

More Effort Needed

THE business men and citizens of Carrizozo have repeatedly shown their patriotism and public spirit by getting behind movements for the advancement of the business interests of the town and county, but those same business interests have grown in importance until they demand closer attention and increased effort in order that the full value of the developing resources of the county may be made available for the benefit and advancement of the interests of the entire county.

Carrizozo, being the railroad center of the county, the county seat and largest town of the county, must assume the leadership in the work of advancing these interests, and knowing, by past experience, the unselfish public spirit which prevails among its business men and citizens, the News has no hesitancy in calling upon them for other and greater effort and expenditure.

There is much to do, it must be done, and some must make personal sacrifices to start the work and assist in carrying it on.

There is room in New Mexico, so the statistics inform us, for 85 millions of people, and while but a very small proportion of that number may be expected there is a steady and rapid increase in the population of the state, of which Lincoln county is getting its full share. Those already here have made work for public spirited organizations and individuals, and those so rapidly coming in will fast increase the importance of the work to be done.

While much has been done for good roads in both county and state, there is much more to do, as such a movement is not an end until every community can get its products to market over roads which enable the hauling to be done at the minimum cost, and such roads must be well constructed and carefully kept in condition to withstand the wear and tear of both heavy traffic and the weather, both being destructive elements to contend with in road building and maintenance.

Hundreds of new settlers have broken land in the county during the past few years. This means hundreds of new orchards and hundreds of additional feed and vegetable crops to be disposed of. First, roads must be provided to the market town. That market town must be Carrizozo, because it is on the railroad and the railroad reaches the final markets. One of the most important objects of the public spirited organizations must be to provide facilities for handling the products of the county at Carrizozo and getting them on a market in condition and at a time to bring remunerative prices. Too much importance can not be attached to this work, and it can not be successfully carried out under present conditions by any individual, but demands the united efforts of all. It matters not to the horticulturist or agriculturist how rich the land, how favorable the climate, if after his season of toil and expenditure of his money he sees his crops rotting in the fields and barns because he can not reach a market. Even one such season and he is discouraged, another such season and he quits, to the loss of the entire county.

Certainly the citizens of Carrizozo can not afford to discourage the men and women who throughout the county are working and spending their money in an effort to develop the natural resources of the county. They must be encouraged to continue their intelligent efforts for development, and the way to encourage them is to open the markets to them and show them where they can profit by increasing their own efforts.

The News tentatively suggests that the combined business men of Carrizozo might find some way of supplying markets up and down the railroad, and El Paso, with the native products over and above local consumption, and even if this is done without profit for a year or two it will work to build up the town, make it the one market of the county, and draw trade in all other lines more than sufficient to compensate the public spirited business men for all their trouble.

There was preaching, we hear, at the school house Sunday last, by Rev. Edwards.

We notice each year a great increase in the numbers of English sparrows in this locality.

With the experimental farmer desert claim about a mile from came the first sparrows. These Oscura. A well was dug to a little birds are black-listed by depth of 27 feet where water was agriculturalists the world over, not encountered and then a tunnel has so much what mischief they may been run under the Malagra hill do, as what they are noted for connecting the well. The water doing. While their reputation has come in such a great quantity for wrong doing precedes them, that a larger engine had to be we can vouch that they are not purchased to pump out water to, wholly bad. They are great insect eaters, and one good habit with them is to go in large droves, thought to hold back more water and in feeding through a field, is encountered it is thought, there is scarcely an insect that ing one as the water already raises escapes them. Under some conditions, particularly where insects are very scarce, as in cities, they are destructive and mischievous to an alarming extent. Other bird's nests are robbed, gardens and orchards are despoiled, in their search for food, for they are great gormands. Where farmers are determined upon the extermination of the English sparrow, it is well to get posted upon his habits of good and evil. It is also well to learn the difference between the English sparrow and the song sparrow of America. For our native sparrow is not only a sweet singer but is innocent of any of the bad traits of his English cousin, and is equally as great an insectivora. Carefully weighing his good qualities, it would be no prevarication to say that the sparrow is no more destructive in the orchard than the robin. After knowing robin's love for cherries, and his certainty to get them, who will count the good they do against a feast of fruit. The idea is to plant an abundance of such things as the birds eat, that there may be sufficient for all, and the birds will not eat a great deal of fruit in their search for insects, which would in one season destroy the entire outlay.

Watchful Waiting Policy Justified

REGARDLESS of the continued efforts of those desiring war with Mexico, the Mexican situation is actually clearing up and forcing the conviction that the so-called "watching and waiting" policy of the administration is the only real solution of the problem presented by the mixed conditions in the neighboring republic.

The efforts of Huerta and his generals to make peace, even temporarily, with the revolutionists for the alleged purpose of opposing an imaginary American invasion, have failed in every known instance—Tampico, Saltillo, Guaymas, Mazatlan, Salina Cruz, and at every other point where fighting was in progress and important enough to get into the dispatches. Carranza is firm in his determination to continue the war, and Villa, the real fighting commander of the revolution, and its backbone, has repeatedly hurled defiance at the federal commanders suggesting to him even an armistice to await results. This present condition of Mexican affairs, when considered with the fact that no compromise is ever effective with Mexicans, fully justifies the "waiting and watching" by the administration. It is as all the prominent leaders of the Mexican revolution are agreed upon: One faction must be thoroughly whipped before there can be any permanent peace in Mexico. Madero compromised, and there was no peace in Mexico under Madero, and would not have been had he not been assassinated by the leaders of one of the three strongest revolutionary factions in arms against him.

When American troops were landed on Mexican soil and the principal seaport of the republic taken with considerable bloodshed, there was a probability that Huerta would be able to deceive the masses of the Mexican people and unite them under his leadership in a war against the United States. The developments of the past week have completely removed any possibility of such a combination which might have existed, while, on the other hand, the Mexican people in and around Vera Cruz have become convinced that the Americans intend no conquest and are spreading the news. In addition to the fast growing conviction of the Mexican people that the Americans intend no conquest of any part of their republic, the absolute security for person and property extended by the Americans in Vera Cruz, and the just payment for every piece of property, product of the soil or other things of value, is having its effect in convincing the people of Mexico that the entire blame for the American "invasion" is to be placed upon Huerta.

But, in the meantime, the administration at Washington is taking no chances and continues its preparations to safe guard and protect the few American interests not already injured or destroyed before the lamentably weak administration of Taft came to an end. The American land and naval forces are prepared, and are in position, to intervene in Mexico and do a thorough job of house cleaning should the unexpected happen and future developments demand it.

Do not buy cheap when you can buy Calumet. It's more economical—more wholesome—more reliable. Calumet is far superior to any other brand.

Oh, of Signs.

The proprietor of the gents' furnishing emporium always ate in the quick-lunch establishment next door, but the owner of the latter had a grievance. "I put out many signs," complained he, "advertising lamb stew, beef hash, roast potatoes. I watch you many times. Always you take something else." "I guess that's so." "Why is this?" "Well, I figure it this way," explained the haberdasher. "Whenever I hang out a sign, it's for something I want to get rid of."

ECZEMA ITCHED AND BURNED

Dryden, Ore.—"My eczema began by forming small blotches over my neck and shoulders, also on my face and later became rough and scaly. First it appeared in blotches, then it came in a sort of a rash. It itched and burned so terribly that I scratched it and made sores. My clothing irritated my body. The eczema disfigured my face very much and itched so that I lost much sleep and couldn't work while it lasted.

"I used many medicines but none of them took any effect. The disease lasted nearly two months before I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I first washed with the Cuticura Soap, then applied the Cuticura Ointment to the parts affected. The Cuticura Soap and Ointment gave me much relief within two weeks and they proved a perfect cure in a month." (Signed) J. C. Corlett, Nov. 19, 1915.

Backache Warns You

Backache is one of Nature's warnings of kidney weakness. Kidney disease kills thousands every year.

Don't neglect a bad back. If your back is lame—if it hurts to stoop or lift—if there is irregularity of the secretions—suspect your kidneys. If you suffer backache, dizziness and are tired, nervous and worn-out, you have further proof.

Use Doan's Kidney Pills, a fine remedy for bad back and weak kidneys.

AN OREGONIAN CASE

John W. Jones, 214 E. Elm St., Portland, Ore., says: "I was confined to bed for days with kidney trouble. I had terrible pain through my back and got very nervous. I had tried everything but nothing helped me. I had a friend who had used Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought a box and used them. In three days my back was better and my nervousness was gone. I am today in the best of health."

THE LIONESSE SKIRT DANCE AND THE INCONSIDERATE PYTHON.

The conventional skirt dance has long ceased to be a novelty on the vaudeville stage, but as it is performed by "La Belle Selica" in the arena at the amusement park it holds the interest of that most exacting audience—a crowd of Coney Island pleasure seekers. It is not because Selica is pre-eminent among dancers, but on account of the unusual and dangerous stage setting; for she performs in the large exhibition cage, surrounded by a half dozen lions, each animal seated on a separate pedestal. Any one of the huge beasts could crush the dancer with a single blow of a massive paw, and the great jaws which snap viciously at her tiny feet as she kicks them before their faces are sufficiently powerful to crush the shin-bone of an ox.

So long as she is on her feet and agile enough to escape the swift stroke of a paw or the snapping jaws, she is safe; for a lioness would not jump at her from a pedestal; but there is always the chance of a slip or a false step and then—!

It happened once, and caused a suspension of Selica's performance for two months during the last big exposition, for Grace, the largest lioness, was on her before she could recover herself; and it required the efforts of the animal man and all his assistants to beat back the beasts who were maddened by the sight and smell of blood and to rescue the unconscious woman from the cage. They have never forgotten that moment of rebellion which was so nearly successful, and they are ever watchful for another opportunity to avenge the many cuts of the training whip which they received in the course of their schooling. But Selica is also watchful, and although Grace had lately done nothing particularly out of the way, the wonderful sixth sense which experienced trainers always acquire warned her that the animal should be regarded with suspicion. The beast had become nervous; a little more sulky than usual when ordered to leave her den for the exhibition cage, and a trifle slow and rebellious when told to jump up on her allotted pedestal.

Constant association with the wild animals begets carelessness, but Selica, with the scars of Grace's sharp claws still visible on her back and shoulders, was quick to notice the change and especially careful before opening the door from the den to the runway, to look through the observation hole and make sure that the lioness was not crouched for a spring. Grace had been particularly sullen in the afternoon and she was growling ominously when Selica went to get her for the evening performance, but when the woman saw the three little furry balls which were huddled in a corner of the den she understood and forgave all. The cubs were no larger than St. Bernard puppies, but Grace apparently considered them worth fighting for; and Selica's dance was given that night with only five lionesses in the cage, and the proprietor told the stranger the reason for the empty pedestal.

"Wait until after the performance and I will take them out of the cage and show them to you," he said; and the stranger, remembering a tradition to the effect that robbing a lioness of her cubs is a dangerous feat, looked forward with a great deal of interest to the after-piece.

"We can't treat the rearing of the cubs in Grace," said the proprietor, as he stood in front of her cage after the audience had been dismissed. "The close proximity of the other animals in the arena and the curiosity of the thousands of people who come here every day would make her so crazy that she would destroy them, so I must get them a foster mother. I have sent to New York for a bitch with pups, and in a couple of days I will show you a happy family." The cubs were in the center of the cage and Grace stood over them, snarling and looking with blazing eyes at the group in front of her; but Selica's voice could not win out at the game unless we crooked it. We were running so far behind that the only thing which saved us from a disaster was the fact that they couldn't get a comfortable who would carry the snakes out to the sidewalk; but Merritt was a resourceful cuss and I felt confident that he would figure out some scheme to win out.

"Jim," says he, "it's necessary for us to give 'em a sensation. We've tried to run this game as a purely moral and instructive entertainment, but we need the money and I reckon we've got to spring a cold deck on 'em. I guess you've got to stand for being attacked by an untamable, man-eating python."

"You can count me out on that," says I. "Every gasabo in the city would also me up as a victim of the demon yum." Merritt looked discouraged for a minute, but his face suddenly brightened up and I know he had found a way.

"Jim," says he, "if we only take half of our usual allowance of fire-water tonight we will have enough cash to buy some paint. Now there's that big white python; the only specimen ever captured, the 'pythonatus fulgidus lactalis giganteus,' says he. That was one trouble with Merritt; he'd get so stuck on the language which he manufactured that he couldn't leave it out, even in our business consultations, and it used me a lot of time. That python is the straight goods," says he, "but he doesn't catch their eyes, so I'll paint the blues, reds, and whites and blue and christen him the 'Anascondon Regulus americanus a plurius unum,' and give the high brow something to work on," says he. "That'll work up the snakeologists and set 'em writing in the papers to prove that there isn't any such thing; but we've got the answer to that. For we can show 'em one at twenty-five cents per."

"I never could stand for Jim's name being the generous public, but we couldn't stand for a python dinner, and I consented. Merritt spent most of the night preparing that python, and in the morning it looked like the peasant of a man-of-war. I had to sit up and watch him; for he had the artistic temperament, and he was so carried away by his enthusiasm that if I hadn't restrained him he would have put on the coat-of-arms of the United States, eagle, motto and all.

"Now," says he, "when he had finished and stepped back to admire his work, if that blame snake's own mother would know him if she met him on the street, I'm a Dutchman. If this snake make 'em sit up and take notice, then I'll go to night school to learn the show business."

"How did the scheme work?" asked the proprietor, as the press agent paused to make the grand halting sign of distress to the waiter.

"Work!" he answered. "How does a snake always work in New York? The python was so stuck on its new colors that it nearly broke its neck turning around to admire itself and everything went level. Of course, there was the usual howl from the snakeologists who knew it all, and 'Old Subscriber,' 'Citizen,' 'Pro Bono Publico' and the rest of the bunch wrote columns, denouncing us as frauds.

"You know how those things work; everybody puts up an argument and then it's up to the fellow who is making the blip to back it up with an offer to donate a sum of money to some charitable institution if he can't deliver the goods. We were well ahead of the game as a result of the advertising and had about two thousand to the good; and Merritt got awful chummy. He had lied about that snake so much that he believed in it himself and it made me a little nervous one night when he offered to donate two thousand dollars to the Home for Deaf and Dumb Children if any one could produce another specimen like this one, short of the head waters of the Amazon. I wasn't scared so much by that as by what I feared he might say, for I knew they couldn't get another if they raked the jungles with a fine-toothed comb, and sure enough, he was carried away by his enthusiasm and offered to bet our entire bank roll that the snake was a genuine 'American flag,' such as had never been exhibited in any country.

"It was just our luck that there was a half-loaded tin-horn gambler in the audience that night; one of the kind that wears a yellow diamond and a checked suit with a white stove-pipe hat; and the only part of the speech that he understood was that somebody wanted to make a bet. That raised his sporting blood, and he climbed up to the platform and pulled out a roll of yellow boys that would choke a dog and peeled off twenty centuries."

"I don't know much about snakes which brouleed won't make chaso themselves back to the woods," says he as he plucked 'em down on the table. "I ain't got your gift of gab, but money talks and I've got the pig to say that you can't tell the truth to save your neck. Just stack up your pile alongside of that and then trot out your snake!" I was feeling pretty sore on Merritt for making such a blur, but, of course, we had to make good and between us we covered the bet. We had glass cages full of snakes all around the platform, but 'Old Glory' was in a big chest covered with gilt figures and brass chains and fastened with a padlock. Merritt was mad clear through at having his veracity questioned, but he looked pretty confident as he stuck the key in the lock.

"It's a shame to take the money," says he, as he eyed the gambler, "but there's an old saying about the mental capacity of a man that is speedily separated from his bank roll, and I reckon you were away from home the last time the zeal killer called." The gambler just smiled and kept his eye on the stakes.

"Now," says he, turning to the audience, "if you'll kindly give me your attention I'll show you one of the most marvelous mysteries of nature. It was procured by one of our special agents at the head waters of the Amazon at tremendous expense. It is a unique representative of the reptilian family and the sight of it should arouse pride in the hearts of all patriotic Americans; for as he unwinds his sinuous coils you will observe that while his head and neck are blue, the body, down to the tip of the tail, is marked with thirteen alternate stripes of red and white, giving this marvelous creature the appearance of being wrapped in that glorious emblem of liberty which waves over the land of the brave and the home of the free." Merritt stops then, throwing out his chest and sticking his hand into the bosom of his coat to wait for the customary applause from the gallery to subside; but instead of the usual glad hands he was greeted with a roar of laughter and cat-calls and when he turned to look at the snake box, there was 'Old Glory' crawling out, looking ashamed of himself, for he was as white as the day he was born."

"What happened?" asked the proprietor as the press agent sighed.

"Well, Merritt always had presence of mind, and as the sport gathered up our hard earned checks he grabbed me by the arm and hurried me from the building. He knew that a howling audience was apt to follow out-calls with antique eggs and vegetables of last season's vintage, and five minutes later we were trying to secure our sorrow.

"Jim," says Merritt, "I made a big mistake. See I should have talkeded him. His honesty was only with Jess and the blame snake shed his skin."

Heavy rains north and east caused general train delays on the E. P. & S. W. and Rock Island this week.

Martin B. L. Goodin arrived Monday morning from Parkville, Missouri, to attend to some estate matters before the probate court here. Mr. Goodin left this county, where he had lived many years, three years ago, and engaged in agriculture. He is very much pleased with his new home, although glad to get back among friends here. His stay will not be longer than a week.

Rev. and Mrs. Jno. W. Hendrix left the first of the week for a visit to the latter's aunt, in Oklahoma City, and to attend the session of the general conference which convenes in that city on May 6th, and continues in session the greater part of the month. This conference, it is well to explain, meets only once in four years, and has to do with the making of laws that control the church at large, and has nothing to do specifically with local pastors in their appointment. They will visit her parents in Melissa on their return. She will stay over for some days returning home the last of the month. The pastor will be away for at least two Sundays. He intends to return for his regular work by the fourth Sunday.

"Old New Hampshire Home"

The play, "Old New Hampshire Home," presented Wednesday night by the Carrizozo Dramatic Club, was a success from every point of view, and an excellent example of the standing of our organization. The play, which was presented in the parlors of the club, being such as to please the presentation in the most successful manner.

An attempt to mention any portion of the play, as it would probably be considered by those who do not attend, is not the intention of the presentation, as the play is a very successful one, and the author intended it to be so, and therefore, it is not to be mentioned in any way.

Card of Thanks

WE wish to tender our heartfelt thanks to all friends who exerted every effort and extended every comfort during the illness of our darling little boy, and who endeavored, by the sincerest sympathy ever offered, to assuage our grief at his death. And to those who were not present but, learning our loss, made our sorrow theirs, sending tender messages of love and sympathy, we wish to extend a like appreciation. May they, each and every one, meet with the same loving sympathy and kindness in their hour of stress and sorrow that have been given us in our hour of darkest night.

School Notes

The school doors were closed until the afternoon Tuesday, and the pupils attended the funeral of Little Tom Haley. The pupils of his room attended in a body and every one wore signs of genuine grief as the little classmate and school boy was committed to Mother Earth. The school as a whole, as well as several individual rooms, were the donors of many beautiful floral offerings.

Citizens of Otero county to the number of 314 have petitioned Congressman Ferguson for national prohibition.

The recent rain and hail storms passing over the northern part of the state did much damage to orchards and newly planted crops as far south as Tucumcari.

The state lost over one thousand dollars worth of instruments for measuring the flow of streams because of the floods caused by recent storms.

Statistics show New Mexico to be second to Rhode Island in percentage of Catholics to total population. In New Mexico the Catholic population is slightly in excess of 40 per cent.

Judge Mechem, at Soconcho, has issued a writ of mandamus for the calling of election in several of Soconcho county's largest precincts to determine the local option question. Eighteen Soconcho county precincts are named.

The practical development of the agricultural resources of the county is being hampered by the making of a putting out of the land and planting experimental crops. The county is without a law school for years.

New Mexico is believed to suffer from a serious economic position. At a large meeting held in Carrizozo, the work of the state is being discussed. A public school system is being proposed. The state is being urged to improve its educational system. The state is being urged to improve its educational system.

The growth of eastern New Mexico is the integration of a state government. The state is being urged to improve its educational system. The state is being urged to improve its educational system.

Waking Up

Not long since a territorial governor, Governor McDonald, was elected with support from the territory. The state is being urged to improve its educational system. The state is being urged to improve its educational system.

It is a pleasure to note that the people of New Mexico are awakening to the fact that Governor McDonald has been standing between the taxpayers of the state and the political combination which seeks to raid the public pocket book through the medium of unreasonably high salaries for county officials. New Mexico taxpayers have long been sufferers from this form of political robbery, oftentimes paying county officials who were personally unable to earn one hundred dollars a month outside of an office as much as twenty thousand dollars annually.

Governor McDonald has twice vetoed outrageous salary bills and the voters should see to it that the lower house to be elected supports him in his vetoes.

Death Visits the Editor's Family

DEATH entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. A. Haley Monday morning at the hour of 1:48 and claimed Thomas Franklin, their ten-year-old son. Pneumonia was the cause of his death. The little fellow's illness was of such short duration that many of the intimate friends of the family knew nothing of it until he was near death's door. Though suffering from a fever for a few days, his condition was not considered serious until Sunday, when pneumonia developed in a most aggravated form.

He became unconscious Sunday afternoon, a consultation of physicians was held, friends gathered and a grim battle was waged with death until twelve minutes to 2 o'clock Monday morning, and John fell upon the floor a sudden death. A shadow on those features fair and thin, And softly from that bed had unkindly risen.

For a moment when but one was in.

The funeral was held in the Methodist church at 10 o'clock a. m. Tuesday. Rev. John W. Hendrix, assisted by Rev. Herbert Haywood and the sweet voices of the choir, conducting the services. Loving friends, schoolmates and teachers, and relatives, of which his parents were members, brought garlands of roses and wreaths of flowers, completely covering the casket in their profession.

The procession for the cemetery formed, the pupils from the 4th and 5th grades leading, and marching beside the hearse. Active participants, in order of the local lodge Knights of Pythias: John L. Bell, W. M., Ferguson, W. J. Douring, G. O. Nickel, G. T. McQuillen and Walter W. S. Atkinson. The honorary pall bearers, an equal number of little boys and girls, his schoolmates, were Homer Donaldson, Frank Norris, William Johnson, Gordon Page, Dora Stevens, and Carl and Hazel. Leads to Johnson, Ruth Smalley, Alice Kelly, Ruth Edmister, Harriett Kimball and Carrie Roberts.

Arriving at the cemetery, a prayer was offered, a song sung and the little body was lowered into the grave that had been beautifully lined with excelsiors and the grave closed. Forever and all that was mortal of one whose presence had left a deep, desolate and full of sorrow.

Good Roads Again

THE NEWS has been fighting faithfully for good roads in both county and state, and when improved roads are assured, no advocate of good roads can afford to lose interest in the fight, not for one moment.

As "eternal vigilance" is the price of liberty, so vigorous and continuous effort is the price we must expect to pay for good county and state roads. However good roads will amply repay the general public for all the effort and money expended in making them first good, and then better.

Attention Protectionists

THE attention of protectionists in general, and the republican politicians of New Mexico in particular, is called specifically to the wool-markets of the United States since the new tariff law went into effect. The price of wool has not only been satisfactory, and stronger than under former tariffs, but market conditions plainly show that the wool buyers, who have been combined to control the price of wool to the benefit of their own interests are fast losing their control. New Mexico has suffered, pro-ably, more than any other section of the United States from the operations of the buyer's combine, particularly when the few buyers allowed to come into this section worked in close connection with the merchants "carrying" the wool growers, and New Mexico sheep men could well afford lower prices for a time if the buyer's combination could be broken and the eastern manufacturers forced into an open and free market. But, lower prices have not come, and the market is being freed of the manipulators, to the great benefit of the wool grower.

The tariff on wool, like all other special privileges, was intended to enable special interests to manipulate the markets against both the producer and consumer, completely shutting off the influences of the laws of supply and demand. It was also used by politicians in wool-growing states, to influence votes for the republican machines under the mistaken idea that a tariff which forced the many to pay tribute to the few was of benefit to someone. The present tariff law has exploded all the contentions of the protectionists and the republican politicians, and under a reduced tariff the wool-grower benefits because his prices hold up and he prepares for a better future by getting rid of the manipulators of the markets; and the many consumers benefit because they cease to pay an unnatural money tribute to the few producers.

Final Poll Tax Notice

Extract from the law: "A poll tax of one dollar shall be levied upon all able bodied male persons of the age of 21 years, or over, residing in the district."

Old age is not a sufficient excuse for not paying poll tax, unless a man is totally disabled, because of old age. Only about two-thirds of those who are subject to taxation have paid up, although the clerk of the board has made an extension of the time limit for the payment of the same.

The requirement of the law is very plain. If poll tax is not paid 30 days after the first demand posting in a conspicuous place is considered a demand by law, which was done in the Post Office the first Monday in February. The clerk may bring suit in the name of the district.

Thus you will readily see it is not an optional matter with the board, it is compulsory. And it will be the duty of the clerk to enter suit for the collection from all delinquents. However, as the limit of time is optional with the board, as to how soon it may enter suit, after the limit has expired, the board not wanting to inflict any penalty on those who possibly through neglect, have failed to pay, has decided to make another extension until the 15th of May, on which date the names of all those who have failed to make their payments will be handed to the justice of the peace, with instructions to bring suit. Payments may be made to Justice Ed Massey or clerk of the board, P. M. Johnson, Chair, JOHN E. BELL, Clerk.

Fryer said high prices tend to increase the cattle supply on hand and diminish consumption.

REMEMBER Peru-na
 When You Call At Your Drug Store

Mr. Robert H. Norris, No. 1222 Henry St., North Berkeley, Cal., writes: "We have never had any other medicine but Peru-na in our home since we have been married. I suffered with kidney and bladder trouble, but two months treatment with Peru-na made me a well and strong man. My wife felt weak and was easily tired and was also troubled with various pains, but since she took Peru-na she is well and strong."

Every man is above the average—according to his own belief.

Appropriate Ejaculation. "I have been digging for water, sir? Well, well, well!"

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the favorite family laxative. Ad.

Largest English Cathedral.

Map in a Nutshell.
 Marks—Are you reading this history of the Napoleonic tragedy that's being printed?
 Parks—No. To me the tragedy of Napoleon may be summed up in two lines. The divorce of Josephine was the prelude; Elba the interlude, and his last battle the Waterloo.

Canal Comment.
 "Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "they are having a great deal of agitation about the big canal, aren't they?"
 "Yes."
 "Don't you know, I sometimes think it might have been better if we had been content with the old-fashioned canals where all the talking was done by the man who was driving the mule!"

Secrets of the Wardrobe.
 When Winston Churchill was running for the governorship of New Hampshire, his opponents became particularly active making speeches, writing letters and distributing campaign buttons. One morning a friend sent this telegram to Churchill:
 "Have you no buttons for your supporters?"
 The candidate was out of town and did not get the telegram, but a pretty girl stenographer did.
 "No. We use safety pins."
 "WINSTON CHURCHILL."

FOR AN AFTERNOON AFFAIR

Nut Bread Has Become a Favorite Among Hostesses Who Want "Something Different."

One cup of sugar, one egg.
 One and one-quarter cups of milk.
 Four cups of flour.
 Four teaspoons of baking powder.
 One and one-half cups of nuts.
 First mix sugar and egg in a bowl. Measure and sieve your flour. Add baking powder to flour. Then alternate in adding the milk and flour to the sugar and egg. After these are mixed, add the nuts. Either English walnuts or the plain American walnuts can be used. The nuts can be ground by putting them through a meat chopper or by rolling them on the bread board by using the roller pin.

After all your ingredients are well mixed, put the batter in two pans. The pans must first be well greased with lard. Bread pans are preferable. Let the bread rise for 30 minutes. Then put in a moderate oven to bake. Bake for 40 minutes.

The nut bread has supplied a long-felt need, for upon all sides we have been constantly hearing the complaints of people who wish to eliminate such rich refreshments served at pink teas and bridge parties.

What to give at an afternoon affair, instead of the inevitable ice cream, has been a problem.

Nut bread, which can be used instead of rich pastries, has solved the solution. A fruit salad and nut bread can be served, and one woman reasoned that this is the same as the salad course of dinner, which, we all agree, is the most sensible of all the courses. When the bread is served it is cut in very thin slices and plentifully buttered. A good plan is to butter the bread before cutting the slices from the loaf. This is delicious served with any salad.

ALL AROUND DR HOUSE

Lime powder well sprinkled where cockroaches abound will drive them away.

If bacon is soaked in water for a few minutes before frying it will prevent the fat from running.

When starching holland plinfectors put a little strong tea into the starch. This keeps the garments in good color.

When boiling fowls or fish add to the water in which they are boiled the juice of half a lemon. This will make them beautifully white.

If moths are in a carpet spread a damp towel over the part and iron it dry with a hot iron. The heat and steam will kill the worms and eggs.

When making roly-poly pudding, after spreading the paste with jam, sprinkle a layer of fine bread crumbs before rolling and tying up. This prevents the jam from boiling out.

Old nail holes in wood may be filled up by mixing sawdust with glue till it is of the consistency of stiff paste. Press this compound into the holes and it will become as hard as the wood itself.

Before using a new saucepan fill it with water, with a lump of soda and some potato peelings, and let it boil for some hours. Then wash out thoroughly, and all danger from poisoning from the tinned lining will be gone.

Soft Ginger Cookies.
 One cupful sugar, two cupfuls molasses, half cupful lard, two table-spoons soda, one cupful boiling milk, two teaspoonsful ginger, one-eighth teaspoonful pepper, one teaspoonful salt, pastry flour. Add the soda to the milk and when it effervesces turn it into the molasses. Add sugar, salt and spice and beat in four cupfuls of flour. Then add the lard, melted, and flour to make very stiff. Get aside for a few hours or over night; then roll to one-quarter inch in thickness and bake on an oiled sheet in a moderate oven.

To Singe Chicken.
 I am sure every cook has had trouble in singeing a chicken, to prevent the smoke from blackening it, and frequently had to resort to various ways of removing the stain. A simple discovery which I have made, writes a contributor to the Modern Priscilla, and which I am sure will be entirely new to many, is that any light-colored manilla wrapping paper can be used and the difficulty readily obviated. Newspaper will invariably smoke the meat, wrapping paper, as indicated, never.

To Evade Dust.
 When sweeping carpet many women are annoyed by dust from sweeping. Why not try this method? Buy a sponge large enough to cover mouth and nostrils. Soak off bits from the inside until a hollow is formed to fit the face. Tie to each side tapes long enough to fasten behind the head. Now, when you are ready to sweep, wet the sponge, wringing it nearly dry, and tie it in place. This will also be found an excellent idea when cleaning the range.

To Save With Onions.
 Two onions cut fine. Put on in little water and cook till tender. Add one can or one quart fresh tomatoes, season to taste. Let boil about ten minutes and serve. Tasty breakfast or supper dish.

One's Ancestors.
 How many male and female ancestors were required to bring you into the world? First, it was necessary that you should have a father and mother. This makes two human beings. Each of them must have had a father and mother. That makes four human beings. Again, each of them must have had a father and mother, making eight more human beings. So on we go back to the time of Jesus Christ, 56 generations. The calculation thus resulting shows that 139, 225,017,480,534,976 births must have taken place to bring you into this world—you who read these lines! All this since the birth of Christ—NOT since the beginning of time.

VITAL FORCE
 Disease germs are on every hand. They are in the very air we breathe. A system "run down" is a prey for them. One must have vital force to withstand them. Vital force depends on digestion—on whether or not food nourishes—on the quality of blood coursing through the body.

DR. PIERCE'S Golden Medical Discovery

Don't despair of "being your old self again." Give this vegetable remedy a trial—Today—Now. You will soon feel "like new again." Mrs. Lydia Harvey Burned to Death

ABOUT 12:10 p. m., last Wednesday, Mrs. Lydia Jane Harvey, mother of County Clerk Harvey was caught in the flames of her burning dwelling, which was razed to the ground in about fifteen minutes. She was alone on the homestead, her daughter, Mrs. A. H. Harvey, having left only a short time previous for town, and the supposition is that deceased used coal oil to light a fire for noon day coffee, and that an explosion took place. Mr. Duke, her neighbor across the road, and Messrs. Comrey brothers who were passing at the time, rushed to the scene and broke into the house through a window, but too late to save the victim of the flames, which were helped much by a steady wind. An inquest was held by Justice Massie over the remains, and the jury returned a verdict of "accidental burning" as the cause of death.

Mrs. Harvey was born in Kentucky, July 25th, 1834; and came to New Mexico seven years ago. She leaves one son, above named. The funeral service was held at the cemetery yesterday morning at 10, conducted by Rev. Haywood. Friends brought beautiful flowers as a last tribute of respect and sympathy for this great sufferer who met death in such a horrible manner. Our deepest sympathy is with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey, who have done much for the comfort and health of the deceased.

New Bonito Sawmill

THE old sawmill plant installed some years ago by John L. Wiggins at Old Bonito City, and later taken over on a judgment by William R. White has been moved to the old Bourne place, farther up the creek, and new machinery added. Mr. White was over Saturday to secure the services of a mechanic to install the new machinery and to superintend the erection of the plant on its new site. M. A. Palmer, of White Oaks, will superintend the work.

In addition to putting in a new and up-to-date circular saw, Mr. White has also arranged to put in a box factory, in order to utilize much of his material that otherwise would be a loss. He will also install a planer. When the plant is completed Mr. White will be able to furnish lumber in all dimensions, and expects a good market for his product.

Bringing Home Nation's Dead

Vera Cruz, Mex., May 4. — Solemn honors for the dead of the nation were accorded by the American fleet and the army on shore as the U. S. cruiser Montana started for the United States Sunday with the bodies of 17 American bluejackets and marines who fell in the fighting in the streets of Vera Cruz. The vessels of the British, French and Spanish navies dipped their flags also in respectful tribute.

The crews of the warships, in full uniform, lined the sides of the warships and as the Montana reached each one the men stood at attention, the marine guards presented arms and the ships' bands played funeral marches.

One by one the colors of the fighting craft sank to half mast as the Montana steamed through a lane formed by two divisions of the Atlantic fleet. As she reached the end of the parallel lines the Montana gradually increased her speed and when she turned toward the north the flags of all the ships fluttered to the tops once more and the crews broke ranks.

On shore during the Montana's passage out the Stars and Stripes flying over Brig. Gen. Funston's headquarters were lowered to half mast.

The hospital ship Solace with about 100 sick and wounded American bluejackets and marines on board, it was stated, might sail northward later this week. All

President to Meet Ship
Washington, D. C., May 4. — President Wilson plans to go to Brooklyn Monday and meet the cruiser Montana, which is bringing to the United States the bodies of the men killed at Vera Cruz, Mex. This statement was made early today by Secretary of the navy Daniels after a conference with the president.

In case public business makes it impossible for President Wilson to leave Washington, he will send a personal representative with a letter from him to welcome the funeral ship.

So far as the reports now in are concerned it appears that late cold spells did very little, if any, real damage to orchard crops in the county. If reports from the entire county are as favorable it indicates an increased income this year for Lincoln county agriculturists and horticulturists.
