit further details and in other ways to evince a too eager concern in the affairs of others.

Gustav Frenssen's "Klaus Hlnrich Baas" reminds one of "David Copperfield" in its long deliberative unwinding of a life history up to middle age, and a little, too, in its general plan, with its unhappy love marriage followed by a more satisfactory union, says the London Times. But Frenssen plows deep in the field of moral and social problems, and his plot is convincing—we are not obliged to take the facts on the honor of the narrator. The hero is a peasant's son—a piece of tough, proud, full-blooded North German humanity. In one moment of bitter disillusionment he asks himself what his too great teachers, School and Church, had done for him except mislead him. They had given him fables, impossible idealisms, "two gospels, the gospel of the Savior and the gospel of Schiller, but of true, genuine knowledge of life not a vestige." How he gets this knowledge is the theme of the book; a fine and moving story which flows on in a broad stream of incident and character that gives a singularly powerful impression of the massiveness and variety of life.

New York is protesting against a new danger in the reckless driving of automobiles by boys and girls through the streets, and legal means are to be sought to prevent the lives of citizens being put in danger by children. The automobile, in some way, seems to be associated with disregard of the rights of pedestrians to an extent which has rendered it a menace of civilization, as well as one of its luxuries. But as far as children are concerned, they should be legally restrained from being allowed in charge of any vehicle. They are too fond of any kind of power and too irresponsible in its use—an exceedingly dangerous combination.

FARM AND ROAD IMPROVEMENT

PREVENT INJURY TO BARLEY

Requires More Judgment in Harvesting Than Almost Any Other Crop—Often Injured by Rain.

(By H. B. DERR.)
The time for harvesting barley differs widely, according to the location and conditions. In the southern states, it ripens from May 1 to June 1. In the central states barley generally matures in June and July, while in the northern states it ripens in July and August. In the Pacific states the time varies from May 15 to September 1st, according to the elevation and the time of seeding.

Unfavorable weather conditions may extend the season, but usually a few days difference causes but a slight variation in the time of ripening.

Barley requires more judgment in harvesting than almost any other cereal. If harvested too early the appearance and value of the grain are injured by shrinkage. If allowed to become over-ripe the heads bend over and shatter badly during harvesting while in humid regions the grain becomes discolored.

The hardness of the grain when pinched between the thumb and finger will indicate when the crop is ready to harvest. If the grain can just be dented with the nail, it is in the hard dough stage and should be cut at once.

In unfavorable seasons, when the grain ripens unevenly, it is better to cut when most of the heads are ripe, even though there is some loss from shrinkage. If the grain is intended for brewing purposes it should not be cut too early, as it increases in value until the grain is dead ripe. Barley should not be cut when wet with dew or rain as the bundles dry out slowly.

Barley is frequently injured by heavy rains which in the shock. Moisture not only discolors the grain, but if excessive, may also cause it to sprout. Opening the shock is the only remedy. The common method is to scatter the bundles on the ground, but as there is danger that the grain in contact with the soil will absorb sufficient moisture to cause further injury, the method practiced in Germany and by farmers in some localities in the United States is recommended.

When the shocks are opened the first bundle is laid flat on the stubble; the second and succeeding bundles are then laid across the middle of the projecting ones, the butt ends resting on the ground and the heads projecting beyond the bundles upon which they rest, the object being to keep the grain off the ground, as shown in the illustration, the numbers indicating the order in which they are laid. By lapping the bundles in this way the heads are kept off the ground and are exposed to the action of the air, so that they dry out quickly. Even though rained on while in this position, they will soon dry and will be damaged less than if lying on the ground.

STRONG SUPPORT FOR KETTLE

Will Be Found Quite Useful for Heating Water for Butchering Hogs and Other Outdoor Work

People who use kettles for outdoor work, such as heating water for butchering hogs, making apple-butter, and such things, will find the iron support for the kettle, as shown in this illustration, to be very helpful. It can be made out of an old wagon tire, or any other heavy piece of iron, and is not expensive. The diameter of the support should be sufficient to allow the bottom of the kettle to come within about six inches of the ground, in order that the fire built under it may have a good draft. By the use of this support, the kettle-bill is kept out of the way, and this is a decided advantage.

NEW IDEA IN STUMP PULLING

Inventor Intends to Compel Falling Tree to Pull Its Own Stump by the Force of Its Fall.

The means by which an inventor intends to compel a falling tree to pull its own stump by the force of its fall is shown in the illustration, says the Popular Mechanics. A fulcrum block is placed alongside the trunk on the side the tree is to fall, means being provided to support the block at the desired elevation, and special tackle is made fast as illustrated. The trunk, in falling, tilts over the fulcrum block and drags the stump out of the ground.

Hillside Farms.

We must fight the encroachment of the gutters on our hillside farms as we fight weeds. Both can be held in check and often entirely eliminated.

Shape of the Silo.

The silo should be much larger at the top than at the bottom, so that the more the silage settles the tighter it becomes.

Diversified farming and intensive thinking go hand in hand.

A leak in the roof is far more expensive than the shingles necessary to repair it.

Plant a tree at the end of the wire fence; it will make a post in time that will last.

Very few farmers take enough time in fitting the field for planting either corn or potatoes.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BLUING.

Talk No. 2.

Avoid liquid bluing. Don't buy water for bluing. All the water contained is so much adulteration. Glass bottles make an expensive package; add nothing to value to consumer.

Always ask for RED CROSS BAG BLUE, the blue that's all blue. Makes the laundress smile out loud. Large package 5 cents AT ALL GOOD GROCERS.

Cautious Supervision.

"In what way?"

"Mrs. Cumrox was looking through the text book on arithmetic and it occurred to her to suggest that I refrain from teaching her daughter any example of improper fractions."

THE ELECTRICAL WORLD

ELECTRIC LAMP MOST NOVEL

Permits Globe to Be Taken to Any Part of Ordinary Room—Operated Like Tape Measure.

A most ingenious invention is the portable electric lamp designed by a Massachusetts man. With it one can take the electric light globe to any point in an ordinary sized room and place it where it is most needed. A cord is wound around a reel in a circular casing which has on one side a socket into which the globe can be screwed. On the free end of the cord is an attaching plug and the movement of the cord is regulated by a pin which is operated by the pressure of the thumb. The device resembles and acts like a big spring tape measure. To use the apparatus the lamp is unscrewed from its wall bracket and screwed into the side of the case. The plug is then screwed into the bracket, and the lamp can be moved as far away as the cord will allow, say about 15 feet, and set down on table, piano, or any place where it is needed. Useful in home, office or store, the invention is of especial convenience for travelers, as it gives them a fine light for reading or writing in any room where electricity is used.

CURIOUS TRICYCLE IN 1889

First American Electric Automobile Created Sensation on Its First Appearance in Boston.

This curious tricycle, propelled by a two-pole electric motor at a speed of six miles an hour on the level, is believed to be the first successful

First American Electric Automobile electric automobile made in America, says the Popular Mechanics. In 1889, just 22 years ago, it created a mild sensation when it appeared on the new concrete paving of a Boston street for its first tests. The machine was operated by a six-cell storage battery, and weighed complete about 300 pounds.

MOTOR PUTS WIND TO WORK

Englishman Finds Power for Generating Electricity That May Prove Substitute for Coal.

Wind power for generating electricity has arrived on the other side of the ocean, an English inventor getting ahead of our boasted Yankee ingenuity and finding a power that may prove a substitute for coal and gasoline in many instances. The wind motor promises to become a commercial, everyday fact much quicker than the sun motor upon which many American and other inventors have expended so many hours, months, and years in an effort to make it practical.

J. G. Childs is the name of the Englishman, and he is constructing his giant wind motor for generating electricity upon a farm at Willesden Green, not far from London. He expects to have it in operation in a short time.

Mr. Childs' wind motor is like a gigantic windmill in appearance, and it works partly on the same principle as the thousands of windmills we see on the farms of the United States. But it is a little different.

The tower is 100 feet high, and the wheel is only 48 feet in diameter. The average person would immediately jump to the conclusion that a windmill of that size would tear things to pieces in an ordinary heavy wind. Mr. Childs has met this difficulty by a novel device.

He has evolved a method of automatic control so that the wheel is kept facing the wind as long as the wind is kind and gentle and doesn't attempt any rough play. The moment, however, the wind gets strenuous the automatic governor promptly turns the wheel a quarter round, so that the wind strikes it on the ends instead of in the face, a great deal less resistance being offered.

The mill is so constructed that it will run in an extremely light wind, and a specially built dynamo will generate electricity while running at a low speed. All of the heavy work on the farm will be performed by the electricity generated by the wind power, and in addition 300 lights will be kept going.

Mr. Childs estimates that the cost of the electricity thus furnished, allowing liberally for wear and tear, will be one cent a unit.

Wireless Telegraph Obsolete.

Telepathy is soon to take the place of wireless telegraphy and telephony according to Dr. Alexander J. McIvor-Tyndall, exponent of new thought and psychic science.

In an address in Chicago recently he said that within the century marvels will be accomplished in the development and utility of the silent forces exemplified in the human organism, in the faculties of telepathy, psychometry and clairvoyance.

"Telepathy, or the power to communicate with persons at a distance comes as an imperative need of the day," he said. "The vitality required to talk above the tumult of our large cities is a terrible tax on our delicate nervous systems."

Economy in Power Plants.

Economy in the operation of the power plants of neighboring manufacturing concerns is obtained in some parts of Europe by interchanging electric power to help out one another when the demand for power in any of the factories rises above normal.

Electric Lightship.

A lightship intended for the port of Hamburg will be furnished with an oil engine driven electric generating plant to supply electric instead of oil light to the lantern.

Arc Lights in Paris.

Electric arc lighting in Paris costs more than twice as much as lighting by high-pressure gas arcs, according to figures given in a recent issue of Journal de l'Eclairage au Gas.

Hunting Big Game in Lincoln County.

The hunting season for large game in New Mexico lasts from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15. If the sportsman has not got a buck or a bear within the thirty days allowed by law, its all off for another year. But from the favorable location of this town the most unsophisticated nimrod may hike in any direction for the adjacent hills and feel reasonably certain of bagging a buck by the following day. The season for wild turkey lasts from Nov. 1 to Dec. 31, and gives those who have been unlucky with the rifle a chance to bring their shot guns into action. But, then, hunting the wild gobbler is tame sport in comparison to bringing down a big antlered black-tail buck on the run at four or five hundred yards.

And, again, there is always a chance for more or less excitement in the hills. For instance, should the hunter come to close quarters with a big brown bear, who had lost a cub, and naturally was on the qui vive for anything on two legs carrying a gun. This would call for quick action and quicker thought, or the gun would have to be discarded and the bowie knife brought into play, and would prove the mettle of the hunter. As Kipling writes:

"Youth's darling spirit, and manhood's fire,
A steady hand and eagle eye,
Must he acquire, who would aspire,
To see an old bear die."

Quite a large number of parties from this place are getting their shooting irons in shape and preparing for a little real natural excitement in the hills. Nearly all have their favorite hunting grounds picked out. Some will go the eastern slope of the White Mountains, some to the Capitans and Carrizo, and so on, in all of which places game is plentiful. The largest stags, past masters of herds, are reported from the Carrizo, eight or ten miles east, and where turkey have made that mountain a roosting place for years, and are reported bigger, fatter and more numerous than ever.

The largest and best equipped outfit we have heard of so far, left yesterday morning for the Mogollon mountains in Socorro county. A large wagon, specially fitted up for the trip, and drawn by four horses, contained emergency rations and almost everything the taste of a hunter would yearn for, including the latest model automatic rifles and 1,500 rounds of smokeless ammunition. They tried to make a deal with El Paso for the old McGinty gun that played so prominent a part in the late Mexican revolution, but failed, as that city was averse to allowing the famous old piece to be taken out of Texas. However, they expect to have a good time without it. The party was composed of Ervin and Frank Gray, Joe D. Adams, noted deer slayers; John Baird, J. McSmith and another whose name we failed to learn, all experienced hunters from Texas to Wyoming. Apart from one deer each, and maybe a few turkey, their principal game will be bear. They expect to be gone about 25 days.
