Deep Plowing Brings Success

SOME one has said: "If you can't be good be as good as you can." So we say to farmers, with the information we have before us: "If you can't plow deep plow as deep as you can." Experience is the most unerring teacher, and last week we quoted quite liberally from a writer, in-out article, "Break New Land Deep," who gave some of his experiences from deep plowing.

We wish to interest those who make farming a business in deep plowing. Especially to the dry farmer should experiences resulting from deep plowing be interesting. And to that end we quote this week from an article on deep plowing, the writer a Coloradoan who faces the same conditions as we have in New Mexico. This writer not only advocates deep plowing from a theoretical standpoint, but gives results of various depths of plowing which speak more convincingly than a mountain of argument. We quote from the article written last fall:

The old method of plowing sod two or three inches and increasing the depth a few inches each year for a number of years, is a failure because it is too expensive and too slow. Deep plowing and a mixing of the top and bottom soils is the only method that will bring quick and sure returns, especially in the semi-arid regions. This has been demonstrated time and again in the vicinity of Denver--by E. R. Parsons on his dry ranch near Parker during a period of eighteen or nineteen years, and by many others.

Experiments made by the Degver Suburban Homes and Water Company on their lands twelve miles Southeast of Denver have proven the value of deep plowing. On tracts ranging in size from five to eighty acres, the yield of oats ranged from 19 to 29 1-2 bushels per acre, where the ground was only disked. On one ten-acre tract, plowed seven inches deep, the yield was 93.7 bushels per acre. On another ten-acre tract plowed nine inches deep the yield was 97.3 bushels per acre. These tracts were not irrigated.

On six measured acres plowed twice and irrigated, the second plowing eleven inches deep, the yield was 125 1-3 bushels per acre or 752 bushels from six acres, almost one-third as much as was produced on eighty acres of land which was disked.

A further proof of the value of a deep stirring of the soil was obtained by this Company by the use of dynamite in their orchards. In the past four years they have planted 1,500 acres of orchards--mostly cherries--and the loss of trees during three out of the four years has averaged from fifteen to forty per cent each year. Last spring the Company planted 64,000 trees. The holes in which these trees were planted were shot with dynamite to a depth of from three to five feet, loosening up the ground and mixing the top and bottom soils, giving the moisture a chance to go down below the roots of the trees where it is needed. A count of trees of last spring's planting just completed, shows a loss of a trifle less than four per cent.

I have been a farmer all my life, but this season is the first time in my life that I have ever been able to plow raw prairie the way I wanted to plow it and the way I thought it ought to be plowed. I have plowed this fall two hundred and sixty acres of cactus, some of it heavy adobe from nine to fourteen inches deep. I am still plowing through from two to four inches of frost and if the present mild weather continues, and if the frost does not get deeper than six inches, I will continue to plow all winter.

I have in on deep plowed land, two hundred and thirty acres of fall grains and on one twenty-five acre piece sowed on August 28th, the roots of the grain are nine inches long.

We now have six deep tilling machines at work on the farms of the Denver Suburban Homes and Water Company and it is the intention of this Company to place under cultivation two thousand acres in 1913 and a continuous demonstration is being made at Highview Park, five miles southeast of the Denver University, where anyone wishing to investigate the merits of our work will always be welcome and it is the writer's advice to anyone who expects to farm and make a success of it, to investigate the proposition.

Cactus never did and never will pay dividends. It is plowing and plowing right that will make Colorado a successful agricultural state.

To Revise Land Regulations

Washington, May 26. -- To make the acquisition of homesteads as easy as possible in strict conformity with the law for bona fide settlers and genuine homesteaders, and as difficult as possible for mere dummy entrymen or speculators, is the announced purpose of Secretary Lane in beginning an investigation of the rules and regulations of the land office. A month ago, Secretary Lane sent a special representative to South Dakota to investigate specific charges against county land agents. This inquiry was broadened today, with the purpose eventually, of revising the rules for the acquisition of homesteads. A hearing will be held at Salt Lake City, June 5, when representatives of the western states will meet there. Personal representatives of the secretary will conduct the hearings.

News Notes from Outside Points

FORT STANTON

Letters from Mr. Henry Cater, of No. 4, now visiting in Georgia, tell us that he is having a great time, yet he is lonesome for Fort Stanton and will soon return.

Mr. Benj. M. King, who left us last month for an extended trip through the east, writes from various large cities. Ben is having a great time; he will soon return to his home in Wisconsin to enter business.

The bids for the furnishing of supplies for the Post next year were opened on the 15th, and are now being examined by the officials at Washington.

What a pleasure to see our dear friend, Doctor Marcoe, out walking. He will soon, let us hope, be well and therefore able to mingle with us enjoying the beautiful climate and associations of the Post.

Only a short time until the beautiful souvenir book of Fort Stanton will be on the market. Something we all have longed for to send to our friends far and near. The book will contain thirty pages of views only, with a preface by one of the local officials.

Mr. Lutz, of Lincoln, was a visitor here at the Post last Thursday. He was accompanied by Father Girma.

Memorial services were held in Library Hall last Sunday evening, same being conducted by the Chaplain. There was a large attendance and the program was pleasing to all.

Mr. Chas. H. Irwin, the popular pharmacist, leaves next Monday for an extended trip east. Hurry back Charles for we will miss you very much.

Mr. W. Johnson, of the Johnson Garage, Capitan, brought over several of his friends to see the ball game Sunday afternoon. Taking points on how to umpire we presume.

The "movies" in amusement hall this week consisted of four reels, all interesting, especially Pathe Weekly and the "Power of a Hymn." The fourth reel was the only comical one, entitled "Country Boarders."

Captain Van Zant writes from his seaside home of how he longs for the New Mexico sun, he having only two sunny days since his arrival there.

We are sorry to state that Mr. Dunlap Mullins who has been quite ill, is not improving very much at this writing. We hope for better news soon from his bedside.

These are beautiful cool days and nights at Fort Stanton. We enjoy it the more after reading the weather reports of the exceedingly warm weather in the east. There is no healthier or more pleasant spot on earth than Fort Stanton.

Question:--Will Carrizozo ever be able to return the ball game? Lincoln or Capitan may be able to furnish material, and we, at Fort Stanton can vouch for it that they have good material.

Jicarilla

William Merheisman had the misfortune to get one foot severely washed while working in his mine here, by a rock falling upon it.

Mr. Franklin, while in El Paso, secured the services of an experienced mill man, and now it seems like things will "hum" before long.

The family of Mr. Phil Reasoner moved out Friday last; and this is a bona fide fact this time.

The Cox family passed through enroute to the Gallinas country from White Oaks.

W. A. McBrayer has secured a contract for a considerable amount of work, to be done on the Murphy group, from W. A. Franklin, manager of the Wisconsin Milling and Mining Company.

Messrs. Franklin and Collard paid a visit to White Oaks Thursday.

Maurice Brookin went to Ancho the last of the week on a business like.

Every limb and twig of the shrubs of oak, ash and syringas are webbed up in nests of caterpillars--thousands of them to swoop down on the garden plants in a short while. A severe drought would exterminate a large number of them.

E. E. Wilson is contemplating a trip to the county seat Sunday to be on hand for the grand of the continuation of District Court.

A light rain fell here Saturday, but not enough to quench the thirsty earth.

A. H. Norton went on a business mission to White Oaks Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Haskins are snugly domiciled in their ranch home in Jicarilla.

Some of the bachelor miners of camp are making a garden this season, and nearly all of them are profitable poultry raisers. This is not a hint to the lonesome widow or the "delinquent" maiden to get a move on.

Ancho

Hello, Mr. Editor! Ye scribe is not dead, but owing to so many duties we have been quite negligent, but shall try to do better in the future.

Mr. S. C. Burnett made a flying trip to Carrizozo last week spending one day in the city on business.

Our excellent neighbor and highly esteemed minister, J. B. Perkins preached to a goodsized and appreciative audience last Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

The brick plant has closed for time to make repairs. The employees however are all busy with numerous side duties and assisting in the repair work. Several cars of brick have been shipped of late and quite a number are being loaded at the present time.

The School Board contemplates making some new and much needed improvements on the building and grounds in the near future.

P. G. Zimmerman, Socialist lecturer gave an interesting lecture at 11 o'clock Sunday the 18.

The good people of Ancho expect to observe Decoration day in the improvements on our cemetery.

Uncle Nick Palmer and Mrs. Bradley entertained a number of friends to a most excellent dinner on last Sunday. These present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Tickner and Miss Edith Tickner, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wilson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Burnett and sons and Miss Sylvia Myer. The occasion was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. H. M. Perkins, who has been at Jicarilla for several weeks has returned home.

Southern Highway Meeting

R

EV. S. M. JOHNSON, after spending a day in Carrizozo, left Wednesday noon for El Paso to be present at a meeting in that city of the Southern National Highway Association. Col. Dell M. Porter, of Arizona, president of the Association, was present at the meeting yesterday and delivered an address. Mr. Johnson is the state organizer of the Association for New Mexico and has been one of the most active advocates of the "Borderland Route" as well as the "All Southern Route" that this country possessed.

More than a year ago The News published a most interesting article from his pen advocating the establishment of these two routes, both to unite east of Roswell and to come through Lincoln county. Largely through his untiring efforts and intelligent presentation to the various associations he has attended the advantages to be obtained by the adoption of these routes success has crowned his labors. The "Borderland Route" is mapped through Lincoln county, as is also the "All Southern Route."

Government aid has been promised in the construction of these roads and our county will be placed upon two of the most important national highways on the continent. This means that thousands of tourists--some of whom may invest and locate in our midst--will travel over these routes yearly, and the expenditure of a great sum of money will naturally follow.

Two lines are to be built in this county, the main line dividing at Hondo, one going up Ruidoso, through the Mesalero Agency and down to Tularosa and on to Alamogordo and El Paso; the other leaving Hondo, following up the Bonito to Lincoln, Fort Stanton, Capitan, Nogal and Carrizozo and the line to be continued to the Rio Grande, striking through by way of Socorro. This latter line would give tourists--and all travelers--the opportunity of striking the north and south route, running from Santa Fe, Albuquerque to El Paso, and a choice of routes could again be made there. State and County aid is expected--and must be had to construct these optional routes, and when this is done we shall have easy means of ingress and egress.

In addition to these routes, and while we are on the subject of roads, we desire to make a suggestion that we think will interest a large section of our county. That is the establishment of a good road from Ruidoso, via Alto, Angus and the Mesa, to connect with the Roswell-Carrizozo road at the Nogal divide. This road, if established, would connect well populated centers of the county and would afford an easy means to the mountain section of the county to reach a market with their produce. We hope to see this matter presented to the road commission which will meet here Monday.

Lincoln-Capitan vs. Fort Stanton

THE Fort Stanton ball field was filled with spectators from all parts last Sunday afternoon to witness the second game of the two best ball teams in Lincoln county. The Sunday before, the visitors took the game by 7 to 10, and as the local team was favored by the visitors coming again, and as the teams had both been strengthened everybody was interested more than ever. Everybody was happy; the day was beautiful and a fine game resulted. The score was 4 to 5 in favor of the visitors.

Let it be noted here that we again commend the teams for their work, and also we thank the visitors for their sacrifice in coming to our field without waiting for, or demanding a return game each time. Officers, patients and attendants are most thankful and hope that the interest will continue to increase, as the season passes. The pitchers of both teams did good work, and but for a bunch of errors in one inning Fort Stanton would have taken the laurels. Well, the boys are determined and they are going after the victors again next Friday, Decoration Day, the game to be played at Capitan. Crowds are expected from Lincoln, Fort Stanton and Carrizozo. Report has it that Carrizozo has changed to the game of "Ping Pong" with little success at that.--Communicated.

Former White Oaks Boy Marries

FROM the Douglas (Arizona) International we get the information that C. N. McMains has become a benedict. Many of our readers will remember him as a boy in White Oaks and later in Carrizozo when he had reached man's estate. Some may wonder who C. N. McMains is but when the more familiar name of "Dick," by which he was known, is given all will remember him. In reporting the marriage of this young man, who left here for Douglas, Arizona, several years ago, the International says:

C. N. McMains and Miss Maud Eva McCullah were quietly married last evening at the home of Rev. Martin, pastor of the Christian church, about 10 o'clock. The young couple slipped away from their relatives, who were a little suspicious that they were up to something, and went to the pastor's home where the knot was tied.

Miss McCullah is the sister of Mrs. E. L. Kennedy of Sunnyside and has been in the city visiting since February from her home in Reedspring, Missouri. She is a popular young woman and has made a host of friends since her arrival here.

The groom has been a resident of this city for the past eight years, an employe of the Phelps-Dodge store. Several months ago, however, he severed his connection with that company and became interested in the Auto Grocery. The happy young people for the present are stopping with relatives until a lovely little home, which he is building on Fourteenth street, is finished.

CONDEMNED BY PUBLIC OPINION

Woman Once Accused of Crime Is Shunned by Her Neighbors.

LIZZIE BORDEN'S LONELY LIFE

Twenty Years Ago She Was Charged With the Murder of Her Parents, and Although Acquitted She Seems Compelled to Live Alone, Except for the Companionship of Her Servants.

FALL RIVER, MASS.—Twenty years ago Lizzie Borden, accused of the murder of her father and her stepmother, stood up in the court room at New Bedford and heard a jury of her peers pronounce the verdict of acquittal—heard them declare to all the world that she was "not guilty" of two of the most brutal and atrocious murders that ever shocked the country.

Today that same Lizzie Borden lives a recluse, as damned by public opinion and as ostracized by former friends and enemies alike as if that same jury had pronounced the one word "Guilty."

Lizzie Borden still lives in Fall River, but as far as Fall River is concerned, Lizzie Borden is an outcast, an Ishmael, a social pariah. Her name is uttered with contempt, and over her friends and relatives who comforted her during the months of her imprisonment and throughout the ordeal of her trial have long since ceased their visits. Today her nearest neighbors pass her by without a nod or sign of recognition, writes Gertrude Stevenson in the Boston Herald.

Twelve jurymen found Lizzie Borden guilty. Nevertheless, she has been punished and persecuted as no other innocent woman in history. She has lived to know the tragedy of a verdict of acquittal. She has come to realize that Andrew J. Jennings, her counsel and friend, was a true prophet when, in addressing Judge Blaisdell at her preliminary trial he declared:

"Don't, your honor, don't put the stigma of guilt upon this woman, regard as she has been and with a past character beyond reproach. Don't let it go out in the world as the decision of a just judge that she is probably guilty."

Murder Still Unavenged.
After 20 years, when the deaths of Andrew J. Borden and his wife are still unavenged—when the double tragedy still heads the list of New England's unsolved murder mysteries—with Lizzie Borden banished from society, shunned by all who were once near and dear to her, the words of Andrew J. Jennings may well be remembered as an example of mastery and farsighted prophecy.

After 20 years, Lizzie Borden lives as shut off from the world as if she were behind prison bars—condemned to solitude by barriers stronger than any prison wall could be—less tangible but a hundred times more effective than any bars of iron—the silent, inexorable censure of her fellow men and women.

This woman, who for two decades has maintained the silence of a Sphinx, who has never asked for mercy, never pleaded to be understood, never by any word or sign expressed indignation at the treatment accorded her by the people of Fall River, lives in the great silent home she purchased with her share of her murdered father's half million, knowing no human companionship save that which she can hire—no friendships except those of occasional strangers who turn a cold shoulder upon her advances when they find that she is the Lizzie Borden once tried for murder—no affection save that of the dumb beasts with which she has surrounded herself now that human attachments are denied her.

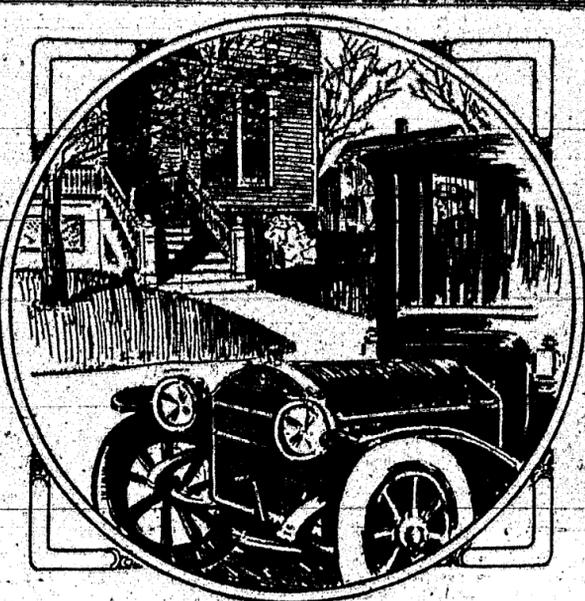

When Lizzie Borden was acquitted it was commonly believed that she would soon shake the dust of Fall River from her feet, and that under an assumed name she would try to live down the accusation that had been made against her—that in new places and among new people she would attempt to find new interests and new pleasures.

Bought House in Home City.
But Lizzie Borden apparently never contemplated such a procedure. As soon as the affairs of her father's estate were adjusted, she proceeded to purchase a handsome mansion in the exclusive "hill section" of Fall River—the very neighborhood she had long and fruitfully tried to induce her father to enter.

To all intents and purposes the woman planned to live among her friends and acquaintances, just as she had always lived, continuing to attend the same fashionable Congregational church, entertaining and being entertained, only now she had the added advantage of several hundred thousands of dollars in her own right.

She had her horses and carriages, the beautiful clothes she had always longed for and which the thrift of her father and his second wife had previously denied her. Apparently, aside from the shadow of the tragic deaths of her father and stepmother over her life, everything that heart or mind could desire was Lizzie Borden's.

It was while revelling in the luxury

and power that the possession of a large amount of money cannot fail to give Lizzie Borden read the writing on the wall. It was then she first began to feel the pressure of public opinion—that she first realized that former cordial greetings were growing colder and more cold—that friends who once would stop for a chat or drop in for an informal visit passed her by with scant nods and averted eyes—that she came to understand the tremendous force of unexpressed criticism—that the conviction came home to her that which no earthly situation is more crushing or more annihilating—that she was being shunned by every human being, with an occasional rare exception, who had formerly made up her life and happiness. It was all the more terrifying because it was so indefinable. There was no tangible finger of scorn—no open declaration of hostility—just that insistent, maddening, universal aloofness.

Never Wore Mourning.
She was criticised because she did not wear mourning for her parents. Her every going in and coming out was discussed, and all manner and kind of construction placed upon every ordinary, unimportant detail of her mode of living and acting. Some thought she drove her horses too rapidly and recklessly down the main street. Some avowed that she had never shown the proper grief over her father's death. Others insisted that she was making altogether too sudden and too blatant display of the money that had come to her with the murder of her father. She could do nothing right. If she tried to be happy and forgot the awful shadow that had come into her life her critics called her heartless. If she appeared on the streets in a sober, subdued frame of mind there were all sorts of gossiping and predictions and clackings of tongues—such an attitude could mean but one thing to their minds!

So the years went on, one after another of her friends dropping away from her, until today Lizzie Borden, looking for all the world like any other stout, matronly woman you might meet on the street, is without a doubt the most isolated free woman in New England.

Seems Without Emotion.
She is today just what she was described as being when she faced trial for her life twenty years ago—a stolid, immobile, unemotional-appearing woman—her large, strong features expressing the same determination that characterized her when she faced her accusers on the charge of parricide. If this woman has ever had an emotion it can honestly be said that she has invariably succeeded in concealing it from any human eye.

She goes about today just as she went her way, firm-mouthed, direct, and baffling of understanding during the days following the discovery of the mutilated bodies of her father and her stepmother, during the inquest that resulted in her arrest, day after day during the preliminary trial, at the end of which Judge Blaisdell found her probably guilty—throughout the grand jury hearing when twenty out of twenty-one grand jurymen voted to indict her—all during the eight months of her confinement in Taunton jail while she waited the sitting of the superior court and during the long hours of her thirteen days' trial by jury which ended in her acquittal and release.

Months Without a Visitor.
Not in fifteen years has Lizzie Borden attended the church where up to her thirty-third year she was a leader—working for charity—preaching at meetings of the Christian Endeavor, singing in the choir—active in all church socials and gatherings. Not in years has she entered any store or shop in the city where she was born and spent her girlhood, and young womanhood as the younger daughter of one of the city's richest and most respected business men. Not to the knowledge of anyone has she engaged in any charity for the past ten years.

Months pass by without a human foot crossing her threshold other than those of maids and tradespeople. A visitor at the Borden door is such a rare and curious sight as to occasion comment throughout the neighborhood.

Not only the house of tragedy on Second street, where she was born and brought up and which is still in her possession, but also her present beautiful residence high on the hill overlooking the business section of Fall River, is the mecca of innumerable curious sightseers year after year. Apparently the interest in the Borden murders and the personality of the daughter upon whose shoulders guilt first fell never abated. A round dozen prominent Fall River people tell me that, no matter where they go, the minute they mention that their home town is Fall River, they are greeted with due one inevitable question:

"Whatever became of Lizzie Borden?"
Put Lizzie Borden First.
Fall River is noted for its mills—its industries—its prominent people; but they rank second in interest and importance to the question: "What about Lizzie Borden?" Lizzie Borden comes and goes about the city and in and out of it, unquestioning and unquestioned. A few years ago she discarded her carriage and handsome pair for the finest limousine that money could buy. Secure from observation in its richly upholstered interior, she drives about the city at dusk or goes to and from the trains and takes trips around the surrounding country. All her shopping is done out of town. She is a frequent visitor in Boston, where she makes her home at the Bellevue, registering as "Lisbeth Borden," although her story is well known to the hotel attendants.

Crimes Never Forgotten.
The real attitude of Fall River toward Lizzie Borden is perhaps best reflected in its newspapers. Every year, on the anniversary of the crimes, the Fall River Globe prints a vigorous article in regard to the murders, the perpetrator and the fact that the crimes remain an unavenged blot on the community. The articles are pointed so strongly and so openly at one and only one person as to invite suits for criminal libel, but if the woman ever sees them or hears of them, she has made no sign.

DRIFTING WITH THE TIDE
Initiative a Thing Which Many People Seek Most Earnestly to Be Relieved Of.
In some quarters there is a penalty put upon initiative. Society frowns upon those who rebuke its practices. It does not care to be rebuked. It wants no John the Baptist, with his locusts and wild honey and terrifying message. It wants a Petronius, a Beau Brummel, to regulate its entertainments and set a style in dress. The devotee of fashion is generally content to drift with the tide. He or she accepts opinions and ideas—as they would not accept their clothing—ready-made. The notable, the protestant, is banned, ostracized. You must do as the others do in modern Rome and Babylon. No wonder the seer of Concord asks indignantly: "But is science and the heart always to be merely endured and tolerated, and never to walk to the quarter-deck and take the command?" Why, when music is heard, or a picture exhibited—or even when horses are put through their paces—are the clothes some woman wears the matter of paramount interest? Just so long as the habits are more than the wearer, and what is put on the head is more than what is put into it, we shall have "science and the heart" apparently (though never really) subservient to the foolishness of Vanity Fair.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Some Premises Easily Remembered.
One of the managers of the Frohman forces met an old Kansas City friend recently in New York, and each being pleasantly surprised to see the other, they decided to talk over old times at a convenient bar. During the course of the conversation the manager volunteered to send two complimentary tickets to the hotel to the friend's wife and sister to attend a matinee the following afternoon. As they parted the friend admonished him not to forget to leave the tickets as he had promised, and added that he would better tie a string around his finger to remind him. The manager laughed and retorted his thought.

"Oh," he said, "I never have to tie a string around my finger to remember dates for other men's wives."

More Economical Both in Use and Cost CALUMET BAKING POWDER

—And it does better work. Simply follow your customary method of preparation—add a little less of Calumet than when using ordinary baking powder. Then watch the result. Light, fluffy, and evenly raised—the baking comes from the oven more tempting, tastier, more wholesome.

Calumet insures the baking of an expert. Ask your grocer to-day.

Cure for Stomach Disorders

Disorders of the stomach may be avoided by the use of Chamberlain's Tablets. Many very remarkable cures have been effected by these tablets. Sold by all dealers.

Today is Memorial Day, and its observance will be quite general throughout the Union. On this occasion the lined ranks of veterans—both the and gray—will clasp hands over the graves of departed comrades, little recking whether the soldiers were one who marched to triumph with the Stars and Stripes or went down in defeat under the Stars and Bars.

Rooms Wanted

Parties having rooms, with or without board, they wish to rent during the Lincoln County Teachers' Institute, June 9-21, leave description with price at the office of County School Superintendent. Besides our own increasing corps, some of the Otero county teachers are planning to attend, so we shall need more accommodations than usual.

MRS. WALLACE L. GUMM, Superintendent.

John R. Patton, writes THE NEWS from the Soldiers' Home, Los Angeles, that he tips the beam at 177 pounds and is enjoying the best of health. He expects to visit here in July or August and in the meantime wishes to be remembered to old friends, particularly to his old Confederate friend, Sidney Wilcoxon.

Health a Factor in Success

The largest factor contributing to a man's success is undoubtedly health. It has been observed that a man is seldom sick when his bowels are regular—he is never well when they are constipated. For constipation you will find nothing quite so good as Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only move the bowels, but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. They are sold by all dealers.

Monday next the county road board will be in session here. A general invitation to all interested in the building of good roads to attend this meeting is extended. Arrangements are being made to have a good roads meeting at night, at which it is hoped representatives from every part of the county will be present.

Mass Meeting—Incorporation

At the mass meeting Tuesday night at the Methodist church, called to consider the question of incorporation, quite a number of citizens attended. Various expressions were made by those present concerning the advantages of incorporation, but the opposition, if present that evening, failed to make an expression. No decided action was taken or suggested, and the meeting contented itself by the appointment of a committee to secure all the information obtainable from towns in the state, that are incorporated and to report its findings at a meeting to be called by the chair. The purpose is to ascertain what advantages in actual experience, incorporation has brought to towns like Carrizozo.

Japan Not so Formidable

THE Japanese nightmare has disturbed the sleep of many Americans recently, but, if danger really exists, we confess our inability to appreciate it. When a comparison is made between the two countries the American jingo ought to take a rest. The following from the New York World should be sufficient to convince the weak kneed that we have nothing to fear from a war with Japan:

"Irresponsible jingoes who predict a warlike onset by Japan are only two fact. One is that the Japanese standing army is stronger than ours. The other is that the Japanese navy is stronger than any sea force we now have in the Pacific. But there are other facts which would convict of political lunacy any Japanese statesman who should out-sel war."

"The full naval balance stands:

	Japan	U. S.
De. draughts	2	8
Older battleships	13	24
Cruisers	27	25
Toledo boats and destroyers	112	61
Submarines	13	22

To displacement 471,962 763,132
Only in the class of torpedo boats, whose radius of action is short, is the Japanese navy superior. In striking power it is far outclassed.

"Japan's war debt is already crushing. The average laborer of Japan, earning twenty cents or less a day, must work more than one month every year to pay his family's share of the $71,000,000 it costs to "carry" Japan's debt of $1,271,745,000. The average American workman, at ten times the wage, need work but a little over half a day to pay his share of the $22,000,000 interest on the debt of the United States.

The contrast between the two nations in financial resources is strongly expressed in other terms. Our commerce up to May 1 was $4,254,000,000 in a year. Japan's in 1911, was $195,000,000. Japan's 5 per cent bonds sell below par. Her 4's are ten points below those of New York City. No more money could be borrowed upon such terms in case of war. Japan's credit would be dead.

"A short and certain road to financial ruin, ultimate defeat, political revolution and anarchy lies before Japan in a war upon the United States. Who is silly enough to believe that any Japanese statesman would care to tread it?"

New Fifth District Judge

THE Fifth Judicial District, composed of the counties of Eddy, Chaves, Roosevelt and Curry, has a new judge—in addition to the one presiding in that district. Governor McDonald has just announced the appointment of Hon. Granville A. Richardson, of Roswell, as addition judge in that district, the position having been created by the last legislature. The Fifth district is one of the largest and most populous in the state, and one judge was unable to perform the work. Judge Richardson has been an honored citizen of southeastern New Mexico—once a part of Lincoln county—for a great many years, has represented his people in many capacities, always faithfully, and his appointment is a source of pleasure to his many friends throughout the state. His elevation to the bench will add strength and dignity to the judiciary of the

Court in Special Session

COURT convened in special session Monday morning, Judge Colin B. Neblett, of Silver City, presiding. Judge Medler is expected the latter part of the week, at which time Judge Neblett will return to his district. In addition to the Judge, the court officials are: H. B. Hamilton, district attorney; A. H. Harvey, clerk; Porfirio Chavez, sheriff; A. M. Majors, stenographer; C. S. Pedregan, interpreter; John Adams and C. M. Estes were appointed bailiffs.

All members of the regular panel which was dismissed in April and required to return at the special term—24—were here, but three rendered excuses and were discharged. They were, T. J. Grafton, A. H. Hayes and E. E. Wilson. A special venire was drawn and the three chosen to fill the vacancies are, Marvin Burton, S. F. Miller and R. L. Howell.

Little was accomplished Monday and Tuesday, either the defendants or witnesses, owing to a misunderstanding of dates, not being on hand. Wednesday the case against Erastus Lacey was called, but the evidence failed to connect the defendant with the alleged crime, the judge took the case from the jury and discharged the defendant. Lacey, of a call was the nature of the indictment.

Yesterday morning a jury was secured in a case wherein Allen Hightower and Sam Woods are charged with larceny. The case went to the jury yesterday evening, the jury remained out all night and this morning returned a verdict acquitting the defendants.

Judge Medler came in yesterday evening and will preside for the remainder of the term, which, owing to changed conditions, will be shorter than anticipated. The city case from San Diego will not be heard, because of the resignation of the city officials, neither will the Assarate murder cases at this term, the defendant having been granted bond and continuance granted. There remain, then, only about two more criminal cases to be heard at this term and a damage suit, all of which the court hopes to be able to dispose of this week or, at least, the early part of next week.

Good Roads Meeting and Smoker

NEXT Monday night is the date set for the county good roads meeting, and the committee has selected the basement of the Exchange Bank building as the place for the meeting. The Board of County Commissioners will be in session Monday, as will also the County Good Roads Board, and quite a number citizens from all parts of the county are expected here on that occasion.

Arrangements are being made for a smoker, and the refreshment features will be strictly Bryanese—nothing stronger than grape juice highballs will be served. So the sensibilities of none will be disturbed and it is hoped that everything will go as "merry as a marriage bell." Every one is invited to make the occasion not only a pleasant one but a profitable one, as well.

"We told you so," and we have Sunday's result to fortify our previous prediction that Carrizozo was getting ready for all comers. And when our old friends, but oftentimes opponents, the White Oaks team, came down Sunday, our boys "struck a gait" that left the mountain boys far in the rear. It was more of a friendly practice game than anything else, but our boys evidently had become tired of bringing up the rear, and so went after the visitors as though an old grudge was being wiped out. However no grudge does exist—not a cloud to darken the horizon—and we hope to meet many times in friendly rivalry the boys from White Oaks before the season waxes and wanes.

Beentford

The world admires any man who attends to his own business—no matter how humble it may be.

The Cause.
"George is raising mutton-chop whiskers."
"That accounts for his sheepish expression."

Valued Patron.
"Confound it!" said the uptown druggist, "that woman took all the change I had in the drawer."
"Why didn't you tell her you couldn't break her $10 bill?"
"No, no; she's one of our most regular patrons. Why, I've known that woman to buy as high as eleven one-cent postage stamps in a week."

The Right of the Strong.
Three-year-old George and his sister, slightly older, were having a late-lunch luncheon. "Why," she demanded, "do you take the last ginger-snaps, when you've had two and I haven't had any?" The young philosopher pondered for a moment, then concluded to elucidate.
"Because," he said, kindly, "I'm a boy and you're a girl."

THOSE HEADACHES

If accompanied with backache, dragging-down pain, do not have to be. Nature never intended that woman should suffer in this manner.

Dr. Pierce's FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION
For forty years has proved wonderfully efficient as a remedy for woman's peculiar weaknesses and derangements.

Get Paid for Bathing.
To promote health and comfort among their 700 employees, Harrison Bros. & Co., of this city, have offered to give every man employed at their plant 15 cents each time he takes a bath.

There are no strings to the offer. All that is necessary is that the bath be taken in the elaborately fitted bathrooms of the concern. As soon as a workman finishes bathing he will receive a check from an attendant, and on pay day he may have the checks cashed at the rate of 15 cents apiece.

BADLY BURNED ON LEG

200 Fuller St., Redwood, Cal.—"My two-year-old daughter tipped a basin of hot water on her leg between knee and ankle. She was burned so badly, in places as large as a man's hand, that the skin was loose. The appearance of the leg was dark red. I applied the Cuticura Ointment at once and put on a bandage. I removed the bandage twenty-four hours later, opened the water blisters, applied more Cuticura Ointment, and bandaged again. The skin did not come off and I did this until she was completely cured. I did not let her walk much until it was healed. She did not complain after the first day, and after the Cuticura Ointment was put on, slept as usual. The scars are gone; Cuticura Ointment entirely cured her." (Signed) Mrs. E. O. Chapman, Mar. 12, 1912.

POPULAR ALICE BLUE

ONE OF THE MOST ATTRACTIVE OF SEASON'S PARTY GOWNS.

Original and Distinctive, the Costume Adds to the Natural Grace and Beauty of the Wearer—Follows New Ideas in Lines.

All at once everyone wants Alice blue in gowns and millinery. It is no wonder when one sees how well it looks developed in party gowns in visiting costumes, and in afternoon frockets. Here is an example of Alice blue silk muslin made according to a late model. It is admirable because it will do duty for a party gown or for dress occasions at home.

Except for the arrangement of the draping the design follows closely the new waistless and hipless models. They are very new and if rather straight up-and-down they suggest the youthful figure.

It seems the waist line is vanishing. Coats for summer wear look as if they aspired to be like the outer garments of the Chinese. Dresses have made sash-like draperies wrapped about the figure and extending to the thigh. Considering their extremes the little gown shown here is conservative, following the new lines tentatively.

Lace and gayly colored embroidery are introduced in the bodices, with small rhinestone buttons holding the drapery down the front. An embroidery medallion holds the skirt drapery at the front. Altogether the gown contrives to be graceful, at the same time embodying the new ideas in lines.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

SHORT, BRIGHT, LITTLE COATS

Russian Blouse Reaching Almost to the Hem of the Skirt, is the Latest Idea.

The long, classic jacket for tailored costumes has this spring become shorter. The fronts are rounded or cut square, and the general effect is very smart. The Russian blouse is suggested, but the lower portion is plaited and made to fall very long. This is not so effective in woolen goods as in soft stuffs such as crepe, silk or mousseline. One of Polot's best examples of this cut is a blouse that becomes a kind of riding-garment, plaited from the waist and falling almost to the hem of the oyster satin skirt. The riding-garment is in buff mousseline, with bid red and green roses.

When any of the rich, dark-colored tailor suits have to be brightened this is done by introducing "flashes" or three-cornered ornaments, embroidered in silk. These are put in the corners or seams or in darts. The color is generally red, yellow or violet. Some of

BOTH DAINTY AND ORIGINAL

Costume Appropriate in All its Details That Was Central Figure at a Recent Wedding.

A dainty straw toque, worn at a recent wedding, was of prune color, with platings of maline in the same color encircling the crown. There were two platings below and two above a narrow band of prune-colored velvet ribbon, and at the front a knot of the velvet seemed to hold the base of a tall fan of the platted malines which rose some inches above the hat. This hat accompanied a wonderfully draped gown of prune-colored satin brocade and lansdowne in the same shade; the silk and worsted lansdowne forming an underdrapery beneath the brocade which was lifted toward the front at the knee, revealing the swathed, lansdowne skirt slashed at the center front—rather draped in such manner that the daintily booted foot showed at intervals. Patent leather boots with buttoned tops of prune-colored cloth matched the prune gown and hat and the only strongly contrasting color note was in a deep, red velvet rose at the girdle.

High and Tight Stocks.

A good many high tight stocks of lace and net and silk and satin are worn, and there is a trimness and smartness about them which the flat collars do not possess. They bid fair to find great popularity so long as the days are comfortably cool, but in mid-summer they will probably be supplanted by flat open collars.

Polot's taller costumes are trimmed with white bone buttons sewed on with the same shade of silk as makes the dress. A very dainty cream white sponge is treated in this way with crease. In the same manner Polot sometimes combines green and red, green and blue, red and blue, etc.

PARASOLS SUIT THE HAT

Most Distinctive Feature of Those That Will Be in General Use This Coming Season.

Parasols are made this year to accommodate the modish small hat which sits rakishly on the top of the head and the big shade hat which will not be discarded. The steep sided parasol is hardly larger than the hat, the large parasol is meant to shade.

The little parasol of black and white stripes is especially suitable to carry with the street frock. Black and white parasols can be carried with white, black and white or any color combination.

The big parasol with blunt tip is suggestive of the paper sunshade of Japan. The square, light handle and the rose, fastened smartly on the edge of the parasol are interesting features. This sort of sunshade will be carried a great deal at the seashore. It gives protection, which the smaller parasols do not give, to the hatless head.

New Dressing Jacket Dainty.

An entirely transformed garment is the dressing jacket. It used to be a very utilitarian and generally homely jacket, made with a deep frill of lace at the neck and the same trimming on the elbow sleeves. But the modern dressing jacket is a daintily beautiful article, and serviceable as well, for it is invariably made of some pretty washing material. A charming dressing jacket is the "Dresden china" model. It is made of white wash silk patterned with delicate wreaths of pale pink roses, and is trimmed with blue satin ribbon. The jacket is edged with a deep frill of the net, and is draped just before the frill with the satin ribbon. A long draped and pointed collar of pale blue silk is edged with a shorter frill of cream net, and the elbow sleeves are finished with not frills tied up with satin ribbon.

Toilet Table Silver.

Quadruple-plated silver articles for the toilet table are more than ever attractive, and if a "witch" cloth is kept conveniently at hand, the metal may easily be made bright. Just a rub over its surface and, presto! the dust is removed. Three-piece sets—hand glass, brush and comb—in plain or striped design are considered ultra smart and to go with them, although sold separately, are pin trays and graceful vaso-shaped hatpin holders. Because talcum and face powder, cold cream and rouge are the better for being kept in glass, there are jars of the four correct sizes in crystal provided with either flat hinge-tops or with detached covers of plated silver matching the other toilet articles.

Dresser Cover.

For a pretty dresser cover, take three embroidered handkerchiefs, sew a row of insertion together, and sew a narrow lace all around each one, then join them together, and sew a narrow lace around all; line with any preferred color of cambric, tacking at each corner so it can easily be removed for laundering. Place at each corner a bow of ribbon the color of the lining.

Baste in Colors.

I have discovered that the use of colored cotton instead of white for basting while making makes it much easier to follow the seams accurately on the machine, writes a contributor to Good Housekeeping. Also the bastings can be more easily and quickly removed and are less apt to be overlooked.

Selections for Memorial Wreaths.
The police of Berlin applied the censorship of the scissors to a recent demonstration at the cemetery where are buried the socialists and anarchists who fell in the revolution in Berlin March 18, 1948. Hundreds of visitors brought wreaths, the socialists red and the anarchists black to lay on the graves. The police, with scissors, stood at the entrance to the cemetery. Every wreath was submitted to them, and the sentiments on the ribbons had to undergo the censorship of the scissors.

Does Backache Worry You?

Many who suffer with backache and weak kidneys are constitutionally irritable and fretful. Bad kidneys fail to eliminate all the uric acid from the system, keeping you "on edge" and causing rheumatic, neuralgic pains.

When your back aches, and you notice signs of bladder irregularities, suspect your kidneys and begin using Doan's Kidney Pills, the best recommended special kidney remedy.
