

Suggestive School Changes

THE educational system of New Mexico is suffering from two fundamental errors. The school men are responsible for one; the other is forced upon us. I know of no error in all our pedagogical experience more persistent than the tendency of the school man to generalize from too meager data. He finds one thing that works well with one student, and then says, "This is a good thing for all students." A professor in the Agricultural College of Colorado found some old and seasoned school men interested in plant breeding. Immediately, he said, "Since this is of value to some of our students, it is surely of value to every school boy or girl, and I am going to the State Teachers' Association, to tell them what should be taught to every boy, and girl in Colorado." It seems to me we show no better pedagogical judgment than this when we say a text book that is particularly adapted to the schools of the Pecos Valley is, therefore, adapted to every school throughout the state of New Mexico. Thinking in the same way, we have said that the schools of New Mexico, regardless of race or previous attainment of pupils must teach all students in the same way and for the same length of time.

The state should be districted into at least three districts. Into one district I would place all those schools where English is the only language of the children. In another district, I would place those children whose only language on entering school is the Spanish. The third district would contain those schools where both English and Spanish are the language of the home. I realize that no hard and fast lines can be drawn, but these divisions can be approximated. Each section should have its own organization, its own course of study, and its teachers trained to meet its peculiar needs.

The second error, the one forced upon the state and accepted by many without protest, is the requirement that all the teaching in the schools of the state be in English. The Enabling Act declared that "provision shall be made for the establishment and maintenance of a system of public schools . . . and that said schools shall always be conducted in English." In conformity with this requirement, the makers of our state constitution wrote into that document the very words of the Enabling Act, "said schools shall always be conducted in English." Although statehood was a boon to New Mexico, it seems to me the price is too great. When the kaiser forces the German language upon Alsace-Lorraine, and the czar of all the Russias commands that the Poland and the Finn forget his native tongue and learn to read in the language of the conqueror, we express our indignation in no uncertain terms. Yet when we have a problem of bi-lingualism to deal with, we settle it upon the basis—that the language of the majority must displace the language of the few. After all, is the Spanish language the language of the few, when we consider American possessions?

This educational problem is not for us in New Mexico alone. It exists in Arizona, California, in nearby Cuba and Porto Rico, and in far away Manila. Here in New Mexico we face a fact, a condition, and not a theory. We have children entering school at six years of age, who know not a word of English. We immediately give them an English-speaking teacher, who knows no Spanish, who attempts to teach them to read. She does succeed in teaching them a list of words that they can say by rote, but they have no conception of their meaning.

There is just one thing to do with the Spanish-speaking child of the first and second grades, and that is to teach him to read in the Spanish language, the language of his home, using the same psychology that we use in dealing with the English-speaking child.

You may say that this conclusion is reached priorly; that experience only is the test of efficiency of a system. Accepting such a dictum, we will turn to the experience of the nation most successful in educating people of every language. The world has marveled at the colonial system of Great Britain, and every nation on earth studies that system carefully, that it may know how best to deal with the political phases of colonial life. Today, we are not interested in politics, but in education, and ask the question, "How has England dealt with the question of bi-lingualism throughout her many varied provinces?"

So far as I have been able to discover, the question of what language shall be taught in the primary grades is settled in every section of the great empire in accordance with the language of the home. After the Boer war, which brought about the supremacy of England in South Africa, the question whether the Dutch language or the English language should be the language of the schools, was bitterly fought out upon the political field. After a very unfortunate campaign, the legislative body elected felt the need of removing the educational question entirely from politics. Therefore, it appointed a non-partisan commission which unanimously recommended that in Dutch-speaking settlements, Dutch should be used during the first three or four years of the school as the language in which the child should be taught. But immediately, upon entering school, the teacher gives oral lessons in English, sometimes only two lessons per week. The number is increased as rapidly as conditions permit. In the fourth year they begin the use of English. Doctor Viljoen, director of education, of Orange Free State, asserts that those pupils who are not originally taught in their own language never

Miguel Luna Surrenders Certified Copies Require Stamp

Miguel Luna, who made his escape from the Lincoln county jail, at Lincoln, something more than three years ago, rode into Lincoln one day this week and surrendered. The justice of the peace at Lincoln appointed R. A. Duran a special officer to bring Luna to Carrizozo, which he did Tuesday. Bail in the sum of $1,500 was provided for Luna and he returned with Mr. Duran to Lincoln Wednesday.

The charge against Luna is attempt to kill. In the summer of 1911 he took a couple of shots at Manuel Aragon, neither of which, however, took effect. Luna was arrested at the time, but later, with four other men, escaped from jail.

A desire to see his family and tired of dodging caused Miguel to voluntarily return and surrender. During the time he has been away, he was in a number of states—Arizona, Colorado, California, Nevada and as far north as Wyoming.

The act of Congress approved October 22, 1914 (Public, No. 217), requires that on and after December 1, 1914, and until December 31, 1915, a ten cent internal-revenue stamp must be affixed to each certified copy of a patent or record.

Accordingly, applicants for certified copies during the period named must furnish, in addition to the fee for making certified copies of any documents or records, a ten cent internal revenue stamp for each certificate.

Funds with which to purchase the stamps cannot be accepted, the regulations of the Treasury Department as to disposition of moneys received permitting only the deposit of the money to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States or its return by official check to the sender.

Governor McDonald was here Tuesday from Santa Fe.

Mrs. A. E. Lesnett came up from Roswell Tuesday evening to spend Thanksgiving with her children.

Furious Fighting In Europe

THE past week has witnessed furious fighting on almost every European battlefield, as well as interesting skirmishing from the Bosphorus to the Red Sea. In the western area, despite furious artillery the German and allied lines remain practically as they have been for weeks. The naval base that Germany attempted to establish on the Belgium sea coast is said to have been destroyed by an attack from the English fleet.

In the eastern area, Germany had made a second dash for Warsaw, and had driven the Russians back to the very gates of the city—just as had been done in a previous campaign—but again the Russians rallied, massed superior forces, and according to latest dispatches, have inflicted a severe defeat upon the Germans.

"If the defeat is anything like reported it will seriously cripple the German offensive, and may end the big movements for the winter. We quote below dispatches of yesterday relating to this important engagement.

London, Nov. 26. (3:57 a. m.)—The Morning Post's Petrograd correspondent says he learns that one German army corps of over 40,000 men with their munitions complete has been captured and that he believes when the official details of the fighting in the east are forthcoming it will be found that at least two army corps have been captured.

"It seems," the correspondent adds, "that the large number of German reinforcements from Wielun, with which it was intended to envelop the Russian left flank, arrived only in time to support the retreat of the whole German right. The Russian cavalry made a series of charges into the masses of retreating German infantry, doing terrible execution on the fugitives.

"The German left, resting on the Vistula, appears still to be holding its position, but the defeat of the right wing must compel the retreat of the left also.

"While Russia is victorious in the direct route towards Erzerum, fighting is developing in the neighborhood of the Russian frontier along the valley of the Tchoruk river not far from Batum, which city appears to have been chosen as the objective of the main Turkish attack.

London, Nov. 26.—The Warsaw correspondent of the Reuter Telegram company sends the following dispatch: "Long columns of German prisoners are passing through this city. Among them are many of the Prussian guards. Many wounded have their hands and feet frozen and lack warm clothing."

Petrograd (via London), Nov. 25.—Reports reaching here concerning the magnitude of the defeat of the Germans to the west of Lodz, Russian Poland, which, in some instances, place the German losses as high as an entire army corps, appear in a measure to be confirmed by telegraphic dispatches from Warsaw. Forty-eight trains have been dispatched from Warsaw to bring in the prisoners and wounded. This number of trains, made up of the maximum number of the Russian wide gauge, would carry between 45,000 and 50,000 men, it is estimated here.

Methodist Church

Rev. E. J. Lewis, Pastor.

Why go to church? Mr. Burke said he went to find rest from the political wranglings and disputes during the week. The Sabbath is intended for a day of rest, and the church services offer opportunities of recreation and surcease from physical and mental toil. Forget your business troubles Sunday and come to the Methodist church at 11:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. Subject of the morning: "The Upward Look," and at the evening hour the presiding elder will preach, and following which will be held the first quarterly conference. Sunday school at 10:00 a. m., Junior church at 3:00 p. m., Epworth League 6:30 p. m., prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m., Wednesday. We will look for you, don't dissappoint us.

Mexican Situation

Scrambled

El Paso, Nov. 26.—General "Pancho" Villa will enter Mexico City at the head of his troops today, according to the latest dispatches received here. Final arrangements were completed for his entry last night, and all messages declare that no delay is anticipated. Villa's headquarters are now at Tula, only two hours' trip from the capital. Gutierrez also planned to enter the city but it is likely that he will not arrive in time. If not he will formally enter on Sunday and take charge of the government. The evacuation by Gen. Lucio Blanco was a general surprise. Zapata's entry into the capitol was also a surprise to Villa who was much chagrined because he was not the first Guterrez leader to arrive. Many predict that there will be serious trouble between Zapata and Villa: Reports of vigorous fighting between the opposing factions are coming from all sections. Both sides claim victory in a battle fought at Tamasopa near Tampico.

Thanksgiving Party

Miss Vera Howell very delightfully entertained her Sunday school class, "Wayside workers," Saturday, at her home, Hotel Temple. It was the girls' Thanksgiving meeting, and each one expressed gratitude for blessings they had enjoyed during the year. Then all joined in a jolly Thanksgiving game, after which fruit was passed. Those who spent this very enjoyable afternoon with the Howells were: Harriett Kimbell, Margie and Florence Lacey, Clarissa Legget, Nona Norris, Pearl Kennedy, Ruth Schaeffer, Eunice Williams and Mrs. R. T. Cribb.

All girls between the ages of 12 and 16 are cordially invited to join the "Wayside Workers" class. Their motto is: "By their fruits ye shall know them."

WASHINGTON CITY SIDELIGHTS

High Cost of Tangoing Threatens Washington

WASHINGTON.—Suffering snakes! The high cost of tangoing threatens Washington. The poor old maxixe and the fox trot and the hippopotamus wiggle and all the rest of those wonderful contortions are going to be soaked. So saith the American Society of Music Publishers, Composers and Authors.

A wall of anxiety has arisen in Washington. A number of thousand dancers, hotel and restaurant proprietors and orchestra leaders are making noises indicative of deep distress.

The plan of the A. S. O. M. P. C. A.-A., in brief, is that royalties shall be paid to composers whose selections are whanged out in public places where devotees of the modern dances most do congregate.

"Whaddo you mean, tax?" inquired a muscular piano player who nightly rips the internals out of an unstrung tin-pan in an uptown establishment. "These guys want the earth. Ain't people got a right to dance without payin' a tax for it?"

A dear young thing who feels her day has been incomplete unless she has danced from 8 p. m. until 2 a. m. was almost in tears.

"We'll fix their clock," she asserted. "I know a young man who plays the piano delightful. I'll get him to make up some pieces."

A waiter in one of the fashionable establishments roared out his indignation.

"A tax on tangoing?" he barked. "Why, that will mean less tips. How am I going to pay for my apartment house uptown if they cut down my tips?"

A member of congress was approached with the announcement that the A. S. O. M. P. C. A. (It's no cinch to write that out) was planning the lev.

He became thoughtful.

"We will work that into a war tax," he finally said. "Great idea. Tax the tango. Put money in the United States treasury and enjoy yourself at the same time. Happy thought. I will have to look into this."

And he stalked away.

The brightest thought of the day came from a piano salesman who nightly assaults a second violin in a dance hall.

"We should worry," he said. "Why, if they put over a stunt like that we'd take Wagner and Beethoven and some of those guys and live 'em up a little and they'd be almost as well as the junk that's being turned out now."

Aunty Watches the Antics of the Trick Aviator

As she watched the airship her upturned face reflected with maple faithfulness the emotions that beset her.

"Dat man better stop his skylarkin' up yander or do fus' thing he knows he's gwine come tumblin' down head fumus' ain't dat so, lady?"

The woman who happened to be next look up the remark with a friendliness due to that rare and comfortable being, an "aunty" of the old regime.

"He's all right. You and I will be sailing around like that some day—maybe."

"Don't count me in with you, honey. Ain't nobody gwine trick me into flin' in de face of Hev'n, like dat. De good Lawd made de yuth for man, an' de sea for fish, an' de air for birds. An' when man he start in an' grab more'n his share fum de fish an' de birds, den dis worl' is bounder come to an end. Ain't got any washin' for me, is you, lady?"

My madam which I nussica ahet up de house in de summer an' ain't come home yit on accounter de war, anni ben doin' washes all thes de hot werver, but now it's turnin' cool people don't change evy day, an' I gotta git me another wash. One gen'man cut so close last week that he only gimme thuty cents. Lawder mercy, ehlie, look at dat fool man swoopin' roun' dat cap'l' like a swallow over a barn.

Ain't be a sight, though? Gimme cricks in my neck watch'n him. But dat ain't nothin' to de misery in mah lef' side. De doctor at de spensary gimme black pills, but he ain't driv away de pain yit—ain't it oceanous de way dat man tempt Providence—oh, mah Lawd, he liketer went dat time! Look at him summer-settin'. Oh, my Lawd!"

Farm Women's Mistake About Smith-Lever Act

MANY letters are being received by the United States department of agriculture which indicate that farm women in various sections of the country have come to believe that the government is about to assist them with grants of money to individuals.

This unfortunate mistake which, it is feared, will be the cause of considerable disappointment, appears to have arisen through a misunderstanding of the Smith-Lever act recently passed by congress.

Under this act funds contributed both by the federal and state governments are made available for practical demonstration work in agriculture and home economics.

Experts from the agricultural colleges and county agents, both men and women, are to show farmers and farm women the value of modern methods in agriculture and housekeeping, and demonstrate the use of labor-saving devices.

The purposes of the act are thus entirely educational; and there are no provisions whatever for direct financial assistance.

This demonstration work which the Smith-Lever act is designed to promote has already met with considerable success in the states where it has been started, but the additional funds now available will greatly increase its efficiency.

To avail themselves to the full of its possibilities the department officials recommend that farm women form local clubs and then communicate with the county agent or the state agricultural college. In this way it will often be possible to secure a visit from the county agent or from the home economics expert.

How Eddie the Infallible Failed in Diplomacy

EDDIE the infallible failed the other day. Eddie the the courtly colored messenger who guides diplomats into the office of the secretary of state.

It occurred in the secretary's office, and Baron von Collenberg, late of the German consular staff in Mexico, should have left the room before Eddie unshored in the British ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice. The two diplomats met.

In the language of diplomacy, it was a contretemps. The polished heels of the German baron clicked sharply as he gazed stonily over the head of Sir Cecil at the gallery of former secretaries of state. Sir Cecil drew himself up stiffly and became exclusively interested in the view of Potomac park from the broad windows of Secretary Bryan's office.

The baron bowed to Secretary Bryan and "excited."

Baron von Collenberg had called on the secretary to ascertain if the latter had been able to procure for him from the British ambassador a safe conduct across the Atlantic to Holland. Sir Cecil was calling to assure the secretary that he would grant the safe conduct.

First Aid to Matrimony.

"The English military uniform," said General Holland in Canton, "is the best looking and it is also the best to fight in. Take the photographs of the wounded and dead English officers—Viscount Hawarden, the Hon. W. A. Cecil, Lieut. the Hon. R. Keppel. Did you ever see such a handsome lot of uniforms?"

"No wonder all the English soldiers marry well," General Holland concluded. "Handsome is as handsome does—and the English uniform certainly does have among the English heirlooms."

NEARLY CRAZY WITH ECZEMA

354 Plum St., Youngstown, Ohio.—"Blotches like ringworms started to come out all over my face and neck. Later it took the form of white flakes and when I would rub they came off in little white scales. The eczema so disfigured me that I was ashamed to go out anywhere. It itched all the time and whenever I perspired or got my face the least bit wet, it would burn until I very nearly went crazy. The more I rubbed or scratched the more it spread and it made me so restless I could not sleep at night."

"One day a friend prevailed upon me to get a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment." They caused the itching to stop instantly and in a very few days my face and neck began to show a marked improvement. I used three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and my face and neck are completely cured." (Signed) Newton D. W. Chapman, Feb. 27, 1914.

GIVES TOO WIDE LINE

NEW SKIRT NOT PLEASING TO THE LARGE WOMAN.

Accentuate Size, and is Hard to Handle Properly—Chemise-Like Bodice is to Continue in Fashion, It Appears.

No other style has been invented that could make the large woman appear so large as the new skirts with their plainly drawn back, their widely flaring circular sides and front, or sometimes a plaited front dividing the circular sides. You can quickly see what a wide line is given across the figure, back and front. The front is able to stand it better than the back.

Another error that is easily fallen into, is a swinging upward movement of the middle front of such a skirt. This ugliness happens even under the hands of the best regulated dressmakers. The weight and fullness of the material causes this sagging at the sides and back and, although one does not object to an irregular hem, it must come through foreknowledge and not through bad workmanship.

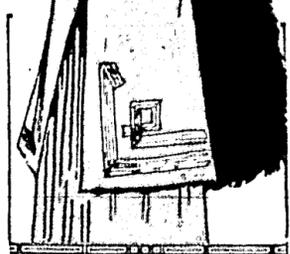

None of the dressmakers advocate fullness over the hips. Here and there one sees isolated cases of hip drapery, but the newest fashions do not call for it. In all the best gowns for street and evening, the hips are flattened out spring circular sides that flare at the hem. Each of the French dressmakers has a different way of maintaining smoothness just below the waist, and to these original methods the Americans have added.

One of the fashions that France introduced last June is the foundation stone of all the clothes of today. This is the long, straight upper part of the gown which sometimes develops into a tunic, or which ends at the wide sash placed over the hips.

There is nothing strikingly new about this chemise-like bodice, for it has been worn continuously for three months, but the dressmakers exploited it in the new clothes and we shall doubtless wear it until Christmas. If anything never is invented, it will probably come from an American atelier, for there is no reason to suppose that France will produce new ideas in the nearby months; there are quite enough over here now to satisfy even the most exacting woman.

It is probable that this long, child-like garment—for it really is juvenile—which has attained simplicity as its foundation, and is called Moyen-age for want of a better term, will prove an obstacle to a good appearance as much as the over full skirts will do, but if care is taken with it, and attention paid to the way it is cut and trimmed, the general result will not be as bad as prophesied.

The green serge skirt of the frock illustrated makes its claim to newness by reason of the group of wide-giving tucks at the side, and the black-braided velvet tunic by its absence of a waist line.

as though they had been pressed with a hot iron. This is to accentuate the fullness at knees and hem.

There are various ways of obtaining the desired fullness. It is not all a question of hip yokes. There are box plaits running from waist to hem; there are long pointed segments of cloth that run nearly to knees which divide the fullness and keep it away from the hips; there are plastered bits of barbaric embroidery from which

IN THE LINE OF ECONOMY

Matter Should Be Handled in a Systematic Way After Being Given Much Consideration.

When one has to spend a greatly diminished dress allowance to the very best advantage, as a great many women have to do this year, the chief economies must be effected by limiting the number of gowns, wraps and hats, and of the ornaments on which we often fritter away so many dollars in the course of a season. The few garments bought should be of as good style and quality as possible, while the principal expenditure should be in such things as corsets, underwear, footgear and gloves, which are of equal importance for health and for appearance.

If these be irrefragable one will look "well turned out" in the simplest gown, provided it is trim and tidy, of good quality and becoming in color and cut. The great fault of the average woman, as a rule, is that she expends too little, in proportion, on those first necessities—corsets especially—hence she often appears dowdy even when expensively attired.

SKIRTS SURE TO BE WIDER

Change is Being Made Gradually But it is Noticeable in All the Newest Models.

The most noticeable feature of the ever-changing fashions is the gradual widening of skirts. There are suits made with full circular skirts set on a deep yoke. Other styles are in tiered designs, with three circular

MODERN WAR IS MERCIFUL

Under Existing Conditions the Wounded Are Given a Fair Chance to Recover to Health.

A general impression is that with powerful weapons of great precision greater loss of life and greater pain are caused. The view is almost certainly inaccurate. The modern bullet, says the Scotsman, unless it is of the soft-nosed type, is on the whole merciful, and either kills outright or gives its victim a fair chance of recovery. It does not, as a rule, mutilate.

The ambulance corps was practically unknown 60 years ago, and not only is aid brought more rapidly to the wounded, but it is far more effective than in the pre-lister days. Rapidity of conveyance has increased beyond all comparison. In the present war it is true to say that in many cases men have been lying in a British hospital within 24 hours of receiving their wounds. If the risk of being hit is greater, the chances of recovery from injury have been immensely increased.

Pajamas for the Destitute. Hoboken cared for next winter at the municipal lodging houses in St. Louis will wear pajamas, if the plan of Director of Public Welfare Tolkaas are successful.

The pajamas will not be fancy and will not contain ribbons and elaborate trimmings, but they will be serviceable. The night garments probably will be made of material similar to that used for overalls and jumpers. The purpose of the pajamas equipment is to provide the lodgers with coverings during the night, while their clothing is being sterilized. The coats used are of steel, and no bed clothing is furnished.

Thanksgiving Services at Fort Stanton

Last Sunday evening in Library Hall a special service called "Thanksgiving" was held...

with Chaplain Frund presiding. The hall was filled and the program enjoyed by all.

Piano, vocal and violin solos were rendered with several hymns sung by the entire congregation.

Father Frund dwelt on the importance of keeping Thanksgiving as is intended by those in authority and who proclaimed it to be a national holiday.

He drew some practical lessons from the subject making several references to the great war now raging in Europe.

Mr. Hill tendered the audience a surprise with his solo rendition, "Face to Face," being accompanied by Lieutenant Besse at the piano and John Fulton as violinist.

Both Mr. Hill and Mr. Fulton with Mr. Besse proved to the audience their ability of being exceptionally artistic and we hope to hear them often in the future.

Mr. Carlyle read in a very pleasing manner, "Thanksgiving at Home," which was likewise enjoyed immensely.

The following is the program in full as rendered: Hymn, Audience.

Reading, 17th chapter of Luke, Chaplain Frund.

Hymn, Home Sweet Home, Audience.

Poem, Thanksgiving, Mr. Carlyle.

Vocal Solo, Face to Face, Mr. P. T. Hill.

Hymn, I Need Thee Every Hour, Audience.

Address, Chaplain Frund.

Hymn, Rock of Ages, Audience.

Lieutenant Besse, Organist, Mr. John Fulton, Violinist.

The Swiss report their navy intact - not a single vessel has been lost.

That old saying of "mind your own business and you'll never have trouble" does not apply to Belgium.

Whatever might have been the cause of the European war, it cannot consistently be said that "watchful waiting" had a any hand in it.

Turkey disavows any hostile intent by firing upon the battleship, Tennessee. The Turk certainly is not looking for any more trouble than that now confronting him.

The shot that killed Archduke Ferdinand was heard around the greater part of the world. Its echoes still reverberate from the Atlantic to the Pacific; from the Arctic to the Indian.

The stars and stripes were hoisted down at Vera Cruz, and the flag even is silent. A little demonstration like that Europe is now giving us has had a quieting effect upon our stay-at-home warriors.

Since the entry of Turkey the war has been carried to Asia and Africa. The Suez canal has been the scene of some rather stirring actions and England is not any too well prepared to look after her interests there.

The shipment of Australian wool to this country has been forbidden by England. This is a serious blow to our woolen industry, as Australian wool instead of being a competitor with American wools was largely used by our manufacturers as a mixture, it being of an entirely different character to our product.

Cold weather has had a cooling effect upon Briton, Gaul, Belgian and Teuton in Northern France. It may reasonably be expected that hostile operations on a large scale will await the coming of spring; but in the meantime the vast armies are within cannon shot of each other.

American troops evacuated Vera Cruz, Mexico, Monday of this week. During their occupancy of the city they collected about $1,000,000 in customs, which our government has decided to hold until it decides who are the proper authorities to receive it.

Large shipments of beans have been made to the suffering Belgians from the southwest, New Mexico being a large contributor. Our people evidently believe in beans over bullets, and, judging from reported conditions in soldier-ridden Belgium, they will be far more acceptable to even that war-like race.

The German soldier is certainly giving a pretty good account of himself. He hurls himself at the allies where he has fought them to a standstill, then hastens across Europe to repel the Russian invasion. If Austria was but another Germany the ultimate result might well be in doubt; but it scarcely seems possible for Germany to keep up this continuous performance.

Contrary to expectations, the European war, so far has been confined almost exclusively to land battles. Quite a good deal of commerce has been destroyed by roving war vessels, both of the German and English navies, but the big battleships have chiefly been engaged in dodging mines and submarines - in which they have not, however, been altogether successful.

Americans Evacuate City of Vera Cruz

Vera Cruz, Nov. 23.—The Mexican flag is again flying over Vera Cruz. Brigadier General Funston and his command of 6,000 infantry and marines, which was landed here on April 3 last, got under way this afternoon and Gen. Candido Aguilar's men assumed charge of the city. The United States transport Cristobal, bearing the first contingent of the American brigade left the dock at 1:50 p. m., bound for home.

The evacuation of the city was effected without any clash occurring between the Americans and the native army. The Mexicans marched in on the heels of the departing troops, but no serious disturbance of the city's peace was registered during their entrance.

Residents of Vera Cruz who had heard of threats made by followers of General Villa and others opposed to General Carranza that they would resist the occupation of the city by Aguilar's troops breathed more freely as the Carranza soldiers moved nearer and nearer to the center of the city.

The only unpleasant incident connected with the transfer of authority was higher than the men in the ranks of either army, and so had no effect on the general situation. General Carranza was quoted by representatives here as being displeased with the method used by Americans in delivering over the city and as having criticised sharply the failure to make a formal transfer of the various departments.

General Aguilar personally raised the Mexican flag over the municipal palace at 6 o'clock tonight. A company of infantry was drawn up in front of the building during the ceremony. A large crowd in the plaza gave prolonged cheers as the national colors were unfurled.

General Aguilar in a statement tonight relative to the evacuation said:

"I am gratified that this day ended so peacefully. The Mexicans, pleased to have shown the whole civilized world today that Mexico is a cultured nation, are well satisfied with the whole affair. I appreciate the efforts of the American people and the government which made it possible for the occupation to end this way."

Mrs. Ben F. Nabours passed through Carrizozo Tuesday on her way to Three Rivers to visit Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Nabours, Sr. Mrs. Nabours has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Johnson in Albuquerque for the past six weeks. Mrs. Nabours stated that Albuquerque was overflowing with school teachers and they were all having a fine time.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Capitan, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side. The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair. At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its helping me, and am doing all my work. If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

A farmer living in the Northern part of Iowa stuck himself in the leg with a pitch fork. The wound would not heal and for two years he had a running sore. He tried all the common salves and liniments and sometimes the sore would heal, but it always broke open again. Finally he healed it up to stay healed with Allen's Ulcerine Salve.

This salve is one of the oldest remedies in America and since 1869 it has been known as the only salve powerful enough to cure chronic ulcers and old sores of long standing. Allen's Ulcerine Salve acts by drawing out the poisons and healing the sore from the bottom up. It is so powerful that it heals new cuts and sores in one-third the time that common salves and liniments take. And it heals burns and scalds without a scar.
