Carrizozo Took Both Games

It was a jolly, buoyant crowd that left here Saturday morning for Capitan—players, rooters and all—to take part in and to witness the ball game at our neighboring town across the big hill. A full complement of Carrizozo players not being available at the time, our neighboring town of White Oaks furnished three players—Lee, Smith and Van Schoyck. A pitcher was also secured from the E. P. & S. W. shops, El Paso, to take the place of Carrizozo's pitcher who could not be there.

At 2:30 in the afternoon the command of Umpire Ferguson to "Play ball!" put all present on tiptoe, and the battle royal began. Fisher and Van Schoyck for Carrizozo and Thorpe and Norman for Capitan were the batteries. The game was hard fought throughout, Capitan working slightly in the lead in the beginning of the game. About the fourth inning the Carrizozo boys began to pick up gradually, but surely, leaving their competitors in the rear. The game ended with the score standing 6 to 3 in favor of Carrizozo.

It was a splendid exhibition of ball, the teams being pretty evenly matched and each team containing a selected list of players and each individual player exerting himself to the utmost to swing the game his way. Many striking individual plays were made—each of which drew forth its due mead of praise—and collectively each aggregation earnestly, faithfully and unceasingly played ball. That the better team won was the verdict of some; that the fortunes of war favored the boys from this side was held by others; but be that as it may, Carrizozo did win, and the fact that she defeated such a strong team was all the more satisfactory.

That evening most of the Carrizozo players went to Fort Stanton where a game was scheduled for the following day. They met a royal reception there as they had at Capitan. The amusement hall was the scene of a pleasant gathering where dancing was indulged in until about midnight. The comforts of the team and of those accompanying it were carefully looked after and our boys are high in their praise of the courteous treatment they received at the famous and beautiful old Fort.

From the hour of noon until the game was called at 2:30, automobiles from Lincoln, Capitan, White Oaks and Carrizozo continued to arrive, and the surrounding country was there in large numbers, in hacks, buggies and on horseback, each occupant and rider intent on seeing the game wherein Stanton was going to make a heroic effort to wrest a victory from the enthusiastic, confident Carrizozoans. That it could be done many believed, but just as many believed otherwise.

The initial innings did take on a dark hue, as Stanton led slightly and its supporters predicted an overwhelming victory. The tide turned, however, in the fourth inning, Carrizozo forged to the front and the longer the game proceeded the wider became the gap between the two teams, and at its close the score stood 11 to 4, with Carrizozo's pennant bearing the 11.

Carrizozo played the game wise at Stanton that it did the day before at Capitan, the only change in positions being the transfer of Grumbles to the box from third and Fisher taking third—until the latter part of the game—after it had been "put on the ice," when Fisher and Grumbles changed positions. Grover Hightower did the twirling for the Forts and Willie Norman officiated behind the bat. And it is not too much to say they did some business in the earlier part of the game, until the boys from the flat got "onto" Grover's curves—at which time the merry-go-round started and kept up till the end of the game. That Stanton had the pick of the teams of that section—the cream; as it were—was equally true of Carrizozo's effort on this side of the hill—each collecting the best material available. The result speaks for itself; and while one side had to lose we're glad it was not ours.

Empire State Middle

THE eyes of the entire country have been focused for the past two weeks on the great empire State of New York. The assembly of that state voted overwhelmingly for the impeachment of William Sulzer, its governor. Strange to say, the charge against the governor is for alleged crimes committed before he became the executive of that state. Failing, it is claimed, to include in his affidavit of campaign expenses all the money that was subscribed to assist in his election caused the impeachment proceedings.

The New York executive, during all his years of public service had been regarded as a man of unimpeachable character, and his fall, if fall he has, is a great blow to his friends, many of whom, however, do not countenance the charge. Notwithstanding the loyalty of his friends—who assert that the accusations come from the Tammany organization, because of the refusal of the governor to permit that organization to dominate him—all, even his closest friends, must admit that the governor is in a very tight place. One of the strongest features of the whole middle is that the governor is being strongly upheld by his political enemies while those of his own political faith—the democrats—are urging his removal.

News Notes from Outside Points

White Mountain

Mrs. Bessie L. Case has returned from Taos where she recently attended Institute and visited with her sister, Mrs. Hulbert.

Mr. Jack Fall paid us a visit on his return from a trip to his sheep camp. He reports the range on the mountain top greatly improved by this week's generous rain-fall.

W. S. Rohn is busy getting water on his homestead prior to receiving some recently purchased cattle.

The Golondrina and Indian Creek country have shared with us several "gully washers" this week and range outlook is more cheerful.

Monroe Harper paid a business visit to El Paso.

Prof. Funk and family is expected back this week from Texas and Arkansas and we are glad to learn he will undoubtedly teach here again this winter.

Jicarilla

Mr. Berg, the jeweler, greeted his mother at the depot at Ancho Sunday last, she having journeyed from Chicago to visit her son and his family here.

Messrs McDowell, Crowell and several other gentlemen from Oklahoma are experimenting with their machines in the placer beds of the Enterprise company's property on Juana gulch. Though the work may not grow into any thing gigantic, yet it speaks well for these enterprising young men to grasp conditions not too alluring in a strange land, and work like they mean to do something. We gladly welcome such people

One Mother-Three Calves

So seldom does the bovine species produce more than one during a season that twins are considered an oddity, and when one cow brings triplets it becomes a freak of nature. At least our knowledge of the cow leads us to that conclusion; for we don't recall ever having heard of one cow giving birth to three calves until last week when such an event took place at the ranch of Mrs. Mamie K. Grumbles, north of town. However, the mother, as well as two of the calves, died.

Campmeeting at Nogal

A ten days' campmeeting will be held at Nogal, commencing Tuesday night, August 26. The services will be held at the church, and an arbor or tent will be erected to accommodate the people. Rev. Charley Robinson, a minister of the Nazarene faith, who held a meeting last summer, will conduct the meeting. Everybody invited; come and camp with us.

O. P. Humenay.

Oldfellows Have Big Time at Capitan Lodge No. 30, I. O. O. F., to the number of seventeen, visited the Capitan lodge of the same order Saturday night, to assist in some special work there that night and to participate in a big supper given by the Capitan lodge. The work was not concluded until the wee sma' hours, but in the meantime the members of both in our community, and hope their every aim is realized. (Mr. McDowell has always followed the newspaper business, Mr. Editor, and we are pleased to present him to you with introduction by proxy.)

Our picnic was very nice. Not so many in number, but a congenial, merry-making throng, who found all the pleasure they desired in the different diversions. The weather was perfect, the fierceness of the August sun being veiled by drifting clouds and balmy breezes all day.

Mr. Smithson of Alto was on hand with his "movies," and gave the crowd a treat in the shape of a picture show at eight o'clock. He did his best this time and his pictures were very nice, and some of them very mirth provoking.

Mr. Morris of Ruidoso had his merry-go-round almost continually on the "go-round." Many a nickel found its way to his purse.

Miss Bertha Wells won the money in the girls' race.

The Cooper horse was ahead of all in the horse races.

Messrs Joe Ross, Wheeler, and Albert Ross, of Mountainair, arrived in Camp Sunday evening. Mr. Ross is one of our old timers, and still owns an interest here.

A. H. Norton has been on the sick list for several days.

Miss Dorothy Fox will leave for Chicago soon to attend school, and get the advantages of a term in music, in which she is very proficient now. She is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Fox of this place.

Grass is getting good here since the rains, which will be fine for the winter range.

Judges and the applicants enjoyed a spread at the Capitan Hotel, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Dawson, which lightened the night's work and added pleasure to the occasion. The visiting members from Capitan report that they had a royal good time and were given every consideration.

Carrizozo Will Maintain High School

In a conversation with John E. Bell, clerk of the local school board, one day this week we were informed that a high school course—a standard course—would be maintained this year as usual. Some of the patrons of the school, we were told, were laboring under the impression that inasmuch as Capitan was awarded the county high school all other schools where a high school course had been in operation would be discontinued. This, the clerk requested us to say, is not the fact, but on the contrary the arrangements will be made to enlarge on the high school at this place which has now been in operation for four years. The same means are available for conducting a high school that have existed in the past and ample accommodations as to room, instruction etc., will, as in the past, be made for all high school pupils. Professor McCurdy, of Deming, who comes with the best of recommendations, will have charge, and Mrs. Jewett, of Alamogordo, a holder of a life certificate, will assist in the high school department. The school board desires the public to be fully informed so that it may take advantage of the situation.

The Contempt Case

(Translated from La Voz del Pueblo)

LA VOZ recently printed an editorial written by Mr. Chacon, the associate editor, referring to two cases in the District Court, disposed of, as Mr. Chacon believed, at the time of publication. The cases were: State of New Mexico vs. Ramon Garcia, and Harry M. Smith vs. Board of Directors of Insane Asylum. The article appeared in our issue of June 7.

Regarding the article as an unjust criticism on the Court, Judge Leahy caused proceedings for contempt to be instituted against Mr. Chacon, had him arrested and brought before the court for trial. Mr. Chacon was represented by Judge Long and Mr. J. D. W. Veeder. He denied that the article was a contemptuous criticism if properly construed, contending that it was such as he might lawfully publish. Mr. Chacon filed a written answer in which he said:

"At the time he published said article he did not believe the same would or could be construed as a charge of willful wrongdoing or corruption on the part of the Court, or that it would in any way impede, embarrass or obstruct the Court in the administration of justice; that he did not intend in said article to charge the Court with corruption or willful wrongdoing, but that he in good faith believed it was a criticism he might properly and lawfully make."

"Notwithstanding this disclaimer by Mr. Chacon of any wrongful intention, Judge Leahy himself tried the case without a jury and sentenced Mr. Chacon to pay a fine of $50 and thirty days imprisonment in the county jail. Mr. Chacon believes this decision to be unjust, the punishment excessive and he has appealed his case to the Supreme Court of the state, he believing that that body will reverse the decision. He believes it might have been more favorable to him if the judge had continued the case until the next term of Court and then have tried the case by a jury; or, if he had called some other judge—as he could have done—to try the case, as the article was regarded by the judge as a reflection on him and the Court.

"This newspaper is of the opinion that the question involves the very vital principle of the liberty of the press and the right to criticize public servants, and therefore, it believes that in justice to the case Mr. Chacon should not be made to bear the costs and expense of the prosecution of his appeal and original trial. The principle involved is one that very vitally affects the people and their institutions of liberty and independence.

"For the above reasons we have determined to open a popular subscription to get the necessary funds for the defense in this proceeding by asking the people to contribute such sums as it may please them to give. If the contributors have no objection we will publish their names with a statement of the amount contributed from time to time

Thaw Escaped; Captured in Canada

HARRY K. THAW, legally insane in the state of New York, escaped from the Mattewan, New York, Asylum Sunday morning eluded his pursuers and crossed over into Canada. The Thaw case attracted much attention some years ago, the result of two trials on the charge of murdering Stanford White. The first trial resulted in a hung jury, the second brought about his incarceration in an asylum instead of the penitentiary or the electric chair.

After a long chase through New York, Connecticut and New Hampshire, Thaw reached the Canadian line, but was captured by the Canadian authorities Monday on a warrant from the state of New York. Thaw, of course, refused to return to the United States and a long legal battle is now on in the Canadian courts. The difficulty is that insanity is not an extraditable offense, and some other charge will have to be made before his extradition can be effected. Bribery is said to be the means by which his escape was effected and it is said a charge of bribery will be made against Thaw—an offense that is extraditable. On the other hand, if Thaw is a lunatic, and the courts of New York have so declared him to be, can he technically commit a crime?

So it is again that the public prints are full of this nauseating case—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and all—staring headlines confronting the ready every morning at the breakfast table.

Pictures Talk

ABOUT the most telling story told in the town may be seen—you can't hear it, because it is told by the camera—at the window of the Carrizozo Meat Market. There the railroad company, by its local representative W. C. Hyde, has posted a series of pictures, taken from actual occurrences, of some of the dreadful accidents that are occurring daily on the railroad lines. Men are shown who have lost limbs by failing to exercise due caution; children are pictured as playing on the switch yard, with trains in motion around them, and in some instances even playing under cars—stationary at the time, but liable to be set in motion at any time.

We are apt to think—when the matter comes to our mind—that the great loss of life and limb in railroad accidents is to be found among the men operating trains. There is no question that such loss is large, far larger than it ought to be, but it by no means represents the sum total of the fatalities and maulings incident to railroad operation. At terminals and divisions, where there are a great many trains and the yards are filled with moving trains, innocent children and unobservant and careless men become victims to the moving wheels. Too much care cannot be taken at crossings and in yards and a strict observance of the rules of safety will bring the number of accidents down or eliminate them entirely.

A study of the scenes herein mentioned should be sufficiently convincing to prevent their recurrence.

International Romance New Style The RICH Duke To Marry The POOR Girl

BALTIMORE—All American girls lacking millions but possessing beauty and the grand manner, take heart! Dukes and lords and counts who woo and wed our belles are nearly always as poor as their brides are rich. Titles and exalted social positions are bartered for the gold that brings luxury, if not happiness. But the Duc de Richelieu, half-American and heir to a great fortune, is unique. Love alone caused him to make Ellnor Douglas Wise his bride. The Baltimore girl who is now on her honeymoon with Richelieu is wealthy only in her loveliness, in her wit, in her sprightliness. It was the lure of her personality, the cadence of her voice that caused the most illustrious in all the French nobility to fall in love with her at sight. When the sparkling bride fairly floated out of the century-old cathedral in Baltimore, after Cardinal Gibbons had performed the ceremony, the poorest American duchess bowed and smiled happily to a brilliant assemblage that included girls of great fortune, destined, perhaps, to gain titles for themselves. But for none of them will Cupid wear a truer romance. Many a gold-baited trap was set for the Duc de Richelieu by socially ambitious mothers. But he avoided them all, and was fancy free till, on a fateful night early last year in Paris, when he attended a dinner given by Mrs. Both Barton French of New York and Newport. Miss Wise was a guest also. Later in the drawing room, lighted by the mellow radiance of wax candles, the Baltimore girl sang French chansons with such warmth of voice and with such style and force that her hearers were stirred to enthusiasm. Love at First Sight. But the duke! He was entranced. From that moment he was the singer's devoted cavalier. He did not leave her side for the rest of the evening. It was not long before he proposed to tell her fortune. He swore that he would be able to draw aside the veil of the future and truly solve one great mystery for her. At a table in a secluded corner he looked longingly into the dancing eyes of the American girl as she laid the palm of her left hand before him. "Everything that is lovely in woman!" cried the duke, pointing to a line. "A love affair," he smiled and panted. "A probable marriage; success in love." Then he seemed to be lost in thought as he studied the pretty palm. "I see a change coming into your life, a wonderful change," he said. "Before long you will contract a marriage that the world will call brilliant. And it will be for love!" So began the romance of Miss Wise and Marie Odet Jean Armand de Richelieu, Duc de Richelieu and de Fronsac. The duke and the new American duchess are not going to spend all their time in foreign social life. The mansions of the Faubourg St. Germain, the most reserved and aristocratic in all the world, are open to the Duc de Richelieu and his bride, and not many American girls, even those who have gained great French names by marriage, have the entrée to that conservative society. Will Live in New York. Therefore, it is considered remarkable that the duke and his bride have agreed to live in New York during much of the year, and in consequence they have leased luxurious apartments in the Carlton Chambers, just north of the Ritz-Carlton, on Madison Avenue. These are being furnished most artistically and the rooms will be suitable for their family in various French parties. It will be a novelty for a duke and duchess to entertain the Four Hundred in their own home in New York! When Richelieu married Miss Wise it was the second time that a Baltimore beauty had been won by a member of the French nobility. On the other occasion—it was in the early part of the nineteenth century—Jerome Bonaparte, the dashing brother of the great Napoleon, married the lovely Betsy Patterson, a reigning belle of her day and often called "glorious Betsy." This union had a lamentable ending, for the capricious Jerome deserted his American wife at the command of the emperor, who desired to make Jerome a pawn in his tremendous international chess game. Bride a General Favorite. Miss Wise is popular in her home city as well as in Washington, Newport and Paris. Her friends declare she bears a charmed life. She has been in peril several times. On one occasion she narrowly escaped death when a carriage, in which she and Lycurgus Winchester were riding, was run down by an electric car. The accident happened at the Mount Royal entrance to Druid Hill park in Baltimore on Aug. 2, 1906. The future duchess suffered a broken left leg and a bad cut under the left eye, and for a time it was feared the cut would mar her beauty. Her companion, who was called the handsomest man in all Maryland, was instantly killed. He was the husband of Katherine Griswold Pratt Winchester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Baché Pratt of New York. Miss Wise was a good friend of the Winchesters. After a long stay in a hospital Miss Wise went abroad. Her musical talents attracted the attention of Emma Eames, who urged the girl to study for grand opera. Sure that her progress would achieve success, the prima donna herself began to give the fortunate Baltimore girl three seasons a week. That Miss Wise made the most of her opportunity was shown by her rapid advance. In the end her voice did gain laurels for her, though not of the kind that Mrs. Eames nor the girl had dreamed of. Truly a Love Match. The new duchess is not tall, has light brown hair and dark blue eyes; with dark lashes and a pale complexion. She is remarkable for her vivacity and ability to talk with sure knowledge on almost any subject. The duke is thirty-seven years old; he always told his friends that he would marry only for love, and that he would wait until he was sure he had found the right girl. But certainly the Duc de Richelieu did not need to contract an alliance for money! On the death of his mother he will inherit half of her great fortune, and he receives an allowance from her that is princely. His mother, born in New Orleans as the daughter of Michel Heine, a leading banker there, enjoys the distinction of being the only American woman who ever attained sovereign rank in the Old World, and has figured in the courts of Europe, not among the mere nobility, but among the crowned heads. She gained possession of her place on a throne through her marriage to her second husband, the reigning prince of France, from whom she is legally separated. The present duke is the third of the present creation. Through his mother he is related to the Millenbergers, the Harkins, the Pollocks and the Marigny families of New Orleans. He has been twice reported as engaged, first to Miss Irwin, sister of the countess of Limerick, and on another occasion to Miss Pauline de St. Sauver. Willing Line of Ancestry. The dukedom of Richelieu, at the death of the great cardinal, was bequeathed, with the king's permission, to his grandnephew; that is to say, to the grandson of one of the cardinal's sisters, and finally came to be the possession of the American woman's son. There are other French dukes with American blood in their veins. One is the forty-year-old Duc de Chauvigny at de Piquigny, both of his line whose mother was Miss Theodora F. Shontz. The Duc Decazes will in due course be succeeded in his honors by his son Louis, born of his marriage to the late Joseph Stager, and also will come in the month of the week which his American mother derived from her father's sewing machine invention. Then there is the Duc de Franks, whose Boston wife was formerly Mrs. Charles Hamilton Payne. His mother was Miss Elizabeth Forbes of New York. The present Duc de Richelieu is simple and unaffected in his ways, and is much praised for his common sense. For several years he has been idolized at Newport, where a duke is dearly loved. The new Duchess is also of distinguished ancestry. Her father, the late Capt. Frederic May, won distinction in the United States navy, and the Wisés were favorites. In social circles of the navy set, Capt. Wise belonged to the famous Virginia family of that name. His maternal grandfather, Dr. Frederic May, was a noted resident of Washington before the capitol was built. On her mother's side the duchess is descended from a mingled strain of French and old Puritan blood of the famous Massachusetts family to which John Quincy Adams belonged. Plan Prolonged Honeymoon. The honeymoon is to be notable. After an audience with the pope they are to go to the Riviera to visit at Monte Carlo with the Princess of Monaco. Later they will go to England to be the guests of the former Empress Eugénie at Farnborough, then to visit the splendid Paris house that the duke owns, and finally to the three different châteaux that Richelieu maintains, especially the one in Touraine, which is very beautiful and from which part of France the duke's family originally came. The duke is proud of his American duchess, and he is not chary in expressing himself on international marriages. "They are to my way of thinking," he said, "in no way different from rational marriages. Everything depends on the characters of the two, and the circumstances. I have known American girls for a good many years, and I believe in them, and in the great future American girl will have. I have never, though, given the matter of nationality a serious thought. Love, to my mind, has very little to do with boundaries. Any marriage based upon any other grounds than mutual love and respect cannot survive the strain of years."

One Woman's Guess. A Pittsburgh man recently returned from New York tells this little story of an incident during the great police and public service parade in the metropolis a few weeks ago. He says he was standing at a window in one of the large Fifth Avenue hotels which commanded a fine view of the parade, while about him were a collection of people gathered from all corners of the country. Among them was a New York woman to whom all looked for information. She was able to satisfy inquirer until the division of the department of water supplied came along. Equipment of various sorts all bore in great white letters the inscription, "D. W. S." and the fountain head of information was immediately asked for what they stood. She racked her brain for a moment and then gasped: "I really don't quite know, unless it means, 'the department of white slaves.'"

Trying Hard. An artist who has a lofty studio on West Twenty-third street lately spent two months among the darker dwellings of London, sketching the laborer in the mass, children with dull eyes, houses with broken window panes. One morning he was in a petty session court in the East End, and a battered man was before the magistrate, charged with drunkenness and breach of the peace. "When you were here thirty days ago," said the magistrate, "didn't you promise to sign the pledge?" "I'm a joiner, y' see," said the culprit, "as soon as I get home to write, I'm taking lessons, but I ain't much' work progress."—New York Times.

CHICKEN SALAD AT ITS BEST. Appetizing Dish, Particularly Appropriate for Picnic Menu, Requires Care in Its Preparation. It is best to cook fowl for chicken salad the day before it is to be used. Select a plump one, medium size, with white, firm flesh. Put into a kettle of boiling water, to which you have added a sliced onion, a couple of bay leaves, a stick of celery or a half-teaspoonful of celery seed and a slice of carrot. Bring quickly to a boil, then peak back on the stove or over the gas simmerer, where the water can be kept just below the hard boiling point until the chicken is tender, but not stringy. This will make the dark meat almost as light as the white. Take the fowl from the fire, but leave the chicken in the broth overnight. A short time before serving take all the flesh from the bones, rejecting all the skin, fat and gristle. Cut in dice-shaped pieces and measure.

Vegetarian Recept. Soak a quart of lima beans for 12 hours. Cover with cold water and cook until nearly done. Add three tablespoons of olive oil and season to taste. Put into a baking dish and cover with six tomatoes, peeled and sliced. Bake one hour. When cold run through a meat chopper. Add half cup of chopped nuts, shape in a loaf and bake in a hot oven, basting with melted butter and lemon juice. Arrange on dish with rings of green peppers and parsley. As both the beans and the oil are very nourishing it is a good substitute for meat, now that meat is so high.

Hamburg Nicks. Wash one cup rice, put it in a kettle and add one onion cut fine, one teaspoon salt, one pound hamburger steak and five or six cups boiling water. Let it cook slowly and uncovered, as it burns if covered. It takes about one and a half hours to cook. When the water has almost cooked away cover and set on back of range where it will keep hot and finish cooking by its own steam.

Most Economical. Take one pound of hamburger steak, with a small piece of fresh pork ground with it, soak three soda crackers or bread crumbs in a cup of sweet milk, mash fine; beat egg with all with salt, pepper, and onion. Bake in moderate oven an hour.

Libby's Luncheon Delicacies. Had Some Way to Travel. Thirty Man Had Not Thought of Possibilities When He Made Contract With Guide.

After North Carolina voted to be a dry state its citizens became very suspicious of strangers. One day a commercial traveler went up to an old negro in a little town in the eastern part of the state and said to him: "Say, uncle, if you will lead me to some place where I can get a drink I'll give you two dollars." The old darkey looked him carefully over, accepted the two plunks, and said: "All right, boss, just follow me." He led the thirsty one through the town, on through the suburbs, into the country, and then started due west. After they had traversed about five miles in silence and still nothing in sight, the man asked: "Look here, Mose! Where are we going after this drink?" "We're swine over into Kentucky, boss; we can't get nuthin' in dis yate."—Judge.

Sensitive Jaegers. The English butler they brought back with them; and so, you may suppose, they were not a little annoyed when, at the end of the month, he gave them notice. "What's the matter, Parker? You have been here such a short time?" "Yesir. But you see when you engaged me, I thought you was apparagras and champagne people; but when I found out that you cats cab bage, carrots and such like common vegetables, and drinks beer, I see, see I, this here ain't no place for a sensitive person like me. So I must leave you. I can't breathe a beery atmosphere."

Woman's Way. "John," she said, "I have an awful pain in my right side. I'm afraid it's appendicitis." "Are you?" he replied, without looking up from his paper. "John," she wailed a moment later, "it's getting worse." "Is it?" he asked, still interested in the sporting page. "John," she demanded, "why don't you worry?" "I am worrying, darn it! That's the way with you women. It doesn't make any difference how hard a man works, you're never satisfied unless he makes a noise about it!"

A Sweet, Crisp, Delicious "Bite-To-Eat" Post Toasties. Dairy bits of peaty white corn, perfectly cooked and toasted to delicate "brown." Usually eaten direct from package with cream and sugar. On middle Toasties use a touch of fresh butter—then add the cream and sugar—a dish to remember. Post Toasties are sold by Grocers everywhere.

John Gallacher was in the early part of the week from Gallacher Bros' ranch, at the head of the mal pais.

Slad Fisher was up Saturday from El Paso, assisting the Carrizozo boys in the great national game.

Sheriff Chavez is on a deal for some residence lots here, and, if made, will erect a residence thereon.

A very heavy rain, accompanied by hail, is reported to have fallen in the Ancho country yesterday.

J. C. Bender returned yesterday evening from El Paso, spent the night here and went out to Nogal this morning.

Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Haywood returned from White Oaks Wednesday, having held services there Tuesday night.

W. C. Pittman returned Monday from Idaho, to which point he had gone on a leave of absence. He resumed his position with the company here.

Ira O. Wetmore was here a couple of days this week from El Paso. While here sold the Kelley furniture building to Mrs. Julia E. Gurney.

Mrs. J. E. Farley and daughters will leave for El Paso Monday. Misses Elsie and Frances will attend school there this winter.

AUTOMOBILE FOR TRADE
Will trade 45 h. p. Overland 1913 Model for cattle, must be good stall. Address: M. H. Cook, White Mountain, New Mexico. 22-2

A heavy local rain in the foothills Tuesday washed out a portion of the Carrizozo-Three Rivers road. Foreman Gray went out the following morning to repair the damage.

Mrs. N. M. Peebles, who lives in Little Creek, near Ato, goes to Cashmere, Washington, to spend the winter. The News, of which she has been a long-time subscriber, follows her.

G. B. Greer was in Monday from his goat ranch in the San Andres on his way to his Bonito home. He reports an excellent crop of mohair and his flock in fine condition.

A number of good showers have been in this and surrounding communities, but the county has not had a general rain. In fact, many parts of the county are suffering for rain, not having received the usual showers.

The court house will be completed in a very short time, probably early next month. All the heavy work is now finished, but will require several days to finish painting, making water connections, etc.

John Kelley, of Deming, spent the past week visiting his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Mills Foreman. He left for Deming Tuesday after he and Mr. Foreman had visited Roswell, to which place Mr. Kelley expects to move soon.

Charles B. Lane, F. W. Klemp and J. E. West came over yesterday from Fort Stanton and Little Creek. They left last night for Mountainair, Torrance county, where the socialists will hold a state convention. The session will continue for a week. This is the annual meeting of the members of the socialist party, the purpose being to issue propaganda, etc., without reference to whether or not a campaign is on.

Sheriff Chavez arrived Monday from Lincoln with the county prisoners, their cells having been transferred to the new jail here. Mr. Chavez did not bring his family at this time, but expects to have them here in the near future.

Gordon Wells, of White Oaks, is in a Deming hospital, having fallen quite sick the early part of the week. His sister, Miss Edith, left here Wednesday morning, and reached the hospital about noon that day, finding Gordon with a high fever.

Governor McDonald was here Monday to Thursday, returning to Santa Fe last night. While here he attending to a shipment of some sheep, gave the contract for the erection of a business building on Main street and took a general survey of his local interests.

Will G. Thornboro arrived yesterday from his home in Illinois, to which point he went last fall with his family. He will probably spend a month here, looking after his mining interests.

M. H. Cook and Jesse W. Boisseau were here this morning from White Mountain, near the head of Three Rivers. The old Three Rivers postoffice has been changed to the name of White Mountain.

Commissioners Duran and Ferguson were here this week, arranging for court house and jail furnishings and, with County Clerk Harvey, preparing to move records, vaults, etc. from Lincoln to this point. The buildings are almost completed and the officials are confronted with a big job in adjusting everything to the new order of things.

Cinderling the streets that have been graded recently goes on apace, and since the rains have come we have some of the best village streets in the state. If providence had not come to the aid of the committee, having the work in charge, its members would have been compelled to seek another climate.

Dr. Lucas has been called several times this week to the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Crockett, on the Mesa, to attend their little boy who has bill very ill. Finally, last night, Dr. Lucas was called in consultation and the belief resulting from that consultation is that the little fellow is suffering from spinal meningitis.

Morris Price, a prominent merchant of Roswell, returned Monday morning from the eastern markets, and spent the day here with friends, going to Roswell the following day on the auto. Mr. Price purposely returned this way so that he could take a view of our mountain scenery from the auto. The scenic beauty of our mountains, he says, are not exceeded by the Swiss Alps.

Costly Treatment.
"I was troubled with constipation and indigestion and spent hundreds of dollars for medicine and treatment," writes C. H. Hines, of Whitlow, Ark. "I went to a St. Louis hospital, also to a hospital in New Orleans, but no cure was effected. On returning home I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets, and worked right along. I used them for some time and am now all right." Sold by all dealers.

Two More Ball Games in Sight
MANAGER ROLLAND, of the local team, is endeavoring to arrange two games of ball for this point, Saturday and Sunday, August 30th and 31st. He is making preparations to have the Fort Stanton team play us on Saturday and Capitan to play us the following day. There seems little question but that both these games will be pulled off on the dates mentioned, as negotiations have advanced to such a point that, without something unforeseen happens, they are almost a certainty. Fans are assured two interesting events when these rival teams cross bats.

Remarkable Cure of Dysentery.
"I was attacked with dysentery about July 15th, and used the doctor's medicine and other remedies with no relief, only getting worse all the time. I was unable to do anything and my weight dropped from 145 to 125 pounds. I suffered for about two months when I was advised to use Cham-

Where Party Lines Disappear

AMERICANS have their political battles and, while usually bloodless, they are often bitter. In the heat of the campaign, on the forum, in the halls of congress and in the public prints attacks and counter attacks are made that would lead those unacquainted with Americans to the belief that civil war was imminent. The two leading parties, democrats and republicans, differ widely on tariff, especially, and fundamental system of government—the democrats insisting upon conferring upon the states all the powers possible, while the republicans hold to the old Hamiltonian theory of a strong centralized government.

While these radical differences exist and are well known of all men, the pleasing thing of all is that when a crisis arrives, our interests or the lives of our people are threatened, we become one people party lines, for the moment, at least, are dropped and each and every one rallies to the administration, regardless of what political faith the occupant of the White House may profess. This was notably so preceding the Spanish American trouble, when congress unanimously rallied to the support of President McKinley. It is no less manifest now, when a democrat occupies the presidential chair. The anticipation of the Mexican president that the democrats held only temporary sway in this country and that President Wilson had a divided congress as well as a divided public sentiment behind him, brought almost every republican in the senate to his feet, heartily announcing support of the administration. Notable among the expressions of confidence in President Wilson was one made by Senator Sutherland, of Utah, republican, who said:

"It is our duty to uphold the hand of the president. It is the part of patriotism and good sense to withhold any criticism until the situation has clarified. Until then we stand firmly behind the president, uphold him in his negotiations and not embarrass him. I for one propose to do this." And in this expression he was supported by leading republicans in an senators, like Nelson, Lodge, Chandler, Smart, all of which proves that we are all Americans.

Rains Late

IN every section of this county rains are late, in fact, in certain parts of the county practically no rain has fallen. As a result crops of all kind will be cut short, especially in the dry farming belt. Grass will also be short and if rains should be some general from this late little hope for grass to mature in the higher altitudes is expressed. On the west side, where we have had earlier rains and where also our season is considerably longer the hope is expressed that we may have a fair winter range.

Better range conditions are reported in the Ancho-Corona country even than here, and across the mal pais a number of heavy rains have fallen. The Three Rivers, Oscura country, too, has some good grass. On the other hand, the Capitan-Mesa-Bonito country is dry, as well as the Lincoln-Picacho country. The biggest stock range in the county—the Black country—is said to be in worse condition than any other part.

A few of the dry farmers on the Nogal Mesa will have fair crops, while a number will score a failure, except as to stock-fodder, etc., while about the same conditions prevail on the Little Creek Mesa. The cactus flat—beyond Richardson—has suffered quite severely by the drought, and the dry farming belt in the Corona country is in little better condition. Taken all in all, this has been a bad year, not only for Lincoln county, but in all adjoining sections.

California White Slave Case

THE California white slave cases, over which the national administration was sharply criticized sometime ago because the attorney-general consented to a continuance, have been brought to a head and one of the defendants, Maury Diggs, convicted. The other defendant is Drew Caminetti, a son of the Commissioner of Immigration, and his trial is now in progress.

Both of these defendants are married men, both are charged with eloping to Reno, Nevada, with two young girls and there used for immoral purposes. Both defendants were prominent in California politics, Diggs having formerly been state architect and as has been stated, Caminetti the son of the Immigration Commissioner. The prosecution is being pushed with vigor and a conviction is looked for in the second case.

PRIZES for the best care of trees were awarded Wednesday, the judges being Mrs. D. D. Tiffany and Messrs. Fred W. Jones and John E. Bell. Fifteen dollars were distributed, ten dollars having been given by Mrs. H. B. Hamilton, 1st $5.00, 2d $3.00 and 3d $2.00, while Mrs. Wallace L. Gumm gave five prizes of $1.00 each.

The prizes were distributed as follows: Kattie Timmon, $4.00; Real Foster, $4.00; Frances Farley, $3.00; John English, $1.00, and Katie Textor, $1.00.

Dr. M. G. Paden, Jr. Improving

DR. M. G. PADEN returned Sunday night from Fullerton, California, near Los Angeles, to which point he had been called by the serious illness of his son, Dr. M. G. Paden, Jr. While there a consultation of the best physicians in Los Angeles was held, a treatment prescribed and the young physician was improving when his father left. However, since the father's return disconcerting reports have come as to his son's condition which produced serious fears. This morning Dr. Paden received a wire from Dr. Bryan, the hospital physician, to the effect that an operation had been performed, in accordance with young Dr. Me's diagnosis of his own case, the result of which appeared to be very satisfactory. Lieut. a brother, left this week for Fullerton, and this entire community hopes he will find the young doctor greatly improved and that we may have still more encouraging news in the very near future.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

An Unending Procession of Many Strange Gifts

WASHINGTON. — Thousands of gifts, from millionaires and laboring men, constantly remind President Wilson that, though he is constitutionally precluded from receiving presents from princes, potentates or foreign powers, the people of his own country do not forget him. In an unending procession the gifts have come. The stream of gifts to the new president started on the day of his induction into office. It will continue with more or less intermittence until the day he ceases to be president of the United States. The gifts are marked by a catholicity of choice that is truly amazing.

These unknown friends of the chief executive do not confine the mediums by which the gifts are sent to any one carrier; in fact, the methods chosen to send them, large and small, are almost as varied as is possible. A favorite method is the old and tried "personal messenger" plan, whereby strenuous efforts are made to deliver the gift in person. The proposed donor, or his agent, will search the very heavens as well as the earth to find a plausible excuse to get by the watchdogs of the secret service and Secretary Tumulty and take the "little token of affection and esteem" to the president in person.

If the distance is too great for the giver to reach Washington—or if he has no acquaintance here—or if he cannot prevail upon his congressman to present the gift for him—it will be reluctantly trusted to the tender mercy of the express companies or the mails. During the present administration the favorite method of sending the smaller articles to the White House has been by parcel post. Larger packages from unknown senders are always opened at a safe distance from the executive rooms, to provide against unpleasant possibilities.

The nature of the gifts varies in such a way that the president might possess a good start toward collecting a museum of curiosities or even establishing a zoological park. Pamphlets and books enough to furnish a good-sized library accumulate every few weeks. Just for the sake of variety a mud turtle, sent by admirers on the eastern shore of Maryland, was found, carefully wrapped, in the morning's mail one day not long ago. The reptile had not been harmed in any way and was immediately turned loose in the expanse of the White House grounds, where he may thrive for many years.

Grave and Logical Treatise on Reformed Sea Talk

IT has been gravely and logically urged that the substitution of "right" and "left" for "starboard" and "port" in the navy makes it much easier for inexperienced men to learn to steer. How many other changes could be made with a similar end in view?

For instance it surely must rasp the nerves of the green landsman on a warship to hear an officer during gun drill snap out the command "Silence." How much better it would be for the officer to say in a bland and soothing voice, "Gentlemen, will you be kind enough to come to order?"

The next command has always been "Cast loose and provide." This has a rude twang. How much prettier it would be to say, "Friends, prepare this piece of artillery for use against the enemy and bring up the ammunition from downstair."

During the silent watches of the night one hears on the warships now such dialogues as this:
"Mustard there!"
"Aye, aye, sir."
"How does that light bear now?"
"Two points and a quarter off the starboard bow, sir."
Wouldn't it be better if it were something like this:

"Friend Jones, are you awake?"
"Yes, indeed, sir."
"Well, then, will you be kind enough to tell me in what direction you see that light?"
"The line of its direction, sir, is about thirty feet to the right of the flag pole on the front end of the ship."
And when the lookout first sees the light, instead of dropping the brusque exclamation, "Light, ho!" down on the deck like an anarchist's bomb, why shouldn't he mellifluously articulate, "I beg your pardon, sir, but I see a light."

More power to Josephus Daniels and his policy. With a little diligence and patience such terms as "slush-bucket," "aguegee," "handy-billy," "Johnny Legs" and "gangway" may be translated into English that any land-lubber in the navy or outside it can understand.

Only One Who Could See All That Was Going On

A SOCIAL atmosphere was given to an Avenue car by the majority of the passengers, who were obviously out for a quiet evening ride.

The one serious person aboard was the motorman, who kept a firm grip on his lever and looked ahead with unwearied eyes.

Back time the car stopped for a minute to let passengers get on or off people scuttled across the track without the least apparent fear of being run over, and even when the big thing was whirling along women who were only a few yards ahead would sprout in front of it as if they revolved in the risk—not counting an occasional man who looked as if he might be sensible enough to realize the disadvantages of injury or sudden death. This reckless flirtation with danger surprised at least one passenger who sat on a front seat and could see what was going on.

"Say, motorman, I'm a stranger in this burg. What's the matter with the people here; taking chances as if the car couldn't hurt 'em if it tried? First thing you know, you're going to be stopped by an inhabitant or two under the wheel. Do you folks go on like this as a regular thing? And don't you ever have to make use of your coroner?"

"Habit, I guess. I suppose they know we are keeping a sharp lookout all the time. When I've come near an accident I can't sleep well for nights thinking of it—'I'll there!'"

The motorman snipped his "Just started car with a mighty wrench that jerked it to a standstill."

Otherwise a young person in white raiment, with high-heeled slippers and a floppy Panama, would have had her name in the papers next day—in the death notices.

Family of 13 Triumphs Over Civil Service Law

THIS is a story of how a meritorious case and a family of thirteen put one over the civil service commission. After six years of waiting, Richard T. Underwood of Pennsylvania has almost reached the goal he was through at examination.

A bookbinder, Mr. Underwood passed in 1907 an examination that entitled him to appointment in the government printing office at $4 a day. There was no vacancy, but his family, consisting of a wife and ten children, required support, so he accepted the place of laborer in the post-office department at $400 a year.

Underwood was promoted Feb. 1, 1910, to an assistant messenger's position at $700 a year.

It was discovered that before he could be promoted to a higher salary, he had to be recommended by Mr. Underwood's family. It was necessary to get the approval of all thirteen members of the family. In February, 1912, Underwood's family to thirteen.

Hickcock wrote the facts to the president, saying that Underwood be exempted from the requirement because of his value to the department and the eleven other reasons, the wife and ten children. July 27, 1912, Mr. Taft directed his promotion without examination.

Governor Debs recommended Underwood's promotion to $1,500 a year, effective July 1. Postmaster General Burdett has made the necessary order. November 1, 1912, Underwood was promoted to a higher position.

NO EVIDENCE OF STATEMENT

Foreman of Jury Had Claimed They Had One Mind, But Leading Lawyer Wanted to Be Shown.

Counsel for the prisoner looked hopefully at the faces of the jurors as they filed into their seats, and listened hopefully as the foreman announced that they had agreed. His client had enjoyed ample provocation for the assault upon the person of Tobias Jones; but the jurors were uniformly Tobias' friends and not unbiased.

"The jury is all of one mind, your honor," the foreman said. "We find the prisoner guilty."
"You hear the verdict, counsel," remarked the judge. "The jury is all of one mind. Have you anything to say of the court before sentence is pronounced?"

"Yes, your honor," replied counsel, still hopefully; "for the purposes of the appeal which my client will take, it would be of material assistance to learn which one of the twelve men who have reached this verdict is possessed of the one mind you are so careful to mention."—New York Evening Post.

Horrible Thought

Senator Borah of Idaho tells this story of how a psychologist and medical professor was received in a small town in his state:

The professor was talking to a young society but about the possibilities of the journeyings of one's soul. "Why, my dear young lady," he declared, "it is possible for you in your sleep to travel to other planets in the middle of the night."

"Oh, professor!" she cried in evident alarm. "Not in my nightgown!"—The Sunday Magazine.

The woman who powders her nose isn't so apt to shine in society.

FOUND A WAY TO BE CLEAR OF COFFEE TROUBLES.

"Husband and myself both had the coffee habit, and finally his stomach and kidneys got in such a bad condition that he was compelled to give up a good position that he had held for years. He was too sick to work. His skin was yellow, and there didn't seem to be an organ in his body that was not affected."

"I told him I felt sure his sickness was due to coffee and after some discussion he decided to give it up."
"It was a struggle, because of the powerful habit. One day we heard about Postum and concluded to try it and then it was easy to leave off coffee."

"His fearful headaches grew less frequent, his complexion began to clear, kidneys grew better until at last he was a new man altogether, as a result of leaving off coffee and taking up Postum. Then I began to drink it too."

"Although I was never as bad off as my husband, I was always very nervous and never at any time very strong, only weighing 95 lbs. before I began to use Postum. Now I weigh 115 lbs. and can do as much work as anyone my size, I think."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for booklet, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum (must be boiled); Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level heaping spoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most purposes.

A big cup regular Postum and some people with the strong things put in a keeping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future. "There's a Reason" for Postum.

Why Druggists Go Insane.

Little Lola's mother had sent her to the corner drug store for a stamped envelope, giving her three pennies with which to pay for it.
"Well, little girl," said the druggist, "what can I do for you?"
"If you please, sir," answered Lola, politely, "my mamma wants three cents' worth of stamped antelope."

FACE IN ONE SOLID RASH

Lindsay, Mont.—"I started to get great big blotches round my neck and I did not think very much about it at first, but they commenced getting worse all the time and such an intense itching, it never gave me a minute's rest. The pimples were red and would swell. From itching and scratching them so it caused them to spread; there would be sores from scratching them so intensely. My face and neck were covered with pimples. It looked as if my whole face was in one solid rash or sore, and I was nearly crazy with itching and burning. At night they would be very bad so I hardly could sleep. My face was, I must say, in one raw sore. I nearly gave up all hopes of ever getting like myself."

"I bought one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and started to use them and followed the directions as closely as I could. To my surprise only a few applications stopped the itching and scratching and in a couple of weeks' time my face was nearly well. I kept on using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in two months' time I was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. Gust Nelson, Dec. 4, 1912.

His Need of the Memento.

An old dorky was encountered by the expedition sent by Uncle Sam for the relief of sufferers by the Mississippi floods. Uncle Eph was in a dilapidated-looking skiff or dugout, which he was having considerable trouble to keep afloat. He was busy paddling with one hand and bailing out his craft with the other when the relief boat came within halting distance of him:
"Hello there, uncle! What do you want?"
"Nothing but wings, boss," was the answer.

SAVED FROM OPERATIONS

Two Women Tell How They Kept the Surgeon's Knife by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dear Madam, I suffered untold agony, and for one period of nearly two years I had hemorrhages and the doctors told me I would have to undergo an operation, but I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am in good health now. I am all over the change of life and cannot praise your Vegetable Compound too highly. Every woman should take it at that time. I recommend it to both old and young for female troubles. — Mrs. MARY STRANDBERG, Southwark, Pa.
