President's Message to Congress

Senator Fall Favors Annexation

The New Tariff Bill

PRESIDENT WILSON'S first message to congress was short, strong and to the point. He read the message to the assembled members of both houses--thus breaking a precedent of more than a century. John Adams was the last president to read his message to congress. That carries us back to the year 1801. The president's message to the special session is herewith given in full:

"I have called the congress together in extraordinary session because a duty was laid upon the party now in power at the recent elections which it ought to perform promptly, in order that the burden carried by the people under existing law may be lightened as soon as possible and in order, also, that the business interests of the country may not be kept too long in suspense as to what the fiscal changes are to be to which they will be required to adjust themselves. It is clear to the whole country that the tariff duties must be altered. They must be changed to meet the radical alteration in the conditions of our economic life which the country has witnessed with the last generation. While the whole face and method of our industrial and commercial life were being changed beyond recognition the tariff schedules have remained what they were before the change began, or have moved in the direction they were given when no large circumstance of our industrial development was what it is today. Our task is to square them with the actual facts. The sooner that is done the sooner we shall escape from suffering from the facts and the sooner our men of business will be free to thrive by the law of nature (the nature of free business) instead of by the law of legislation and artificial arrangement.

"We have seen tariff legislation wander very far afield in our day--very far indeed from the field in which our prosperity might have had a normal growth and stimulation. No one who looks the facts squarely in the face or knows anything that lies beneath the surface of action can fail to perceive the principles upon which recent tariff legislation has been based. We long ago passed beyond the modest notion of "protecting" the industries of the country and moved boldly forward to the idea that they were entitled to the direct patronage of the government. For a long time--a time so long that the men now active in public policy hardly remember the conditions that preceded it--we have sought in our tariff schedules to give each group of manufacturers or producers what they themselves thought that they needed in order to maintain a practically exclusive market as against the rest of the world. Consciously or unconsciously, we have built up a set of privileges and exemptions from competition behind which it was easy by any, even the crudest, forms of combination to organize monopoly; until at last nothing in normal, nothing is obliged to stand the tests of efficiency and economy, in our world of big business, but everything thrives by concerted arrangement. Only new principles of action will save us from a final crystallization of monopoly and a complete loss of the influences that quicken enterprise and keep independent energy alive.

"It is plain what those principles must be. We must abolish everything that bears even the semblance of privilege or of any kind of artificial advantage, and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of, a constant necessity to be efficient, economical and enterprising masters of competitive supremacy, better workers and merchants than any in the world. Aside from the duties laid upon articles which we do not, and probably cannot, produce, therefore, and the duties laid upon luxuries and merely for the sake of the revenues they yield, the object of the tariff duties henceforth laid must be effective competition, the whetting of American wits by contest with the wits of the rest of the world.

"It would be unwise to move toward this end headlong, with reckless haste or with strokes that cut at the very roots of what has grown up amongst us by long process and at our own invitation. It does not alter a thing to upset it and break it and deprive it of a chance to change. It destroys it. We must make changes in our fiscal laws, in our fiscal system, whose object is development, a more free and wholesome development, not revolution or upset or confusion. We must build up trade, especially foreign trade. We need the outlet and the enlarged field of energy more than we ever did before. We must build up industry as well, and must adopt freedom in the place of artificial stimulation only so far as it will build, not pull down. In dealing with the tariff the method by which this may be done will be a matter of judgment, exercised item by item. To some not accustomed to the excitement and responsibilities of greater freedom our methods may in some respects and at some points seem heroic, but remedies may be heroic and yet be remedies. It is our business to make sure that they are genuine remedies. Our object is clear. If our motive is above just challenge and only an occasional error of judgment is chargeable against us, we shall be fortunate.

"We are called upon to render the country a great service in more matters than one. Our responsibility should

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- April 7. -- Unless the Huerto government at an early date conquers the rebel republic recently created by the seceding northern states of Mexico an attempt probably will be made to procure annexation of this northern territory to the United States, according to the opinion expressed by Senator A. B. Fall, of New Mexico. Fall is a member of one of the special senate committees investigating revolutionary activity along the border.

"Unless the northern states swing the rest of Mexico to their position they will form a separate group of states permanently outside the old republic," Fall asserted. "Among the Mexicans in the states nearest the American border there is strong demand for annexation. The people there are somewhat Americanized and they want peace."

"I have official figures showing that American interests own 43 per cent of the total wealth of Mexico. This is pretty well distributed over the republic. The money total approximates $1,057,000,000. Mexican railroad stocks and bonds are owned to the extent of 77 per cent by Americans, their total investment being close to $640,000,000. In the Americans' share is $223,000,000 as against only $7,000,000 held by Mexicans. The Americans would probably favor annexation except for the fact that Mexican mining laws are much more favorable to concessionaries than are those of this country."

Senator Fall said estimates of damage to American property in Mexico by recent revolutions ran as high as $800,000,000.

Charges by Luis Manuel Rojas, vice president of the Mexican senate, that Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson at Mexico City was morally responsible for the death of Francisco Madero and Jose Pino Suarez, and had refused them protection, were formally received by Secretary Bryan today. Mr. Bryan declined to discuss the matter.

Sheriff Leaves with Prisoners

SHERIFF CHAVEZ and R. A. Duran, the latter as guard, left for Santa Fe, last Saturday with prisoners. They took the following:

Albert Porter, larceny of a horse; sentenced to two and a half years in the state reform school at Springer.

Gabriel Armendaris, assault with deadly weapon sentence in the penitentiary at Santa Fe for not less than 18 months nor more than 2 years.

Frank Hosborn, forgery; sentence not less than 2 years nor more than 3 years. Hosborn has tuberculosis in a virulent form. On an order of the court he was taken to the penitentiary the week previous in order to separate him from the other prisoners and to prevent possible contamination. Frank Gray conveyed Hosborn to prison. Other prisoners convicted at this term were confined in the Lincoln jail, notice of which was given at the time.

be met and our methods should be thorough, as thorough as moderate and well considered, based upon the facts as they are, and not worked out as if we were beginners. We are to deal with the facts of no other, and to make laws which square with those facts. It is best, indeed it is necessary, to begin with the tariff. I will urge nothing upon you now at the opening of your session which can obscure that first object or divert our energies from that clearly defined duty. At a later time I may take the liberty of calling your attention to reforms which should press close upon the heels of the tariff changes, if not accompany them, of which the chief is the reform of our banking and currency laws; but just now I refrain. For the present, I put these matters on one side and think only of this one thing--of the changes in our fiscal system which may best serve to open once more the free channels of prosperity to a great people whom we would serve to the utmost and throughout both rank and file."

Governor McDonald Enters Sanatorium

Santa Fe, N. M., April 7--Governor W. C. McDonald entered a local sanatorium here last night and will remain there for 10 days or two weeks undergoing treatment for an ailment which his physicians said was in no manner serious, but which required that the patient be kept quiet. In the interim E. C. De Baca, lieutenant governor, will be acting governor.

Before entering the hospital Governor McDonald said that because of reported rumors that he was seriously ill or that he would undergo an operation, he desired it known that his ailment was not of a serious nature, but that it required that he remain perfectly quiet for 10 days or two weeks.

Home Talent Play

"AFTER ALL," the play, the cast of which was given in these columns two weeks since, will be presented at Real's Hall Tuesday night, April 22d. This play will be put on by home talent, and in addition to the play itself specialties have been prepared between acts. A list of the characters and the personnel of those taking the parts gives the assurance of a production worthy of a most generous support. The Home Mission Society is assisting in the preparation of the entertainment. Be on hand.

REVISION of the tariff has begun in earnest at the National Capital. President Wilson has delivered his message to congress, which met in special session Monday. The Ways and Means Committee of the house has drafted a bill which has been already introduced. It will pass the house in due time and go to the senate where it will meet some opposition, but not sufficient, it is believed, to materially affect it. The following table, consisting of a large number of articles, gives a general idea of the plan of reduction. RESEARCH WORK.

Professor Hiram Bingham, who conducted the Yale archaeological expedition to make researches into the period of the Incas, found a disposition on the part of the Peruvian government to discourage investigation by outsiders. This is the spirit that Italy exhibited when scholars of other lands offered to raise money enough to lay bare the artistic and archaeological treasures of Herculaneum. During many years the same spirit has proved a bar to research work by foreigners in Egypt, says the Milwaukee Wisconsin. In the case of Peru and also in the case of Egypt, there is no vestige of sentiment in the policy of exclusion. It is not as if pious descendants should say, "You shall not disturb the graves of our ancestors!" The ruling class of Peruvians are not descended from the Incas, but from their Spanish conquerors. The rulers of Egypt are not descendants of the ancient Egyptians, but Turks. The Italians, on the other hand are the direct descendants of the ancient Romans; so that their insistence that they and not Germans, Englishmen or Americans should conduct the proposed excavations has a justification in pious sentiment which can be well understood.

For nearly a year there has been an "acute labor famine" in the Pittsburgh district. The Pittsburgh Industrial commission, which has given much study to economic and sociological problems, has reached the conclusion that the increasing scarcity of labor for the mills has been due to the back-to-the-farm movement. More than 3,500 foreign laborers, mostly Hung and Austrians, have thrown up their jobs in the factories and mills and obtained employment in farming, truck gardening and fruit-raising in the western country, says the New York Times. It was expected that they would return to the mills when the winter began, but they appear to be so well satisfied with their change of occupation that they have not come back, and, having once tasted the sweets of living out in the open, there is not much likelihood that they will return to the cramped conditions under which they have lived. This movement to the farms is a good thing for the workers, and an even better thing for the community generally, as it means larger food crops and, eventually, cheaper living.

The interest in ocean currents at this time is unusually lively. From Sydney, New South Wales, comes report that a warm current originating in the equatorial part of the Pacific ocean and flowing along the eastern coast of Australia and past Tasmania, has been discovered by H. C. Dannevig, head of the Australian labor department. The current is over a hundred miles wide and flows at the rate of seven miles an hour.

Appropos of the failure of a suspender manufacturer, who complained that business is bad because the bolt has driven out the suspender, the New York Sun wants to know what has become of the one-gallus boys. How can the Sun display such abysmal ignorance of things truly American? The one-gallus boy wears a brace made of the most durable hog hide, which is handed down from father to son, a precious heirloom.

Discussing the proposal to erect a monument to George Washington in Westminster abbey, the Evening Standard, formerly the Saint James Gazette, and once strongly anti-American, protests against such a memorial being dedicated merely to "Washington's splendid qualities." It says, among other things: "The American rebellion is now approved by most Englishmen. We recognize that the Americans were the only people who came out of that little affair with honor and dignity. There would be no special magnanimity in confessing as much on Washington's monument. Let it give him his due; he was a noble rebel." There is an example of "hands across the sea" that is almost startling.

Onions are declared by Dr. Evans to "have little food value." But they have an enduring perfume which is calculated to chasten the atmosphere and otherwise discipline the vicinage. The moral influence of the onion is its impregnable point.

SCIENCE and INVENTION

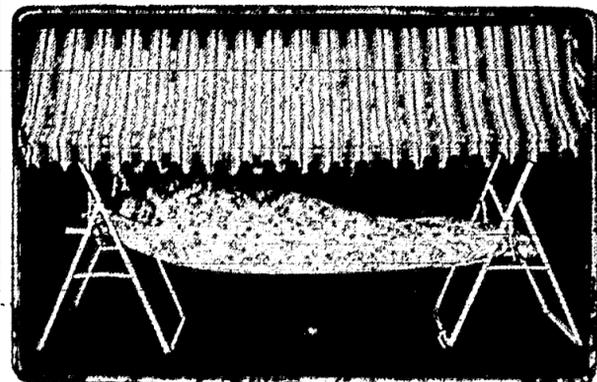

EXCELS AS EMERGENCY COT

Retired Chicago Policeman Invents Reclining Couch Suitable for Injured or Convalescent.

The accompanying illustration shows a separable cot-bed, primarily constructed for the humane transportation of sick and disabled on railroads, improvised ambulances, etc. Experiments with this bed have shown it to have a distinct value in hospital practice as well.

In the institution under my control we maintain such a bed for the reception of patients who have met some injury on the street or in the workshop, writes Dr. Gustavus M. Ziech in the Journal of the American Medical Association. Usually these patients have soiled clothing and in spite of rubber sheeting, the linen and bedding are apt to become soiled. Should this happen on one of these beds, washing of the iron stand and laundering of the duck material is all that is necessary.

With this in mind we have used the bed also in a small number of cases of suppurating extremities, empyema of the chest, etc., and especially for patients who have lost sphincter control. As already said, soiling of the entire bed would not ruin it.

The material on which the patient is to rest is put on very taut; at the same time it has sufficient resiliency to make it comfortable. The springs serve in this respect as an additional aid. We have noted that the tendency to decubitus is considerably lessened by this bed, which is probably explained by the ability to prevent wrinkling of the linen.

Convalescents, or patients suffering from medical and surgical diseases requiring open-air treatment, have been placed in good weather in the hospital yard on one of these cots. When not needed the bed is folded in a few seconds and put in some corner until needed again.

The cot is the invention of A. E. Gesso, of Chicago, a retired police officer, who for many years came in daily contact with emergency cases.

READING GLASS MADE HANDY

One Great Difficulty Overcome by Invention of Illinois Man—Holds Same Focus.

One objection to a reading glass—an objection that some people say offsets its other virtues—is the fact that it is impossible for the person holding it to keep it always in the same focus. An Illinois man has overcome this by inventing a glass that need only be adjusted once and remains correctly focused. The lens of this glass is rectangular, and at each of the upper corners is a movable leg. By means of screws these legs may be adjusted to hold the glass at the requisite distance from the page of the book or magazine or whatever it is the user is reading. By resting the lower ends of the legs on the page and moving them as desired, the reader is sure of having the same focus all the time, which is much easier on his eyes than it was changed every few minutes.

around their bodies and drop into the water, says the Popular Mechanics. The loss of time in the often unsuccessful attempt to reach life preservers when an accident occurs is eliminated by the use of the camp-stool preserver.

Purifying Air. Ultra-violet rays might be used for purifying the air in submarine boats. Such rays are produced in great quantities by the quartz mercury vapor lamp and their sterilizing power is now well known. The secret of the great power of the ultra-violet rays is simple, according to Daniel Bortholot, a French scientist, for they correspond to the highest temperatures known. In fact, the temperature of the mercury vapor lamp which produces them is even higher than that of the sun. Mr. Bortholot says that if one exposes to the rays a mixture of carbonic acid gas and ammonia, they combine and give rise to formic amide, which is the base of protoplasm and living matter.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Marble Bust of Zachary Taylor a Deep Mystery

WASHINGTON.—An art mystery stands in the east corridor of the senate gallery. It is a marble bust of Zachary Taylor. It stands at the east end of the corridor facing west toward the glass doors over which is a line of gold lettering spelling "Senators' Gallery." Around this corridor, which is more like a reception hall opening off a corridor, that runs north and south along the east gallery of the senate, stand marble busts of Lincoln, Charles Sumner, Garibaldi, Pulaski, Kosciuszko, the Chippewa chief, Bee-Shee-Kee and that other famous Chippewa Indian called in the Indian language Aysk-ko-bah-ko-koh-zay, or in English, Flatmouth. There is an oil portrait of John A. Dix, the painting, "The Florida Case," representing a session of the electoral commission in 1877 and curious mosaic portraits of Lincoln and James A. Garfield.

It is rather a dim chamber, the light entering through two small windows high up under the ceiling of the east portico of the senate. A chandelier of electric lights sometimes sheds a yellow radiance there. There is gilding the ceiling and the floor is yellow, blue and white mosaic. Two elevator shafts open into this chamber, and during a session of the senate there is a good deal of clicking and rattling and humming from this cause.

The bust of Zachary Taylor, mounted on one of those painted wooden pedestals, soon to be replaced with marble, stands near the southernmost of the two windows and between the busts of Garibaldi and Bee-Shee-Kee and under the mosaic portrait of James A. Garfield.

The mystery of this bust is who executed it. It is unsigned. Far-reaching efforts have been made to learn the sculptor's name, but without avail. It is believed that it was chiseled in New Orleans between the time of Taylor's return from Mexico and his election to the presidency, but this is speculation. It was bought by the government from descendants of Taylor, but they were ignorant of the name of the artist. It is a fine marble—one of the really artistic sculptures of the capitol. Anybody interested in the art objects of the capitol would be glad to get a clue as to who was the sculptor.

He Gave the Medical Journals Particular Fits

A MEDICAL journal knows every thing. And more. So it must be true that women are physically stronger than men. But there is one citizen in this town who won't own up to it.

He was car riding with a woman, gray and lumpy contoured, like himself, and from Capitol hill for several blocks he was giving that medical journal the thing we call particular fits. His carefully censored opinion went about like this:

"You take the average young man. He has stronger teeth than the average young woman, and, by George! he takes better care of them. He has a healthier skin, because his body isn't skinned in and straight-fronted, and his hair is more vigorous because it isn't incited with rats."

"And you are bald as—"

But never mind what the woman said. The man didn't.

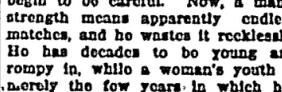

"I'm speaking of young men, and I'm not denying that in life's general roundup woman outlast men—but I do protest against the theory that man—the average man, you understand—shortens his days by excesses."

"My explanation is, that man—average man, mind—is overextravagant with his vitality, just as most of us are wasteful with matches, when they are so cheap and so plentiful that a box doesn't count. We strike recklessly, disregarding draughts, and a match flares out.

"All right, there is always another it is only when we are on our last box, with no more in sight, that we begin to be careful. Now, a man's strength means apparently endless matches, and he wastes it recklessly. He has decades to be young and rompy in, while a woman's youth is merely the few years in which her beauty lasts. Therefore, though her allowance of matches be scant, and, maybe, blue heads at that, she realizes the necessity of saving from the first. For that reason—and I consider it the only one—her light is still flickering after man's has flared out. It isn't that man—average—is vicious. It is merely that he is prodigal with his many matches. And woman is miserly with her few. Do you get me?"

He needs't have asked. He was got by every passenger in the car.

HE HAS STRONGER TEETH THAN THE AVERAGE WOMAN

Lightning Rods Seen Everywhere in Washington

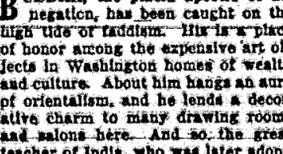

PERHAPS no one has ever made a census or an inventory of the lightning rods in Washington. It would be a troublesome job, because there are many of them, and they are scattered. They are quite numerous, as naturally they would be, in the old sections of the city, or at least in the old sections of the city where old dwellings survive, for there are many old sections in Washington that are now built.

were maimed with a bolt of lightning. Many of them are decrepit and many more seem just to be rusting out from neglect, as though people in this iconoclastic age have lost faith in lightning rods as charms against Jove's bolt, just as they have lost faith in many other things.

Then again some of the lightning rods seem to have been disguised as the vertical staff of weather vanes, as though the builder of that house had not the courage to say to people in the street: "Look up at my lightning rod," and yet did not dare to leave his house unprotected by it.

One may see many of the rods pointing up from chimneys of houses along H street and along F and G streets, west of the State, War and Navy building. On H street the big double house directly west of the excavation where the Sumner house stood has three lightning rods on its four chimneys. The two eastern chimneys are protected and the southwest chimney is guarded.

Oriental Images Are Popular With Capital Society

BUDDHA, the placid apostle of abnegation, has been caught on the high tide of fashion. His is a place of honor among the expensive art objects in Washington homes of wealth and culture. About him hangs an aura of orientalism, and he lends a decorative charm to many drawing rooms and salons here. And so, the great teacher of India, who was later adopted as a deity in Japan, China, Ceylon and Burma, and in whose worship thousands of brown men and women have bent the knee, is in great demand in the nation's capital. In fact, the fad for Buddha here bids fair to become as extreme as any that has ever gripped the lovers of the bizarre and unusual in this city.

The fad for the collection of Buddha has taken such a hold on Washington society that some of the collectors are not contenting themselves with perfecting collections of Buddha alone, but are eager for anything which savors of temple worship in the orient. Therefore, among the latest and popular of acquisitions households are to be found some choice examples of Hindu deities, and one well known clubman and society man, who is just completing a magnificent residence, is even now negotiating for a huge Chinese Joss, which he intends installing in an especially built alcove in his new home.

CLEAR HEADED

Head Bookkeeper Must Be Reliable.

The chief bookkeeper in a large business house in one of our great Western cities speaks of the baron coffee did for him. (Tea is just as injurious because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)

"My wife and I drank our first cup of Postum a little over two years ago and we have used it ever since, to the entire exclusion of tea and coffee. It happened in this way:

"About three and a half years ago I had an attack of pneumonia, which left a memento in the shape of dry spells, or rather, to speak more correctly, neuralgia of the stomach. My 'cup of cheer' had always been coffee or tea, but I became convinced, after a time, that they aggravated my stomach trouble. I happened to mention the matter to my physician and he suggested that I give Postum a trial.

"Next day it came, but the cook made the mistake of not boiling it sufficiently, and we did not like it much. This was, however, soon remedied and now we like it so much that we will never change back. Postum, being a food beverage instead of a drug has been the means of banishing my stomach trouble. I verily believe, for I am a well man today and have used no medicine.

"My work as chief bookkeeper in our Co.'s branch house here is of a very conning nature. During my coffee-drinking days I was subject to nervousness and 'the blues'. These have left me since I began using Postum, and I can conscientiously recommend it to those whose work confines them to long hours of severe mental exertion." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in plain, ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. The are genuine, true, and full of human interest. Adv.

District Court Reopened

LAST Friday afternoon District Court for Lincoln County took a recess until Monday, May 26. The regular panel was incomplete at the time court took a recess, and Judge Medler filled the vacancies from the special venire that sat in the Ascarate case. The panel, thus complete, was required to appear at the special May term without further summons by the sheriff. The inability of the jury to reach a decision in the Ascarate case caused the judge to discharge the panel Friday, as was indicated in The News of that date. After the jury was discharged it was discovered that the jury stood 9 for conviction to 3 for acquittal. For 60 hours this jury considered the case, but was hopelessly divided. Not only is it the purpose of the court to retry the Ascarate murder case in May, but some four or five other cases that went over at this term will be disposed of. In the event the City case from Las Cruces is not interfered with by a writ of prohibition from the Supreme Court, it is also to be up for hearing. So it is quite likely the special term will run two or three weeks.

Gold Medal for Boy or Girl

THE Department of Agriculture, through the Good Roads association under its control, makes the following offer to boys and girls: A gold medal to the school boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 15 who writes the best composition, not to exceed 800 words, on the repair and maintenance of earth roads, is to be awarded by Logan Waller Page, Director, Office of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. All compositions must be submitted to Mr. Page before May 15, 1913, and the medal will be awarded as soon thereafter as the compositions can be graded. The composition may be based on knowledge gained from books or other sources, but no quotations should be made. After many years' experience in dealing with the public road situation of the country, it is Mr. Page's belief that ignorance on the subject of repair and maintenance of roads is as much the cause of their bad condition as any other one factor. It is expected that the competition will bring about a better understanding of the subject of repair and maintenance in the rural districts. Many children living in the rural districts have experienced the disadvantages of roads made impassable through a lack of proper maintenance and it is expected that their interest in the competition will stimulate greater interest among the parents. Bad roads have prevented many children from obtaining a proper education and have even prevented doctors from reaching the side of rural patients in time to save their lives. Any child between the age mentioned, attending a country school, may compete. Only one side of the paper must be written on; each page should be numbered; the name, age and address of the writer, and the name and location of the school which he or she is attending must be plainly written at the top of the first page. The announcement of the competition has been sent to the superintendents of schools in the rural districts. No further information can be obtained from the Office of Public Roads. This announcement should be plain to everyone, and all children will thus start on a basis of equality.

A town are to meet this afternoon at the Methodist church. The principal purpose of the meeting will be for the discussion of plans for the opening of the new club house. All interested are expected to attend.

Senator Catron Here

CARRIZOZO had a most distinguished visitor Tuesday in the person of Hon. Thomas H. Catron, United States Senator. Senator Catron was on his way to Lincoln to consult the people of that section with reference to the suit instituted against them by the United States government. He returned later in the week.

Look to Your Plumbing

You know what happens in a house in which the plumbing is in poor condition everybody in the house is liable to contract typhoid or some other fever. The digestive organs perform the same functions in the human body as the plumbing does for the house, and they should be kept in first class condition all the time. If you have any trouble with your digestion take Chamberlain's Tablets and you are certain to get quick relief. For All sale by Dealers.

Local School Election

QUITE an interest was taken in the school election here Monday, if the number of votes cast is any indication. Men and women voted to the tune of 137. P. M. Johnson received 108 votes and John E. Bell was next highest, his vote being 82. A dozen other names were on various ballots—their votes running from 2 to 30—but they were not sufficiently in the race to be classed as the "also rans." Two good directors were chosen and the Carrizozo school will continue to be one of the leading public schools of this section.

Straight at It

There is no use of our "beating around the bush." We might as well out with it first as last. We want you to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the next time you have a cough or cold. There is no reason so far as we can see why you should not do so. This preparation by its remarkable cures has gained a world wide reputation, and people everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. It is for sale by all dealers.

Wayne Van Schoyck, of the White Oaks Mercantile Company, was a visitor here Monday.

On a Cold Trail

District Attorney Hamilton, Deputy Sheriff A. T. Roberts, Stenographer Spencer and Chauffeur Smith went to Picacho—rather below the place—Saturday. The officials had been informed that a case of infanticide there required an investigation. However, the officials discovered upon arrival that their information was incorrect—too previous, in fact—but that, in all probability, a crime had been committed that would require time to develop.

Dr. Hartman's Plain Talk to Young Men

My plain talk to young men in my last article certainly brought out many responses from young men. I take this means of answering them briefly, for the benefit of other young men who did not write me. One writer says:

"I was greatly interested in your talk to young men. I wish I was strong and well as you describe yourself to be. I am going to begin at once and follow your advice and take care of myself as I ought to. I will quit the use of all stimulants, tea and coffee, go to bed early. I will take the cold water towel bath every morning. I want to live to be old and useful, like you. And I shall also keep Peruna at hand, in case of slight ailments as they may arise. I thank you in the name of thousands of other young men, like myself."

To this letter I replied:
My Dear Boy:—I cannot tell you how much good your letter has done me. To know that I am, arousing the young men in matters of right living fills me with gratitude and enthusiasm. I want to help you. Write me any time you wish and I will consider your letter strictly confidential and give you prompt reply. Follow the advice I gave in my article. Whenever you have occasion to consult me further do not hesitate. Let us be friends. If you will be obedient to me as a son ought to be, I will be faithful and true to you as a father ought to be. Yours sincerely, S. B. Hartman, M. D., Columbus, Ohio. Peruna is for sale at all drug stores.

Bowels Get Weak As Age Advances

The First Necessity is to Keep the Bowels Gently Open With a Mild Laxative Tonic

Healthy old age is so absolutely dependent upon the condition of the bowels that great care should be taken to see that they act regularly. The fact is that as age advances the stomach muscles become weak and inactive, and the liver does not store up the juices that are necessary to prompt digestion.

Some help can be obtained by eating easily digested foods and by plenty of exercise, but this latter is irksome to most elderly people. One thing is certain, that a state of constipation should always be avoided as it is dangerous to life and health. The best plan is to take a mild laxative as often as is deemed necessary. But with equal certainty it is suggested that cathartics, purgatives, physics, salts and pills be avoided, as they do but temporary good and are so harsh to a delicate system.

Mr. O. P. Miller.
It is the best remedy I ever used and does just what you claim for it to the very letter. I can not recommend it too highly. A bottle can be bought of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar. People usually buy the fifty cent size first, and then, having convinced themselves of its merits they buy the dollar size, which is more economical. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded. Any elderly person can follow these suggestions with safety and the assurance of good results. If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 293 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

GOOD EITHER HOT OR COLD

Sauce That Greatly Enhances the Flavor of Vanilla Ice Cream.

A good chocolate sauce to be served with vanilla ice cream consists of 1 1/2 cups of water, one-half cup of sugar, six tablespoonfuls of unweetened grated chocolate, one tablespoonful of arrowroot, one-half cup of salt water, a few grains of salt and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Boil the water and sugar for five minutes. Mix the chocolate with arrowroot, to which water has been added. Combine mixtures and salt and boil three minutes. Favor with vanilla and serve hot.
For a sauce to be cooled before serving melt one square of unweetened chocolate, add one tablespoonful of butter, one cup of sugar and one-third cup of water. Let boil for fifteen minutes, cool slightly and add one-half teaspoonful of vanilla.
The first recipe will be ample for eight persons, but the last one should be made several times this quantity to serve this number of persons.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Minced meat usually makes the most acceptable sandwiches.
The adept in cooking does her work without many utensils.
Scald new brooms in hot suds. This will toughen the fiber.
Fried bananas laid on a bed of rice make a good luncheon dish.
To keep away moths, scatter cloves in bureau drawers and boxes.
Clean nickel and silver pieces with ammonia applied by a dannel cloth.
Milk puddings are the best desserts for children, but they should be varied.
Cheese is very wholesome prepared with macaroni, potatoes or bread-crumbs.
Regular bathing with hot water before bedtime is excellent treatment for the eyes.
Always fasten the ends of the threads when you finish a seam done by chainstitch machine.

Soda Scones.
Mix together in a bowl one-half pound flour, one-quarter teaspoon carbonate soda, one-half teaspoon cream of tartar and, one-half teaspoon salt, then stir in sufficient buttermilk to make a stiff paste (it will require nearly a half a pint of milk). Turn the paste out on a floured board, knead lightly till it no longer sticks to your hands, then roll it out thin and cut it into small rounds with a cutter or tumbler. Bake the cake on a tin in a hot oven about five minutes. When they have risen and the surface is smooth, turn and cook five minutes longer. They should be very pale in color. They can be cooked on a griddle or on a frying pan if preferred. If liked richer, add one ounce butter or well clarified dripping and rub it into the flour before adding the buttermilk.

German Dishes.
Here is a cheap and good German dish: Get two flanks of lamb for about 15 cents, put on to boil, and add two quarts of string beans and about four good sized carrots. An onion may be added. Cook so as not to have too much juice, and when done put a piece of butter in spider and brown a heaping tablespoon of flour. Add this to your stew and you will see what a nice cheap dinner you have. Season to taste. A pinch of thyme added is nice if you like it. Here are two more German ideas: When cooking butter beans or cabbage pour off water when soft and add sugar and vinegar to taste, also use the browned flour. Try these with roast pork and see how nice they are.

Lemon Cake.
One cup of sugar, piece of butter also of an egg, two eggs well beaten in a cup, then fill cup with milk, two cups of flour and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Bake in four layers.
Filling for cake: Grated rind and juice of one lemon, one egg, one cup of sugar. Steam over boiling water until thick. Stir while steaming, then spread the layers.
Frost with a frosting made of confectioner's sugar and boiling water mixed to the right consistency to spread.

Timely Suggestions.
Bananas should be hung up. Apples may be selected for their weight. The lighter varieties shrink in cooking and have not so rich a flavor as the heavier kinds.
The best and simplest method of keeping eggs, for those who have only a small number to pack, is to cover the bottom of the box with a layer of fine salt, two inches deep.
When buying new potatoes see that their skins rub off easily. If there is any difficulty in removing the skins they have not been freshly dug.

Olive Salad.
Olive salad is delectable. Put nice, crisp lettuce leaves on salad dishes, cut olives in halves, also a little hard-boiled egg and sweet pepper—first a layer of lettuce, the olives in the center, and a border of sweet red peppers. Then add mayonnaise or salad dressing as preferred.

Hint on Cake Frosting.
To prevent frosting from running on cake sprinkle lightly with flour each layer and the top, then spread on frosting and it will not run.

Straighten That Lame Back!

Backache is one of Nature's warnings of kidney weakness. Kidney disease kills thousands every year. Safety is only certain if the early warnings are heeded while help is possible. Doan's Kidney Pills have helped many thousands to get rid of backache, strengthen weak kidneys and regulate bladder and urinary disorders.

Don't neglect a bad back. If your back is lame in the morning, if it hurts to stoop or lift, if the dull aching keeps up all day, making work a burden and rest impossible—suspect the kidneys. If the urine is off color and shows a sediment; if passages are irregular, too frequent, too scanty, or scalding, this is further proof. There may be dizzy spells, headaches, nervousness, dropsy, swellings, rheumatic attacks, and a general tired-out, run-down condition.

Cured After Doctors Gave Up Hope
H. R. Hatch, 2516 Cedar St., Everett, Wash., says: "I doubt if any one ever suffered more than I did with kidney complaint. My back was so bad I could hardly walk. The least jar or mis-step, caused twinges that fairly made me gasp. I decided to stoop, for I knew what I had to suffer when I had to straighten up again. There was generally a frequent desire to urinate, but at other times the secretions were retarded, dark in color, almost like blood and pained terrible in passing. The doctors said I had but a short time to live. As a last resort I began to use Doan's Kidney Pills and rapidly grew better, and at last was completely cured. I have remained in good health ever since."

Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that is publicly recommended by 100,000 persons in many different lands. Doan's act quickly, contain no harmful nor habit-forming drugs and are wholly harmless, though remarkably effective.

Nervousness Explained.
The young man entered the president's office and stood first on one foot and then on the other. He dropped his hat, handkerchief and umbrella. Altogether he was a highly developed case of nervousness.
"Well, well," said the employer. "Out with it!"
"I have come, sir," said the young man, and then began to stammer.
"Well, speak up. Have you come to ask for the hand of my daughter or a raise in salary?"
"If you please, sir," stammered the young man, "it's both."—Exchange.

Spring Clipping of Horses.
The modern practice among the best posted and most progressive horse owners and farmers is to clip all horses in the spring. It is done on the theory that in their natural state horses were not obliged to work, so could shed the winter coat in comfort over a period of several weeks. Since we obligate them to do hard work on warm spring days, the winter coat should be removed for the same reason that we lay off our heavy winter garments. Clipped horses dry off rapidly, hence they do not take cold as easily nor are they as prone to be affected with other ailments as unclipped animals whose longer hair holds the perspiration for hours. Because clipped horses dry off rapidly they rest better, get more good from their food and come out in the morning refreshed and fit for work.

Calumet Guarantees Baking Economy.
Have you ever stopped to think just what "economy" in baking really means? Some folks seem to have the idea that saving a little on the cost of the materials—flour, eggs, etc.—is an economy. Others are of the opinion that they have been economical when they buy the low-priced baking powder, and save the loss of doing away with the failures that so often waste far more than is saved in buying low-priced materials.
And that beyond a doubt is the reason that Calumet Baking Powder is the favorite of millions of cooks. It absolutely prevents failures—and guarantees success—which in the end is the same thing as economy.
Calumet is unfailing—it makes every baking good—more tasty, more delicious, more evenly raised—simply because it is not only pure and wholesome itself—but so uniform in quality that you can always depend upon it. Two World's Pure Food Expositions—one at Chicago in 1893, and the other at Paris, France, in 1889—officially pronounced Calumet the best baking powder made.
