Declaration of Independence

JULY 4, 1776

WHEN in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation:--For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;--For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States;--For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world;--For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent;--For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury;--For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences;--For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighboring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies;--For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our Governments;--For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.--He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.--He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the Lives of our people.--He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.--He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.--He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the Inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions. In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people. Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations; which, would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.--

We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

New York Judge Prescribes One Day in Jail for Every Man Once Each Year

"It would do every man good to spend one day a year in jail. It would broaden his view of life and Christianity."

THESE were statements made by Judge Robert Carey of the common pleas court, Jersey City, in an address at the Central Methodist church of Yonkers.

Some of the prisoners in the Tombs prison, New York, differ with the judge.

Among them are, for instance, Joseph G. Roblin, former president of the defunct Northern bank, sentenced to a year in prison for misapplication of funds; Philip Musica, the importer held for trial on a charge of fraud; Robert H. Kirby, negro hotel porter, charged with assault, and John Cassidy, convicted of assault and other crimes, and now in the Tombs for the twenty-second time.

"Do you think Judge Carey is right in his belief that every man and woman ought to be put behind the bars for one day every year?" Musica was asked.

The young importer, after a sudden disappearance from New York, six weeks ago, when he was wanted by the government on fraud charges, thought for a moment.

"Well," he said at length, "I don't know. As a matter of fact, I do not desire to discuss this matter of prison with you."

Cassidy, the old-timer, was more communicative. He shook his gray head.

"That judge is a nut," was his verdict. "Here I've been spending about half my days every year in jail for thirty years, and I can't see that it has done me any good or broadened my Christian viewpoint to a noticeable degree."

"Maybe the first time I went to jail I thought it did. That is, I thought it did until I got out. Then it was just as easy to jimmy another window or lift a white-haired old gentleman's watch in a street car. The second 'bit' I did narrowed my Christian viewpoint to a paper edge, and as for charity—huh! that bunk gets hammered out of a man by prison grub and hard work up at the Pen. There ain't no such thing."

"Yes, I guess I might have been willing to argue with this judge if he'd called his idea about the first time I was stowed away. It struck me pretty hard then. It was for beating up a man in a saloon. I got thirty days, and I was young, and I had a family, and it got under my skin."

"I was about ready then, I guess, to admit that a 'bit' in a cell might whiten a fellow out some, and I, suppose, I made up my mind that I was a pretty chastened guy before I got out."

"But the next time it was different. I got sent up for a job I never did, and it soured on me. I lost my repenting notion. Might as well the deed go the name, said I, and when I got out that time it didn't take me long to get in again with my eyes wide open, and deliberate at that."

"Since then I've been coming back to the Tombs to wait trial every so often, and they all know me here—not by the same name, maybe, but by my face. No, young fellow, this old judge never spent a day or five years behind 'em for something he never done, or he wouldn't be talking about broadening the Christian viewpoint by sitting in a cell."

Robert H. Kirby, the negro hotel porter, had quite another idea of Judge Carey's theory. Kirby was waiting trial on a charge of beating a woman. He had been locked up before for disorderly conduct, but not for long.

"Yes, sir, I think Judge Carey is pretty near right," he said. "A man who sits in a cell in prison a whole long day once a year has time to think. All the wrong he has done comes up pretty close to him and he gets time to think what a mean, miserable sort of a fellow he is."

"I believe in these few days I've spent here in the Tombs has done me more good than anything else. I was locked up for disorderly conduct once, and on that occasion I got a chance to look at myself from a sort of outside point of view. When I got through looking I saw I wasn't much of a man, and when I got out of jail I braced up and was a different fellow."

"That was a long time ago, and I got to slipping back, I guess. But I wouldn't have it if I had to spend one day in jail every year between that first time and this."

Joseph G. Roblin, the defaulting bank president, had little to say about the idea.

COOKED IN NEW WAYS

THREE GOOD RECIPES FOR PREPARATION OF CHICKEN.

Will We Found Pleasant Change From the Generally Accepted Methods—Most Delicous Served With Asparagus—Special Stew.

Chicken, Waldorf Style.—Boil a chicken until it is tender; take it from the fire and remove all white meat, which cut into small dice-shaped pieces, adding two truffles, cut in the same way. Put the mixture into a saucepan with a pint of fresh thick cream, season with salt and pepper and allow to boil for twelve minutes. Then thicken with two raw egg yolks diluted in two large spoonfuls of Madeira wine. Stir this thoroughly in with the chicken, also two ounces of fresh butter added in small bits, and mingle without letting it boil again, then serve.

Chicken, Asparagus.—Cut a chicken into quarters and put into a saucepan with a little butter to fry. When it begins to steam dust over with a little flour and try to a pale brown, now sprinkling over a teaspoonful of chopped parsley and a little salt. Take a couple bunches of asparagus, break off the tender parts, wash them well in salted water, boil slightly in more salt water, and drain. Put a lump of butter and one tablespoonful of cream into a saucepan over a slow fire, place half the asparagus on top, dust with pepper, and then arrange the pieces of chicken over it; cover with the remainder of the asparagus and put a few pieces of butter on top. Pour over all one breakfast cupful of cream and stew gently till done. Turn the whole out into a dish, garnish with croutons of fried bread and serve.

Stewed Chicken, Matelote.—Singe a fowl, draw and cut into pieces, rub with butter, and flour and brown in an oven. Put four tablespoonfuls of butter into a frying pan and in it fry a carrot, a parsnip and an onion, all cut in pieces. Place the fowl in a stewpan with the vegetables and one quart of white stock. In the butter in which the vegetables were fried, brown two tablespoonfuls of flour, and stir this in with the fowl. Mash the liver, cooked separately, and stir in with the fowl also, along with a tablespoonful of capers and salt and pepper. Simmer slowly for three-quarters of an hour, add a quarter of a pound of mushrooms cut into small pieces and simmer for a quarter of an hour longer. Serve garnished with mashed potatoes.

Apples and Red Jelly. Take six good-sized apples and core them. Put two cloves into each apple and as much granulated sugar as will hold. Place them in a baking pan, without touching, and add a cup of water or more, as you think fit. Look at them often and try to keep them whole. When done, take out carefully and place in dish. Strain the sirup they were cooked in and put in another saucepan, with a little gelatine (dissolved) and a few drops of red coloring. Boil till quite clear, and then put around apples. Set away to cool till supper time.

Roast Beef and Nut Hash. Hash in Pastry Ramekins.—Chop remains of cold roast beef fine; season to taste, add minced onion, cook slowly (adding little water or milk) until mixture thickens. Have ready baked individual pastry shapes; fill these with hash, dot with butter. Stand in oven until browned. Serve hot. Nut Hash.—Mix thoroughly one cup chopped walnuts and peanuts mixed, one cup bread crumbs and one cup nicely seasoned hot mashed potatoes. Add milk to moisten. Brown in oven. Serve with cream or tomato sauce.

Cherry Fuffs. One-half cup butter, one cup sugar, two eggs, one cup sweet milk, two cups flour, two tablespoonfuls baking powder, stewed cherries. Cream, butter and sugar, add eggs, and flour, and baking powder alternately with milk. Butter small china baking cups; add teaspoonful cherries, then batter, then more cherries, and have cups two-thirds full, with batter on top. Place cups in pan of water, and bake in oven twenty minutes. Serve with hot, foamy sauce, or cherry juice.

How to Cook Lamb Kidneys. When you buy lamb kidneys have the butcher leave all the fat on them. Wash them and put in a baking pan with a little salt and pepper and bake about one-half hour in a good hot oven. Just before serving, cut open the fat carefully and remove the kidney; and I hope you will enjoy them, as my folks do. Cooked this way they lose all the strong flavor that they usually have.

Hamburg Loaf. One and one-half pounds of meat, three slices of bread crumbed, one-quarter pound fat, pork chopped fine, one egg beaten, salt and pepper to suit taste. Place alternately in pan meat and dressing, some pork on top. Bake slowly one hour or less. Four one-half cup of water over it.

Rice Pudding. One quart of milk, three tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, yolks of four eggs, one-half cup sugar and a little salt; put part of the milk, salt and sugar on the stove and let it boil; dissolve the cornstarch in part of the milk; stir into the milk and while boiling add the yolks. Boil with vanilla.

WOMAN COULD NOT WALK

She Was So Ill—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Pontwater, Mich.—"A year ago I was very weak and the doctor said I had a serious displacement. I had backache and bearing down pains so bad that I could not sit in a chair or walk across the floor and I was in severe pain all the time. I felt discouraged as I had taken everything I could think of and was no better. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am strong and healthy."—Mrs. ALICE DARLINGTON, R.F.D. No. 2, Box 77, Pontwater, Mich.

Head What Another Woman says: Peoria, Ill.—"I had such backaches that I would hardly stand on my feet. I would feel like crying out lots of times, and had such a heavy feeling in my right side. I had such terrible dull headaches every day and they would make me feel so drowsy and sleepy all the time, yet I could not sleep at night. After I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a week I began to improve. My backache was less and that heavy feeling in my side went away. I continued to take the Compound and am cured."—Miss CLARA L. GAUWITZ, R.E. No. 4, Box 62, Peoria, Ill.

Such letters prove the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for women's ills. Why don't you try it? Old laws are young romancers good to read. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic, soothes the stomach.

WHAT TOMBS PRISONERS SAY:

PHILIP MUSICA, importer, held for fraud: I don't know. As a matter of fact, I do not desire to discuss the subject of prison with you.

JOHN CASSIDY, serving his twenty-second term. That judge is a nut. Here I've been spending about half my days every year in jail for thirty years and I can't see that it has done me any good, or broadened my Christian viewpoint.

ROBERT H. KIRBY, negro, held for woman beating: Yes, sir, I think Judge Carey is pretty near right. A man sits in a cell in prison the whole long day once a year and he has time to think. All the wrong he has done comes up pretty close to him. I believe the few days I have spent here in the Tombs have done me good.

JOSEPH G. ROBIN, defaulting bank president: My case was different. I did not willfully commit a wrong. Had I done so I might be able to see the viewpoint of Judge Carey that a brief meditation in jail is a good thing. As it is, I landed here because I wished to oblige my friends—because I wanted to make myself a good fellow and I was made a fool.

MICHAEL McDONNELL, held on a charge of assault: Judge Carey's idea is impracticable because to imprison all inhabitants of the United States for one day each would cost the country untold sums of money.

Radium and Old Age. The claim that radium can restore the hardened arteries of middle-aged people to a healthy condition, and so prolong life, was made by Doctor Saubermann of Berlin, who lectured in London recently before the Reigen Society.

If this theory is correct it will be possible, for a few pounds, to buy a radium apparatus which will manufacture the oxide of radium. This apparatus consists of an earthenware receptacle, containing a minute amount of radium, which is placed at the bottom of a glass bottle. The bottle is filled with water, and in the course of time the water becomes charged with radium emanations. The radium emanation is active for hundreds of years, so that one has only to see the water in order to get an amount of radium.

Killing on the Hondo

NEWS of a killing on the Hondo Monday night—whether in Lincoln or Chaves County is a mooted question; because messages from Roswell locate it in both counties, reached here through the public press. James Jones, a ranchman, was shot and killed while at the supper table Monday night—one telegram to the effect that it was in Chaves county, a later one that it was in Lincoln County and, charged with the crime, Mrs. Jones and Benjamin Jackson have been arrested and are being held in jail without bond.

The large variety of crops sown on the experiment farm are up and growing in line shape. The committee feels certain it will be able to furnish Pete Johnson with that "mess" of roasting ears before the rust flies.

Commercial Club Meeting

THE Carrizozo Commercial Club held a meeting Wednesday night in the office of Harvey & Chase. Many matters were discussed, incorporation of the town, incorporation of the Experiment Farm, a county fair, etc., but owing to the fact that only a few members were in attendance and sufficient information was lacking on a number of subjects, it was decided to defer action until Saturday night, July 12, at which time a general meeting has been called to consider all matters. It is important that a full attendance be had on the date named Saturday night, July 12 and every member should make it a point to be present.

The Deserted Village

If Oliver Goldsmith were alive today and needed an optical demonstration of what a "Deserted Village" really was, we could furnish the scene, and we feel confident the obliging Irishman would produce the rhyme. Carrizozo is all but deserted today; the stores are closed, business is at a stand-still and the population has gone to the mountains, most of it to White Oaks there to mix and commingle with people from the four corners of the county; to enjoy the good things our neighboring town has spread before the world and to assist in the celebration of an anniversary dear to the hearts of all.

The recent heavy rains in many parts of the county have seriously interfered with travel on some of our roads. The real road working season is now on, however, and much good work can be accomplished this summer.

Surprising Cures of Stomach Troubles.
When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. G. Stengle, Plainfield, N. J., writes, "For over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising booklets came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For sale by all dealers.

The Glorious Fourth

ONE Hundred and Thirty-seven years ago today the old liberty bell in Philadelphia rang the announcement of the passage of the Declaration of Independence. From that day to this, not only in America, but throughout the civilized world, the principles enunciated in that document have been the inspiration of freemen. Nothing to equal it in its fervor, in its spirited declaration, in its fitness of purpose and in its recognition of the Rights of Man and in its sublimity is to be found in the pages of profane history. It announced the broad principle that "All men are created equal," and that "Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed."

And the principles enunciated in the Declaration of Independence have been the guide for our great and growing country to this day; and we have those true and tried men of colonial days to thank for the permanent manner in which they laid the foundation for our government. That the principles of the Declaration have, at times, been forgotten; that they have, indeed, been violated by certain practices, is not to be denied; but in the end the people have been wise enough, strong enough and patient enough to cause their representatives to see the rocks upon which our ship of state was drifting when it was proposed to govern without the consent of the governed "and the helm upon the people have steered our craft into safe harborage."

Therefore, it is but natural that every American, under whatever sun he may be when it rises on the Fourth, should feel and show that he is proud of the fact that he is an American, but prouder still of those Noble Men, in whom breathed the spirit of liberty so strong and in whose veins coursed the rich, red blood of freedom and independence that they were willing to lay down their lives, if need be, in defense of those principles. In commemoration of the adoption of that imperishable Declaration people today all over this broad land will assemble; songs will be sung, utterances made and devotion paid to its authors, the founders of our government, a government rich in everything, but richest in its millions of liberty-loving people who are able to rule themselves wisely and well.

To Grade Streets

THE committee having charge of local road and street work entered into a contract with Thomas Keelin this week for the grading of two streets. The streets selected by the committee for the first work are: Fourth street, running from the post office to the intersection of Main street off McDonald Addition, and El Paso avenue, paralleling the railroad. When these streets are graded and the committee is satisfied with the work, and further funds are secured, the work of grading other streets and roads approaching the town will be undertaken. Mr. Keelin has a traction engine, two double teams and graders and scrapers to which will be added some equipment of the county, and is prepared to handle an immense amount of dirt in short order. The plans are to begin work after the Fourth—next week.

A Real Rain

ABOUT noon last Friday the floodgates of Heaven opened, the bottom fell out, the sides burst and a genuine flood came down. It fell in sheets, in torrents and spouts, and in less than an hour after the first gush came in contact with mother earth, everything loose was floating. The rush of water from the south side of the railroad track swept over the track and through culvert and deluged the west and north sides. It was a gully-washer in every sense of the term, as is attested by the appearance of our streets. Sunday night a replica of the Friday deluge came, and we have had abundant moisture, thank you.

Mrs. Pfingsten's Funeral

THE funeral of Mrs. Sophia Pfingsten, mention of whose death was made last week, took place at Angus last Sunday. The remains were brought here from El Paso Saturday and were placed in the home until the following morning, when they were taken to the Angus cemetery and interred, a host of relatives and friends paying the last sad tribute to this worthy woman.

Mrs. Pfingsten came with her husband to Lincoln county in the early 80's and settled on the Bonito. The husband died a number of years ago, and Mrs. Pfingsten continued to reside on the old homestead until 1907, when she disposed of her land, moved to Carrizozo, erected a neat dwelling and resided here until her last illness.

The Pfingsten family is the oldest and most prominent in Lincoln county, and have many friends throughout the county who deeply regret the death of this estimable woman. Surviving the mother are three sons and three daughters: Fred, Edward C. and Albert; Mrs. Bragg and High-tower, all residents of Lincoln county, and Mrs. Robert Bourne, of Duran. THE NEWS extends sincere sympathies.

Assaulted at Corona

AN El Paso paper has the following concerning a serious attack, which occurred at Corona, dated June 30:

An unknown Texan attacked Bert Stroope, a Corona citizen, and gave him repeated blows with some heavy weapon upon his head. Mr. Stroope fell without speaking, and has not regained consciousness, and it is very doubtful if he will recover. This occurred in the Corona pool hall in the presence of several people, but none know the Mexican's name, nor were they able to catch him.

A Mexican with the one who attacked Stroope has been caught and is being held. Stroope is a prosperous rancher near Corona, running the largest number of cows near the Gallinas mountains. There was no change in his condition Sunday night.

New Law Firm

A new law firm has been established in Carrizozo known as Spence & Sherry. Geo. Spence, the senior member, has practiced law a number of years in Lincoln county and is well known to our readers. The junior member, Prosper Sherry, comes from Alamogordo, is a son of Judge Byron Sherry, one of the most prominent and influential members of the New Mexico bar. We bespeak for the firm a lucrative practice.

Installation of Officers

CARRIZOZO Lodge No. 11, Knights of Pythias, will install officers for the ensuing semi-annual term, at its regular meeting Monday night, July 14. Luncheon and cigars will be served and all members are urgently requested to be present.

By Order of the Lodge.

Jicarilla

J. C. Reasoner of White Oaks, was visiting home-folks here Sunday.

F. W. Stoneroad is down at the Lutz ranch hauling wool to Capitan.

Herbert Handy is on the work force at the Hedges mine.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Haskins were visiting in the jicks Sunday.

John Dale was a business visitor to White Oaks last Tuesday.

On Friday 20th there was a very destructive rain and hail storm here. Some of the hail lay on the ground like snow, till the sun of the next day demolished it. It froze the vegetation under it, and beat down mostly everything else. Since the hail storm we have had several good gentle rains, and the ground is well soaked.

L. N. Stubbs is finishing up his planting on the east side.

W. W. Fitchpatrick paid a visit to camp a few days ago, from his place in the Tecolotes. The mill fixtures are about all in place now, and we are told that all will be ready for work in ten days.

Mr. Dawson is having the A. N. Price house repaired, to which he will remove with his family in a day or so. It is nearer to his work here than where he now resides.

E. S. Wilson and family were visiting here the last of the week.

Judge C. L. Kennedy butchered a fine beef for the camp a few days since.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin plan to "take in" the Fourth at White Oaks.

We hear the ore is improving at the "Sallie Dear," and that the lead is widening out very perceptibly.

Mr. Phil Reasoner is very much pleased over some rich ore uncovered in his last work on his claim on Juggler peak.

A. H. Norton is putting in two hundred and forty feet of track in the "Good Luck" tunnel to cut out the rock. He expects to do considerable work this season on his property.

The health of the Camp is excellent at this writing, and the wild spring-like atmosphere since the rains, renders the jicks an ideal place in which to cast ones lot during the summer.

To Attend State Sunday School

Mrs. Stanley L. Squier and Mrs. H. S. Campbell left Sunday night for Santa Fe to attend a State Sunday School Convention, which is a branch of the International Organization. Both ladies carried credentials from the local Methodist Sunday School, and Mrs. Campbell also represents the local Baptist Sunday School.

A Swing Around the Circle

STARTING from Carrizozo in the near future, Mr. and Mrs. J. Baird French will visit a number of places in the state: Albuquerque, Las Vegas, Santa Fe, and possibly Socorro, will be made in a swing around the circle, and they expect to be absent about two weeks. They will probably be accompanied by Wayne Van Schoeyk, of White Oaks—if one car breaks down or sticks the other will pull it out.

MEAN NOT TO BE A
OF SEASON.

Designs Shown Are Pictures of the Extreme—Flat Trimmings is to Be the Prevailing
Note for Coming Fashions.

Now that the milliners are beginning to show their hallowed and long-midsummer models, the woman who feared the vogue for the small headgear of spring would be carried over into the summer finds that such is not the case. The midsummer hats are large, graceful and picturesque, to accompany the prevailing styles in summer frocks.

SHIM brims are not a factor in the newest designs. On the contrary, the more flexible, even floppy, the brim of the midsummer hat, the more will it conform to fashion's decree. The brim should droop at the front and back, rather than at the sides. The wide-brimmed models, flatly trimmed, with their low crowns encircled by flower wreaths, are reminiscent of the quaint hats worn by the grandmothers of this generation in their girlhood days.

Flat trimming is the rule on large hats. Grace, rather than audacity, seems to be the ideal of the modish milliner, and, therefore, one sees fewer of the upstanding Numidia and algerette trimmings so popular this spring. They are replaced by flowers, plaited tulle, swathed lace and wofly knotted ribbon, the traditional adornment of the midsummer hat.

Roses have come into their own again, and the big, rose wreathed hat is evidently going to be a feature of the summer. A charming model of this sort has been sent over from Paris to add its quota of grace to a June trousseau. It is of flexible shape of fine black hemp, with a rather low crown and a wide brim, faced with rose-colored crepe de chine, drooping slightly at the front and back. Large pink and black roses are placed alternately about the crown.

One of the most attractive of coming season models recently brought over from Paris was of pink tulle or maille. The mob crown was formed, layer upon layer, of the gossamer-like

House gown of dark blue charmeuse with a new skirt drapery. Blouse of printed silk trimmed with fine lace.

VARIED STYLES AND SHAPES

Display of Buttons Is Such That the Most Fastidious May Have Wide Choice of Selection.

Brilliance marks the display of buttons in the shops, and the shapes and styles displayed are many.

The Roman pearl buttons are appropriate trimming for the blouse of soft satin finished materials, as are those of baroque pearl with rhinestone centers. Many new buttons are odd in shape, and those having a black backing are very showy. Amber is used combined with both pearls and rhinestones, and both these combinations and red buttons, of which there are so many varieties seen, look well on the shepherd checks and plain materials.

All sorts of fabric buttons are being used, over the old-fashioned serge covered buttons. There is a demand for the button covered with handmade lace for use on lingerie gowns. The buttons are practical as well as dainty, for they are washable. They are made over bone foundations, an improvement over the wooden molds formerly used. Buttons crocheted with a novel knot stitch save a bright floral decoration in the center. Upon the suit of sponge weave self-covered buttons will be much used. Pretty touch is given to the darker suitings by attaching the buttons of crystal or bone with heavy silk floss of some bright color.

To Wash Hair Swiftly. Before washing, braid it in fine braids, then wash. When thoroughly dry, open the braids and you will find the hair nice and fluffy instead of all tangled up.

Chic Poke Shape.

material, and the narrow, drooping brim was also of the pink maille. The crown was encircled by a dainty green satin ribbon, which was tied at the front with small flat loops and ends. Placed directly at the front of the crown were two pink roses and green leaves.

The fashionable roses are closely pressed for favor by the old-fashioned garden flowers, and some of the quaint, old-time poke-bonnet effects, turned up at the back and trimmed with poodles and nosegays of forget-me-nots, bachelor buttons, Heliotrop and their like are well-nigh irresistible.

MARY DEAN.

DAINTY COSTUME MUCH LIKED

Short Wraps of Delicate Fabrics Have Worthily Engaged Attention of Fashionable Women.

The little wrap known as the "mantlelet" has been adopted by Paris with an enthusiasm not surprising when the beauty of the models is seen. They are combinations of lovely line and color and in the simple, moire, bengaline, silk tulle and brocade they give a decided decorative note to an afternoon or evening costume.

The short bolero with a postillon back is one of the favorites, although longer mantlelets give more protection and for that reason should appeal to women who desire utility as well as beauty.

The kimono sleeve seems to be favored above all others, coming in elbow, three-quarter and full lengths. It is finished with a deep cuff in most instances. The dropped armhole is used in the material is not wide enough. Good outlines this seem and give a grace to the line of wear.

Neckers may be used, contrasting better being good. Collars that show a shadow of cut and draping are important accessories. One collar of soft silk is draped over the shoulders and caught in other, subtile or ornamental ways. Another collar at the back completely covers the back in the form of a draped hood of soft material that is washed down by heavy lines. These are used with a variety of neck styles, which show through the sides of the neck in a delicate flash which is indiscreetly lovely.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Representatives' Hall Suggests a Roman Circus

WASHINGTON.—The new seating arrangement in the representatives' hall suggests a Roman circus, and the sittings of the house may sometimes furnish a Roman holiday. The 435 members sit on benches arranged in semi-circles, and rising in steps to give all a clear view of the arena in front of the speaker's desk, where the leaders in debate take their places, and conduct the legislative contests. This new arrangement may conduce to more orderly consideration of legislation, and it may not. It will, however, centralize the proceedings, and if they become dramatic, with physical contests, it will be easy to confine the actors to the ring, and give all the members a better view than under the old arrangement.

Time has been when statesmen on the hill used the old argument of physical force and pugilistic skill, and in most of these instances the dramatic features were marred by the lack of proper rules to keep the contestants in the ring. They had a weakness for fighting anywhere in the hall, and with anything that was within reach, and there have been a number of such contests which were witnessed by few of the members because there was no ring and no rules and no program. There have been fights on the floor with flats, with finger nails, with canes and pokers, with books, pens and inkwells, and they have so far ignored the rules as to engage in hair-pulling, scratching and biting. But with no inkwells or pens or books or pokers lying around, there will be less abuse of the rules governing fair fighting. The speaker can better referee the contests, too, as they will be down in front of his desk, where he can see every move made in the ring.

In 1858 Representative Galusha Grow of Pennsylvania and Representative Keith of South Carolina had a bitter controversy, in which the latter called Grow a "Republican puppy," and Grow retorted with "negro driver." There was a free fight on the floor, and among those who became involved were Elihu B. Washburn of Illinois, his brother, Cadwallader Washburn, and Representative Potter of Wisconsin; Representative Birksdale of Mississippi and several others. In this instance passion gave way to ridicule when Cadwallader Washburn seized Birksdale by the hair and lifted the whole poll from a perfectly bald head. Waving the wig in the air as a wild Indian might wave a scalp, Washburn danced about the floor until the whole house was convulsed with laughter and the fight was forgotten. Potter was afterward challenged to mortal combat by one of the southern men, and he named Boston Common as the place for the duel with claspknives for weapons. The sense of the ridiculous again spoiled the seriousness of the quarrel.

Cannon's Poker Table Is Auctioned for $16.00

THE last material tie that bound Joseph G. Cannon to the capital was severed the other day when the furniture and furnishings of the house at 1014 Vernon avenue, where he lived for many years, were sold under the auctioneer's hammer. A few members of congress and a dozen prominent society women were present, but most of those who made purchases at the dismantling of the house where history was made were dealers.

There was a number of relic and souvenir hunters present. They got busy, especially when the contents of Mr. Cannon's own room and the library were sold. The library has seen many a hard-fought battle at draw poker, at which game the "Sage of Danville" is reputed to be a genius. In this room a sturdy oak table, around which Mr. Cannon and his friends met at games that were not political was the object of lively bidding. It was knocked down to Dr. C. M. Beach of Morrow, O., for $16. The bronze electric lamp in this room that was wont to shine alike upon the full house and the bobtail gush brought only $1.25.

A grand piano, with keys yellow and discolored from age, was sold for $65 to a dealer who said he bought it for speculation. Two loaded glass panels that had formerly graced the transom over the front door of the house were sold for 50 cents apiece.

Mrs. Robert McCormick, wife of the former ambassador to France, paid $25 for a small painting, evidently aged, which, according to a notation on the back, had been bought at Christie's, in London, in the early 80s. Mrs. Pomeroy, wife of the senator from Ohio, and Miss Flora Wilson, daughter of the former secretary of agriculture, were among the bidders, as were Congressman and Mrs. Nolan of California, Congressman Lingley of Kentucky and former Fish Commissioner Mrs. G. M. Bowers.

Frenchmen Are Leaders in Navigation of the Air

THE remarkable advance made in the science of aviation since Orville Wright made the first public flights in a heavier-than-air machine at Fort Myer, Va., in 1903, is the subject of a statement compiled by the war department and just made public. Although the honor of inventing and utilizing the aeroplane belongs to the United States, it is disclosed that virtually all the advances made in the utilization of the air machines have been accomplished by foreign airmen, principally Frenchmen.

In 1909, the records show, the greatest height attained by a heavier-than-air machine was 1,459 feet. The mark now stands at more than 20,000 feet.

while the height of something over 10,000 has been attained by a dirigible balloon. The aeroplanes, however, have demonstrated that they can rise higher and much more rapidly than the balloon type of air craft, and for that reason their efficiency in a military sense is regarded as much greater.

In both speed and duration of flight the strides since 1909 have been remarkable. In that year the speed record was 48 miles an hour, while the length of time that a machine kept in the air was 4 hours and 17 minutes. The present record for speed now is 108.9 miles per hour made by Verdines of France, while another Frenchman, Fournoy, raised the record for duration flight to 13 hours and 12 minutes.

Buisson, still another Frenchman, also recently established a record for speed with passengers. With five persons with him in his machine he made 54 miles an hour in sustained flight. The war department records show that six persons have been carried to a height of 2,023 feet.

Two Toms Are Confused by Mail and Express

THOMAS R. MARSHALL, the proprietor of the Lobsenz cafe, is a native of Washington.

Thomas R. Marshall, the vice-president of the United States, is a native of Indiana and a Washingtonian only by recent adoption.

These facts have not yet been sufficiently clarified in the brains of the employees of the Washington postoffice who handle the mail of both men. The same thing is true of the men who have charge of the local office of a certain express company.

"Hon." Thomas R. Marshall, and postmarked Indiana. He suspected that some friend was trying to play a joke on him, but investigation established that the postman was the humorist, and that his jokes were perpetrated involuntarily. He had only to open a letter before the mail trouble was straightened out. The vice-president's troubles did not end there, however.

and particular business to have what ever her neighbors had, whether it was a question of cholera or disease, so when Mrs. Gotthard complained to her one day of insomnia, Mrs. Keaup was ready for her. "I have it, too, very badly at times."

"What do you do for it, Mrs. Keaup?" "Why, I have never found anything that did me any real good, except just to go to bed and sleep it off."

Love comes and grows through serving, not through being served.—Henry Clay Trumbull.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the function of the brain, mental depression, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrup and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Cocaine contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Again the unloaded pistol, which, by the irony of fate, never misses its aim!

HANDS BURNING, ITCHING

905 Lowell Place, Chicago, Ill.—"The trouble began by my hands burning and itching and I rubbed and scratched them till one day I saw little red sores coming out. My hands were disfigured and swollen, and troubled me so that I could not sleep. They were cracked and when the small-sores broke a white matter would come out. I could not do any hard work; if I did the sores would come out worse. For two years nobody could cure my eczema, until one day I thought I would try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used warm water with the Cuticura Soap and after that I put the Cuticura Ointment on my hands twice a day for about five or six months when I was cured." (Signed) Sam Marcus, Nov. 28, 1911. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card, "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

Their Message.

The evening callers were chatting with their hosts when there came a patter of little feet along the hall. "Hush," whispered the hostess, raising her hand; "the children are coming with their good-night message. It always gives me a feeling of reverence to hear them. They are so much nearer to heaven than we, and they speak from the fullness of their little hearts never so freely as when the dark has come. Listen!" There was a moment's pause, and then the message came in a shrill whisper: "Mama," it ran, "Willie found a cockroach in the tub."

Whistled for a Liner.

After running the whole 900-foot length of the Kronprinz Wilhelm with a heavy suitcase in each hand just as the big liner pulled out recently, a young man sank down at the end of the pier, exhausted, and gazed a moment after the ship. Then he put his fingers to his lips and whistled long and loud. The ship did not stop. "She don't know your voice," said a sympathetic bystander. "How independent those big ships are," soliloquized the dejected one. He had got stuck in the tubes, he said.—New York Mail.

What Then?

"I want you to go with me and look at a futuristic canvas."

"Suppose we are both overcome?"

"LIKE MAGIC"

New Food Makes Wonderful Changes.

When a man has suffered from dyspepsia so many years that he can't remember when he had a natural appetite, and then hits on a way out of trouble he may be excused for saying "It acts like magic."

When it is a simple, wholesome food instead of any one of a large number of so-called remedies in the form of drugs, he is more than ever likely to feel as though a sort of miracle has been performed.

A Chicago man, in the delight of restored digestion, puts it in this way:

"Like magic, fittingly describes the manner in which Grape-Nuts relieved me of poor digestion, coated tongue and loss of appetite, of many years standing."

"I tried about every medicine that was recommended to me, without relief. Then I tried Grape-Nuts on the suggestion of a friend. By the time I had finished the fourth package, my stomach was all right, and for the past two months I have been eating with a relish anything set before me. That is something I had been unable to do previously for years."

"I am stronger than ever and I consider the effects of Grape-Nuts on a weak stomach as something really wonderful. It builds up the entire body as well as the brain and nerves." Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Well-Being," in plain English. They are a natural, pure and safe food of human necessity.

Maud Muller
 To Maud Muller—By John M. Keith—July 1914
 Maud Muller, on a summer's day,
 Was hoeing cotton—so they say,
 The weeds were thick, the cotton thin—
 The sun was shining hot as sin,
 The cockle burs and pig weeds yield
 Was thick as stubble in the harvest field,
 And under them all, a carpet green,
 Of growing crab grass could be seen,
 Mosquitos round her ears were singing
 And grass burs to her skirts were clinging,
 Her countenance glowed with a peevish fret,
 For she was tired and warm, you bet!
 And, looking across that field of weeds,
 The sweat stood out on her face like beads,
 Two sun burnt wrists and blistered hand
 She thought, was more than she could stand
 The long hot drought had killed the hay
 And no wealthy Judge rode out that way,
 So she stopped and leaning up on her hoe
 She wished that a cooling breeze would blow,
 For she felt the load of a thousand cares
 And irrigated the field with tears,
 For she thought of a place in a western land
 Where lived good friends and lovers grand
 Lovers there were both young and old,
 There were timid lovers and lovers bold;

Lovers were there who had not confessed,
 Who were ardent lovers as well as the rest,
 No cotton patches are there to hoe,
 And never a time but the zephyrs blow,
 There grow the stately spruce and pines,
 There gold is taken from the mines,
 Though the dust and tailings from the mill
 The dining room and the dishes fill,
 And winter dumps his surplus snow—
 There the people sleigh—but do not hoe,
 There the mocking birds sing all day long
 And the nights are redolent with burros song,
 And she thought of every pleasing thing
 That a fretful maiden's wish might bring,
 And the contrast so upon her wrought
 That a flood of passion forth it brought,
 Then her hoe upon the ground she slammed
 And said—"the cotton field be d—l."
 And looking up the rows and down
 She left the field with an ominous frown,
 And she packed her trunks and prepared to go
 To White Oaks, in the hills of New Mexico,
 For of all fool notions, her folly to crown
 The foolishness was when she left that town.
