Watterson-Wilson Controversy.

We are more firmly convinced than ever that Woodrow Wilson has come out of the Harvey-Watterson affair with flying colors. The only one who seems to have lost his head, in our judgment, has been "Marse" Henry. The editor of the "Star-Eyed Goddess" has lost none of his virility because of his age, neither has his pen become less facile; yet his judgment, which we, in our boyish admiration, thought infallible, is often not better than that of many other men.

We recall his doleful prophecy at the Chicago convention in 1892, when, on the platform, with tears in his eyes, he plead with the delegates who composed that convention to not make the mistake of nominating Grover Cleveland for the presidency. In lugubrious tones "Marse" Henry said Cleveland could not be elected; that his nomination meant for the democracy "A march through an Open Grave to a Slaughter House." That "Morse" Henry was then mistaken all the world now knows. He has taken a peculiar delight in the criticism of Bryan and his ideas; and yet we have all lived to see the principles enunciated by Bryan become the principles of a united and militant democracy, and endorsed by a very large per cent of the republican party. So "Marse" Henry must have been wrong again.

Might not "Marse" Henry be again mistaken in denominating Wilson as merely a "school-master?" We think without doubt he is; and that Governor Wilson is the biggest character than has loomed above the presidential horizon since the trying days of '76. We have been an admirer of Woodrow Wilson from the announcement of his presidential candidacy, and our admiration grows with the lengthening of the days. Despite "Marse" Henry's tirade, we believe Wilson to be more firmly entrenched than ever in the hearts of the people.

Increased Benefits Proposed.

A bill has been introduced in congress, a copy of which may be found elsewhere in this issue, which, should it become a law, will widen the sphere of usefulness of the Marine Hospital at Fort Stanton. As the institution is now conducted, the restrictions limit the admission of patients to sailors, while the new proposition would admit many others equally worthy and needy, including navy and army men.

The passage of this bill will not only have the effect of widening the influences and benefits of the institution, but it will, naturally, necessitate more extensive accommodations, give employment to more men and create a better market in every way for local products of all kinds. In view of the benefits that would accrue to Lincoln county, we would respectfully request every citizen of Lincoln county to at once urge upon congress the speedy passage of the measure.

A BILL.

To provide for admission of volunteer soldiers and sailors who served in the United States Army or Navy in the war with Spain or the Philippine insurtion, and who are afflicted with tuberculosis, to the United States Public Health and Marine-Hospital sanatorium at Ft. Stanton, New Mexico.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that from and after the passage of this act any volunteer soldier or sailor who served in the United States Army or Navy in the war with Spain or the Philippine insurrection and was honorably discharged therefrom, and who has contracted tuberculosis, may be admitted to the United States Public Health and Marine-Hospital Service sanatorium at Fort Stanton, New Mexico, under regulations of the Surgeon General of said service.

New Board Organizes.

The new Board of County Commissioners met here Monday and perfected and organization. The following are the members: R.

A. Duran, Lincoln, 1st district; Melvin Franks, Corona, 2nd district; W. M. Ferguson, Nogal, 3rd district. Melvin Franks was elected chairman.

The board was in session until Tuesday evening, at which time it adjourned till the regular April term. Quite a little business was transacted, some contracts let, road supervisors and a health officer appointed and a general arrangements of the manner of keeping accounts outlined. The proceedings will appear in next week's issue.

A bicyclist was riding down hill when his hat blew off. A passing countryman picked it up and took it to him as he circled around, saving him the trouble of getting off. "I really must get a hat guard to keep it on," remarked the cyclist, as he rode off without a word of thanks. The yokel's reply was short, but expressive. "Get a mail," he said.

DEVICE FOR CUTTING WASHER

Bit for Carpenter's Brace, Arranged by Connecticut Man, to Cut Out Any Sized Article.

An ingenious device for cutting out washers has been invented by a Connecticut man. It is in the form of a carpenter's bit, and when inserted in a brace carves a washer out of a piece of leather in less time than it takes to tell. The bit broadens at the bottom, and has a pivotal spike running down from the center to form an axis on which it revolves. There are two horizontal slots at the bottom, through each of which runs a screw which regulates a cutting spike. There is also a rule beneath these slots in order to accurately gauge the diameter of the washer by indicating where the screws should be set. It is advisable first to set the cutters at the diameter of the outer circle of the washer so that the pivot will have something left to move on when the inner circle is cut. By inserting this bit in a carpenter's brace the washer can be cut out of the toughest piece of leather in one revolution of the brace.

MINING CAP IS MADE SAFE

Misfires in Mines Made Practically Impossible by Use of This Simple Little Article.

Misfires in mine blasting are said to be impossible with this mining cap, which is of simple construction and designed to prevent any moisture whatever from getting into the fulminate which explodes the blasting charge when it is detonated by the heat of the burning fuse.

The fulminate is contained in the lower part of the cap, which fits tightly over the fuse. The upper end has an expanded portion which fits over this, and ingress of moisture is prevented by a rubber sleeve and a special waterproof preparation, says the Popular Mechanics. Longitudinal slits in the expanded end permit of the necessary expansion of the upper part of the device when it is forced over the lower part. The illustration shows the simplicity of the device in use.

PAPER PULP OF SUGAR CANE

One of Greatest Problems of Mercantile World Solved by Recent Discoveries in Trinidad.

One of the greatest problems that are brought before the mercantile world for consideration as a result of the rapid decrease in the timber supply is the discovery of a fitting substitute for wood pulp in the manufacture of paper. A short time ago we published a report of the French system of making paper pulp from vines. The latest suggestion, however, is the utilization of sugar cane, and as far as it has been tested it has appeared in the light of a genuine solution.

The planters in Trinidad have found that they can add enormously to their yearly profits by raising their cane and treating it with the specific object of turning it into paper, with the manufacture of sugar as a mere side issue. The process which they have now adopted makes it possible to use all the fiber of the cane for paper and at the same time to get more sugar from it than by any of the old methods. The United States consul at Santiago moreover reports that the manufacture of paper from the cane is exciting considerable interest and some investment in all the sugar country and an American company has installed special machinery at Preston on Tripe bay.

The machinery will separate the pulp from the fiber. The water is eliminated and the pulp and fiber dried with all the elements of sugar still in them. The pulp and fiber are handled separately and the sugar extracted so that the fiber is not broken. High grade paper can be made from the fiber and from the pulp residue a coarser product is turned out which has a commercial value, while the quality of the sugar is in no wise affected.

SHAKER FOR CEMENT SIEVES

Pennsylvania Man Designs Convenient and Rapid Device for Making Fineness Tests.

A. D. Gates, Bureau of Standards Testing Laboratory, Northampton, Pa., describes in Engineering News a convenient and rapid mechanical shaker for cement sieves designed by him, which is being used in making fineness tests on cement for the Panama canal. It is shown by the drawing herewith.

The machine is composed of a wooden board resting on rollers, which are attached to a steel frame. The board is reciprocated by a pitman attached to a 16-inch pulley on a 1 inch crankshaft. The pulley is driven by a belt from a small motor. The board, on which the sieves and collecting pans are placed, carries two blocks of wood for each sieve; these are cut to 4 1/2 inch radius, or larger than that of the sieves, and are set 1/4-inch off center so that when the apparatus is in operation the sieve is shaken well and at the same time is rotated. Around the outside of each collecting pan is attached a piece of felt, so that impact with the board may be deadened. The reciprocating part has a stroke of 3 inch. Its speed is 300 strokes per minute. Sieves of standard size are used.

Mr. Gates claims that one can make 75 complete fineness tests in a day by using the machine, while it would require six men to make the same number of tests by the hand method. It requires about 15 minutes to make the test on the 200 sieve, and 5 minutes on the 100 sieve, making a total of 20 minutes per set of samples, or an average of 6 2/3 minutes per sample.

Further, the results obtained with the machine are more uniform than those obtained with hand shaking.

EUROPE SHOCKED AT GAY DOINGS OF SPANISH KING

PRIS.—Leopold is dead; long live Alfonso!

Albeit they sat and sit not on the same throne, one has succeeded the other, and there is another demonstration of the inner significance of "le roi est mort; vive le roi." One passes; some weep; some rejoice; the big world spins and cares not at all; another succeeds and supplants. When Leopold died he had reached that age and senectitude where the crown of wild olive might well have circled his head. Instead he wore into the grave the crown of wild oats. That he wore, too, the crown of the Belgians was to him incidental. He could not pass either the Belgian or the olive circlet to the young Bourbon, but he did leave him the oaten wreath.

The scandal is all over Europe. Paris, which has a million recording eyes, knows that the young Spanish throne holder is such a blade as Paris likes to have drawn in its pleasure places. London has known the gayety of Alfonso's humors. Madrid and La Granja? Yes, Alfonso has even been indiscreet; the philanderings have got back home. The neighbors and female relatives are talking in husky undertones across the "back fences."

And what are they saying? Well, what can one say of a king? Is he not royal and is not royalty supposed to have reserved for himself some rights? True enough they chased the callow little Manuel out of Portugal for just such escapades, as Mlle. Deslys is herself willing to admit for purposes of publicity, but then, that affair was just the last straw. Perhaps they shall shoot at the heels of Alfonso for much the same reason one of these days; they get restless in Spain often enough.

And no one needs be reminded of the Baroness de Vaughan, that daughter of a concierge and a brothel, whom Leopold established in a palace, just a gentle stroll from his own Laskaen, who is the mother of his reputed children; upon whom he showered titles, wealth and largesse, and to whom he left the bulk of his great private fortune? As long as men still talk of the indiscretions of kings, Leopold and the Janitor's daughter will not be forgotten.

At the beginning of this story of Alfonso's little gallivantings let it be said that he has done nothing to hold a candle to the goings of the old Belgian. But not for that reason should he feel discouragement. He is young, and—revolutionists being considerable meanwhile—he has time.

Alfonso's Inheritance.

Alfonso began to betray interest in things that young kings should eschew early in life. He came by the inclination honestly. Alfonso XII. wasn't so slow. Files of newspaper clippings which go not more than half a dozen years into antiquity contain the record of his children by amorganatic wife suing for recognition or legitimization or something like that, and memory, if it stretch itself about thirty years, would drag forth a good many whisper-worthy stories of the Spanish king who died before the heir, the present Alfonso, was born.

Probably the only melancholy figure in this scene is the fair-haired, patient queen, who was Empress of Battenberg. She is the mother of four of Alfonso's children. Life to her consists mainly of the duties of the household and the nursery. It may be true that this is by all odds the greatest tribute for a woman, yet it is hardly in accord with what a queen might expect.

Queen Victoria, when she first came to Spain to share the throne of Alfonso, was the object of much Castilian bitterness. The social notables of the country, in which nearly everyone is either an aristocrat of high breeding or an actual peasant, opposed her with no little show of spleen. It was even asserted that His Most Catholic Majesty, a Bourbon, and by the same token in their opinion head of the most royal European houses, was ally-ing himself with a much inferior race, with a woman in whose antecedents had been a dancer. The dons forgot, of course, that the intimacy between the late Spanish king and certain dancers is a matter of romantic history. They were not counting, to be sure, on Alfonso's fondness for the same sort of thing.

Hostility Overcome by Gentleness.

Thus Victoria stepped into an atmosphere of cordial hostility. All this she has overcome; her good English gentleness, patience and virtuous domesticity has melted away the objections of the aristocrats. But other troubles and worse assail her now. She cannot but know the leanings of her royal husband and cannot but grieve at them, for, even though the hot blood of a Spaniard may think little of gallivanting, the cooler veins of England and Germany must shrink. Victoria is not happy, even with her children and the respect of her people.

One of the vows exacted of the woman who marries a Spanish king is that she will bear him as many children as possible. This vow Victoria took and the regularly growing family of the young monarch attests her fixedness of promise.

A queen is different from any other woman, especially if she be young. Empress of Battenberg was a serious but pleasure-loving princess; probably she is a pleasure-loving woman. Even so it might not be so tragic to devote a life entirely to the rearing of a family if the king himself made less of ulterior matters. But the fate of a woman pledged to a large family and a philandering husband is hardly what the usual mind would look upon as happy.

Speaking of newspaper clippings, a number bearing on this matter bear cautious worth copying:

"Young King Is Wild; Dignified Spanish Ministry Likely to Get Many Shocks; Priests Are Horrified; Boy Monarch Mocks at Holy Relics and Scouts Traditions of the Church; Shows His Father's Traits; Haughty Dons Are Apprehensive of Court Scandals When Their Ruler Realizes His Full Power." "Spain's King Is Merry While Subjects Mourn; Joyful Times at Ritz." "Peter Pan Alfonso Never Will Grow Up." "King to Do Paris as Suits His Fancy; Court Finds Him Wayward; Sighs for American Bride." "Alfonso the Fickle." "King in Paris Incognito a Treat to Boulevardiers."

Under each of these captions is a story, more or less spicy, dealing with some scandalous thing the young Spaniard has done.

Concerning the Mysterious Lamy.

There is a story current in Paris, which may not have been told before, of a certain mysterious Mons. Lamy, who goes and comes and spends money freely, and is the gayest of the gay, and then drops back to obscurity. No one appears to know much about him except that he gets a good deal of suspicious deference from those who are very close to him. He disappears for months at a time only to turn up again, prosperous, gay and blithe as ever. And—hush! scandal!! He bears a striking resemblance to Alfonso of Spain. Some are even so lacking in tact as to whisper that the mystic M. Lamy is none other than the Spanish king. But who in this skeptical age pays the least attention to the gossip?

And there is another little story of a beautiful black-eyed singer of Paris, who left once about the time M. Lamy went on one of his periodic hibernations. Later some Parisians who are in the habit of knowing the notables—boulevard notables—happened upon the singer in Madrid. She was not singing there; indeed, there was no opera in the Spanish capital at the time. At another time she was seen leaving a little-used portal of the royal palace. Still later she reappeared in Paris concurrently with the return of the gay M. Lamy.

Ludwig's Case an Example?

Even if Lamy is no other than Alfonso, and that there was no opera in Madrid, and that she was seen coming from the palace, one must conclude no worse than that the monarch is fond of good singing and took her to Madrid with him to hear more of her voice where the vulgar audiences would not disturb his enjoyment. Ludwig of Bavaria sat alone in a theater for months of nights listening to Wagner's music and going mad. Why not Alfonso?

The late King Edward of England, who was burdened with no great reputation for primness, noticed on Alfonso's several visits to him that the Spaniard was quite as fond of the glances of chorus girls as of polo. The English are a polite, constrained people. They do not gossip like their French neighbors, so one hears little of the sequel to the things King Edward noticed.

And all of this goes to show merely that Europe has not yet been stripped of its last gay king. Even if George of England is a puritan and his wife, Mary, a prude; even if the czar is a coward; even if Franz Josef is preparing for the grave; even if William of Germany is busy with war and politics; even, ah! even if Leopold is dead and dust, we still have Alfonso. He is all the gay could wish, a sport, a sportsman, a boulevardier, a riser of life and limb and reputation. He plays polo, tennis, golf, drives motor boats, fast automobiles and would like to take a flyer in airships (how appropriate!) He looks as well on a Paris boulevard as a nice looking com-moner. What more can the aybarite conscience ask of a mere king?—New York World.

Her Preference.

Old Stratilace—Miss Pert. would you like for a pet a lively terrier or a merry little spaniel?

Miss Pert—I'd prefer a sad dog, sir.

A True Friend.

Feet—Can you give me a tip on stocks?

Street—Yes, but in consideration of our long friendship, I won't.

Telling the Truth.

"John," said Mrs. Jones, solemnly, "what are all those packages you are addressing to your stenographer?"

"Typewriter supplies," asserted Mr. Jones.

And who shall say he lied. The packages contained nothing but chocolates, chewing gum, roses and an invitation to luncheon.

Manana.

In describing the daily life of a certain distinguished citizen of the republic, a writer in the Review of Reviews gives, by way of contrast, the story that follows:

This calls to mind the English humorous writer who sketched out his daily program as follows: Rise at noon; breakfast at 1; a stroll to the club; attention to mail; some afternoon calls; a ride in the park; dinner; a round of evening parties, and then to bed.

"But when do you do your literary work?" he was asked.

"Why, the next day, of course," was the reply.

Fooling Himself.

John H. Finley, president of the College of the City of New York, was talking to a group of librarians at the state library convention:

"Too many books at the present time," he said, "are written solely to sell. Their authors try to make us think that they are producing literature, but they can't fool us. They only fool themselves. The men might produce literature if they would just put a little more sincerity into their work, but, as it is, they remind me of Jake McMasters."

"You're workin' very hard today, Jake, me son," said a friend. "How many hods o' mortar, in the name of heaven, have ye carried up that ladder since startin' time?"

"Hush, me lad," said Jake, with a wink, "I'm foolin' the boss, I've carried the same hodful up and down all day, and he thinks I'm workin'."

A GLIMPSE OF THE MILLENNIUM.

If ever the Carnegie ideal of a Federal commission to fix prices every month is realized, all business troubles will cease, all household cares vanish.

With Judge Gary, Col. Roosevelt, George W. Perkins and Attorney-General Wickersham, all votaries of this beneficent reform, acting as Mr. Carnegie's assistants, the long-abused consumer can rise from his bed and sit down to breakfast, sustained and soothed with the unfaltering trust that everything has been thoughtfully arranged in advance for his personal convenience. The price of the sugar in his cup of coffee, of the spoon with which he eats his egg, of the wood in his chair, of the cotton in the tablecloth, of the wool that should be in his coat, will have been equitably adjusted by a Government official and he can have no further care about the cost of living. As he comes down town on the elevated he can console himself with the thought that Judge Gary has fixed the price of rails, Mr. Carnegie has regulated the cost of libraries, Col. Roosevelt has settled the rates of advertising, Mr. Wickersham has equalized legal fees and Mr. Perkins has considered the proper cost of political and agricultural machinery. He will have nothing to worry about.

If he is a clerk, a salesman, a mechanic, a longshoreman, the morning paper will tell him what he is to be paid for his services and what he must pay everybody else for whatever they may have to sell. Toward the end of the month of January Messrs. Carnegie, Roosevelt, Gary, Perkins and Wickersham, as universal trustees, will meet again and fix the prices of everything for February, and as the first of March draws near they will hold another brief session and regulate everybody's business for them again. So the procession of the months will roll happily on, year after year, each month bringing its new Federal price list of daily commodities, good for thirty days.

The thing is so delightfully simple that the wonder is the world has waited for it so many centuries. The Carnegie price commission will impart to life an easier, brighter, joyfuller look. It will do away with all bargaining and dickering and all wearing competition. It will make an end of speculation and reduce litigation. It will fill every man's pocket, guarantee a reasonable profit to every industrial magnate distressed for dividends, regulate everybody's board-bill and solve all questions of wages. It will provide for all those who are about to enter into matrimony, combat race suicide or depart from this life, reliable Government estimates of the exact costs of marriage, birth and death.

A people that balks at these blessings of a higher state law is unfit to be governed in its small daily affairs by philanthropists, politicians and captains of industry.

Charged With Forgery.

Charged with forgery in several small amounts in Trinidad, and in cities in New Mexico, and Texas, Felix Martinez, Jr., son of Felix Martinez of El Paso and Albuquerque, reputed to be a millionaire, was arrested tonight under the alias Louis Gonzales. The elder Martinez accumulated his wealth in sheep trading in Texas and New Mexico and is widely known in both states.

When arrested the son had in his pocket a letter from a "heart broken father" pleading with his boy to return home.

Martinez, Jr., it is said, has been in hiding from Texas and New Mexico officers for several months. He is married and for several months lived near here on a large ranch, but several weeks ago suddenly left this section. Today he returned, considerably changed in personal appearance and was recognized.—Roswell Morning News.

Misses Kate Chanler, Lorena Sager, Allie Johnson and Sallie Hilderbrand spent Sunday in White Oaks the guests of Miss Johnson's sister, Mrs. Sam Kelsey.

Albert Zeigler left Saturday evening for New York City to buy his spring line of goods. He will also visit his wife and daughter at Trinidad, Colo., before returning home.

Samuel Hall and sister of Three Rivers were visitors to our city Monday.

Engineer Eddy Thompkins, of Tucumcari, was greeting old friends in Carrizozo Tuesday.

F. W. Gurney made a business trip to El Paso Sunday, returning Tuesday night.

Thos. Moore, of Sterling Colo. was in the city this week looking after some cattle business.

John A. Haley, editor of the NEWS, has been quite sick for the past several days, but is much improved at this time.

Mrs. Wallace Gumm, went to Corona Tuesday evening where she will be for a few days engaged in school work.

A. T. Blair, of the Carrizozo Trading Co., will leave tomorrow evening for a ten days' business trip to St. Louis. He will also make things "sit up and take notice" in Chicago before returning home.

George J. Dingwall, of the NEWS office, went to El Paso Sunday evening to be at the bedside of his brother Bennett, who had undergone an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Dingwall returned Tuesday evening with the news that his brother was doing nicely and that he will probably be out at an early date.

The International Bank of Commerce of Tucumcari, has closed its doors and is in the hands of the state bank examiner. It is reported that a partial examination of affairs of the institution reveals the fact that the failure will be a very serious one but that no other bank will be affected by its failure.

Mr. Eugene Gordon master mechanic, accompanied by J. E. Kimbell, local master mechanic, and Mr. Bartz traveling fireman, made a test trip on a new superheated engine No. 210. This engine proved very satisfactory, handling a heavy train on less fuel than other engines of the same type not superheated. These superheaters may be used exclusively in the near future.

Juarez Has Again Fallen.

The soldiers of the city of Juarez, Mexico, mutinied yesterday and took possession of the city. The movement does not seem to have any connection with the various insurrections that are in progress in the republic, but appears to be a protest against any authorized government. The soldiers have broken into stores, demolished buildings and killed and wounded a number of non-combatants. The Madero government is hastening troops from the interior to re-capture the city and to punish the leaders of the mutiny.

What can equal a mother's love for the boy? You boys have grown up from tender babies under a mother's watchful care. Ah, boys, how many heartaches do you cause that dear old mother? Do you realize the world of affection in a mother's heart? What joy can you have in her sorrow? What pleasure in her pain? Stop, my lad, and think of your mother's heart. You have it in your power to make it glad, or make it sad. Let your heart warm to hers as it did when a babe in her arms. Kindly stroke the gray hairs on her head and assure her that in your heart there is seated a deep and lasting love and reverence for her.

HIT AND MISS.

A head waiter in an El Paso hotel says tipping will be well maintained when commercial travelers are but a memory.

An Albuquerque woman boasts that she has lived a hundred years and never been kissed. Just think of a century of waisted years.

Roswell physicians say that school children are becoming toothless. If the price of food keeps on going up the average child will not need any teeth.

The latest invention in El Paso is an alarm clock which not only awakens the sleeper, but lights the gas. Modern invention is doing its utmost to murder sleep.

A Tucumcari woman seeking a divorce, blames the spirit of her husband's first wife. But, naturally, this plea will not have the ghost of a show in the court proceedings.

A business man in Santa Fe has an eighty-year-old stenographer. From the point of view of a business man's wife, that is the proper age for stenographers.

A Deming woman is about to take unto herself a sixth husband after having buried five of them. It behooves the organist to play a funeral march during the wedding.

A cab horse which was struck by an automobile in El Paso last week, became despondent and deliberately committed suicide. Evidently he figured that fate was rapping it in.

A Santa Rosa man eighty years of age, is being sued for breach of promise. We are hoping the lady has no letters of his for which he referred to himself as her "baby."

A farmer near Lincoln read in the paper the other day that New York city had 10,000 Poles. "What do you think of that, Amanda," said he to his wife, "let's move there and raise pole beans?"

It is said that the girl clerks in Herrin have inter-sworn that they will not be pop-corned, kissed, hugged or wedded by any but men holding union cards. Now Cupid is in for the funniest time of his long and eventful life.

A Socorro county man tells of falling into a den of rattlesnakes, and of the horrible fascination he felt in watching them crawl around and over him, and of finally getting up and with the assistance of a friend, killing four or five. It must be an unusually lively brand which produces an experience so out of the common patch.

Amateur Play Feb. 9th.

The Amateur Theatrical Club of Carrizozo will present a drama in four acts, "Because I Love You," on Friday evening, February 9th.

This play is probably the strongest drama of the modern romantic style ever written, and is given under the auspices of the Woman's Home Mission Society of the Methodist church.

The cast of characters is as follows:

Imogene Courtleigh—Willful, wayward and wealthy. Mrs. John Eric Bell.
Ginger—A Gypsy walt, Mrs. A. J. Rolland.
Nance Tysar—Her supposed mother, Mrs. Frank Elliot.
Prudence Frechart—A poor relation, Mrs. Stanley Squire.

Hoxos Verner—An artist, and accidentally a married man, Art J. Rolland.
Dink Potts—His chum, and incidentally in love with Ginger, Thos. Davis.

Ira Courtleigh—Imogene's guardian, Lee B. Chase.

Back Tyson—A Gypsy tinker, S. N. Northlane.

Elmer Van Sittert—Anglo-manic New Yorker, Prosper Sherry.

Major Duffy—County Clerk and confederate veteran, John E. Bell.

Squire Ripley—A Virginia Landlord, Frank Elliott.

Lige—A gentleman of color, Morgan Bally.

SYNOPSIS OF SCENES.

ACT I.—"The Geo. Washington," a country tavern in Old Virginia. An important wedding.

ACT II.—Lover's leap. A blue mountain precipice. A daring rescue.

ACT III.—The Courtleigh Place, plantation mansion. A woman's folly.

ACT IV.—The mountain studio, a painter's paradise. An affair of honor.

PERILS OF TALK.

Oh, bitter yet insidious fate
Is oft the finish of the great!
What melancholy mishaps grow
From some few sentences which show

A heart too generally inclined
To educate the public mind!
A flow of speech all gratis stirred

That waits not for so much per word

Promotes a state of feeling sad.

Oh, how is glory to be had?

One man attains a lofty lot

By frequent eloquence, red hot.

Another wins fame's kind caress

Because of silent pensiveness—

Which seems, indeed, the safest plan.

Since all the history of man

No sadder tale than this can tell:

"He talked not wisely, but too well!"

IT PAYS TO BUY ADVERTISED GOODS.

Because the advertiser has done something to inspire confidence.

He has not only explained the value and usefulness of his product, but has put his personality and reputation behind his statements.

He can be trusted because his business is at stake.

He believes in his goods to the extent of investing his capital, not only in making the goods right but in advertising, which will not prove permanently profitable if he fails to make good—secure repeat orders.

The advertising is not only a protection to the trade name, but it is the advertiser's guarantee of quality.

You are justified in being suspicious of unadvertised goods, because, however much confidence the dealer or manufacturer may have in them, he has not enough faith in them to spend money in telling others of their goodness.

It always pays to buy advertised goods.

MYSTERY OF GLASS.

A correspondent recently reported what he described as the "curious freak" of a blackbird flying against a parlor window many times at the same spot. Such an incident is not uncommon. Birds have been known to fight for hours at a time, day after day, with their own image reflected in a pane of glass, pecking and fluttering against the pane and quite exhausting themselves in their fury to demolish the supposed rival. It is another instance of how the arts of our civilization corrupt and confuse the birds. It is the same with fishes. Darwin tells a story of a pike in an aquarium separated by plate glass from fish which were its proper food. In trying to get at the fish the pike would often dash with such violence against the glass as to be completely stunned. It did this for more than three months before it learned caution. Then when the glass was removed the pike would not attack those particular fishes, but would devour others freshly introduced. It did not at all understand the situation, but associated the punishment it had received not with the glass, but with a particular kind of fish. Darwin's American monkeya proved themselves more "knowing." When they cut themselves once with any sharp tool they would not touch it again or else would handle it with the greatest caution. Thus they gave evidence of the simpler forms of reason of which monkeys are no doubt capable, but birds are evidently lacking in reasoning powers.

Whatever may be said of the ex-king of Portugal, he has a saving sense of humor. Incontinently dumped out of his regal position, he makes his home near London, from which vantage point he can watch the efforts of those who dethroned him. Down in his heart, of course, there must be anger combined with regret that he is no longer the official head of his country; but if we may believe the reports, ex-King Manuel is not eating his heart out on that or any other account. The most recent international gossip that the duke de Vizeu has fallen heir to the role of the Portuguese pretender, and is endeavoring to so interest an American woman that she will back up his efforts with her money (her daughter is his wife) must amuse the ex-king, says the Cincinnati Times-Star. Those close to him say he is most frank in declaring that he has no anxiety to gain his throne again—just yet. Portugal, according to Rev. Dr. Gaster, who is said to know the situation, "will not be a republic long." But Dr. Gaster believes that if the throne is regained it will be for Manuel, not the Duke de Vizeu. Meanwhile the young Braganza, doing his own thinking, makes use of that excellent old saying: "Patience—and shuffle the cards."

The old question, "Do lightning rods protect?" has been referred to Thomas A. Edison, and Mr. Edison replies: "One or more metallic conductors at least one quarter inch in diameter of either iron or copper, without joints, when connected to a proper amount of metallic surface connected with a permanently damp earth, will certainly protect a house from being affected by lightning. Any metallic surface on roofs, etc., when connected with rods, will increase protection." That ought to settle that.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

Schley Gifts in the National Museum

WASHINGTON.—The National Museum has recently received a large and valuable collection of memorials of the late Rear-Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, U. S. N. This collection has been deposited by Mrs. Schley, widow of the admiral, and comprises a group of over 100 articles consisting of swords, medals, trophies, silver plate, uniforms, and personal mementos of the late admiral, pertaining to his naval career as well as to his Masonic and other similar affiliations.

The collection contains a number of gold medals which were presented to Admiral Schley during the course of his long service in the navy, and especially in connection with the Spanish war, in recognition of his brilliant achievements. Among them is a gold medal from the Humane Society of Massachusetts, presented as a token of esteem for his faithful service when in command of the U. S. Expedition to Cape Sabine, which in 1884 rescued Lieut. (now general) Greeley and the other six survivors of the Grebley Arctic expedition.

There is also a handsome gold watch his native state, Maryland, presented to him in commemoration of the same event. Another medal, gorgeously studded with diamonds, was presented to the admiral by the state of Maryland at the close of the Spanish war, in recognition of his services in the battle of Santiago de Cuba, July 3, 1898, when the Spanish fleet was destroyed.

Several handsome swords are included in the collection, gifts in commemoration of the same achievement, one from the state of Maryland and another, finished in gold, with a gem-encrusted scabbard and hilt, presented by the Knights Templars. Probably of most interest is the sword worn by Admiral Schley through his entire naval service of forty-one years, beginning with his graduation from Annapolis in 1860 and extending to 1901, when he reached the age limit and was retired.

Cloth for Uniforms Must Be Perfect

WHEN the government gives out a $1,000,000 cloth contract it sees to it that it gets material according to specifications. On this account the men of the United States army come nearer knowing to a certainty what they are buying in the way of cloth than do any other consumers in the country.

On Governor's Island, New York city, there is a testing laboratory for cloth. A specification of the weight per linear yard of each kind of cloth is mentioned; each bolt of goods is weighed, and if it falls short of the proper weight it is thrown out. Next the question of wear and tear is considered, and again the specification is stated that each special kind of cloth will stand a strain of so many pounds to the inch filling way. So after weighing the next test is to put a sample and try in a machine the strength of the cloth. If it will not stand this test the cloth is thrown out.

After the cloth has been pronounced perfect for weight and strength the dye tests are made; it must stand two acid tests for perspiration and the material must stand boiling for ten minutes in a certain soap solution, showing that it will stand washing with strong alkalis; and finally comes the weather test, the material being exposed 20 days on the roof without changing color appreciably.

If the cloth has passed its examinations successfully each yard of each piece is inspected, being run over machines for the purpose, while inspectors watch for any imperfections in the weaves. An eighth of a yard for each imperfection is charged to the manufacturer.

Federal Prison for Women Under Way

UNCLE SAM'S women prisoners, nearly five hundred of them, now scattered in state penitentiaries all over the country, soon will have a prison of their own, a prison inside a prison, in fact, into which no man, aside from a few higher officers ever will penetrate.

The new prison is being built inside the walls of the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan. It occupies one corner of the prison inclosure, from which it will be cut off by high walls, as secure as those which surround the main inclosure. Though less likely to chance escape than the men, the women will be more securely confined than the most desperate characters in the men's prison. No community of news will be any more closely shut off from the world. Few visitors ever will penetrate the walls of the women's prison, and even visits from relatives will be confined as much as possible to women relatives. The government now pays the various states in whose prisons women federal prisoners are kept a stated sum for their board. These women generally have been convicted of violations of the postal or revenue laws, counterfeiting, white slavery and, in some instances, assault or murder. While their new prison will be under the control of the warden of the United States penitentiary, it will be under the direct supervision of a woman, who probably will have the title of superintendent. No guards, strictly speaking, will be necessary, but there will be several women warders, whose duties, however, will perforce more of the nature of forewomen.

BURNING ITCH WAS CURED

"I deem it my duty to tell about a cure that the Cuticura Soap and Ointment have made on myself. My trouble began in spots breaking out right in the edge of my hair on the forehead, and spread over the front part of the top of my head from ear to ear, and over my ears which caused a most fearful burning itch, or scabies.

"For three years I had this terrible breaking out on my forehead and scalp. I tried our family doctor and he failed to cure it. Then I tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and used them for two months with the result of a complete cure. Cuticura Soap and Ointment should have the credit due, and I have advised a lot of people to use them." (Signed) C. D. Tharrington, Creek, N. C., Jan. 26, 1911.

Itching Scalp—Hair Fell Out.
"I will say that I have been suffering with an itching on my scalp for the past few years. My hair fell out in spots all over my head. My scalp started to trouble me with sores, then the sores healed up, and crusts formed on the top. Then the hair fell out and left me three bald spots the shape of a half dollar. I went to more than one doctor, but could not get any relief, so I started to use the Cuticura Remedies. I tried one bar of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment, and felt relieved right away. Now the bald spots have disappeared, and my hair has grown, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to all that are suffering with scalp trouble." (Signed) Samuel Stern, 236 Floyd St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 7, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 9 K, Boston.

His Suspicion.
"Well, whaddy you want?"
"I am the man who was married in the cage of wildcats."
"I asted ye whaddy you want?"
"I thought I would like to look into the cage again. I fear I left my wife there and took one of the wildcats."

Ancients Used Lightning Rods.
As early as 400 B. C. the ancients had observed that iron rods had the power to avert lightning.

Dr. T. W. Watson, county treasurer, was over from Lincoln Saturday night and returned the following day.

District Attorney Hamilton returned Friday from Estancia, where he had been looking after the state's interest in the district court. A number of convictions were secured in Torrance county through his activity.

G. Fris, the El Paso Herald man who makes this section regularly, was in the city yesterday.

Don't forget the entertainment given by the Ladies' Home Mission Society at Real's Hall tonight.

W. E. Blanchard was over from the Blanchard Bros. ranch from Friday to Sunday. He reports some disagreeable weather on the east side.

FOR SALE: Mission Grape cuttings, 5 cents a piece. Now ready for delivery. Address Mrs. Adilee M. Calfee, care of Joe Ashford, Oscuro, N. M.

Harry Keables came down from Capitan Monday and left for El Paso that afternoon. Mr. Keables is having trouble with his eyes and went to El Paso to consult a specialist.

Ralph Dow, of Lincoln, passed through this week on his way to El Paso. He was formerly an employee of the E. P. & S. W. office.

Melvin Franks, of Corona, commissioner from the 2nd district, is in Oklahoma this week, looking after some farming and stock interest he has there.

John H. Skinner returned Wednesday evening from Texas, where he has been since October. Mr. Skinner disposed of several cars of Lincoln county apples while away.

We had hoped to publish the proceedings of the last commissioners meeting, but the copy did not reach us until the forms were ready for press. The minutes will be published next week.

T. H. Kirkland came over from Capitan yesterday with a car load of apples, grown on his Hondo ranch. He left with the car last night for Dalhart, Texas, where he hopes to dispose of the shipment.

Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, who is under sentence of death for the murder of his former sweetheart, Avis Linnell, was expelled last week from Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge, Mass., of which he was pastor at the time of his arrest.

Mrs. George Spence returned Sunday morning from Mississippi, where she has been visiting relatives the past two months. Her daughter, Miss Grace, who accompanied her on the visit, will not return until the early summer.

Conde Skinner was dragged from his carriage Saturday by a frightened team, and thrown violently to the ground producing injuries from which it took him sometime to recover. The tongue was broken out of his vehicle, which necessitated a trip to the shop.

Mass Meeting.

The Board of school directors have called a mass meeting for Monday night, possibly at Real's Hall. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss plans whereby the present term of school may be lengthened, and also to ascertain the opinion of the public with reference to making an additional special levy for next year. All interested persons should attend.

Two New Passenger Trains.

Two extra passenger trains will be put on Sunday, February 11th, Nos. 33 and 34, and both trains will stop here for dinner. The schedule of the other passenger trains, Nos. 1, 2 3 and 4, remains the same, and the new trains will arrive here and depart as follows: No 33 arrives at 3:10 p. m., leaves 3:35 p. m., going west. No. 34 arrives at 12:01 p. m., leaves 12:25 p. m. going east.

This schedule, therefore, gives us two extra daylight trains, which will be quite convenient to the traveling public.

Notice.

The annual K. P. Ball to be given by Myrtle Lodge No. 19, will be held at Capitan school house on Feb. 19, 1912. All Knights are cordially invited to attend.

E. E. Phillips has a contract for drilling a well for Ed R. Kelley, and is now down about 75 feet. The location is at the north end of the Mal pias, about 25 miles from here. Mr. Phillips thinks he will encounter a good flow of water a 150 feet. The well is in a splendid grass country and plenty of water will make it a valuable piece of property. Mr. Phillips is an experienced driller and has a very fine machine. If there is water there he will get it.

Meistersingers Male Quartette.

The justly celebrated Meistersingers male quartette will be in Carrizozo Tuesday night, February 20th, and entertain the music-loving people of Carrizozo and surrounding country on that occasion. This will be the fifth and last entertainment by the Lyceum Agency of Kansas City, for this winter. The following press comment will give an idea of the nature of the entertainment:

"There was not a dull moment or an uninteresting number in the entire program of two hours. It has been a long time since Siloam Springs had anything in line that equaled the Meistersingers. Their quartette work was superb, no matter whether it was in comic, pathetic or sacred music. These music makers are trained to a turn, their voices harmonizing as one perfect instrument, and their enunciation was clear and distinct. As the grand notes of chorus after chorus swelled out, the audience was held enraptured. —Daily Record, Siloam Springs, Ark."

"The Meistersingers made their first appearance yesterday afternoon before an immense audience of six thousand, and at once won favor. The quartette was called back time and time again and each time the people seemed to enjoy their work more, never tiring of hearing them. The work of the quartette is very fine and the boys are in truth and fact mastersingers." —Daily Citizen, Centerville, Ia.

A Story With a Moral.

A man who was too economical to subscribe for a paper, sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by his neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His father ran to his assistance, and failing to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into that cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $4.00 pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the corn field and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the wife ran out upset a four gallon churn of rich cream into a basket of little chickens, drowning the entire hatch. In her haste she dropped a $25 set of false teeth. The baby, having been left alone, crawled through the spilled milk and into the parlor ruining a brand new $20 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter eloped with the hired man, the dog broke up eleven setting hens, and the calves got out and chewed the tails of four fine shirts on the clothes line.

WOMAN'S REALM

IN VELVET AND SKUNK

PRETTY COAT JUST NOW IS HEIGHT OF FASHION.

Pictured Model Shows Charming Arrangement of Shawl Collar as an Approved and Decorative Addition to Skirt.

It is not in the least necessary to have one of the very abbreviated coats, writes a Paris authority, and I can promise that you will be equally and eminently fashionable if you follow your desires, and the lengthier and more elegant lines of the pictured model, the skunk bordering of the charmingly arranged shawl collar being continued as a finish for the whole coat, and the fur also giving the most approved and decorative completion to the skirt. And now, as to a touch of color to relieve the black of the velvet and the dark tone of the fur, I would recommend either jade green or powder-blue crepe de chine lining for the skirt (here to be used only for a depth of some half-a-dozen inches) and the coat, while then let the chosen color also figure in the blouse beneath a veiling of black chiffon, which, just at the neck, gives place to a semi-transparency of ivory-toned lace. A brodered device in silk of Oriental coloring might also be used to good effect on that inner crepe de chine, and in this case I would advise its further introduction as a narrow edging to the coat lining, the one big and beautiful enamel centred button which as a coat fastening also embracing the spots of color, whether they be jade or blue. Have a long, white colored feather to match set in the black velvet hat, while, then, a huge skunk muff and a tiny narrow necklet of the fur fastening at the left side with a cockade rosette of black satin, centred and tasselled with color will be the most correct completing details of a toilette, which will, I am sure, be an unqualified and notable success.

MADE TO HOLD THE BRUSHES

Most Useful Rack, Simple in Construction, Can Be Put Together With Little Effort.

This handy little brush-rack for the hall specially recommends itself on account of the simple way in which it is made. The size must be governed by the size of the brushes which are destined to be hung upon it, and for the foundation a piece of wood about a quarter of an inch in thickness should be procured, and the corners rounded with a sharp knife.

In the rack from which our sketch was made the wood was covered with pale blue art linen, in the center of which the design shown was worked in white flax thread. On either side in the upper part two small brass hooks (similar to those used for hanging cups upon the dresser) were screwed, and the rack was edged with a blue and white cord. At the top two small rings are sewn on, by which the rack may be suspended from nails in the wall. A third hook might be screwed on in the center between the two brushes, and would be useful for a cab whistle or a button hook.

Fads and Fancies.

In spite of the fact that lace frills were so widely distributed last season they are again featured to a surprising extent.

All kinds of laces appear in different parts of new dresses, and there is a tendency toward the biggest lace vogue known for sometime.

Fringe will be seen on nearly all of the new costumes for afternoon and evening wear on house gowns, negligee, parasols and even on hats.

New Vogue for Pearls.

It is quite the rule now to see rows of pearls appearing from inside the collar. Formerly, when pearls were used, they were worn outside the high collar, but now a new style is in force, and they are worn next to the neck itself, and partly allowed to hang over the front of the collar.

This fashion seems to have come into vogue because of the well known fact that pearls, in order to keep their exquisite luster, should be worn next to the skin.

Thousands Now Use This Low-Cost Cough Syrup

A Family Supply for 50c, Saving You $2—The Quickest, Best Thing You Ever Used, or Money Refunded.

The prompt and positive results given by this inexpensive cough medicine have caused it to be used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy. It gives instant relief and will usually wipe out the most obstinate, deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. It quickly succeeds, even in whooping cough and croup.

A 50-cent bottle of Pinex, when mixed with home-made sugar syrup, makes a full pint—a family supply—of the most pleasant and effective cough remedy that money could buy, at a saving of $2. Easily prepared in five minutes—full directions in package.

Children take Pinex Cough Syrup willingly, because it tastes good. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative—both excellent features. Splendid for hoarseness, throat tickle, bronchitis, etc., and a prompt, successful remedy for incipient lung trouble.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of imported Norway White Pine extract and is rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Simply mix it with sugar syrup or strained honey, in a pint bottle, and it is ready for use.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will gladly get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., 234 Main St., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early age, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

U. S. Commissioners' Acts Valid.

By courtesy of Congressman Curry, we are able to furnish our readers with a ruling on matters concerning land business that will interest many of our readers. The opinion is as follows:

Jan. 26 1912. To the Registers and Receivers:— Sirs: Supplementary of instructions communicated by office telegram of January 9, 1912, you are advised that admission of the State of New Mexico to the Union operated to effect an abolition of the offices of United States Court Commissioners. (Mechem on Public Officers, Sec. 408; Throp on Public Officers, Sec. 304, 315.) Official acts performed by any such officer subsequent to that event must be regarded as wholly nugatory.

It will be necessary, consequently, to reject final proofs and other papers submitted or completed before such officers after the date of admission, as aforesaid.

It is also considered that the offices of United States Commissioners were vacated as a consequence of the admission of the State and the abolition of the tribunal by which the then incumbents were appointed. As the office continues to exist, however, the official acts performed by such incumbents, assuming and claiming authority by virtue of their original appointments, will be treated as the acts of an officer de facto, and valid to the public, until such time as their official status may be determined by the action of competent authority. (Throp on Public Officers, Sec. 631, 639.)

In accordance with this conclusion, proofs submitted and papers completed before United States Commissioners in office at the date of the admission of the State into the Union, and thereafter continuing to perform official function, will be treated and regarded as valid until such time as the status of such officers has been considered and determined by the United States District Court for District New Mexico.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) Fred Dennett
Commissioner.

AGE BRINGS WISDOM.

When I was young I used to run the Punktown Daily Flail, and I was claiming that most men should be in jail. Unless a man agreed with me, and what I thought was right, I jabbed him with my trenchant pen, and that with all my might. I called my pen "aggressive," and I thought it was my chore to take the hides from other men, and sell them to the door; and twice a week the other men would seek me in my den and break a chair upon my head, and then march on again. I always smelled of arnica and liniment and dope, and washing bloodstains from the floor used up a lot of soap. But now I'm walking calmly down toward the end of life, and I discovered long ago and there's no sense in strife. I run my little Mudville News, and never call men down, and hand a posey now and then to every man in town. I've found that men are pretty good, their motives mostly clean, and anyhow, it does no good to call them base and mean. And since I've changed my policy I have a lot more fun, I have more friends, I have more ease, I make a lot more mon. And people drop in everp day to see me in my den, and one will bring a setting hen, and every one has cheerful smiles and kindly words to burn, and that's the sort of merchandise I give them in return.—Walt Mason.

Will Stand Acquitted.

On the great day of account it will be found, that men have erred more in judging of the honesty of others than in any one thing else, not even religion excepted. Many who have been condemned and had the stigma of dishonesty fixed upon them because misfortune disabled them from paying their just debts will stand acquitted by the judge of the quick and dead while others cover dishonest hearts and actions undetected by man. It is our earnest desire to eradicate the impression so fatal to many a young man, that one cannot live by being perfectly honest. You must have known men who have gone on for years in unbroken prosperity and yet never adopted that base motto, "All is fair in trade." You must have seen two noble examples of those who have met with losses and failures, and yet risen from them all with a conscious integrity, and who have been sustained by the testimony of all around them, that though unfortunate, they were never dishonest. When we set before you such examples, when we show you, not that "Honesty is the best policy," but that it is the very keystone of the whole arch of manly and Christian qualities, it cannot be that every ingenious heart does not respond to the appeal. Heaven grant all such to feel that an "Honest man is the noblest word of God" and to live as they feel.

Some people give according to their means, others according to their meanness.
